Opera, in One Act, by Pietro Mascagni, Revived at the Royal Opera, Aug. 29.

Santuzza ..... FRAULEIN EASTON
Turiddu ..... HERR MACLENNAN
Lucia ..... FRAU VON SCHEELE-MULLER
Alfio ..... HERR BISCHOFF
Lola ..... FRAULEIN PARBS
Bauerin ..... FRAULEIN HONSCH

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, THURSDAY, Sept. 1.—The most interesting feature of this revival was the fact of Mr. and Mrs. Maclennan—the latter still sings under her maiden name of Florence Easton—appearing again together in the rôles that suit them so well. Mrs. Maclennan became ill soon after her appearance in the American opera Pola at the close of last season. She was, in fact, very unwell while singing the name-part, although the audience noticed nothing wrong. Shortly afterwards the doctors pronounced the illness appendicitis, and to the anxiety of her husband and friends an operation was undergone, which left her very weak for some time. Happily the popular artist has completely recovered her strength, and on her reappearance at the Royal Opera she met with an enthusiastic welcome. The performance of Mascagni's ever-welcome work was an excellent all-round one. The house was crowded, and the audience applauded with great heartiness. Leoncavallo's Bajacci followed the shorter opera with a capital cast. The conductor of the evening was Dr. Besl. To-morrow Schumann's opera Manfred will be produced, Mrs. McLennan giving one of the chief rôles.

ONE of the Berlin independent theatres, the Newe Freie Volksbühne, hitherto merely an "association," has now joined the number of recognised theatres, under the name of the New Volks Theater. For some time past the association has been collecting funds for the undertaking and looking out for a suitable house. The theatre in the east of the city—in the Köpnicker Strasse—which has passed through many hands, and was last known as the Gastspiel Theatre, has been leased and beautified for its new owners. It opened last night to an invited audience consisting of the Press and all those immediately interested, to witness a dress rehearsal of Ibsen's Stützen der Gesellschaft, with which the new season will be inaugurated to-night. The company is a first-class one, composed of experienced artists, most of whom are well-known to Berlin. The acting was admirable, and the mounting, under the personal supervision of Herr Licho, thoroughly satisfactory. As the house, I am told, is "sold out" for the first public performance, the new undertaking is beginning under the best of auspices.

THE Gottscheid Opera gave a capital performance of Nessler's three act opera, Der Trompeter von Säkkingen, last Monday. The delightful little work, which deserves to be better known in other countries, was received with the utmost cordiality, notwithstanding the fact that the interpretation might easily have been better. The best renderings were those of Herr Wiesendanger and Fräulein Raden, in the rôles of Werner Kirchhofer and Maria, both of which were very warmly applauded.

FRAULEIN HANSI NIESE begins a season to-night at the Berliner Theatre. The clever Viennese artist—in private life Frau Josef Jarno, wife of the well-known actor-author-manager—is bringing her own company with her, and opens with a vaudeville-operetta new to Berlin, entitled Das Musikantenmädel. Fräulein Niese is enormously popular here, as she well deserves to be, and the booking has been brisk for days.

THE season just beginning bidd fair to be unusually rich in the matter of novelties at the principal theatres. To commence with the Deutsche, which, under the refined and experienced direction of Professor Reinhardt, takes the lead in artistic mounting and acting, two new plays by Maeterlinck, and others by Eulenberg, Sudermann, Gorky, and Strindberg are announced. An interesting wordless play, by Schnitzler, entitled Der Schleier der Pierette, with music by Dohnanyi, Thomas Mann's Fiorenza, and Ibsen's Peer Gynt are also in the bill of the near future. Of classical plays to be revived there is an abundance; they include Julius Cæsar, Macbeth, Much Ado About Nothing, and the second part of Goethe's Faust, a stupendous part as regards the mise-en-scène. Professor Reinhardt's other theatre—the Deutsches Chamber Playhouse—is equally rich in the promise of new and interesting pieces.

THE Lessing Theatre will produce as a novelty for Berlin Björnson's comedy, Wenn der junge Wein blüht (When the young vine blossoms), which has already been given on several provincial stages. A couple of new plays that were announced for last season will finally make their first appearance at the Lessing—Die Ratten, by Gerhart Hauptmann, and Das Zweite Leben, by Georg Hirschfeld. Arthur Schnitzler's latest play Das weite Land and Hermann Bahr's new comedy, Die Kinder, have also been accepted by Dr. Brahm for performance this season.

AMONG the novelties at the Kleines are Wedekind's farce Der Liebestrank, Studentenliebe, by the Russian author Andrejeff, and some pieces from the French

ARTISTS UNSEEN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—May I, through your columns, thank Mr. Brandreth (thanks which I feel sure will be reiterated by my fellow-workers in the provinces) for his championship of the cause of provincial artists, who, though doing good work and appearing in the suburbs, find it impossible to get a West End manager or his representative to see them?

Have I not suffered time after time from the casual question, "What have you done?" and have I not left the managerial office with all ambition crushed, feeling a perfect worm, and wondering if it would not be better and more profitable for me to turn my attention to scrubbing floors and leave acting to the members of the various dramatic schools?

I only hope Mr. Brandreth's article will have the desired effect of bringing us under the notice of dramatists, West End and American managers, who are always bemoaning the lack of fresh talent, which they would soon discover by the aid of "the eightpenny taxi" to the suburban theatres and a little time and trouble spent in the highways and byways of the provinces.—Yours faithfully, DORIS GILHAM,

Mr. Fredk. Melville's Her Road to Ruin Co. Shakespeare Theatre, Clapham Junction, Aug. 29.

MRS. MORTON POWELL wishes to thank Arthur Jefferson, Esq., for all his kindness and courtesy during her visit to the Metropole, Glasgow, last week; also for most beautiful bouquet. And will all members of Brought to Ruin company please accept her very best thanks for their presentation of a very handsome mirror.—Sept. 5, T. R., Consett.

THE winner of the recent International Beauty Contest at Folkestone, Miss Kitty Darling, will appear at the Royal County Theatre, Kingston-on-Thames, on Monday next. This beautiful Plymouth girl was adjudged an easy winner in competition with ladies from practically every European country. Miss Darling will appear with Mr. J. Humphries in his farce Ancient Britons, which will be played as an after-piece to Our Boys.

A COPY of "THE ERA" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

Mr. George Robey, who is appearing this week at the Empire, Sheffield, took upon himself an entirely new rôle on Monday last, by performing the opening ceremony in connection with the Wadsley (Sheffield) Flower Show. In declaring the show open, Mr. Robey (who was accompanied by Mrs. Robey) made a humorous speech, and at the finish was accorded a hearty vote of thanks.

Mr. Clarence Sounes' handsome new Empire at Kingston-on-Thames is rapidly approaching completion, and we understand is to be ready for opening in October. It is from the designs of Mr. Bertie Crewe, who has put his very best work into this, the latest addition to suburban London's variety palaces, and his client is so pleased with the result that he considers it perhaps "the last word" in modern theatre construction.

It will seat nearly 2,000 people, each one of whom will get a clear and uninterrupted view of the stage. The decorations are by De Jong and Co., and furniture by Deans. We hope in a future issue to give a more detailed notice of the house, which is to be run with varieties, twice nightly, for which a number of important bookings have already been made.

Mr. Tom J. Morton and Miss Maggie Bowman have just signed contracts with the Syndicate Halls until 1914, and also have three years booked at the London Pavilion.

"Why should not Dranem, of the Paris Eldorado, act Molière's Médecin Malgré Lui at the Odéon? Why not Vilbert, of the Scala, Molière's Monsieur de Pourceaugnac, also the second Théâtre Français?" writes the Paris correspondent of the Daily Telegraph. "To carry the question across the Channel, why not cast Gus Elen for Malvolio, for instance, or Harry Randall for Falstaff, or Wilkie Bard for Touchstone, or Miss Marie Lloyd for Beatrice, with T. E. Dunville as Benedick?

"On the French side M. Antoine, the pioneer of the Théâtre Libre, asks: 'Why not, indeed?' for he holds that 'café-concert artists are the true possessors of the genuine comic tradition,' and has engaged both Dranem and Vilbert, usually applauded as funny idiots, or limits in eccentricity on Paris music-hall stages, to act in Molière's farces at the Odéon. He is persuaded that Dranem 'will be delicious in the Médecin Malgré Lui.'

"Dranem seems to agree. He considers, for one thing, that: 'It is much easier to succeed in a theatre than in a music hall. In the latter good average talent won't do. You have to be original, and do something out of the common. The words one has to sing are generally senseless. It is the actor who has to make them interesting. In "legitimate," on the contrary, with ingenious situations, clever dialogue, and surrounded by other actors, who give you your cue, and put you at once in the proper atmosphere of the thing, it is easy enough to be successful. Audiences little know what it is for a singer to have to go on alone with just five songs to sing and no situation, no support, no scenery.'

"In fact, Dranem's wonder is that an actor in the legitimate ever is bad, and that, barring a few geniuses, music-hall artists are ever passable. He seems to be something of a psychologist: 'To make the public laugh one must be serious; one must never be gay. One of my best hits is to look sadly round when the public laugh, and seem to be trying to understand what they are laughing at. Just say, "Dear me, how silly!" The public titters. Add "And yet you stop here listening"—the public roars. Finish up with "Aren't we idiotic?" The public is convulsed.'"

Our stars are quite ready to agree with Dranem. But would it not be an interesting experiment to put on The School for Scandal for a matinée—let us say, in aid of the Variety Artists' Benevolent Fund—with a cast consisting entirely of well-known music hall stars. The experiment would be fraught with interest, and if the project was ever seriously taken in hand, we feel sure the theatre and the actor-director of the performance could readily be found.

The Palace Theatre has had another most successful year, as the directors at the forthcoming meeting, propose to recommend the payment of a dividend of 20 per cent. It is also proposed to write £4,000 off the extraordinary expenditure in connection with the London County Council alterations and improvements to the place, the sum of £30,000 to reserve, and carry forward the substantial balance of £8,600 to next year's account.

Mr. Alfred Butt and his co-directors may be heartily congratulated on the continued success of their admirably conducted house, in which the artesian well initiated by Mr. Butt is now successfully working. The Metropolitan Water Board's charges will no longer appear in future balance-sheets, the Palace's own supply of limpid crystal water costing a sum which does not reach three figures. At the seventeenth annual general meeting of the shareholders on Thursday next, something should surely be said in praise of the initiation of a far-seeing policy that results in such a substantial saving in the expenses of working.

Mr. George Mozart was one of the guests at the popular Jimmy Glover's wedding on Saturday morning. Jimmy, so universally known, is a persona grata in a Bohemia that is not limited by a theatrical circle, but extends its boundaries into variety. He has held the position of conductor of Drury Lane for many years, and has composed the music for Alhambra ballet. No one has a warmer appreciation of the value of the people's tunes than he, though he gave strict injunctions that there was to be no music at his wedding. As a Mayor of Bexhill, old Drury's favourite conductor did much for entertainments and entertainers, and the Kursaal at the beautiful Sussex resort owes a great deal to his enterprise and foresight.

The Finsbury Park Empire will open twice nightly on Monday with the following company: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Manners (Miss Fanny Moody), George Rae, May Henderson, Siems, the Motramos, the Daunton-Shaw Troupe, the Kirbys, and the Poluskis. There will be no special ceremony beyond the playing of "The King" at the opening.

With the opening of the Finsbury Park Empire, the Holloway Empire will be given over to pictures and tabloid drama, the change being carried out under the direction of the present manager, Mr. Bertie Ralland, whose local popularity should contribute to the success of the experiment. Next week's dramatic fare will consist of The Area Belle, with Stephen Adeson and May Hallett in the principal parts. There will be only one house a night.

Mr. John Lawson writes: "I produced a one act playlet, bearing the title of The Unwritten Law, at the Holborn Empire, on May 6, 1907, and it was duly licensed by the Lord Chamberlain, entered at Stationers' Hall, and noticed in The Era. Mr. Lawrence Irving produced, during the week of Aug. 15, in Manchester, a play entitled The Unwritten Law, and Mr. Hall Caine states, in an interview published in the Referee, that he will produce a play with the same title. To save complications I wish it to be noted that the title of The Unwritten Law is the sole property of John Lawson."

Mr. Charles Evans takes his annual benefit at the Hall-by-the-Sea, Margate, on Wednesday next.

At the recent first half-yearly meeting of Southend Hippodrome, Ltd., an interim dividend at the rate of ten per cent. per annum was declared.

The local authorities have again refused to put the Portsmouth Hippodrome on the same level as other places of amusement in the town, and has again refused the liquor licence, for which Mr. Walter De Frece has long been seeking.

Miss Adele Levey, at the Pier, Skegness, on Wednesday evening, yarned and recited to the delight of her hearers, who were regaled with no fewer than eighteen little tales, four pieces, and a monologue.

Since it has been re-written and re-constructed, the dramatic sketch The Airship has been seen by three managers at Manchester, and booked right away for eight weeks. It is now under the direction of Fred and Edward Pollard.

The proprietor of the Palace at Morley (Mr. Arthur Izon) has resigned his position, much to the regret of his many friends in that town, and the courteous proprietor (Mr. Diacoff) is allowing him a farewell benefit night on the 15th inst.

Mrs. Price writes from Leeds under date Sept. 1: "My sister's son, W. G. Letters, was born on Sept. 4, 1877, at Edinburgh, and was reared and educated in that city. He therefore would have been thirty-three years of age had he lived till Sunday, the 4th."

Mr. W. W. Austin, who was connected with the Empire Theatre, Nottingham (Moss' Empires, Ltd.) for two and a half years as assistant-manager, has been appointed by Mr. T. Allan Edwardes to a similar position at the Hippodrome, Nottingham. He commences his duties on Monday next.

After a most successful summer picture season the Hamilton Hippodrome re-opened on Monday as a first-class variety house. Mr. Rene Clayton still officiates as Mr. Bostock's general-manager. The Wishaw Pavilion, another of Mr. Bostock's enterprises, has also re-opened for the season, Mr. Fred Nimso being resident-manager.

Mr. James Doughty, the oldest clown in England still before the public, celebrated his ninety-second birthday by a benefit performance on Saturday with his troupe of trained dogs on the West Pier, Brighton. He made his first appearance as a clown at the Devonport Theatre in 1835, and appeared at Drury Lane for the first time in 1849 in the pantomime of Queen Bess. It is thirty-five years since he started giving performances with his dogs at Brighton, and he has many times appeared before Royalty. Last month he was the recipient of a donation of £3 from the King, to whom he had written.

A pleasing little function took place at the Empire Theatre and Music Hall, Nuneaton, last Saturday evening, on the occasion of the building being closed down for a short time for extensive and elaborate alterations. Mr. J. H. Tomkinson, who has retired from the general-managership, and has gone out on tour, was asked by Mr. Cross, the managing-director, to accept, as a token of respect, a handsome case, containing two pipes and a tobacco pouch from himself, and from the staff a pair of silver candlesticks and inkstand, together with a fountain pen.

Mr. Cross, in the course of a short speech, thanked Mr. Tomkinson for the excellent way in which he had assisted him in bringing the Empire up to its present state of popularity. Mr. Tomkinson, in responding, said it had been a great pleasure for him to work with Mr. Cross, and thanked the staff for the able way in which they had assisted him. Mr. Clamp spoke on behalf of the staff. Mr. Cross then asked Mr. Chas. Poole to accept a silver cigarette case from himself, suitably inscribed, and said he, too, like Mr. Tomkinson, had done his best to assist him in the business. Mr. Poole, in returning thanks, said the presentation would always serve to remind him of the happy times he had spent in Nuneaton.

After directing the fortunes of the Palace Theatre, Bristol, for a period extending over many years, Mr. Horace Livermore has been appointed district superintendent of the halls embraced by the syndicate governing the Palace. The appointment was made and announced a short time ago, and in order to mark the esteem in which the popular manager is held, it was promptly agreed to give a benefit performance.

The Colston Hall was secured for morning and evening concerts, and the demand for seats at both was large. Among the first of the artists to promise their services were Miss Florrie Forde, Mr. G. H. Elliott, and Mr. K. Scott-Barrie, each of whom are established variety favourites in Bristol. It was hoped at first that Miss Forde would be able to appear at both performances, but this was found impossible as the date drew near, for "Kelly's" immortaliser was due to leave London for the far north country early on Sunday, and had perforce to return to town from Bristol during the afternoon.

"Chocolate" (Mr. G. H. Elliott) arrived in Bristol at mid-day, and somewhat startled those who met him by announcing that he would have to leave Temple Meads shortly after three o'clock the same afternoon, in order to answer his "call" at a London hall early in the evening. Thus it was a quarter of an hour before time that Mr. Elliott appeared on the stage at the Colston Hall to be recognised and welcomed by those who were fortunate enough to be in their places.

The orchestra, combining musicians from the Prince's Theatre, Theatre Royal, Empire, and the Palace, and directed by Messrs. G. Chapman, Jacobs, Fey, and H. B. Hatley, were all but ready, but "Chocolate" proceeded, and his "I used to sigh for a silvery moon" went splendidly. He was brought back again and again, and then, lest he should succumb to the temptation, fled from the hall to a waiting taxi-cab, which hurried him off to the station. Miss Florrie Forde sang "Flanagan," and was vociferously cheered. The audience, which had in the meantime grown much larger, demanded a return, and she treated them to the ever-popular "Kelly."

During the evening Mr. Horace Livermore, whose appearance on the stage was the signal for a big outburst of cheering, in a few simple, but evidently keenly-felt words, said he wished to express his thanks to all those kind friends in the profession and out of it who had worked so hard to make those concerts so successful. He thanked the artists who had so kindly assisted, and said he was led again to realise that he had many friends in the profession. He thanked the managements of the various theatres and halls for their co-operation on that occasion, and the members of the orchestra who had so willingly given their services. To the committee, its officers, and hon. secretary he owed a deep debt of gratitude for all they had done, and the public he heartily thanked for attending the concerts in such large numbers.

Mr. Myron Gilday (of Gilday and Fox) will shortly produce in town a playlet, entitled The Hebrew Jockeys.

Graham, the human marionette, has had to take a rest this week in consequence of dental trouble, which has been successfully overcome by a skilful operator.

Edgar Bateman, who once wrote of "Folkestone for the Day," is staying for a fortnight at the famous Kentish resort. Mr. T. W. Thurban is likewise sojourning there.

S. W. Wyndham, the unique comedian, who made such a hit on the syndicate tour, is in the provinces until Oct. 17, when he returns to play London Pavilion for four weeks and the syndicate halls.

Mr. Percy Ford, who recently filled the position of acting-manager at the Empire Theatre, Camberwell, has succeeded Mr. Frank Rothsay in a similar position at the Borough Theatre, Stratford.

Mr. Nelson Francis, the genial manager of the Empress, Brixton, will be accorded a complimentary benefit on Friday, Oct. 7, on which occasion he will be supported by many of the most popular artists then in town.

Mr. Alfred Butt has arranged to produce at the Palace Theatre shortly a new farcical sketch in which Mr. George Graves will sustain the leading rôle. This will be the first appearance of Mr. Graves on the variety stage in a regular engagement.

Owing to the confusion caused by so many Hemsleys in the business, Hemsley and Ambrose, of The Fatal Rehearsal fame, are changing the title of their duo to their Christian names, and in future will be known as Belle and Austin, the ideal couple.

Mr. Richard Winslow, the energetic stage-manager of the London Hippodrome, is at present enjoying a well-earned holiday at Brockenhurst, in the New Forest. He is accompanied by Mrs. Winslow (Miss Evelyn Shaw), who is rapidly gaining health and strength after her late serious operation.

Business at the London Hippodrome, especially at the evening performances, is excellent, and we found Mr. Fred Trussell on Friday looking bronzed and bright after his experience as one of the "villagers" at Winterton, on the Norfolk Broads. During his absence Mr. Thomas Miller has been ably deputising in front.

Miss Gertie Gitana, after rendering one of her latest and greatest successes, viz., "You were coming through the corn, Molly dear," at Walthamstow Palace last Saturday, was presented, by Mr. Pierre Cohen (manager), with a beautiful bouquet of corn and poppies, amidst tremendous enthusiasm from a crowded house.

The Daily Chronicle reports that a mob of hooligans in Bermondsey made a cowardly attack on the Six Brothers Luck, the well-known music hall performers, in Rotherhithe New-road, on Thursday evening. The artists are appearing at the Peckham and Rotherhithe Hippodromes, and on their way to the latter hall their motor-bus broke down. A crowd assembled, and the "brothers" were set upon by a gang of young roughs, who pelted them with pieces of flint and granite. Nearly all the performers were hit, and several of the company sustained injuries which prevented them from appearing at the Rotherhithe Hippodrome.

Dan Wetherall, one of the leading artists, was seriously cut behind the ear. One of the stones lacerated his neck, and he was picked up unconscious. William Britten, another artist, received a gaping wound in the head, and Bernard Hall was terribly cut about the head and hand. The injured performers were a pathetic sight as they lay on the floor, blood flowing freely from their wounds.

A young man named Robert Winter, who happened to be passing at the time, was able to render first aid before the injured artists were driven to Guy's Hospital, where Wetherall was detained. The roughs ran off immediately after the assault, and were quickly lost down one of the dark turnings off Rotherhithe New-road. The police are searching the district.

One of the Brothers Luck said: "It seemed to be a well-organised attempt to interfere with our performance, and each night as we passed through Rotherhithe New-road we were assailed with missiles. On Tuesday the roughs threw sand at us, and on Wednesday night a stone narrowly missed one of the artists. They used to lie in wait until they heard us come along, and would then dart out and pelt us. They seemed to be youths about eighteen years of age."

Mr. Charles Grantley and Mr. Jack Merritt were initiated into the mysteries of the Terriers' Order upon Sunday last. The ceremony was performed by Terrier Russell Brandow, W.T., assisted by Terrier Billy Kloof, V.T. Arthur Were was the Organist Terrier. Messrs. G. W. Sykes-Blythe, Albert Heath, and Phil Rees, candidates for membership of the Association, have successfully passed the ballot.

The election of officers for September resulted as follows: Terrier Billy Kloof, W.T.; Terrier D. M. H. Hoffman, V.T.; Terrier C. C. Cornish, W.I.; Terrier Arthur Were, Organist. Terrier Arthur Gallimore was the W.D., and Terrier Bert Marsden the Y.B.

The P.W.T. jewel was presented to Terrier Russell Brandow, who was overwhelmed with congratulations upon the able manner in which he had fulfilled the duties of the office during the past month.

A hearty welcome was extended to Terriers President Griff, Phil Bransby, Martin Henderson, Percy Madden, and Fred Neiman, upon their re-appearance in the kennel upon Sunday last. Terrier Barend Jansen is requested to forward his present address to the secretary.

Among the new-comers in the Alhambra programme this week is Senorita Carmen Turia, a famous Spanish chanteuse, who is making her first public appearance in England. Not only a clever songstress with a voice of remarkable dramatic power, Senorita Carmen Turia is also a beautiful woman, and has come to England to learn the language and to add some English ballads to her répertoire. She appears in a variety of Spanish songs in costume, and sings Tosti's "Good-bye" with a slight accent that is not at all unpleasing, and will follow with one or two English ballads.

In July, 1908, when visiting England privately, she sang before King Edward at Lord Lonsdale's London house. Of the other new items, the Fuji Japanese troupe of six clever acrobats, equilibrists, and contortionists also make their first English appearance, and will introduce a number of novel acts. Emma and Victor, acrobatic dancers, and Miss Coombe, vocalist, are also included in the bill. The grand ballet Femina, with Leonora and Britta in the principal rôles, is still crowding the Alhambra stalls. On the Sands, the seaside frolic recently produced, and a number of clever variety turns, make up the balance of a most attractive programme.

We are glad to learn that Miss Henriquette Maude, the little New Zealand travelling girl, is recovering from her severe nervous collapse. She has been under the special treatment of her eminent physician, Dr. J. Dodson-Hessey, of Hastings, for many weeks.

Owing to the success of the Saxony Sisters while with the Consul Variety Co., Mr. Harry Rickards, who witnessed their act, has engaged them for his Australian tour through Messrs. Neiman and Benn's Agency.

Professor Ainsworth, with his interesting and amusing exhibition of "Black Magic," is in his twelfth week at the Aquarium, Scarborough, and has been re-engaged until the 17th in consequence of his popularity.

Miss Louisa Peach will be at the Foresters' next week with her American episode, The Settler's Daughter, and special scenery and effects. She will be supported by Mr. E. H. Dobell (in his original part of the settler), Mr. C. C. Calvert, and Mr. E. Lester.

The Crisps return to town on Monday, and appear at the Oxford, going from there to the London Pavilion and Empress. These graceful and clever artists are sure of a welcome at the Oxford, where they recently made a very big success.

After a tour in the South of France, Mr. Harry Fragson returns to the Hippodrome on Monday, when he will give a number of entirely new songs, including a honeymoon ditty, a very humorous item, "The other department, please," a popular "patriotic" ballad to march time, a nigger banjo song, and one song in French.

Miss Nannie Pritchard, who has just turned fourteen, was among the winners at the recent competition at the Kilburn Empire. She obtained the fourth prize and the manager's prize for imitations at the piano. Her imitations included Geo. Robey, Vesta Tilley, Margaret Cooper, and Vesta Victoria. She also dances well.

The War Office has awarded Mr. H. Harrington, the fireman at the Gaiety Music Hall, Chatham, the sum of £10 in recognition of his pluck, at some personal injury, in stopping two runaway horses of the Army Service Corps in a crowded street at Chatham. Harrington's prompt and courageous action averted a serious accident.

The committee of the Music Hall Ladies' Guild beg to gratefully thank the following for gifts, viz., Mrs. Reid (through Mrs. E. Colling), trunk and useful clothing; Miss Lillian Rosebery (collecting box), 11s.; also many friends for letters and good wishes. Boots and clothing urgently needed.

Miss Daisy James has just finished a three weeks' engagement at Margate, Dover, and Eastbourne, and at each place has met with an enthusiastic reception. At Eastbourne she had to do four songs in each house. This talented artist opens on Monday next at Hammersmith and Clapham with her latest successes, including the "Squeegee dress."

We have all become interested in Parker, P.C., as presented by Mr. Charles Austin; and therefore there was a warm welcome at the Shoreditch Olympia on Monday for a further instalment of Parker's doings under the title of Parker's Progress, which is from the pens of Charles Ridgwell and Charles Austin himself, who in the go-as-you-please part of the constable keeps the house in roars.

Ernest Heathcote writes:—"Close on twelve months ago I visited Douglas, Isle of Man, for the first time. On the Sunday evening a number of professional and Glasgow commercial friends were congregated in the smoke-room at a big boarding-house on the front. The conversation turned from Hall Caine and the customs of the island to song-writers and other people we knew.

"At this juncture the waiter took me solemnly to a corner of the room, and, pointing to an arm-chair, said, 'That's the very chair where Will Letters wrote "Has anybody here seen Kelly?"'

"Gone were the thoughts of problem writers, gone was the interest in the customs of the island! The man of the chorus was the man of the moment. A Glasgow friend produced a bottle of special 'cream,' all the way from Sauchiehall-street, and we drank to the absent one, and duly christened 'The Chair of Kelly.'

"I told poor Will Letters of the incident the next time I saw him in town, and the idea of a special chair made a great 'hit' with him. We promised ourselves a visit to Douglas this year, to see if there was a possibility of having a silver tablet suitably inscribed placed upon the chair, but poor Will has gone to the 'undiscovered country from whose bourn no traveller returns.'"

Miss Mary Neil, so well known for the excellence of her travelling companies, has deserted the theatre for the music hall, and, up to the present, she certainly has no cause to regret the bold step she took. Her twenty-eight-minute comedy drama, Her Luck in London, is so well written, played, and mounted, that it has been an emphatic success wherever it has been seen.

At the Metropolitan this week Miss Neil and her company have made such a hit with this human playlet in three scenes that they have been engaged to appear next week at both the Holborn and the Canterbury, with the Euston to follow. The play throughout is punctuated with hearty applause and laughter.

"The Wily Widow," with Miss Marie Pera in the title-rôle, a bright and amusing trifle, has been presented during the week at the Metropolitan. The widow is Mme. Vera, costumier to the smart set, whose clients are very tardy in settling their accounts. She is, consequently, in needy circumstances. By an ingenious ruse she meets an inane swell with plenty of rhino, and gets him to propose.

Miss Florence Smithers has been meeting with most gratifying receptions on the Moss-Stoll tour, and the success of her sketch Our Mary Jane has been equally marked at all other halls visited. Her bookings are extremely good, and she returns to the Lyceum, London, for pantomime for one of the principal parts. We hope she may repeat her success, and become as popular as she was last season.

Mr. Cliff Ryland's youngest son, Sidney, fourteen years of age, made his first appearance on the stage last Monday night in Dan Thomas's new sketch The First Night, in the part of Call Boy, and did exceedingly well. The youngster quite deserved the compliments that were showered upon him by the company and others concerned, for he played the part as though it had been written for him.

The 673rd meeting of the Executive Committee of the M.H.A.R.A. was held at the offices of the Association on Wednesday afternoon, with Mr. Jack Straw in the chair. There were also present Messrs. T. C. Callaghan, F. W. Millis, J. W. Cragg, Tom Packer, and C. Douglas Stuart (secretary). The weekly financial statement showed forty-eight new members and a cash total of £49 0s. 6d. This was passed, and the meeting adjourned.

Mme. Adah Payne, the Australian prima donna, late of Moody-Manners' principal opera company, is this week paying her annual visit to the Regent, Salford, where she is always sure of a hearty reception, and to which this visit is proving no exception.

A special meeting of the Executive Committee of the Music Hall Benevolent Institution will be held on Thursday next, Sept. 8, at 2 o'clock, at 18, Charing Cross-road, when Mr. Joe Elvin will preside. All members of the committee in town are requested to attend.

Mr. Frank J. Smith, at one time musical chief of the Royal—now the Holborn Empire—has held the position of orchestral conductor of the Tivoli, Manchester, for the past eight and a half years. To the regret of many friends he has resigned his appointment.

Mr. G. H. Chirgwin is by way of publishing his reminiscences, and it is hardly necessary to state how welcome to our readers will be an abstract and brief chronicle of his career and experiences. Mr. Charlie Osborne and Mr. F. H. Farrar will collaborate in the work.

Miss Mabel Mavis, the famous glassophone soloist, who plays her own pianoforte accompaniment to her solos, has been adding to her high reputation by her playing of the maremba, a new instrument which has created quite a sensation on tour.

In view of the approaching general meeting of the Music Hall Benevolent Institution, all holders of "Bricks" are requested to have same opened in the presence of two artists and forward postal-order for amount contained to the hon. secretaries. A new "Brick" will be supplied if desired.

The death is announced, at the Bristol General Hospital, of Mr. Harry Jennings, who was born at Sheffield and has for thirty years been on the stage as a comic singer and clog dancer. It is stated that his heart was seriously injured through the strain of clog dancing. These facts open up an interesting question: Do clog-dancers invariably die young?

On Tuesday evening a great sensation was caused at Nelson, Lancashire, by the receipt of intelligence from San José, California, of the death of a lady vocalist of great promise, and well known in North-East Lancashire, Miss Hilda Duckworth, who left Nelson five weeks ago to join her relatives in California. The information was that a fortnight ago Miss Duckworth, in alighting from a street-car, was pitched on her head, and died soon after from concussion of the brain.

Mr. Martin Adeson, together with Clara Bernard, is scoring all along the line with their screaming absurdity, Dr. Maud's First Patient, by Herbert Darnley. They open at the London Pavilion on Monday next, and are rebooked at the Oxford and Tivoli for a number of dates during the next two years; also next year again at the Pavilion, and on the Gibbons' tour and Syndicate halls. Mr. Adeson has left time out for pantomime, and by his record in first-class theatres as a comedian should be soon snapped up.

Reano, the modern "Svengali," who has conducted his famous band with great success through the United Kingdom, is desirous of expressing his keenest gratitude and heartfelt thanks to those proprietors and managers who have so kindly released him from his present engagements, to enable him to act on the advice of his doctor and take a complete rest for a short while, and at the same time inform them that he is now rapidly getting well and strong again, and hopes to commence his next tour early in October. He wishes it to be distinctly understood that he has no connection whatever with any band or bands other than the one which he personally directs and conducts himself.

Miss Elsie Kerry, who has scored a huge success in the Empire halls at Dublin and Belfast, finishes her Irish tour at the Palace Theatre, Cork, this evening. In anticipation of the demands which Irish audiences invariably make upon Miss Kerry's repertory, she refrained from introducing some new songs while in London previous to her departure. These include a characteristically Irish ditty, "Miss Killarney," and "Love is just like a balloon," the latter dealing with a widely different theme. Both songs were enthusiastically received by Miss Kerry's audiences; but her old numbers, "Dear old Tipperary" and "Molly Bawn" were also in request, and had to be repeated. Press exchanges from Ireland pass high encomiums on Miss Kerry's performance in the three leading cities.

Developments are in progress which should hasten a satisfactory solution of the sketch question, interest in which was recently revived by the action taken by the "common informer" against Mr. Frank Macnaghten. The Sketch Association have adopted a resolution to write to the Theatrical Managers' Association, the Entertainments Protection Association, the Actors' Association, the Variety Artists' Federation, and kindred societies, inviting them to form a joint committee of delegates from each society to take any steps considered necessary to further the carrying into law of the Majority Report of the recent Parliamentary Commission on Licensing, thus securing the legislation of sketches in the halls. A representative body thus formed would have considerable weight with the Parliamentary authorities, and hopes are entertained that a Bill would be quickly promoted and passed.

"We cannot follow the example of another section of the community and go scaling roofs and clambering down air-shafts in order to enforce our demands," said Mr. Portland Akerman, the secretary of the Sketch Association, "but with a representative committee such as that suggested much could be done, and possibly, if the Joint Committee, when constituted, thought it necessary to shed blood, in order to expedite the legitimate desire of the sketch artists to be actors, and not vagrants, as they are at present by law, the gore would be forthcoming."

Moreover, we have it on the authority of Mr. Akerman, that Mr. Frederick George, at whose instance the action against Mr. Macnaghten was begun, has pledged his word that he will institute no further proceedings. The prosecutor only began the action on principle, and not for private gain, and having vindicated that principle, has no desire to continue the fight. The necessity for Mr. Frederic Baugh to carry out his resolve to prosecute a number of music-hall managers for producing sketches seems therefore to disappear.

The matter duly came up at the Sketch Association's committee meeting on Tuesday, when the secretary stated that in reference to Mr. Baugh's expressed intention of conferring with the committee he had written to him saying that if he desired to meet the executive, and would write to the secretary, formulating any grievance he might have against any member of the Association, it would be considered in the ordinary way. No reply was received from Mr. Baugh up to the time of the meeting, doubtless owing to the fact that he had been, within the knowledge of the secretary, out of town. Mr. Akerman added that his Association admired the way in which Mr. Baugh had fought the prosecution, the result of which they thought would go far to deter the "common informer" from similar action.

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

FRANK BROCKETT'S waltz, "Le dernier adieu," one of the most sought after items of the day, is being played nightly at the Playhouse, where on Wednesday Tantalising Tommy was given for the 200th time. Mr. John Ansell's orchestra is certainly one of the best in London, and its performance of this fine waltz of Messrs. Francis and Day is marked by real taste and musicianly feeling.

MISS SYBIL ARUNDALE is ever welcome on the variety stage, and her return to the Empire on Monday evening was the signal for an outburst of loud applause and a handsome bouquet. Her strong song is "On the silvery sands," a number which Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter are putting much faith in. Miss Arundale shares with Miss Madge Temple the burden of making it whistled in London.

THAT bright young artist Miss Lillian French has during the week at the Hippodrome, Birmingham, as elsewhere on the Barrasford tour, been winning encomiums both by her rendering of her own vocal numbers and by her mimicry of well-known stars. Her pretty song, by Percy Edgar, "When the summer sun is dying, Rose Marie," is a huge success, and has been placed upon the market by Messrs. Francis and Day.

MR. G. H. ELLIOTT, the chocolate coloured coon who at the New Cross Empire has been the recipient nightly of vociferous plaudits, had an extremely busy day's work on Saturday last. He appeared at 2.45 p.m. at the Colston Hall, Bristol, on the occasion of Mr. Horace Livermore's benefit, at 7 p.m. he was on at the Empire, Holloway, from thence going to the Croydon Hippodrome, where he appeared at 8.30, and, after playing the second house there, finished up at Holloway as serene as ever. His two songs, "There's a little black cupid in the moon" and "Mister owl," both Messrs. Francis and Day's publications, are in great demand.

MR. HARRY CHAMPION'S comical new song entitled "I'm Henery the Eighth, I am," by Fred Murray and R. P. Weston, has been published by Messrs. Francis and Day, and is a fine specimen of the work of two of the foremost writers of the day.

MR. GORDON STRETTON, the ideal coon, has, at Aberfeldy, been charming all and sundry with his new song by Tom Mellor and Harry Gifford, entitled "There's a little brown girl in Dahomey," which Messrs. Francis and Day have in the press, and with a song from his own pen named "Estrella," and his other favourite number, "If I was a girl like you." Mr. Stretton opens at Dublin on Monday.

LEONARD COOKE and Charles Collins have again collaborated in a ballad, the title of which is "The garden of memory." It has been secured by Messrs. Francis and Day for publication.

MR. BILLY MERSON'S song "The lighthouse keeper," which is from his own pen, is being placed on the market by Messrs. Francis and Day, who some time back published the same singer's "I'm setting the village on fire."

WILL HYDE has just disposed of to Messrs. Francis and Day the publishing rights of his new song for Mr. W. B. Raby, entitled "With my little pail and shovel in my hand." The item possesses novelty, being without a chorus of any kind. Mr. S. W. Wyndham, the rising comedian, has also secured a Will Hyde song entitled "And then I blew my trumpet."

FRED W. LEIGH, whose quaint song for Mr. George Bastow, "They won't know Oi coom from the country," is commanding a ready sale consequent on the ripe comedian's return to the stage, has supplied Mr. George Lashwood with new songs entitled "Give me something to remember you by" and "M-a-t-r-i-m-o-n-y." These last are likely to be issued presently by Messrs. Francis and Day.

MR. WILL BENTLEY, of Graham, Russell, and Bentley, has been scoring at Clacton with a new humorous song entitled "What would a gentleman do?" It is by George Arthurs and R. P. Weston, and will be published immediately by Messrs. Francis and Day.

AMONG new dance music just ready to see the light, and which will, when issued, bear the imprint of Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter, is a new "flying dance" by J. Follit, entitled "Aeroplane," and a charming two-step by Ernest Reeves named "Nightshade."

(Continued on page 24.)

COLLINS'S.

This cosy little "Hall on the Green" has, for the present, reverted to the two-houses-a-night system, and good business appears to have resulted therefrom. On the night of our visit the pièce de résistance of the bill—Charcot and his automatic man—was unfortunately absent, owing to indisposition, but, nevertheless, a very enjoyable programme had been arranged for the delectation of visitors. Miss Marie Collins, who bottoms the bill, is a great favourite here, and her songs, which go with a swing from start to finish, are highly appreciated. Sidney Fernee's Model Maids present a novelty vaudeville scene, wherein some eight fair young ladies contribute some pleasing songs and dances.

Miss Chummie La Mara puts plenty of "go" into her song entitled "The Irish-Spanish Toreador," and also tells, in song, how the ubiquitous Kelly has gone to "kingdom come." Ward and Davis are responsible for a smart little musical comedy duologue entitled Wanted, a Typist. The lady, who is a song and dance artist, answers an advertisement, and, by mistake, enters the offices of the gentleman who has advertised for a typist. Obviously, of course, the gentleman does not seriously object, and indeed has some very humorous remarks to make. The lady, for her part, sings and dances gracefully, and gains hearty applause.

The popular Walker and May are, of course, the recipients of much applause for their vocal and terpsichorean efforts, the song entitled "Down among the sugar canes" being especially noteworthy. Tiny Arnold, the "world's smallest star comedienne," scores decidedly in both song and dance, her efforts being signally approved. Mr. Harry Bent displays considerable versatility in his imitations of well-known stage celebrities, which he presents with considerable success. The Seymons show us something novel in the way of equilibrium; and the Vernon and Mars Trio also give some original acrobatic and other feats. Harry Luck, comedian, Rosie Lee, juvenile comedienne, and Hal Chapter, quaint comedian, complete the bill.

Mr. A. L. Williams is the general-manager, and Mr. W. R. Cowley acts as stage-manager. The courteous proprietor, Mr. H. Sprake, is usually to be found in the front of the house. Mr. Alf. Peterson looks after the well-conducted orchestra.

THE alfresco amusements on Hastings Pier continue very attractive. Large numbers gather round Mr. Fred Little's troupe of Spanish Serenaders at each of their four daily sessions and the New Film Hiring Company's animated pictures are also well attended. The new building to accommodate box bowls is also now open and is well patronised.

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

THE EMPIRE.

The run of the revue at the Empire has been temporarily suspended in favour of a revival of a past success, and Monday last saw the reproduction, under the title of Moscow, of the Russian divertissement from the ballet Round the World, which for so long formed an attraction at the Leicester-square house. The scene is one of the most picturesque of the series, and full advantage is taken by Mr. F. Harker of the opportunities for display presented in a National Fête in the ancient Muscovite city. The dramatic incident of the divertissement, it will be remembered, is the exhibition of pluck shown by an English chauffeur, who now figures as a tourist, and champions the cause of a gipsy dancing girl, administering a sound thrashing to the brutal proprietor of the troupe. Miss Eva Macfarlane makes an exquisitely pathetic figure of the Romany girl, who is compelled to dance in spite of an injured foot, and executes a tzigane with bewitching grace. Mr. B. Ford invests the plucky young tourist with a droll sense of humour, while his step-dance is a marvel of experitness and skill. Miss F. Martell is a comely and dignified Grand Duke; Mr. L. Hunter makes a properly forbidding gipsy; as the boy, Dmitri, Miss Janette Michaels proves herself a skilful dancer; and Miss A. Courtland as a Cossack officer and Mr. Jameson as a Sergeant of Police represent those characters with fidelity. Sleigh-bell dances and military manœuvres serve to create continuous animation, glitter, and melody, which keep the eye and ear agreeably employed. Mr. C. Wilhelm, the designer, Mr. Fred Farren, the producer, and Mr. Cuthbert Clarke, the personation of the dainty débutante. Mr. Fred Farren again dominates the scene with his quaint impersonation of the maître-de-ballet and his whimsical dancing, and Miss F. Martell, Signor Rosi, Miss Beatrice Collier, Miss Daisy Pavor, and other talented artists all add their share in the provision of a delicious terpsichorean feast. Mr. H. J. Hitchins is highly to be congratulated on the attractiveness of his present programme, and Mr. A. Aldin, the able acting-manager, on the crowded houses he is called upon to supervise.

THE TIVOLI.

Mr. Joseph Wilson, looking bronzed after leading the simple life on the coast of Dorset, is by way of opening his autumn campaign with novelties which well sustain the reputation of the cosy Strand house. First place in this week's fresh numbers is demanded by Mr. George Lestocq, who is presenting Very, Very Much Engaged, a farcical medium for exploiting his very evident ability that is certainly not overloaded with opportunity. But it serves to introduce one to a very agreeable and clever young actor—the son of Mr. W. Lestocq, a veteran—quite a young veteran, bien entendu—whom we remember in the original cast of Our Boys. There is a decided echo of Brighton, the late Bronson Howard's comedy, in the trifle. A commercial traveller, now married, has become "very much engaged" to various young ladies "beside the seaside." On his arrival with his wife at a London hotel he meets Fanny from Folkestone, Maggie from Margate, Dora from Dover, and others. Each claims his allegiance, and to each he has to tell tarradiddles. He is cornered, of course, and it is evident that the lady who is gags; and Cissie Curlette, well termed a quaint vocalist, gets away from the well worn rut of the comedienne in her old maid's song, "What you've never had you never miss," and is quite refreshing in her dress of the Mid-Victorian era. Herbert Shelley rejoices in a rich fund of humour, and his Irish songs and anecdotes are racy of the soil. Herbert La Martine is a fine dancer; Mooney and Holbein are among the best of Hebrew comedians; and others announced on the bill are Sam Mayo, Queenie Essex, and Foot-Gers. Raffell's Bioscope is a permanent attraction.

QUEEN'S, POPLAR.

The bill is headed here by Ada Colley, the Australian nightingale. Her powerful voice is effective in the "Valse Song" and "Dear Heart." A popular turn is given by the Keppels. The male member possesses a fine baritone voice, and his rendering of "My old shako" is admirable. In "Down the vale," given as a duet, the high soprano of the lady is heard to decided advantage. In response to the plaudits of the audience they sang "Till dawn."

A powerful sketch, presented by J. C. Brandon and company is

THE DRAGON'S CLAW.

Quong Ming ..... MR. A. LLOYD
Lo Yen Sunbloom ..... MISS STELLA VERNON
Ah Hoe ..... MR. E. C. CARLIN
Mad Hag ..... MISS MARY BRONTON
Policeman Kelly ..... MR. GEORGE FAIRHURST
Jim Dorgan ..... MR. JOHN C. BRANDON

The scene opens at Quong Ming's opium den in the quarter of China Town, New York, where Jim has gone for his share of a "pigeon's" plucking. Quong is not over keen on parting up, but Jim

FRANCIS, DAY & HUNTER,

THE WORLD'S SONG PROVIDERS.

FLANAGAN.

SUNG WITH ENORMOUS SUCCESS BY MISS FLORRIE FORDE.

MISTER OWL.
G. H. ELLIOTT'S LATEST & GREATEST SUCCESS.

DOWN IN JUNGLETOWN.
MISS ETHEL LEVEY'S "ALHAMBRA" HIT.

I WISH I LIVED NEXT DOOR TO YOU.
Sung by MISS DAISY DORMER.

I'VE GOT RINGS ON MY FINGERS.
MISS JEN LATONA'S COLISEUM HIT.

THERE'S ANOTHER FELLOW LOOKS LIKE ME
GEORGE LASHWOOD'S LATEST HIT.

PUT ON YOUR TATA, LITTLE GIRLIE.
MISS CLARICE MAYNE.

IF I HAD THE WORLD TO GIVE YOU.

DAVE CARTER'S GREAT SUCCESS.

HE'S A NAUGHTY, NAUGHTY BOY.
CHARLES WHITTLE'S LATEST HIT.

HI! HI! MISTER McKIE.
MISS ELLA RETFORD.

IN THE OLD DUTCH DAIRY.
THE GREAT SEASIDE SUCCESS.

WE DID ENJOY OURSELVES IN LONDON.
A Great Chorus Song sung by GUS GARRICK and the TWO ARNATOS.

'TIS A FADED PICTURE.
Sung by FRANK CASS.

MY PONY BOY.
MISS NELL EMERALD.

ON THE SILVERY SANDS.

MISS MADGE TEMPLE'S GREATEST SUCCESS.

AND JUST THEN HE FELL OUT OF BED.
MISS ADA REEVE.

LA LA LA, SING THIS CHORUS WITH ME.
HERBERT RULE and GEORGE D'ALBERT.

I DON'T MIND LEAVING THE DEAR HOMELAND
TOM COSTELLO'S FURORE.

THERE'S A LITTLE BLACK CUPID IN THE MOON.
G. H. ELLIOTT'S LATEST MOON SONG.

SAM.
MISS HELEN TRIX.

IN CHERRY-BLOSSOM TIME IN JAPAN.
A CHARMING JAPANESE ROMANCE.

FRANCIS, DAY & HUNTER, 142, Charing Cross Rd., London, W.C.

composer, are alike to be complimented upon a tasteful production which won the approbation of a large audience.

New importations to the bill bring to the Empire some of the oldest-established favourites of the halls. As the seedy individual and the American belle, Clark and Hamilton arouse endless laughter with their scene at a restaurant. Mr. George Mozart also touches the springs of mirth with the most effective selections from his répertoire of drolleries, and the representation of a cinematograph picture comes as a complete novelty. An acknowledged favourite at the Empire is seen in Miss Sybil Arundale, who has chosen for her selections a song of humorous tendencies, in which the "days gone by" and the present are contrasted, and the popular "Silvery, silvery sands," which she renders in a bathing-dress of ebony hue, incidentally making a remarkable likeness to Shakespeare's Hamlet. It is only in the costume that the resemblance exists, for Miss Arundale sings with a vivacity and charm which wins all hearts.

Grotesque effects are created by the Tally-Ho Trio, who are most diverting in their snatches of melody, the comic business being entirely unforced. Knockabout fun is supplied by Smite and Smote, to an accompaniment of laughter, and the Royal Oxfords, a trio of clever youths, dance with wonderful precision. Billiards extraordinary are indulged in by Asra, who brings off losing hazards on a billiard-board with the pockets hung around him, and his forehead as a supplementary "cush," whereon he plays a popular melody. The delights of The Dancing Master are retained in the bill, Miss Phyllis Bedells bringing the fragrance and freshness of youth and the accomplishments of the practised dancerine to bear in her impersonation of the dainty maid, who legitimately his has the whip hand of him. The disappointed ones take things quite in a lively fashion, and dance in turn with the faithless one. Mr. Lestocq has quite an alert style, and is always buoyant, amusing, and bright. The ladies supporting him are pretty and engaging.

Another turn new to London is presented by Les Averinos, from sunny Spain. The lady sings agreeably, and shows her versatility by wire-walking. The mere man of the duo is a clown endowed with humour and with considerable agility as an acrobat, being responsible for a remarkable exhibition of somersaulting. Mr. Horace Lane and Miss Violet Lloyd present a capital new sketch in Busking, which is imbued with the spirit of raillery when the "hobble" skirt dance is given. When the skirt is removed a pretty figure is displayed. Both Mr. Lane, as the unemployed actor, who joins forces with the lady busker, and Miss Lloyd, who plays that part, are particularly smart and clever, and their popularity is well won. The Two Bobs, who have so rapidly advanced to the front rank of favourite American comedians in London, are a couple of artists whose dancing and acting are, in the language of the States, "high-grade goods." Tivolians recognise their finesse and their real sense of character in their dances and sketches, and are delighted.

Little Tich as "The Territorial" is quite up to date, and fires off spasms of patter that are very smart. His "bargee" is redolent of W. W. Jacobs, and it is a character in which he shows to considerable advantage. That he is an enormous favourite goes without saying. Jack Marks is a promising youngster; Dale and O'Malley, with a style that is decidedly original and amusing, would be well advised to get some new warns him of the consequences if he fails to pay over the share. The Mad Hag then enters, and having no money begs for a pipe of opium, which Quong refuses. However, Jim gives the woman some money and receives her thanks, and an assurance that she never forgets a kindness, and that it will be repaid in due time. After Jim has gone Quong and his assistant arrange to get rid of him on his return for the money. The girl Lo Yen overhears the conspiracy, and determines to warn Jim. Her presence is discovered. She admits having heard all, and, refusing to keep silent, she is gagged and bound. Jim's whistle is then heard, the place is darkened, and as Quong opens the door Jim is immediately attacked and stunned by Ah Hoe. As policeman Kelly is on his rounds the inanimate form of Jim is placed in a box and nailed up. Kelly hears a piercing scream, which Quong informs him is that of the old woman. Brought from the opium den, she vows it was not her. Kelly tells her to lie down, covers her with a rug, and departs. Soon sounds are heard proceeding from the box. The old hag starts up and wrenches the lid from the box. Dragging Jim to the spot where she was sleeping she covers him with the rug and goes to fetch the police. Meanwhile, Quong is dealing with the girl Lo Yen, and her terrible screams bring Jim to his senses; he staggers blindly to the door, rescues the girl from her would-be murderers, and shoots Quong just as Policeman Kelly arrives with the old hag.

The sketch, although somewhat gruesome in theme, certainly grips, and the long applause at its finish was ample testimony to its popularity. All the cast work well and deserve praise.

Female humorists are few and far between, and Daisy Hicks is one of the few. Her methods are quite refreshing, and she raises many laughs with her songs, "I wish I could let those rooms" and "If I hadn't got the dinner on the hob." Pete and Juno, the two coloured boys, are very amusing. Their simultaneous saand dance is quite good and heartily applauded. The lengthy programme also included Clive Watts, comedian and dancer; Elsie Diane, comedienne; the three Flying Winskills, trapeze artists; and E. E. Howard and company in The Fight in the Lighthouse. The stage is resplendent with a most gorgeous drop scene of quite original design and colouring. Mr. W. Hinkinson is the capable musical director, and Mr. Morris Abrahams the general manager.

CAMDEN HIPPODROME.

Mr. Charles Beresford, the genial manager at this fine hall, reported business excellent when we called in on Monday evening, and small wonder when two such top-liners as Harry Champion and Houdini are billed. The quick-fire comedian, Harry Champion, was in his best vein, and reeled off three songs at his usual velocity, and his reception was immense. His first number, "The natty little patch behind," caused general amusement; while another, "Ginger, you're balmy," was even more popular, as it gave the gallery an opportunity to help in the chorus, which they did with heart and voice.

Cressie Lennard, a sprightly comedienne, looks most fetching in her boy's costume, in which she sings "I wonder if you miss me?" in a very taking style. Wilman, the Australian instrumentalist, gives some finely-rendered cornet solos, his playing of "I'll sing thee songs of Araby," by Fred Clay, being a rare treat and greatly appreciated. Another good comedian on the programme is G. W. Foster, who has a catchy policeman song in "I blew my whistle," while his "Author" number is very humorous, with its thrilling descriptions, which caused roars of laughter.

Houdini, fresh from his triumphs abroad, comes back to increase his reputation, and his escape from the strait-jacket was indeed a wonderful feat, performed, too, as it is, in full sight of his audience. Then he presented his marvellous act of escaping from an air-tight iron can, filled with water and securely padlocked, and it was done in a mysterious way, his reception at the finish being tremendous.

Those capital piano duettists and singers, Carlish and Wellman, provide a most popular turn; their playing of the two pianos with such marked precision must be the result of careful study and assiduous practice, the effect being decidedly pleasing. They also sing some melodious songs, and score a big success. The Three Rochesters, clever young people, sing and dance cleverly, and introduce the smallest barefoot sand dancer in the world. Blanche Vincent, a singer with a fine voice, sings a pretty medley of Ireland's popular songs, and afterwards gives a really artistic rendering of "Cigarette." Elsie Malpass, a very young lady, hits off Gertie Gitana to the life in her impersonation of that popular artist, and also sings a bright number, finishing up with a clever dance and making a big hit.

Rose Atherton and company present an amusing sketch, Murphy's Affinity, which is capitally played, and gives general amusement. The story of the old curiosity dealer who meets with such extraordinary adventures with an old Egyptian vase he has secured is quaintly ludicrous, and the most is made of the opportunities for fun-making. The Bioscope, with new films, concludes a most pleasant evening. Mr. Beresford has every reason to be proud of the success that is attending his energies at this place of amusement.

ISLINGTON EMPIRE.

A programme of the most attractive sort is submitted at this popular hall, and patronage is of a very liberal order. The Brasques in a comedy playlet, My Lancashire Wife, make a good impression, the lady sustaining the Lancashire dialect in excellent style. The conclusion of the playlet is weak, and it wants generally smartening up. They were very cordially greeted. The Four Paulastos, lively waiters, in a comedy act, give a smart show, which exhibits both strength and skill. Plenty of humour is introduced, and they score a decided success. The Caselli Sisters, in song and dance, do very well, especially in their sensational concluding dance, which is enthusiastically received.

Frank Lister, who is appearing in No. 99, an American dramatic sketch, scores one of the hits of the evening. The plot of the playlet is interesting and well developed, and it has the additional advantage of being capitally acted by every member of the company. Mr. Lister himself, who has a big local reputation, contrived, within the small period of about fifteen minutes, to work his performance up to a degree of great intensity, and he gained quite an ovation at the fall of the curtain. A word is due to the gentlemen who play the Doctor and Judge respectively, and also the little girl, each of whom rendered excellent support.

Marie Kendall is making herself a great favourite, and is singing two songs, "You can always tell when a fellow loves a girl" and "Did your first wife ever do that?" The latter song is very amusing. Miss Kendall, who sings it in the guise of the second wife, makes every point tell, and the audience express their approbation with no uncertain sound. Ada Cerito sings one song with great acceptance, and induces the gallery to chant the chorus with her, and is well received. Steve McCarthy, who opens the programme, contributes a number in the guise of a sailor, and puts any amount of "go" into it. He gains a hearty call.

Alec Hurley, who is appearing as a single turn, is a popular contributor to the bill. On the evening of our visit he sang three songs, the first and second of a domestic type, and the last a very clever and original sort of number entitled "My particular business." What that happens to be one never actually finds out, though from the costume one might be inclined to hazard a guess. It certainly suited the artist admirably, and fully interested and amused the house. Needless to say he was received with acclamation.

Another very popular feature of the bill is Miss Wish Wynne, who goes very far towards realising her programme description as "the most versatile comedienne of the day." On the evening of our visit three songs were submitted—the first entitled "Swank," the second "I was afraid," a rustic dialect study, and the third a study of a London schoolgirl. These three items comprise in themselves a pretty severe test of versatility, and it has to be recorded that the artist scored a complete triumph, the applause at the end of her second item making an encore inevitable. We believe that Miss Wynne is concluding her present engagements in this country, but it is to be hoped that London will soon have the opportunity of welcoming back so gifted a lady.

Another feature of the bill is Lew Lake and company in Old Chinas in China. This proves to be a bustling knockabout show, with a good stage setting, and a large company. The audience appeared to derive the utmost enjoyment from many of the situations, and Messrs. Lew Lake, Bob Morris, and Dave Bentley specially distinguish themselves. The show had a hearty reception. Ada Oxley and company are also in the bill with Peggy. The Bioscope is very entertaining, and Mr. T. Gray's orchestra render yeoman service during the evening. Mr. B. Adams, the popular manager, is courteous and attentive in the front of the house.

MR. EDITOR,—We notice in your report for the Richmond Hippodrome in your last issue, you state that 'Lisa's Wedding Day was played by Swan and Stanley. This was an error, as it was played by yours faithfully, Swan and Vesta, authors and sole proprietors.

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

(Continued from page 23.)

On Monday Mr. Arthur Aldridge produced the beautiful new Feldman ballad "All in a day," by John P. Harrington and William Hargreaves, which was keenly enjoyed by the vocalist's many auditors. In this new ballad Messrs. Feldman and Co. have a worthy companion to their better-known and highly-popular ballad "Beautiful garden of roses," which Mr. Aldridge is also singing at the London Pavilion.

Undoubtedly the comedy chorus song of the hour is Benjamin Hapgood Burt's quaint Irish number "Mister Pat O'Hare," which Mr. George Lashwood renders with such vivacity and point at the Holloway Empire nightly, to an accompaniment of applause which must be very gratifying to the ears of this accomplished artist. Messrs. Feldman and Co. are to be congratulated on the possession of so typical a Hibernian number.

That delightful recruit from the musical comedy world, Miss Dorothy Ward, is immensely successful, both at the Richmond and Hammersmith houses, where she is this week performing, with Chas. K. Harris's latest ballad gem "Yesterday," which Messrs. B. Feldman and Co. publish, and which proves greatly to the liking of patrons of both houses.

Miss Ethel Ra Leslie is specially featuring Mellor, Lawrance, and Gifford's delightful Irish number, "Connemara," with scenic effects, &c., appropriate to the song, and the publishers, Messrs. B. Feldman and Co., wish it to be understood that Miss Ra Leslie holds prior rights of this song, and no other artists must sing it on the variety stage without permission first being obtained direct from them.

At the London Pavilion Miss Jose Collins has been received with acclaim in her dainty rendering of Williams and Van Alstyne's cowboy song "Santa Fe," yet another of the popular Feldman publications.

Miss Ailsa Douglas has been making a marked success at the Palace Theatre, Buxton, with Feldman's ballad "I'm trying so hard to forget you," and on Monday next will also produce Feldman's biggest "winner," "Beautiful garden of roses," at the Empire, Rochdale.

Miss Georgie Corlass, writing from Bombay, records the marvellous success that has attended her rendering of E. W. Rogers and John Neat's dainty ditty, "Pretty little girl from nowhere," and "I do like to be beside the seaside," by John A. Glover-Kind. Both of these are well-known Feldman publications.

Miss Nina Carlton, a prominent member of Mr. Oscar Mills' company, The Nonentities, is highly successful at the Lighthouse Pavilion, Hoylake, this week, with "Marie Louise," "It's the Alpine dress you're wearing," both by Mellor, Lawrance, and Gifford, and "Come over the garden wall," by Macdonald and Tate. All three are published by Feldman and Co.

Miss Cissie Dryden, at the Bedford this week, is immensely successful with Mellor, Lawrance, and Gifford's song "Keep the fire in, Marie," published by Feldman and Co., and will sing the same song next week at the Britannia Pier, Great Yarmouth.

(Continued on page 25.)

"A WOMAN'S REVOLT."

Sketch, by W. L. Courtney, Reproduced at the Palace Theatre on Monday, Aug. 29.

Gabrielle ..... Miss Ada Webster
Colonel Rentledge ..... Mr. Evelyn Beerbohm
Launcelot Wrayne ..... Mr. Walter Pearce
Servant ..... Mr. Cecil Burt

After all, the "revolt" is nothing more serious than a flash-in-the-pan form of indignation, and, considering all things, "she" has really nothing to complain about. We may as well mention that "she" is a musical comedy actress of experience, named Gabrielle, who has won the affections of Launcelot Wrayne—a real good chap, who has not developed any awkward curiosity concerning his inamorata's past. When we first see the happy couple she plays snatches of Grieg's Peer Gynt to him, and illustrates on the piano the versatility of the genius that opportunity may one day enable her to display as Medea or Medusa, or, we may add, Electra or Clytemnestra. As the song says, "the happy moments fly all too fast," and the time comes for Gabrielle to depart for the theatre. Launcelot's half-hour nap on the sofa is interrupted by the arrival of Colonel Rentledge, his guardian, and the owner of the flat. He has arrived in town unexpectedly. On noticing that supper is laid for two, the Colonel's observations lead up to an acknowledgment from Wrayne of his attachment and of his determination to marry the girl. The older man regards the situation as serious when a young man is bent on taking a woman's past, present, and future under his wing. Is Wrayne quite certain of her affection? He has his "doots," and arranges a little scheme whereby the Colonel can sound Gabrielle on the point.

In the succeeding interview Rentledge discovers that Gabrielle's mother was a dear friend, and he becomes paternal. He had regarded with somewhat mixed feelings her probable marriage to Wrayne, but now he is quite glad. While in the act of giving her a fatherly kiss Wrayne bursts into the room, misinterprets the attitude of the Colonel, and strikes him. Further assault is only prevented by the intervention of the woman, who works herself up into a state of indignation, and in wild and whirling words condemns man's treatment of woman, who he either haloes as a saint or tolerates as a toy. Cannot she be allowed a personality and independence? Both men are silent—wisely so, perhaps; and Gabrielle is departing, when a nervous collapse brings her back. On her recovery she mutters the name of "Launcelot," and that young man, brought by a stimulating process that we cannot explain to a proper sense of his own unfitness for such an earthly blessing, falls into her arms. Mr. Walter Pearce, who was making his first appearance on the variety stage, played with force and feeling the part of Launcelot Wrayne; Mr. Evelyn Beerbohm was scarcely well suited in the rôle of the Colonel; and Miss Ada Webster was at her best in the less strenuous passages of the sketch, which was somewhat coldly received.

The Six American dancers—three ladies and three gentlemen—make their step-dancing a very much appreciated feature of the fine entertainment, not only by the real skill of their performance, but by the fascination of it, and by the clever way the act is dressed and presented. Miss Dorma Morgan, an American comedienne with a chic style, is a douce lassie, and, possessing a fine figure, wears the doublet and hose as if to the manner born. Charlier, a French ventriloquist, who is particularly clever with his walking figures, and shows versatility in his dances with a dummy; Les Trombettas—dans leurs œuvres et créations—always popular at the Palace, where they return time after time to renew their triumphs; the great Kaufmann Troupe of lady bicyclists; the Bekepi Sisters, international dancers; Henriette de Serris, with well-known works of art; the famous Victor Abaza Balalaika Orchestra; Nat M. Wills, American tramp comedian; Myrma, the diving Venus; and the Palace Bioscope pictures are other attractions.

"THE FIRST NIGHT."

A Burlesque, by Tom Conover, Produced for the First Time at the Camberwell Empire, on Monday, Aug. 29.

Jimmy Welch ..... Mr. Dan Thomas
Wilkins ..... Mr. Len Lewis
Bertie ..... Mr. Hampton Gordon
Liz ..... Miss Nora Layton
Phyllis ..... Miss Isa Bell
Jack ..... Master Cliff Ryland

The story of this playlet, which has a rich vein of humour running through it, is written round the fortunes and misfortunes of a certain theatrical manager named Wilkins. He is on the point of producing a new piece, but, being particularly short of money, a feeling of discontent exists amongst the members of his company. The leading lady, Phyllis, has found favour in the eyes of Bertie, a dude, and the manager suggests that she shall endeavour to persuade him to put a little money into the concern. Bertie is eventually entrapped, and given a part.

Jimmy Welch, a bookmaker and a friend of the manager, is also approached for a little cash, and in exchange for this he too is handed a part to play. Jimmy's young lady, Liz, has a great liking for the stage, but has never yet been on, and as still another female is required to complete the cast, she is engaged, and handed a costume in a parcel about the size of a match-box and told to go and dress. After much excitement in the dressing-room the play starts in real earnest. The scene represents the exterior of the Castle of Castero, and in the unfolding of the plot many humorous mistakes are made and much fun is caused in every direction. At the final, where Jimmy Welch is supposed to blow up the bridge, the explosive is evidently a little too strong, for not only does the bridge disappear, but the scenery falls on every side, making a very fitting conclusion to a funny play.

Mr. Dan Thomas as Jimmy Welch takes full advantage of every opportunity offered in his part, and supplies a particularly droll delineation of the bookmaker; Mr. Len Lewis makes a business-like theatrical manager, Wilkins, and works hard throughout; the rôle of the dude, Bertie, is ably undertaken by Mr. Hampton Gordon, whose efforts are much appreciated; Miss Nora Layton supplies a spirited portrayal of Liz; Miss Isa Bell is well suited to the rôle of Phyllis; and Master Cliff Ryland shows considerable ability and plays extremely well as Jack, the call-boy.

Mr. George Lashwood purposes producing at the Empire, Holloway, his new character comedy number, "Just you leave it to the guard," specially written and composed for him by John P. Harrington and Fred Eplett. Miss Ethel Fink (Mrs. George Lashwood) will also shortly produce a new number by Messrs. Harrington and Eplett, entitled "Wouldn't you like to meet her? Rather!"

MISS MILLIE HYLTON.

No higher compliment could be paid this talented artist than that of an enthusiastic habitué of the Shepherd's Bush Empire the other evening, when, at the conclusion of her turn, he declared that "an artist so versatile had not been seen on the vaudeville stage since the days of the inimitable Jenny Hill."

Miss Hylton's present répertoire of songs is, indeed, a varied one, and gives her every opportunity for the display of her well-known abilities. There is a delightful ditty, "Puff, puff, out went the moon"; and her low-comedy item, "I couldn't help being a lady," a drolly-rendered song, always elicits shrieks of laughter. A fine dramatic scena, "For a Woman's Sake," with special scenery and effects, is also a much-appreciated item; and "The Last of the Dandies" and "A Dollar Princess," introducing some specially arranged dances, are other attractive numbers. In deference to the wishes of the authoress of "The Dawn of a To-morrow," Mrs. Frances Hodgson-Burnett, Miss Hylton has withdrawn her scena of the same title.

[Photo by Ellis and Walery.
MISS MILLIE HYLTON.

In a brief chat with the charming artist at the conclusion of her turn, she informed us that she was equally at home in either grave or gay business, and that a due appreciation of the contemporaneous requirements of the public influenced her in staging a versatile act.

"The public nowadays," said Miss Hylton, "are continually asking for novelty and change. The day has passed when they will tolerate a performer submitting three or four similar numbers in one turn. Each number must be distinct in itself, and should be sufficiently strong in words and music to grip the attention. With my present act I have now been several weeks on the Moss-Stoll tour, and am proud to be able to state that both Press and public have been most kind and appreciative. Audiences are not over-demonstrative to-day, so that I must consider myself extra fortunate in receiving three, four, and even more calls at every performance." Happy is the artist who can awaken such real enthusiasm.

In the important matter of costumes no lady spends more time and money than Miss Hylton, and the most indifferent eye can at once discern the admirable taste and judgment exercised in the selection of the choicest Parisian models, in which the lady always clothes a charming personality.

Miss Hylton has long been recognised as one of the finest principal boys in the kingdom, her fine presence considerably enhancing her value in this rôle. Through a misunderstanding, she is unexpectedly disengaged for pantomime, but there is little doubt, when the fact becomes known, many offers will be made for her services.

Miss Hylton's future arrangements—following the termination of the Moss-Stoll tour about March next—are at the moment somewhat in abeyance. She may be starred on tour in a new and original musical comedy, and has many plans and offers now before her.

Mr. Mat Melrose, the manager of the Comedy Comets, who have been entertaining audiences at the Kursaal Gardens, Worthing, during the season was, on the occasion of his benefit last week, presented with a silver cigarette case, suitably inscribed, by the other members of the company. Mr. Melrose has been exceedingly popular since his arrival at Worthing, and this can be seen when it is mentioned that nearly fifteen hundred people paid for admission on the occasion of his benefit.

The Vaudeville Party, the Queries, who have been performing at St. James's Hall, Worthing, were required to give up possession on Wednesday, owing to its being wanted for a concert by Mark Hambourg. They, however, conceived the happy idea of giving their patrons a treat in the shape of a sports meeting, and this was held in Beach House Park, which was frequently visited by King Edward during his visits to Worthing. There were numerous entries, and fine prizes. In the evening dancing took place to the Town Band supplying the necessary music.

FELDMAN'S GREATEST TRIUMPH

GARDEN OF ROSES

CREATED BY

ARTHUR ALDRIDGE.

THE ASSURED HIT

OF THE YEAR.

B. FELDMAN & CO.,

2 & 3, Arthur St., New Oxford St., W.C.

Tel. Address: "HUMFRIV, LONDON." Telephone: 4447 GERRARD.

LOIE FULLER ON DANCING.

"Both dancing and the attitude of the public toward dancing have changed with the last eighteen years," writes Miss Loïe Fuller, discoursing on "Eighteen Years of Dancing" in the (American) Green Room Book Album.

"The Serpentine Dance was invented, or invented itself, in New York. I had returned here in 1891 after a season at the Gaiety in London, and was playing in a farce-comedy called Quack, M.D., in which there was an hypnotic scene. Before leaving London, England, to fill this engagement, I received a box covered with eastern labels, and found it to contain a thin silk robe of snowy whiteness and of a delicacy of texture such as I had never before seen. It had been sent to me by a man whom I met in London once, on the eve of his sailing for India.

"One night in my room, wholly by chance, I threw the silk robe over my head and shoulders and moved and swayed it about. The effect of the whirling movement on the flowing silk was graceful and pleasing, and I practiced different steps until nearly daylight. It seemed to me that it might be turned to account, and I finally introduced it in the hypnotic scene of Quack, M.D., with great success. The colour effects came afterward, only one colour at a time being employed at first.

"The blending of the lights that made my dance so beautiful was also the result of an accident. The dance was supposed to be illumined by two lights of the same colour, one at each side. The electrician one night had partaken of the cup that cheers and inebriates at the same time, and he mixed the lights, producing the most beautiful effects. All that I have accomplished since is due to an idea given me accidentally by an intoxicated electrician.

"I suppose I am the only person, whose claim to recognition is as a dancer, that has a personal preference for science. I am really more interested in science than I am in dancing. It is the great scheme of my life. I was led to it by my researches in the field of light and colour. In Paris I have a laboratory where I employ six men. Every penny I earn goes to that. I do not save for my old age. I do not care what happens then. Everything goes to my laboratory.

"I have had some success, for I have invented a process for treating cloth with phosphorescent salts. Scientists in Paris worked with me, but it was reserved for me to discover that by striping a fabric with the stiff salts I could produce a strong and beautiful glow at an expense of about 600 dols. per pound. Part of my hair was blown off in an explosion while I was experimenting in my laboratory, and it made a great sensation in the neighbourhood. The people called me a witch, a sorcière. My hair will not all grow again, but I do not care.

"I have been asked to say something about the celebrities with whom I have been brought into contact in eighteen years of dancing.

"Perhaps the greatest man I have ever known was Alexander Dumas, though one may only say of any great man that he was great in his own way. There has never been a greater idealist nor a greater realist than Dumas. Of course, I am speaking of Dumas the younger, the Dumas of 'La Dame aux Camelias,' not the Dumas of 'Monte Cristo'—which it is well enough to explain, since many of the present generation confound father and son.

"I was introduced to the eminent litterateur by a mutual friend, a Haytian—a man of polished manners and broad culture, as are the educated Haytians—whose father had been a great friend of the elder Dumas.

"I was taken to a breakfast at the Dumas villa at Marly le Roi on a Sunday, and of twenty or thirty men and women at the table, I was the only one who could not speak the language of the country—for that was when I first went to Paris, in 1893. I had, however, been coached in the pronunciation in French of the words: 'I am proud to take the hand of Alexander Dumas,' but, overcome by something like awe in his presence, as well as being embarrassed by the number of people at the table, what I really did say sounded as if I had said that I would be proud to take the watch of Alexander Dumas, 'main' and 'montre' sounding something alike as I pronounced them. I was surprised, therefore, when he offered to present his watch to me, and my Haytian friend had to explain matters. I tried my French again during the breakfast, and brought down the table, for in my ignorance of the use of the genders I referred to my host as 'she.' Dumas, who was a very masculine person, assured us that it was the first time he had ever been taken for a lady. Although Dumas the elder was a mulatto, his son was fair, with blue eyes.

"He made many aphorisms after I knew him better and began to understand the language. I remember once, as he was driving two little black Arabian ponies he had purchased for his grandson, he said to me as they started to run up a hill: 'They are like young people; they want to get their troubles over.'

"Another time he remarked dryly, when someone in a group of friends had been abusing an absent acquaintance:

"'If we find a man in whom we believe there is nothing good, it is often that the fault is ours.'"

Captain Spaulding's Puzzling Performance.

Last week at the Alhambra, Brighton, I had the pleasure of seeing Captain Spaulding's performance, which I have heard so much about. I also saw his performance at the Canterbury a few nights ago. It is a puzzle to me how this man accomplishes his marvellous tricks. He was the talk of all Brighton last week, and proved undoubtedly a big draw for the Alhambra. Spaulding gets to work just as soon as the curtain is raised, and goes out in the audience and shows his work down the aisles as well as on the stage. Biting off red-hot carbons, chewing up hot lead, and blowing gunpowder off in his hand are just a few of the daring tricks this American is showing. His act is away from all acts of this kind, and there is no stalling or lost time, but right to business immediately. Spaulding is proving a big card on all bills he plays.

Where is Emerson?

Mr. Emerson is a club juggler who can handle the sticks with anyone, and often takes the lover's part in drama. Last heard of at Blackpool in company with a dark-haired, good-looking gentleman, who is a sort of Beau Brummel, and who is known professionally as Lucky Baldwin. Has anybody seen Eddie?

Miss Doris Trevelyan was most successful last week at the Ardwick Empire, Manchester, and also deputised during the week at the Hippodrome. This was only her second week on the halls, and she is well booked into 1916.

Can any reader please inform Mr. Harry Liston where to obtain a copy of "Juvenia Valse" (by Victor Stevens (?), published some time ago for, he believes, the Juvenia Soap Co. Address, Harry Liston, St. George's Hall, London, W.

Miss Sybil Arundale, who before she made her great success in the title-rôle of My Lady Molly, had appeared as Puck in A Midsummer Night's Dream, has been engaged by Mr. J. C. Williamson as principal boy for his next Australian pantomime. Miss Dorothy Firmin, who played the part of Prince Arthur with Mr. Albert Wyndham, the Shakespearean actor and producer in the halls, is to be the principal girl; and among others engaged are Sam Elton, the Sisters Doherty, and the Pantzer Troupe. The pantomime will start at Christmas.

MUSIC HALL CELEBRITIES.

THE ESDALE BROTHERS.

Those two young and clever artists the Esdale Brothers (Fred and Will) are the only turn of that name in the profession. They first entered into the vocation which was calling them—the Cinderella of the arts—fifteen years ago; and they have played in all the leading halls of the British Isles, including those of Moss and Stoll, Barrasford, Macnaghten, and Broadhead. They appeal, with their original work, to a vast community, and have a considerable following. Mr. Fred Esdale hails from Cottonopolis, and is the son of "Johnny" Watson, conductor for over thirty years of the People's Concert Hall, Manchester. Fred is not only a comedian of considerable resource and capacity, but an expert silfleur, and could have gained a name as such.

The "alter ego" Will is essentially a dramatic artist, and is full of forcefulness and talent. A man from the Midlands, he commenced his career as an impersonator of the characters which Dickens has immortalised—Uriah Heep, Sydney Carton, Peggotty, Little Nell's Grandfather, Fagin, Montague Tigg. He also gives a really tragic impersonation of Mathias in The Bells, Irvingesque without slavish imitation, impressive and convincing.

FRED ESDALE.

The combination of these two young and ambitious actors results in very felicitous happenings. Their latest thumbnail sketch, Hawkshaw the Detective, is screamingly funny. It enables them to introduce an artistic travesty of robust melodramatic acting of the old school, who ladled it out, and the smart patter which characterises the newer generation. It is quite original, and affords them an opportunity of singing with effectiveness. The Esdale Brothers, who are just concluding a twenty weeks' engagement with Mr. Charles Dare at the Empire Theatre, Douglas, have a long, and, it may be hazarded, a brilliant future before them. They have established themselves great favourites with visitors to the Isle of Man.

WILL ESDALE.

CROUCH END HIPPODROME.

Prominent among the many excellent features in the current bill at this popular resort is the remarkably adroit and novel acrobatic pantomime exhibition entitled The Tramps' Picnic, given by the Arthur Breton Troupe. Their display is one of the most enjoyable of its kind. A novel entertainment is that provided by the Great Kenna Bros., who perform some very clever feats on a pole balanced on a loose hanging trapeze. It is a smart and interesting gymnastic display, which is quite out of the ordinary, and meets with conspicuous success. Jessie Berg proves a skilful violinist, and her rendering of a Scotch fantasia is greeted with unstinted applause. Curzon and Annesley, with their farcical sketch, An Artful Widow, supply one of the chief items of the programme, and are very funny, greatly amusing their audience.

Laurie and Leslie present a laughable cross-talk act, their patter and business being refined and fresh, and they fully merit the applause they receive. Millie Denham makes a hit with her catchy chorus song, "Find a dear little girl," which she sings with skill. Warm applause also greets Harry Wedburn, a really comical comedian, who causes many laughs. His two songs, "How did you get in?" and "The Terror" are real hits, and merriment runs high. He concludes his last song with a clever eccentric dance. Edgar Budden is another excellent entertainer, and his bone solo and dances on roller skates can scarcely be excelled. A cordial reception was given Marie Goodwin, a charming comedienne, who delighted the house with "I'd rather polka" and "Every little bit," a lively dance concluding her very acceptable turn. The Three Favourites are very successful in their comedy singing and dancing act, and well reserve the favour they obtain.

The sketch of the programme is given by Hope, Bayly, and company, and is entitled The Altar of Duty. It is a romantic and interesting little playlet, much in advance of the usual sensational trifle, and the parts are carefully and effectively undertaken. Admirably mounted and dressed, it is listened to with attention and loudly acclaimed. The programme is particularly strong in lady artists, high in favour being Miss Lily Arthur, a smart little comedienne and dancer, whose ability is quickly recognised and applauded. Mr. Joseph Baker conducts his capital orchestra with skill, and Mr. Frederick Phelps is very assiduous in his duties in front.

FINSBURY PARK EMPIRE.

After a delay as vexatious as it was uncalled for, the Finsbury Park Empire, on the fringe of Northern London, has become un fait accompli, and a very fine building—another triumph of the genius of Frank Matcham—rears its head at the junction of two roads in close proximity to the Finsbury Park Great Northern and Tubes Stations and within a few yards of the trams for Barnet, Finchley, Enfield, Whetstone, Edgware, Waltham Cross, Edmonton, and outlying districts in the North of London. It will therefore be seen that the new house will command patronage from a wide area. At a private view on Thursday afternoon, a large crowd of invited guests expressed their admiration of the many beauties of the new establishment.

The new home of variety has taken nearly a twelvemonth to erect, and the first thought of the visitor on entering the vestibule is its solid British comfort and unpretentious elegance. The quiet tones that prevail everywhere harmonise with the oak fittings which predominate everywhere; but for an accurate description of this most beautiful and spacious house we may well quote the architect:

The principal elevation faces towards the Seven Sisters-road, the centre façade being of terra-cotta, and contains the principal entrances and advance booking-office. Over-columns are carried up supporting bold entablatures, and in the centre is a large circular-headed opening, with an open balcony approached from the grand circle foyer, and on the right a large square tower, with a tall roof, supporting a revolving sign, which can be seen from a very considerable distance. The side elevations are plainly but boldly treated.

On entering the building there are two lobbies, one on each side of the booking-office, which open into an Old English hall, carried out in quaint design, the walls being divided out with flat oak half-timbered work, filled in with white plaster. The staircases and doors are all of polished oak. The box-office is deserving of special notice.

The two staircases from the vestibule are wide and roomy. One leads down to the stalls foyer—a very cosy apartment with its comfortable lounges—and from here short corridors conduct the visitor to each side of the stalls. The other staircase, on the left, leads up to a large and lofty foyer, where a buffet has been provided; and the whole is in keeping with the entrance vestibule. From here the grand circle is approached.

The upper circle, approached on the right of the façade, contains a wide fireproof staircase, from which no fewer than four short corridors conduct the patrons to their seats. The pit is approached from the left of the building, the gallery from the right.

The fine, bold lines of the decorations—which, by the way, are of the Renaissance period—with the rich gold introduced, and tier upon tier of luxurious tip-up seats, the graceful red and pink draperies, the beautiful box façades, all combine to give to the theatre an appearance of grandeur that would be difficult to surpass. The general tone of the decoration is a happy combination of French cream and gold, with a warm crimson introduced that gives the whole interior an appearance of comfort and cosiness.

The ceiling—one of the largest ever made in fibrous plaster—is very boldly treated, rising in graceful curves from the main cornice up to the sliding roof, with enriched ribs, beams, panels, cartouches, swags, and pendants, the panels, being filled in with open-work, affording ample means of ventilation as well as giving a graceful sense of lightness and airiness.

Below the main cornice runs a deep frieze, panelled out with heavily-enriched mouldings and swags over pilasters, and finished at the ends next to the gallery with coffered panels and moulded and enriched trusses. In the centre panel of this frieze, on both sides of the house, is a finely-moulded centrepiece with oval shield and Cupids resting on a moulded base. The panels in the angles over the boxes are filled in with modelled dolphins.

The proscenium is spanned by a massive arch of an unusually effective character, the ends being scrolled and finished with swags and circular panels. The whole is surmounted by a tympanum, with large shield and reclining figures on either side, forming a very fine piece of moulded work.

A special feature has been made of the façades to the boxes. The stage-boxes have moulded and panelled fronts supported on curved trusses, and the fronts to the grand circle, balcony, and gallery are carried out in keeping with the general scheme of ornamentation.

Ample seating accommodation has been provided, the firm of H. Lazarus being responsible, and over a thousand tip-up chairs of the latest type have been fixed, the backs, being of polished satinwood colour upholstered in ruby velvet, imparting a warm and glowing effect. This famous firm have also supplied the luxurious settees, and their seating and furnishing throughout once more is a testimonial to their taste and resource. There are fifteen rows of stalls and nine rows of tip-up seats in the grand circle. So many exits and entrances have been provided that the ingoing patrons will in no way be inconvenienced by those leaving the building at the conclusion of the first performance. One advantage of booking in advance is the fact that double doors have been reserved at the front of the house for those who have booked their seats that they can enter without the disadvantages of waiting.

The building is fireproof throughout, erected on the cantilever system, and gives everyone a clear and uninterrupted view of the stage, in fact, everyone will be able to see clearly even from the most remote corner of the gallery. Hot-water heating has been introduced throughout, so that it will be seen that the safety and comfort of the audience has been considered in every way. The lighting of the interior is effected by hundreds of small electric bulbs and by massive brass electroliers suspended from the roof. The stage is an exceptionally large one, and is fitted with all the very latest machinery and requirements. The opening performance will be given on Monday.

Mr. William Ward, of the Press Bureau, Moss' Empires, was here, there, and everywhere on Thursday afternoon at the private view, to give information concerning the magnificent new house; and Mr. Ernest Wighton, the manager, was also extremely busy. Sir Edward and Lady Moss, Mr. Oswald Stoll, and Mr. Frank Allen, Mr. Battle, and other people prominent in the Moss-Stoll amalgamation, were present. Mr. F. Camp directed the orchestra of the new house, and enlivened the proceedings with some well-played selections.

MR. LEONARD SHEPHERD is appearing again next week in character-studies from his répertoire at East Ham, including impersonations of Richard III., Hamlet, and Shylock.

"MAGNA CHARTA."

A Historical Dramatic Interlude, Produced for the First Time at the Poplar Hippodrome, on Monday, Aug. 29.

Hubert de Burgh .....MR. ALBERT WYNDHAM
Lieutenant of the Tower ....MR. CHAS. WHITLEY
Guard .....MR. L. DEVEREIDGE
Sentinel .....MR. ARTHUR PAGE
Prince Arthur .....MISS MONA SHEPARD

In Magna Charta Mr. Albert Wyndham has a very powerful sequel to his popular sketch Prince Arthur, and there is no reason why it should not prove to be every whit as successful. The adaptor has furnished a story full of dramatic incidents, with a strong vein of pathos throughout. The interest is well sustained, and works up to a capital finale. The sketch was given a warm reception on Monday evening.

The scene opens at the entrance to the Traitors' Gate of the Tower of London, where the Lieutenant of the Tower, who acts as King John's secret guard over the Prince, is hatching a plot for his removal. Hubert, disguised as a monk, and with the little Prince, are seen walking on the battlements. Hubert has resolved that the boy's eyes are not to be destroyed, and urges him to make good his escape, giving him a bag of gold for the purpose. The Lieutenant arrives with soldiers, and demands the arrest of the Prince, but Hubert throws off his disguise, and, revealing his identity, commands the men to depart. The Prince then manages to escape. Baulked in his intentions, the Lieutenant then turns on Hubert, and they fight a duel, in which the Lieutenant is mortally wounded. Soldiers appear bearing a stretcher, on which lies the young Prince, who, in his endeavour to escape, has fallen from a tower and is dying. With pathetic care Hubert lifts the boy from his position and calls his name. The young Prince recognises Hubert's voice and then passes away.

In the part of Prince Arthur Miss Mona Shepard acts with great skill, and the audience were not slow to appreciate her good work; Mr. Chas. Whitley is excellent as the Lieutenant of the Tower; and the sentinel has a capable exponent in Mr. Arthur Page; Mr. Albert Wyndham is seen to decided advantage as Hubert de Bergh, a part in which his dramatic powers have ample scope.

STAGE NOMENCLATURE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—My attention has been called to a new artist bearing the name of "Hylton" who has recently appeared on the music hall stage. In order to endeavour to avoid misapprehensions on the part of the public, and misunderstandings by managers and others connected with the profession, I am writing to inform you that this particular performer is not in any way connected with my sisters or myself, my sisters being respectively known as Letty Lind, Adelaide Astor (now Mrs. George Grossmith, jun.), Lydia Flopp, and Fanny Dango (at present playing in Australia under the the management of J. C. Williamson).

It seems a thousand pities that new-comers do not seek and adopt fresh and distinctive names or titles, and so obviate clashing.—Yours faithfully,

MILLIE HYLTON.

Shepherd's Bush Empire, W., Aug. 30.

GULLIVER and the doll with the laugh, the successful ventriloquial act, are in town again on the Gibbons Circuit for a month, opening on Monday at Willesden.

STAR MUSIC CO., LTD.

AGAIN REMOVE TO LARGER PREMISES,

51, HIGH ST., NEW OXFORD ST., LONDON, W.C.

THIS IS "IT."

I WONDER IF YOU MISS ME SOMETIMES
(I WONDER IF YOU CARE).

SEND FOR CATALOGUE, FREE. PROFESSIONAL COPIES, 3d. EACH.
Applicants must state whether Required for Music Halls, Theatres, or Concert Work, &c.

NOTE NEW ADDRESS

51, HIGH ST., NEW OXFORD ST., LONDON, W.C.

Wires: "SONGONIA, LONDON." 'Phone: 8446 GERRARD.

LOOK OUT FOR THE "CORONATION LANCERS," TO BE ISSUED SHORTLY

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

AT the Star Music Co.'s reception last week, on the occasion of the formal opening of their new premises, one of the most pleasing items of the entertainment was the musical treat provided by Mr. J. H. Squire, whose handling of the 'cello proved him to be a master of that delightful instrument. He was accompanied most effectively by his charming wife. The latter also obliged with a most artistic rendering of A. J. Mills and Bennett Scott's pretty ballad, "I wonder if you miss me sometimes." G. H. Elliott, without his chocolate colour, sang his latest success (by the same authors), "Loo, Sue, Mary, Dinah," and in response to an unanimous encore, gave the old favourite, "By the blue lagoon." To wind up, Mr. A. J. Mills gave an impersonation of Charles Whittle in the bright and lilty "Fall in and follow me."

SHOALS of telegrams were received during the day from artists, managers, and other friends. Miss Marie Lloyd, who was unavoidably absent, sent a very handsome gift in the form of a tray containing ornamental receptacles for cigars, cigarettes, &c.—a useful present, which was greatly appreciated.

MISS CRISSIE LEONARD has captivated the hearts of the Camden Theatre audience during the past week by her sympathetic rendering of A. J. Mills and Bennett Scott's delightful number, "I wonder if you miss me sometimes." The authors and publishers are to be congratulated on having such a charming exponent for their song. Miss Leonard has another Star Company number in active preparation.

MISS ELLA RETFORD has the privilege of being the first to introduce to London audiences one of the best songs ever written by those accomplished writers, A. J. Mills and Bennett Scott. "What d'ye say, Molly Molloy?" is different to other Irish songs, it is so delightfully natural. There is no attempt to manufacture humour at the expense of reason. The melody is one that seems to literally "tickle the ear." All who have heard the song regard it as one of the most likely hits of the year. Needless to say, the Star Music Co. are the publishers.

MISS LOLA PATEY has secured from A. J. Mills and Bennett Scott the prior rights of a new Dutch song, entitled "Oh! Miss Wilhelmina." There are great possibilities in this ditty, and Miss Patey anticipates a terrific success for it. It will certainly not lose anything in such capable hands. The Star Music Co. are the publishers.

MISS EDNA LATONNE has just concluded a phenomenally successful engagement at the Oxford, where she has been featuring A. J. Mills and Bennett Scott's popular songs, "Homeland, goodbye" and "She was a girl in white." This week the clever little lady is at the Palace, Tottenham, where she is making a huge hit with the same authors, "What's the matter with London?" The audience take up the refrain "as one man," and reward the singer with enthusiastic recalls. The Star Music Co. have this new winner in the press.

REG. BEAUCHAMP is a new star who is likely to become a "fixed star," judging by the tremendous reception accorded him at the Tivoli and other London halls. Mr. Beauchamp's method is broad comedy, but he is the possessor of a really excellent tenor voice, which he uses with great effect in exploiting A. J. Mills and Bennett Scott's fine number, "I want to be more than a friend." The Star Music Co. are the publishers of this "dark horse."

MUSIC HALL PRODUCTIONS.

AUGUST.

Mystery of a Hansom Cab, condensed version of the play of the same name; Victoria Hall, Walthamstow, Aug. 1.

The King of Palestine, episode of prophecy, by George Wells and another; Shoreditch Olympia, Aug. 1

A Night of the Garter, comedy sketch, by George Grossmith, jun.; Tivoli, Aug. 1.

W(h)ines and Spirits, sketch, by Wal Pink; Oxford, Aug. 1.

On the Sands, a "frolic," in one scene, music composed, selected, and arranged by George W. Byng; Alhambra, Aug. 1.

Ria's Luck, sketch, by Miss Clare Elstob; Camberwell Empire, Aug. 1.

A Supreme Moment, dramatic sketch, by Mrs. W. K. Clifford; Coliseum, Aug. 8.

A Soldier of Fortune, dramatic episode, in three scenes, by Fraser Brunner; Woolwich Hippodrome, Aug. 8

The King of Sleepland, comedy sketch, by Gilbert Walls, Freddie French, and Willie Benn; Alhambra, Brighton, Aug. 8.

A Noble Revenge, dramatic episode, by Albert Ward; Camden Hippodrome, Aug. 15.

A Prairie Wooing, playlet, by Ivan Patrick Gore; Grand Hall, Forest Gate, Aug. 15.

The Wow-Wows, by Fred Karno and Herbert Sidney; Euston, Aug. 15.

The Girl from Yonkers, American duologue; Palace Theatre, Aug. 15.

Ship Ahoy! comedy nautical playlet; Standard, Pimlico, Aug. 15.

A Green Room Match, sketch, by Herbert Shelley; Chelsea Palace, Aug. 15.

Her Guardian Angel, sketch, by Alicia Ramsey; Empress, Brixton, Aug. 15.

The Touch of the Child, play, in one act, dramatised by Leon M. Lion from Tom Gallon's story of the same name; Holborn Empire, Aug. 15.

A Lesson in Rinking, sketch, by Lewis T. Dalrymple; Public Hall, Birchington-on-Sea, Aug. 15.

Poor Auntie, farcical comedy sketch, by Victor Rolfe; Peckham Hippodrome, Aug. 22.

The Third Degree, duologue; London Pavilion, Aug. 22.

The Robbery of the Mail, dramatic sketch, in three scenes, by Arthur Rose; Bow Palace, Aug. 22.

The Model and the Man, musical sketch, by Seymour Hicks, music by Frank E. Tours, lyrics by C. H. Bovill; London Hippodrome, Aug. 22.

Nanon Lafarge, dramatic sketch, by George R. Sims; Metropolitan, Aug. 22.

The Yellow Birds, a further episode in the life of "Dare-Devil Dripping," by Fred Moule and E. D. Nicholls; Bow Palace, Aug. 22.

A Bath Cure, playlet, by Arthur Falkland; Holborn, Aug. 22.

The Tenor and the Maid, operatic burlesque, by Robert Cunningham; Granville, Walham Green, Aug. 22.

Confusion, farce, by Joseph Derrick; Hulme Hippodrome, Manchester, Aug. 22.

The Third Degree, play, in one act, by Harry M. Vernon; Palace, Manchester, Aug. 22.

A Woman's Revolt, play, in one act, by W. L. Courtney; Palace Theatre, Aug. 29.

The First Night, burlesque, in three scenes, by Tom E. Conover; Camberwell Empire, Aug. 29.

The King's Reserve, military scena, written and composed by Will Godwin; Empress, Brixton, Aug. 29.

Magna Charta, historical dramatic interlude; Poplar Hippodrome, Aug. 29.

The Wily Widow, comedy sketch; Metropolitan, Aug. 29.

Parker's Progress, absurdity, by Charles Ridgwell and Charles Austin; Shoreditch Olympia, Aug. 29.

American Vaudeville Artists in England.

AMERICANS IN ENGLAND AND ELSEWHERE.

[By Americus.]

Gone to Continent.
The Five Mowatts left for the Continent last Tuesday, to open on Thursday in Dresden. They are booked for close on to a year on the other side of the Channel, but will return here to fulfil some engagements next summer.

Herman at Brighton.
I had the pleasure of meeting the Quaker City manager, Mr. Herman, who is the managing-director of the Theatre Royal, Brighton. Mr. Herman says he may go back to Philadelphia to see how the old town looks some time next summer. "You see," says Mr. Herman, "I have been in England so long now, and I am so well settled here, that it is hard for me to think of the land of the free just yet awhile. I suppose I will stay here until the curtain rings down for the finale of my career in the show business." Manager Herman has been in England for many years, and is booking some of the best London productions at his Theatre Royal. Our Miss Gibbs was the attraction last week, and the place was packed at every performance.

Miss Herron Doing Fine.
Miss Bertie Herron, known all over the American continent as "the Minstrel Miss," is now making a tour of the Stoll houses. She was at the Empire, Glasgow, last week, and from reports made a splendid success right from the start. Miss Herron will return to America some time in the spring, after her English time is all played.

Going Strong.
The clever Hebrew comedians, Gilday and Fox, have made more than good over on this side, and are now a big attraction on every bill they play on. They are at the Paragon this week, and, as usual, going great. Their funny parody singing gets the crowd, and there was not much applause left after they had finished their turn on Thursday night.

Russell and Held at Bedford.
Russell and Held are topping the bill at the Bedford Music Hall this week, and Russell tells me that, from the way the audiences appreciate their efforts at every performance, the couple must be creating some talk in that district. Which means big business.

Leeds Applauded Jolson.
Harry Jolson was some success at Leeds Empire Palace this week. They not only appreciated his comedy, but his voice rang out through the auditorium in melodies that were sweet to the ear, and it looked as though he would have to make his usual speech.

American Acts Galore at Glasgow.
With Willie Pantzer, the Doherty Sisters, Herbert Loyd, the patrons of the Glasgow Empire are seeing a pretty much American programme this week. All acts, according to Willie, are doing fine, and great houses.

Cyclists at Leicester.
The Palace Theatre, Leicester, have the famous Jackson Family of expert cyclists. The act has proved a huge success right along throughout the Stoll tour, and is being greatly appreciated.

Mabel Berra Next Week.
The Palace, Manchester, will have the pleasure of hearing a very clever artist in Miss Mabel Berra, the talented American singer, who will make her first appearance at the Palace, Manchester, next week. Miss Berra was booked by Will Collins, of the Broadmead house, Leicester-square.

Great Lafayette Coming Back.
Will Collins advised me that he had placed the Great Lafayette for a number of weeks here in England, and that he would return as soon as his Continental engagements were finished to play the Stoll tour.

"Back from Reno" Coming.
Jack McAuliffe, the former champion lightweight boxer of the world, is a full-fledged actor, and has been so for some time. Jack has a clever offering in the shape of a monologue which he has been presenting in America, Called Back from Reno, which has been a big winner for the former champion, and which he wishes to bring over to London. Will Collins will arrange the time.

Keene and Adams.
This clever American team opened at Swansea on the Stoll tour on Monday, and met with good success. The team have been booked for many weeks by Will Collins, of the Broadmead house.

Still Doing Great.
S. and G. Auer, who are doing splendid in the Syndicate halls, are anchored over for some time. They are pretty well booked ahead, and have become quite English since their long sojourn on this side. Both can say "Fawncy" nicely now.

Dancing at the Palace.
The Six American dancers are going great guns at the Palace, and their clever work is well appreciated by the patrons of this select variety house.

Guyer and Valle.
The originator of the beer-keg revelry, Billy Guyer, which was such a good success in many musical comedy shows in America, and which was afterwards put into vaudeville, is playing at South Shields Empire this week, and meeting with splendid appreciation.

"American Musician."
The American Musician is now devoting many columns to variety turns and performers of all classes. New York is well supplied with amusement journals now. The new Musician looks like a winner from the start, with its pretty cover and many pages of good live news.

Alf Reeves.
Alf. Reeves, who is manager of Fred Karno's American company, Jimmy Fearless, is at the Empire, Bradford, this week, and Alf says it's a corking, jolly good show. Mr. Reeves is one of the big boys in the White Rat organisation in America, and is the 29th past the 1,000 mark, there being over 3,000 now.

Bert Coote Coming into London.
Bert Coote will open at the Hippodrome on Monday in his laughing sketch A Lamb on Wall-street. The American papers have Bert opening at the Colonial Theatre, New York, next week. Bert says, "I don't see how I will make it, unless I take a flying machine across the sea."

Mr. Butt in Paris.
In fact no one can just tell where Mr. Butt is "all the time," although they might guess where he is "part of the time." The manager of the Palace is in Paris this week, and may be down some place in the southern part of Spain to-day. You have all heard the song "Father brings home something every day." So it is with Manager Butt, who it's dollars to cents will bring home some big novelties for the Palace bill. He makes these jumps now and then. The last jump he made was to bring back to the Palace the Russian dancers Pavlova and Mordkin.

Montgomery and Moore back.
The Coliseum will see the two vaudevillians again next week, and will have an opportunity to hear Miss Moore spring some fast talk.

Six Americans for Australia.
Miss Lovenburg, of the Six American Dancers, told me that the act had been booked for Australia, and would sail from London about Nov. 12 on the Orient line. Another good act for Mr. H. R.

Harry Jolson also.
The Coliseum has a pretty well-balanced American bill next week. In addition to the other American acts Harry Jolson will lend his hand towards entertaining the patrons of this beautiful house.

Lottie Bellman.
The clever comedienne Lottie Bellman was one star act at the Hippodrome, Brighton, during the week. Miss Bellman is assisted by Mr. Bay Russell, and from the amount of applause the act was one continuous hit all during the week. Miss Bellman still features her original style of graceful dancing, and the finish of the act shows a whirlwind coster dance which brings the audience to their feet every time.

Manager Brown's Funny Number Men.
The management of the Hippodrome, Brighton, always has something to amuse the audience, even for a second between the acts. The two card men do a funny turn by running in a comical way from the middle to the ends in placing the cards. They do a little racing stunt. One has the resemblance of an American, while the other shows clearly that he is from Yorkshire, and, as usual, the Yorkshire fellow wins and the patrons yell with laughter. It is a novel addition to a vaudeville bill, and leaves the audience in splendid mood for the opening of the next act.

Mr. Snyder here.
Bud Snyder, the cyclist, came in from South America during the week, and will sail for America in a short time.

Nick Kaufman for London.
I had a talk with Nick Kaufman the other night, and he says: "I am going to buy a home right on the outskirts of London and make this my future home. There is no question but what London is the place for me. I like it here, and it is the place for a man that has so many troupes. He is in a position to handle them so much better." Kaufman has his cycle troupe at the Palace, and they are doing great. The girls look pretty, and their work is exceptionally artistic, while the solo rider Wally Kaufman is one of the top notchers in the trick riding game, and is applauded throughout for his many good tricks.

La Belle Titcomb Next Week.
La Belle Titcomb will open at the Coliseum next Monday. The singer will use a few of her latest songs, and will sing them from the stage, and not from the beautiful white horse which she has gained so much prestige in America with. Miss Titcomb in place of the steed will show some of her latest creations in dress, and it is said that her gowns will be something beautiful in the way of fashion.

Miss Passpart at Brighton.
Miss Passpart is from Missouri, United States of America, and she has the English end of the Merian dogs act which played at the Hippodrome, Brighton, this week, and which goes to the Southsea house the coming week. Miss Passpart right from the start handled the act fine, and Mr. Merian, her uncle, left for the Continent on Tuesday to open at Dresden with the Continental end of the act, leaving her in full charge.

"Punch" and Nat Wills.
Nat Wills has been re-engaged at the Palace, and will be one of the leading attractions there for a few more weeks at least. It is quite funny how a "punch" or a knock sometimes gets an artist engagements. But Wills claims it does do it sometimes. But everyone is entitled to their opinion, says Nat. The American tramp comedian is a great big success here, and his parodies hand the patrons of the Palace many good laughs each night.

RINALDO.

WILLY PANTZER & CO.,
STOLL TOUR.

SPISSELL BROS. and MACK.
AMERICAN ECCENTRICS AND PANTOMIMISTS, IN A QUIET LITTLE SUPPER.
Aug. 29 to Sept. 24, TOWER, BLACKPOOL. A FEW VACANT DATES.

EMERSON and BALDWIN.
WINTER GARDENS, BLACKPOOL. Six Weeks.

SIX AMERICAN DANCERS.
at PALACE THEATRE, LONDON.

THOSE CLUB FELLOWS.
5 MOWATTS 5
DRESDEN, GERMANY.

HARRY JOLSON.
COLISEUM, LONDON.

S. and G. AUER.
LONDON SYNDICATE HALLS.

GILDAY and FOX.
Re-engaged for another Week, PARAGON.

NAT WILLS.
Re-engaged at PALACE, LONDON.

MISS MABEL BERRA,
PALACE, MANCHESTER.

SAM STERN. NOT AN INSTANTANEOUS SUCCESS, BUT GROWING POPULAR.
COLISEUM. Week Sept. 12.

RINKING GOSSIP.

Skating Carnival at Lowestoft.
An attractive fancy-dress carnival and an interesting series of sports took place at the Skating Rink, Lowestoft, on Thursday, the 25th ult. There was a big attendance of skaters and spectators, and an enjoyable programme was most satisfactorily carried out. There was a good sprinkling of fancy dresses amongst the many skaters, some of the costumes being of an up-to-date and well-designed character. A feature of the sports events was the championship two miles race, in which the rink mechanic, Mr. A. Spillings, defeated the Eastern Counties champion, Mr. C. Foulger, with a good deal more than his allowance (100 yds.) to spare. The fancy dress prize winners were:—Gent's character or original costume: 1, F. W. Mummery (Olden Days); 2, W. Clare (Chinaman). Ladies' character or original costume: 1, Miss Fredman (Telegraph Pole); 2, Miss Hayward (Orange Girl); 3, Miss Ida Page (Harvest Girl). Gent's comic costume: 1, G. Bagot (Nigger); 2, G. Forke (School Boy). Ladies' comic costume: 1, Miss Doris Rushmore (Dutchman).

American Roller Rink, Cardiff, Reopens.
It will be welcome news to many to learn that the American Roller Rink in Westgate-street, Cardiff, reopens this week. The rink will be under the able management of Mr. George Thomas, who has already proved himself an expert and genial supervisor. The space previously devoted to the café has been greatly enlarged, luxurious lounges have been provided, and for the future this department, which will be in charge of Mrs. Gray, of the Conservative Club, will have all the attractions of a high-class café. Old patrons of the rink will be glad to learn that Mr. Evans will again be in charge of the floor—an area, by the bye, of 1,800 square ft. (the largest rinking space outside London), and which has been thoroughly renovated. Bandmaster Matthews and his efficient colleagues will again be responsible for the music. The afternoon sessions will be from 2.30 to 6, and one of the additional attractions will be the facilities afforded for rink hockey.

Mr. W. H. Barringer's Benefit.
Mr. W. H. Barringer, the popular manager of the Olympic Rink, Littlehampton, takes his benefit on Friday, Sept. 9, under the patronage of the Duchess of Norfolk. Several of the leading skaters will give exhibitions during the evening.

Fancy Dress Carnival at West Stanley.
On Wednesday, the 24th ult., a highly successful fancy-dress carnival and confetti battle was held at the West Stanley Skating Rink, several valuable prizes being offered for various events. The prize-winners were:—For the gentleman with the largest bow, Mr. J. Biddy. Gent's advertising costume: Mr. J. Jackson as "Lifebuoy Soap." Most humorous costume: Mr. J. Nicholson as "Scarecrow." Best fancy dress: Mr. W. Robinson, "Indian Chief." Ladies' fancy dress: Miss Hall, the prize in this case being a week at Blackpool (railway fare to and from and board and lodging there). The lady with the largest hat: Miss Gray. Ladies' advertising costume: Miss Clarke, as "Edward's Harlene." Most original costume: Miss Robinson, "A Basket of Roses." The rink is now closed for a month, opening again in October.

Reading Rink Reopened.
The Central Skating Rink, West-street, was reopened for the season on Monday evening. Mr. Wood-Winstanley, who gained universal popularity last season by his courtesy and attention, has been retained as manager. Carnivals and other attractions are being arranged for, and the tearoom will again be a special feature of this popular rendezvous.

Derby Alexandra Rink Reopened.
After an interval of variety entertainment, broken only by a few days' skating interlude during Bank Holiday week, the management of the Derby Alexandra Skating Rink reopened their premises last week as a skating rink pure and simple for the ensuing season. The building has been completely renovated and now presents a most attractive appearance. The floor has been re-surfaced, and new and pleasing decorations have been utilised. The interior has been painted throughout in chocolate, blue, and white, whilst a special feature has been made of the café, where every arrangement has been made for the comfort and entertainment of visitors, who "rolled up" in full force last week. The managerial post is again admirably filled by Mr. W. H. Innes. There is an excellent band.

Monohan the Big Attraction.
To signalise the reopening the management engaged Mr. G. S. Monohan, whose performances amply justified his claim to distinction by the title of "the Great." He has been called the "American Wizard on Rollers," and this, again, is an apt description, for no tricks seem impossible to him. Some of his tricks are simply marvellous. His kettledrum trick, in which he accurately imitates the roll and beat of the kettledrum by tapping with his feet on the floor, is perfect. One of his most difficult feats is the barrel trick, in the course of which he balances himself on one foot on the barrel and uses the other to propel the barrel round the rink. Another wonderful feat is threading the maze, in which he has sixteen lighted candles on the floor, and skates in and out of them simply on his toes, causing scarcely a flicker of the lights. It is wonderful to see him jump over rows of chairs, and his imitation of an American express train, with bell, whistle, and the rattle of the wheels, is another brilliant effort. Monohan also gave an exhibition of fancy skating.

Carnival at Tynemouth Palace Rink.
A grand summer attire carnival took place at the Tynemouth Palace Skating Rink on Wednesday, the 24th ult., and proved to be a highly successful and enjoyable function. There was a good crowd of spectators, whilst a large number of skaters disported themselves merrily in summer attire upon the huge and commodious rink. A selection of valuable prizes were presented by the judges, Councillor Harold Arnold and Mr. Brownhill, to the successful competitors in the interesting and most keen events, viz:—Two-step (partners), Miss Joyce (Gateshead) and Mr. Boocock (North Shields); promenade two-step (partners), Miss Stall (Jarrow) and Mr. R. Burdon (North Shields); barn dance (partners), Miss M. Gitterman (Newcastle) and Mr. Gillespie (Tynemouth); two-step (gentlemen only), Mr. R. Wallace (North Shields); waltzing (partners), Miss M. Gitterman and Mr. J. Boocock. Special prizes were awarded for the smartest couple on the rink, which were won by Miss E. Rutter (North Shields) and Mr. George Kyles (North Shields). The rink was delightfully illuminated with electric lights of various colours, whilst the floor and the Richardson skates were in perfect condition. The whole of the arrangements were admirably carried out by the ever-courteous rink manager, Mr. T. R. Knox, who is never-tiring in his zeal to make his patrons comfortable. A grand gymkhana is now being arranged to take place on the above rink on Sept. 21.

MUSIC HALL HOME.

ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING AND PRESENTATIONS

The annual general meeting of the Music Hall Home and presentations to those who had collected the largest amounts for The Era Shilling Fund in aid of this most deserving charity, was held at the Terriers' Headquarters, the Three Stags, Kennington-road, on Thursday afternoon, Mr. WALTER DE FRECE, the president of the Home, being in the chair. Amongst those present were Miss Vesta Tilley, Mrs. O'Brien, Mrs. Neiman, Mr. Harry Barnard, Mr. Fred Neiman, Mr. Jesse Sparrow, Mr. Ernest Giles, Mr. Arthur Were, Mr. C. Douglas Stuart, Mr. Horace Wheatley, Mr. Cecil Newman, Mr. Walter Norman, Mr. C. C. Manning, Mr. A. Simmons, Mr. S. N. Salter, Mr. Hans Droitz, Mr. H. de Frece, and Mr. E. Madden.

After the CHAIRMAN had called upon the Secretary to read the minutes of the last general meeting, which it was proposed and carried should be signed, and the annual report and balance-sheet had been approved and passed, he said:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—It affords me very great pleasure to preside at this, the annual meeting of the Music Hall Home, and to welcome, on behalf of the committee, the many sympathisers and friends of this deserving institution. I regret that during the time I have had the honour of being president of the Home I have not been able to attend as many of the committee meetings as I could wish, but it is exceedingly gratifying for me to voice the general feeling I am sure exists at this meeting, as to the value of the work done by the members of the committee, and to express to those gentlemen, and the officials, how very highly their endeavours are appreciated by those present, and the music hall profession in general.

While it is far from my intention to criticise any effort that may be made to alleviate the distress that in our profession, as in all others, must arise when the members of that profession reach old age, and have had little opportunity to provide for themselves and their dependents in that inevitable end, when your committee honoured me by their invitation to become President of the Music Hall Home, I was very glad to accept, principally to show my personal appreciation of the manner in which the finance of the Home has been attended to. As you know, all the gentlemen connected give their valuable time and assistance without payment, and through the courtesy of The Era and Mr. F. H. Pedgrift receive an enormous amount of free publicity, which cannot help but keep the good work being done well before those who should, and I am glad to say do, do something to keep the finances of the Home in a condition to proceed, even if the subscriptions, apart from The Era Shilling Fund, do not amount to what they should, taking into consideration how vitally the success of the Home affects the members of our profession.

I speak feelingly, for some years back I was chairman of the committee of the now defunct Music Hall Benevolent Fund, and I venture to say that had the same business acumen been displayed in the management of funds, finances, and affairs as is shown in connection with this Home, that Fund might still be doing useful work. One of the reasons for the failure of the old Fund was undoubtedly the expenses incurred in running the show, and I only make the comparison to further emphasise the economy which your committee are exercising in distributing the funds you entrust to their care, as shown by the published statement of accounts.

Another matter I wish to mention. As you all know, a scheme has been placed before the music hall profession, the promoters of which are anxious to revive, on a sound basis, the Benevolent Fund. I feel it would be a great pity if the parties interested lost sight of the fact that this Home is in existence, and is and has been for years doing a great and good work. It speaks more for the good hearts of the promoters of the scheme than for their grasp of existing conditions when they propose, with the assistance of the profession and their friends, to erect a commodious home for the accommodation of the aged of our profession. Bearing in mind how very little your committee are able to do, owing to the limited amount of money they receive from subscribers each year, bearing in mind that such an institution as is proposed will naturally be expensive to run, also that the paid official must of a certainty be brought in when such a home is completed, it appears to me that the profession would appreciate the amalgamation of the scheme, in so far as it refers to the erection of an expensive building, and the handing over of the funds already collected and the promises of further donations to this institution of ours, which has such a splendid record of good work, carried on at actual bare expense. I make this suggestion simply as an individual expression of opinion, feeling that it will best attain the object we have in view—the care of those of our profession who are unable to take care of themselves; and if it should prove acceptable to those concerned I shall be most happy to give all the financial assistance in my power and use my best endeavours to persuade those managers with whom I am associated to do likewise. In conclusion, I would like to pay a tribute to your late president. I feel sure his loss is a great blow to the Music Hall Home which time will only serve to intensify. His cheery presence and oft expressed sympathy with the objects of this Home will indeed be hard to replace.

Mr. DE FRECE then announced that the next business was the election of a president for the ensuing year, and it was proposed, seconded, and carried unanimously, that Mr. de Frece be again elected. In returning thanks, Mr. de Frece said he would do all in his power for the future of the Home. He then proposed the re-election of the vice-presidents and committee en bloc.

Mr. JESSE SPARROW said he thought that those who had omitted to make one attendance at the meetings—as some had done—should not be put up for re-election. He was making no reflections on these individuals, as many were away in the provinces and unable to attend, but in the circumstances it was, he thought, unwise to re-elect them.

Mr. NEIMAN remarked that although a committeeman did not put in an appearance at the meetings, he might still be doing much good work for the Home, looking after the collecting boxes, and in various other ways giving valuable assistance.

Eventually it was proposed and carried that the vice-presidents and committee be re-elected en bloc, subject to confirmation at a later meeting. Mr. Arthur Were, the hard-working secretary of the Terriers' Association, and Mr. Tom Branson, of Hastings, were also elected as vice-presidents.

MR. ARTHUR WERE returned thanks for his election, and promised to do all in his power for the Fund, and with the re-election of the hon. treasurer and hon. solicitor, Mr. Harry Barnard and Mr. G. P. R. Burgess, the business portion of the meeting terminated.

PRESENTATIONS FOR THE LARGEST COLLECTIONS

FOR "THE ERA" SHILLING FUND.

Under the stimulating influence of Miss Vesta Tilley and Miss Kitty Colyer, aided by many kind-hearted friends of the profession, The Era Shilling Fund this year reached the record, £372 14s. 6d. being the total amount collected.

In making the presentation of The Era gold medal and chain to the collector of the largest amount—Miss Vesta Tilley, who was responsible for the handsome sum of £100—Mr. HARRY BARNARD said it was a very pleasing duty and privilege he had to perform. When the committee sent a letter to Miss Tilley asking her to be their Fairy Godmother they all prayed that she would give her consent. She was one of the first ladies in the land for the Home, and in handing her the medal he wished her every prosperity and long life to enjoy it. They were all very grateful to her for her efforts on behalf of the Fund and the splendid result she had achieved.

Miss TILLEY, in returning thanks, said what a very great pleasure it was to her to be of service to the Fund. She was proud to beat the record, and hoped that next year she would be able to collect an even larger amount.

Mr. WALTER DE FRECE then referred to the splendid collection of another lady who was responsible for a large amount—Miss Kitty Colyer, who collected £63 13s. The ladies, he said, always came out with flying colours. He hoped that next year she would top the list, for the benefit of the Home and all concerned. On behalf of the committee he had much pleasure in handing to her deputy, in her absence, a handsome gold medal.

[Photo by Bacon.

MISS VESTA TILLEY.

Presentations were also made of framed certificates signed by the president, vice-president, &c., returning thanks for the great interest they had taken in the Home and its welfare and so zealously using their endeavours to add to its funds, to the following: Mrs. O'Brien, My Fancy, Gus Elen, Harry Conlin, Ted E. Box, Ernest Lepard, Walter Hassan, Ted and May Hopkins, Dick Tubb, Roy Cochrane, Beresford Hope, George Gulliver, Fred Alexander, and Walter de Frece.

Mrs. O'BRIEN said what a great pleasure it had been to her to work for the Fund and how interested she was in its good work. She had pleasure in presenting to the Fund a pair of pictures, by Stanley Berkeley, "Athara" and "Omdurman." They could be sold or otherwise disposed of in the best way to benefit the Home.

Mr. DE FRECE thanked Mrs. O'Brien for her generous gift, and certificates were then presented to Mr. Fred Neiman and Mr. Walter de Frece.

Mr. DE FRECE then proposed a vote of thanks to the subscribers, mentioning The Era, which had always thrown open its columns to give publicity to the Home and its work in connection with the Shilling Fund, and Mr. F. H. Pedgrift, to whom they were very, very grateful for all his good work. Mr. Gus Elen, who so kindly added one shilling to every collecting card, they must also thank.

Votes of thanks to the president, Mr. Harry Barnard, the committee and vice-presidents, the Press, and Mr. Ben Woodger, the secretary, concluded the proceedings.

The Era medal, which is in circular form, and surrounded by a laurel wreath worked in gold, bore on one side the following inscription:—

MUSIC HALL HOME SHILLING FUND.
Presented by
THE ERA
To MISS VESTA TILLEY
For collecting the largest amount
For the Home,
This year, 1910.

The other side bore the words,
"The greatest of these is Charity."

THE ANNUAL REPORT.

The Music Hall Home (founded 1896), 31, Wilson-road, Camberwell, London, S.E.

President: Walter de Frece, Esq. Vice-Presidents: Harry Barnard, Harry Bawn, Leon Bassett, W. S. Bassett, Ted E. Box; G. P. R. Burgess, Jas. E. Dunedin, Percy Ford, Harry Gage, Walter Hassan, Fred Neiman, F. H. Pedgrift, C. J. Bartlett Perry, Jesse Sparrow, C. Douglas Stuart, Chas. Weldon, Douglas White. Treasurer: Harry Barnard. Hon. Solicitor: G. P. R. Burgess.

OBJECTS OF THE HOME.

To afford shelter to deserving members of the variety profession who have been stricken with poverty or illness in their declining years, or who have in other ways fallen on evil times. The Home has for several years been largely supported by those who contribute to The Era New Year Shilling Fund, which is organised and carried on by Mr. F. H. Pedgrift, of The Era.

The committee have the pleasure to present the annual report and balance-sheet of the Music Hall Home for the year ending April 30, 1910.

It is gratifying to note that the financial position of the Home is a very satisfactory one, thanks to the continued generosity of its supporters.

During the past year the committee have been able to maintain in comfortable circumstances ten or twelve necessitous and aged members of the variety profession.

Great interest continues to be taken in the welfare of the Home, and it is hoped that through the future liberality of generous donors the committee will be in a position to extend their aid to other equally deserving artists who are in need of some haven of refuge such as the Home affords.

The committee desire to place on record their grateful appreciation of the generous support rendered by the following subscribers:—

Mr. F. H. Pedgrift (The Era), Miss Vesta Tilley (whose untiring energy has resulted in a record collection for The Era Fund, the President, Mr. Walter de Frece, Miss Kitty Colyer, Mr. Harry Day, Mr. H. C. Arnold and the Committee of the Liverpool Theatre Gala, Messrs. H. and M. Raynes (profits upon the sale of their Little Date Book), the M.H.A.R.A., the V.A. Benevolent Fund, Mr. Joe Elvin, Mr. Ted E. Box, Mr. Ernest Lepard, Mr. Roy Cochrane, Mrs. O'Brien (Rules), Mr. Jack Woolf, Mr. Arthur R. Welchman (Hon. Auditor), and Mr. Gus Elen, for so kindly adding the sum of one shilling to every collecting card.

They also desire to express their gratitude to numerous other ladies and gentlemen for their kindness in presenting the Home with parcels of clothes, books, fruit, tobacco, &c., such gifts being always very acceptable.

HARRY BARNARD (Chairman).

Committee meetings are held at the Three Stags Hotel, Kennington-road, first and third Thursdays in the month, at twelve o'clock noon.

Matron: Mrs. J. J. Fruin. Secretary: Benj. Woodger.

STATEMENT OF ACCOUNTS FOR THE YEAR ENDING APRIL 30, 1910.

EXPENDITURE.

	£ s. d.	£ s. d.
To Housekeeping, including Rent	299 6 10
,, Laundry	1 4 0
,, Linen	1 4 0
,, Printing and Stationery	6 7 9
,, Advertising	19 13 6
,, Postages and Telegrams	7 0 5½
,, Insurance	0 12 9
,, Travelling and Miscellaneous Expenses	6 15 7½
,, Collecting Boxes	1 10 0
,, Interest and Commission	0 4 8
,, Bank Charges	0 5 0
,, Salaries (Secretary and Assistant)	55 13 0
,, Balance, being excess of Income over Expenditure for the year ending April 30, 1910	168 9 5
		£578 7 0

INCOME.

	£ s. d.	£ s. d.
By Donations—
,, The Era Shilling Fund, 1908-9	257 8 3
,, The Era Shilling Fund, on account of 1909-10	100 0 0
,, H. and M. Raynes (Little Date Book), per F. H. Pedgrift, Esq., The Era	11 16 0
,, Terriers' River Outing, per Berry Hope	1 15 8½
,, Liverpool Theatrical Gala, per H. C. Arnold	40 0 0
,, Music Hall Artists' Railway Association	25 0 0
,, Variety Artists' Benevolent Fund	21 15 0
,, Birmingham Charity Sports	5 0 0
,, The Encore, Ltd.	0 10 6
,, Jack Woolf, Wonderland	4 2 0
,, Atlas and Vulcana	1 1 0

,, "Dekarro"	2 17 0
,, Percy Williams	3 0 0
,, Nat Emmett	0 10 0
,, Hasberry and Harman	1 2 0
,, H. Wheatley (late Era cards)	0 9 0
,, E. Mayne (late Era cards)	0 6 0
,, Cole and Rags (late Era cards)	0 7 0
,, Milner Trio (late Era cards)	0 6 0
,, C. C. Mannering	1 1 0
,, Bob Gates	1 2 0
,, "Athol"	1 2 0
,, Beattie	0 15 0
,, Edwin Barwick	0 5 0
,, The Dayton Family	0 5 0
,, George Weldon, Hippodrome, Dewsbury	0 3 0
,, Austin Rudd	0 5 0
,, Box Collections	92 17 6½
		575 1 0
,, Interest on Deposit		3 6 0
		£578 7 0

BALANCE SHEET.

LIABILITIES.

	£ s. d.	£ s. d.
Balance as at April 30, 1909	74 2 10
Balance, being excess of Income over Expenditure for the year ending April 30, 1910	168 9 5
		242 12 3
		£242 12 3

ASSETS.

	£ s. d.	£ s. d.
Cash at Bank—
On Deposit Account	200 0 0
,, Current do.	38 18 7
		238 18 7
Cash in Hand		3 16 8
		£242 12 3

I have examined the above Income and Expenditure Account, with the books and vouchers of the Home, and certify same to show the true and correct position at the above date, Aug. 8, 1910.

ARTHUR R. WELCHMAN, A.C.A.,
Chartered Accountant.
9, Old Jewry Chambers, E.C.

BOX COLLECTIONS.

From 1st May, 1909, to 30th April, 1910.

	£ s. d.
Ernest Lepard, Canterbury Music Hall, London	10 7 6
Mrs. W. O'Brien, "Rules," Maiden Lane	7 11 3
Vivian Evans' Empire Palace Co., Wolverhampton	5 14 2
Samuel Lloyd, Pavilion Theatre, Glasgow	5 4 6
Empire, Swansea (per Ted E. Box), P. C. Rowe	4 16 0
Percy Ford, Empire, Camberwell	3 18 4
Roy Cochrane, Surrey Theatre, London	3 18 7½
"Regent," Salford (per Fred Neiman), H. Raymond	3 14 0
Nelson Barry (per A. Trussell), Hippodrome, Manchester	3 11 0
George Manners, Empire, Liverpool	3 3 8
T. H. Dunford, Hippodrome, Leeds	3 3 0
George Weldon, Hippodrome, Dewsbury	3 2 0
Percival Craig, Empire Theatre, Bradford	3 1 0
Harry Bawn (per Fred Alexander), Empire, Edmonton	2 13 5
Nelson Francis, "Empress," Brixton	2 10 0
Walter Hassan, Royal Hippodrome, Liverpool	2 10 0
A. H. Burdett, Hippodrome, Boscombe	2 1 8
H. Yardley, Hippodrome, Southampton	1 16 0
H. C. Arnold, Lyric Theatre, Liverpool	1 15 5
R. W. Duce, Granville, Walham Green	1 14 0
Arthur Burton (per Will A. Jackson), Palace and Hippodrome, Cardiff	1 12 6
Geo. H. Marsh, Empire Palace Theatre, Dublin	1 5 8
Mr. A. W. Deer, Palace, Camberwell	1 2 4
Miss L. Bayliss, Victoria Hall, Waterloo Road	1 1 0
C. Finch-Hatton (per Ted E. Box), Palace, Leicester	1 0 6
"Joiners' Arms" (F. H. Kohler), Denmark Hill	0 17 6
W. H. Boardman, Pavilion, Newcastle-on-Tyne	0 17 0
H. Slingsby, Empire Theatre, Hull	0 16 6
Lewis de Burgh, Hippodrome, Southend	0 15 3
Rosalyn Stuart, Brixton-road	0 14 0
P. Draco, Palace, Reading	0 13 6
R. Davy, "Tower," New Brighton	0 13 0
Arthur Burton, Hippodrome, Stoke	0 12 0
Walter Norman, King's Theatre, Gainsborough	0 12 0
David Hart (variety agent), Brixton Road	0 10 6
Roberts, Seyd, and Co. (per Alfred Appleyard), Regent-street, London	0 9 6
Capt. Slingsby, M.H.A.R. Asso. Office, Manchester	0 9 0
Ernest Dottridge, Empire, Oldham	0 9 0
Arthur R. Harrison, Hippodrome, Bolton	0 8 6
A. J. Carter, Palace of Varieties, Manchester	0 6 0
Chas. M. Jones, Tivoli, Dublin	0 5 4
Mr. Hughes, "Artichoke," Peckham-road	0 5 3
Alex. Galley, Empire Palace, Leeds	0 4 6
Sam Jones, City of Varieties, Leeds	0 4 0
"Athenæum," Camberwell New-road	9 2 7½
"Equestrian," Blackfriars-road	0 2 6
H. Wood, Tivoli Hotel, Barrow-in-Furness	0 2 6
Mrs. Ebdon, "Tankard," Kennington-road	0 1 0
Other amounts	0 0 6½
	£92 17 6½

THE SMETHWICK EMPIRE.

Smethwick has yet another place of amusement. Messrs. G. Bowden and Sons, Cape Hill, Smethwick, are the architects who have prepared the plans of the new Empire, and Messrs. J. Dallow and Sons, Blackheath, are the contractors.

Situated in St. Paul's-road, at the corner of St. Alban's-road, the house provides a striking architectural feature. It is an imposing structure, built to hold about 1,500 people. The elevation to St. Paul's-road is carried out in the free Renaissance style of architecture, and is in red brick, with stone enrichments. The frontage to this road is 72ft., while the building in its principal features is about 40ft. high. There is a frontage to St. Alban's-road of about 100ft., and on this side are entrances to the stalls and emergency exits from the pit.

There are the usual parts to the house, the pit (which it is proposed shall accommodate over 700), the stalls, the circle, private boxes, and the gallery. There is admirable provision for dressing rooms and artists' apartments. The stage is capacious, and suitable for all forms of amusement, while the orchestra provides accommodation for a full band of performers. Provision is made for very convenient seating accommodation in all parts of the auditorium. The house is brilliantly lighted with electricity, and is heated with hot-air radiators.

It is interesting to note that the Empire has been designed to comply with the regulations contained in the Cinematograph Act of 1909, which provides especially for the safety of the public. The conditions laid down are particularly stringent, but the architects have been materially assisted in this matter from the fact that the building is situated at the corner of two roads, this offering exceptional facilities for meeting those emergencies which a somewhat drastic Act was framed to meet. The promoters feel that there has been a demand for a hall of this character in Smethwick, and judging from the success which has attended similar enterprises in other towns, they have done well to strike out in this line in the borough.

line in the borough. The character of the entertainments will be along entirely new lines, so far as Smethwick is concerned, so that the present institutions will not come into direct competition with it. They will take the form of a cinematograph entertainment with a number of variety turns.

The proprietors are Messrs. Kennedy and Adams. Mr. B. Kennedy (who will be the managing director) has won a high reputation in connection with similar undertakings in Birmingham—at the King's Hall and the Queen's Hall—and in other Midland towns. Mr. W. H. Adams will be the secretary. They have spared neither trouble or expense in making it one of the most up-to-date places of amusement in the Midlands.

The opening performance takes place on Monday next, Sept. 5, and the Mayor, Aldermen, Councillors, and other prominent persons have promised their patronage.

STAFF OUTING OF THE EMPIRE, NEWPORT.

BOTTOM ROW (left to right):—Mr. and Mrs. Hulin, Mrs. Charles, Mr. W. Welton, Mrs. Welton, Mrs. Linton, Mr. J. Linton (stage-manager), Mr. C. Bye (conductor), Mr. Percy Wilde (assistant-manager), Mrs. Bye.
SECOND ROW.—Mrs. and Mr. Hilman, Mr. and Mrs. Renouf, C. Leach, Mrs. and Mr. Webb, Mrs. and Mr. Nott, Mr. J. O. Neil, and Chas. Warrington.
THIRD ROW.—Mrs. Oakley, Mrs. May, Messrs. Davis, Beer, Phillips, Marney, Twigg, Harvey, Davis, Cromwell, Wright, Desmond.
TOP ROW.—Messrs. Gay, May, Oakedene, M. Jones, Cynon, Langdon, Packer, Newton, Lester, Richardson.

Brilliant weather favoured the Newport (Mon.) Empire staff on the occasion of their annual outing on the 21st ult., the rendezvous being Porthcawl. Accompanying the party, which numbered over forty, were Mr. Percy Wilde (assistant-manager), Mr. Charles Bye, Mr. John Linton, and Mr. William Beer. Luncheon being over, Mr. Percy Wilde, in responding to the toast of "The Management," regretted the unavoidable absence of their genial manager, Major Gallagher, who was prevented from making the journey through the illness of his daughter. He had, however, instructed Mr. Wilde to thank the staff for the excellent manner in which they had performed their duties. Mr. Charles Bye (orchestra conductor) toasted "The Firm," and Mr. John Linton, in responding, spoke of the generous manner in which the firm had supported their annual outing. He thought the local staff were greatly indebted to Mr. Gordon for making the excellent train arrangements. A hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mr. John Linton, who was responsible for the other arrangements in connection with the trip. Tea over, and a photograph of the group having been taken, the party entrained, reaching Newport about 9.30 p.m., the general opinion being that it was one of the finest outings ever indulged in by the staff.

THE London Choral Society includes in its prospectus for the forthcoming season two new works for chorus and orchestra by Miss Ethel Smyth, and also two short cantatas by Mr. Bertram Shapleigh. It is intended to repeat Mr. Granville Bantock's "Omar Khayyam" (Parts 2 and 3), and Verdi's Requiem is also announced for performance, as well as Parts 1 and 2 of Coleridge-Taylor's "Hiawatha."

THE SHOWMAN WORLD

Proposed Abolition of Haslemere Fair.

The Home Secretary gives notice in the London Gazette that a representation has been made to him by the Rural District Council of Hambledon to the effect that it would be for the convenience and advantage of the public that the fair, which has been held annually at Haslemere, Surrey, should be abolished.

The Secretary of State will consider such representation on Sept. 26 next, and any person who may desire to object to the abolition of the fair should intimate his objections to the Secretary of State before that day.

It will be seen that there is (under the Abolition of Fairs Act) ample time for the traders and entertainers frequenting this fair to state their objections to its proposed abolition. Members of the Showmen's Guild attending Haslemere Fair are requested to communicate at once with the Guild secretary at this office.

The Rev. H. Norburn on Shows and Showmen.

One of the first hon. local Chaplains and earnest colleagues of the senior Guild Chaplain has the following interesting appreciation of the showman's work and worth in his Parish Magazine for September. Mr. Norburn is rector of St. Agnes' Church, Longsight, Manchester, and in his populous suburban parish one of the best fairs in the Manchester circuit takes place every year. Speaking of the wakes, he says:—

"Once again we have had the annual fair or, as we in Lancashire name it, 'The Wakes.' On account of the restricted area of unoccupied land, this year some of the roundabouts were placed near the Crown Inn, bringing a great crowd of people once more into the main street, Stockport-road. The time was when these van-dwellers were considered a nuisance, and the employees no better than gipsies or tramps. But things have changed greatly of late years. The van-dwellers are now regarded as fellow-Christians, attending to the lighter and merrier side of poor human nature. As some men toil in the dark mine for us, and some labour in the cotton mill to bedeck our noble bodies, and other feed our hungry minds with books or newspapers, &c., so these merry mortals provide a laugh, excite our sense of wonder, puzzle our brain with mystery or miracle, and attract the self-forgetting interest of crowds of their fellow-men. We must have change; our dull days of toil must have relaxation; and our jaded spirits must be lightened with harmless mirth.

"But the rector of a parish, while he shares in the diversions of his people, never forgets that for the week of their visit he has something extra to care for, viz., their souls, and these parishioners of a few days have claims upon him.

"Fortunately, as for many years past, the van-dwellers' kindly Chaplain came to our help and preached at St. Agnes's on the Sunday morning a very able and inspiring sermon from the epistle for the day, on "Differences of administration, but the same Spirit." We were all glad to have him again with us. After the evening service, upon the invitation of the rector, many of the congregation, including the choir and organist, assembled in a large tent provided by the wakes people, and a beautiful helpful service was held by the Rev. Thomas Horne, assisted by the rector. Much interest was shown by the employees and much help given by them in making the arrangements, and gratitude was shown in many ways that they were recognised by the Church as her children. Since, at Mr. Horne's request, the rector became honorary chaplain over fifty other clergymen in different centres have been added as chaplains. Friends, therefore, are at hand in any part of the country wherever the fair may be held."

Speaking of the Report of the Committee of the House of Lords on the Movable Dwellings Bill, Mr. Norburn makes the following wise observation:—

"Never did the influence of our National Church show itself in more unmistakable terms. The recognition by the clergy of their duty to care for these occasional parishioners has slowly changed the status of the van-dwellers, and caused the people in authority to agree to give them fair play to ply their trade and get their honest living.

"The Committee of the House of Lords finds that no restrictions are required for the 4,000 vans and 12,000 van-dwellers. They say the trade is perfectly honest and respectable, and its members well-to-do, and in some cases even thriving. The evidence, they say, is that the van-dwellers are healthier than the average, infectious diseases rare among them, and scarcely ever traced to them. 'The policy of driving them off the face of the earth does not commend itself to the Committee.'

"The Committee was, on the whole, against registration (as in the case of motor-cars) for vans and tents. It points out that most gipsies already evade the order to have name-plates on their carts by carrying spare name-plates which can be changed as required. Further, it would be absurd to register a piece of tarpaulin on a couple of sticks. 'Conditions of cubic space applied to shelters which check the free air of heaven almost as little as does an umbrella are,' says the report, 'altogether incongruous.'

"We must give the credit of this favourable report to the labour, evidence, and special knowledge of the Rev. Thomas Horne, the well-known and able Chaplain of the Showmen's Guild. With him we must join the loving labours of the fifty clergymen in various parts of England, who have turned the minds of the best people in England towards an endeavour to raise the poor showmen in the social scale and touch them by religious influence. This great change in the public estimation began sixteen years ago in Longsight by the co-operation of our rector with the Guild Chaplain, both of whom have been spared to witness this great change in the public mind towards the itinerant showmen, who themselves have responded in better lives. However poor, they are men and brethren, and have rights and privileges like all good citizens."

Oldham Wakes.

This famous centre of the cotton trade industry held its annual wakes on the historic Tommyfield the Corporation fairground, where the greater part of the shows and machines were located, and on Mr. William Holmes's fairground, adjoining the Corporation ground. The leading shows were those of Colonel Claske's exors. the famous palace of picture and light, Captain Tom Payne with coliseum and bioscope, George Proctor with London circus, and John Collins with haunted castle. The machines were those of Messrs. Wm. Mitchell, B. Mitchell, W. Mitchell, jun., John Collins, John Green, P. Collins, J. Geoghegan, Wm. Holmes, and Helm. The novelty of the fair was John Collins fun wheel. The shooting concerns were those of Messrs. George Cornwell, Jewell, Addi, and Hughes and Martin; juvenile sets of horses and cars by Messrs. S. Mellor and J. Thwaite; overboats by Platt Bros.; and houp-las, throwing games, and stalls by White Bros., Brennan, Culver, Ling, E. Boss, S. Mercer, Harrington Bros., Doran, and many others.

THE NEW MOVEABLE DWELLINGS BILL.

As announced in our last issue, an important meeting of the representatives of the trade societies in showland took place at Oldham on Tuesday, Aug. 30. The meeting followed immediately after the Roundabout Proprietors and Showmen's Union had finished their business. Mr. T. Hurst, hon. secretary of the Guild and general secretary of the Union, was unanimously voted to the Chair. Amongst those at the meeting were Messrs. Wm. Mitchell, J. H. Geoghegan, George Proctor, S. Mellor, Frank Mellor, Wm. Mitchell, jun., John Green, John Collins, George Cornwell, and others. Messrs. Whattam, Thornley, and Orton, representing the allied trades and professions. The object of the meeting was to consider the Report of the Select Committee of the House of Lords and the Amended Bill as reported to Parliament. The Chairman, Mr. Hurst, went straight to the heart of the matter in his opening speech. In his characteristically direct manner, he said, we don't want to be in the Bill at all. The exemption clauses to safeguard showmen are good in their way; but why, he asked, are exemption clauses needed? As a body we have received justice in the Report. Why trouble about us in the Bill?

If the measure be as its makers say it is, a Gipsy Encampment Bill, why not clear away all doubts by saying so? Let the promoters of all such legislation make out clearly who they are dealing with. Nothing short of that would satisfy him. Their chaplain, Mr. Horne, would deal fully with the Bill, and move a resolution.

The Guild Chaplain's View of the Bill.

With regard to future action, Mr. Horne said that his view was identical with that of the Chairman. Short of a clearly-worded permissive character of the Bill. It was a consolation to know that very few counties would be likely to put it into force. In the crowded industrial areas where the showman found his best market the local authorities hardly suffered at all from the gipsy trouble. These counties were not likely to purchase valuable sites for gipsy encampments, and unless such camping-grounds were provided the whole Act was inoperative. There were other elements to be considered at the present time. The question of the Lords Veto overshadowed Parliament; the chances of any contentious legislation passing both Houses were extremely problematical. All opposed legislation would be hung up until the deadlock now existing had been removed. He had little doubt that any reasonable amendment on their part would be accepted by the promoters of the new Bill. Anyhow, they would formulate such necessary amendments and test the genuine desire of Lord Clifford and his friends as to whether they intend to carry out the intention of their own report, and entirely clear showpeople using moveable dwellings from its scope and power. If the present Bill is to go through, it must be amended along the lines this meeting and others to follow at all the great centres of show-life indicate. In Clause 1 it must say that it refers to encampments of vandwellers other than showmen. Clause 2 must ensure that bye-laws, before official confirmation at the Local Government Board, shall be duly notified in the London Gazette. Clause 3 must exempt show-van and showmen from the penal clauses of the Act. If the Select Committee of the House of Lords had sought expert advice as well as expert evidence, the Guild would have assisted them in the drafting of a Bill that would have safeguarded the showman's interest, and still left the Bill an effective instrument for its obvious purpose. He had every confidence that Parliament would exemption clause making it impossible for local authorities to use the Act to penalise the show business, there could be neither justice nor safety for showpeople. He thought that the splendid vindication of show life in the Report ought to be acknowledged in the preamble of the Bill. He would suggest a more definite title. It ought to be named, "A Bill for providing camping-grounds for gipsies and squatters on common or waste lands." Clause 8 should read: "This Act does not apply to showmen, roundabout owners, and amusement caterers using moveable dwellings as part of their working plant." The Report of the Committee implies this concession. There is a similar clause applying to moveable dwellings used by the Crown. Why not showmen?

The Good Work of the Lords' Committee.

The Bill as it went before the Committee and the Bill that left it are two different things. This the Chaplain illustrated by showing a copy of the old Bill with all the clauses but one—Clause 5—blotted out. The old Bill was dead, and the new one was the strongest testimony to the soundness of their claim that no special or class legislation was necessary for show life. He pointed out that the present Bill had no chance whatever of passing until full justice was done to the travelling showman. As the Chairman had wisely said, there must be no doubt about it. It is a gipsy Bill; let it be clearly set out as such.

He had every confidence that, having proved their claim so fully as honest traders and entertainers, Parliament would take care that the ambiguous terms of the Bill were amended.

The Future Work of the Guild.

The Guild chaplain, in conclusion, drew attention to the limited nature and the adoptive or remedy the defects of the measure. Anyhow, the Guild, having taken the matter so far, would persevere to the end.

He moved the following resolution:—

"That this meeting of showmen and vandwellers located at Oldham Wakes on Aug. 30 resolves: That whilst recognising the valuable Report and amendments of the Moveable Dwellings Bill, it considers that it will need further amendments to set out clearly that it is a Gipsy Encampment Bill, and that, as in the terms of the Report, it does not apply to showpeople using moveable dwellings in the pursuit of their trade and business."

This was seconded by Mr. Mitchell, and passed unanimously.

The Rev. T. Horne, in answer to various questions, and after discussion, fully explained the Parliamentary procedure, the main point being that Parliament had still to discuss and to pass the Bill. The meeting terminated with the usual complimentary votes.

Carlisle's Great Fair.

Carlisle's "great fair" was held Tuesday, and the fact, according to ancient custom, was duly proclaimed at eight o'clock at the old cross in the Market Place by Mr. Webster, of the Town Clerk's office.

Rain came down in torrents at the time. The Mayor, in official robes, and accompanied by the sword and mace bearers, and the Mayoress were present. Owing to the inclement weather the ceremony was shorn of much of its usual public glory. The Pleasure Fair was attended by the principal borderland and Scottish showmen.

THE SHOWMEN'S GUILD IN SUFFOLK.

The Guild Chaplain, the Rev. T. Horne, had a very busy and successful week-end at Aldeburgh Fair amongst the Suffolk showpeople. The afternoon conference on Guild business and for the enrolment of members was one of the most successful and enthusiastic gatherings of the year. Everybody on the ground was present, men and women. Considering the fact that Aldeburgh is only a small fair, the enrolment of twenty-one members, many of them being new ones, is a gratifying result. Amongst those present in Thurston's show at the conference were: Messrs. John Barker (who presided), Wm. Barker, Stocks Brothers, Summer and Sons, Gray Brothers, T. Manning, Baldwin Smith, J. Osborne, R. Keeble, A. Holmes, W. Barker and Sons, F. Hawkes, J. Westrop, Parkin, F. H. Bossom, George Bugg, P. Tann, and others; Mesdames Barker, Bond, Manning, B. Smith, Gray, Keeble, Abbott, Hall, Wm. Barker, jun., Parkin, Chapman, Holmes, Summers, Osborne, Tann, and others.

There were also present a large number of the employees of the fair, the show being one-third full. The greatest interest and enthusiasm prevailed. A great deal of the success attending the opening-up of the Guild work in the diocese of Norwich is due to the unflagging enterprise of the hon. local secretary, Miss Anita Welton, of Farlingay Hall, Woodbridge, who has, with great expenditure of time, ability, and no little money, interested herself in promoting the well-being of showpeople in the diocese. For example, all the forward arrangements, the co-operation of the local clergy, the correspondence with the leading showmen attending the fair, the issue of bills announcing the meeting and service—all those details that ensure ultimate success in any movement—were carried through by Miss Welton, who deserved the warm vote of thanks accorded her at the close of the conference.

The Organising Chaplain on the Guild.

Introduced by the chairman, Mr. John Barker, the chaplain delivered an address lasting nearly an hour. He told the story so well known to our showman readers of the rise and progress of the Vandwellers Society, now known as the Showmen's Guild. He paid a tribute of warm admiration to the late John Barker, of Norwich, one of the pioneers and founders of the society. He was proud of the fact that the sons of so great and good a showman were present at that conference (one of them occupied the chair), and that it was in the show of his married daughter, Mrs. Charles Thurston, he was then speaking. For over twenty years the Guild had safeguarded the trade and business of the fairground. It had done more. The Guild had vindicated the showman's character against slander and calumny, prejudice, abuse, and misrepresentation. It entered the field against a Moveable Dwelling Bill in 1888. After five years' strenuous work (and at a cost of over £2,000) that Bill was defeated, and the showmen were cleared of the vile aspersions cast upon their moral and domestic life. Having learnt the value of combination for trade defence, the Guild turned its attention to Bye-laws and Private Bill legislation, with the grand result that since they began Parliamentary work, over sixty Corporations had been prevented obtaining excessive restrictive powers against the show business. Two years ago Lord Clifford of Chudleigh introduced a new Moveable Dwellings Bill, obviously intended to deal with the wandering and sometimes predatory and insanitary gipsy and squatter on commons and waste lands. This Bill came under their scrutiny. It was so drafted that no difference was made in the classes of people using moveable dwellings. As showpeople are far and away the largest users of such dwellings, it was their duty to obtain protection from the drastic proposals of the new Bill. The action the Guild executive took, and the success of their defence and vindication work was seen in the terms of the Report of the Select Committee dealing with the Bill.

The Chaplain's Appeal for Support.

He detailed the points of the evidence submitted by the Guild, and fully explained the enormous benefits the whole showman world had received from the faithful work of the Guild. He submitted that it was the least thing every showman, every stall-holder could do, to support by generous contribution the good work of trade defence. Here was a matter, he urged, that united them—that made them realise that the many can help the few—the poor man's five shillings and the rich man's five pounds thrown into the Guild treasury was an insurance for their trade and business. It was more, for the Guild stood for all that was best in showland. It stood for the highest ideals of show life; to give the best of their ability and talent for the people, and to improve and to uplift the fairs, feasts, and wakes of their motherland.

Mr. John Barker, in an earnest and all too brief speech, expressed the hope that all present would see the necessity of helping forward so good a work. He, and those for whom he spoke, were glad to have Mr. Horne at their fairs, and to tell them, as no other man could better do, the real concerns of their business, and how to uplift and improve it. He and his brother would be glad to start the subscription with £2, although the firm with which he was identified had already paid its annual subscription to the Guild funds.

Enrolment of Members.

John and Wm. Barker, £2; Stock Brothers, £1; P. Tann, 10s.; Mrs. Abbott and Sons, 10s.; G. Summers, 5s.; G. Summers, jun., 5s.; A. Holmes, 5s.; Mrs. P. Chapman, 5s.; F. Hawkes, 5s.; Mrs. J. Hall, 5s.; A. Summers, 5s.; K. Gray, 5s.; A. Gray, 5s.; B. Gray, 5s.; J. Osborne, 5s.; R. Keeble, 5s.; Mrs. Bond, 5s.; F. H. Bossom, 5s.; Baldwin Smith, 5s.; George Bugg, 5s.; J. Westrop, sen., 5s.; and R. Gray, 5s.

On the proposition of Mr. John Barker and Mr. T. Westrop, hearty votes of thanks were given to the chaplain and to the hon. local secretary.

Guild Service on the Fairground.

Despite a deterrent storm of wind and rain the spacious show pavilion of Mr. Charles Thurston was well filled for the Guild service at 8.15 on the Sunday evening of the fair. The hon. local chaplain, the Rev. S. W. Goldsmith (Vicar of Aldeburgh) intoned the service, which was sung throughout by the church choir and mission band of the local detachment of the Church Army. Miss Allen, the organist of the parish church, was at the harmonium. The service was most hearty and devout. The Guild Chaplain preached on the theme suggested by the collect for the day, "Faith, Hope, and Charity." (Prior to the service in the show booth, the chaplain was the special preacher at the parish church.) After the departure of the general congregation, the Vicar, in response to a vote of thanks, told the showpeople how gladly he co-operated in the good work of the Guild, and how proud he was of the honour they had done him in making him one of their hon. chaplains. At their fair he would readily help them all that was in his power. He referred to the great pleasure it had been to himself and his ready helpers in the matter, to turn the church house into a showmen's hostel for the days of the fair. For the two married couples and the eighteen or twenty young men, mostly the employees of the fair, who could not find lodgings in the usual way, he had done his best to provide temporary lodgings at the church house. That, and all else within his powers, he did gladly for them. For that he needed no vote of thanks. He concluded with a short and exceedingly telling exhortation to so live their lives that each year made them better for the work attempted, the work in God's grace done. He hoped that the chaplain would visit Aldeburgh again. He and his people would gladly welcome him, and all that they could do to help the work of the Guild would be readily done.

Guild Subscriptions, 1910.

George Reynolds, 5s.; John Black, 5s.; Mrs. Grace Fletcher, 5s.

Mitcham Fair Defence Fund.

"The Era," Ltd., £5 5s.

"Rambles in Many Lands."

The inception of Mr. John Mackenzie's interesting little book "Rambles in Many Lands," which has been published by the Northern Counties Newspaper and Printing and Publishing Co., Ltd., is explained in the dedication, in which Mr. Mackenzie says: "These Rambles are inscribed to Charles Urban, Esq., F.Z.S., at whose instance they were undertaken." The "Rambles" are not the work of a skilled literary craftsman or a professional journalist; but rather the impressions of a busy traveller whose province is the making of pictures by photography, not by words. What Mr. J. Mackenzie has striven to do, for almost ten years past, has been to become a trained observer, transcribing on almost countless miles of photographic film the impressions of light and shadow, and, later, since the introduction, by Mr. Urban, of "Kinemacolor," the varied tints and hues of Nature, as these are found in some of the famous and beautiful places of the old and new world. The articles include descriptions of visits to Triest, Cattaro, Montenegro, Herzegovina, Bosnia, Servia, Bulgaria, Madeira, India, America, Germany, and Algeria. The essays are full of information, and there is a large amount of condensed interest in the vivid descriptions which Mr. Mackenzie gives of the many places he has seen in his travels.

REANO

The Modern "SVENGALI"

AND HIS

FAMOUS BAND.

.. NOTICE ..

I, T. Hayden Reano, the sole proprietor, conductor, and controller of the above world-renowned band, am desirous of expressing my keenest gratitude and heartfelt thanks to those proprietors and managers who have so kindly released me of my present engagements to enable me to act on the advice of my doctor and take a complete rest for a short while, and at the same time inform them that I am now rapidly getting well and strong again and hope to commence my next tour early in October, which will include: Empire, Finsbury Park; Empire, New Cross; Hippodrome, Croydon; Palace, Leicester; Ardwick Green Empire, Manchester; Empire, Liverpool; Empire, Stratford; Empire, Birmingham; Empire, Edinburgh; Empire, Glasgow; Empire, Newcastle; Empire, Sheffield; Empire, Nottingham; Hippodrome, Wigan; Empire, Hackney; Empire, Shepherd's Bush; Empire, Bradford; Palace, Hull; Empire, Leeds; Hippodrome, Belfast; Empire, Cardiff; Empire, Newport; Empire, Swansea; Her Majesty's, Walsall; Palace, Bristol; &c., &c., &c.

N.B.—Dame Rumour has set it forth that I am interested in other bands that are endeavouring to book the Music Halls. Now, I wish it to be distinctly understood that I have no connection whatever with any band or bands other than the one which I personally direct and conduct myself, and which has appeared with such great success at every hall of any importance in Great Britain.

I have a legal action pending against a gentleman who is copying my name and business.

"He that stealeth my purse stealeth trash, but he that taketh my good name," &c., &c.

THE DOGS BARK, BUT THE CARAVAN PASSES.

Address: c/o THE ERA OFFICE.

ENGLAND'S PLEASURE BEACH.

A SECOND CONEY ISLAND.

Breezy Blackpool and pleasure are synonymous terms. Nobody can visit Blackpool and feel dull. The finest cure for melancholy is provided, and that is why the thousands of people flock to Blackpool. They can obtain the purest and most exhilarating sea-air and the cheapest forms of amusement of the very best quality. The town has become world-famed for its indoor entertainments at popular prices, and during the past two years its popularity has increased as a result of the efforts of those gentlemen who have provided outdoor attractions of the most novel and up-to-date description. The directors of the Blackpool Pleasure Beach, Ltd., have not been idle, and the public have not been behind in showing their keen appreciation of the energetic and enterprising schemes which have been evolved for their benefit.

A few years ago the splendid stretch of sands at South Shore, situated at the lower end of the finest seaside promenade in the United Kingdom, attracted a few of the visitors, because there the gipsies, who styled themselves "fortune-tellers," drew sixpences and shillings for a study of the hands of their respective clients. The people liked this district; it was open, bright, and cheerful, and the waves washed up within a few yards of the levelled sands. It was not equalled, from a health point of view, by any other situation in the town. The directors of the Pleasure Beach, Ltd., saw these advantages, and also realised the growing demand for simple and entertaining attractions; but the hundreds of thousands of visitors to Blackpool like value for their money, and the caterers had to be careful and see that no "fake" show crept upon their ground. They exercised the most vigilant supervision, with the result that they have now earned the confidence of the public, and the wonderful and varied forms of entertainment are meeting with the enormous patronage they deserve. American visitors declare that this Pleasure Beach is more attractive and up to date than their own Coney Island because every show is genuine, and no risk is run. Not a single attraction on the shore affords any danger to the public; and this is a most commendable feature in these days of hustle and recklessness. Apart from this, there is ample to amuse the youngsters, and ample to entertain and interest the grown-ups. A visitor to an ordinary fair ground departs with the thought that he has spent his money on simple, childish delights, and that he has had a good time; but a visitor to the Blackpool Pleasure Beach carries away thoughts he must express to friends, because there are sights before his eyes which he cannot at a day's notice obliterate.

Take the latest attraction as an illustration. The Spectatorium was opened at the beginning of this season. It is a beautiful building, erected on the dome principle, with prominent architectural features which make it stand out—a striking and imposing structure—amidst a collection of more flimsy and unattractive arrangements, such as scenic railways, water chutes, and side shows. The Spectatorium stands on its own—a distinct attraction. Its grey walls are those of a fort, the parapet of which bristles with grim cannon; and, together with the naval devices on each side of the entrance, over which appear the words "Monitor" and "Merrimac" in golden letters, indicate the character of the entertainment given within. Some 800 spectators may sit in comfort inside, and, no matter where the seat, one is always assured of an excellent viewpoint; and then before one's astonished gaze is gradually enacted, in such a faithful manner as to be thrilling, one of the most important naval battles, not only in the history of America, but in the history of the world. It is the historical battle in which the ships Monitor and Merrimac played such an important part. As the delightful views and incidents are depicted in panoramic fashion the gentleman in charge relates the story of the battle in a manner which gives more pleasure than that provided by a leading politician. Of realistic reproduction of actuality, with beautiful and faithful effects of Nature, the battle of the Monitor and Merrimac is a masterpiece. And this is not all. A scene comes into view with which British eyes are familiar. We are taken, as it were, from the shores of Virginia to the South Coast of England, with all the chief points of interest along the coast accurately represented. The Channel Squadron, of which Britain is justly proud, sails into view off Spithead, and, after firing salutes, drops anchor to the accompaniment of the loud applause of the delighted audience. The people who are fortunate enough to visit the Spectatorium are living advertisements. They are given something to talk about, and they talk in praiseworthy terms, because they cannot help themselves.

And the thousands who are daily taking a trip on the Joy Wheel are doing more than talk; they are laughing. If you see the work of the Joy Wheel, you cannot help but laugh. And there are other shows, too numerous to describe in detail, and there is an amazing collection of them They are, however, all up to date, and reflect considerable credit upon the Pleasure Beach, Ltd. The Pleasure Beach continues to grow, and next season will see more novelties. Success is assured. There are no obstacles. Nature assists with the sands and the sea; visitors have money in their pockets, and they are happy. And the directors are happy. What more is desired?

Lord John Sanger's Circus at Penzance.

RECREATION GROUND.—Lord John Sanger's Circus, Hippodrome, and Menagerie opened a two-days' engagement here on Saturday, and at midday the procession through the main streets was watched by thousands of people who expressed appreciation at the excellent condition of the cattle. All performances were well attended, and at each an excellent programme was submitted; in fact, a better all-round programme of its kind has never been seen here. Zampas and clown, the elastic bounders, were clever; and Coleman and Co., in their grand elephant and horse tableau act, were applauded, the elephants being well trained. In their wire act, La Belle Fondants were quite up-to-date, and were ably assisted by Comical Pimpo. The Austins did some good riding; and The Airlees, in their top-story act, were successful. Pimpo's Football Dogs were well trained; Miss Lina and her horse Hawcombe were both clever; and excitement ran high when a motor-car laden with people was driven over Cyclo's body. The Elephant-Dentist caused great amusement, but no jaws were broken. The Tragedy of a Taxicab proved very funny; and Hoffman's thought-reading pony came in for great applause. Pimpo and his Teddy Bear was a really good turn; the Marlo Troupe; Balloon Polo; and Dick Turpin's Ride to York concluded an excellent evening's entertainment. Mr. Drake is the secretary and manager.

Paisley.

SKATING RINK.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jack R. Bostock.—Preparatory to this place of amusement being opened for rinking, Mr. Bostock is housing the Royal Italian Circus for a fortnight. A full-size ring has been laid down in the centre of the rink, and convenient elevations erected. There are over two hundred performing animals, and over most of them is to be seen the marvellous power possessed by Signor Luigi Volpi. Signor Trufelli and Signor Cembrani also display their abilities in this respect; and Bishop and Winkles, and Dan Gregory, keep the fun well sustained by their comic entrées and clowning. The Bros. Volpi are the equestrian directors; while Mr. Edwin Gilley is responsible for the general management.

IMPORTANT WARNING TO TRAVELLING AUCTIONEERS.

Mr. Bloom, the well-known auctioneer, whose splendid auction vans are famous all over the circuit he travels, sends us a letter of the gravest possible moment and interest to the large class of traders using private pitches to carry on their business.

RE SHOP HOURS AMENDMENT ACT.
Haughton-le-Skerne, Darlington.

DEAR SIR,—Having amongst your numerous patrons many travelling auctioneers which the above Bill will completely shut up if it becomes law, would you mind inserting this in your valuable paper, and pointing out to all interested that immediate action should be taken, and the injustice of one or two clauses in the same should be brought to the notice of their respective representatives in Parliament?

Once passed into law it means the closing chapter of this particular business, as well as adding to the ranks of the unemployed hundreds of (at present) well-paid and satisfied employees, whose light labours, combined with good pay and short hours, makes them also anxious that these unjust clauses should be modified.

A copy of the Bill can be obtained from The Era offices, price 2½d.—I am, yours faithfully,
R. J. W. BLOOM.

Mr. Bloom advertises in our columns a warning message to his confrères in business, and asks them to communicate with him. We on our part, recognising the serious nature of the danger, will gladly do all in our power to assist the whole body of travelling auctioneers in any Parliamentary action necessary.

The Bill itself seeks to deal with the manifest injustice of long hours and sweated labour in shops and business houses. It is in Part II. of the proposed Act that, in safeguarding the interests of shop assistants, that serious injury may be done to the considerable number of people employed in the auctioneering business.

We give the material clauses that threaten the business in full:—

"Application of Part II.

"10. Subject to any provisions contained in a closing order it shall not be lawful in any locality to carry on in any place not being a shop, retail trade or business of any class, on any day or at any time when it would be unlawful in that locality to keep a shop open for the purposes of retail trade or business of that class, and this Act shall apply as if the person who carried on such trade or business were the occupier of a shop:

"Provided that—

"(a) this prohibition shall not apply where the retail trade or business is carried on in a place, not being a shop, merely as auxiliary or incidental to some other business (not being retail trade or business) and does not form a substantial part of that business; and

"(b) nothing in this section shall be construed as preventing a barber or hairdresser from attending a customer in the customer's residence, or the holding of an auction sale in a private dwelling-house.

"11. Where a shop is exempted from any of the provisions of this part of this Act or a closing order made thereunder on the ground that it is a shop in which a trade or business mentioned in the second schedule to this Act is carried on, and other trades or businesses to which the exemption does not apply are carried on in the same shop, the exemption shall not extend to such other trades and businesses, and shall be subject to such conditions as may be imposed by regulations made by the Secretary of State or by the closing order.

"12. So much of any local Act or byelaws as regulates the hours for holding markets and as is inconsistent with the provisions of this part of this Act shall cease to have effect."

There is a saving clause exempting fairs lawfully held, so that the Bill as at present drafted excludes both markets and fairs. It is private business that is threatened.

Alf. Ball Subscription Fund.

We shall be glad to receive all outstanding subscriptions to this truly deserving fund. New subscribers' names will be duly acknowledged in our columns. The treasurer, Mr. F. H. Pedgrift, is anxious that the help given shall not only be generous, but that it shall be immediately available.

AMOUNT acknowledged in The Era up to date: £145 8s. 6d.

IN answer to our appeal for this fund last week we have received the following letters and subscriptions:—

MR HENRY THURSTON writes:—

"Mr. PEDGRIFT,

"Dear Sir,—With reference to our friend Ball's great and heavy loss and most serious trouble, myself and friends, in all sympathy, send the enclosed cheque for £12 1s. to the fund."

H. Thurston, sen.	£10 10 0
Mrs. H. Thurston, sen.	1 1 0
Mr. J. Brown	0 5 0
Mr. Sattackelt	0 5 0
	£12 1 0

MR. TITCOMB, saddler, of Witney, writes:—

"DEAR SIR,—I have pleasure in enclosing cheque for £1 16s. towards the Alf. Ball fund. I wish I could have sent more. Many can help one where one cannot help many."

T. H. Titcomb	£0 2 6
T. S. Gibbons	0 2 6
F. M. Green	0 2 6
F. Middleton	0 2 6
J. Wilsdon	0 2 0
"A Friend"	0 2 0
T. M. Cook	0 2 0
W. J. Hobbs	0 2 0
Mr. Sharpe	0 2 0
B. L. Hieatt	0 2 0
W. G. E.	0 2 0
A. Titcomb	0 1 0
R. W.	0 1 0
W. J. Felton	0 1 0
H. Harris	0 1 0
H.	0 1 0
T. W. J. M. B.	0 1 0
J. P.	0 1 0
J. V.	0 1 0
H. C.	0 1 0
A. E. Horne	0 1 0
H. Dobretty	0 1 0
L. Oldham	0 0 6
J. S	0 0 6
	£1 16 0
Thos. Holden	1 1 0
Wm. Sweetingham	1 0 0
C. Simpson (Eggware)	0 5 0
Mrs. J. Pettigrove	0 5 0

Barrow Palace Rink.

ROLLER SKATING enthusiasts will be pleased to learn that the Palace Rink, Abbey-road, Barrow-in-Furness, reopened for the season on Thursday. The floor has received careful attention, and rinkers will find it in first-class condition. There will be three sessions daily, and a first-class orchestra has been engaged. Several improvements in the seating accommodation has been made, and the bandstand has been removed to the railway end of the building. The management generously set apart the proceeds of the opening night for the Hospital Saturday parade.

THE SHOOTING AFFRAY AT MITCHAM FAIR.

The showmen, Frederick Gray and his son, Henry Gray, who are alleged to have been shot by Henry Harris, a coal-dealer, Kabul-road, Battersea, were able to attend the court on Friday, Aug. 26, when the Croydon county magistrates resumed the hearing of the case.

It was stated at the previous hearing that a quarrel arose between the three men at Mitcham Fair on the 12th ult., and that the younger Gray was shot in the hip and his father received a bullet in the breast-bone. Both were removed to Guy's Hospital, where the bullets were extracted.

Harris when charged said: "Frederick Gray had threatened to shoot me, and Harry Gray struck me."

Mr. A. A. Strong, opening the case for the prosecution, said that it was customary for the showmen to take up their positions on the Thursday before the fair, and those who were members of the Showmen's Guild were in the habit of having their places allotted by the Guild, so that everything should be done in order. This year, on reaching Mitcham, the showmen found that owing to the notoriety the fair had gained through the action of the local conservators, the ground was occupied by gipsies.

On the Wednesday before the fair the Grays found the site they usually occupied was in Harris's possession. Harris had been known to the prosecutors for some years. Occasionally he had gone with shows and the Grays had helped him.

Negotiating for a Site.

The elder Gray, knowing he had no legal claim to the site, negotiated with Harris, asking how much he would let him have the ground for. Harris asked for £10 and Gray offered £5. After further negotiation he came down to £8, and Gray offered £6.

On the Friday, the first day of the fair, they had not yet come to an agreement, counsel added, and on the afternoon of that day Harris shot the Grays with a revolver, and was at once arrested.

The police evidence given at the first hearing having been read over, Harris said it was untrue that he told the constable he hoped both the men were dead. What he did say was: "They have taken my bread."

Showman's Evidence.

Frederick Gray, whose right arm was in a sling, was allowed to sit in front of the witness box. Asked by Mr. Strong if Harris was a showman, he replied: "I thank God to say he is not a showman."

Describing the negotiations for the ground, he stated there was no heated feeling between them.

On the Thursday night he was under the impression that the bargain was settled, and that Harris had agreed to accept £6 and a use of a portion of the ground. Accordingly, he gave instructions for his roundabouts to be erected early on Friday morning, but on getting to the ground found that this had not been done, and that Harris was still in possession.

Asked if he had run back from his bargain, Harris replied: "I won't take less than £8." The witness remarked: "Then I've done with it," and walked away. About mid-day Harris met him again and asked him what he was going to do. He stated: "I've finished," and Harris retorted: "I haven't finished with you." Seeing that the man was trying to cause a row, the witness walked away. Harris followed, but said nothing more, and continued watching the witness and those with him.

The Attack.

Between 1.30 and 2 o'clock, the witness continued, as he and his son were walking round the ground, Harris ran in front of them and without a word pointed a revolver at them from a distance of eight or nine paces, and fired several shots. The witness felt the shot in the chest, and saw his son fall. Harris backed away, and a girl named Herrick, who was in Gray's employment, jumped on his arm. Recovering themselves, the witness and his son ran at Harris, and jumped on him, and they fell to the ground.

Gray added that Harris "had the cheek to say 'Don't hurt me.'" After being treated by a local doctor, the witness and his son were taken to hospital, remaining until Wednesday last.

Harris (cross-examining).—Did you put a revolver up on Thursday evening?—The Witness: No; certainly not. I never had a revolver in my life.

Did you see your son strike me on Friday afternoon?—No.

Did you see him pull my truck from the ground?—No.

Did you, after your son had struck me, take a revolver out of your pocket?—No; nothing of the sort happened.

Son's Story.

Harry Gray, the son, who was very lame, and had to be assisted into court, denied that he struck Harris, or that his father threatened him. Describing the shooting, he said he suddenly saw Harris in front of him pointing a revolver. His father was shot, and then he saw the weapon pointed at himself. He turned and received a bullet in his thigh.

Dr. Evans, house surgeon at Guy's Hospital, said that if the bullet in the elder Gray had penetrated another half-inch, the man would probably have lost his life. The son's wound was not at all dangerous.

A Brave Woman.

Maria Herrick said she heard shots and saw Gray, her employer, and his son running away. Harris was hurrying after them, with a revolver in his hand. He shot the son, who fell.

Mr. Strong:—What happened next?—The Witness:—I saw him standing over Harry Gray, with a revolver pointed at his head, and he was just going to fire when I got hold of him. I got hold of the revolver and took it out of his hand, and held it until the policeman asked for it.

Mr. Strong:—You are to be complimented on the plucky way in which you took the revolver from him.

The Chairman:—I think the Court must join in that expression of admiration. It might have been a tragedy of the worst degree if it had not been for your plucky conduct.

W. Forrest, a showman, said that when the elder Gray said he had done with the matter of the ground, Harris replied, "If you have, I haven't. If you think I'm done with it, you must think me the biggest can in the fair."

For the benefit of the Bench, the witness explained that "can" meant fool.

Harris, who reserved his defence, was committed for trial at the Guildford Assizes.

Halton Feast, Leeds.

THIS excellent suburban fair had for its entertainment Bailey's circus of varieties, Vallo's Indian magic, Gal Hague's boxing saloon, Hale's "topsyturveydom," Waddington's motor-cars, Redfearn's flying machines, Marshall's gallopers, Waddington's steam yachts and racing porkers, Marshall's bikes, Morley's gondolas, Johnson's steam swings, highfliers by Riley and Johnson, and houp-la circles and frames, throwing games, and variety stalls by Messrs. Steward, Doubtfire, Cooper, Turner, Rhodes, Townend, Burgin, Ackroyd, Williams, and Redfearn.

"HUMOROUS AND TRAGIC STORIES OF SHOWMAN LIFE." Told by the Rev. Thomas Horne, Chaplain to the Showmen's Guild. Price 6d., post free 7½d. Address: The Publisher, "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

FILM GOSSIP.

Talking Pictures.

THE New York correspondent of the Daily Telegraph states that Mr. Edison recently gave a practical demonstration of his kinetophone, by means of which moving pictures are made to talk. A picture was thrown on the screen, and the invention, which synchronises the automatic movements of photograph and phonograph records, spoke for itself. The kinetophone is not yet perfect, but in a few weeks it will be so far perfect, according to friends of the great inventor, that music halls everywhere will be clamouring for its possession. The lips of the people in the picture move in unison with the words of the phonograph. A picture of a man thrown on the screen dropped a cricket ball, and its impact sounded instantly from the floor. The man pounded the table with a hammer, and every blow was perfect. He dropped a plate, and as the pieces flew the crack resounded. Finally, a motor-car horn tootled, and the demonstration ended. Electric wires control the mechanism of the photograph and phonograph, and the records for eye and ear are made simultaneously. Mr. Edison proposes to make the personalities and voices of the world's great people familiar to everybody.

Marriage of Mr. George Black.

MR. GEORGE BLACK, the eldest son of the late Mr. George Black, of Black's superb life motion pictures, and connected with a number of provincial cinematograph houses, was on Monday, Aug. 29 married to Miss May Gibson, of Fulwell, Sunderland. The wedding took place at St. George's Presbyterian Church, Sunderland. Congratulations.

Johnson-Jeffries Films for London

MR. W. J. WAINRATTA, of the Vitagraph Company of America, has stated that the cinematograph pictures of the Jeffries-Johnson fight will be exhibited in London in the course of the next week or two. The company bought the rights for £52,000, and Mr. W. J. Wainratta, the European agent, was not in a position to settle arrangements with the various London cinematograph theatre companies until the present time. The film takes an hour and a half to exhibit.

Fight Films in Canada.

"THE opponents of the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures have not relaxed their efforts to secure the prohibition of cinematograph exhibitions of the Reno contest throughout the Dominion, but except in Ontario they have not been entirely successful," says the Montreal correspondent of the Liverpool Daily Courier. "The films have been exhibited in this city, and an application by the Montreal Crown Prosecutor, Mr. Walsh, for an injunction was refused by Judge Lanctot. The judge declared that so far as he could see no legal case could be made out, and that providing the exhibitions were given in properly licensed places he could not interfere."

Colston Hall, Bristol.

MR. RALPH PRINGLE has commenced his autumn season here. The animated pictures embrace every variety of subject, both serious and comic, and they are clearly defined. There was a large attendance on Monday evening, the pictures obtaining enthusiastic appreciation. The variety company includes Charles Leighton, comedian and trick pianist, and Dix and Dox, burlesque musicians.

A Flourishing Dundee Picture Palace.

TREMENDOUS business is being done at the Empire Theatre, Dundee, where all that is latest and best in animated photography is unfolded twice nightly to packed and delighted audiences. Two different programmes are submitted weekly. The manager here is Mr. R. W. Austin, who, by his courtesy and attention to the comfort of his patrons, is a warm favourite with frequenters of this cosy house.

Pictures at Hastings.

THE People's Picture Palace Company present an excellent choice of subjects at the Public Hall, Hastings, this week, among them being The Planter's Wife, On the Border-line, a good drama, and Her First Appearance. They also have the credit of introducing to Hastings the latest in singing pictures—the Vivaphone—of which the synchronisation is excellent. At the Pelham Hall Electric Theatre new and up-to-date films are shown, among those exhibited being Father's Busy, The Wrong Man, Indian Tribes, Flossie's Theft, Twisted Trail, and Five Minutes to Twelve. An attractive programme of pictures is also screened at the Wellington-place Electric Theatre. The continuous performances are frequently so crowded there is only standing room.

Another Beautiful Picture Palace Opened at Leicester.

THE London and Provincial Electric Theatres, Ltd., of Charing Cross-road, London, are to be congratulated on their enterprise in erecting in High-street, Leicester, another beautiful Cinema Theatre, which has evoked the admiration of thousands since the opening on Saturday last. The whole of the interior of the building, which seats 720 persons, is completed in a most artistic scheme of decoration, the predominant feature of which is white and gold, which is relieved with green panelling in the auditorium. The ceilings both in the hall and vestibule, which is handsomely furnished, present a most charming appearance, and when lit up the whole building is a triumph of splendour and cosiness.

A. R. Dean's Seating and Furnishing.

To A. R. Dean and Sons, of Corporation-street, Birmingham, great praise is due for the splendid manner in which they have completed the furnishing and seating, which reflects the highest credit upon this renowned firm and their staff. The theatre is all on one floor, and is entered from High-street, one of the main thoroughfares in the town, and makes the ninth hall opened by this company. There are plenty of exists, and the management have done everything in their power to secure the safety of their patrons, who promise to be very numerous. In addition, this is the only cinematograph theatre in the town where the music is supplied by an orchestra.

Mr. Reynolds-Benjamin's Good Work.

WE offer our congratulations to Mr. W. Reynolds-Benjamin, the general-manager and chief of staff, who has been assiduous in forwarding the interests of the proprietors and in starting the theatre on a sound business basis. A great feature is the electric lighting all over the building, which has been admirably carried out by Johnson and Phillips, of Victoria-road, Charlton, S.E., and Union-court, Old Broad-street, S.E., under the supervision of Mr. W. H. Price

Mr. Kingstone Trollope, Manager.

MR. KINGSTONE TROLLOPE has been appointed the resident-manager. He is a gentleman well known, having been on the road as actor stage-manager of the Empire, Liverpool, and late of Miss Horniman's company, of the Gaiety Theatre, Manchester, and bids fair to make many friends in Leicester by his urbanity and courtesy. Messrs. Herbert and Sons, of Leicester, were the contractors for the building, and have carried out their work in a most satisfactory manner.

Limerick Electric Picture Palace.

THE picture novelty doesn't seem to wear away in the slightest, and this week's animated bill of fare has been highly appreciated by the crowds of patrons who go to the Palace nightly. The Pathé-Frères' series are very popular films, the Gazette of Current Events being an attraction in itself. The Gold Seekers, Sudden Wealth, The Steeplejack, End of the World, and that pretty humorous film, Mascot, gave great satisfaction, whilst for a farcical "stop-gap" Operator Potts put on Our German Cousin, with much amusement. The popular managing-director, Mr. Edward Kidd, also put in as an adjunct a delightful gramophone, with the latest and the most up-to-date records, and the special engagement of Miss Ada Whitton and Mr. Marcus Boyle in their comedy turns give a lively and a pleasing stimulus to the evening's amusement.

The Picture House, Manchester.

THIS new picture palace of the Manchester Picture House Company in Market-street, was opened to the public on Tuesday, when the whole of the day's proceedings were given to the Ancoats Hospital. The house is a very luxurious and perfectly equipped one; the precautions against fire are complete; and the pictures shown the best produced, selections from operas and other popular numbers being given on the Cinematophone.

An Auspicious Opening at Paisley.

THE Paisley Picture Palace, now in its third season, opened on Saturday. The success which has attended this place of entertainment—the home of pictures in Paisley—has been remarkable, and if Saturday was any indication of what is to follow, the ensuing season at the Picture Palace bids fair to be as thoroughly successful as the two preceding ones. There were films shown of an instructive, emotional, and humorous character. Mr. Stafford Grafton, who has managed the Palace since its inception, is still the controlling director, and proves himself an acceptable caterer to the Paisley public.

Wanted to Sell, "BABS."

Small male Elephant, five years old and about 60 inches high.
In good condition and quiet.

Recently purchased at the Crystal Palace Sale. ["Daily Mirror" Photo.
Reason for selling, owing to change of plans.

Address, BERZAC, 13, Union Street, Smethwick, Birmingham.

STAGE STAFF GOSSIP

A MEETING of the Cinematograph Operators was held on Tuesday, Mr. Mason, vice-president, in the chair. A number of applications for membership were granted. Several inquiries about the Association by operators were reported. It was decided to hold the general monthly meeting of members on Tuesday next at 11 o'clock a.m. in the Musicians' Club, 9, Great Newport-street, W.C., when all members in London are invited to be present.

THE Executive Committee of the National Association of Theatrical Employees held a meeting on Friday and again on Tuesday to deal with several important items and routine business. The relations of the Association with the Sunday Defence Committee and the position of the employees in regard to Sunday entertainments were fully considered. The committee heartily approve the objects of the Sunday Defence Committee and the mutual undertakings of the three societies forming that committee, but pending a better state of affairs as to the reduction, or abolition, of Sunday Entertainments of any kind they have decided to issue to all promoters of Sunday entertainments, concerts, or moving picture exhibitions, a scale of pay which they think ought to be paid to those employed on Sunday in their various capacities as under:—Stage managers, master carpenters, or electricians in charge at any West End hall or theatre, £1 1s. each per night; at any hall or theatre outside the West End area, 15s. each per night; assistant electricians, West End, 10s. 6d. per night, outside the West End, 7s. 6d. per night; daymen employed in any stage department, employed to arrange the stage for the evening entertainment, a minimum of 4s. per man with 1s. per hour for any period of time exceeding four hours; stagemen employed in any stage department during the entertainment 4s. per man per night; attendants employed in any capacity in front of the house, 4s. each per night; cinematograph operators, 10s. 6d. per concert; those employed giving continuous shows on Sunday a minimum of 10s. 6d., with 2s. 6d. per hour for any period of time exceeding four hours, no operator to be employed more than 4½ hours on Sunday. The committee take the view that as the promoters of the concert or other entertainment are responsible, and not the licensee, to the L.C.C., for the employment of any person on Sundays they should see that every employee required is properly paid.

As there is no association which attendants, dressers, supers, and others can join for protective purposes the N.A.T.E. has decided to form a London branch open to any employee, man or woman, employed in a theatre, music hall, or electric theatre, not eligible to join one of the existing London branches of this Association. Anyone interested is invited to communicate with Mr. Wm. Johnson at 29, Wellington-street, Strand.

A MEETING of cinematograph operators will be held under the auspices of the N.A.C.O. on Sept. 13 at 2 p.m. in Purves' Café, Clayton-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne. Non-members in the district are invited to attend this meeting.

THE A.M.U. will give their first concert at Queen's Hall on Sunday evening next. A number of members of the N.A.T.E. will act as attendants.

THE N.A.T.E. desire to bring the following resolutions to the notice of branches and members:—Resolved: That branches be informed that the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees (United States, Canada, and British Columbia) only agree to recognise our card of membership subject to any member of ours going to the countries under the jurisdiction of the Alliance observing the Alliance working rules and receiving the Alliance pay, which for touring master carpenters is forty dollars a week. Any member of this union going to America must therefore produce his contract for the inspection of the General Secretary, otherwise the E.C. will inform the American Alliance that such a member has not complied with the instructions of this association.

SCALE of wages.—American Alliance minimum rates of pay for touring men: Master machinist, not less than 40 dollars per week; assistant machinist, not less than 30 dollars per week; flyman, not less than 30 dollars per week; master propertyman, not less than 30 dollars per week; assistant propertyman, not less than 25 dollars per week; electrician, 30 dollars per week; assistant electrician, 25 dollars per week; all extra men, 25 dollars per week.

"THE FLAG LIEUTENANT" will visit the Kennington Theatre next week. On Monday evening a souvenir of the play will be presented to every lady paying for admission.

Rinking Festival at Hastings.

A RINKING festival and skating competition was held on Wednesday in the skating pavilion of the American Palace Pier, Hastings. Three prizes were awarded by the management for the best lady's fancy dress, and three prizes for the best gentleman's fancy dress; special prizes for a half-mile ladies' race, and for half-mile and one mile gentlemen's race. There was also a competition for graceful skating, and an exhibition of novel sports on skates.

Aldeburgh Regatta Fair.

SITUATED on an excellent fairground at the end of the esplanade, this fair grows in popularity and importance. Being held on the regatta days it is a local holiday, and crowds of country people flock into the quaint old town to enjoy the combined delights of the regatta and carnival fair. The centre of attraction was Charles Thurston's cinematograph Theatre (the No. 2 show). The splendid display of up-to-date films drew big audiences. The machine list included Charles Thurston's racing motors, Stock's zoological roundabouts, overboats, and park swings, with gem sets of horses and motors by W. Barker and Sons and T. Manning. There were two or three side shows of the freak variety and avenues of stalls. The shooting ranges, bottle and egg batteries were provided by Messrs. Barker and Sons, Parkin, Keeble, Gray Bros., and Abbott; the hoop-la circles and frames were by Messrs. Summer and Sons, T. Manning, Parkin, P. Tann, Wm. Barker and Sons, and others; and the coker-sheets and throwing games, toy, and gingerbread stalls were provided by Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Abbott, P. Tann, B. Gray, G. Bugg, W. Barker, A. Summers, G. Summers, and a host of local caterers.

White City, Manchester, Arrangements.

DURING the coming fortnight the daily concert music at the White City will be furnished by the band of H.M. 18th Hussars, which holds an enviable reputation as a musical organisation in His Majesty's service, and the visit to Manchester of this favourite band will be a welcome one. Should the weather at any afternoon or evening hour for the concerts be inclement, then they will be given under the cover of the Restaurant, where there is ample accommodation for all listeners. With Monday begins the last four weeks of the season of 1910 at the White City, and after Oct. 1 the Park will be closed till next spring, and the water chutes, scenic railway, and the many other attractions of the place will cease to give pleasure and amusement to the crowds. For the season of 1911, which will begin early in May next, a number of new rides and shows will be put in as an addition to those that have done so much to popularise the White City.

FRANK BOSTOCK ON THE GREAT FIRE.

Our Brussels correspondent sends the following interesting account under date Aug. 30:—It is now sixteen days since the terrible fire that destroyed a good part of the Brussels Exhibition; and to-morrow (Wednesday) one of the parts which suffered the most, viz., Bruxelles-Kermesse, reopens its doors officially; in fact, more attractions have been got up, and the lively crowd has already invaded the old streets, hastily rebuilt. Towering above, the untouched Chien Vert enlivens the place with its thousands of various-coloured lights as of yore. "Luna Park," under the direction of Mr. Frank Bostock, will again offer its countless attractions to the many pleasure-seekers, who seem to have already forgotten that fateful night of Aug. 14.

Interviewed on the subject, Mr. Frank Bostock describes thus the occurrence:—

"It was towards 9 p.m. when I caught sight of the first flare; there were, at that time, from 20,000 to 30,000 people on our grounds. The arena (where my animals were then performing) was crowded with an appreciative audience. I saw the danger at once. I gave orders to my men to announce at once an entr'acte of thirty minutes. The public then coming out in perfect order were only cognisant of the fire when well out of my premises. This allowed them to leave through side exits; and this explains why no accident to persons was to be deplored. In the meantime, I had rallied all my people, and most of the takings at the different shows had been collected. By this time the fire, fanned by a rather strong wind, had veered towards us, and I could see then there would be no escape for my poor animals—about a hundred of them I had on show. To save the wild animals was a dangerous undertaking in the circumstances. As for the others, we managed to get a few of them away, a big elephant and a maki—the biggest and the smalles of the collection. I had hesitated about the elephant at first, as that huge beast, a male chap weighing four tons, had never been out of the building since the opening of the Exhibition, for security sake, as the streets of Old Brussels were partly covered with tiles over clay ground, which would certainly have given way under such a weight. I was under the apprehension that the animal, scared by the fire, might get unruly when we would get him out; however, as it pained me to leave such a valuable animal behind, doomed to a certain death, I risked it, and happily all went well, and he was taken to a safer place, along with the others, that is, a llama, a sacred white ass, a zebu, a sacred red river hog, and a sacred bull. This last one was a favourite with the numerous Indians who frequented the pleasure grounds, and they used to have him in great respect, and 'salaamed' to him.

"Now the soldiers were on the spot to keep order. An officer took position with his men in front of my show, and guessing what he was up to, I asked him:

"'What are you going to do?

"'Shoot the animals.'

"'No; you won't do that!'

"'But I have received orders.'

"'My orders to you are to leave them alone!' and I explained to him that as they had to be sacrificed, it was less dangerous to leave them to their fate, the more so that they would be suffocated before getting burnt; besides, could he vouch for the accuracy of his men, and, if not, what would be the consequences? He yielded to my entreaties, and I had the arena double doors shut. I was not to see any of them again alive. In fact, a few minutes later nothing remained of my 180ft. square building; and my arena cage, a steel mass six metres high by 50ft. across, was reduced to a nondescript all-twisted wire net.

"Strange to say, the bandstand, which was in front of my building, was never touched by fire, not even the little flags round its roof. I have lost all my performing animals: lions, tigers, leopards, &c., who were performing in groups (what you call happy family groups). They were all insured, and some of them heavily. Now I intend to show the few that have been saved from destruction, but I cannot start a regular performance with them.

"I really never saw such a blazing and roaring fire: the noise was so great, and you could hear now and then loud reports (gas meters exploding, no doubt), it sounded as on a battlefield. Though living only 50ft. from the grounds, we did not suffer from it. Our trees were simply a little scorched. Of course, long before that I had sent away my family.

"This is my second experience of a fire. The last time—nine years ago—it was at Baltimore, and we also saved the biggest and the smallest of our collection—nine years ago, the year of Queen Victoria's death; and now, strange coincidence, this is the year of poor King Edward's death."

Mr. Frank Bostock intends staying at the Exhibition to the end, that is, until November; after that he has no definite plans. He may return to America, or perhaps to England, having received several propositions; in fact, they want him in Rome, in Turin, Roubaix, and London (Earl's Court) under an American management.

Cambridge Roller Skating Club.

A COMMITTEE meeting of the Cambridge Roller Skating Club, which is run in connection with the National Skating Association (Fen Department), was held at the club's headquarters, the University and Town Roller Skating Rink recently, Dr. Geo. Cunningham presiding. The hon. treasurer reported that the financial position of the club was very satisfactory, there being a small credit balance to carry forward. A sub-committee was formed to consider various details with respect to the arrangements for the coming season and to report their recommendations and suggestions to the full committee at an early date. The hon. secretary and other members stated that much general interest was being shown by members and many inquiries were being made by those who were not at present members. Altogether an exceptionally successful future for the club was predicted.

Carnival at Weston-super-Mare Rink.

A VERY successful summer carnival was held at the Victoria Hall, Weston-super-Mare, on Thursday, the 25th ult., one of the most enjoyable, indeed, in the history of the rink. The excellent arrangements made reflected great credit on Mr. W. N. Race and the whole of the staff. There was a large attendance, and a considerable proportion were skaters, the majority of whom were in fancy dress.

Mr. H. Holmshaw's Clever Display.

ONE of the most interesting portions of the programme was Mr. Percy H. Holmshaw's exhibition of fancy skating. He introduced the effective and pretty "fairy maze" between lights placed 15 inches apart in various positions on the floor. Through these Mr. Holmshaw adroitly zig-zagged on toe-skates only, changing to a waltz-rhythm, and afterwards tracing the growth of grape vines between the lights as they lay in diamond shape on the floor. It was a smart performance, and evoked most enthusiastic applause.

Stamford Hill Skating Palace.

THE Stamford Hill Skating Palace reopened for the season on Thursday, the 25th ult. Mr. E. Collini's band, under his conductorship, which gave such great satisfaction last season, has been re-engaged for this.

THE TWO SMITHS.

A remarkably enterprising and versatile Australian has passed away in the person of Dr. L. L. Smith, of Melbourne, says the Westminster Gazette. He was a son of the E. T. Smith who was a well-known figure in the theatrical London of the early Victorian era. Dr. Smith started life by taking part in the 1848 revolutionary street-fighting in Paris, where he was at the time a medical student. After practising for a few years in London (he was associated with the Westminster Hospital), he emigrated to Melbourne, where for upwards of half a century he enjoyed a large practice and published a medical almanac.

Inheriting his father's love of manifold activities, "L. L.," as he was always called in Melbourne, built a Polytechnic Hall and lectured in it; edited a weekly journal, the Times and Mines, and a monthly magazine, the Australian Journal; became a pioneer of the Australian wine industry; was a prominent figure on the Turf; sat in the Victorian Parliament for many years, and was a member of the Government. He revisited London last summer and looked wonderfully keen and active for a man of eighty. His "perennial juvenility" was a proverb in Melbourne.

"Dr. Smith's father, Edward Tyrrell Smith, was quite a character in the fifties and sixties, and, in spite of his recklessness and dare-devil nature, was a man universally liked by his friends and the public. He was everything by turns, and nothing long," wrote the late Mr. Clement Scott; "but if any theatrical speculation was in the air, E. T. Smith was bound to be in it.

"He was born on the 26th of August, 1804, and was the eldest son of Admiral E. T. Smith. He was appointed midshipman in Lord Cochrane's ship, but motherly affection fetched him back the night before the ship sailed. He was at first in the Metropolitan Constabulary, and subsequently an auctioneer. E. T. Smith was essentially a man given to speculation. The first of his schemes was connected with what used to be Crockford's gaming-house in St. James's Street, which he was instrumental in turning into a fashionable restaurant, known as the Wellington, and afterwards the Devonshire Club.

"E. T. Smith was a speculator with Vauxhall Gardens in the days of their decadence; but his connection with theatres may be said to have begun in 1850, when he took the Marylebone, which he held for two years, and then, most rashly as some thought, entered on the lesseeship of Drury Lane Theatre. The house was in dreadfully bad odour, and had been in the market for a considerable time, and was considered to be such a bad speculation that the ground lessee, the Duke of Bedford, actually contemplated its immediate destruction.

"On the 27th of December, 1852, he opened the house with Uncle Tom's Cabin, and Harlequin Hudibras; or, The Droll Days of the Merry Monarch (E. L. Blanchard's pantomime), and introduced morning performances. He was the founder of the matinée. He spared no expense in engaging the best artists. He had Beverley for his scene-painter; and during his tenancy of Drury Lane, Charles Mathews, G. V. Brooke, the Charles Keans, and some of the best stars made their appearance on the boards. He was also one of the first to recognise provincial talent and bring it to London. He was the founder of the Alhambra in Leicester Square, known previous to that as the Panopticon, and opened it as a circus on the 7th of February, 1858.

"He was lessee of Her Majesty's; and in Italian opera, Titiens, Piccolomini, and Giuglini appeared under him. He leased Cremorne Gardens from 1861 to 1869. From 1867 he was lessee of the Lyceum for two years. From 1863 he was lessee of Astley's, which he ran for some years. Commencing in October, 1870, he ran the Surrey for a short season. In 1871 he took Highbury Barn; and, not very long afterwards, became the proprietor of the Regent Music Hall, Westminster.

"This indefatigable man then appears to have turned his attention again to restaurant catering, and opened a dining hall under the vaults of the Royal Exchange, which was a conspicuous failure. For this venture he engaged as a barmaid Alice Rhodes, who, in my presence, was condemned to death by Mr. Justice Hawkins for the terribly sensational Penge murder, but was subsequently freely pardoned. Years before he started the Radnor, at the Holborn corner of Chancery Lane, and opened a refreshment room in Leicester Square known as the Cremorne Supper Rooms.

"The Sunday Times became his property in 1856 for a short time, and he also started the Bedfordshire Independent, with a view of entering Parliament; but not obtaining sufficient support, he very shortly gave up both these journals. He made many friends, who were always ready to assist him in his various speculations, and though these did not always turn out profitable to the investors, it should be mentioned that his friendships were lasting; his perfect faith and honesty of purpose were never for an instant doubted. He was a noted character in his day: he liked to see his name in print as a generous supporter of any form of charity; and, though it has been imputed to him that he did this for the sake of advertisement, there were numerous exceptions to the rule, and a great many of his acts emanated from genuine kindness. He died on the 26th of November, 1877, and was buried at Brompton Cemetery."

IN the Vacation Court (Chancery Division) on Wednesday, before Sir Samuel Evans, on behalf of Miss Ada Reeve, an ex parte motion, Cotton v. West, was made to his lordship, asking for an injunction against Saronies' Picture Palace, Birkenhead.

COUNSEL said that plaintiff, Mrs. Cotton, known professionally as Miss Ada Reeve, wished to restrain defendants from publishing posters which made it appear that Miss Reeve was performing at the Picture Palace. Miss Reeve, said counsel, did not appear at places of that description. The advertisements were drawn in such a way as to give the impression that there was a vaudeville entertainment as well as a biograph. It announced "Miss Ada Reeve in catchy illustrated songs."

HIS LORDSHIP: How does it hurt Miss Reeve? Counsel: The prices charged for admission vary from 2d. to 8d. That is a ground of objection. In her affidavit, read by counsel, Miss Reeve said she was appearing at Birmingham at £200 a week. His lordship at first refused, but on a subsequent application granted an interim injunction until and over Wednesday next, with leave to serve notice of motion for that day.

"THE MAN YOU KNOW" and Scotland's arch humorist—Frame—is touring the North with his own vaudeville crowd. He is amusing the multitude this week in the Cumberland Lake District.

WITH the exception of the Russian Balalaika Orchestra, which, by the way, is proving a tremendous success, and Binaldo, the wandering violinist, who enters on the last week of his engagement, the entire programme at the Coliseum is composed of newcomers. The principal new arrivals will be Montgomery and Moore, the well-known American comedy artists, who have been re-engaged owing to their recent big success at this same house on their first visit to England. La Belle Titcombe, the famous Parisian actress and vocalist; Harry Jolson, American operatic black-faced comedian; Dutch Daly, musical comedian; Drew and Alders, comedians; Cumminger and Colonna, expert sand dancers; Lydia and Amelys, in French character dances; the Fisteddfod Sextette, male prize vocalists; and Addie Darling, the protean lady artist.

REVISED SCALE OF CHARGES FOR

ARTISTS WANTING ENGAGEMENTS. MANAGERS WANTING ARTISTS.

THREE LINES (ABOUT TWENTY WORDS), ONE SHILLING.
Each Additional Line (Six Words or less), Sixpence.

This Scale does not apply to "Trade" Advertisements in these Columns.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION (Post Free).

	UNITED KINGDOM.	FOREIGN
One Year	26s. 0d.	32s.
Half Year	13s. 0d.	16s.
One Quarter	6s. 6d.	8s.

The Offices of "The Era" are
"THE ERA" BUILDINGS,
5, TAVISTOCK-STREET, STRAND, W.C.
For the convenience of Advertisers, Replies to Advertisements are received. They can remain until called for, or be forwarded by Post if postage be arranged.

NO STAMPS.

Advertisers and subscribers are politely requested to forward Cheques or Postal Orders in payment of their Advertisements and Subscriptions, crossed "Lloyd's Bank, Ltd." Remittances should be made payable to "The Era," Limited, and addressed,

THE PUBLISHER,
The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-st., Strand, W.C.
"Wire," "The Era, London."
"Ring-up," 4747 or 1433 Central.

IN case of the non-delivery of "THE ERA" by the First Post, the Publisher will be greatly obliged if Advertisers will forward their Postal Wrappers with the time of delivery marked upon them.

COMPANIES WANTED.

TWENTY WORDS, ONE SHILLING.
Each Additional Six Words, Sixpence.

MILTON BODE and EDWARD COMPTON'S THEATRES.
WANTED, First-class Companies, for THEATRE ROYAL, BRIGHTON.
Oct. 31, Feb. 6, 13, March 13, 20, on.
DALSTON THEATRE, LONDON, N.E.
Oct. 10, March 13, 20, April 3, 17, 24, on.
COUNTY THEATRE, READING.
Oct. 31, Nov. 14, 21, Jan. 16, Feb. 6, 13, 20, on.
OPERA HOUSE, LEICESTER.
Nov. 21, Dec. 12, Feb. 6, 20, March 6, 20, on.
ROYALTY THEATRE, CHESTER.
April 3, 10.
GRAND THEATRE, WOLVERHAMPTON.
Sept. 26, Oct. 10, 24, 31, Dec. 12, Jan. 2, Feb. 6, on.
THEATRE ROYAL, HUDDERSFIELD.
Oct. 3, 17, Dec. 19, Feb. 6, 13, 20, March 6, on.
OPERA HOUSE, NORTHAMPTON.
Oct. 17, Nov. 28, Dec. 26, Feb. 6, 13, 27, on.
THEATRE ROYAL, LEICESTER.
Oct. 31, Dec. 19, Jan. 9, 16, Feb. 6, on.
Address, MILTON BODE, Theatre, Reading.

WANTED, First-class Attractions, for COUNTY THEATRE, BEDFORD,
Sept. 12, 19, 26, Oct. 10, 24, Nov. 21, onwards.
GRAND THEATRE, LUTON,
Sept. 12, 26, Oct. 10, 17, 31, Nov. 7, onwards.
THEATRE ROYAL, CANTERBURY.
Sept. 19, Oct. 3, 24, Nov. 7, 14, onwards.
Address, E. G. FALCON, County Theatre, Bedford.

WANTED, First-class Companies,
THEATRE ROYAL, NORTH SHIELDS,
Oct. 3, 10, 17 (twice nightly).
GRAND THEATRE, LANCASTER,
Sept. 19 (?), and 26 (?), Oct. 10.
OPERA HOUSE, WORKINGTON,
Oct. 10, Oct. 20 (three nights).
THEATRE ROYAL, WHITEHAVEN,
Oct. 3, Oct. 17 (3 nights).
STANLEY ROGERS, T. R., North Shields.

QUEEN'S THEATRE, DUBLIN, LTD.
Managing-Director, F. W. MARRIOTT WATSON.
WANTED, First-class Companies,
Dec. 19, Feb. 27, March 27, May 1, onwards.
Re dates address,
C. F. WRIGHT.

WEYMOUTH NEW THEATRE.
One of the most charming Theatres in the Provinces. Holds £120 at ordinary prices. Lit throughout by electric light. No other Theatre within radius of thirty miles. Drawing capacity 60,000.
WANTED, First-class Companies,
Oct. 6, 7, 8 (?), 10 (?), 31 (?), Nov. 7, 21, 28, Jan. 2, onwards.
All coms. re dates to London Representatives,
JAY and MANN, 10-11, Jermyn-street, S.W.
All other coms. direct to W. R. WALLIS.

LYRIC THEATRE, LIVERPOOL.
WANTED, First-class Attractions,
Share or certainty.
All must play twice nightly.
HENRY C. ARNOLD, Managing-Director.

ROYAL ARTILLERY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, WOOLWICH.
Lessee and Manager, JULES RICHEUX.
WANTED, First-class Attractions for Sept. 26, Oct. 10, 17 (?), 24, Nov. 28 (?), Jan. 2, 9, or 16, for Big Musical Shows or First-class Pantomimes (first in). Xmas Panto (four weeks). Bookings: D'Oyly Carte, Moody-Manners, and Turner's Operas, "Merry Widow," "Arcadians," "Our Miss Gibbs," "Dairymaids," "Gay Gordons," "Miss Hook," Cingalee," "Country Girl," "Flag Lieutenant," &c. Re dates, JAY and MANN, 10-11, Jermyn-st., S.W.

ROYAL VICTORIA PAVILION, RAMSGATE.
Lessee and Manager, Councillor CHARLES PRICE.
WANTED, First-class Musical Attractions, for next season's dates, July, Aug., and Sept.
All communications re Bookings,
WILLIAM MARTIN, 415, Strand, W.C.

GRAND THEATRE, DERBY.
WANTED, First-class Dramatic and Musical Attractions, Feb. 6, 13, March 20, 27, April 3, 10. Address, T. ALLAN EDWARDES.

PALACE THEATRE, DERBY.
WANTED, Strong Dramatic and Musical Attractions, Oct. 3, on, with own scenery, good printing, twice nightly; must state lowest. T. A. EDWARDES.

LYCEUM, NEWPORT.
WANTED, Big Drama or Strong Play, Oct. 10, Jan. 30 also vacant.
SIDNEY COOPER.

THEATRE ROYAL, INVERNESS.
WANTED, Companies Touring Scotland, to book T. R., Inverness. Manager, C. BURGESS.

THEATRE ROYAL, DARLINGTON.
WANTED, First-class Attractions,
Sept. 26,
Nov. 7, 28.
JAMES BELL.

GAIETY THEATRE, LEITH.
WANTED, First-class Pantomime, for Dec. 26 to Jan. 7, inclusive. Send full particulars to R. C. BUCHANAN,
6, John-street, Adelphi, London, W.C.

KING'S THEATRE, GREENOCK.
WANTED, First-class Musical and Dramatic Attractions for Nov. 7, 21, Dec., onwards, with exceptions.
Address, A. B. and J. J. WRIGHT.

THEATRE ROYAL, CROOK.
WANTED, Companies, Sept. 19, Oct. 24, Nov. 7. WALLACE DAVIDSON, Globe Hotel, Bristol.

WANTED, for the Prince of Wales Theatre, Salford, First-class Companies for Oct. 17, 24, 31, Dec. 12 and 19. Address E. B. GOULDEN.

WANTED, for Theatre Royal, Peterborough, good Companies, Sept. 26, Oct. 17.
A. D. VERNON.

WANTED, First-class Attractions, nothing too big, for Nov. 14, Dec. 5, and Jan. 9, 16.
Wire, HORNER, Burnley.

WANTED, Theatre Royal, Margate, Sept. 12, 13, 14, Oct. 24, 31 (weeks). WARNIMONT'S Agency, 3, Bedford-street, W.C.

COMPANIES WANTED.

WANTED, First-class Companies.
Wanted, First-class Companies.

THEATRE ROYAL, WORCESTER.
Vacant Nov. 21, Dec. 12, Feb. 6, 13, onward, with exceptions.

EMPIRE, WORCESTER.
Pictures and Bijou Vaudeville.
All arrangements complete at present.

THEATRE ROYAL, TON-Y-PANDY.
THEATRE ROYAL, TON-Y-PANDY.
Vacant Dec. 5, 19, Jan. 16, 30, onward, with exceptions.

NEW THEATRE, BARRY.
NEW THEATRE, BARRY.
Undoubtedly one of the finest theatres in Wales, up-to-date in every detail. Holding capacity over 2,000. Stage 62 by 35. Equipped with every modern stage contrivance. Superb plant of electric light, 500 ampères available. This Theatre caters for a very large population, standing right in the centre of the populous towns of Cadoxton, Barry Dock, Barry, and Barry Island, the latter being full of visitors during the summer season.
Vacant Dec. 19, Jan. 2, 16, April 3, 10. onward, with exceptions.

Bookings already include "Silver King," "Fatal Wedding," "Florodora," "Miss Hook of Holland," "Merry Widow," "When Knights Were Bold," "Gay Gordons," "The Dairymaids," &c., &c.

BARRY ELECTRIC THEATRE DE LUXE.
Pictures and Bijou Vaudeville.
All arrangements complete at present.

Wanted, Dates, "ALADDIN," "BABES IN THE WOOD," "PUSS IN BOOTS."

All communications,
ARTHUR CARLTON,
Theatre Royal, Worcester.
Telegrams, "Carlton, Worcester."

THEATRE ROYAL, LINCOLN.
WANTED, Musical and Light Attractions, Sept. 26, 27, 28, Oct. 31, Nov. 14 and 28, first three nights.

NEW THEATRE, NEWARK.
Vacant Oct. 17, 18, 19, Jan. 9, and on (first three nights).

KING'S THEATRE, GAINSBOROUGH.
Vacant Nov. 21, Dec. 12, 19, Jan. 16 and 30.
Bookings include "The Arcadians," "Gay Gordons," "Merry Widow," "Havanah," "Girl's Cross Road," F. R. Benson, Horace Lingard, &c.

THE SPA, WHITBY.
Vacant Sept. 8, 9, 10, and 12, 13, 14.

NEW THEATRE, HAWICK.
Wanted, good Dramas, twice nightly, Oct. 31 Nov. 7, Dec. 12, and on.
W. PAYNE SEDDON, The Spa, Whitby.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE, MIDDLESBROUGH.
WANTED, High-class Company, for Oct. 3, Musical Comedy preferred;
also Dec. 5 and 12 and Feb. 20 and 27, 1911.

CASTLE THEATRE, STOCKTON.
Vacant Nov. 28, Dec. 5, 12, and 19, also Christmas and New Year weeks, for First-class Musical Comedy. All communications re Grand Opera House to be addressed there; others to J. CHAS. IMESON, Theatre Royal, Middlesbrough.

WORTHING THEATRE ROYAL.
Rebuilt and enlarged, holding £100.
WANTED, First-class Companies, Sept. 29, Oct. 3, three nights each; also Oct. 31, onwards, full weeks or three nights. Communications to C. A. SEEBOLD, as above.

WANTED, Companies,
Wanted, Oct. 17,
Nov. 28,
Dec. 5,
Jan. 23, onwards.
For High-class Plays, Musical Comedies, &c.
Certainties will be given if desired.
Good companies do great business.
Bookings include "Merry Widow," "When Knights Were Bold," "The Truants," "Gay Gordons," &c.
Apply, A. J. WITHERS, Theatre Royal, Merthyr.

WANTED, for Theatre Royal and Opera House, Leigh, Lancs., First-class Musical Comedy and Dramas, for Sept. 19, 26, Oct. 10 (?), 24, 31, on, with exceptions. FRED GOULD, Lessee.

KING'S THEATRE, KILMARNOCK.
WANTED, for Reopening Date, Oct. 3, Big Attraction. Share or certainty. Wire, TALBOYS, Theatre Royal, Glasgow.

GRAND THEATRES, CHORLEY and RADCLIFFE.
WANTED, Dramatic and Musical Attractions, Nov. 14, 21, Dec. 5, on, Grand, Chorley; also Oct. 24, Nov. 14, Dec. 5, on, Grand, Radcliffe.
SANTE, Radcliffe.

THEATRE ROYAL, COLNE, LANCS.
WANTED, good Companies,
Sept. 26, Oct. 10, and few later dates.
Address, GERALD HARDING.

GRAND THEATRE, NELSON.
WANTED, First-class Attractions for Oct. 24, Nov. 14, Dec. 5, 19, and Xmas. During the vacation this theatre has been redecorated and re-seated. Wire, HORNER, Burnley.

WANTED, Companies, Musical or Dramatic, Sept. 19 (3 nights), Oct. 3, onwards, 3 nights' booking preferred. JAMES ELPHINSTONE, Lyceum Theatre, Stafford.

WANTED, First-class Companies,
Oct. 3 and 10.
MANAGING-DIRECTOR, Theatre Royal, Exeter.

GLOBE T., ROYAL MARINES, WALMER, DEAL.
WANTED, First-class Attractions, vacant Sept. 15, Oct. 6 (three nights each week).
Apply, MANAGER.

WANTED, First-class Dramas, Musical Comedies, and Variety Companies, Sept. 12, 19, and onward. SCOTT ALEXANDER, Proprietor, Hippodrome, Hoyland, Yorkshire.

WANTED, for Sept. 23, 24, 30, Oct. 1, First-class Fit-up Company. This week, "When Knights Were Bold." J. SYKES, Victoria Hall, Abercarne, Mon.

WANTED, for "Pretoria," Okehampton (main line Exeter-Plymouth), Companies, two nights Hall holds 300; scenery. E. WILKINSON, Whimple-street, Plymouth.

KING'S THEATRE, SEACOMBE.
KING'S THEATRE, SEACOMBE.
The only fully licensed Theatre in Wirral.

WANTED, First-class Attractions, for 1911.
Apply, JAMES KIERNAN.

OPERA HOUSE DUNFERMLINE.
WANTED, High-class Companies, Sept. 5 (3 nights), 22nd (3), 26th (3), Oct. 3 (Holiday 3). W. E. POTTS.

HAGGAR'S T. (late Royalty), LLANELLY.
Sole Proprietor, W. HAGGAR, sen.
Manager, JAS. HAGGAR.
WANTED, First-class Attractions, Musical Comedies, Comic Operas, good Panto. for Xmas week, or later. Good terms to good shows.

ASSEMBLY ROOMS THEATRE, DURHAM.
WANTED, First-class Companies, last three nights of week preferred, Sept. 19, 26, Oct. 3, 10, 17, Nov. 21, 28, onwards.
RUSHWORTH and SON, Proprietors.

WANTED, for the Londesborough Theatre, Scarborough, First-class Company, Oct. 3, 3 or 6 nights. Apply MANAGING, Theatre Royal, York.

COMPANIES WANTED.

Booked by
MOSS' EMPIRES, LIMITED,
BORDESLEY PALACE THEATRE,
GRAND THEATRE, NOTTINGHAM,
BROADWAY THEATRE, NEW CROSS,
and
GRAND THEATRE, GLASGOW.

WANTED, Musical Comedy or very Special Attractions.

BROADWAY THEATRE, NEW CROSS.
Vacant March 6, 20, 27, May 29.
Several Autumn (1911) Dates.

BORDESLEY PALACE THEATRE.
Vacant Jan. 9 (?), 16 (?), Feb. 20 (?), 27 (?), April 10 (?), May 1, 8, 15, 22, 29, June 5.
Several Autumn (1911) Dates.

GRAND THEATRE, NOTTINGHAM.
Vacant Dec. 5, April 3, 24, May 8, 15 (?), 22, 29, June 5.
Several Autumn (1911) Dates.

GRAND, GLASGOW.
Vacant several dates Spring, 1911.

GRAND THEATRE, WALSALL.
Vacant Nov. 14, Dec. 5, 12, Jan. 2, 16, 30, Feb. 6, 13, 20, 27, March 13, 20, 27, April 3, 10, 17, 24, May 1, 8, 15, 22, 29, June 5.
Several Autumn (1911) Dates.

Address, with full particulars, terms, &c., where can be seen, to
MOSS' EMPIRES, LIMITED,
Cranbourn-mansions, Cranbourn-street, W.C.
Envelopes marked "Theatres."

WANTED, First-class Companies, for the THEATRE ROYAL, LIMERICK
THEATRE ROYAL, LIMERICK
THEATRE ROYAL, LIMERICK
(under new management).

This popularly-established playhouse is the only theatre in the City, and for years back has been patronised by the best Companies on the road, whose receipts amply testify to the large financial and appreciative houses that were nightly attracted by the productions. The position of the theatre enhances its value considerably—Henry-street being in the heart of the City proper, and is the most-frequented thoroughfare, from a palatial, collegiate, and commercial standpoint. It is well to state that, whilst Legitimate Drama, Shakespearean Répertoire, Light and Grand Opera have an exceptionally large following with playgoers, Old English and Musical Comedy attract considerably large houses, and a goodly percentage of the population favour in the Burlesque and Opera Bouffe. Since the amalgamation of the railways here, greater facilities are afforded for the conveyance of properties, and as to the City's popularity, it has always been considered by old managers as the most attractive "three nights" hit in Ireland, being so nicely situated between Dublin, Cork, and Waterford. Innovations are being carried out gradually, and the main building is still being overhauled. Direct all communications to Managing-Director (G. V. FOGERTY), Theatre Royal, Limerick.

Telegrams, "Fogerty, Limerick."

FOUR PROGRESSIVE THEATRES.
WANTED, High-class Companies,
DEVONSHIRE PARK T., EASTBOURNE,
The Premier Theatre, open all the year,
Oct. 31, Nov. 7, 14, 24 (3 nights with Folkestone).
GAIETY THEATRE, HASTINGS.
Vacant Oct. 3 (3), 24, 31, Nov. 7, 28.
PLEASURE GARDENS T., FOLKESTONE.
Oct. 6 (3), 24, 31, Nov. 7, 21 (3 nights with Eastbourne), 28, Dec. 5, 12.
LYCEUM THEATRE, IPSWICH.
Vacant Sept. 12, Oct. 3 (3), Nov. 14 (3), 21, 28 (?), Dec. 5.
Apply for all above,
H. W. ROWLAND, Theatre, Folkestone.

SCOTLAND'S PROVINCIAL THEATRES.
WANTED, First-class Attractions, for the following dates:—
MOTHERWELL, Sept. 26, Dec. 5 and 12.
AYR, Oct. 17, 24, Nov. 21, Dec. 12.
LEITH, Oct. 10, 24, Dec. 5 and 12.
FALKIRK, Oct. 17, 24, and 31.
Also Good Pantomimes, for Dec. 26, and onwards.
Apply, R. C. BUCHANAN, 6, John-st., Adelphi, W.C.

QUEEN'S THEATRE, FARNWORTH, BOLTON.
WANTED, Powerful Attractions,
Oct. 24 (?), Nov. 7 (?), Dec. 5, 12, 26.
MORTON POWELL, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, BARROW-IN-FURNESS.
Lessee and Manager, Mr. HUGH ROBERTSON.
The Premier Theatre in the Town, with a holding capacity greatly in excess of any other Theatre in the Town.
Booked by Mr. George Edwardes, Mrs. D'Oyly Carte, George Dance, Mr. Arthur Hart, Mr. Frank Curzon, Mr. Fred Mouillot, Messrs. Sidney Cooper and Lyn Harding, Messrs. Paumier and Howard, Mr. R. Courtneidge, Mr. J. W. Turner &c., &c.
WANTED, First-class London Successes, for Oct. 17, 31, Nov. 14, 21, onwards, with exceptions.
All applications for dates to HUGH ROBERTSON, Theatre Royal, Jarrow.

CORPORATION THEATRE
(Late Stephenson Memorial Hall),
CHESTERFIELD.
Lessees and Managers, Messrs. HENSON and DAVIS. Re-decorated and re-renovated. Opens Sept. 5 with "The Thief." New Seating, new Ventilation. Beautiful refreshment bars, lounges, and cloak rooms. Full licences. The finest theatre of its size in the Midlands.
Bookings include:—
"Merry Widow" (third visit), "Arcadians," "Leah Kleschna," "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," J. W. Turner's Opera Co., "The Dairymaids," "The Gay Gordons," "Our Miss Gibbs," &c., &c.
WANTED, Light Attractions, Oct. 17, 18, 19, Dec. 12 and 19, Jan. 9, 16, and 30.
Re dates, apply W. PAYNE SEDDON,
The Spa, Whitby.

NEW HIPPODROME THEATRE, NEATH.
Proprietor, LEON VINT.
The above entirely New Theatre opened Aug. 22. Lighted throughout with electric light. Seating capacity, about 1,600.
WANTED, Good Musical Comedies, Xmas, Certainty only.
Feb. 6, on, &c. Easter, certainty only.
Neath played last week to over £260 gross, with "Sins of a City" and "Stowaway."
No. 1 Managements only dealt with.
All communications re Dates to WILLIAM MINTO, Palace Theatre, Barry Dock.

EMPIRE THEATRE, SWINDON.
WANTED, Musical and Dramatic Attractions, Oct. 3, 17, Nov. 7 (first three nights), Dec. 5, 19, Xmas, on. Also Variety Combinations, Musical and Dramatic Attractions, Garrison T., Tidworth. Oct. 24, Nov. 14, Dec. 12, on, with exceptions. ALFRED MANNERS.

LYCEUM THEATRE, GOVAN, GLASGOW.
WANTED, Strong Attractions, Oct. 3 and 17. Refer visiting Managers re business; all delighted. Address, J. H. OAKDEN, as above.

METROPOLE THEATRE, GATESHEAD.
WANTED, First-class Company, Oct. 10.
R. G. ELDER.

WANTED, a Good Company, for the Public Hall, Exmouth, for two nights (Xmas date), Dec. 26 and 27. Drama or Musical Comedy. Pictures and varieties not required. Best date in the year. Apply, LEON VINT, Globe Villa, Exmouth, Devon.

THEATRES WANTED.

WANTED, Theatres, Oct. 10, Oct. 24, Nov. 14, 21, 28.
WALTER MELVILLE, Lyceum Theatre, London.

Walter Melville's New Production.
WANTED, Theatres, Nov. 7, 14, 21.
WALTER MELVILLE, Lyceum Theatre, London.

"THE GIRL WHO LOST HER CHARACTER."
WANTED, Sept. 12, Dec. 26, and Dates in Jan.
DOUGLAS BRUCE,
Theatre Royal, Chatham.

ANDIE CAINE'S PANTOMIMES.
Absolute Open Time 1911.
"CINDERELLA," All Dates Filled.
"RED RIDING HOOD," Feb. 13.
"BABES IN THE WOOD," all dates filled.
WANTED, Theatres or Music Halls, once or twice nightly; clean, smart, funny, and bright. J. L. BARRY, General-Manager, 21, Thomaston-street, Liverpool.

"A ROYAL DIVORCE."
"A ROYAL DIVORCE."
"A ROYAL DIVORCE."
WANTED, for this Phenomenal Success, weeks of Nov. 14 and 21. Recently played to £900 at Dublin, £653 11s. 6d. at Belfast, and on Saturday last closed our 58th visit to Manchester to a £137 house, being the biggest Saturday night's takings for a dramatic show in over twelve months.
Wire or write to W. W. KELLY,
New Theatre Royal, Birkenhead.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."
"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."
"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."
WANTED, Theatres, Nov. 14, onwards. Big Company, Chorus, Specialities, Special Scenery and Printing.
CHARLES HARRINGTON,
Opera House, Northampton.

"DARE-DEVIL DOROTHY."
"DARE-DEVIL DOROTHY."
Magnificent reception at the Theatre Royal, Aldershot.
Visited nightly by the 2nd Queen's Own Rifles of Canada.
WANTED, Oct. 10 (three nights), Dec. 12.
All communications,
J. W. CORDINER, Sept. 5, Fulham T., Fulham, S.W.

"THE PRIVATE SECRETARY."
EUGENE C. STAFFORD'S No. 1 CO.
WANTED, for this Wonderful Moneymaker, Oct. 3, Nov. 7, 14, 21, and Dec. 26.
BISHOPSDALE, Biddenden, Kent.

MR. BRANDON THOMAS'S
"CHARLEY'S AUNT" COMPANY.
WANTED, Theatres, for
Oct. 17 (Midlands or South).
Oct. 24 (Midlands or South).
Address, CECIL BARTH,
The Managers' Club, 5, Wardour-street, London, W.

"PRISCILLA RUNS AWAY,"
by
Elizabeth Arnim.
Direct from the Haymarket Theatre.
By arrangement with Herbert Trench.
First-class Company. Approved by Herbert Trench. The Company Rehearsed and Production Superintended by Mr. Charles La Trobe, Stage-Manager, Haymarket Theatre.
Cast includes:
Miss Beatrice Lindley as Priscilla.
Mr. Clifton Alderson as the Grand Duke.
Mr. J. Edward Pearce as the Tutor.
Entire Production Carried.
Tour starts Sept. 26, Grand Theatre, Blackpool.
WANTED, First-class Theatres only.
For Vacant Dates apply
Mr. JOHN E. WATSON,
Managers' Club, 5, Wardour-street, W.C.

WANTED, Oct. 17 and Xmas, for Mr. Oswald Cray's Magnificent Production of S. Buchanan Rogerson and Guy Thorne's Wonderful Play,
"WHEN IT WAS DARK"
(by arrangement by Mr. T. Morton Powell).
The Romantic Military Drama,
"THE WOMAN WHO GAMBLES," and Dickens's Masterpiece,
"THE MYSTERY OF EDWIN DROOD."
Can play all three pieces in one week if so desired.
Each Play a complete Production.
Printing specially cut by Allen.
OSWALD CRAY, Alexandra Theatre, Ilfracombe.

MISS NORA CARTON'S CO.
present Russell Vaun's Modern Domestic Drama,
"TEMPTATION."
"TEMPTATION."
Played, Staged, and Advertised. Please refer.
WANTED, Known, only vacant dates this year, Oct. 10, Nov. 21 and 28, Dec. 26 (precede Star, Swansea), Jan. 23 (precede Alex., Hull), Feb. 20 (precede Met., Devonport), March 13 (follow Grand, Brighton).
All coms., MARTIN COMSTOCK, Theatre, Paisley, N.B.

WANTED, for "The Cingalee," Nov. 7, 14, 28, Dec. 5, 19, 26, Jan. 9, 23, April 17.
HALDANE CRICHTON; Pier, Hastings.

"THE COAL KING."
WANTED, Sept. 26, Oct. 3, and Nov. 14, only vacant dates.
ALDERSON, Managers' Club, 5, Wardour-street, W.C.

A. and B. LIMPUS' No. 1 CO.
"THE THIEF"
(by arrangement with Mr. George Alexander).
Entire Production carried.
WANTED, Theatres, Oct. 10, 11, 12, Oct. 17 (?), Oct. 31, Nov. 7 (?), 28. Bookings include Scarboro', Harrogate, Yarmouth, Portsmouth, Plymouth, Brighton, Folkestone, Eastbourne, &c.
A. LIMPUS, Corporation Theatre, Chesterfield.

"MAN TO MAN."
EDWARD LLOYD and CLIFFORD BOWN'S CO.
WANTED, Nov. 21, and Christmas.
EDWARD LLOYD, Grand Theatre, Walsall.

WANTED, for the Great Success, "His Real Wife," Xmas (?), Jan. 9, 16, 23, onwards. Best theatres only. Add., T. E. WARD, Hippo., Sheerness.

WANTED, Sept. 5 (three or six nights, to precede Sunderland), 19, 26, and on, for "Caste." G. W. Anson as Eccles. Wire, BUSCH, King's Theatre, Greenock; Sept. 5, King's Theatre, Sunderland.

WANTED, Theatre, for "The Fighting Chance," for Oct. 31. Apply, POPULAR PLAYHOUSES, LTD., Lyceum Theatre, W.C.

The New Musical Comedy Success,
"MISS PLASTER—OF PARIS."
WANTED, Good Theatres, Feb. 20, 27, all March. HENRY L. OSMOND, T. R., Crook.

MR. J. W. LINDSAY ELLIS presents
"LIGHTS OUT."
Produced by H. B. Irving at the Waldorf and Savoy Theatres.
Return dates booked everywhere.
Refer T. R., Exeter; Opera T., Torquay; T. R., York, &c.
Splendid Pictorial Printing. Magnificent Uniforms.
WANTED, Oct. 3, 10, Nov. 7 (North). This, Opera H., Kidderminster. Next, T. R., Leamington.

WANTED, Managers with Vacant Dates for Pantomime in Theatres where Big Money can be taken, to communicate at earliest with J. F. ELLISTON, Theatre Royal, Bolton.

E. HILL-MITCHELSON'S CO.
WANTED, Oct. 10, for
"The King and the Unknown Woman" Co.
E. HILL-MITCHELSON, c/o "The Era."

THEATRES WANTED.

MORTON POWELL ENTERPRISES.
WANTED, Wanted, Dates,
"FROM MILL GIRL TO MILLIONAIRESS,"
by
Mrs. Morton Powell.
Sensational Success.
Sensational Success.
Sensational Success.
Sensational Success.
Sensational Success.
Sensational Success.
Produced at the Pavilion Theatre, London.
Pavilion Theatre, London.
Pavilion Theatre, London.
Held the Huge House
Held the Huge House
Held the Huge House from Start to Finish.
Sensation on Sensation.
Sensation on Sensation.
The Curtain Falling midst
a Scene
of Tremendous Enthusiasm.
Tremendous Enthusiasm.
The Greatest Success
of the Year.
A Scenic Production
of Unequalled Splendour.
A Company of Exceptional Merit.
A
Drama to Draw
Drama to Draw everywhere.
Figures Speak.
Pavilion Theatre.
Splendid Opening.
Receipts
Receipts
Gone Up each Night
Gone Up each Night
Gone Up each Night
The Drury Lane of the East
The Drury Lane of the East
The Drury Lane of the East has
"FROM MILL GIRL TO MILLIONAIRESS."
a
Drury Lane Drama
Drury Lane Drama
equalling
The Greatest of all the Great Successes.
This the Expressed Opinion of the Management
Management
and
of
the Paying Public.
the Paying Public.
Refer, Refer, Refer.
J. W. Rosenthal, Esq., Managing-Director,
J. W. Rosenthal, Esq., Managing-Director.
Refer,
F. Brown, Esq., Manager.
F. Brown, Esq., Manager.
"FROM MILL GIRL TO MILLIONAIRESS."
by
Mrs. Morton Powell.
Another
Sensational Success.
This week at Grand Theatre Fulham.
This week at Grand Theatre Fulham.
Receipts still going up
each night.
Managers
cordially invited to witness the play
This week, Grand Theatre, Fulham.
The Scenery
a Triumph of Scenic Art.
Brilliant Colouring, Beautiful Staging.
Company
one of the Strongest Touring.
Play
the Greatest of all Mrs. Powell's Dramas, and the Receipts
the Receipts
the Receipts
jump up nightly.
jump up nightly.
jump up nightly.
Success at Pavilion.
Success at Pavilion.
Success at Fulham.
Success at Fulham.
"FROM MILL GIRL TO MILLIONAIRESS."
by
Mrs. Morton Powell.
Another Brilliant Success.
Another Brilliant Success.
Another Brilliant Success.
Refer,
Robert Arthur, Esq., or,
Fred Merer, Esq.
Scored a Triumph.
Scored a Triumph.
A
Sensational Success.
Sensational Success.
Vacant;
Oct. 10 (?), Dec. 12, Jan. 16, 23 (?), Feb. 6, March 27, April 10, May 1, 15, only vacant dates till Oct., 1911.
MORTON POWELL, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

THEATRES WANTED.

MORTON POWELL ENTERPRISES.
WANTED, Wanted, Dates.
"BROUGHT TO RUIN."
By Mrs. Morton Powell.
Brilliant Success
on its Return Visit
to Metropole Theatre, Glasgow.
The Great Building
Packed Nightly.
Hundreds unable to gain admission.
For confirmation
refer
Arthur Jefferson, Esq.
Vacant
Dec. 12, 26, Jan. 9, 30, March 20.
MORTON POWELL, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

"A GIRL'S TEMPTATION."
By Mrs. Morton Powell.
WANTED, Wanted, Dates,
A Great Drama.
Never Fails.
Vacant Nov. 14, 28, Dec. 12, Jan. 9.
MORTON POWELL, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

"DRIVING A GIRL TO DESTRUCTION,"
by Mrs. Morton Powell.
WANTED, Wanted, Dates,
Tremendous Success
at the Rotunda Theatre, Liverpool.
Cheered to the Echo.
Business splendid.
Refer
M. Montgomery, Esq.
Oct. 17, Dec. 12, 26, Jan. 2, 23, Feb. 13.
MORTON POWELL, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

"TWO LITTLE VAGABONDS."
WANTED, Wanted, Dates,
Jan. 9, 23, Feb. 6, 20.
MORTON POWELL, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

MRS. CHARLES SUGDEN
and Her Own Company in New Play
by Mrs. Morton Powell.
WANTED, Wanted, Dates,
Oct. 31, Nov. 7, 14, 28.
MORTON POWELL, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

MR. BULMER'S ENTERPRISES.
"THE GIRL WHO WENT ASTRAY."
"THE GIRL WHO WENT ASTRAY."
"THE GIRL WHO WENT ASTRAY."
The Drama that is averaging £200 a week.
Three weeks' receipts exceed £1,000.
Vacant Oct. 10.
Vacant Oct. 10.
"THE TYRANT."
"THE TYRANT."
"THE TYRANT."
(By arrangement with Miss Marie Dagmar.)
WANTED, Oct. 3, on, with exceptions.
FRED BULMER,
Alexandra Theatre, Birmingham.

"THE IDOL OF PARIS."
"THE IDOL OF PARIS,"
By Chas. Darrell.
WANTED, First-class Theatres,
Oct. 3, 17,
Oct. 3, 17,
MISS ANNIE BELL
as Flare-Flare.
Wire, JAMES BELL,
T. R., Darlington.

MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR HINTON AND TRAVIS GREEN
present their No. 1 Company in
"HER FATAL MARRIAGE."
"HER FATAL MARRIAGE."
WANTED, Oct. 17,
Oct. 17,
unexpectedly vacant through theatre changing hands.
Also Vacant,
Dec. 19, Christmas, Jan. 9, 16, 23, and various Spring and Autumn, 1911, including Easter and Whit.
JERROLD HEATHER as Zaco.
HILDA SHIRLEY as Myra.
Wire or write, ARTHUR HINTON, to-day, T. R., Stratford, E.;
Monday, T. R., Smethwick.

"NICK CARTER, DETECTIVE."
"NICK CARTER, DETECTIVE."
by Arthur Shirley and Ben Landeck.
A Great Play with a Known Title.
WANTED, Oct. 24, Nov. 21 (?), Jan. 2, 9, Feb. 6, March 6, April 17, and on. Refer Messrs. Barnard, J. Worswick, and Mark Lorne, Bordesley.
J. FORBES KNOWLES, Grand T., Nottingham.

MR. and MRS. F. G. KIMBERLEY'S COS.
"HER SECRET LOVER."
Refer F. Weston, Esq., re play and big business at Birkenhead. The play that is without doubt one of the greatest draws on the road.
Vacant Oct. 3, 10.
Vacant Oct. 3, 10.
"THE POWER OF THE KING."
Refer T. R., Leeds, re business last week. Absolutely guaranteed to be one of the Most Superb Productions ever toured.
Vacant Oct. 10, 24, Nov. 21. Jan. 2 vacant.
"TWO LITTLE DRUMMER BOYS."
WANTED, Oct. 17, 24, Oct. 17, 24.
Special Band to Parade.
F. G. KIMBERLEY, T. R., Wolverhampton.

KIMBERLEYS, GREEN, AND HINTON'S CO.
"WAS SHE TO BLAME?"
"WAS SHE TO BLAME?"
By Mrs. F. G. Kimberley.
WANTED, Oct. 3, 17, and First-class Theatre for Christmas, Christmas, Christmas.
The Financial Success.
Closed to splendid house, Bordesley.
Opened magnificently here, Alhambra, Manchester. 3,839 persons paid for admission Monday.
Refer. Refer.
Wire for these dates,
F. G. KIMBERLEY, T. R., Wolverhampton.
All other communications, GEORGE LANGDON, en route.

MR. STEPHEN PRITT'S CO.
"ALMOST HIS BRIDE."
Unique Detective Drama.
WANTED, Wire for Sept. 12, 19 (3 nights), 26, Oct. 10, Nov. 21.
MORRIS MAUD, Queen's, Farnworth, near Bolton.

The Great Unique Attraction,
"THE LIFE OF A SHOWMAN."
Three Shows in One,
Drama, Circus, and Vaudeville.
WANTED, Oct. 24,
Nov. 14,
(both vacant through transfer)
Dec. 26, and on, with exceptions.
Apply, GEORGE TESTO SANTE,
To-day, G., Radcliffe; next, Carlton, Birmingham.

MR. AND MRS. HARRY LYNDON'S TOUR.
"WHY DID SHE RUN AWAY?"
By Mrs. F. G. Kimberley.
Undoubtedly this Great Authoress's Finest Play.
A revelation in clean, domestic drama.
WANTED, Oct. 24, 24, 24, Nov. 7, 7, 7.
Only Vacant Dates till Jan. 16.
Every scene and property carried.
A superb production.
HARRY LYNDON, Queen's, Longton;
next, Palace, Porth.

WANTED, Theatres, G. A. De Gray and H. Masterman's Co., "The Angel of His Dreams." Refer A. Jefferson, Esq., as to business at Met., Glasgow, in spite of tropical weather. Refer R. C. Buchanan, Esq., re the business we are doing on his circuit. Enthusiastic reception nightly here.
Oct. 31 (?), Jan. 2.
New production shortly, "The Forbidden Fruit."
All coms., GEO. A. DE GRAY, to-day, T. R., Coatbridge; Monday, Gaiety T., Methil.

THEATRES WANTED.

FRED GRANVILLE'S PRODUCTIONS, LTD.
"THE BETTER LAND."
Vacant Oct. 3, 10, 17.
"ANOTHER MAN'S WIFE."
Vacant Sept. 26, Oct. 3, 10, 17.
PANTOMIMES.
"BABES IN THE WOOD."
WANTED, to follow run at Grand Theatre, Derby, Jan. 9, 16, 23, 30.
"BEAUTY AND THE BEAST."
Vacant Jan. 16, 23, 30.
"ALADDIN."
Wanted, good Theatre for Production, Dec. 26; also Vacant, Jan. 23, 30, Feb. 6.
Re dates, A. R. FEATHER, Manager,
The Depository, Cazneau-street, Liverpool.

FRED GRANVILLE'S PRODUCTIONS, LTD.
"ANOTHER MAN'S WIFE."
The most successful Drama Touring.
WANTED, Sept. 26, wire.
Wanted, Sept. 26. Wire.
Wanted, Sept. 26. Wire.
Also Oct. 3.
Playing to enormous business everywhere.
Refer Chas. Bush, Esq., Queen's, Leeds.
Tom Sherwood, Esq., Opera House, Wakefield.
Harry Esden, Esq., T. R., Sunderland.
Harris Fineberg, Esq., Star Theatre, Liverpool.
W. W. Kelly, Esq., T. R., Birkenhead.
J. H. Curry, Esq., P. O. W. T., Grimsby.
Wm. Morton, Esq., Alex. Theatre, Hull; &c., &c.
Re dates address, A. R. FEATHER,
The Depository, Cazneau-street, Liverpool.

FRED GRANVILLE PRODUCTIONS, LTD.
"A HOT NIGHT."
Sparkling Musical Comedy. Screamingly Funny. Gorgeously Mounted and Dressed. 30 Performers.
WANTED, Good Theatres,
Oct. 3, Oct. 3, Oct. 3,
Oct. 10, Oct. 10, Oct. 10,
and later.
Re dates, A. R. FEATHER,
The Depositories, Cazneau-st., Liverpool.

"ALONE IN LONDON."
"ALONE IN LONDON."
"ALONE IN LONDON."
"ALONE IN LONDON."
"ALONE IN LONDON."
WANTED, for this Magnificent Production, with
New and Splendid Plant of Printing.
Carefully Selected Company, including
Miss Nellie Clyde
as Nan, the Flower Girl.
Sept. 19 (between Preston and Dublin).
Oct. 17 (between Birmingham and London).
Above are the only dates open till Autumn, 1911.
Address,
CHARLES GIBSON, Castle T., Stockton.

"THE EDUCATION OF ELIZABETH."
The Brilliant Modern Comedy,
from the Haymarket and Apollo Theatres.
Refer to all managers visited.
WANTED, First-class Theatres,
Oct. 17, 24,
Oct. 10, to follow Margate.
ERNEST E. NORRIS,
Knightstone Pavilion, Weston-super-Mare.

"SEND HIM VICTORIOUS."
"SEND HIM VICTORIOUS."
Always the same verdict.
Really excellent.
WANTED, Oct. 17, Oct. 17, Oct. 17.
Wanted, Oct. 31, Oct. 31, Oct. 31.
"FOR HONOUR AND REVENGE."
"FOR HONOUR AND REVENGE."
The Play of Intense Human Interest.
Wanted, Oct. 17, Oct. 17, Oct. 17.
NEW XMAS PRODUCTION.
Vacant Jan. 2, 16.
"A BEAUTIFUL FIEND."
Gorgeous Revival.
Vacant Feb. 13 27.
All Once or Twice Nightly.
MONTAGUE BEAUDYN.
To-day, T. R., Barnsley; next, Empire, Oldham.

"THE MIDNIGHT MAIL."
WANTED, Theatres, for the above, Once or Twice Nightly,
Sept. 19, Nov. 7, 21.
Address, E. DOTTRIDGE, Empire, Oldham.

"THE FEMALE DETECTIVE."
WANTED, Wanted, Sept. 26, to follow Blackburn.
HORACE STANLEY,
To-day, Londonderry; next, Royal, Belfast.

THE WILSON BARRETT
ORIGINAL VERSION of the Famous Play,
"EAST LYNNE"
(BULLOCK VERSION),
by arrangement with J. Pitt Hardacre.
TOM WATT'S SPECIALLY-SELECTED CO.
A Greater Success than Ever.
WANTED, Sept. 26, Sept. 26, Sept. 26, Oct. 3, Oct. 3, Oct. 3, Oct. 3, Nov. 7, 21, 28, Dec. 19 and 26, and on, with exceptions.
Managers requiring a Sound Attraction and sure Money-maker, write or wire.
TOM WATT, 6, Adelphi-chambers, John-street, W.C.
Sept. 5, County Theatre, Reading.

MISS FLORENCE BAINES' COMPANIES.
"MISS LANCASHIRE, LIMITED."
WANTED, Known, Vacant through transfer, Oct. 3, North or Midlands, Nov. 7, 28.
"LAUGHING 'LIZA,"
a New Musical Farce, by the Author of "Miss Lancashire, Limited."
Only Vacancies,
Jan. 16, Feb. 20, and Easter Week.
Address,
MISS FLORENCE BAINES,
Grand Opera House, Middlesbrough.

"THE EVE OF HER WEDDING."
"THE SINNER."
WANTED, Wanted, Theatres,
Oct. 17, 31, Nov. 7, 21.
Can play one or two weeks.
WILSON BENGE, Colosseum Theatre, Oldham.

"LITTLE PHIL'S MOTHER."
WANTED, Theatres, for Nov. 21 (three nights), Jan. 2, Feb. 13, and March 13.
Address,
FRANK M. THORNE, Metropole Theatre, Glasgow.

MR. GASTON MAYER'S PRINCIPAL CO.
"MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH."
"MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH."
WANTED, Oct. 24, 31, Nov. 7 (North).
Coms., WALTER D. NICOLL, 106, Strand, W.C.

WANTED, Oct. 3 (between Longton and Alex., Hull), Oct. 17 (between Hull and Alex., Birmingham), for "Facing the World Alone" or "The Eyes of the World." Address, J. EDWARD WHITTY, Theatre Royal, Sheffield.

"LUCKY 'LIZA."
Always Merry and Bright.
WANTED, Oct. 3, Three Nights.
DICKIE CLARE, Lyceum, Stafford.

WANTED, for Capt. Jack (cast includes Miss Nina Blake-Adams, Messrs. Ernest Owtrim and H. Ryeland-Leigh), Big Theatres. Vacant Sept. 12 (first 3), Sept. 19, Oct. 24, 31 (?), Nov. 14, 21, Dec. 12, 26, and a few open weeks, Spring, 1911. F. CYRIL LEIGHTON, this, Lyric, Liverpool; next, Artillery, Woolwich.

"RED RIDING HOOD" PANTOMIME.
WANTED, Feb. 6, once or twice nightly.
Address, FRED J. LITTLE,
4, Arthur-street, New Oxford-street, London.

WANTED, good Theatres and Halls, for First-class Variety Combination, vacant Sept. 12, 19, 26, and various onwards. All particulars, WILLIAM MARTIN, 415, Strand, London, W.C.

THEATRES WANTED.

MISS HILDA BEVERLEY
in
"A WOMAN OF TWO LIVES,"
by Charles Darrell.

WANTED, Nov. 14, Dec. 26, Jan. 2, 9, 30, March 6, 13.
Enormous Success at Dublin.
Refer. Refer.
Miss Hilda Beverley,
ALEX. T., NEW WASHINGTON.

WANTED, on Sharing Terms, the Best Theatres in England,
THE DAYTON FAMILY,
THE DAYTON FAMILY,
THE DAYTON FAMILY.
1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12 in number.
The Sure Draw. Big Business Everywhere.
Really refined and clever Company besides the above. Splendid printing, lithos., &c.

This week, Empire, Burnley (sixth visit);
Sept. 5, Palace, Plymouth (fifth visit).
Vacant, Sept. 19 (to follow Bristol),
Oct. 3 and 10 (to follow Exeter).

Booking us means sure money. No risk, no worry.

ARTISTS WANTED.

FRED GRANVILLE'S PRODUCTIONS, LTD.
WANTED, Powerful Heavy Man, Juvenile Light Comedy Lady (young, dress well, rehearse at once); also Character Comedy Old Man (small). Terms, refs., photos., &c., to A. R. Feather, The Depository, Cazneau-stre.t, Liverpool.

"WHO IS SHE?" CO.
WANTED, First-class Leading Lady and Leading Man, rehearse Sept. 25. Photos., references, and two weeks' address.
E. Hill-Mitchelson, Theatre, Bordesley.

WANTED, for Mr. Norman V. Norman's Co., Lady and Gentleman, to play small parts and understudy, &c.; must be tall. Particulars, Smith-Neill, South Parade Pier, Southsea.

WANTED, Ladies for Small Parts and Chorus, none under 5ft. 6in. Photos, terms, and references indispensable. All Coms., J. F. Ellistov, Theatre Royal, Bolton.

WANTED, for Tour, Robust Irish Chambermaid ,also Robust Character Comedy Old Man, good Juvenile Gent, also Heavy Gent. All must be artists of experience. State experience, lowest terms, enclose photo, to Bertram, 8, Rupert-court, W.

WANTED, Young Ladies, must be smart, good voices absolutely essential, Contraltos, Sopranos, baritone, &c.; also Smart Soubrette, with singing voice, for eccentric comedy part, in new production. Letters and photos to E. Sivroni, Hippodrome, Boscombe.

WANTED, for Sketch, Tall Lady, handsome appearance, for Russian Countess; also Tall Gentleman, Russian Officer. References, photos., age, height, lowest terms, to J. G. Graham, Pavilion, Glasgow.

WANTED, Refined Lady Amateur, of good appearance, for small parts and understudies in old-established West-End Répertoire Company, to join at once. Full particulars, &c., to Box 8,210, "The Era."

"UNDER SUSPICION."
Now playing London Coliseum.
WANTED, through releasing, tall, gentlemanly Heavy, 6ft. or over, good swordsman; tall dark Leading Lady, not less than 5ft. 8in., for Countess, handsome, good figure, sympathetic part, must dress well.
Miss Lily Hammersley's "Rough Justice" Co. Wanted, tall, heavy gentleman (small part), and A.S.M.; also tall Gentleman for American Romantic Lead, good strong voice; also Baggage and Lines. Apply to-day or Monday, 3, Brunswick-square, W.C.

MORTON POWELL ENTERPRISES.
WANTED, Robust Juvenile Leading Actor, must possess Good Appearance, Clear Delivery, and capable of Power and Pathos.
Morton Powell, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

MISS NORA CARTON'S CO.
WANTED, Gentleman for Responsibles, to understudy and A.S.M., height about 5ft. 8in.; rehearse Barrow-in-Furness Sept. 12. Full particulars, Martin Comstock, Theatre, Paisley, Scotland.

"THE WOMAN IN THE CASE."

WANTED, immediately, a Gentleman to play Klauffsky (Comedy Jew) and combine acting management. Apply, with references, photo, lowest terms, Florence Tyrrell, Palace Theatre, Maidstone.

WANTED, Bass, Tenor, height 5ft. 8in, also Smart Comedian, several Ladies (Contraltos, Soprance). Reply, first instance letter, enclosing photo, references. Manager, 54, Monkton-street, Kennington-road, S.E.

WANTED, Children for Autumn Production. Owing to numerous demands, Miss Lila Field will take Pupils for Stage Training. Engagements found for Pupils. Appointments by letter only. Miss Field, 9a, Gloucester-place, W.

WANTED, Dramatic Artists who experience difficulty in obtaining copies of "The Era" at any of Messrs. Smith and Sons' Bookstalls to kindly communicate with the Publisher, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

ARTISTS' WANTS.

WANTED, Engagement, by Brilliant First-class Tenor, young; Disengaged Sept. 10, Quartette or Concert Party. Apply, First Tenor, Aquarium, Scarborough.

PANTOMIME ARTISTS WANTED.

FRED GRANVILLE'S PRODUCTIONS, LTD.
"BABES IN THE WOOD" PANTOMIME.
WANTED, First-class Principal Boy, for Robin Hood; Principal Girl for Maid Marion, also smart Troupe of Juveniles. Terms, refs., and photos to A. R. Feather, The Depository, Cazneau-street, Liverpool. Important.—Give permanent address.

WANTED, a Comedian of Reputation for Pantomime. Terms and full particulars required. Also a first-class musical-director for same.
Address, E. Dottridge, Empire Theatre, Oldham.

WANTED, tall Chorus Ladies, for Pantomime; not less than 5ft. 7in. References, terms, to Ernest Dottridge, Empire, Oldham.

ANDIE CAINE'S PANTOMIMES.
WANTED, Principal Boys, Principal Girls, also Pair of Sisters. Full particulars with photos, lowest terms, and where working, to Andie Caine, Filey, Yorkshire.

WANTED, Pantomime Artists in all Lines, including two excellent Knockabout Comedians (capable of playing good part), Chorus, &c. All particulars, terms, &c., to William Martin, 415, Strand, W.C.

WANTED, Pantomime Artists, all Lines, Chorus, &c. Send full particulars, photo., and lowest terms for London and provinces, to Kelson Trueman's Agency,
17, Shaftesbury-avenue, W.

WANTED, First-class Comedians, for Fitzwarren, Idle Jack, Abanazar, Ali Baba, Dames, &c., also Demon Kings, must have good voices. Full particulars to Fred J. Little's Agency, 4, Arthur-street, New Oxford-street, London.

MURRAY KING AND CLARK'S PANTOMIMES.
WANTED, First-class Robin Hood (Principal Boy), for "Babes," also Dick and Emperor (tall lady), for "Whittington." Coms., King, Devonshire Park Theatre, Eastbourne.

PANTOMIME ARTISTS' WANTS.

WANTED, by The Finckens, Pantomime Comedy Acrobatic Knockabout Comedians. Perm. address, Shakespeare Hotel, West Hartlepool.

WANTED, Known, Bob Pender's Little Dandies (five boys and one girl), at Liberty for Pantomime, in their Great Speciality, entitled "Dances à la Russe," including Little Doris Pender, the Graceful Little Danseuse, Top and Bottom Bills wherever they appear. Without doubt the Greatest Juvenile Turn now on the Boards. Can be seen working this week at Barnard's, Chatham.

SCENIC ARTISTS WANTED.

WANTED, Good Scenic Artist Carpenter. Full particulars, names, addresses last two references, lowest terms. Arthur Carlton, Theatre Royal, Worcester.

SCENIC ARTISTS' WANTS.

WANTED, Scenery, Contracts, Productions, Our Paint Frames, 40 by 34 Theatres completely fitted with Scenery, Ropes, Blocks, Cleats, &c. Estimates and Designs submitted free. Scenery bought and exchanged. Fred Wilkins and Bro., Ltd., 27-35, Duke-street, Liverpool. Telegrams, "Theatrical."

SCENERY.
WANTED, Contracts for Scenery, Pantomimes, Dramas, Sketches, &c.
Reasonable terms. Estimates free.
Townsend and Co., Rotunda Theatre, Liverpool.

WANTED, Known, Theatrical Advertising Curtains, designed, painted, and written. Distance no object. Real good showy work. Will Molesworth, Shirley, Warwickshire.

WANTED, by Philip Small, Scenic Artist, Engagement or Contract, Town or Provinces; References, &c., address 25, Elgin-terrace, Maida Vale, London.

WANTED, Known, Scenic Artists and Decorators, Bernasconis, Ltd., 41, Gore-street, Liverpool. Tel., "Scenery." 'Phone, 732 Royal. From Daily Mail, April 23, 1910.:—The Tudor Village, Olympia, London. The quaint old buildings, so permanent in appearance, were erected by Bernasconi, Ltd., Liverpool.

WANTED, Shortly, Engagement or Contract, High-class Work only.
Davies Massey, Scenic Artist,
4, Princess May-road, Stoke Newington, N.

WANTED, Contracts for Painting Scenery First-class Work Guaranteed. Cecil E. Hicks, Painting Room, Princess's Theatre, Oxford-street, London, W.

WANTED, Contracts for every description of Scenery and Properties. Good work at reasonable terms. Estimates and models free. Apply, Hancock and Co., 20, Manbey Park, Stratford, London, E.; Painting Rooms, Station-street. Fit-ups for Sale or Hire. Established 1889.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WANTED, a First-class Managing Clerk of good address and thoroughly experienced, for Concert and Variety Agency. Write, in first instance, with full particulars as to ability, &c. All letters treated confidentially. C. Emlyn Jones, 3, 4, and 5, Cartwright-gardens, Russell-square, London, W.C.

WANTED, reliable Agent, capable of arranging Tour for established Concert Party.
Write, Box 8,160, "The Era."

WANTED, Stage Carpenter and assist generally. Strict sobriety essential. Salary 25s. Latest references to Mr. Dunsford, Manager, Theatre Royal, Exeter.

WANTED, good Practical Carpenter. Open at once. Refs., terms, &c.
Feather, Depository, Cazneau-st., Liverpool.

WANTED, Bill Inspector, wife as Cleaner, lowest joint wages; photos. and last two refs.; also Stage Carpenter and Wife. A. Carlton, T. R., Worcester.

WANTED, Billposter, also Wife for cleaning, six rooms, including large bath-room, taxes and water free, must be highly respectable people. Particulars and salary expected, Managers, Winter Gardens, New Brighton.

WANTED, Window-Billers for Plymouth; Manager, also Billers, for South of England. Letters only, H. N. Phillips, British Animated Pictures, Albion House, New Oxford-street, W.C.

THEATRE ROYAL, DARLINGTON.
WANTED, Smart Young Man, for Props. and Billposting. State age, lowest terms, last reference, to James Bell.

WANTED, Young Man, permanent if suitable, experienced in Stage Work and Touching-up Scenery; willing to assist on Stage or Front. Walton, Viola House, Redditch.

WANTED, Assistant for Graham's Marionettes Smart, Sober, Single Man, strong speaking voice, age 25 to 30, must be good carpenter and props. Permanent job to a good man. Wages £8 month. Apply by letter, full particulars, 28, Chaucer-road, Brixton.

WANTED, Known, Energetic Manager, Vacant 10th, desires re-engagement, practical experience in every kind of entertainment work, including rinks, picture, palaces, &c. Highest refs., good clerical scholar, abstainer. All particulars, X., c/o Lane, 8, The Avenue, Ealing, W.

WANTED, Known.—Well-known Manager is willing to invest in up-to-date Production of "Aladdin," for coming Christmas; must be good production, and bear strict investigation. Principals only. Dean, 159, Sherwood-st., Nottingham.

WANTED, Known, Chas. Hector, late Manager London, Collins's, Palace, Hammersmith, and Queen's, Disengaged for Variety, Good-class Picture Palace, Pier Pavilion, or Touring; seventeen years' London experience.
I know every detail and branch of the business thoroughly.
Address, 33, Cumberland-road, Plaistow, E.

WANTED, Known, a Real Live Manager Disengaged Sept. 10, first-class London and Provincial experience; can ensure success of any Rink. Offers,
W. B., 23, New-road, Littlehampton.

WANTED, Known, does anyone require a Manager for a Picture Show? If so, please communicate with Will Thompson, many years with the late G. H. Macdermott, late of the Variety Theatre, Hoxton. Present address, 4, Newington Green-mansions, N.

WANTED, Engagement as Property Master, Resident or Touring; five years' Provincial experience. P. W., 140, Queen's-road, Hastings.

WANTED, Engagement, Props. and Baggage, highest refs. Abstainer. Refer Arthur Carlton, two tours, &c. Can join at once. Wire or write, Read, 98, Springfield-rd., Southborough, Kent.

WANTED, Known, a Youth wishes to enter Theatre or Music Hall Box Office, or as Call Boy. Box 8,154, "The Era."

WANTED, Known, Amy Samwells, First-class Wardrobe Mistress, Disengaged, good renovator, good references. 42, Geneva-road, Coldharbour-lane, Brixton, S.W.

MUSICIANS WANTED.

WANTED, Musical Director (violin) for twice nightly picture and variety theatre in the North-East. Permanent engagement from Monday, Sept. 19. Also wanted, 'Cello, Piano, Cornet, and Drum (5 in band). Apply Rex Co., 110, St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

WANTED, an Experienced Musician to organise and take charge of a small Brass Band for street parade. State instruments and lowest terms to Advertiser, Box 8,212, "The Era."

ROYAL PALACE THEATRE, RAMSGATE.
WANTED, thoroughly Experienced Leader (Violin), to open Sept. 12.
Lowest terms and references.
Address, Henry Bowman, Resident-Manager.

WANTED, good reliable Leader (Violinist); can open immediately; also First-class Solo Cornet. Only reliable, experienced men need apply. Robertshaw, Musical-Director, Palace, Darlington.

WANTED, First-class Orchestral Leader, for White Star Mediterranean Service, Sept. 16, until Dec. Terms and conditions apply Messrs. C. W. and F. N. Black, 14, Castle-street, Liverpool.

WANTED, Leader to Finish Season, must be brilliant Violinist, Solos, &c. State age and salary (lowest) to A. Collinson, Pier Orchestra, Cleethorpes.

WANTED, immediately, First and Second Cornet and Trombone, must be steady. Swallow's Circus, Saturday, Inverurie; Monday, Banchory; Tuesday, Stonehaven; Wednesday, Bervie, N.B.

WANTED, First Cornet, for the Empire Palace, Edinburgh, also First Violin; must be first-class players. Apply, stating terms, with references, to M., Cranbourn-mansions, Cranbourn-st., W.C.

WANTED, good Cornet, also Euphonium, open Sept. 12; comfortable show, for Buff Bill's Circus. Address, Bainbridge, 63, Woodstock-road, Belfast.

WANTED, Cornet, to open Sept. 12. Coms., Scott's Circus. Saturday, Abbeyfeale. Monday, Listowel, Kerry, Ireland.

WANTED, at once, Solo Cornet, Tenting, 32s. 6d. Wire, Richards, Fossett's Circus, Goole (Saturday), Selby, Yorks (Monday). Probably winter shop to follow.

WANTED, Clarionets and Drums, must be good. Other Military Instruments can write in. Sobriety indispensible. Amati, Pavilion, Liverpool.

WANTED, for Bostock and Wombwell's Royal Menagerie, through disappointment, Solo Euphonium. Mills, Sat., Carlisle; Sunday and Monday, Penrith; Tuesday, Appleby.

WANTED, for Tenting, commence at once, Bombardon, sober, or otherwise useless. Apply, terms, M. Corbett, Alexandra's Circus, Sat., Ashford, Kent; Mon., Deal, Kent.

WANTED, until Oct. 1, First-class E Saxophone. Apply,
W. Rimmer, Corporation Band, Southport.

WANTED, Viola, Variety. Apply,
T. Stevens, M.D., 35, Torrington-street, Grimsby.

WANTED, First-class 'Cellist, for Pavilion Variety Theatre, Glasgow. Commence Sept. 19. Sobriety absolutely essential. Apply, with recent references, to Howard Galpin, Musical Director.

WANTED, at Once, First-rate 'Cellist. References, which will be enquired into, to Alfred Carpenter, King's Theatre, Glasgow.

WANTED, Flautist, to open Monday week; must be well experienced in Variety.
Apply, with references,
Manager, Hippodrome, Bury, Lancs.

WANTED, for Works Band, a Flute Player, constant work for suitable person; married man preferred. Berry, Bandmaster, Griffithstown, Mon.

WANTED, to open Sept. 5, Palace, Carlisle, a First-class Pianist; must be experienced and well used to Variety. Age, terms, references, to Musical-Director.

WANTED, Pianist and Vocalist, for Pictures. Age, references, lowest terms. Photo.
E. G. Falcon, County Theatre, Bedford.

WANTED, for Jamaica, First-class Young Lady Pianist. Return fare paid.
Address, Box 8,203, "The Era."

WANTED, for Skating Rink, a Good Pianist, also Violinist. Permanent.
Apply, J., 85, Oliphant-street, Queen's Park, W.

WANTED, smart Picture Pianist, used to Variety, for permanent Theatre, must read music thoroughly; join at once. Cottrell, Victoria Theatre, West Stanley, Co. Durham.

WANTED, Picture Pianist. Must possess large library. Open Monday week. Refs. and salary, Mr. Walker, Picturedrome, Aberdeen.

WANTED, open Sept. 5, experienced Pianist, must be thoroughly acquainted with Picture business. State lowest terms, permanency. Percy B. Milsom, Poole's Perfect Pictures, Cowes.

WANTED, Double Drummer, to open Monday next, three weeks, possibly four. Wire lowest terms to Dowson, Grand Theatre, Douglas, I.O.M.

WANTED, Wanted, Drummer.
Open at once.
W. Durrant, A.M.U., Arcade, Bristol.

WANTED, for Rink, Cornets, Horn, String Bass, Double Drums; must live near Hammersmith; only best-class men. State lowest salary; three sessions; no Sunday; late Regt. Refs. Box 8,194, "The Era."

WANTED, for Mediterranean Yachting, Piano, 'Cello, Violin, Cornet, and Bass. Must be thoroughly reliable, sober, steady, respectable, and experienced. Full particulars, Box 8,197, "The Era."

WANTED, Leader, Violins, Viola, 'Cello, Bass, Flute, Oboe, Clarionet, Bassoon, Horns, Cornets, Trombone, Euphonium, Tympani, for Season, Winter Engagement to follow. Terms, references, Box 8,199, "The Era."

WANTED, to Open at Taunton, Sept. 12, First Violin, Cornet, Double Drums, and all Effects, Flautist.
Must wear evening dress.
Apply, Charles Poole, jun.,
London Hotel, Taunton

WANTED, good Musicians, for Gay's Celebrated Bands, England and the Continent. Apply, lowest terms and refs. Write, American Rink, Merton, London, S.W.

WANTED, for about five weeks, Two Cornets, Trombone, Euphonium, Bass, open Monday, Sept. 5. Terms 35/- Wire, Gleeson, Rink, Warrenpoint, Ireland.

DISTRICT ASYLUM, MELTON, SUFFOLK.
WANTED, Probationer Attendants, must be good Violin or Clarionet Players, able to read at sight, and used to String Orchestra; wages to commence at £32, with board, lodging, washing, and uniform; at the end of one year's service £2 increase, afterwards rising £1 annually up to £42; further increase according to ability as an Attendant. The appointment will be made subject to the provisions of the Asylums Officers' Superannuation Act, 1909. Applications to be sent to the Medical Superintendent, enclosing copy of one testimonial.

MUSICIANS WANTED.

AMALGAMATED MUSICIANS' UNION.
Gen. Office, 135, Moss-lane East, Manchester.
J. B. Williams, General Secretary.
London Office, Trafalgar House, 9, Gt. Newport-street, W.C.
C. Jesson, Secretary.

Business men appreciate business methods.
Read the following:—
"My band is now complete with A.M.U. musicians. You have helped me beyond measure. Convey my thanks to Mr. Jesson, who has dealt most kindly with me. I truly appreciate the business workings of the society."—M.D., Palace, Reading.
"The orchestra is now quite satisfactory, and is working splendidly."—Manager, Empire, Stockport.
"I think it is a splendid idea, advertising in 'The Era' for the A.M.U. I have secured a good engagement. I don't always get the chance to see the Disengaged List when engaged where there is no branch, but I can always get to see 'The Era.'" —Edinburgh member.

WANTED, Solo Cornet and 'Cello, to combine Cornet, for Grimsby. Apply, General Office. Also Leader and Drummer, Middlesbrough; Flute and First Violin, Manchester; Conductor, combine Piano and Violin, Stockport; First Violin, Blackburn; Drummer and Leader, Stockton; Leader, Dundee; and Leader, Tynemouth.

THE NATIONAL FEDERATION OF PROFESSIONAL MUSICIANS, Reg. No. 1398, T.U.
WANTED, Fully-qualified Musicians to join the above Protective Society, which is out to effect a Consolidation of the whole Musical Profession of the United Kingdom; to maintain the status of ability of the Musician, and to promote a system of fair and equitable dealing between its members and their employers.
Owing to the reliable efficiency of its members its popularity among managers and musical directors is rapidly increasing. Vacancies for certain instruments. Employers send along wants. Efficiency always guaranteed, as two-jobbers and unqualified musicians are not supplied by this Society.
Wire, "Orchestra," Manchester. For pamphlets, entrance forms, &c., or musicians, apply to the most convenient of the following offices:
Manchester: S. Brolly, 1, Upper Kent-rd., Victoria Park.
Oldham: E. H. Goddard, 6, Crown-street.
London: Chris. J. Hoggett, 26, Wardour-st., W.
Glasgow: Fred Young, 71, Scott-street, Garnethill.
General Secretary: Joseph Ball, 19, Grange-street, Rusholme.

WANTED, for Morecambe, open Monday, experienced Lady Violinist and Lady Cornet; also Flute and Piccolo, lady or gentleman. Wire, Newton, 4, Marriner's-terrace, Filey.

WANTED, Conductors and Music Hall Artists to use our "Standard" Band Part Covers, strong dark green cloth, sizes 12½ by 10½, 11½ by 8, 7s. 6d. and 5s. 6d. dozen respectively. Instrument names 2d. set, carriage forward. Cash with order. The Standard Press, Blackburn.

WANTED, Musicians, before accepting Engagements in Scotland, to communicate with Mr. J. Bartley, 717, New City-road, Glasgow; Mr. J. Cameron, 20, Hazelbank-terrace, Edinburgh; or Mr. A. Fraser, 58, Victoria-road, Dundee.

WANTED, Musicians who experience difficulty in obtaining copies of "The Era" at any of Messrs. Smith and Son's Bookstalls, or from any Newsagent in the United Kingdom, to kindly communicate with the Publisher, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

MUSICIANS' WANTS.

WANTED, Known, H. A. Dowson, Musical-Director (Piano), Disengaged Oct. 2, for Musical Comedy, Varieties, &c., Composer and Arranger; experienced; highest refs. First-class offers only. Grand Theatre, Douglas, I.O.M

WANTED, Known, Wilfred Ball, Musical-Director (Violin); Disengaged Sept. 19, with or without Orchestra; any business; extensive library; highest references. Address, 13, Camden-square, or Pavilion, Ramsgate.

WANTED, Engagement, Musical Director, permanent. Music Hall or Theatre. Thoroughly experienced. Box 8,192, "The Era" Office.

WANTED, Known, Herbert Steele, Pianist, Conductor, and Competent Orchestra, liberty after Sept. 10. Now terminating second season. Alhambra Palace, Morecambe.

WANTED, Known, First-class experienced Music Hall Conductor requires Engagement; splendid up-to-date library of music; highest references. 164, Caversham-road, Reading, Berks.

WANTED, Engagement, by experienced Variety Conductor, late with Barrasford; excellent references; big library. Lancaster, 4, Rosslyn-house, Brixton Oval, S.W.

WANTED, Known, Fred Eplett, Conductor, Composer, and Arranger, is open to accept engagement. Address, 38, St. Mary's-square, Kennington-road, S.E.

WANTED, Re-engagement, Conductor, Theatre or Variety, long experience, thoroughly reliable, excellent refs., good library. Disengaged Sept. 10. Offers.
Musical Director,
Ipswich Villa, George-street, Weston-super-Mare.

WANTED, Engagement, Smart Violin Conductor, termination season Olympia. Highest refs. Conductor, 21, Prospect-place, Scarborough.

WANTED, Engagement as Leader, to open in three weeks' time. Thoroughly experienced. Offers to Parisi, 4, Adam-st., Burnham, Somerset.

WANTED, Engagement, Leader or First Violin, any business; excellent refs. Lissington, Violinist, Goode's Hotel, Great Yarmouth.

WANTED, by Violinist, Engagement; at Liberty shortly to accept Engagement in London; finishing season as Leader; young, and reliable; best London refs. Box 8,167, "The Era."

WANTED, Engagement by Experienced Violinist, to open Sept. 12. Café or Theatre preferred. 39, St. Stephen's-avenue, Shepherd's Bush, W.

WANTED, Engagement in Orchestra, First or Second Violin, deputy or permanent. London or near. Steady and reliable. H. Foreman, 20, Ilderton-road, South Bermondsey, S.E.

WANTED, engagement as Violinist, experienced in Dramatic or Variety Business. Good refs. Apply Violinist, 30, Eastfield-road, St. Denys, Southampton.

WANTED, Engagement by Experienced Violinist and 'Cellist (ladies). Disengaged Sept. 5. Address Miss L. Matthews, 230, Croxted-road, Herne Hill, S.E.

WANTED, Engagement, by thoroughly experienced, reliable Violinist, Leader or First; finishing Grand T., Douglas; after Saturday, Jas. Heap, 55, Cog-street, Burnley.

WANTED, by First or Second Violin, Engagement, any business. R. Gundlach, Orchestra, New Cross Empire, London, S.E.

WANTED, by Violinist (Leader) and Pianist-Vocalist, Lady and Gent., Engagement; Picture Show preferred. G. Quinn, 219, Maxey-road, Woolwich, S.E.

WANTED, Engagement by Experienced First Violinist. Steady, reliable. Near London preferred. Excellent references. Herbert Butcher, Grand Theatre, Llandudno, Wales.

WANTED, Known, Violinist (lady), Disengaged, London preferred. Experienced, soloist. Address, Box 8,205, "The Era."

WANTED, Engagement, by Cornet, any business; good refs.
2, Sunnyside-road, Sandgate, Kent.

MUSICIANS' WANTS.

WANTED, by Solo Cornet, Engagement. Will terminate season shortly, Pavilion, Ramsgate. Experienced all lines. Good refs. Kaye, 14, Meeting-street, Ramsgate.

WANTED, Engagement as Cornet, First or Second, any business; can open at once. J. Robson, 2, Waterhouse-terrace, Upper Kirkgate, Halifax.

WANTED, Engagement, by Cornet, any Business. Address, Cornet, 52, Fortune Gate-road, Harlesden, London, N.W.

WANTED, by Solo Cornet, thoroughly experienced Variety, reliable, any other business, well-known player. Thomas E. Collier, 106, Kennington Park-road, London, S.E.

WANTED, Engagement, by Cornet, Disengaged Sept. 3.
W. A., 213, Portnall-road, Maida Hill, W.

WANTED, Engagement, as First Cornet, at Liberty Sept. 19, any business.
Sid Channing, Minstrel Arena, Great Yarmouth.

WANTED, by Second Cornet or First, Re-engagement, any business; just finishing season, Pavilion, Ramsgate. Turner, 50, Hertford-street, Ramsgate.

WANTED, Engagement, by Solo Cornet, experienced in Variety, steady and reliable, good references. Moderate terms. Walters, Cornet, Olympia, Darlington.

WANTED, Engagement, by reliable Clarionettist, Theatre or Music Hall; at present Solo Clarionet, Morecambe Municipal Band. Garner, 15, Skipton-street.

WANTED, Engagement, by Clarionettist; can open Sept. 19, any Business; young; good refs. Atkinson, c/o 2, Fank-terrace, Bowness, Windermere.

WANTED, Engagement, Clarionet, any business; good refs.; steady and reliable. George White, 9, Culford-grove, Kingsland, London, N.

WANTED, Known, Clarionet, First-class Performer, Liberty Sept. 19. Experienced. Any business. Good refs. Steady, attentive, respectable. Address, Box 8,209, "The Era."

WANTED, Known, well-experienced Clarionet desires change; 6 years present shop; steady and reliable; open Sept. 19. Address, first instance, Box 8,186, "The Era."

WANTED, by Clarionettist just finishing season, Engagement, reliable; good references. Henry Baker, Alberta, Copse-rd., Clevedon.

WANTED, Engagement, by Young Lady Double Bass, any business, at Liberty Sept. 10. Miss Georgie Vernon, Olympian Gardens, Lowestoft.

WANTED, Engagement, Bass and Violin, together or separate, experienced all lines, sober, reliable. Address, Lucas, Madoc House, Pwllheli, North Wales.

WANTED, Known, good Bassoonist, at Liberty Sept. 12, high or low pitch; excellent refs. Apply, W. Bates, Ashworth-terrace, Dewsbury.

WANTED, Engagement, as Double Bass, competent, experienced, reliable, good references, Liberty now. Alfred Sunderland, 5, Ebenezer-place, Great Horton, Bradford.

WANTED, engagement as Trombone, thoroughly experienced, steady and reliable, Theatre, Music Hall, Touring, any business. S. Smith, 24, Stanley-street, Blackburn, Lancs.

WANTED, Engagement by Trombone, experienced in all lines. Now at liberty.
Address Musician, 11, Leyland-street, Accrington.

WANTED, Re-engagement by Trombone, Strong, Steady, Reliable. Excellent Refs. Brown, Wellington Pier, Great Yarmouth.

WANTED, by good Trombonist, permanency; could combine 'Cello; at Liberty Sept. 3. Tromb. and 'Cello, A.M.U., Winter Gardens Orchestra, Morecambe.

WANTED, Engagement, by Trombone, fully experienced, any bus.; finishing Herr Wurm's Orchestra, Hastings, Sept. 10. Sampson, Prince's Hotel, Hastings.

WANTED, Engagement, by thorough experienced Trombone, through termination of season. E. Stocker, 56, Penrose-street, Walworth-road, London, S.E.

WANTED, Engagement, by good Euphonium, any Business, Disengaged Sept. 10. G. Cowland, Trevor House, Sisson-street, Rhyl, North Wales.

WANTED, Known, Euphonium or Violin, at Liberty Sept. 12; reliable, abstainer. Address, Euphonium, 4, Woodland-terrace, Matlock Bath, Derby.

WANTED, Engagement, by First-class Bombardon, any business. Address, Henry Woodage, 2, Grove-crescent-road, Stratford, London, E.

WANTED, Engagement, after Oct. 1, by experienced Bombardon, any business. Address, Chas. S. Turner, Orchestra, South Pier, Lowestoft.

WANTED, Engagement as E Flat Bombardon, combine String Bass; good references.
Apply, Basso, 23, Hunter-street, Liverpool.

WANTED, Engagement, by experienced, reliable Bombardon; first-class references.
E. Lazzari, Belmont, Sisson-street, Rhyl, N. Wales.

WANTED, Engagement, Open BB Bombardon, just finished Season Engagement, Rink or any business. Harman, 22, Fraser-street, Bedminster, Bristol.

WANTED, Engagement by a Good Bombardon Player. Excellent refs. Wire or write, Moody, 38, Kimberley-road, Lowestoft.

WANTED, Known, Stanley E. Angless, 'Cellist, Queen's Hotel, Cliftonville, Margate. Disengaged Sept. 30.

WANTED, Engagement, by Flute and Piccolo, young, experienced; good refs.; any business; finish season Sept. 15. Gent, 21, South-rd., Gorleston, near Yarmouth.

WANTED, Engagement, by experienced and reliable Flautist, any Business, Variety preferred; good refs. Flautist, 22, Almorah-road, Victoria Park, Bristol.

WANTED, Known, Flute and Piccolo, at Liberty, any Business; reliable.
Flautist, 46, Chatto-road, Clapham Junction.

WANTED, Engagement by Lady Flautist, Disengaged after Sept. 10.
Miss Bessie Pratt, Olympia, Scarborough.

WANTED, by Pianist, Engagement. Can open Monday. Present engagement two years. Thoroughly experienced in variety ,theatrical work. Loder, 13, Marlborough-road, Watford.

WANTED, Known, Ernest Clark, Piano, Euphonium, Trombone, at Liberty Sept. 19. 57, Mayville-avenue, Scarborough.

WANTED, Engagement, by Pianist, experienced and reliable, Rink or Pictures. W. Parratt, 17, Woodhall-dene, Moorside-road, Eccleshill, Bradford, Yorks.

WANTED, Known, Professional Accompanist, Sight Reader, will accompany Singer or Violinist's practice at 2s. 6d. per hour, At Homes, Concerts, &c. Miss Gainsborough, 165, Kennington Park-road, Kennington, S.E.

MUSICIANS' WANTS.

WANTED, by Competent Pianist, Engagement in Electric Picture Palace, London or Provinces; good répertoire. HAROLD JONES, 4, Wyregrove, Blackpool.

WANTED, Engagement, First-class Lady Pianist, Solo and Orchestral. Highest refs. Box 8,208, "The Era."

WANTED, Engagement, by Drums, in First-class Theatre or Music Hall.
GRIFFITHS, 12, Osborne-road, Morecambe.

WANTED, Known, Celebrated Cremona Ladies' Orchestras, smart uniform, now playing Olympia, Jersey, Cromer, Westgate, Folkestone, &c. Booking Autumn. DOROTHEA A. VINCENT, 8, Grafton-square, C.apham. 'Phone 990 Battersea.

WANTED, Known, Imperial Ladies' Orchestras, Vocalists, Bells, &c.; established 1890. Directress, Madame NELLIE BAKER, 114, Woodlands-road, Ilford. 'Phone 877 Ilford.

WANTED, Offers, by the Swastika Ladies' Orchestra, Vocalists, Solo Instrumentalists, &c., Sept. 19, and onwards. Address, LORRAINE, 90, Netherwood-road, West Kensington, London, W.

WANTED, Offers for Bateson's Orchestra, Vocalists, Solo Instrumentalists, Up-to-date Répertoire. Twelfth consecutive season, Lakeside Pavilion, Windermere, Musical-Directress, Miss Maude Trainer. Vacant Oct., onwards. THOS. BATESON, Bowness, Windermere.

WANTED, Engagement by Zingari Band, splendid uniform and répertoire. Any number. Terms, Prof. MITCHELL, Oates-square, St. Marks-street, Leeds.

TRADES EXHIBITION, DEVONPORT.
WANTED, Engagement, by the Celebrated Bohemian Orchestra. Six Performers, all Soloists; fully experienced, any Business; Hotel or Café preferred; Pianist, Flautist, First Violin, Second Violin, Cornet, Bass. Apply, LU DELVA.

WANTED, Known, to Skating Rink Proprietors, &c., the Anglo-Bavarian Military Band is open for Engagements, good up-to-date Library and Uniforms. Terms moderate. Apply, GROOF, Bandmaster, Hoylake, Cheshire.

WANTED, Engagements, Rinks, Picture Palaces, for Collini's Celebrated Military Orchestra Bands, smart men, music, style; opened Stamford Hill Rink Aug. 25, second season, greatest success here.

WANTED, Engagements, by the Lambeth Military Band.
Apply to O. H. CARTER, 32, Tenison-st., London, S.E.

WANTED, Engagement, by a first-class Brass Band of seven and up; uniform, latest music; used to the business. Terms reasonable. Box 8,195, "The Era."

WANTED, Engagement, good small Military Band, late Hampstead Skating Palace, scarlet uniforms, references, photos., small Orchestra for Pictures. BANDMASTER, 11, Inver-road, C.apton.

WANTED, Known, Smart Rink Band, Five or more, now vacant. Latest music. Fine uniform. Terms moderate. CONDUCTOR, Buxton's Rinkeries, Douglas.

WANTED, Engagement by Small Orchestra, Five or Six Performers, Rink or Pictures. Smart Uniform. Latest Music. CONDUCTOR, 116, Shirebrook-road, Sheffield.

WANTED, by Smart Trio, Violin, 'Cello, and Piano, engagement London or Suburbs. Latest music and refs. MUSICUS, 516, Kingston-road, Raynes Park.

CIRCUS ARTISTS WANTED.

JOHN HENRY COOKE'S ROYAL CIRCUS, EDINBURGH.
WANTED, the very best of Equestrian Profession in general for coming winter season.
Apply TALBOT WILLIAM COOKE, Manager,
John Henry Cooke's Royal Circus, Edinburgh.

WANTED, Circus Artists in all Lines, for America.
Acrobats, Tumblers, Knockabouts, Risley Performers, &c.

Apply by letter only to the Twentieth Century Agents,
JOE BOGANNY and GEORGE HOLLOWAY,
1A, Raleigh Lodge, Brixton Hill, London, S.W

'Phone, 648 Brixton.

WANTED, really good Tumbling Agouste, for Zoo Circus, Glasgow, to open at once.
Address, BOSTOCK, Zoo, Glasgow.

WANTED, Young Man that can Tumble a little, used to Comedy. Wire or write, NIMBLE NIP, Bostock's Circus, Saturday and Sunday, Barrow-in-Furness; Monday, Dalton-in-Furness; Tuesday, Ulverston; after, Zoo, Glasgow.

WANTED, Circus Artists who experience difficulty in obtaining copies of "The Era" at any of Messrs. Smith and Sons' Bookstalls to kindly communicate with the PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

CIRCUS ARTISTS' WANTS.

JOHN SCOTT'S ROYAL BRITISH CIRCUS.
JOHN SCOTT'S ROYAL BRITISH CIRCUS.
JOHN SCOTT'S ROYAL BRITISH CIRCUS.

General-Manager, G. H. SCOTT.

Equestrian-Director, Mr. JOE HASTINGS.

WANTED, Engagement for Winter Season. Twenty-five years ago the Circus reigned pre-eminently paramount. Why not to-day? That colossal genius, Oswald Stoll, raised many of the present Hippodromes from the ashes of the pot-house.

Theatre proprietors, Skating Rink proprietors,

THE TIME IS RIPE.

If your present business is on the wane, try a modern Circus. John Scott's Royal Circus will supply the up-to-date Programme. We can give you Horsemanship, Clowns, Specialities, Music Hall Artists, and Spectacles. A constant change weekly, and so on ad infinitum. We can supply the accessories, ring fence, and the necessary paraphernalia. Managers who contemplate running a Circus do not take the advice of interested persons seeking self-aggrandisement; you may interview us. We will supply our route. Reflect before doing business elsewhere. Many a reputation was ruined in the Boer War. It may be the same in the Entertainment World. We will undertake to run the whole concern even to the advertising section. Thanks to the following gentlemen for letters: T. E. Read, Esq., Agricultural Hall; P. Collins, Esq., and the members of Managers' Club, London.

Communications, G. H. SCOTT,
9, Charles-place, Hotwells, Bristol.

WANTED, Oct. 17, and on, by The Finckens, Comedy Acrobats and Trick Donkey Act. Permanent address, Shakespeare Hotel, West Hartlepool.

WANTED, Known, Wanted, Known, Death
Defying, Danger
Deriding,
Dare-
Devil
Diving
Cormack.

At Liberty Oct. 3, on.
Coms., "The Ship," next Hackney Empire, N.E.
(the Professional House), or, American Park, Brussels.

CIRCUS ARTISTS' WANTS.

WANTED, Known, The Stephenson Equestrian Family will be at Liberty for Winter Season (Continental engagement preferred), plenty of good Acts, Harry Stephenson, the greatest of all Jockey Riders, style, appearance, and ability superior to all others. Address, STEPHENSON EQUESTRIAN FAMILY, 40, Wellington-square, Hastings.

WANTED, Known, Etherdo, Pugh, and Olrac, free December next. Mail, c/o SANGER'S Hippodrome, Horley, Surrey.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS WANTED.

WORCESTER PALACE OF VARIETIES.
WANTED, Variety Artists, also Empire, Worcester. No wires. ARTHUR CARLTON, Palace, Worcester.

NEW GAIETY THEATRE, CLYDEBANK,
and
PANOPTICON, GLASGOW.

WANTED, Known, Variety Artists passing North can have two weeks at the above.

Good Sound Specialities,
Double Acts, Sisters, Comedians, Comediennes, Dancers.

Lowest terms, lithos., &c.

A. E. PICKARD, Panopticon, Glasgow.

EMPIRE, TAUNTON.
WANTED, Variety Artists to send Vacant Dates (those doing Double Turns preferable), for Picture Hall; must be new to Taunton; good combinations entertained. Apply, CHARLES POOLE, JUN., London Hotel, Taunton.

WANTED, Variety Artists coming North to send list of Vacant Dates and Terms to JAS. ANDERSON, 6, Great Clyde-street, Glasgow.

VARIETY BOOKINGS AGENCY.
WANTED, Music Hall Artists, in all Lines, to communicate immediately. Full particulars, terms, and dates. Nothing too big.
Tops, Bottoms, and Suitable Acts can be placed at once.
VARIETY BOOKINGS AGENCY,
12 and 13, Henrietta-street, Covent Garden, W.C.
Tel., "Twopence, London." 'Phone, Gerrard 7623.

WANTED, Artists in all Lines to send full list of bookings. Always Vacancies for Suitable Acts. SKIVINGTON'S Agency, 41, Ardgowan-street, Greenock.

WANTED, Star Artists, all Lines, for Aug. Bank Holiday and Future Dates.
WILLIAM MOULD, Central Palace, North Shields.

WANTED, Music Hall Artists all Lines, Specialities, Comedy Acts, Novelties,
Sept. 12, onwards. Terms, Bookings, &c.,
Pantomime Artists all Lines.
Nothing too Big or Small if good.
EDGAR STEBBINGS, 28, Egerton-street, Manchester.
'Phone 9261 Central. Tels., "Stebbing."

WANTED, Star Artists all Lines, from now onwards; Hall small, terms same. Good break for Artists going North, South, or Ireland.
J. J. SCOTT, Empire, Wrexham.

WANTED, Artists, Sept. 12, on. FRED COLLINS, 21, Barclay-street, Springburn, Glasgow; or, to save time, Beach Pavilion, Kinghorn, N.B.

FRED DURHAM'S AGENCY.
WANTED, Artists in all Lines, Sept. 12, on. 1A, Loughboro'-rd, Brixton. 'Phone 15 Brixton.

WANTED, Artist, new to Newark, Doubles doing Singles. Absolute lowest. Hall small. Also complete companies. Share or rental. LE CLAIR, 38, Castlegate, Newark.

WANTED, Wanted, Wanted,
Artists in all Lines,
for Halls in the North.
Good Strong Tops can be placed at once.
Apply, Signor PEPI,
Palace, Darlington

WANTED, Artists, all Lines. Communicate, with lowest combination terms and complete list of bookings, to
THE DAYTON FAMILY,
Palace, Plymouth.
Silence a polite negative pro tem.

VERNO'S AGENCY,
16, Elizabeth-street, Liverpool.
WANTED, Artists, in all Lines, Sept. 12, onwards.
Telegrams, "Merriment." Telephone, 2076 Royal.

WANTED, Star Artists all Lines, early and late dates, London and Provinces. LORD GEO. AYTOUN, 25, Camberwell New-road, London, S.E. Pantomime Artists write.

WANTED, Known, that the Entire Bookings of Rothesay Pavilion are now in the hands of Skivington's Agency. 41, Ardgowan-st., Greenock.

"DARE-DEVIL DOROTHY."
WANTED, Smart up-to-date Novelty Turn, for Brixton, Sept. 12 (seven shows), must be strong act. No vacancies for Sketches, Vocalists, or Dancers. Full particulars, with lithos, to J. W. CORDINER, Fulham Theatre, S.W.

WANTED, Good Refined Turns, Suitable to Pictures; Chorus Songs, with slides preferred. Terms must be low. Alicia Llewellyn write in. WOOD, People's Palace, Tottenham.

WANTED, for Poole's Picture Palaces, Variety Turns; all weeks after Aug. 8. Vacancies and terms to J. R. POOLE, St. Julian's Hall, Guernsey, C.I.

WANTED, for Darlington, Exhibition, First-class Musical Turns
Electric Fit-up preferred. Write quick.
GEO. SCOTT, General Manager,
Exhibition Offices, Darlington.

WANTED, Very Best of Talent, in all Lines, for Widnes, Runcorn, and Northwich.
Refinement Essential.
HAMILTON & HUGHES, Co-Op. Hall, Widnes.

Monday next, onwards,
I require acts of every description.
Head Liners,
Drawing Cards.
Nothing Too Big.
Price no Object to Suitable Artists.
WANTED, Known, I must have Talent Immediately to cope with Enormous Demands.
Always great call for "Monday next"
Vacancies.
This Office Seldom Fails.
HARRY BURNS,
Musical, Pantomime, Variety, and Dramatic Agent.
Send Full List of Vacancies, with Lowest Terms, in First Instance.
Letters, HARRY BURNS,
Welburn House,
Hartlepool.
Wires, "Chosen."
'Phone, 231.
Hartlepool.
N.B.—I book for every hall and tour of note in Europe.

WANTED, Acts of all Kinds,
Acts of all Kinds.

Lowest and House Address,

DALTON'S AGENCY,
29, Mauldeth-rd. West, Withington, Manchester.

WANTED, First-class Acts, for Town Hall, Consett; immediate and future dates.
ARTHUR C. CAMPBELL, 30, George-street, Consett.

WANTED, Big Acts, with drawing powers, for Stanley, Consett, Thornley, Murton, and other Northern towns. SMITH'S Agency, 22, Walker-terrace, Gateshead.

WANTED, Big Variety Acts, with own Combinations and Star Top Lines, on shares, Sept. 12, onward. Resident-Manager, Hippodrome, Hoyland, Yorkshire.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS WANTED.

CHAS. DEETRICH AGENCY,
31, Islington, Liverpool.
WANTED, all the Biggest Acts in the Market, for immediate dates. Send absolute lowest terms, full particulars first instance.

WANTED, Greatest Acts in the Profession to send full bookings, terms, lithos. The man you know. Prof. AINSWORTH, Aquarium, Scarborough.

WANTED, Specialities and Star Artists all Lines, immediately, run of several weeks to right Acts. Send at once with permanent, to RAWES and CLARANCE, Central Agency, Bath-lane, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

BUFFALO PALACE,
ASHINGTON, NORTHUMBERLAND.
WANTED, Specialities, all Lines, Sept. 19, on, with exceptions.
LAMB.

PALACE, SUNDERLAND.
WANTED, Sensational Specialities, big Comedy Acts, Eccentric Acrobatical Troupes, big Novelty Acts, &c., for Sept. 12, 19, 26, onward, must be real Top Liners. Address, with lowest terms, samp.es of printing, &c., to MANAGER.

BARNARD'S AGENCY,
Shaw-street, Liverpool.
WANTED, Big Tops,
Wanted, Big Tops,
Wanted, Big Tops,
Wanted, Big Tops,
and Strong Attractions of all Description.

'Phone 2349 Royal. Tele., "Aeroplane, Liverpool."

GRAND THEATRE, STOCKTON-ON-TEES.
WANTED, Wanted, Wanted,
Sept. 26, Sept. 26, Sept. 26,
a First-class Top, share or certainty, or Full Company.
All coms. to WALTER BATTY, Baltic Hotel.

SMYTHSON'S AGENCY,
38, Craster-road, Brixton Hill, London, S.W.
WANTED, Top-Liner Novelties, Britain and Continent.
(For Continent Sole Agency only entertained.)
Also Panto. Principals for best houses.
Particulars re previous Pantos. and lowest terms.

PERCY VICTOR'S AGENCY.
WANTED, Big Top-Liners, Artists all Lines. Acts free Sept. 12, send immediately.
Contracts this week for: Three Orros, La Valti, Albert Winckler, Wisper, Beattie Bloom, Four Mayos, Winifred Ray, Lauri Bros., Ida Dorrie, Wambas, &c., &c.
48, Bilston-street, Wolverhampton.

WANTED, Sept. 12, onwards, for First-class Combination work only, really big Tops of Bills, willing to share, for own Act, or with Full Company, must be sensational and attractive, new to Provinces preferred, but not essential, capable of following the Great Raymond, Gustave Fasoia, Consul, Tarro Miyake, &c., &c.; plenty of work for suitable Artists that are a draw; must be financially sound. Particulars, full list of Bookings (past and future), and specimen lithos., bill matter in first letter. Interviews by appointment.

ASHBURN'S Agency,
295, Kennington-road, London, S.E.

'Phone 5467 Central. Tele., "Hippotomy, London."

WANTED, Wanted, Immediately,
Big Tops. Bottoms, Sept. 5, onwards, Big Acts with odd weeks out, North. Can fix immediately. Good double Lady and Gent Comedy Duo required for Monday next. Wanted, acts all lines for immediate dates, for Wallsend, and principal Provincial Halls. Lowest terms, list of bookings, &c. WILL LUND, 24, Seymour-street, Liverpool. 'Phone, 682 Royal. Wires, "Comedy."

WANTED, Big Tops of Bill, also Variety Artists in all Lines and good Turns suitable for Picture Halls, for Sept. 12, 19, and later.

List of Bookings and lowest terms to ADAMS' Agency,
Hippodrome, Scarborough.

PALACE, DURHAM (on main line).
WANTED, Startling Tops and Bottoms, for immediate and future dates. T. C. RAWES.

WANTED, Big Tops and Bottoms, and Acts all Lines, immediate and future dates. Send full particulars. LEATON'S Agency, 575, Argyle-street, Glasgow.

WANTED, Top Liners, for Immediate Dates. Full list and lowest terms. DAN NOBLE'S Agency, 272, Liverpool-street, Salford.

HIPPODROME, NOTTINGHAM, AND GRAND THEATRE, DERBY.
WANTED, Big Drawing Tops of Bill, with good printing, for immediate dates. Price no object if goods can get the money in. Letters only. T. ALLAN EDWARDES, Derby.

WANTED, Big Star Tops
for Sept. 5, 12, 19,
Artists, all Lines,
Big Comedy Acts. Wire Quick,
CLIQUOT'S Agency,
9, Monton-street, Denmark-road, Manchester.

FRANK COYLE'S AGENCY.
WANTED, Head-liners, at once, Big Comedy Acts, and Novel Attractions, also Artists in every Line.
Lithos., terms, bookings, and house address,
1, Cross Flatts-drive, Beeston, Leeds.
'Phone, 4195. Telegrams, "Alarm."

WANTED, Varieties, Sept. 19, new to Hoyland, Yorks.
CRAIG, Palace Theatre, Douglas, I.O.M.

WANTED, Complete Picture and Variety Co., on shares. Change pictures twice weekly. Particulars, LE CLAIR, 38, Castlegate, Newark.

JAMAICA.
THE COLONIAL AMUSEMENT SYNDICATE.
WANTED, First-class Lady Vocalists and Dancers, and Small Troupe.
Also Young Lady Pianist and Vocalist.
Return fares paid.
Journey takes two weeks.

Address, with full particulars, to
Box 8,202, "The Era."

WANTED, immediately, two Young Ladies, Acrobatic Dancers, for a New Act; good salary. Address, Box 8,162, "The Era."

WANTED, smart well-behaved Boys, turned 14, able to dance. Full particulars, height, and age, to NEW YORK NIPPERS, New Hotel, Victoria-street, Wolverhampton.

WANTED, Comedian, also Musical Act, Oct. 31, Nov. 7, North. Four Watsons send address. MCASKELL, Theatre, Aberaman.

WANTED, for Tour with a Drama, two Young Acrobats for Small Parts and Specialities. State experience, enclose photo.
BERTRAM, Rupert-court, W.

WANTED, a Good Strong Catcher, one used to Comedy. State height, weight, and lowest terms in first letter. Address, ACROBAT, Box 8,205, "The Era."

WANTED, Lilliputians desiring to visit Australia. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Thumb write. WEATHERSBY'S Agency, 3, Bedford-street, W.C.

WANTED, a Vocalist-Lecturer for Pictures. Must have first-class references and abstainer. Full particulars, terms, &c., to E. DOTTRIDGE, Empire, Oldham.

WANTED, Smart Young Man, as Assistant to Illusionist; must be able to use tools. State age, height, salary, &c., to Box 8,190, "The Era."

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS WANTED.

WANTED, Operator, with own Machine and Films, Sept. 19, Gas or Electric; thirty minutes' show, Yorks. F. NAPIER, c/o Woods, 12, Park-road, Douglas, I.O.M.

WANTED, Music Hall Artists who experience difficulty in obtaining copies of "The Era" at any of Messrs. Smith and Son's Bookstalls to kindly communicate with the PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS' WANTS.

WANTED, Wanted, Known.
THE DAYTON FAMILY,
1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12 in Number.
The sure draw. No risk. No worry.
Vacant Sept. 19 (to follow Bristol), Oct. 3 and 10 (to follow Exeter).
This week, Empire, Burnley. Own Company. Sixth visit to Burnley.
Sept. 5, Palace, Plymouth. Fifth Visit.
Certainty or share. Sharing terms with complete company preferred. Engagements on sharing terms we accept direct only.

WANTED, Known, Madame Adah Payne, the Australian Prima Donna, late of Moody-Manners' Principal Opera Co.; at Lib. Oct. 10. To-day, Regent, Salford (fourth visit at increase); next week, New Alhambra, Openshaw (return at increase). All coms. to REGINALD PAYNE, Hippo., Norwich.

WANTED, Sept. 12, on, for Gabrielle Hope's Novelty Musical Act, the largest and handsomest in the business; only lady playing Organ Chimes unassisted, Sleigh Bells with own piano accompaniment; Marimbaphone, Spielophone, Piano Solos. 1, Norfolk House-rd., Streatham.

WANTED, Sept. 12, Dot Mellon, Illustrated Songstress, own slides, only 14, with the voice of a woman. 82, Booth-street West, Manchester.

WANTED, Known, Patricia Lind, Refined Vocal Comedienne, at Liberty Sept. 19. Best offers invited. Halls. Sketch. Concert Party, &c. Good Pianist, Concerteds. Also Vacant Panto., Soubrette or Low Comedy. "MASQUERADERS," Fraserburgh, Scotland.

WANTED, Sept. 12, also Panto., by Cambo and Casteile, Musical Monkey Act.
Address, Empire, Coventry.

WANTED, Sept. 12 and 19, by Tom Casey, the Newsboy Vocalist and Whistler. Next, Victoria Theatre, Sacriston; or, SMITH'S Agency, Gateshead.

WANTED, Known, Fred Hadley. Comedian and Dancer. A Great Success here; Four Songs in Each House. Vacant Monday. Wire, Hippodrome, Cambridge.

WANTED, Known, Pat O'Connor, Comedian and Champion Dancer. At Liberty. 17, Newcastle-street, Hulme, Manchester.

WANTED, Monday next, by Clive Watts, Refined Comedian and Great Dancer. Wire, 34, Gowlett-road, East Dulwich, S.E.

WANTED, Sept. 5, on, exceptions, Dan Ashton's (Copyrights) Collier's Songs, Sketches, Colliery Pictures. Alexandra, Washington; next, R. Seaham Harbour.

WANTED, Monday next, Midlands preferred, also Sept. 19, by Mons. Savaro, Bird Mimic; also as Agouste, Equilibrist. Wire offers, Palace, High Wycombe, Bucks.

The greatest Egyptian Illusionist.—Vide O. Stoll.
PHAROS,
WANTED, Dates, Oct. and Nov., for this Great Draw. The Most Startling Magical Act ever presented to the Public.
"A splendid programme included Pharos. This wonderful performer gave a most weird and clever entertainment, and received a great reception at the close. Pharos must be seen to be properly appreciated."—Leamington Chronicle. Beautifully staged and dressed. A strong Top-liner for any Bill. Per., 25, Osbourne-road, Blackpool.

WANTED, Known, Wilton Warton, Magician wants Sept. 19. Success, Empire, Southport; next, St. James's Hall, Harrogate; Sept. 12, Pavilion, Northwich.

WANTED, Known, Great Excitement at Merthyr, Little Hackenschmidt, Fifth Visit, and booked to return again shortly. Now drawing big crowds, Pavilion, Mountain Ash. Vacant 12th 19th. Wire quick. Coms., Empress, Hartlepool.

WANTED, Sept. 5 and 12, by Van Rook, Premier South African Athlete. This week, Empire, Hyde. Manager GRAHAME, 53, George-st. Dukinfield.

WANTED, Monday, on, The Mannikins Living Marionettes (Harry and Maud). Novel Electric Show. Second visit here, Theatre Royal, Shrewsbury.

WANTED, Known, the Tissots, Originators of Living Marionettes, are Vacant, Sept. 12, 19 Next week, Tivoli, Dublin.

WANTED, Sept. 19, 26, by Harry Keeble, the Incomparable Ventriloquist; also Gladys Wells, the Celebrated Yorkshire Contralto. Mon. Hippodrome, Ton-y-Pandy.

WANTED, Sept. 12, 19, 26, by St. Malo and Coombs (Maude and Harry), in rép. of Vocal Comedy Acts. This and next, Poole's Palace, Gloucester.

WANTED, Monday, by the Roses, in Laughable Comedy Episode, "The Ma'jah," and Single Comedian, two good acts. Wire, Queen's Hall, Darlaston, Staffs.

WANTED, Sept. 19, 26, Oct. 10, The Dunvilles, Latest Unrivalled Spectacular Comedy Instrumental Vocal Dance and Patter Act, "Little Bits of This and That." Address, New Palace, Rugby.

WANTED, Known, Frankford and Maine, The Real Life Comedy Couple.
Return, Sept. 5. Palace, Tranmere, Liverpool.
Thanks to Mr. Arthur Brogden, General Manager Vint's Electric Palaces, for 9 weeks' engagement.
Liberty Sept. 12 only.

WANTED, Known, Pearce and Ward, vacant Sept. 19 and 26. This, New Empire, Merthyr; next, P., Lincoln. Wire offers.

WANTED, Known, Cumberlands, free Nov. 14, 21, Dec. 5, 12, 19, 26, 1910. Letters, "The Era," or 28, Haytor-road, Brixton.

WANTED, by Hector and Lauraine, Comedians and Upside-down Boxers, Sept. 5, 12, 22, Newbold-road, Chesterfield; after Sat., 10, Clifford-street, Manchester.

WANTED, Known, The Danbys (Charles and Arthur), Comedians, Knockabouts, and Dancing Experts, Liberty for Pantomime. Coms., 20, Lothair-street, Manchester.

WANTED, Sept. 19, 26, Oct. 3, onward, by Rohde and Roche, in their Novelty Episode, "The Chameleon Artist and It." Hippodrome, Loughborough. Sept. 5, Picturedrome, Long Eaton.

WANTED, by the Sisters Geretti, Premier Gymnasts, Sept. 12, 19, 26, and Oct. 3.
Hippodrome, Liverpool.

WANTED, Wanted, Nov. 7, 14, and on, by the Unique Equilibristic Marvels,
PHINEAS and ADA.
On Tour.
Perm., Belfield Lawn, Rochdale.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS' WANTS.

WANTED, by Mlle. Sylvesto, and Clown Rumbo, Comedy Pot-Pourri Contortionist, Sept. 5, between Carlisle and Aberaman. Wire, H. M. T., Carlisle.

WANTED, by Maro Duo, Quaintest and Funniest Three-bar Act, Sept. 12, This, Pal., Tynemouth. Monday, Palace, North Shields.

WANTED, Known, owing to enormous success for weeks commencing Aug. 15 and 22, at Marine Gardens, Edinburgh, The Flying Oreniuses (Flying Trapeze à la Hegelmann) have been re-engaged for this week; can fix on small stage or anywhere; vacant Sept. 5, 12, on. A good Top. Per. add., 67, Walcot-square, London, S.E. No reasonable offer refused. Secure this Novelty. Wire for Monday, wire.

WANTED, Sept. 12, 19, Northampton Chronicle: The Bouncing Peps give an extraordinary Acrobatic Show. In fact, they might more correctly be dubbed the human balls. Era, Stage-Managers, Public, and Artists, all say very smart act. A Star Novelty. Sure Success. Monday, Hippodrome, Blackpool.

NOTICE.
NOTICE.
NOTICE.

WARNING.
WARNING.
WARNING.

WANTED, Wanted, Known,
The Public are hereby informed that the Raymond Phillips' Wireless Controlled Airship is protected by Letters Patent in Great Britain and Abroad, under which the Sole and Exclusive Right to Self-propelled Air-vessels or Ships controlled by Wireless Electric Waves is covered, and that the use of any such apparatus by others will be an infringement of the patent against which Legal Proceedings will be at once instituted.

For terms, &c., apply to the Inventor,

T. E. RAYMOND PHILLIPS,
15, Nicander-road,
Sefton Park,
Liverpool.

WANTED, Monday, by Billy Ross and Co., Great Comedy and Speciality Boxing Act. Competitions nightly if required. Wire, Hippodrome, Hull.

WANTED, by Charles Valvo, Sept. 12, and later dates. The Big Star Vent. Act. Book this act, and make sure of a big week. Address, Empire, Merthyr.

WANTED, Sept. 26 (precede Hip., Keighley), by Astor, the Real Novelty Ventriloquist. Add., Cremorne Hotel, Havelock-rd., Gt. Yarmouth.

WANTED, Oct. 3, 10, 17, by Hulbert, Ventriloquist, and De Lil, Illusionist, Two Smart Acts. Offers invited. Palace, Hexham-on-Tyne.

WANTED, Known, Miss Shanara's Great Troupe Deer, Goats, Great Novelty, the only Known Act of this kind; refined, up to date; something out of the usual, Stage Set and Costumes All. Big Turn for Parks, Fêtes; the one Original. Marvellous performance, including the High-springing Bok, for dates. 18, Carter-street, Sunderland.

WANTED, Known, Mlle. Hengleur's Wonderful Russian Poodles. The only troupe of its kind on the vaudeville stage. This lady is acknowledged to be the smartest and have the greatest variety of tricks in the profession. Proprietors, Managers, Agents requiring original and novel act secure Hengleur's Beautiful Russian Poodles. Vacant Sept. 19, Oct. 10. Tynewydd Villa, Rhyl.

WANTED, Sept. 19 and 26, by J. A. WILSON
and
PRIVATE TOWSER,
in "THE TROUBLES OF A RECRUITING SERGEANT."
Fifteen minutes' good clean comedy.

Wire or write,
WILSON, Comedian, Crosshill, Glasgow; or Agent, TOM SHAW, 18, Adam-street, Strand, London.

WANTED, Known, Edith Tudora was presented on Friday last, Aug. 25, with a Beautiful Bouquet by her many admirers, in recognition of her splendid Animal Performance at the Royal Jubilee Hall, Weymouth.

WANTED, by Inanda, presents "Bute," Marvellous Educated Canine Wonder. Refined Speciality, Clever, Humorous, the only dog performing the Barrel Act, Halls or Pictures. Free Oct. 4, Nov, on. Address, 18, Carter-st., Sunderland.

WANTED, Known, The Cyclinis, Comedy Cyclists, Football on Wheels, vacant Monday, also 12th, 19th. This, Hippo., Buxton; next, Derm., 7, Ebberstone-street, Moss Side, Manchester. Agent, STEBBINGS.

WANTED, by Swift Duo, Novel Comedy Cycling Act, Sept. 12 and 19. Mon. next, Luna Park, Southend. Booked by AYTOUN.

WANTED, Known, Scott Brothers, great combination of Sixteen First-class Acts, including Auto-Mati, Motor Sensation. Liberty Dec., m. 37, Brunswick-street, Blackpool.

WANTED, Known, at Liberty home or abroad, BESSIE JONES and her Aquatic Marvels (five in number), High Divers and Under-water Performers, acknowledged by Press and Public to be the finest performance ever witnessed; now at, and eighth successive season, Aquarium, Scarboro'. Every one is an Artist; we lead, others follow. No bluff.

SHOWMEN'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE ROLLING MOTOR TRACK RIDING MACHINE,
like the Cake-walk and See-saw Slip.
is
Always on the Move, and a Quick Money-taker.
Apply for full particulars to
TAYLOR, PLINSTON BROS., and Co., Ltd.

WANTED, Known, we are Sole Makers of W. Taylor's Patents for above Novelties. New address, Kingsley Works, Grange-road, Willesden Green, W. Registered Trade Mark "Cake Walk."

WANTED, Known, Cartridges, all Brands, Winchester Repeaters, Glass Globes, Water Balls, Targets, and every size cartridge, for the Stage, in stock. GREENE, 74, Falmouth-road, S.E.

WANTED, Known, our Autumn Tour of Exhibitions commences Oct. 1, Streatham. For particulars, apply, MANAGER, Exhibtion, Town Hall, Streatham, S.W.

WANTED, Showmen to save money by sending for Leete's Catalogue of Specially-prepared Paints, Colours, Varnishes, Brushes, &c., and every requisite for decorating Caravans, Roundabouts, Swings, &c. Cheapest house in the trade. A. LEETE and Co., 129, London-road, Southwark, S.E.

WANTED, Known, we supply everything for the Fair and Rifle Ranges. Guns, cartridges, swing ropes. BRITISH Co., 457, High-road, Tottenham.

THE CARNIVAL,
PENMAN'S EMPIRE, COWDENBEATH, N.B.
WANTED, Side Shows of every description, Hoop-La, Games, &c., three weeks, Christmas and New Year; only the best need apply. MANAGER, Empire Rink, Cowdenbeath.

FOR CONTINUATION OF "WANTED" ADVTS. SEE PAGE 36.

MOSS' EMPIRES, LTD & STOLL COMPANIES SUBSEQUENT

(Moss, Stoll, Thornton & Allen Theatres, Amalgamated)

Chairman: SIR EDWARD MOSS

WORKING IN CONJUNCTION

Capital £2,086,000.

(Including Coliseum Syndicate, Ltd.)

Chairman OSWALD STOLL.

Managing Director: OSWALD STOLL

Assisting Director and Chief of Staff: FRANK ALLEN.

Department Superintendent and Chief Accountant: W. S. GORDON MICHIE.

Co-Operative Offices: CRANBOURN MANSIONS, CRANBOURN STREET, LONDON, W.C.

INTERVIEWS BY APPOINTMENT ONLY.

CALLS FOR MONDAY, SEPT. 5, 1910.

Telephone: 1050 and 1051 Gerrard.
Wires: Moss' Empires and Associated Properties, "Twigsoma, London."

THE LONDON HIPPODROME

Rehearsal at 10 a.m. for:—

Zena Dare and Co., in "The Model and the Man," Cleo de Merode, Fragson, Riogoku Family, Jackson Family of Musicians, Lockhart's Elephants, Dixon and Lynde, Animated Pictures, Herbert Lloyd, Geo. Adams, Bert Coote and Co., Rhoda Paul.

EMPIRE PALACE, EDINBURGH.

Rehearsal at 1.30 p.m. for:—

Karno's "Football Match," Chase Lewis, Esta Stella, Ricardo and Salving, Laurie's Kindergarten, Ethel Beech, Bioscope, Campbell and Barber, Ernie Mayne.

EMPIRE THEATRE, GLASGOW.

Rehearsal at 12 noon for:—

Gus Elen, Bioscope, Lillian, Rawsons, Goltz Trio, Daras, Tom Costello, Bessie Butt, Alice Kingsley, Ferry Corwey.

COLISEUM, GLASGOW.

Rehearsal at 12 noon for:—

Oswald Williams, Darracq, Fred Elton, Kitty Wager, Grant and Grant, Fred Poplar, Cornalla and Eddie, Bioscope, Peter Bermingham.

GRAND THEATRE, GLASGOW.

Rehearsal at 12 noon for:—

Stock Company, Illustrated Song, and Pictures.

ARDWICK THEATRE, MANCHESTER.

Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Courtice Pounds and Co., Arthur Lloyd Trio, Durant Bros., Onetti Bros., Lawrence Barclay, Guyer and Valle, Lily Shaw, Sisters Allen, Bioscope, George Bastow.

HIPPODROME, MANCHESTER.

Rehearsal at 12 noon for:—

Harry Tate and Co. in "Flying," Millie Hylton, Leslie Harris, Sisters Doherty, Tom E. Hughes, Bugler Carr, Bioscope, Udagawa and Kawamoura, Willy Pantzer and Co.

EMPIRE PALACE, BIRMINGHAM.

Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Karno's Co., Culi Pift, My Fancy, Barrett and Knowles, Evelyn Stoll, Sammy Shields, Lupino Lane, Pender Troupe, Bioscope, Reid and Power.

BORDESLEY PALACE, BIRMINGHAM.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:

E. Hill Mitchelson's Company in "The King and the Unknown Woman."

GRAND, BIRMINGHAM.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Happy Fanny Fields, Ruth Davenport, Melford's "Non-Suited," Staley's Transformation, Maude Vera, Walter King, Bros. Dean, Bioscope, Hadj-Mohammed Troupe.

PALACE, LEICESTER.

Rehearsal at 2.30 p.m. for:—

Darnley's Co., including Fred Kitchen, in "Private Potts," Fred Lincoln, Roma and Romani, Findens, Great Vincent, Georgina Leno, Bioscope, Evelyn Bingham, Tom Edwards, George French.

EMPIRE, NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.

Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Harry Randall, Gertie Gitana, Frank Couch, Roze and Calvert, Jackson Family of Cyclists, McConnell Trio, Lily Adair, Bioscope, Piccad Troupe, Harry Ford.

EMPIRE PALACE, LIVERPOOL.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Wilkie Bard, James Stewart, Katie Moss, Ethel Newman, Satanella Troupe, Bioscope, Russell Carr, Winifred Hare, Walter Bellonini.

OLYMPIA, LIVERPOOL.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

George Formby, Bioscope, Lulu Williams, Bert Weston, Walter Wade, Elma Spyglass, May Mars, Sutcliffe Family, Alexandre and Hughes, Griffin and Ardel.

EMPIRE, HACKNEY.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Mme. Albani, Jack Pleasants, Jan Zakovsky, Legay Trio, France and Stewart, Harry Bedford, Ugo Nap, Odeyne Spark, Bioscope, Seven Perezoffs.

EMPIRE, FINSBURY PARK.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Mme. Fanny Moody and Charles Manners, George Rae, May Henderson, Siems, Motramos, Daunton-Shaw Troupe, Kirbys, Bioscope, Helen Trix, Bert Coote and Co.

EMPIRE, NEW CROSS.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

George Lashwood, Wyndham and Kitty, Bollingers, Dan Hendy, Brull and Hemsley, King's College Boys, Bioscope, Howard and Harris, Nellie Wallace, Russell Wallett.

BROADWAY THEATRE, NEW CROSS.

Rehearsal at 12 noon for:—

Frederick Melville's Company in "The Bad Girl of the Family."

ALEXANDRA THEATRE, STOKE NEWINGTON.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Stock Company, Illustrated Song, and Pictures.

EMPIRE, STRATFORD.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

G. H. Elliott, Harry Roxbury and Co., Leo Stormont, Wallace Lupino, Eadie and Ramsden, Belles of the Kitchen, Bert Williams, Musical Silvo, Bioscope, Mitchell and Cain.

THE LONDON COLISEUM

Rehearsal at 10 a.m. for:—

Russian Balalaika Court Orchestra, Montgomery and Moore, Drew and Alders, Cumminger and Colonna, Harry Jolson, Dutch Daly, Lydia and Amelys, Eisteddfod Sextette, Addie Dorina, La Belle Titcomb, Rinaldo, Bioscope.

EMPIRE THEATRE, BRADFORD.

Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Raymond Phillips' Wireless Controlled Airship, Johnny Walker, Musical McGregors, Nina Wood, Gothams, Winifred Ward, Duncan's Collies, Mary Ambrose, Bioscope, Ernest Shand.

EMPIRE, SWANSEA.

Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Kate Carney and Co., Mike Nono, Binns and Binns, De Wynne Bros., Alcide Capitaine, Hans and Lux, Frank H. Fox, Bioscope, Maidie Scott.

EMPIRE, CARDIFF.

Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Bella and Bijou, Marconis, Woodhouse and Wells, Verno and Voyce, Ben Albert, Cissie Curlette, Conn and Conrad, Mona Vivian, Bioscope, Olga, Elgar, and Eli Hudson.

PHILHARMONIC HALL, CARDIFF.

Rehearsal at 3 p.m. for:—

Company as booked.

EMPIRE, NEWPORT.

Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Geo. Leyton, Harry Simms, Musical Jees, Avolos, Haig and Novel, Bert Maddison, Bioscope, Lillian Dundas and Co.

EMPIRE, NOTTINGHAM.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Ada Reeve, Leonards, Edie Gray and Boys, Syd May, Mezzettis, Sylvia Du Barry, Sisters Pine, Bioscope, Twelve Fezzans.

EMPIRE PALACE, SHEFFIELD.

Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

George Carney and Co., Shirley and Ransome, Dumond Minstrels, Gustav Fasola, Three Laurels, Lena Verdi, New Mace, Harry Marie, Bioscope, Will Evans, Marie Brayman.

PALACE THEATRE, HULL.

Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Mike S. Whalley, Phillips and Merritt, Garden City Four, Fred Curran, Mons. and Mme. Alf. Agoust, Miles-Stavordale Quintette, Sisters Kilner, Bioscope, Marquis' Ponies, Bert Marsden.

EMPIRE PALACE LEEDS.

Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Great Lester, Australian Woodcutters, Amy Marsden, Orpheus, Andos Japs, Lancashire Lasses, Sybil St. Elmo, Bioscope, Livesey and Rosebery, Dan Crawley.

EMPIRE, SHEPHERD'S BUSH.

Rehearsal at 11 a.m. for:—

La Milo, Kisbey, Gladys Hooley, Talbot and Pearce, "Drummed Out," Goodfellow and Gregson, Frank Seeley, Adey Spencer, Bioscope, Whit Cunliffe.

EMPIRE, HOLLOWAY.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m.:—

Stock Company. Illustrated Song and Pictures.

The following are Booked in conjunction with the above:

EMPIRE, SUNDERLAND.

Rehearsal at 12 noon for:—

Harry Weldon, Will Johnson, Arthur Slater, Daisy Martell, Daisy and Dot, Bioscope, Three Merrills, Arden and Abel, Poluskis.

EMPIRE PALACE, SOUTH SHIELDS.

Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Frances Letty & Co., Cavallotti Bros., Bert Harrow, Lily Burnand, Tate and Tate, Rosa Loader, Pictures, Harry Nelson.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, WALSALL.

Rehearsal at 12 noon for:—

Grassis, Jock Mills, Violas, Azella Wilson, Lola Patey, Bioscope, Sanford and Lyons, Jack Warman.

EMPIRE, WEST HARTLEPOOL.

Rehearsal at 12 noon for:—

Daley Cooper and Mabel Lait, Tom Parker, Charles Norton, Maisie Hibbs, Bioscope, Cumberlands.

EMPIRE THEATRE, DUBLIN.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Daisy Jerome, Fielding and Hull, Annie Blanchard, Ed. E. Ford, Custances, Little Sunbeam, Pictures, Tom Bryce, &c., &c.

EMPIRE THEATRE, BELFAST.

Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Carmos, Little Keeno, Fred Hallam, Peggy Pryde, Burley and Burley, Pictures, Anartos, &c.

IMPERIAL HALL, WALSALL.

Company as Booked.

CROYDON HIPPODROME.

Rehearsal at 11 a.m. for:—

Miss Ellaline Terriss and Co., Stevens and Rennior, Herbert Shelley, Beatrice and Bert, Niagara and Falls, George D'Albert, Carina Sisters, Bioscope, Tom Clare.

PLEASE NOTE.—NO DEPUTIES WILL BE ACCEPTED AT REHEARSALS.

Special provision has been made at each theatre for the exhibition of loose photographs. Artistes are requested to supply these to the Manager on reaching the theatre, and they will be returned in good condition at the end of the week.

IMPORTANT NOTICES.

RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS.—All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office. Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns. Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier. Artists employing agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents. New Acts seeking Engagements, or turns not rebooked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our Districts Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follow:—

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, and DISTRICT.—MR. S. GETHING, Empire Theatre, Glasgow.
LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, and DISTRICT.—MR. PERCIVAL CRAIG, Empire Theatre, Bradford.
BIRMINGHAM, NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, and DISTRICT.—MR. HATTON WHARTON, Empire Theatre, Nottingham.
LIVERPOOL, MANCHESTER, and DISTRICT.—MR. HORACE COLE, The Empire, Liverpool.
SOUTH WALES DISTRICT.—MR. ALBERT MITCHELL, Empire Theatre, Cardiff.
LONDON DISTRICT.—MR. J. CHRISTIE, Empire Theatre, Shepherd's Bush, W.
TOURS COMMITTEE.—LLEWELLYN JOHNS and DISTRICT MANAGERS.

EMPIRE THEATRE, SOUTH SHIELDS.—Artists and Agents wishing to submit TRIALS for their Acts in the North, should apply to the Manager, as Matinées are held every Wednesday for that purpose.

N.B.—MR. OSWALD STOLL or MR. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously. Artists and Agents are requested to note that the Standard Theatre, Shoreditch, and the Terriss Theatre, Rotherhithe, come within the areas absolutely barred by us. Artists and Agents are also requested to note that the Hippodrome, Aston, Birmingham, comes within the area absolutely barred by the Grand Theatre and Empire Palace, Birmingham.

INSTRUCTIONS TO ARTISTS.—Artists must have at least Fourteen Band Parts for English Orchestrations, and Seventeen Band Parts for Foreign Orchestrations. Matter of Bill, Blocks, and Specimens of Pictorials FOR THE ABOVE THEATRES must be sent to Co-operative Offices, at above address, THREE WEEKS before Opening, failing which Artists will run the risk of having their Engagements cancelled. It is important that separate bill matter, blocks, pictorials, &c., for Dublin, Belfast, and South Shields, be sent direct to Mr. Frank Allen at the Co-operative Offices. IMPORTANT.—Artists must forward Copies of Songs to the STAGE DEPARTMENT, ABOVE ADDRESS, TWO WEEKS previous to opening, with Assignments for same, which will be returned. Artists are requested to note carefully that the clause in their contracts relating to rehearsals will in future be strictly enforced. Artists' Scenery, Properties, &c., MUST be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Licensing Authorities. ARTISTS WILL CLEARLY UNDERSTAND THAT THEIR BUSINESS MUST BE FREE FROM ALL VULGARITY.

No order or contract for goods or services must be accepted for any of the foregoing theatres except upon receipt of an Official Form, issued from the Co-operative Offices, London, and signed by either Mr. Oswald Stoll, Mr. Frank Allen, or the Chief Accountant, otherwise the Company concerned will not be responsible for same, and will refuse payment. In special cases, where goods are required at once, suppliers must look to the individual placing the order, who will be personally liable, unless an official confirmatory order, signed as above, is received within forty-eight hours. Invoices must be sent to the Theatre, but monthly statements should be sent to the Co-operative Offices. The individual Company on whose behalf orders are signed is solely responsible for payment. The Management will not hold themselves responsible in the event of loss of or damage to any MSS., Songs, &c., submitted for consideration.

The Greatest Aggregation of Variety Theatres in the World

LONDON OFFICES:
— OAKLEY HOUSE, —
Bloomsbury St., W.C.,
where please address all communications in regard to the Professional and Publicity Departments of the PROVINCIAL CIRCUIT to Mr. SYDNEY ARTHUR.
—— Telegraphic Address ——
"CIRVAUMAC LONDON."
Telephone—No. 9167 GERRARD.

THE MACNAGHTEN VAUDEVILLE CIRCUIT

Director-General:
Mr. FRANK MACNAGHTEN.

Secretary: Miss AMY ROBINSON.

General Business Manager for the Circuit:
Mr. E. P. LAWTON.

Provincial District and Booking Manager:
Mr. SYDNEY ARTHUR.

SHEFFIELD OFFICES:
KING'S CHAMBERS,
Angel St., Sheffield,
where please address all communications in regard to FINANCIAL, COMMERCIAL, and GENERAL BUSINESS MATTERS.
—— Telegraphic Address ——
"MACNAGHTEN, SHEFFIELD."
Telephone—No. 3449.

CALLS FOR WEEK COMMENCING MONDAY, SEPT. 5.

PROVINCIAL HOUSES.

PALACE, HALIFAX.
Frank and Jen Latona, The Westwoods, May Rowe, Danvers and Rossiyn, Frank Boyce, Sydney Girls, The Mars Trio, Palace Perfection Pictures, May De Rowse.

PAVILION, LEICESTER.
Ford, Webb, and Co., in "The Spy," Mlle. Bartenelli, Cissie Carter, Clarke and Mostol, Leo and Roland, Pavilion Perfection Pictures.

PALACE THEATRE, CARLISLE.
L'Incognita, Dick and Dorothy, Karr and Kooney, Morissey, Marie and Nellie, George Edmunds, "The Plumbers," Palace Perfection Pictures.

PALACE, SOUTHAMPTON.
E. D. Nicholls and Co., Four Rosebuds, Mona Garrick, Ethel Bourne, The Seddons, Fred Durban, Guest and Newlyn, Jessie Buckle, Dick Tubb, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PALACE, BRADFORD.
Matinée Thursday.
"Compensation," Guy Ryder, Gibbon and Bell, Four Figaros, Jack Hamilton, Zellini, Musical Marvels, Doris Druce, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME, WARRINGTON.
Chung Ling Soo, Nellie Farrell, Pat Lynch, Lomas Duo, Edwin Garth, Bros. St. Clair, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PALACE THEATRE, BATH.
Phil Ray, Corcoran Bros., Roy Beavis, Rene, Mollie Doon, Bros. Victor, Alice Craven, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PALACE THEATRE, HUDDERSFIELD.
"The Yellow Fang," Herr Julius Walther, Poole and Maguire, Colbert, Four Maisanos, Loube Trio, Julia Reeve, John Donald, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME, BURNLEY.
"The Key," The Hulls, Little Sophie, Edgar Forrest and Co., Kirk and Saraski, The De Breans, Mr. Fred Lindsay, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PALACE THEATRE, LINCOLN.
The Garricks, Johnny Cecil, Sisters St. Julian, Hurnan and Arthur, Elroy, Sisters Caine, Ellerslie Pyne, Fred Ward, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME, CARDIFF.
Friend and Downing, Bardoff, Sisters Williams, Dene and Dixon, Daisy Hurdle, Nellie Neil, Jeff Martin Co., Vesta Nixon, Reed and Stevens, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PALACE, BLACKBURN.
Bros. Egbert, Ten Dixie Girls, Rizarellis, Juno Salmo, Recar Trio, Bertha Winder, Rousby and Rene, Doody and Wright, Palace Perfection Pictures.

THEATRE ROYAL, ROTHERHAM.
Picture Entertainment.
THEATRE ROYAL, CHESTERFIELD.
Chas. Draycott's Répertoire Co.
THEATRE ROYAL, ATTERCLIFFE.
Picture Entertainment.
KING'S, NOTTINGHAM.
Billy Elliott, Picture Entertainment.
HIPPODROME, STOKE-ON-TRENT.
"The Lighthouse Robbery."
PIER PAVILION, SOUTHPORT.
Sam Redfern, Two Manites, Gladys and Alber, Mollie Augarde, Chris Baker, Kitty Upton, The Millwards, Lizette Troupe, Florence Smithers and Co., Pavilion Perfection Pictures.
Special Matinées, Sept. 8 and 9.
"Hedda Gabler" and "The Master Builder."

LONDON HOUSES.

PALACE, BOW.
Matinée every Monday, at 2.30.
Bernard Mervyn and Co., Pictures, Lottie Lennox, Pete and Juno, Oliver Mostyn, Belmonts, Oswald and Lock, Morton Duo, Paynolas, "The Justice of Man," Flo Warner.

SADLER'S WELLS.
Matinée every Monday, at 2.30.
Drama, Twice Nightly.

FORESTERS'.
Matinées Monday and Thursday, at 2.30.
Pictures, The Wedburns, Vera Mayne, Ted Karno and Co., Archie Pit, Reg. Beauchamp, The Days, Myrtle Grove, Arthur Rose and Co., Louisa Peach and Co.

SURREY THEATRE.
Matinée every Monday, at 2.30.
Pictures, Sidney Bach, Florence Yaymen, Victo, Phydoras, Pete and Minnie Lee, Ardell and Odell, Beauty Show, Norah Desmond, Ernest Rees, Carlotta De Yonson and Co.

PALACE, BATTERSEA.
Matinée every Monday, at 2.30.
Pictures, Florence Yaymen, Norman Grant, John Henderson and Co., Bros. Lawrence, The Boriskis, Four Sparks, Tennis and Laune, The Cederics, Velda, Farr and Farland.

London District and Booking Manager: Mr. FREDERIC BAUGH.

SPECIAL AND IMPORTANT NOTICE.—Artists engaged will please note that Rehearsals at ALL Halls take place at 12 o'clock noon each Monday. No excuses whatever for non-attendance will be entertained. All billing matter and notification of appearance accompanied by samples of pictorial printing must be IN THE CASE OF THE PROVINCIAL HALLS SENT TO OAKLEY HOUSE, BLOOMSBURY STREET, W.C.; AND IN THE CASE OF THE LONDON HALLS TO THE FORESTERS' THEATRE, CAMBRIDGE ROAD, E., fourteen clear days prior to opening, or Contract may be cancelled at the option of the Management. Artists wishing to negotiate Engagements for the London Houses of the Circuit will please apply to Mr. FREDERIC BAUGH, Booking Manager for London, at the FORESTERS' THEATRE, CAMBRIDGE ROAD, E. Telegraphic address, "Stageyness, London." Telephone 5954 Avenue.

Artists wishing to negotiate provincial engagements, Agents and Managers of Touring Companies, can be seen at Oakley House by appointment only.

All applications for dates at the Theatre Royal, Rotherham, and Theatre Royal, Chesterfield, to be addressed to Oakley House, Bloomsbury-street, London.

SPECIAL NOTICE.
COUNTY THEATRE, BEDFORD, and GRAND THEATRE, LUTON. Mr. E. GRAHAM FALCON is not responsible for any Contracts made for the above Theatres by Mr. Albert Leigh, who has no longer any connection with either theatre.—Signed, E. GRAHAM FALCON.

"MOTHER," "MOTHER" "MOTHER," and
WALTER EMERSON
Causing a Furore Nightly at the
Hippodrome, Liverpool.
The prevailing topic of conversation in Liverpool,
WALTER EMERSON
"and "Mother," "Mother," "Mother."
E. de VERE, Esq., Agent.

FOR PRINTING
We aim to give the best, and we solicit a trial.
We have thousands of
STOCK PICTORIALS.
See our Catalogues.
STAFFORD & CO., Ltd., Netherfield, Notts.

MOODY BROS., Theatrical Printers, Birmingham, for Pictorials. Machinery to print 60 by 40. Write for new catalogue, which contains Mackenzie's and Hollingsburst's Illustrations; also Culliford's Catalogue for Bargains. Contracts for New Work solicited. 'Phone One-two-o-six Central. Tel. "Moody's, Bmgham"

WILLSON'S
Supply Streamer Letters.
The Largest Assortment in the United Kingdom.
Mammoth Posters, Daybills, and the general Run of Show Printing at our usual Low Rates.
Roll Tickets and Railway Tickets a Speciality.
NEW WALK PRINTING WORKS, LEICESTER.

HAMILTONS, LTD., COVENTRY, write
SMART COLOURED POSTERS,
30 by 40, 1s.; 40 by 60, 2s.; 80 by 60, 3s. 6d.
Any wording, per return.
LINEN BANNERS, COLOURS,
20 by 3, 15s.; 10 by 3, 7s. 6d..
Any size, 3d. square foot.
5% cash with order only.
Carriage paid.

We are 'Phone 6177
POSTER SPECIALISTS.
Try us.
Posters of all sizes, Daybills, Folders, Handbills, and all classes of Theatrical Printing, large or small.
HOLLOWAY and BIBLE, Cenral Printing Works, Weston-super-Mare.

To Hotel Proprietors who regularly file "The Era."
HANDSOME ILLUMINATED METAL TABLETS
of
"THE ERA."
PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings, 6, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

PHOTOS
with Individuality, with Style, and with distinction,
MEAN SUCCESS.
MODERN PHOTOGRAPHIC WORK FOR ARTISTES.
The well-known establishment of THE Hana STUDIOS, Ltd., place at your service a thorough knowledge and experience of artistes' requirements.
WE CAN PLEASE YOU, AND OUR PRICES WILL SATISFY YOU TOO.
We gladly answer any enquiries.
THE HANA STUDIOS, Ltd., 22, Bedford-street, Strand

BROOKFIELD ESTATE, HIGHGATE.
BUILDING SITES.—Beautiful Surroundings, fine air and healthy situation, close to Parliament Hill Fields and Waterlow Park (extensive and picturesque open space in perpetuity), and adjoining the historic private estate of Holly Lodge, inside the four-mile radius from Charing Cross, with rapid and easy access to City and West End, and suitable for Villas and Houses of various sizes with gardens; moderate ground rents.
Apply,
THURGOOD and MARTIN, 27, Chancery-lane, W.C.; or, SALTER, REX, and Co., 311, Kentish Town-rd., N.W.

CLAPHAM PARK (best part).—Freehold Detached House, charming grounds, 1¼ acres, tennis court, shaded carriage-drive, 400yds. of shaded paths and beautiful surroundings, 6 bed, 2 dressing, 3 large reception rooms, marble bath, 3 lavatories, up-to-date in every way, first-class offices, fireproof landings and staircases, electric light, perfectly built, cost £4,000; owner will accept £2,500, or close offer. Caretaker on premises, 114, King's-avenue, Clapham Park, or plan and particulars, L. L. LEEDER, 96, High-road, Chiswick.

BRAID HILLS HOTEL, MORNINGSIDE, EDINBURGH.
Charmingly situated hotel, completely appointed, every modern luxury, uninterrupted views of the city and surrounding district, 450ft. above sea level, pure mountain air, splendid public golf course adjoining hotel, also ladies' course; cable cars to and from city every three minutes up to 11.30 p.m. Terms moderate.
For descriptive brochure apply to MANAGER.

THE COVENTRY HOTEL FOR BACHELORS.
7 and 8, Rupert-street, Coventry-street, W.
Terms moderate. Telephone No. 6269 Gerrard.

NURSING HOME. On Northern Heights, overlooking London to St. Paul's and Alexandra Palace; comfort and good nursing; all cases received; £4 4s. to £8 8s. weekly. 6, Womersley-rd., N. 'Phone 327 Hornsey.

PROFESSIONAL APARTMENTS.
Three Lines, ONE SHILLING.
Thirteen Insertions, TWELVE SHILLINGS.
Address, PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

ABERDEEN.—Mrs. Bowman, 41, Gilcomston-park, 3 sitting, 3 bedrooms (1 double), 2 pianos, bath, near H. M. Theatre, 5 mins. Halls.

BLACKPOOL.—13, South Edward-st. Sitting and Bed rooms; comb. room; 2min. amusements; mod. terms. Davies. 14 years refers.

BRIGHTON.—Seven Stars, Ship-street, opposite G.P.O. The professional house. Sunday Reunions. Always a hearty welcome. Luncheons, &c., at popular prices. DE COSTA, Proprietor.

EDINBURGH.—Cathedral Hotel, near Lyceum, Royal, Empire, and King's. Recommended. Personal Supervision. CHARLES GRANT.

GLASGOW.—Jenning's, Buchanan-st. Station Hotel; inclusive terms 30s. weekly. Near Royal, Royalty, Grand, Empire, Pavilion.

LIVERPOOL.—Royal Court Hotel, Queen-sq.; 30s., inclusive. Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. de Silva (Cossie Noel). Tel. 3938 Royal.

LONDON, S.E.—Kennington Park. Well furnished floor of 2 rooms, gas, central, 12s. 6d. 1d. West and Victoria. 208A, Hillingdon-street.

LONDON, S.E.—Mrs. Dyer, 123, Kennington-road, has two bed-sitting, also bedrooms, vacant for Sept. 4 and 11.

LONDON, S.W.—Superior large front sitting and bedrooms, bathroom; good piano; large garden; excellent cooking and attendance.—145, Brixton-road.

LONDON, W.—Superior sitting-room, bedroom, 15s.; combined, from 8/6. No extras. Convenient. Miss Down, 129 Lancaster-rd, Ladbroke-grove.

MANCHESTER.—Vac. Sunday. Sitting-rooms, bedrooms, or comb. rooms; piano. Terms mod. Mrs. Halliday, 45, Rumford-st., C.-on-M.

MANCHESTER.—Mrs. Wood, 8, Grafton-street, Oxford-road, bedroom and sitting rooms combined; bath and piano; highly recommended. Home from Home.

MANCHESTER. — Mrs. Gray, 36, Booth-street East, Oxford-road, near Palace; 2 bedrooms, front sitting, front combined; bath; w.c. Highly recommended.

MANCHESTER. — 26, Grafton-street, Oxford-road. Mrs. Bouchier. Large front combined sitting and 2 bedrooms; bath, piano; widow, no children.

NOTTINGHAM.—Mrs. Till, 2, Chaucer-villas, Chaucer-st. Apartments, bath (h. and c.), w.c., piano; two minutes halls and theatres.

PORTSMOUTH. — Judd's Hotel. In same family over thirty years. Accommodation for professional gentlemen; inclusive from 30s.

WAKEFIELD. — Harewood Arms Hotel. Professional house of call. Close to Empire. All papers taken. WALTER HEWITT.

SCHOOL FOR DAUGHTERS OF ARTISTS and Professional Men. Warwick College, 71, Brixton-hill, S.W. Large house and garden, excellent education in all branches, home comforts. Terms strictly moderate. Apply, PRINCIPAL.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LAW.

Being a digest of the Law relating to Theatres and Music Halls, and containing chapters on Theatrical Contracts, Theatrical, Music and Dancing, and Excise Licences, Dramatic and Musical Copyright, &c., with an Appendix containing the Acts of Parliament relating thereto, and the regulations of the London County Council and the Lord Chamberlain, by

ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (London), Solicitor.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS—

THE ERA, July 30, 1910.
Important changes in the law affecting the amusement professions have been made since the issue, nine years ago, of the second edition of Mr. Albert A. Strong's valuable book on Theatrical and Musical Law, and the third edition, just published, comes opportunely to hand. The work has been greatly enlarged, upwards of sixty additional pages being required to accommodate the mass of new information. The publication has been brought as nearly as possible up to date, and within its pages will be found analyses of important measures which have been adopted both in Parliament and out. There is, for instance, the full text of the recent Berlin Convention, and the new Copyright Act of the United States. The awards governing the relations between managers, artists, and agents are reproduced in their entirety, and a number of fresh cases illustrating the effect of the barring clauses is included.
The Musical Copyright Act, by which tardy justice was secured to song-writers and publishers, is given in full, and a digest of the measure, bringing out its salient features is also printed. A whole chapter is now devoted to the subject of children on the stage, and the important question of the Workmen's Compensation Act is exhaustively dealt with. All the decisions of the Courts affecting theatres and music-halls are referred to, many notable cases being recalled. The law governing dramatic and musical copyright is defined as clearly as its intricacies will allow, and a reliable indication of the methods to be adopted in securing protection is afforded. The progress made in the question of licensing has been too slow to allow of more than a reproduction of the terms of agreement entered into between the representatives of theatres and music-halls regarding sketches, but pronouncements under that heading are numerous.

THE ENCORE, May 26, 1910.
We have just received the third edition of Mr. Albert A. Strong's book on Theatrical and Musical Law, which is published at "The Era" Office, 5, Tavistock Street, Strand. Since the second edition of this work was published—nine years—many changes have taken place in the laws relating to entertainments, and these have necessitated a considerable enlargement of the volume. Full texts of the recent Berlin Convention and the United States Copyright Law are included in this edition, in which is also published the awards governing the relations between artists, agents, and managers. A number of new cases are also cited illustrating the effects of the barring clause. The Musical Copyright Act, children on the stage, the sketch question, and the Workmen's Compensation Act are all fully dealt with and in a readable and easy style, as free as possible from legal phraseology and technicalities. It is a legal axiom that ignorance of the law is no excuse for breaking it, and, therefore, it behoves everyone connected with the entertainment world to make himself acquainted with the law as it stands in relation to the profession or business in which he may be engaged. To every one connected with the Drama or Variety Mr. Strong's book is a necessity, and this last edition is so comprehensive that anyone who consults it can have no possible excuse for infringing the law on the ground of ignorance. The work will, no doubt, have a ready and rapid sale, for all artists, managers, and agents should have it at hand.

THE FINANCIAL NEWS, June 13, 1910.
In view of the frequent litigation concerning theatrical matters there can be no doubt as to the usefulness of this little book to those whom it concerns, and, apart from its usefulness, it is really quite an interesting little volume, in saying which we are paying tribute to Mr. Strong's lucid methods of explaining the intricacies of the law. He has avoided legal terms as far as possible, and theatrical cases exemplifying legal principles he has given in full. To make this, the third, edition as complete and useful as possible, Acts of Parliament relating to theatrical matters and the regulations of the Lord Chamberlain and London County Council are set out in full in the appendix, with the text of the recent Berlin Convention and the new Copyright Act of the United States.

THE PERFORMER, May 12, 1910.
THE ARTIST'S LEGAL HANDBOOK.
We welcome a third edition of Mr. Albert A. Strong's "Dramatic and Musical Law" ("The Era" Offices), as it is nine years since the second appeared, and much has happened since then, not least the foundation of the V.A.F. and the resultant Award of 1907. This will be found incorporated in the now greatly-improved and extended Appendix of Statutes, ranging from the Disorderly Houses Act of 1751, to last year's L.C.C. Cinematograph regulations. As far as is possible with further developments in daily progress, this invaluable work of legal reference for all interested in the entertainment profession has been brought up-to-date. Sixty pages have been added, and the whole revised and rendered easier of reference by the re-arrangements that have been made, and the numerous marginal headings that have been introduced. Strong, on "Dramatic and Musical Law," may be regarded as the layman's complete authority on the subject, whether he be PROPRIETOR, MANAGER, or ARTIST, and with a lucid explanation of the law so readily available, the artist will be wise to consult its pages before venturing on new contracts and agreements, whether as employed or—in these days of "combinations," sketches, troupes, and what not—as employer.

To the Publisher.
1, Renfrew-road, Lambeth, S.E.
15th June, 1910.
My Dear Sir,—
I have had an opportunity of looking into the third edition of Mr. Albert Strong's "Dramatic and Musical Law," published from your office recently, and I have pleasure in testifying to the great value I have found the previous editions in my practice among ladies and gentlemen connected with the profession for which your valuable paper caters so admirably.
That Mr. Strong has had a wide experience in the matters with which he deals so ably in his book is evidenced by the lucid yet exhaustive manner in which he has treated the various subjects therein, and this last edition is eloquent testimony of the care and ability which he bestows upon his work.
Brought thoroughly up to date it will without doubt find a wide circle of usefulness among the profession whose contracts, Mr. Strong aptly remarks, are so fruitful a source of litigation.
Believe me,
Yours very faithfully,
W. H. ARMSTRONG.

Third Edition. Price 5/- Post free 5/4.
Published at "THE ERA" OFFICES, 5, Tavistock St., Strand, W.C.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 33.

SHOWMEN'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

WANTED, Showmen to Know that the following is a complete
COPYRIGHT LIST OF FAIRS, FEASTS, WAKES, AND CARNIVALS, FOR SEPTEMBER.

ENGLAND.

3. Aldborough (2,000)
3. Barnet (7,876)
3. Bicester (3,023)
3. Chorley (26,850)
3. Churwell (2,013)
3. Crewkerne (4,226)
3. Gorton (26,564)
3. Hucknall-with-Huthwaite (5 000)
3. Hyde Wakes (32,765)
3. Killamarsh (3,644)
3. Leigh (Dorset) (400)
3. Wilmslow (7,952)
5. Alverthorpe (3,372)
5. Armley (24,714)
5. Farnley (2,600)
5. Great Horton (33,000)
5. Oldbury (25,200)
5. Oxford (49,400)
6. Barnoldswick (7,141)
6. Wednesbury (26,500)
7. Fakenham (2,912)
8. Exeter (46,940)
8. Maldon (5,600)
8. Wareham (2,000)
9. Blandford (3,649)
9. Chapel Town (7,749)
9. Openshaw (24,500)
9. Swinton and Pendlebury (19,000)
9. Witton (1,673)
10. Congresbury (1,219)
10. Cromford (1,066)
10. Matlock (7,300)
10. Meltham (1,200)
10. Northwich (17,609)
10. Wirksworth (3,807)
10. Woodthorpe (882)
12. Ardsley (6,226)
12. Barnstaple (14,137)
12. Brentford (15,171)
12. Buxton (10,181)
12. Glastonbury (4,016)
12. Glossop (21,500)
12. Holbeck (18,997)
12. Holme-on-Spalding Moor (1,825)
12. Morchard Bishop (1,100)
14. Broadway (Somerset) (365)
15. Boston (15,677)
15. Lambert Castle (Dorset)
16. Alford (2,500)
16. Llangwith (363)
17. Batley (30,321)
17. Blackheath (Staffs.) (9,553)
17. Bury (58,038)
17. Pateley Bridge (3,200)
19. Amersham (3,209)
19. Atherstone (5,248)
19. Beaminster (2,000)
19. Farnworth (25,000)
19. Hemel Hempstead (11,300)
19. Honley (4,904)
19. Ilkley (7,756)
19. Newcastle (Staffs) (19,914)
19. Rushden (12,500)
19. Sidmouth (4,201)
19. Staines (6,700)
19. Swindon (44,906)
19. Worcester (46,623)
20. Ashby-de-la-Zouche (4,700)
20. Ware (5,573)
21. Backwell (958)
21. Lewes (11,249)
21. Longtown (630)
21. Ottery St. Mary (3,500)
21. Reading (72,214)
22. Bude (1,367)
22. Over (Cheshire) (7,000)
23. Bowdon (4,629)
23. Bugsworth (4,467)
23. Idle Feast (7,500)
23. Iron Acton (1,069)
23. Stevenage (3,957)
24. Bridgwater (15,200)
24. Brierley Hill (12,040)
24. Cambridge (38,939)
24. Hartland (1,746)
24. Haslemere (1,311)
24. Hayfield (2,864)
24. Heyford (813)
24. Huddersfield (95,008)
24. Morton (982)
24. New Mills (6,253)
24. Pickering (3,500)
24. Ratcliffe (137)
24. Tyldesley (14,843)
24. Wootton-under-Edge (3,200)
26. Belford (1,280)
26. Dudley (48,809)
26. Dunstable (5,147)
26. High Wycombe (17,682)
26. March (7,600)
26. Uttoxeter (5,132)
27. Kenilworth (4,544)
27. Spalding (12,293)
28. Chesham (7,245)
28. Gloucester (47,943)
28. Lewes (11,249)
28. Solihull (4,000)
28. Studley (2,765)
29. Alton (5,479)
29. Ampthill (2,200)
29. Birmingham (522,182)
29. Cranbrooke (3,949)
29. Dorchester (9,500)
29. Frome (11,065)
29. Hanbury (1,000)
29. Todmorden (25,400)
29. Uxbridge (8,600)
29. Wallingford (2 608)
30. Eleven Lane Ends Feast
30. Long Stratton (600)

SCOTLAND.

8. Ayr (28,684)
16. Johnstone (10,502)
17. Moss of Balloch (612)
19. Aberdeen (153,108)
20. Castle Douglas (3,039)
24. Hawick (15,000)
27. Dumfries (17,079)
28. Frazerburgh (8,998)
30. Haddington (3,796)
30. Sinclair Town

WALES.

5. Aberavon (7,000)
8. Neath (13,732)
12. Blaenavon (10,864)
17. Brynmawr (6,534)
20. Llanfyllin (1,627)
20. Tredegar (18,574)
24. Abergavenny (7,795)
24. Cowbridge (1,292)
25. Pontardawe (3,327)
30. Llanelly (25,617)

WANTED, Anything Smart and New for Darlington Exhibition. Write quick.
GEO. SCOTT, General Manager,
Exhibition Offices, Darlington.

WANTED, for Large Shop, Barry Dock, Novelties, Tattooist, Automatics, Stalls and Games, &c. Address, NEMO, 23, Plough-terrace, Port Talbot.

LUNA PARK & PALACE, SOUTHEND-ON-SEA. Unprecedented success under the new Management.

WANTED, for Winter Season, Illusions, Freaks, Novelties, and Sensational Attractions, for Shops in Arcade; rental or shares; weekly tenancy or longer if show suitable; must be up-to-date, or useless.
All communications,
T. W. HILTON, Luna Park, Southend.

WANTED, always, Freaks, Novelties, Sensational Attractions, with good drawing powers. CROUCH'S Old-established Wonderland and Variety Theatre, Argyle-street, Glasgow.

WANTED, Freaks, Novelties, and Attractions, now and onwards. Full particulars, sample lithos., and post-cards in first letter, A. E. PICKARD, American Museum, Glasgow.

WANTED, for Darlington Great Exhibition, Sept. 19 to Oct. 8, Lady Palmist, Marionettes, and other High-class Side Shows, share terms; Spaces to Let for Wireworker, Glass Blower, Sketch Artist, Engraving, and other Novelties. Prospectus, GEO. SCOTT, General-Manager. Exhibition Offices, Darlington.

WANTED, Planksman and Comedian, wage 30s. to commence, reliable, smart, good vocalist, permanent situation. GREENWOOD, auctioneer, Everton-rd., Longsight, Manchester.

WANTED, good Handseller and Stockkeeper combined; must be single and sober. State salary and ability to WHITE'S Auction Tent, Arundel-st., Portsmouth. Largest concern travelling WANTED, Tattooer, Share or Rent. Work waiting. Also Fancy Stall and Wireworker. Side Shows. Amusement Promenade, 49 Tontine-street, Folkestone.

WANTED, smart Saleswoman, to manage Jewellery Stall in Exhibitions. Apply, letters only, MANAGER, Exhibition, Town Hall, Streatham, S.W.

WANTED, Smart Young Man to help work up Local Exhibitions; must be used to calling upon tradesmen. Address, Box 8,196, "The Era."

WANTED, Known, Miss Maud Temple, "Britain's Bearded Lady," who for the past five weeks has created a Sensation in Dublin. Visited by tremendous crowds daily. An Unequalled Success. Vacant Sept. 5, onwards. All coms. to James' Waxworks, Dublin.

WANTED, Engagement, by David Long, Doorsman and Lecturer, after Sept. 3; thoroughly understands the business, height 6ft.; good delivery, &c.; distance no object. Address, C/o "The Era."

HIGH WYCOMBE, BUCKS.
WANTED, to Let, Spacious Yard, in Centre of Town, two acres in extent.
Good supply of water. Reasonable terms.
Apply, G. R. S. BROWN, Auctioneer, High Wycombe.

WANTED, to Let, Bloom's Fair Ground, best position in the North, grand opening for large Iron Picture Hall. STACEY, West Stanley, Durham.

WANTED, to Hire for Six Months, or Hire-Purchase, Two Rail Living Waggons, must be in good condition. NORMAN, c/o "The Era" Office.

WANTED, to Hire, for Darlington Exhibition, Quantity Automatic Machines. Terms to GEO. SCOTT, General Manager, Exhibition Offices, Darlington.

WANTED, to Sell, Auction Mart, Complete, with Living Van, goes by rail, or Let on terms. B. O., 66, Market-street, Manchester.

SHOWMEN'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

Important,
To Roundabout Proprietors, Amusement Caterers, and Others.

WANTED, Known, that I have received Instructions to Offer for Immediate Sale by Private Treaty as a Going Concern a Beautiful Set of Three-abreast Gallopers which are undoubtedly Second to None in this country, Savage's make, comprising 40ft. centre truck, Savage's engine, splendid carved and gilt top centre and droppers, 14 carved and gilded rounding boards, cornice, and droppers, over 5ft. deep; carved and gilded drum; large ornamental mirrors; 36 carved horses, by Spooner; 2 motor cars, altogether carrying 74 persons; twisted brass rods; magnificent Gavioli organ; 10 Excello lamps; the whole packs on four loads, road or rail (Savage's trucks). Also 8 h.p. Burrell traction engine and dynamo, 14ft road Pullman living wagon, by Orton. All the above are in condition as new. This lot will be sold; worth the money, and can be seen working any time by appointment. For further particulars, price cards to view, &c., apply to TOM NORMAN, Auctioneer, Auction Dept., "Era" Office, London, N.B.—This is undoubtedly a very Special and First-class Lot.

WANTED, to Sell, Love Letters, Palmistry, Fair, Dark, Comic Cards, Eyes, Marriage, Liars' Licences. Illustrated Catalogue. MEURICE, 39, Argyle-square.

WANTED, to Sell, Automatic Machines, New and Secondhand, Card Delivery, Mother Shiptons, marvellous money-takers. New Catalogue. MEURICE, Argyle-square, W.C.

WANTED, to Sell, Photos, Husbands, Wives, Babies, Love Letters, Fortunes, Eyes, Astrology, Comic Cards, X Rays. MEURICE, 39, Argyle-square, W.C.

WANTED, to Sell, Automatic Machines of every description (including the marvellous Guess Your Weight Weighing Machine). WORMALD, 123, Blythe-road, West Kensington, London, W.

WANTED, to Sell, Automatic Machines, all kinds, lists free, Husband, Wife, Eye, Hair, Fortune, Astrologer cards, 5s. 1,000; Love Letters, 9s. LESLIE, 5, Denning-rd., Hampstead Heath, N.W.

WANTED, Known, Special to Showmen, Biplane, winner of Daily Mail £1,000 prize, Michelin Trophy, &c., fine condition, has been used for exhibition. Best cash offer gets it by Sept. 10.
Seen, and full particulars,
Olympia, Scarboro'.

WANTED, to Sell, 12 fine Distorting Mirrors, 6ft. by 3ft., in good condition, in black frames, used at Earl's Court. Further particulars and price apply, Box 245, G.P.O., Bristol.

WANTED, to Sell, Mechanical Exhibition, complete with hot-air engine; also complete fit-up, with stage, proscenium. Cheap.
CYPRUS CAFE, 114, Pembroke-place, Liverpool.

WANTED, to Purchase, Penny-in-the-Slot Machines, must be in good working order.
WILLIAM MARTIN, 415, Strand, W.C.

WANTED, the Address of Carl Hartley, Armless Midget Lady.
Post Office (till called for), Ashington.

WANTED, Known, the Seventy Thousand Showmen who use the Columns of "The Era" and are moving about should know that they can make "The Era" Offices their Permanent London Address. Letters received will be held till called for, or immediately re-addressed according to instructions. Address all communications respecting the Letter Department to the PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand.

WANTED, Showmen who experience difficulty in obtaining copies of "The Era" at any Railway Bookstall to kindly communicate with the PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

WANTED, every Showman who uses the railway to send to "The Era" for a copy of the article on the new Railway Rates. This will be sent on application, free of charge, to any Showman in the United Kingdom.

SKATING WANTEDS.

WANTED, Floor Managers and Instructors, not over 5ft. 4in.; also Known Professionals as Managers. Arthur West and Davidson please write. Box 8,188, "The Era."

WANTED, good Skating Instructor, to take charge of small Rink at Paisley, to open Sept. 12; must be fairly good Skater, and have some business qualification. Apply, E. H. BOSTOCK, Zoo, Glasgow.

WANTED, Open Sept. 25, two Good Instructors, one to combine skate mechanic. Lowest terms, height, photo., references, and full particulars, to S. REACH, West Suffolk Rink, Bury St. Edmunds.

WANTED, smart experienced man as Manager, combine Floor, country, must be trustworthy, sober, and reliable. Age, height, salary, and copies last three refs. BIRD, c/o Hample's Agency, 166, Shaftesbury-avenue, London.

WANTED, Floor Manager, to assist with general management. Lowest terms to W. E. POTTS, The Rink, Station-road, Dunfermline.

WANTED, Expert Lady or Gent., to give Exhibition at Central Rink, Glossop; must be Real Expert, or no use. Send vacant dates and terms to S. SPENSER, Central Rink, Glossop.

WANTED, smart and pretty Lady Instructress, for Provincial Rink. Age, height, salary, and recent photo., refs. BIRD, c/o Hample's Agency, 166, Shaftesbury-avenue, London.

WANTED, smart experienced Skate Mechanic, willing to be useful in Rink (Midlands). Fullest particulars, terms, and copies of last three refs. Box 8,125, "The Era."

WANTED, Good Skate Mechanic, one able to give instruction in spare time preferred, also make himself useful. Full particulars and terms to MANAGER, Royal Victoria Pavilion Skating Rink, Ramsgate.

WANTED, by Young Lady, Engagement for Oct., as Instructress on the Continent, speaks English, French, German, good Skater, two-step, &c.; photo. Letters only, Miss TATE, 19, Boulevard Flandrin, Paris.

WANTED, by Young Man, position as Floor-Manager of High-class Rink; thoroughly experienced; highest possible references. Address, Box 8,157, "The Era."

WANTED, by A. H. Lee, late General-Manager Ilkley, Yorks, First-class offers; large Rink preferred. 23, Well-close Mount, Carlton Hill, Leeds.

WANTED, Management of Continental Rink, by gentleman, knows good Sites, had previous Continental experience. ERIC CARR, 16, Hyde-road, Waterloo, Liverpool.

WANTED, Re-engagement as Floor Manager or Instructor for a First-class Establishment, thorough experience, smart appearance, and best of references; vacant shortly through season terminating. Box 8,156, "The Era."

WANTED, by Floor Manager or as Instructor, re-engagement, London or Provinces; good skater, waltzing, two-step, tall, good appearance, excellent references. Address, Box 8,185, "The Era."

WANTED, by Floor Manager, or Instructor and Instructress, Re-engagement, singly or jointly; excellent references. Write, G. W. C., 3, Gladstone-street, Leicester.

SKATING WANTEDS.

WANTED, Known, an Exhibition Skater performing to thousands nightly in London Halls seeks Engagements or Management of Small Rink from September. Life experience in rink amusement catering. Box 8,193, "The Era."

WANTED, position as Floor Manager or Instructor, experienced Skater.
Box 8,184, "The Era."

WANTED, Known, Gentleman's son, 21, seeks Instructor's berth. Smart, expert skater, waltzer, &c. References. Disengaged. H., Queenwood, Cheam-rd, Sutton, Surrey.

WANTED, Known, Rink, medium size, centre dense population, Midlands, to be Let or disposed of on extraordinary terms. Apply, TRAVERS, Tempest-street, Wolverhampton.

WANTED, Skating Rink Buildings, commencing Nov., must be in large towns.
Apply, with particulars, to Box 7,853, "The Era."

WANTED, to Buy, quantities of Richardson's, Winslow's, and Brampton's Repair Parts. Address, W. E. POTTS, The Rink, Station-road, Dunfermline.

WANTED, to Buy, 100 pairs of secondhand Skates, in good condition, Richardson's Brampton's, or Winslow's.
Apply, STACEY and Co.,
High Wycombe.

To Rink Managers and Others.
WANTED, 130 pairs of entirely new and about 450 pairs of nearly new Winslow Skates, assorted sizes, for Disposal; all in good condition and ready for use; also quantity of repair parts. Open to Offers.
Apply, WM. COTTIER CURRIN,
Proprietor, Winter Gardens, Onchan Head,
Douglas, Isle of Man.

WANTED, to Buy, Good Skates; must be in good condition. Send particulars to MANAGER, Royal Victoria Pavilion Skating Rink, Ramsgate.

WANTED TO SELL.

CITY OF EXETER.
TO CIRCUS PROPRIETORS.
WANTED, to Sell, by Private Treaty, Freehold Site, six minutes from the High-street, with an area of 58,300ft., and road frontage of 750ft.
Plan and particulars of
LUCAS, Architect, Exeter.

WANTED, Known, for Sale by Private Treaty, Lancashire, Rawtenstall, centre of the Rossendale Valley, population of over 100,000 to play upon, three tram lines terminate at the Theatre door; an up-to-date new Theatre, cost £14,000; seating capacity for over 2,000 persons, Market Hall and three shops included. In order to effect a speedy sale, £7,500 will be accepted, just about half cost. Chief rent only £70 a year.
Further particulars,
NASMITH, 40, Brazennose-street, Manchester.

WANTED, to Sell or Let Hippodrome, Midlands. Dramatic licence, big population. Holds 2,500. Magnificent stage.
Box 8,204, "The Era."

WANTED, to Sell, Portable Theatre, seating capacity 600, on sale for £50, or would let.
ANTHONY O'HARA,
Golden Lion, Ashton-in-Makerfield.

WANTED, to Sell, Several Fine Panto. Productions; or would Let on a Percentage of the Receipts. ARTHUR CARLTON, Theatre, Worcester.

WANTED, to Sell, Films, cheap, and Films for Hire, up-to-date. THE BENDON TRADING CO., 75, Jamaica-st., Glasgow.

WANTED, to Sell, wonderful Spotted Horse, about 15 hands. Broke for Ménage and Liberty Act, also goes for Bareback Act. Reason for selling, leaving country. BERZAC, 13, Union-street, Smethwick, Birmingham.

WANTED, to Sell, Stage Illusions and Apparatus, something new, good; buy of maker, and save money. 212, Kennington-road, London.

WANTED, to Sell, Double Oak Chamber, four doors, elegant corridor, suitable hotel, prison. Offers. Mrs. MARK KINGHORNE, 26, Dagmar-road, Camberwell.

WANTED, to Sell, Resonated Xylophones, as supplied to the Grenadier Guards, 2nd Life Guards, Royal Marine Artillery, L.C.C., and Liverpool Police Bands, also to the following Artists:
The Delafiores, The Wagners, The Three O'Connors, Eileen and May, The Albano Girls, Henriette and Selina, Miss Nellie Nora, Miss G. Hope, The Edison-Bell and Clarion Phonograph Cos., and to numerous Tympanists, including the American Band, at the White City. Tubular Bells, Organ Chimes, Rattles, Marimbas, Glockenspiels, Sleigh Bells, &c. LISLE, 209, Camberwell New-rd., London.

WANTED, Wanted, Wanted, Buyers for Solid Brass Van Hames.
Apply,
JOSEPH SIDAWAY, JUN.,
Hame Manufacturer, Old Hill, Staffordshire.

WANTED, to Sell, Kit Bag, 26in., grand condition, cheap for cash. Apply, J. H. BALSILLIE, Balass, Cupar, N.B. Wanted, a few small cheap Auto Card Delivery Slots.

WANTED, to Sell, two Baskets, trays, rollers, by Craven, practically new, 46in. by 26in. by 32in. and 48in. by 30in. by 32in.
LYNN and HARDING, Savoy House, Strand.

WANTED, to Sell, cheap, handsome Lioness, Llama, Bear, Civet, Yak, Buffalo, Wolf, Jackal, Coatimundi, Badger, twelve Monkeys. Noah's Ark, Reading.

WANTED, to Sell as a Going Concern, Historical Playlet, complete with Scenery, Wardrobe, and all accessories. Dates booked. Big salary. Shows £1,000 a year profit. Star leads. References required and given. Principals (in confidence) only dealt with. Box 8,207, "The Era."

WANTED, to Sell, a Thirty-minutes' Comedy Sketch, in three scenes, by Leonard F. Durell, Author and Producer of "The Bailiff," "H.M.S. Perhaps," &c., &c. Address, DURELL, Comedy Producer and Aquatic Director, Kiralfy's Theatre, Boulevarde Jamar, Bruxelles.

WANTED, to Sell, most original Monologue, by known author, for Star Actress, good at changes, £4 a week assured irrespective of price received from managements. Price £50 entire rights; or £25 partnership.
Box 8,214, "The Era."

WANTED TO BUY.

WANTED, to Purchase for Cash, Large or Small Houses of Furniture.
Address, F. and W. PEARSON, 6, Station-road, Finsbury Park, N. 'Phone No. 2,913 North.

WANTED, to Buy, Good Secondhand Bass Drum and Pair 12in. or 13in. Cymbals.
J. HINCHLIFFE, Theatre Royal, Dewsbury.

WANTED, to Buy, a small well broken dog, one who is house broken, dog will have good home, as I wish a pet. State all tricks, also price and all particulars in first letter; must be as small as possible. Box 8,183, "The Era."

WANTED, Good Card Dog; must be young and cheap. State other tricks, age, &c.
THEO. MAURITUS, 29, Albert-street, S.S., Blackpool.

WANTED, to Buy, good Stage Illusions, Apparatus, for exportage; and others, new or otherwise. Particulars to Box 8,198, "The Era."

WANTED TO BUY.

WANTED, to Buy, cheap for cash, Iron House for Bioscope, also Sheet. J. STONE, 1, Woodhouse Hill-mount, Hunslet Carr, Leeds.

WANTED, to Buy, two Secondhand Travelling Baskets, in good condition.
SMITH-NEILL, South Parade Pier, Southsea.

WANTED, to Buy, Rolling Globe, about 36in. diameter; also two clever performing Black Poodles, and prop. hampers. HENGLEUR, Gynewydd Villa, Rhyl.

WANTED, to Buy,
Good Cinematograph Tent,
New or Secondhand.
Address, Box 8,201, "The Era."

WANTED, a Good Pantomime Production, suitable to play twice nightly.
Send full particulars to
Box 8,211, "The Era."

WANTED, Files of "The Era," 1860, 1, 2, 3, 4, 8, 9, and onwards, to present time. Address, LIBRARIAN, "The Era" Offices, 5, Tavistock-st., W.C.

WANTED, to Buy, Military and Brass Band March Books, and Valses for Rinking. Lowest offer. Money down. Box 8,200, "The Era."

WANTED, by George Osborne, Good Humorous Songs, Monologues, &c., original character preferred. 141, Westgate, Gloucester.

WANTED TO LET OR HIRE.

WANTED, to Let, Dates in Aug. and onwards, Byculiah Athenæum, Enfield, any kind entertainment, Scenery, Electric Lighting. MANAGER.

GOTHENBURG HALL, BOWHILL, CARDENDEN, FIFE. Seating Capacity 900.
WANTED, Known, for vacant dates, terms, &c., apply to Mr. ANDREW B. SIMPSON, Secretary.

WANTED, to Let, for Rehearsals, &c., Large Room, 45ft. by 30ft., smoothpine floor; good piano, accommodation, and ventilation, 1s. 6d. per hour with electric light, 1s. without; two entrances. Bay Malton Hotel, 160, Great Portland-street, W. 'Phone 2948 Mayfair.

WANTED, to Let, from September to Easter, the Pavilion at Lofthouse Park, for Pierrot Troupe or Picture Show, with Variety Turns most suitable. For further particulars, apply SECRETARY, Belle Isle, Wakefield.

WANTED, to Let or Sell, Freehold Building, fine floor for Skating Rink and seating for Cinematograph Show; also Cinematograph Box already fitted for use. Fully licensed, rent extremely low; premium £400. Fine opportunity for a man who understands his business. Box 8,216, "The Era."

Scenic Dock.
WANTED, to Let, Site, suitable for Scenic Dock, on ground lease, or building could be erected to suit tenant; approximate inside dimensions 100ft. long, 14ft. wide. Agent, 284, Kennington Park-road, S.E.

WANTED, to Let (off Westminster Bridge-rd.), 18, Hercules-road. Well-positioned shop, good living rooms, suit Wardrobe Dealer, Theatrical or otherwise. Low rent.
EDWARDS, 41, Finsbury-square, E.C.

WANTED, to Let, Advertising Curtain and Programme, for the New Picturedrome, Long Eaton. Apply, LEON VINT, Globe Villa, Exmouth, S. Devon.

WANTED, to Let, a Drama, in Four Acts, "The Way of Transgressors," by Nita Rae. Address, Theatre Royal, Margate.

WANTED, to Lease or Rent, Public Halls, Skating Rinks, Music Halls, and Theatres. Rent or long lease.
State all particulars in first letter.
LEON VINT, Globe Villa, Exmouth, Devon.

WANTED, to Lease Good Theatre or Hall, also to purchase Shares in Sound Concerns.
PHILIP BENNETT, 82, Clecthorpe-road, Grimsby.

WANTED, to Rent, long terms for preference, Theatres or Music Halls, or other Large Halls in good positions throughout the country. Write, with full particulars, to
Box 8,155, "The Era."

WANTED to Hire, for Darlington Exhibition, First-class Cinematograph and Films, change weekly. State make and Terms.
GEO. SCOTT, General Manager,
Exhibition Offices, Darlington.

WANTED, to Hire or Buy, a Really Good Production of "Aladdin," book, music, scenery, dresses, &c.; everything must be in real good condition. All particulars to DEAN, 159, Sherwood-street, Nottingham.

PARTNERS WANTED.

WANTED, a Partner, with £200, to invest in Cinematograph Business.
Advertiser is at the Head of his Profession, and looks for a Partner of Theatrical Repute and Position, and of Sporting Tastes. Partner will be assured of an excellent profit, and salary.
Box 8,189, "The Era."

WANTED, Known, Gentleman, exceptionally Talented, Versatile, long experienced Monologist and Entertainer, might invest and take active part in proposed London Entertainment with eminently first class people. Box 8,191, "The Era."

WANTED, Top Mounter, for Hand-to-hand Balancing. State weight, &c., to EQUILIBRIST, 28, Bolingbroke-road, Battersea, London.

WANTED, good Tumbler, well up in Comedy Tricks, to join a First-class Performer.
Box 3,213, "The Era."

MISCELLANEOUS.

TWENTY WORDS, ONE SHILLING.
Each Additional Six Words, Sixpence.

WANTED, Known, Wright's Gymnasium for Practice, suitable for any Act; new floor; strictly private; 5s. per week. 66, Kennington-road, London, S.E.

WANTED, Known, F. G. Wright, Gymnastic Apparatus Maker, Electrical Engineer, and Theatrical Blacksmith. 66 and 68, Kennington-road, S.E.

WANTED, Known, C. Kinch, Gymnastic Apparatus Maker, Theatrical and General Blacksmith, 17, St. Mary-sq., Kennington-rd., S.E. Large Hall for Practice.

WANTED, in Town or Country, Halls or Sites suitable for Cinematograph Shows or Roller Skating. Letters only. M. W. SHANLY, 33, King Henry's-road, South Hampstead, N.W.

WANTED, Known, Fred Karno's Theatrical Factory and Cartage Stores, 28, Vaughan-road, Camberwell, S.E. All kinds of Scenery, Properties, Costumes, and Electrical Effects made and supplied; Sketches and Models free. The Scenic Factory is equipped with full-sized Paint-Frames, capable of carrying any size cloth. The Scenic Stores are large, lofty, and dry.
Estimates for Storage given on application.
Every Description of Theatrical Cartage (day or night) on most reasonable terms. Omnibuses, Broughams, Lorries, and Motors on Hire. Contracts wanted for above. Telephone 3550 and 3551 Hop. Telegrams, "Karno, Camberwell, London."

WANTED, Known, Tip-up Chairs and Seating of every description, Constructional Alterations, Electric Light, and complete Furnishing of Electric Theatres. Send, and we will quote you with prices, best in the trade. LEWIS and DEAKIN, Empire Works, 21, Cleveland-street, Wolverhampton. Telephone, 274 Wolverhampton; Telegrams, "Seating, Wolverhampton."

WANTED, Known, H. Boxall, maker of Tights, Symmetrical Paddings, Animal Dresses, &c. 166, Waterloo-rd., London, S.E. 'Phone 2681 Central.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WANTED, Artists when visiting Manchester to pay Mosco's Swiss House a visit, best house in the trade for all classes of Laces, Embroideries, and Fancies of all kinds; Draperies and Curtains always kept in stock. Note the address, 16, Oldham-street, Manchester.

WANTED, Known, Pictorial Postcards, reproduced from your own Photograph, 250 for 8s., 1000 for 16s. SENIOR & Co., Cotham-hill, Bristol.

WANTED, Artists to write for free samples, Memos. from 1s. 100, two colours; Cards, Envelopes, &c. Mention paper.
ARTISTIC PRINTING CO., Dover-street, Folkestone.

WANTED, Known, Corrugated Iron Buildings for Cinematograph Theatres, Entertainment Halls, Pavilions, &c. Write for design, F. H. HEATH, LTD., Dept. E., Salford, Manchester.

WANTED.—Managers and others please Note.
MESSRS. LYNN AND HARDING,
SAVOY HOUSE, SAVOY-STREET, STRAND, can supply
First-class experienced Artists all Lines.
Smart Men, Pretty Girls,
Talented and Refined Amateurs.
No inflated Salaries.
Plays typed, Productions arranged, Lowest charges.
Always safe to ring up 9907 Gerrard.
Australian Representatives for numerous London and Provincial Successes.
Several Plays and Sketches by well-known Authors for disposal.
We guarantee satisfaction.

WANTED, Known, Geo. D. Fox, Composer and Arranger, 134, Queen's Park-rd., Brighton. Band Books a Speciality. Sample nine stamps.

Bogus Managers.
WANTED, Known, Members of the Actors' Association are invited to consult the Secretary before signing Agreements. Members wishing the Council of the Actors' Association to recover Unpaid Salary would greatly assist by not allowing arrears to accumulate. 32, Regent-street, Piccadilly Circus. The Council regret they cannot utilise the Funds of the Association for non-members.

WANTED, Known, we are prepared to Reorganise Rinks for an Entirely New Permanent Enterprise (not picture shows). SHAW, 5, North Church-side, Hull.

WANTED, Wanted, Known,
if Helen Caunter
will call at Kelly's Library,
she will hear to her advantage.

SPENCER BROTHERS, LTD.,
45b, Aberdeen Park, Highbury, N.

Aeronauts to the Crystal Palace, &c.
Balloon Ascents, Parachute Descents.
Captive Balloons, Airship Flights.
Terms upon application.
C. G. SPENCER & SONS,
56a, Highbury Grove, London, N.
Manufacturers of Airships, Aeroplanes, Balloons and Parachutes, Captive Advertising Balloons, and Small Toy Balloons.
Price Lists or Quotations, 1 Stamp.
Telegrams, "Aeronaut, London," 'Phone, 1893 Dalston.

LEOLYN HART CO.
SCENIC ARTISTS
to the Principal London, Provincial, and Continental Theatres, Exhibitions, &c.
THE LARGEST STOCK OF SCENERY IN THE KINGDOM
ON HIRE
for Special Productions, Matinees, Sketches, &c.
LATONA-ROAD, OLD KENT ROAD, LONDON, S.E.
Telephone 1544 Hop.

English Tour, 1910.
THE FAMOUS BAND OF THE ROYAL ITALIAN PIEDMONDT HUSSARS consisting of 40 FIRST-CLASS PERFORMERS,
Military Band and Orchestra (in Uniform).
THE ENGLISH TOUR OF THIS MOST FAMOUS BAND WILL COMMENCE ON SEPT. 12, 1910.
Open for Engagements in London or Provinces, on Sharing Terms or Certainties.
All Communications to the Sole Agents,
NORTHERN MUSICAL AGENCY, 111, Prospect-rd., Scarborough.

NOTICE! NOTICE!! NOTICE!!!
That
HERBERT A. BRADWELL of Coney Island, U.S.A., is the ORIGINATOR of ELECTRIC SCENIC ATTRACTIONS, and has produced
JOHNSTOWN FLOOD,
CONEY ISLAND and ATLANTIC CITY, MILWAUKEE, INDIANAPOLIS, U.S.A., and LUNA PARK, PARIS, 1909.
MONT PELEE,
CONEY ISLAND, U.S.A.
MESSINA,
IMPERIAL EXHIBITION, SHEPHERD'S BUSH, 1909; EXPOSITION WEISBADEN, 1909.
THE DELUGE,
CONEY ISLAND, U.S.A., 1906, 1907, 1908.
GOLDEN WEST EXHIBITION, EARL'S COURT, 1909.
and CREATION,
the Sensational Success of the Brussels Exhibition, 1910.
Estimates given for any of the above, with complete installation, and can be adapted to a stage of any size. For further particulars apply to HERBERT A. BRADWELL, "Creation" Building, Plaine des Attractions, Brussels Exhibition.

TELEPHONE CALL OFFICE

For the convenience of Advertisers and Members of the Amusement Professions a PUBLIC TELEPHONE CALL OFFICE is installed at
"THE ERA" OFFICES,
5, Tavistock Street, W.C.

MR. HORACE GEORGE,
"Private Secretary" Co.
Sept. 12, His Majesty's Theatre, Dundee.

MR. JOHN GERANT,
Disengaged.
49, Jenner-road, Stoke Newington, London, N.

MR. DOUGLAS GORDON.
John Worthing, "Importance of Being Earnest." 198, Wymering-mans., Elgin-avenue, W.

MR. A. CARLAW GRAND,
Disengaged, Light Comedy, Stage-Manager.
Address, 29, Cromwell-av., King-st., Hammersmith.

MR. CLAUDE GRAVELEY,
Lead, in "A Child of the Streets."
Kelly's Theatre, Liverpool.

MR. HARRY A. GRIBBEN
as Fire in "The Blue Bird."
Sept. 12, Court Theatre, Liverpool.

MR. FRED GROVE.
"Looking for Trouble."
County Theatre, Reading.

MR. LAWRENCE GROVE,
Karl Stromberg, "Prince and Beggar Maid."
69, Huron-road, Balham, or A.A.

MR. & Mrs. F. R. GWYN-RICHARDSON
(Miss Grace Harlington), First-class offers invited for Oct. 40, Cross-street, Morecambe.

MR. HENRY HALLATT,
Olaf, in "The Prince and the Beggar Maid" (North Co.). New Theatre, Consett.

MR. AUGUSTUS HAMMOND.
MARIE FONTAINE.
"The Bishop's Son" Co. Grand Theatre, Leeds.

MR. W. S. HARDY,
Manager, North Company,
"The Prince and the Beggar Maid."

MR. HENRY HARGREAVES,
Leading Man with Alan Wilkie.
Sept. 12, Ashton-under-Lyne.

MR. REGINALD HARGREAVES,
Disengaged until Oct. 24. Boy's Parts and Juveniles. Wavertree, Wanstead-place, Wanstead.

MR. FREDERICK HARKER,
Disengaged two weeks.
Berkeley, Chester-road, Erdington, Birmingham.

MR. CHARLES HARLEY,
Albert Thompsett, "Don."
Sept. 12, Harrogate and Tunbridge Wells.

MR. W. T. HARRIS,
Sept. 12,
Royal Court Theatre, Warrington.

MR. CYRIL HARRISON,
Manager for Mr. E. Hill-Mitchelson's Co.
"King and Unknown Woman." T. R., Aston.

MR. STANLEY HARRISON.
Address,
32, Portland-road, W.

MR. RUPERT HARVEY and KATHARINE HERBERT, Mr. Laurence Irving's Co. Liverpool; next, Royal, Blackburn.

MR. JOHN HASTINGS-BATSON,
Disengaged.
Care of "The Era."

MR. & MRS. HENRY W. HATCHMAN
"Midnight Mail," Widnes, Sept. 12, six nights. Dis. 19th, special week, London only.

MR. MURRAY HATHORN,
"The Dawn of a To-morrow" Co.
Perm. address, Quedgeley, Gloucester.

MR. FRANCIS HAWLEY
2, York House, 49, George-street,
Richmond.

MR. T. P. HAYNES
Address
Letters, care of "The Era."

MR. JERROLD HEATHER and Miss HILDA SHIRLEY.
Lyric Theatre, Hammersmith, W.

MR. DALZIEL HERON,
"The Midnight Wedding" Co.,
Sept. 12, Metropole Theatre, Gateshead.

MR. DENIS J. HOGAN.
Sept. 12,
Perth.

MR. ARTHUR E. HOLLAND,
Special Juvenile or Character Business.
Add., c/o 32, Regent-street, Piccadilly-circus, W.

MR. A. C. HOLMES,
Stage-management, "Fires of Fate."
Sept. 12, Tunbridge Wells (3), Margate (3).

MR. A. S. HOMEWOOD.
Address,
Globe Theatre.

MR. CYRIL HOOD,
Disengaged, Char., Com., and Boy Parts.
Address, 11, Normandy-place, Brixton, S.W.

MR. FRANK HOWARD,
General-Manager, "Beggar Girl's Wedding,"
Walter Melville's Co. Palace Theatre, Newcastle.

MR. and MRS. WILSON HOWARD
(Miss Carlotta Anson). Own Tour.
Palace Theatre, Derby.

MR. REGINALD A. HUNT,
Producer and S.M., "Dawn of a To-morrow." Sept. 12, Theatre Royal, Edinburgh.

MR. JAMES HUSSEY.
Title-rôle, "The Private Secretary."
Sept. 12, H. M. Theatre, Dundee.

MR. RALPH W. HUTTON.
Managers' Club,
5, Wardour-street, W.

MR. and MRS. FRED C. IMBERT,
"Driven from Home" Co.
This, Wakefield; next, Mexborough.

MR. T. ARTHUR JONES,
32, Wightman-road,
Finsbury Park, N.

MR. S. MAJOR JONES,
Stage Manager.
Lyceum Theatre.

MR. F. JOYNSEN-POWELL,
Special Lead, Heavies. "The Hearth,"
Roman-rd., Bedford Park, W. 'Phone, 333 Chiswick.

MR. OGILVY KEITH.
Address,
5, Carlton-terrace, South Cliff, Scarborough.

MR. D'ARCY KELWAY,
Jerry, "The Bad Girl of the Family."
Aldwych Theatre, W.C.

MR. CLAUDE KING
as Captain Jack Temperley.
Sept. 12, Theatre Royal, Dublin.

MR. CHARLES S. KITTS,
Stoll Tour.
Managers' Club, Wardour-street.

MR. RICHARD HENRY LACE,
Character Comedian and Stage-Manager. 32 Regent-st., W. 19, Parkfield-drive, Liscard.

MR. JAMES R. LA FANE,
Address,
1 and 2, King-street, Covent Garden, W.C.

MR. and MRS. CHARLES LANGLEY
(Jessie Price). Disengaged.
40, Glenthorne-road, Hammersmith.

MR. LEONARD LAURENCE,
On Tour.
Perm. add., 25, Richmond-road, Bayswater, W.

MR. GEO. F. LEICESTER,
Colonel Corri, "Flood Tide."
En Route, or 123, Kennington-road, S.E.

MR. PHILIP LESLIE in America.
C/o LIEBLER and Co.,
2, West Thirty-eighth-street, New York.

MR. MARK LESTER,
King Paul, in "Two Merry Monarchs." Sept. 12, D.P., Eastbourne. 53, Waldemar-mans., Fulham.

MR. ARTHUR LINAY,
Acting-Manager, "Geisha" Co.
12th, Hastings; 15th, Eastbourne.

MR. FRANK LISTER.
No. 99.
Empire, Tonypandy.

MR. and MRS. FRANK LISTON
(Maud Warburton), Star Leads, J. A. Campbell's Co. 12th, Metropole, Devonport.

MR. and MRS. SAM LIVESEY
(Miss Maggie Edwards).
"The Village Blacksmith," T. R., Chesterfield.

MR. FEWLASS LLEWELLYN.
Address, A.A., or,
28, Chelverton-road, Putney, S.W.

MR. ARTHUR LONGLEY.
All communications,
16, Bernard-street, Russell-square, W.C.

MR. J. G. LOWTHER, Business and Stage-Manager "Hush Money" Co. Dis. for Panto. Address., 10, St. Ann's-road, Brixton, S.W.

MR. HENRY LUDLOW,
Playing Wm. Mollison's Part, Dick Crawford, in "The Chorus Lady." Address en route.

MR. WILLIAM LUGG.
Disengaged.
Craven House, Grove Park-road, Chiswick.

MR. and MRS. A. B. MACKAY,
"Beginning and the End" Co.
Sept. 12, Public Hall, Pontnewydd.

MR. and MRS. CHALMERS MACKEY,
Own tour, "Rollicking Rory," "Wearin' o' the Green." En route, or Ashdale, Poulton-le-Fylde.

MR. MAITLAND MARLER,
At Liberty for Pantomime.
Malvern (3), Leamington (3).

MR. PERCY MARMONT and MISS ELSIE DAVISON, Mr. Cyril Maude's Co., "Sir Walter Raleigh." Sept. 12, T. R., Newcastle.

MR. PERCY MARSHALL,
Professor, in "Brass Bottle."
Sept. 12, Opera House, Blackpool.

MR. ALFRED MARTIN,
Advance Manager, "Les Cloches de Corneville" Co. Theatre Royal, Portsmouth.

MR. GEORGE MARTIN,
Stage- and Business-Manager.
Sept. 12, Pavilion, Ramsgate.

MR. H. SHERWOOD MARTIN,
General Manager, and Lorrimor,
"A Pair of Spectacles."

MR. WILLIAM MARTIN,
General Theatrical Agent. Tours booked.
415, Strand, W.C.

MR. CYPRIAN H. MATTHEWS,
Danillo, "Love of the Princess."
Sept. 12, Grand T., Mansfield.

MR. WILLIAM MATTHEWS,
Walley Angel, "The Little Damozel."
Kennington Theatre, London.

MR. G. MAYOR-COOKE,
Manager, and as Hildred in "The Prince and the Beggar Maid" (South). P. O. W., Grimsby.

MR. HARRY McCLELLAND,
401, Albany-road, Camberwell, S.E.

MR. GEORGE MILLER,
Bulger, "The Dollar Princess."
Sept. 12, Marina Theatre, Lowestoft.

MR. WILLIAM J. MILLER,
Leads, &c. Baron Strelsau, "Convent to Throne." Royal, Scarborough.

MR. G. M. MONTANINI.
Sept. 12, Palace, Maidstone.
Sept. 15, Gaiety Theatre, Worksop.

MR. HUGH MONTGOMERY,
MARIE HARCOURT, Star Lead, Comedy and Character. Empire Palace, Canning Town, E.

MR. G. MORETON-WILLIAMS,
Messrs. Green and Hinton's Co.
Sept. 12, T. R., Sunderland.

MR. FREDERICK MOYES,
Supporting Mrs. Russ Whytal and S.-M.
Dalston Theatre, Dalston, N.E.

MR. SINCLAIR NEILL,
Allan Wilkie's Co. King ("Hamlet"), Baptista, Jos. Surface, &c. O. H., Ashton-under-Lyne.

MR. TOM D. NEWELL,
Leading Com. with Sutton Vane, Esq.
This, O. H., Burnley; next, Alexandra, Sheffield.

MR. and MRS. ALFRED NORTHWAY.
109, Cambridge-gardens, W.
Telephone, 2079 Western.

MR. ALEC ONSLOW,
Detlev von Asterberg, "Old Heidelberg."
Sept. 12, King's Theatre, Hammersmith, W.

MR. & MRS. NORMAN A. OVERTON,
Miss Nora Carton's "Temptation" Co.
Royalty Theatre, Barrow-in-Furness.

MR. H. P. OWEN,
Miss Nannie Goldman's Co.
Sept. 12. Q.'s, Dublin; 19th, P., Glasgow.

MR. GUS OXLEY,
Simplicitas, "The Arcadians" Company.
Theatre Royal, Bury.

MR. SYDNEY PAXTON,
General-Manager, for Mr. Laurence Irving.
Sept. 12, Theatre Royal, Blackburn (6 nights).

MR. HERBERT PEARSON.
Address,
Empire Theatre, Oldham.

MR. SYDNEY T. PEASE,
Supporting Leonard Mortimer, Esq.
Sept. 12, Hippodrome, Peckham.

MR. PENNINGTON-GUSH,
Ibsen. Disengaged shortly.
Opera House, Perth.

MR. and MRS. FRED W. PERMAIN
Miss Florence Le Clercq.
Address, 32, King-street, St. James's, S.W.

MR. and MRS. FRANK E. PETLEY.
"A White Man" Co.
Sept. 12, Grand Theatre, Brighton.

MR. T. ARTHUR PLUMMER, CORA LINDA. Lead, "Girl Who Took Wrong Turning." Belmont, Kingsway, Coventry.

MR. SYDNEY PORTER,
as Jimmy O'Neil, "Woman in the Case" Co.
Next, Sheerness.

MR. OSCAR POWER,
Carl Oppenheim, "For Love and the King."
Sept. 12, Metropole, Birmingham.

MR. ARTHUR LAW RAYNOR,
Business-Manager, "The Naked Truth" Co.
Grand Theatre, Fulham.

MR. GEORGE RELPH,
Orlando, Bassanio, Lucentio, Fenton, Rembouillet. Oscar Asche-Lily Brayton Co., Australia.

MR. SIDNEY RENNEF,
Productions, Stage-Man., Character Parts.
Hagley, Leighton-road, Moseley, Birmingham.

MR. ALFRED RIVERS,
Stage Manager "Brass Bottle" Co.
Sept. 12, Opera House, Blackpool.

MR. LEONARD ROBSON.
Own Sketch, "An Indian Romance."
Hippo., Rotherham.

MR. STANLEY ROGERS.
Address all Communications,
Theatre Royal, North Shields.

MR. HARRY ROXBURY,
Exclusively Engaged by Moss Empires until 1913. Address, Empire, Shepherd's Bush.

MR. A. RUSSELL-DAVIS,
Juvenile Lead and S.-M., "Beauty and the Barge." Malvern (3), Leamington (3).

MR. WALTER SCHONBERG,
Disengaged. Late Stage-Manager "Sins of Society" Co. 10, Harvard-mns., Clapham Junction.

MR. WILLIE SCOTT,
Walter Melville's "Girl's Cross Roads" Co.
Pantomime offers invited. 227, Hampstead-road.

MR. ARCHIE SELWYN,
George Fisher in "Are You a Mason?"
Sept. 12, Empire Theatre, Fleetwood.

MR. FRANCIS SERLE,
Assistant Stage-Manager,
The New Theatre, London, W.C.

MR. and MRS. JOHN B. SHINTON
(Ada M. Ryder), Leading Business.
44A, Morat-street, Brixton, S.W.

MR. JAMES SKEA,
Character Actor. Engaged by Laurence Irving, Esq. Theatre Royal, Blackburn.

MR. GEORGE STONE,
Resident-Manager (sixteenth year).
Royalty Theatre and Opera H., Barrow-in-Furness.

MR. STORY-GOFTON,
Disengaged.
Address, 206, High-road, Ilford. 'phone 738.

MR. WALLACE STRANACK,
Business-Manager. At Liberty.
92, Rectory-road, Fulham, S.W.

MR. RICHARD F. SYMONS.
Lyceum Theatre,
W.C.

MR. A. B. TAPPING,
At Liberty, Parts or Management.
28, Leyland-road, Lee, S.E.

MR. HODGSON TAYLOR,
Mr. Forbes Robertson's Part, "Passing Third Floor Back." A.A., 32, Regent-street.

MR. J. MILNE TAYLOR,
Business-Manager, "The Village Blacksmith" Co., Theatre Royal, Chesterfield.

MR. and MRS. EDWARD THANE.
Permanent address,
15, Mount Pleasant-lane, Upper Clapton, N.E.

MR. FOWLER THATCHER,
Resident Man. for Messrs. Seddon and Pope.
New Theatre, Newark.

MR. and MRS. E. W. THOMAS
(Agnes Knights), "The Bishop's Son" Tour.
Sept. 12, Grand Theatre, Leeds.

MR. WALTER THORNTON,
Lord Erskine, "The Bad Girl of the Family."
Aldwych Theatre, W.C.

MR. GEORGE TRAILL,
Disengaged, Character Business or Old Men.
Address, 3, Mornington-crescent, N.W.

MR. and MRS. A. W. TYRER, with Messrs. Clarke and Meynell Matheson Lang Tour "Pete," T. R., Melbourne, Australia.

MR. EDWARD VALENTINE,
Farmer Meadows and Management, "A Girl's Cross Roads" Co. Theatre Royal, Woolwich.

MR. CHARLES VANE,
Miss Ethel Irving's Company.
Sept. 12, Theatre Royal, Manchester.

MR. PERCY H. VERNON,
Representing Mr. Edward Terry in London during his Autumn Tour. Terry's Theatre, Strand.

MR. FREDERICK VICTOR,
"The Dawn of a To-morrow" Co.
Theatre Royal, Edinburgh.

MR. and MRS. DOUGLAS VIGORS
(Lucy Beaumont), as Mrs. Wiggs, No. 1 Co. D. V. Dis. 8, Bridge-avenue, Hammersmith.

MR. T. W. VOLT.
Agents; or,
11, Osterley-avenue, Isleworth, W.

MR. ALBERT WARD,
"A Noble Revenge," by A. W.
Sept. 12, Palace, Bristol.

MR. HYLTON WARDE,
Principal Comedian, Chambhuddy Ram, "Cingalee" Tour. Perm., 17, Doris-road, Norwich.

MR. W. LEMMON WARDE.
Sept. 12,
Preston.

MR. FRANK WEATHERSBY,
Theatrical Agency, 3, Bedford-street, Strand. 'Phone 3781 Central. Tel., "Frivolous, London."

MR. ALFRED WELLESLEY,
Mr. Hook, "Hook of Holland."
G., Hastings; next, T. R., Brighton.

MR. BERESFORD WHITCOMB, at Liberty to Produce, Management, &c.
236, Scott Ellis-gardens, St. John's Wood.

MR. C. A. WHITE,
Disengaged, Character Comedy, Old Men, or Stage-Manage. 1, Harewood-road, Merton, S.W.

MR. WILL WHITE, F.O.S.,
5, Grosvenor-street,
Blackpool.

MR. & MRS. TOWNSEND WHITLING
(Miss Violet Ley). "Naked Truth."
Grand Theatre, Fulham.

MR. MONTAGUE WIGAN,
Disengaged, Stage-Management or Acting.
Juveniles, Light Comedy. Coronet Theatre, W.

MR. ANDREW WIGHT,
"Brewster's Millions."
Sept. 12, King's Theatre, Glasgow.

MR. IAN OGILVIE WILL as Kellermann in "Old Heidelberg."
Sept. 12, King's Theatre, Hammersmith.

MR. ERIC WILLIAMS,
George Harris, Harrington's "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Next, 3 Peterborough, 3 Kettering.

MR. HERBERT WILLIAMS.
Principal Comedian,
Lyceum Theatre, W.C.

MR. LEONARD WILLIAMS,
Leading Business.
Music Hall, Merthyr Tydvil.

MR. BREMBER WILLS,
Arrangements complete.
5, Crieff-road, Wandsworth Common.

MR. JOHN WILMER.
General-Manager,
43, West End-lane, N.W.

MR. and MRS. RICHARD WINSLOW
(Miss Evelyn Shaw). R. W., Stage-Manager, the London Hippodrome.

MR. HENRY WOLSTON,
Lead,
Mr. Walter Melville's Co., South Africa.

MR. EDWIN H. WYNNE,
Musical and Farcical Comedy Character.
Disengaged. 147, Stockwell Park-road, S.W.

MR. DUNCAN YARROW,
The F. R. Benson (North) Co.
Theatre Royal, Plymouth.

MR. CECIL MORTON YORK,
Disengaged. Parts or Management.
Address, 52, Eastbourne-terrace, Paddington, W.

MR. SIDNEY YOUNG.
Address,
132, Kenilworth-court, Putney, S.W.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LITTLE MISS BELLA TERRY,
Principal Girl, "Blue Bird" Co.
Sept. 12, Court Theatre, Liverpool.

ENTERTAINERS.

MISS CARRIE FRASER, Accompaniste,
Society Entertainer, Ladies' Orchestra, for Dances, Receptions, &c. 210, Edgware-road, W.

THE GAY GONDOLIERS,
Concert Party, Offers Oct. on, for Halls, Pavilions, &c. Agent Invited. GEO. ROBINS, Woodbine, Salisbury-road, Wimbledon.

MISS CISSIE HARCOURT, Mezzo-Soprano and Soubrette, as Dorothy, "Blue Myths" Tour. Coms., 47, Canterbury-road, Brixton, London, S.W.

MAIE HOEY,
Whose artistic dancing in the rôle of Fatma made one of the chief successes. Vide Press. "Bedouin Beauty" Co. Next week, Ramsgate.

WILSON JAMES, Humorist.
Proprietor of the Well-known Vaudeville Companies, The Gaieties and The Euterpeans.
Address, 108, Sumatra-road, West Hampstead, N.W.
Telephone, 1222 P.O., Hampstead.

THE LASCELLES ENTERTAINMENT.
Sole Proprietor, PHILIP LASCELLES. Till end Sept., The Nook, Wargrave-on-Thames; then, 21, Colville-ter., Bayswater. Tel. 1235 Western.

ADELE LEVEY.
in her Charming and Unique Little Tales, Recitations, and Monologues. Vac. Sept. 12, 19. Great Hit, Margate. Address, c/o "The Era."

ADELE LEVEY (Raconteuse) got a Great Reception, and made Big Success, Hall-by-the-Sea, Margate. Vacant for London Panto. Address, c/o "The Era" Office.

MR. ERNEST LONGSTAFFE,
Humourist at Piano, Musical-Director, and Musical Comedy Composer, and MISS ENID HAMILTON, Dainty Light Comedy Songs.
Second Year with H. Flockton Foster, Esq.
Open for Winter Offers. PIER, ST. ANNE'S.

MISS KATE RICHARDS,
Pianist, Accompanist and Coach, &c.
Address, C/o Brinsmead Studios, Wigmore-st., W.

ARTHUR ROYCE, Entertainer at Piano; EDWINA BOYDE, Comedienne and Dancer. The Lawn Pavilion, Skegness. Telegrams, ROYCE, Comedian, London.

MISS NELLIE L. WEBBER, Soprano.
FRED T. DANIELS, Humorous Entertainer. Speciality, Humorous and Vocal Duets at the Piano.
33, Thurloe-place, South Kensington.
Telephone 3184 Kensington.

"DERWENT"
GAS-STEAM RADIATORS
For Heating Theatres.
JOBSON & CO.,
Derwent Foundry, DERBY

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LAW.

Being a digest of the Law relating to Theatres and Music Halls, and containing chapters on Theatrical Contracts, Theatrical, Music and Dancing, and Excise Licences, Dramatic and Musical Copyright, &c., with an Appendix containing the Acts of Parliament relating thereto, and the regulations of the London County Council and the Lord Chamberlain, by ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (London), Solicitor.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS—

THE ERA, July 30, 1910.

Important changes in the law affecting the amusement professions have been made since the issue, nine years ago, of the second edition of Mr. Albert A. Strong's valuable book on Theatrical and Musical Law, and the third edition, just published, comes opportunely to hand. The work has been greatly enlarged, upwards of sixty additional pages being required to accommodate the mass of new information. The publication has been brought as nearly as possible up to date, and within its pages will be found analyses of important measures which have been adopted both in Parliament and out. There is, for instance, the full text of the recent Berlin Convention, and the new Copyright Act of the United States. The awards governing the relations between managers, artists, and agents are reproduced in their entirety, and a number of fresh cases illustrating the effect of the barring clauses is included.

The Musical Copyright Act, by which tardy justice was secured to song-writers and publishers, is given in full, and a digest of the measure, bringing out its salient features is also printed. A whole chapter is now devoted to the subject of children on the stage, and the important question of the Workmen's Compensation Act is exhaustively dealt with. All the decisions of the Courts affecting theatres and music-halls are referred to, many notable cases being recalled. The law governing dramatic and musical copyright is defined as clearly as its intricacies will allow, and a reliable indication of the methods to be adopted in securing protection is afforded. The progress made in the question of licensing has been too slow to allow of more than a reproduction of the terms of agreement entered into between the representatives of theatres and music-halls regarding sketches, but pronouncements under that heading are numerous.

THE ENCORE, May 26, 1910.

We have just received the third edition of Mr. Albert A. Strong's book on Theatrical and Musical Law, which is published at "The Era" Office, 5, Tavistock Street, Strand. Since the second edition of this work was published—nine years—many changes have taken place in the laws relating to entertainments, and these have necessitated a considerable enlargement of the volume. Full texts of the recent Berlin Convention and the United States Copyright Law are included in this edition, in which is also published the awards governing the relations between artists, agents, and managers. A number of new cases are also cited illustrating the effects of the barring clause. The Musical Copyright Act, children on the stage, the sketch question, and the Workmen's Compensation Act are all fully dealt with and in a readable and easy style, as free as possible from legal phraseology and echnicalities. It is a legal axiom that ignorance of the law is no excuse for breaking it, and, therefore, it behoves everyone connected with the entertainment world to make himself acquainted with the law as it stands in relation to the profession or business in which he may be engaged. To every one connected with the Drama or Variety Mr. Strong's book is a necessity, and this last edition is so comprehensive that anyone who consults it can have no possible excuse for infringing the law on the ground of ignorance. The work will, no doubt, have a ready and rapid sale, for all artists, managers, and agents should have it at hand.

THE FINANCIAL NEWS, June 13, 1910.

In view of the frequent litigation concerning theatrical matters there can be no doubt as to the usefulness of this little book to those whom it concerns, and, apart from its usefulness, it is really quite an interesting little volume, in saying which we are paying tribute to Mr. Strong's lucid methods of explaining the intricacies of the law. He has avoided legal terms as far as possible, and theatrical cases exemplifying legal principles he has given in full. To make this, the third, edition as complete and useful as possible, Acts of Parliament relating to theatrical matters and the regulations of the Lord Chamberlain and London County Council are set out in full in the appendix, with the text of the recent Berlin Convention and the new Copyright Act of the United States.

THE PERFORMER, May 12, 1910.
THE ARTIST'S LEGAL HANDBOOK.

We welcome a third edition of Mr. Albert A. Strong's "Dramatic and Musical Law" ("The Era" Offices), as it is nine years since the second appeared, and much has happened since then, not least the foundation of the V.A.F. and the resultant Award of 1907. This will be found incorporated in the now greatly-improved and extended Appendix of Statutes, ranging from the Disorderly Houses Act of 1751, to last year's L.C.C. Cinematograph regulations. As far as is possible with further developments in daily progress, this invaluable work of legal reference for all interested in the entertainment profession has been brought up-to-date. Sixty pages have been added, and the whole revised and rendered easier of reference by the re-arrangements that have been made, and the numerous marginal headings that have been introduced. Strong, on "Dramatic and Musical Law," may be regarded as the layman's complete authority on the subject, whether he be PROPRIETOR, MANAGER, or ARTIST, and with a lucid explanation of the law so readily available, the artist will be wise to consult its pages before venturing on new contracts and agreements, whether as employed or—in these days of "combinations," sketches, troupes, and what not—as employer.

To the Publisher.
1, Renfrew-road, Lambeth, S.E.
15th June, 1910.

My Dear Sir,—
I have had an opportunity of looking into the third edition of Mr. Albert Strong's "Dramatic and Musical Law," published from your office recently, and I have pleasure in testifying to the great value I have found the previous editions in my practice among ladies and gentlemen connected with the profession for which your valuable paper caters so admirably.

That Mr. Strong has had a wide experience in the matters with which he deals so ably in his book is evidenced by the lucid yet exhaustive manner in which he has treated the various subjects therein, and this last edition is eloquent testimony of the care and ability which he bestows upon his work.

Brought thoroughly up to date it will without doubt find a wide circle of usefulness among the profession whose contracts, Mr. Strong aptly remarks, are so fruitful a source of litigation.

Believe me,
Yours very faithfully,
W. H. ARMSTRONG.

Third Edition. Price 5/- Post free 5/4.

Published at "THE ERA" OFFICES, 5, Tavistock St., Strand, W.C.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERAMAN.—POOLE'S PICTURE PALACE.—Lessee, Mr. John R. Poole; Manager, Mr. R. Tebbitt.—Charles Lee, eccentric comedian and legmania dancer, is a good turn; McAskell, comedy conjurer and illusionist, gains favour; Talberto and Douglas, comedy acrobats and globe rollers, have a flattering reception. The pictures shown on the Bioscope are good.

ABERDARE.—NEW THEATRE, LTD.—Manager, Mr. Z. Andrews; Acting-Manager, Mr. B. Richards.—J. Bannister Howard's company is here in When Knights Were Bold. Mr. Sam Lysons as Sir Guy de Vere keeps the audience in a continual roar of laughter; Mr. Alec Forbes as Isaac Isaacson, and Miss Hilda Waldorf as Miss Sarah Isaacson are good; Miss Elsie Roberts as Lady Rowena is earnest and effective; Mr. J. Bannister Howard, jun., enacted the part of Wittle in excellent style; Mr. Claude Aymonde plays well as Sir Bryan Ballymore; the parts of Jester by Mr. C. Gifford and the Dean by Mr. G. Edward Hall were ably sustained; and other good parts are in capable hands.

NEW EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Victor Rowe; Manager, Mr. Arthur Norton.—Kathleen O'Hanlon in her unique vocal and terpsichorean scena Romps in a Drawing-Room has a good reception; George Don, a quaint comedian, causes fun; Evie Daunton is a chic comedienne and dancer; and Beatty Brothers in their comical sketch, The Earl and the Jockey, cause laughter, and their dancing also deserves praise. The pictures on the Bioscope are interesting.

ABERDEEN.—HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Robert Arthur Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Adair Nelson.—The Private Secretary is here, Mr. Eugene C. Stafford's company producing the popular comedy in a manner worthy of its best traditions. Mr. James Hussey makes an irresistible Rev. Robert Spalding; Mr. William Carriden is an effective Mr. Marsland; Mr. Cattermole is in the capable hands of Mr. W. Hargreaves; and Mr. Kendal Chalmers as Mr. Sidney Gibson is supremely real. Miss Estella Despa as Miss Ashford, Miss Cicely Wade as Mrs. Stead, Miss Elsie Blyth as Eva Webster, and Miss Mary Mallalieu as Edith Marsland portray those characters charmingly.

THE PALACE THEATRE.—Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Percy H. Callaghan.—Chanteclair fills the bill at the Palace this week, and does it effectively. Mr. Jack Martin as the "name-bird" is droll and clever; Nellie, the hen pheasant, is charmingly portrayed by Miss Madoline Rees; Mr. James Learmouth makes an effective Cat; Mr. Leonard Russell as Mother Goose sings and acts the part faithfully; Mr. Ivan Berlyn as the Sly Fox is quaintly attractive; Mr. Ernest Sefton as the Boosy Rooster is vastly amusing; and other inmates of the "kailyard" are delineated in captivating style and address. Reichen's dogs and Viviana and his company supply fascinating items.

THE TIVOLI.—Proprietors, The Tivoli (Aberdeen), Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Walter Gilbert.—This week the Tivoli fare is of a varied and attractive form. Mme. Vonetta is the star attraction, and her rapid costume changes, her statuesque poses, and her dancing and conjuring tricks combine to make up a turn of unusual value and charm; Miss Rosie Lloyd sings and acts in a decidedly attractive manner; Violet Lloyd and Horace Lane give a clever representation of "bunkers"; the Æolians present a drawing-room sketch in pleasing style; Griff and George, in "Funny Conceits," are drolly amusing; George Rapley is a singer and comedian of ability; Tom Franks gives a good ventriloquial exhibition; and Marie Beresford sings with evident taste and power.

ABERTILLERY.—PAVILION.—Lessees, Messrs. E. and H. Tilney; Manager, E. Price.—Mr. J. F. Preston and company are here this week in The Man in the Iron Mask. Gaston and Louis XIII. are well played by Mr. J. F. Preston and Mr. Neville May; Mr. W. Howard Barlow makes an excellent M. de St. Mars; the Duke d'Almada is capitally sustained by Mr. Arthur P. Leo; Mr. Francis Everard makes a convincing D'Artagnan; and Fouquet is admirably enacted by Mr. Alfred Wade. Miss Mabelle F. Barlow adds to her reputation as Marie de Nancini; Anne of Austria is excellently portrayed by Miss Lillie Pearce; and Miss Dolly Wright sustains the part of Glaudette quite satisfactorily. On Wednesday Jane Shore was played for the benefit of Miss Mabelle F. Barlow.

ACCRINGTON.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—Mr. Frank Bertram's powerful company is successfully presenting The Sailor's Wedding here. Mr. Stanley Harrison gives a manly and convincing impersonation of Lieut. Gordon Drake; Mr. Cecil Klein ably sustains the character of Sir Victor Lascelles; Mr. Alfred Fisher gives a distinguished portrayal of Count Bellini; and a powerful and effective representation of Giovanni Ferici comes from Mr. J. H. Darnley. Mr. Frank Bertram presents a noteworthy performance as Jack Hawkins; Mr. Frank Kidger is all that could be desired as Bill Burns; and Mr. Alfred Holles as Giacomo Ferrara submits a forcible and impressive portrayal. Miss Madge Monte plays with reserve and delicacy as Mary; Miss Daisy Gwynne enacts Countess Bellini naturally; Miss Olive Warne is to be complimented for an exceedingly clever rendering of Lenore de Gresac; Miss Celestine Bertram is a capital Minette; and as Polly Clarke Miss Denny Fitzherbert makes the most of her opportunities.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the Accrington Hippodrome Co.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Mould.—The Bros. Schichtl's original mechanical marionettes are the leading feature here, and provide a most entertaining turn. Tiny and Mite are talented juvenile vocalists and dancers; Witty Wattie Walton is an old favourite here; and Chas. Santon, double-voiced vocalist, is a pronounced success. A local comedy sketch is capitally introduced by Tom, Louie, and Clude. Jack Easy is a popular comedian, and A Child's Forgiveness, depicted on the Bioscope, is interesting.

ALDERSHOT.—ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr. Jack Gladwin.—The Five Whiteleys top the bill with a clever acrobatic and wire-walking act which is well received; the Three Comerfords are smart acrobats and tumblers; Alix Luxos as a quick-change artist and mimic is capital; the Calcotts in a wayside episode, Rags and Tatters, in which they introduce instrumental duets, are decidedly good; the Sisters Condor, in banjo, song, and dance, do well; whilst Ruby Bijou is a graceful dancer. Bessie Benson in a sand dance is also successful.

ASHINGTON.—MINERS' THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. A. C. Moody; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. Campbell Browne.—Mr. W. A. Cheetham's répertoire company is here this week in Dan'l Druce, Admiral Guinea, and Caste, and opened on Monday night with Dan'l Druce. Mr. Sydney Bland's impersonation of Dan'l Druce is impressive and finished; as Sir Jasper Combe Mr. Henry Earlesmere gives an able delineation of the part; Mr. E. Stuart Vinden as Geoffrey Wynyard is very good; as also is Mr. Donald Stuart as Reuben Haines. As Dorothy, Miss Mildred Hodson acts sweetly. A Nicht wi' Burns is given each night as a curtain-raiser, and is particularly well received. On Wednesday evening the performance was under the patronage of the local Burns Club.

PAVILION PALACE.—Proprietors, Hirst Pavilion, Ltd.; Business-Manager, Mr. Arthur Stoker; Acting-Manager, Mr. Joe Curry.—Miss Cora Roland, comedienne, is very pleasing in her singing and dancing; Ted and Artie, banjo monarchs, are well received; the Lannons, in their comedy turn, are clever; the pictures are excellent.

BUFFALO PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs. J. and E. Lamb; Business-Manager, Mr. W. P. Carr.—Hal and Lal, in their ventriloquial and musical turn, are excellent; Alfonzo is a very good foot equilibrist and tranka wonder; the pictures are entertaining.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill, jun.—Married to the Wrong Man is being performed here. Miss Mary Pemberton as Ruth sustains the rôle with a sweetness, a grace of manner, and a winning pathos, as well as a force, which touch the heights of tragic utterance; Mr. Henry Lonsdale enacts Jack Gladwin with a courageous and manly bearing and a dramatic force which command attention; Mr. Geo. Arthur's conception of Captain Deering is impressive; and the intelligence Mr. W. Pemberton brings to bear on the impersonation of Sergeant Manners is duly acknowledged. The rôle of Jasper Skinner is in the capable hands of Mr. Leonard Thackery; Miss Clara Milvain has in Rose O'Connor a character well suited to her. Successful interpretations are given of minor rôles in the drama by Misses Gladys Paget, Clara Santley, May Day, and Messrs. Johnstone, Slane, McMahon, Fielding, Bourne, O'Shea, Lynn Somerset, Wilding Aldridge, and Wood.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Mason; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Jesse Burslem.—Atlas and Vulcana give performances here which excite the admiration and astonishment of the audience; the Sisters Atlas, strong girls, and the boy champion, Little Gus, also perform feats of strength in a graceful and expert manner; Kendrick and Laura, in harmony, humour, and eccentric dancing, also attract notice; the Brothers Curran, boxing comedians, do a good, enjoyable turn; Bob Lloyd, comedian, is successful in his endeavours to arouse a sense of the ludicrous in song and the nonsensical in patter; the Lowells challenge attention by a very clever speciality act; Villiers de Caston, African magician, is a really clever illusionist; and The Red Man's Home is a dramatic sketch, well produced by Mr. S. B. Sanders, American actor-vocalist. Jock Whiteford, "the smart Scot," fills the place of Blarney and Blandy, comedians.

THE NEW PAVILION.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. A. Sims.—Cinematograph picture entertainments still find favour here. The films supplied are from the best sources, including Pathé Frère's coloured photography, Gumont's American Vitagraph Co., &c.

THE PICTUREDROME.—Lessees, Messrs. Weisker Bros.; Manager, Mr. P. Leckie.—This cosy little theatre, well adapted for picture exhibitions, draws a full share of the public patronage. Very successful shows are given of animated photography, the subjects being well selected. The interlude artists for the week are Marjorie and Maud, dainty duettists and dancers.

THE ODDFELLOWS' HALL.—Lessees, Ashton Entertainments Syndicate; Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Marks.—This palace of varieties and pictures retains a hold on a section of the public which justifies the proprietors in securing the most up-to-date films and popular artists for interludes. Lily Dale sings "Daddy, don't go down the mine," illustrated song.

ATTERCLIFFE.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manageress, Miss Ethel J. Hope.—A diversified programme of pictures is being presented here this week, interspersed with pleasing variety turns.

PICTURE PALACE. — Lessee, Mr. Matt Raymond; Resident-Manager, Mr. Edward King.—The leading picture in this week's admirable selection is Apache Red Indian's Gold, which is full of sensational incidents. Most pathetic is the series Mario's Swan Song; The Weekly Gazette is full of interest; and comedy is represented by Betty's Indiscretions and others. Mr. W. A. Guest's Scarlet Band accompanies the pictures admirably.

AYR.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry W. Day.—Are You a Mason? is here. Mr. Wm. Lockhart plays Amos Bloodgood, and Mr. Howard L. Tracy undertakes the part of Frank Perry. Mr. Archie Selwyn makes a capital George Fisher; Miss Grace Denbeigh-Russell as Eva (Mrs. Perry) and Miss Agnes Maude as Mrs. Bloodgood acquit themselves creditably. The company also includes Messrs. E. J. Hinge, Andrew Buck, Stanley Arthur, Misses Holt, Dane, Yeoman, Townshend, L'Estrade, &c. During the last three nights of the week Mr. Brandon Thomas's company gave a capital performance of Charley's Aunt.

BACUP.—CO-OPERATIVE HALL.—Lessees, Messrs. Glenville and Osmond.—The pictures shown here are all of fine quality, and full houses are the result. Laughter accompanies the running of Samaritan Courtship, Mrs. Jones's Lovers, Max Tries Ski-ing, and Henpeck's Good-bye. The dramatic side is well catered for, amongst the most successful being An Indian Girl's Romance, Queen of the Brigands, Ranch King's Daughter, and The Red Girl. Sam Ashworth renders several songs in a most praiseworthy style.

BARNSLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. A. C. Mitchell.—We have here this week Mr. Fred Granville's company in Another Man's Wife. Mr. Stanley Radcliffe as Carlos de Vergas is excellent; and Mr. Edward M. Heanley as Paul Bernstoff is very good. Miss Ruby Loncraine is all that can be desired as Lucia de Vergas; and as Inez de Castro Miss Hazel Head is worthy of mention.

PUBLIC HALL.—Manager, Mr. W. Johnson.—Harry Friskey, juggler, is very clever; Ethel Thomas, vocalist, has a nice voice, which she uses to advantage; Harry Morris, comedian, and Maude Kay are excellent; and excellent pictures fill the programme.

NEW EMPIRE PALACE.—Proprietary, Barnsley Empire Palace, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Will Smithson.—There is a capital programme here this week, headed by Harry Roxbury's company, including the old favourite Tubby Edlin, in The Cowboy Millionaire. Les Zeloves are neat and clever gymnasts; Arthur Croxon, comedian, is very pleasing, and receives the full extent of applause; other items include Bass and Guinness, comedians; the Rosses, dancers; Doc. Thomas, ventriloquist; Royston and Bradfield, in the "Bailiffe and Actress"; and the Bioscope, with a series of interesting pictures

BARNSTAPLE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, the Bridge Trustees; Manager, Mr. Harry Ashton.—Mr. George Dance's company, under the direction of Miss Marie Beckenham, presented Our Miss Gibbs to crowded audiences on two nights. In the title-rôle Miss Norah Dwyer's acting was universally approved, and her vocal efforts were very pleasing. Miss Maud Nicholls as Mme. Jeanne enacted the vivacious modiste with charming effect; Miss Maud Andrews as the impecunious Mrs. Farquhar met with well-deserved approval; Miss Daisy Manning made a delightfully winsome Lady Betty; the Duchess was invested with the necessary dignity by Miss Ruby Wyndham; Timothy Gibbs was drolly played by Mr. Claude Carmeron, his unctuous humour keeping the audience in constant merriment; the criminal proclivities of the Hon. Hughie were given with excellent effect by Mr. Reginald Relsie, and his able tutor, Slithers, had a capital exponent in Mr. Wilfred Norman. Mr. Leslie Winter's vigorous portrayal of Lord Eynsford received well-merited applause. Mr. C. Arunel as Mr. Toplady and Mr. Arthur Collins-Rolfe as the Earl of St. Ives were successful in their respective parts.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS. — ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—Mr. J. W. Turner's English Opera Company is here. Opening with Faust, Mr. F. J. Hargrave in the title-rôle sang with much distinction, and Mr. Frank Clarke was a brilliant Valentine, acting impressively in the dying scene. Mr. William Anderson's fine voice was heard to advantage as Mephistopheles, and Miss Kitty Brownless made a charming Marguerite, Miss Beatrice Hill being an acceptable Martha. Other operas billed are Il Trovatore, The Bohemian Girl, Lily of Killarney, Tannhäuser, and Maritana.

HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge.—Messrs. Silverstone and Wright's company in The Nihilist is here. Mr. George Mitchell gives a powerful rendering of Ivan Norosky, and Mr. Cowell Clark makes a capital Karl Orloff, Mr. O. Silverstone being admirable as Prince Alexander. Mr. C. Newton Buckland is excellent as Piertree. Miss Edna Clare is a distinguished Alexina Orloff, and Miss Annie Hylton is clever in a difficult part. Mr. H. Wright as Bobbie Smart and Mrs. O. Silverstone as Katrina Lindoff are humorous.

TIVOLI.—Lessee, Signor R. Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Wood.—The Musical Tritons are here this week and give an attractive musical turn: A. Marshall performs some extraordinary feats of strength; Victor and Vessey cause roars of laughter; Russell Brandon is very clever in his dancing; Tony Black is a droll Scotch comedian; Maudie Francis is a pleasing comedienne; and Vernon's Bioscope concludes.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Lessees, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge.—Fred Newman's British Empire Picture and Variety company are presenting a capital programme here this week.

BARRY DOCK.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Manager, Mr. Hamilton Warden; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Frank Dure.—Mr. Marcus Draper's company in The Christian are playing to well-filled houses. Mr. Marcus Draper as John Storm acts with considerable power; Miss Gladys Purnel is seen to advantage as Glory Quayle; Mr. Benson North puts in good work as Robert Ure; Horatio Drake is ably sustained by Mr. W. Burgess Barrett; a great success is scored by Miss Maise Richardson as Polly Love; and other parts are admirably filled by Misses Rosa Burgess and Ina Rozart, and Messrs. Burton Yaldwin, Edward Ling, and Aylmer Williams.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. Leon Vint; Manager, Mr. W. W. Minto.—Topping a good bill is the Glenroy Troupe, expert dancers; Fields and Lewis are well appreciated in a clever comedy act; the Lashmars are smart acrobats; and the pictures are a popular feature.

BATH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis A. Long.—For the Horse Show week Messrs. Jay and Mann's company is appearing in the comedy The Truants. Miss Molly Tremaine grips the character of Freda Saville boldly; and in a very different style of acting Miss Elmie Kemp as the vivacious Pamela Gray is excellent. Mr. T. A. Shannon tackles the rôle of Bill Chetwood firmly and convincingly; his brother Dick is well impersonated by Mr. D. Powis Griffiths; and credit is due to Miss Tessie Parke for the admirable manner in which she enacts the child Jack. The remainder of the cast includes Miss Stewart Dawson as the maid Bent, Mr. Frank Danby (Lord Strelland), Mr. Mackenzie Rogan (Rev. Philip Preston), Miss Rita Trekelle (amusing as Mrs. Collins), and Miss Mildred Orme (Lady Darnaway). The duologue "Jerry and a Sunbeam," enacted by Miss Frances Titheradge and Mr. O. Powis Griffiths, makes a pleasing curtain-raiser.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schuberth. — Mr. Phil Ray, the popular comedian, is a big favourite here this week; Mollie Doon, with her clear enunciation and dainty style, is well received in a couple of songs; the Bros. Victor execute with grace and humour some wonderful feats as equilibrists; Alice Craven, "a bit of Lancashire," has to oblige with three songs before being allowed to depart; a good musical brass instrument act is that of the Concoran Bros.; Roy Beavis conjures with the utmost sangfroid; and an exceedingly promising young lady juggler is Rene. The pictures include Gretna Green and A Lady's Train.

SYDNEY GARDENS.—In the Pavilion this week are the Whimsicals, in a truly bright and breezy entertainment.

BEDFORD.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—Joe Collins and Howard Watson submit an entertaining musical comedy; Kate Gourlay dances and sings in good style; the Brothers Errard do some clever musical and acrobatic work; Nita Crystal and Geoffrey Saville present a laughable turn In Jack's Jacket; the Sisters Hall sing some pretty songs; Ted Saunders gives clever impersonations of well-known singers; and the Boccaccio Minstrels, including Franci Boccaccio, the great mandolinist, are encored.

BELFAST.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. McCann.—Mr. George Edwardes' company opened here on Monday with The Dollar Princess. In the rôle of Alice, Miss Norah Barry was decidedly charming, her vocalism captivating all; and Mr. Leonard Mackay appeared as Freddy Fairfax, his fine voice being heard with pleasure in several numbers; Mr. W. H. Rawlins was amusing as Mr. Bulger, and there was not a dull moment when he occupied the stage; Mr. Leslie Stiles was cast for the rôle of Harry Q. Conder, which fitted him admirably; and praise must be accorded to Miss Madeline Seymour for her delightful impersonation of Olga, her singing and acting being excellent; Miss Mabel Russell, with an engaging stage presence, was a dainty Daisy; Mr. Paul Plunket was a capital Earl of Quorn; and Mr. Percy Davison was humorous as Sir James McGregor; Mr. Howard Cridland added to the enjoyment by his clever interpretation of Dick; and other rôles were efficiently sustained by Miss Mabel Hayden, Miss Roma June, and Messrs. E. J. Wood, Terence Kevin, and C. Barnes. The piece was beautifully staged, and the picturesque dresses were much admired. The fine chorus and augmented orchestra were under the skilful direction of Mr. Ernest Irving.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. A. Salmond.—Guilty Gold has been presented here by Mr. Horace Stanley and company. Mr. Ernest J. Fare furnished a skilful impersonation of Martin Haldane; and a powerful interpretation of Ralph Bartlett was furnished by Mr. Charles Burdon; Miss Violet Agnew was charming as Hetty Hampton; and the rôle of John Hampton was in the safe hands of Mr. T. B. Brabazon; Mr. Arthur Francis supplied a humorous impersonation of Charlie Wragg; and he was ably assisted by Miss Ida Fane as Euphemia Wragg; Miss Bernice Fielding was good as Rhoda Hampton; Mr. Edwin Clarke's impersonation of Frank Seymour reflects much credit on him; and Miss Kate Kilpack was an excellent Selina Naggett. Other rôles were adequately presented by Messrs. George Barker, Fred Stephens, G. Jacques, Stanley Alderson, H. Loates, E. Griffiths, F. Stephens, &c.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred Willmott; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—The leading position here is held by Alan Holt and company, who produce their dramatic episode, A Society Woman. Miss Hilda Jacobsen, a charming comedienne, sings some songs with great acceptance; and a welcome return visit is being paid by the Leslie Brothers, whose musical act is an acquisition to the programme; d'Arc's marionettes introduce vaudeville stars, this being one of the finest acts imaginable; Beattie and Babs, smart juveniles, are paying a welcome return visit; and also on the programme are the Seven Wulfrunas, in their acrobatic speciality; Elton and Elma, in their triple bar act; Francis and Alfred, jesting jugglers; Mr. Richard Finberg, popular actor; and the Hipposcope.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. C. Laidler.—The Carmos top the bill here, and their novelty juggling act has been enthusiastically received. The Anartos, the musical swell and talkative postman, provide a most pleasing and acceptable act; Miss Peggy Pryde is a capital comedienne, with good songs; and Burley and Burley, acrobatic comiques, prove a smart duo; Mr. Fred Hallam, comedian, has an enviable reception; and Chas. Chard, an old favourite here, also does well; Little Keeno is a smart comedian. The bill is completed by the bioscope.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr. Will White.—Some attractive pictures have been exhibited here, including The Lost Trail, Billy's Bulldog, The Sheriff's Sacrifice, &c. The vaudeville element is sustained by Capt. Devereux's amazingly clever dogs and Mr. George Arnott (comedian).

ST. GEORGE'S HALL.—General-Manager Mr. Herbert Rogers.—Under the direction of the popular manager a capital series of pictures has been presented here, including scenes and notabilities at Bangor on aviation day, 27th ult.; 'Way Out West, The Impalement. Mr. Will Leslie, Scotch comedian, appears at each performance with much favour.

PRINCESS PICTURE PALACE.—General-Manager, Captain T. A. Blake.—A fine programme of pictures has been presented here, including 'Mid the Cannon's Roar, The Range Riders, &c. Messrs. Fred and Rose appear to great advantage in their screaming absurdity entitled Buttons.

BILSTON.—HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Edwin C. Jazon; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. J. Tunstall.—This week we have the Mysterious Irving; Tom Garland, mimic and ventriloquist; Elmore and Evans, comedy couple; Bert Anderson, a smart conjurer; and Amy Lloyd, refined comedienne. The pictures shown are excellent.

BIRKENHEAD.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Herbert M. King.—Mr G. Carlton Wallace's company is here with The Village Blacksmith, a piece with a favourable reputation in this town. Mr. Sam Livesey repeats a powerful rendering of the blacksmith, and is adequately supported by Miss Maggie Edmonds as the wife. Mr. Joseph Carter enacts the uphill character of Captain Leo with dramatic intensity, and the remaining parts are without exception in able hands. The piece is capitally staged.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Keating.—Miss Victoria Monks is again a centre of attraction; the well-known and popular droll Cruikshank is scoring heavily; and the Eight Lancashire Lads, a clever combination of vocalists and dancers, are a pronounced success. Ross and Grayson, an admirable comedy couple, are a leading turn; and Baby Boden, a promising and talented juvenile artist. Miss Ada Fawn, a clever comedienne, L. W. Harris, a good light comedian, and Brown's Royal Bioscope complete an excellent combination.

HIPPODROME.—Director of Entertainments, Mr. Will Sley; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Weston.—Mr. A. Clifton Alderson's company, in the interesting play The Coal King, furnishes an attractive entertainment. Mr. Cecil H. Woodhouse scores heavily as Tom Roberts; Mr. A. W. Norman is a fair exponent of the title-rôle; and Mr. Sidney Kearns is a capable Walter Hartford. Miss Winifred Love acquits herself admirably as Grace Shirley, and Mr. Frank Dalton is a good Dick Shirley. The production is carefully staged.

WINTER GARDENS, ROCK FERRY.—General-Manager, Messrs. B. Allandale and L. Blattner; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry A. Dooley.—A liberal programme is sustained by Mr. Wilfrid Burnand, mimic; Mr. Laurie Leyton, ventriloquist; Miss Jeannie Jeune, an accomplished vocalist; the Four Minims, in a musical act; Val Brodo, tenor vocalist; Mr. Barney Stuart, variety artist; and Miss Flora Driver, pianist.

BIRMINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davies; General-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—Much interest attaches to the visit here this week of Cavaliere F. Castellano's Italian Grand Opera company. The operas have been splendidly patronised, and the performers have given every satisfaction. The selection of operas was well chosen, and the chorus and orchestra on each occasion were at their best. The week's programme reads: Monday, Cavalleria Rusticana and I Pagliacci; Tuesday, Rigoletto; Wednesday, La Traviata; Thursday matinée, Il Barbiere de Siviglia; Thursday evening, Il Trovatore; Friday, Faust; and Saturday, Carmen.

PRINCE OF WALES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnston.—Les Cloches de Corneville has been revived here this week by Messrs. Milton Bode and John Hart's company. The piece is splendidly mounted, and the leaders are admirably assisted by a strong chorus. Mr. Cyril Thompson is excellent as the Marquis de Corneville, and renders his individual number most effectively; Gaspard is ably represented by Mr. E. St. Albans; Miss Kitty Dale distinguishes herself in the rôle of Germaine; Miss Dolly Castles makes a sprightly and fascinating Serpolette; Mr. Fred. Dark creates genuine laughter as the whimsical Bailie; Mr. Arthur Gewing is clever as Grenricheaux; and Mr. Alfred Selby scores as Gobo.

ALEXANDRA.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. T. Guest.—The Girl Who Went Astray is scoring a big success during this week. Miss Dora Brookes sustains the character, Madge Harvey, with conspicuous success, and is ably partnered by Mr. Austin Mortimer, who takes the character of Rupert Murdock. Miss Ada Oakley realistically portrays the part of Violet Harvey, and as Captain Frank Julian Mr. Richard Ferris is a great favourite.

BORDESLEY PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Mark Lorne.—Mr. E. Hill-Mitchelson's company is here with The King and the Unknown Woman. Mr. James Stillwell gives a fine portrayal as Prince Loris, and Mr. W. R. Winning is a dashing figure as General Platy; as Prince Menski Mr. Walter T. Clifford is conspicuous, and he is ably assisted by Miss Adeline Raby in the part of the Countess Melvitch; Miss Violet Carlyle is applauded for clever acting as Zora, the spy, and the other characters are well played.

METROPOLE.—Proprietor, Mr. Andrew Melville; Manager, Mr. J. Hindle Taylor.—Mr. Arthur Shirley's stirring drama The Stepmother is here, the production being in hands of Miss Nannie Goldman's No. 1 company. Miss Patricia Bostock in the title-rôle fills a difficult part with distinction; Mr. William Holles is a bright personality as Bob Bristow; and as Danny Miss Nannie Goldman gives a very telling interpretation. Mr. Henry C. Ward gives a good portrayal as Abraham Wiggins; and humorous parts are well played by Miss Edith Bruce (Johanna Jones) and Mr. Teddy Myles (Timothy Yapp).

ASTON THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lewis Chapman.—The Still Alarm is here, staged by Messrs. Mathew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond's company; and Mr. Glenville in the character of Jack Manley adds to his many triumphs. Miss Minnie Willett is well qualified for the part of Elinor Fordham; and Miss Lydia Andre makes a vivacious Carrie Wilber. As John Bird Mr. Wilton Reed proves himself a realistic actor; and Miss Mabel Veriton is popular as Mrs. Manley. Mr. Henry C. Gilpin, Mr. Edward Hobart, and Mr. Gerald Shirley are also very successful.

CARLTON THEATRE. — Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—The Life of a Showman is proving an effective draw this week. The Testo-Sante company, which comprises a large number of versatile artists, is responsible for a capital production. Mr. Frank Sante as Brien Leader, the circus proprietor, fully realises the responsibilities of his part, and is a big favourite; the Brothers Testo are eccentrics of a high order; Mr. J. R. C. Hamilton and Miss D. Price undertake the heavy characters with distinct success; and Miss E. Bamford makes a winsome heroine.

EMPIRE. — Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. Williams.—Crowded audiences are paying tribute to an exceptionally strong programme. Laughter reigns during the performance of Fred Karno's Skating sketch; Barrett and Knowles are prime pantomime favourites here, and enjoy a flattering reception; a strong feature of the bill is the versatile dancing act of My Fancy; Cull-Pitt mystifies with his conjuring tricks; Sammy Shields is in great form, and his work is very popular; Lupino Lane is a smart youth, with quaint songs and bewildering antics; the Bob Pender troupe are responsible for an amusing item, entitled The Long and Short of It; Reid and Power are up-to-date entertainers; and Evelyn Stoll is a bright and stylish comedienne.

THE GRAND.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Foster; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. Lucas.—Happy Fanny Fields is as merry as ever, and she delights large audiences with her singing, patter, and dancing; roars of laughter greet the sketch, Non-suited, presented by Miss Jackedaura Melford and company; wonderful feats of strength and agility are performed by the Hadj-Mohammed troupe of Arab acrobats; Walter King is in happy mood; Ruth Davenport possesses a fine voice, and is applauded for her songs; Staley's company are responsible for a bright and versatile musical act; Brothers Dean are clever dancers; and Maud Vera is a pretty and vivacious vocalist and dancer.

GAIETY.—General-Manager, Mr. Albert Bushell.—The Man with the Forty Faces is becoming quite a well-known music-hall character. This week Mr. Leonard Mortimer's No. 1 company is presenting a thrilling detective story in tabloid form, and the production is thoroughly enjoyed. The Norman Leonard trio appear successfully in a bright musical scena, "The Squire's Dance"; the Ten San Tan Girls are pleasing vocalists and dancers; and the Alberto troupe of lady equilibrists are conspicuous in feats, demanding strength and skill; the beautiful Zaida performs cleverly on the slack wire; Pongorila figures in a novel production, The Man of the Woods; Will Harmony is a successful mimic; and Chorley and Connor, Scotch comedians, and Jenny Wood, comedienne and dancer, also contribute.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasfords', Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Ben de Frece.—The Seven Bramusas, a troupe of talented juvenile musicians, take the premier place here, and their performance is a much appreciated one; Gus Harris is a welcome visitor in his latest success, Palestine; Robins and Collier's comedy company is a genuine mirth-provoker; Captain Spaulding, who appears in the place of Wild Willie and West, gives a sensational "fire-eating" performance; and the Five Joveys, who are deputising for Ethel Loftus, are smart acrobats; Burns and Bentley are popular singers and dancers; Maud Lordy's dogs have been cleverly trained; and the Three Dixons are entertaining vocalists, banjoists, and dancers; other good turns are Robb Gilmore, eccentric comedian; Chorley and Connor, Scotch comedians; and Jenny Wood.

ASTON HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Aston Hippodrome, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. T. H. Middleton.—Miss Harriett Vernon is a warm favourite with patrons of this house, and in a new and romantic scena is scoring further successes here. She also delights us with a few of her popular songs. The Child Trio of juvenile musicians are in the front rank of music-hall entertainers. They contribute fine solos on the violin, violoncello, and pianoforte, and the boy fairly brings down the house in conducting the orchestra. James Hare and company appear in a laughable sketch; the Four Ascots are talented wooden-shoe dancers; and the Quality Quartette render enjoyable part songs. Other good turns are provided by Leslie Race, Queenie May, and Len Teel.

CURZON HALL.—Lessee, Mr. Waller Jeffs.—An interesting and instructive entertainment is provided in the pictures exhibited this week. A popular new feature is the representation in colours of the historical play The Tyrant of Jerusalem. A thrilling pictorial drama is entitled Love's Stratagem; and the travel series, which this week represents a tour through the fjords of Norway, is also well received. Pathé's Animated Gazette illustrates interesting happenings in various places; and Miss Olga Leipold contributes popular character songs.

KING'S HALL.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. J. P. Moore and B. Kennedy.—New items on the programme for this week bring the entertainment quite up to date. The principal films shown are entitled The Wild Man of Borneo, Mario's Swan Song, The New Boss of the Ranch, and The Officer's Double. Wee Babs Sinclair and Kingsley contribute good variety turns.

QUEEN'S HALL. — Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. B. Kennedy and J. P. Moore.—The Bioscope exhibits many excellent pictures of a new type here this week, including very clever dramatic and comedy subjects.

BISHOP AUCKLAND. — EDEN THEATRE. — Lessees, Messrs. R. Addison, Ltd.; Business-Manager, Mr. J. Huntley.—Messrs. F. Marriott Watson and Jas. Ussher's company is here in The Black Mask. Mr. Edward R. Ashby, F. Marriott Watson, Willis Elton, and Elton Morgan, in their respective rôles of Walter Blackmore, Henri le Noir, Philip Cunninghame, and Jem Rudge, present same very satisfactorily; and Miss Florence E. Florence is a very winning Nellie Cunninghame; and the rôle of Philip le Noir is capably handled by Little Dot Forde.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, The H

BOSCOMBE.—HIPPODROME, LTD.—Joint-Managing-Directors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Gerald Spencer.—Carl Hertz is paying another visit, with his mystifying performance, assisted by Miss Emeline D'Alton; he is heartily cheered. The Five Vernons entertain the audience with selections on the xylophone and are much appreciated; Doris and Francis are a pair of clever comediennes and dancers; Smarte Brothers give a skilful and amusing acrobatic turn; Dave Carter, the Irish tenor, receives an ovation; the Sivronis have a laughable sketch In Psyche; Chas. Grantley, comedian, keeps the house in roars of laughter with his funny stories; and the Hippo. pictures conclude.

BOURNEMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs. David Allen and Sons; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Hubert Dunbar.—Dame Nature opened here on Monday night to a crowded house. The company, as a whole, is an admirable one, the fine acting of Miss Ethel Irving as Lolette coming in for special recognition. She is ably supported by Mr. Frank Cooper, who gives a sincere and skilful interpretation of Bertram; Mr. Norman Forbes gives a finished portrayal of the Prince; Miss Mabel Hunt is prominent as the Princess; Mr. Chas. Vane as Jas. Ridgeway, Mr. W. R. Staveley as Paul Garford, and Miss Florence Nelson as his wife, Mr. Alfred Drayton as Henry Greville and the other artists are all equally good in their respective parts.

BRADFORD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson. — Mr. Cyril Maude's fine company is here in Sir Walter Raleigh. Miss Winifred Emery, who presented a striking figure as the imperious Queen Elizabeth, acted with great power and won repeated outbursts of applause; Mr. Lyn Harding in the title-rôle shared in the honours for a very convincing and clever performance; Miss Nell Carter gave a natural and charming performance of Elizabeth Frogmorton; Mr. Percy Rhodes as the arch-conspirator Don Bernardino de Mendoza was very effective; and excellent work was done by Mr. Percy Marmont as the Earl of Essex, Mr. Mark Paton as Father Ballard, Mr. W. E. Holloway as John Savage, Mr. Charles Francis as Francis Frogmorton, and Mr. Powis Pinder as James Longbowe.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Councillor F. Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. M. Hamilton.—The Master of the Mill is well received here this week. Mr. Algernon Syms as the mill master submits an able performance, and as Nancy, the mill lass, Miss Enid Edoni is dainty and attractive; Tom Bolton, her lover, is a manly impersonation by Mr. Paul Beckett; Julian Croft is effectively played by Mr Ernest E. Ineson; and Miss Valerie Russell appears to advantage as the heiress.

THE EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. J. Kelly.—Considerable interest is manifested here this week in Mr. Raymond Phillips' wireless-controlled airship, which the clever inventor manœuvres in the auditorium amidst great applause; Ernest Shand's comic character sketches and humorous songs are a source of genuine amusement and hearty laughter; Duncan's wonderfully-trained Scotch collies are put through a performance which elicits great enthusiasm; the Harmonious Gothams are here again—grotesque as ever; with songs at the piano Nina Wood is bright and charming; the Musical McGregors give a clever performance with xylophones, concertinas, and cornets; in immaculate male attire and with considerable abandon and energy Winifred Ward wins applause with her songs; Mary Ambrose, an accomplished violinist, accompanies herself in her rendering of excellent songs; Johnny Walker's songs are funny; and some amusing pictures are shown by the Bioscope.

THE PALACE.—Lessee, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. E. Harrison.—Very attractive is the performance on musical instruments presented by the Musical Marvels here, and their vocalism is good; "Compensation," an amusing sketch by Richard Flanagan, is humorous and laughter-provoking to a degree; in Wanted, a Partner, Gibbon and Bell are versatile and entertaining; Jack Hamilton, with good comic songs and stories and capital instrumentalism and step-dancing, displays versatility; Little Doris Druce impersonates some popular celebrities cleverly; as a whistler Guy Ryder is clever; Zellini's comic juggling is diverting and smart; the Four Figaros in Ten Minutes on the Continent present some capital character vocalism and dancing; and the Perfection pictures are interesting.

BRIDLINGTON.—SPA OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. R. C. Luxton.—Mr. Silvanus Dauncey and Mr. Hanworth Browning's company opened here on Monday with that successful play The Walls of Jericho, which was very finely staged and played. Mr. Ethelbert Edwards's admirable acting in the part of Jack Frobisher being the great feature in a fine all-round performance. The Lady Alethea of Miss Gwendoline Hay was also a carefully studied portrayal, and was played by this clever artist with full effect. Mr. Russell Barry was an excellent Hanky Bannister; the Lady Westerby of Miss Eileen Orby was very fine; Miss Florence Steventon was a capital Tiny; and Miss Macdonald was a praiseworthy Lady Lucy. For the second half of the week we have Mr. Seymour Hicks's company in The Gay Gordons.

ROYAL PRINCE'S PARADE.—Manager, Mr. Charles Palmer.—The feature of the week here is the appearance of Mr. George Robey in the Grand Pavilion, where the "Smart Set" entertainers are still drawing large audiences. Mr. Walter George and his campany giving some capital programmes. Mr. Norfolk Megone and his fine orchestra are still a great attraction in the Floral Pavilion, and the vocalist this week, Miss May Sheridan, is heartily encored for her finely rendered soprano songs.

BRIGHTON. — GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee and Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Gates; General-Manager, Mr. Ben Court.—Messrs. Henry Chattell and Jack Denton's company is here with Through the Divorce Court. As Lord Robert Penarth Mr. Riddell Robinson gives an admirable portrayal; Miss Hettie Chattell submits a highly-effective impersonation of Lady Penarth; Mr. Henry C. Cooper cleverly enacts the scheming Guzman di Mendoza; Mr. John Campling's Leon di Valdiz is ably played; little Constance Dagmar makes a pleasing Sybil; Mr. Jack Denton as the Hon. Algy Fitzmaurice and Miss Nellie Sheffield as Dinah are a very amusing pair; and capable support is rendered by Mr. Harry Colbeck (Patsy), Miss Edith Cruikshanks (Lady Hilda), and Miss Lizzie Scobie (Miss Dobbins). The play is attracting crowded houses.

ALHAMBRA. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Alfred Smith; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. A. Smith.—Mr. R. E. Bewicke's company is delightfully entertaining in Our Circus; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Manning appear with great success in the comedy duologue Our Wedding Anniversary; Les Romanis give an excellent speciality musical turn; Ellis and Campbell are capital comedians; Renee de Vaux is a chic comedienne; La Petite Rosa appears in a graceful wire and globe walking act; Tom Hayes is an admirable comedian; George and Milo are good equilibrists; the Little Vestas are juvenile vocalists and dancers; and the Alhambra Picturegraph is interesting and amusing.

BARRASFORD'S HIPPODROME.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Bertram J. Brown.—Miss Clarice Mayne submits clever imitations of well-known comedy artists and sings admirably; the Six Cliftons are skilful comedy pantomimical acrobats; Syd Walker is a pleasing comedian; Cummin and Seaham are acrobatic eccentrics; Signor and Mme. Borelli provide a capital comedy entertainment; the Permane Brothers are warmly applauded for their comedy act; Josh Dixon is a diverting comedian; the Okedians submit a miniature musical comedy; Harry Zetter is a good comedian; Queen and Le Brun and company are effective in The Cockney Sportsman; and Curwen and Bell are burlesque artists.

WEST PIER.—Secretary, Mr. A. W. Scholey.—Mr. Mouillot's company opened here on Monday with The Geisha. Miss Aimee Grey was a captivating O Mimosa San; Miss Adela Crispin made a delightful Molly; Mr. Edmund Sherras acquitted himself admirably as Reginald Fairfax; Mr. Herbert Uzielli made a stately Captain Katana; Mr. Edward Carlton afforded much fun as Wun Hi; Miss Renee Reel's Juliette was excellent; and the remaining characters were satisfactorily sustained. The programme for the week also included A Greek Slave. The choruses were well sung, and the duties of conductor were in the experienced hands of Mr. Ernest Hartmann.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Jay and Mann; Resident-Manager, Mr. Wilfred H. Kent.—Mr. James Welch's company is here with When Knights were Bold. Mr. H. Langdon Bruce gives a clever impersonation of Sir Guy de Vere; Miss Isla Glyn is thoroughly artistic as Lady Ravens Eggriton; Mr. Charles F. Lloyd's Isaacson is well played; Mr. Percy R. Goodyer's Hon. Charles Widdicombe and Mr. Humphrey Warden's Sir Brian Ballymote are good enactments; Miss Violet Noel is suited as Sarah Isaacson; and Miss Lena Flowerdew's Hon. Mrs. Waldegrave merits praise.

COURT THEATRE.—Lessee and Manageress, Mrs. Maud Barrasford; Manager, Mr. F. J. Thompson.—An excellent series of animated pictures is exhibited here. The Closed Door conveys a highly-ramatic story, and A Victim of Jealousy is replete with stirring incidents. Picturesque Venice is a capital travel picture; Ada of Vernon is a charming love drama; and much amusement is afforded by a Quiet Boarding-house, Mugwump's Bank Notes, and Soap Bubbles of Truth.

THEATRE DE LUXE.—Proprietors, Electric Theatres, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. H. Consens.—Crowded houses are the rule here, the animated pictures, changed each Monday and Thursday, being excellent. Burly Bill and Plucky Little Girl are intensely dramatic; Never Judge by Appearances and Without her Father's Consent are pleasing comedies; great fun is afforded by That Typist Again and Rejuvenating Father; and Sisal Industry is instructive.

BRISTOL.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—The Dawn of a To-morrow is being played here by Messrs. Wentworth Croke, Milton Bode, and Edward Compton's company. Miss Marie Polini presents an admirable study of Glad; Mr. Frederick Victor is impressive as Sir Oliver Holt; Mr. Charles King acts effectively as Mr. Oliver Holt; Mr. Charles E. Dering does well as Sir Bowling Burford; Mr. William Kershaw presents an earnest study of Dandy; and all the remaining parts are carefully taken.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mrs. Emma Carpenter; Manager, Mr. Henry C. Alty.—Mr. Fred Melville's company is here with Her Road to Ruin. Miss Doris Gilham and Mr. Charles Dickens act admirably their respective parts of Jess Willoughby and the Rev. Frank Temple; Mr. Knox Orde is effective as Philip Hardy; Miss Gertrude Tate does well as May Willoughby; Mr. Dane Clarke makes a dignified Bishop; and other parts are well played, notably Mary Dawson, by Miss Margaret McClellan; Tom Wells, by Mr. Albert Grenville; Charles Cholmondeley, by Mr. R. Leigh Ellis; Billy Boots, by Mr. C. H. Brooke; and Jenny Crackling, by Miss Grace Emery.

PALACE.—District-Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton; Treasurer and Assistant-Manager, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—Señor Angel Blanco obtains much applause for his violin solos, introduced in an interesting dramatic playlet, entitled Music the Conqueror, well played and nicely staged; Larola does a smart turn, embracing some fine balancing, comic business, &c.; McLallen and Carson do a clever skating act and excel as novelty dancers, their turn being entitled "Babes in Toyland"; Little Ganty is an amusing comedian; Gladys Mavius is successful both in song and dance; Madge May is a pleasing vocalist and dancer; the Sages, vaudeville artists, are appreciated; Hicks and Hunter are smart dancers; and Rose Cabani scores with a pretty song and dance. Animated pictures conclude.

EMPIRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. Rhodes Parry; Assistant- and Advertising-Manager, Mr. Sid Macaire. — Lil Hawthorne heads the programme with an admirable turn, all her songs being warmly appreciated; Arnold Bell and company, including Miss Frances Campbell, are successful with their dramatic episode entitled The Summing Up; Louis Wain's cat studies are very entertaining, the cats being cleverly trained; Dolly England, juvenile male impersonator, has a good voice, and is decidedly clever; Batt and Lynn score with their dancing speciality, "Boots and Shoes"; Flo Cecil, comedienne, is pleasing; Ike and Will Scott are successful with their new patter and dancing act; and Harry Wenburn, comedian, obtains appreciation. Interesting animated pictures conclude.

COLSTON HALL. — Ralph Pringle's animated pictures are proving successful here. The films are all remarkably clear, and include every variety of subject. There are a smart vaudeville company and a good band.

BROUGHTON. — VICTORIA THEATRE. — Lessees, Messrs. J. P. Moore and Montague Beaudyn; General-Manager, Mr. Montague Beaudyn; Business-Manager, Mr. Arthur Collingwood. — This theatre was reopened on Monday, when a full house welcomed the performance of Herbert Skardon's adaptation of The Three Musketeers. Mr. Montague Beaudyn made an excellent D'Artagnan; and Gabrielle was charmingly presented by Miss Irene Munro. Miladi was a fine piece of work by Miss Muriel Inglis; the Cardinal Richelieu and his spy Rochefort were careful studies by Mr. Charles D. Pitt and Mr. Val Gully; Mr. Frank Dacre (Villiers), Mr. Dick Melvyn (Athos), Mr. Edward Benson (Porthos), Mr. George Overe (Aramis), Mr. A. A. Tomlin (Planchet), Miss Cora Patey (Queen), Miss Phyllis Rae (Julie), and Mr. Henry Woodford (Louis XIII.) also did good work.

BURNLEY.—VICTORIA OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—Messrs. Arthur Shirley and Sutton Vane's company is here with Two Lancashire Lasses in London. Miss Mabel Coleman as Lillie presents a sympathetic and pleasing study and Miss Florence Zillwood is highly successful as Constance; Mr. Robert Gilbert makes a fine John Edmunds; and Mr. Caspar Middleton is convincing as Jonas Dean.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—Joe and Jenny head the bill here with delightful numbers; Reno performs difficult cycling feats; and Sid Bedford and company excite merriment with a well-played comedy, The Second Mrs. Chester. Bertha Stuart pleases the audience with beautiful contralto songs, and excellent knockabout work is indulged in by the Bros. Becketon. The Sisters Cora are attractive with duets, and a ventriloquial act of a novel type is presented by Perrier. The Rock Climbers is shown by the Empire Theatrescope.

PALACE THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. R. Badcoe.—An interesting playlet, The Key, is causing interest here, and is capitally presented by Miss Jessie Danvers and company. Mr. Fred Lindsay demonstrates his remarkable powers in the use of a whip, and the De Breans are a versatile couple introducing smart juggling and shadowgraphy. Little Sophie is a young comedienne with delightful mannerisms, whilst Miss Kirk and Miss Saraski give a pretty swimming display in a tank. The Hulls are an original pair of comedians with good voices, and Edgar Forrest and company in My Friend the Enemy provoke hearty laughter. Susan's Revenge is a funny film by the Palace pictures.

BURTON-ON-TRENT. — NEW THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. de Hague Body.—Mr. Geo. Edwardes's company, with The Merry Widow, is here this week. With her charming voice, graceful dancing, and bright personality Miss Phyllys le Grand is an ideal Sonia; Miss Ada Thomas sings and acts well as the dutiful wife; Mr. J. Warren Foster's Prince Danilo is a clever impersonation; the quaint humour of Mr. Edward d'Arcy as Baron Popoff convulses the audience; the numbers allotted to Vicomte de Jolidon are capitally given by Mr. Ripley Evans; Mr. Fred Fowler (Nisch) is a good comedian, and his dance with Frou-Frou (Miss Katie May) is an appreciated feature of the performance.

BURY (Lancs.). — ROYAL. — General-Manager, Mr Otto G. Culling; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. McPherson.—Messrs. G. M. Polini and Austin Melford's company opened here on Monday in The Silver King, and the support accorded is another proof of the wonderful popularity of this drama. All the parts are cleverly played, and Mr. Arthur H. Rooke is to be specially complimented upon his performance as Wilfred Denver; Mr. Edward J. George still plays the faithful Jaikes in his inimitable style; the villainies of the "Spider" are sufficiently marked by Mr. L. St. George Lowther; Mr. Ralph Leon is a capital Henry Corket; and Mr. Arthur Wright gives his usual clever study of Elijah Coombe. Miss Hilda Bateman shows distinct promise as Cissy, and the Nellie Denver of Miss Mildred Surrey is a finished performance. Other parts are in the capital hands of Mr. W. Leslie Ellis as Geoffrey Ware, Messrs. Bingham and Hatchway as Binks and Bronson respectively; Miss Evelyn Grey as Olive Skinner and Miss Aime Serjeant as Tabitha Durdan.

CIRCUS OF VARIETIES.—Another excellent series of pictures is on view, and variety turns are given by Jack Martin, vocalist, and the Sisters Drayeott, duettists.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Resident-Manager, Mr. Thomas Baker.—Jan Rudenyi, the actor violinist, occupies chief place in the bill, and presents his musical episode The Power of Music, supported by Mr. Drew Mackintosh and Miss Hilda Stewart. Jessie Wilton is a pleasing comedienne; some good songs are well rendered by Phil Herman, vocal comedian; Lawson and O'Dell are capital vocalists and dancers; the Rangers appear in a trick comedy cycling act; Harry Hutin is a clever legmania comedian; and Mackinnon's Scottish Meisters in comedy quartettes are thoroughly enjoyable.

BUXTON.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, The Buxton Gardens Company, Ltd.; Secretary and Manager, Mr. Arthur Willoughby.—Mr. Harry P. Towers' company in Dear Little Denmark, occupied the above theatre for the first three nights this week. Mr. Edward Thirlby was successful as the Duke, and Mr. Cameron Carr made an excellent Conrad Petersen, Mr. George W. Ruff being commendable as Jonas Jensen; Mr. Tom Payne was responsible for most of the laughter, and Mr. Frank Lewis ably appeared as the Burgomaster; Miss Winifred Volt was fascinating as the servant girl Ophelia, and Miss Nancy Hambly successful as 'Xandra. In the principal part Miss Alice Waldie sang particularly well, and a ballet of dancers added greatly to the effect. Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch completes the week.

THE HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Allan Milton.—Prominent amongst the turns in this week's programme should be mentioned Miss Lydia Neilson and her troupe of Six Youngsters, in song duets and cleverly-executed dances. Of the pictures shown, those attracting major attention were Billy's Bulldog and Tracking Moonshiners in the Porcupine Mountains.

CARDIFF.—NEW THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—A new experiment is being tried here this week. Mr. Arthur Hardy's company appearing in five playlets nightly. The first is a drama by Mrs. Herbert D. Cohen, entitled The Chain, which is followed by Anstey's amusing farce, A Short Exposure. Conan Doyle's A Pot of Caviare and A Question of Diplomacy come next, and The Royal Flower completes the bill. The two artists of prominence are Mrs. Russ Whytal and Mr. T. Percival Stevens, whose remarkable versatility and skill displayed in the various leading parts are enthusiastically applauded. Mr. Frederick Moyes, Mr. Harry Ashford, Mr. J. Plumpton Wilson, and Mr. Geoffrey Douglas also have important parts; and Miss Elly Malyon and Miss Dorothea Desmond are well to the fore with accomplished impersonations. The new venture seems to have achieved success in this city, and nothing but praise and satisfaction has been expressed on all sides.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. J. Taylor.—Bella and Bijou, society entertainers, continue to make a hit with their screamingly funny and well-acted Suffragette skit; Olga, Elgar, and Eli Hudson have an artistic musical item, in which flute manipulation and sweet singing figure agreeably; Verno and Voyce's new vocal scena, "John Bull's Cash-Box," catches on tremendously; Cissie Curlette, comedienne, makes a favourable impression; Ben Albert is a clever comedian; Woodhouse and Wells' wholesome patter cause laughter; Conn and Conrad, in an up-to-date aviation number, are both skilful and humorous; and Wee Mona Vivian is a pleasing comedienne and clever dancer. The Marconis, electric wonders, and the Bioscope, add to the evening's enjoyment.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Arthur Burton.—A return visit is made by Friend and Downing, American comedians, who are as funny and entertaining as ever; Warden Reed and Jennie Stevens evoke abundant applause and laughter in their comedy sketch, Married or Photographed; Bardoff, the Russian strong boy, gives a marvellous exhibition of weight-lifting; and Jeff Martin, "the sport of a hundred years," organises a boxing bout between clever exponents of the noble art. Other very acceptable numbers are:—The Sisters Williams, in a song scena, "The Flower Girl"; Dene and Dixon, a clever comedy duo; Nellie Neil and Vesta Nixon, both pleasing comediennes and able dancers; Daisy Hurdle, taking comedienne; and the Bioscope.

CARLISLE.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Thos. Courtice.—T. Elder Hearn is scoring a huge success here this week with a protean sketch, entitled The Romance of a Studio, in which he impersonates no fewer than seven different characters. He is also very amusing as the lazy juggler. A dramatic sketch, entitled The Rat, is cleverly played by Gaston Chevallier's company, including Mlle. Etoil de Noir, and introducing the sensational new dance "Des Voyans"; the Three Sisters Sprightly cause roars of laughter with their clever skit on golf; Wallace Galvin does some very wonderful palming; Florrie Lewis is a comedienne of the quaint type and is appreciated; May Lillian Levey does admirably. Others who do well are Lady Gordon Stewart, reciter; Gwendoline Coates, violinist; and Wilson Blackledge, humorist.

THE PALACE.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. D. Askew.—L'Incognita is once again delighting us with her beautiful vocalism; Tom Taylor and company, in The Plumbers are very amusing; Karr and Kooney, cross-talkers and comedians, score a success; the Dick and Dorothy Trio submit a dancing act, for which they are loudly acclaimed; George Edmunds, at the piano, mimics some of our popular artists cleverly; Morrissey, balancer and instrumentalist, meet with approbation; and Marie and Nellie are a pair of dainty and graceful vocalists and dancers.

THE PUBLIC HALL.—Lessee and Director, Mr. Sydney Bacon; Resident-Manager, Mr. Peter Mooney.—The above hall, after being closed for a couple of weeks, was re-opened on Monday night. During the vacation it has been somewhat remodelled refurnished, and redecorated throughout. The front of the building is an elaborate piece of work in fibrous plaster. The balcony is now the best part of the house, having been fitted with new plush tip-up chairs, and the floor beautifully carpeted. The decorations are mostly in green and white. A large company assembled for the re-opening, including the Mayor and Mayoress, and the regular patrons of the entertainment expressed their warm appreciation of the improvements that had taken place. The programme submitted was quite up to that standard of excellence that has been maintained since the opening of the hall. Variety is introduced by the cinephone, and Mr. Fred Leslie, a capital vocalist, in illustrated songs.

CASTLEFORD.—ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr. Chas. Gadsby; Business-Manager, Councillor Henry Masterman, J.P.—Messrs. Alfred Paumier and Walter Howard's company is on a return visit with The Prince and the Beggar Maid. Prince Olaf finds a vigorous and manly exponent in Mr. Ernest Cox; Princess Monica is played with much feeling by Miss Mariam Pritchett; Mr. G. Mayor-Cooke portrays the consummate villainy of Prince Hildred realistically; Prince Michael is interpreted with excellent judgment and taste by Mr. Lionel Gadsden; Camolia is made a pathetic figure by Miss F. Hale-Daviss; Mr. Chas. V. Sandford throws a delightful amount of humour into his delineation of Lieut. Karl, and he is ably supported by Miss Jessica Black as the vivacious and mischievous Viola; as Captain Hector Mr. J. D. Daviss gives a pleasantly easy assumption; Mr. Adam Alexander is good as the Bishop; and Messrs. Hugh Selwyn, J. Chamberlain, and Arnold Cameron are capital in their respective parts.

QUEEN'S THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Proprietors, the Castleford Queen's Theatre of Varieties Co., Ltd.; Managing Directors, Messrs. Chas. Beanland and Will. H. Emerson.—A series of amusing dramatic and pathetic animated pictures, by the Loyal Dominion Co., is drawing large audiences. Miss Gracie O'Neil, a clever dancer, with an excellent voice, is vigorously applauded; the Sisters Dudley are heard to advantage in operatic duets; and Dunn and Reano are proficient gymnasts.

CHATHAM.—BARNARD'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. L. B. Barnard.—Host Barnard has a long and strong bill, including Cooper and Preston, comedians and dancers; Ella Blair and her American Bowery Boys and Girls in a praiseworthy vocal and dancing scena; Stan and Stella Atkins in an entertaining comedy act; Rose Gower, a vocalist, whose choruses are readily taken up; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard in a farcical sketch, True Blue; the Winskills, a trio of smart gymnasts; Pender's Little Dandies in a spirited and well-arranged dancing scena; and Coverdale, a comedian who keeps his auditors in a continual roar of laughter.

GAIETY THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Captain H. B. Davis; Manager, Mr. George Humphries.—Here we have Marie Stroud, comedienne; the Brothers Neill in a popular vocal act entitled The Rivals; Hilda Mascot a pleasing comedienne and dancer; Will Van Allen, the tramp musical comedian, who has a big reception; Minora, who has many admirers in her drawing-room act, The Stavey's Rehearsal, in which she introduces a well-trained dog, Jack; the Flying Harlons, who give with great success a neat and daring gymnastic act; and Herbert Rule, whose "I saw Esau" fairly "brings down the house."

CHESTER. — ROYALTY THEATRE. — Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton.—Mr. Robert Courtneidge's company opened here on Monday with The Arcadians. Mr. Gus Oxley was a big success in the double rôle of Smith and Simplicitas, his quaint antics provoking roars of laughter; Miss Marion Edwardes as the graceful Sombra was delightful, her fine voice being heard to great advantage; Mr. George Hestor as Peter Doody, the jockey, gave an amusing interpretation; Miss Madge Haines in the rôle of Mrs. Smith was very funny; and the Jack Meadows of Mr. Nelson Hancock was excellent; Miss Mysie Devine made a fascinating Eileen Cavanagh.

CHORLTON-CUM-HARDY. — THEATRE AND WINTER GARDENS.—The Mercury Animated Picture Co. present a good programme here this week of which the most enjoyable pictures are The Historic Medway, Napoleon: The Man of Destiny, and Lost in the Snow. Miss E. Grant, a clever little dancer; Mr. Kerry Feverel, a monologue artist; Miss Sheila, an Irish singer; and Fono, the human gramaphone and mimic, give acceptable turns.

CLACTON-ON-SEA. — PIER PAVILION. — Proprietors, The Coast Development Corporation, Ltd.; Lessee, Mr. Will C. Pepper.—The White Coons continue, by their refined entertainments, to draw good houses; Mr. Allan Thomas is encored for his song with banjo, "Your Alpine dress"; Mr. Wilfred Stacey is exceedingly funny in his humorous song, "The cricket man"; Miss Bessie Bowness charmingly renders "Soldier, take my heart," and is recalled; Mr. Bromley Carter is inimitable in his droll item, "Business Guide." Miss May Windsor's humorous song at the piano, "William, James, and 'Enery," is enthusiastically received; and Joe Morley renders some cleverly executed banjo items. The concerted items by the company are pleasing features of the entertainment.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. H. R. D. Hooper; Secretary, Mr. Thomas Butt.—The following strong bill is being presented here to crowded audiences. Wild, Willie and West, in their comedy acrobatic act; Cissie Thompson, comedienne; Sisters Gladwell, duettists and dancers; Ethel Loftus, comedienne; Cyrus Dare, imitator; Luis Hardt, in scena entitled In Days of Old; and Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope.

CLYDEBANK. — GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. A. E. Pickard; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. Mitchell.—This establishment reopened for the season this week. The bill includes Winona, champion rifle shot, assisted by Professor King; the Godfreys, in a splendid musical comedy act; the Bros. Ferguson, song and dance artists; Loveland, a clever female impersonator; and an excellent series of pictures on the Bioscope.

COLCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Chas. Macdona; Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. Graham Macdona.—Mr. Stanley Cooke and London company opened a half-week engagement on Monday night with The Man from Mexico. As the Man Mr. Stanley Cooke was always in evidence, and there was a rich vein of humour running through his portrayal; Mr. Geo. Giddens was very amusing as the one "who fixed it"; Mr. Cecil A. Collins as the detective with the hat made a quaint figure; Miss Ola Humphrey was admirably suited to the part of Clementina; and Miss Jean Harkness was pretty as Sally. The farce was preceded by the little Dutch playlet The Living Image, in which Miss Amy Francis and Messrs. Wyn Weaver and Chris. Walker excelled.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Colchester Hippodrome Co., Ltd.; Lessees, Co-operative Varieties, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Leo King.—The inauguration of the new management was attended with every success. A capital bill is provided for the opening week, with Miss Adrienne Augarde, assisted by Mr. Victor Huntley, in Dick's Sister as the top line—a most efficient one. Arthur Ferriss, character comedian, scored heavily with both his songs; the Adams, cyclists, excelled in their attractive show; Ruhart, versatile burlesque artist, amused the house immensely; Walter Barrett, the Lancashire baritone, has a pleasing voice, and was greatly applauded; Gena Manon, soubrette, was welcomed by pit and gallery. The pictures conclude.

CONSETT.—NEW THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Clarance.—Mr. Morton Powell's company present How Girls are Brought to Ruin here this week. Miss Alice Defoe as Jessie Burton is responsible for some capital acting and is well appreciated; Miss Jeannie Risley and Miss Kathryne Eckhurt as Lucy Lawton and Mrs. Annie Burton respectively, are well suited; whilst Mrs. Morton Powell scores a big success as Miss Minnie Waters; Philip Edge is in the capable hands of Mr. Richard Vane, and as Harry Hailing Mr. Harry Scott makes a capital hero. The comedy parts are well sustained by Mr. Jas. Turner as P.C. Pride, and Mr. Allan Harvey as P.C. Dooley.

DALY'S HALL.—Lessee, Mr. John Cottrell; General-Manager, Mr. W. D. Murray.—The artists appearing here this week are Gus Hindell, in song and story; Willard's marionettes; and Sharon, comedy musician. After Many Years and Convict 796 are two good pictures.

NEW TOWN HALL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Campbell.—A good all-round bill is provided here, including Maxford and O'Neill, comedy merchants; Dolly, Agnes, and Maud, singing boxmakers, &c. Excellent pictures are shown.

CORK.—OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. R. J. Bell.—The Arcadians was presented here this week. Mr. Oliver J. Round as Peter Doody, the jockey, was capital; Mr. Walter Passmore in the dual parts of Mr. Smith, of London, and Simplicitas, created genuine fun; Miss Veronica Brady as Mrs. Smith is also brimful of merriment; the Jack Meadows of Mr. Harold E. Pearce and the Eileen Cavanagh of Miss Billie Sinclair are both admirably portrayed characters; Miss Ethel Erskine as the Arcadian Sombra is a pleasing actress, and possesses a sweet and well-trained voice; and Miss Florence Ivy as Chozsea dances well.

PALACE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Thomas F. O'Brien.—There was a capital race-week bill provided here this week. Miss Alice Raymond and her players in A Night in Egypt, an attractive musical turn, was much appreciated; Rauschle, impersonator, gave some faithful impersonations of well-known characters; the Floradoras in a musical sketch, Two's Company, Three's None, created laughter; the Three Borolia Bros. gave a clever gymnastic turn; Roland Martin, comedian and patterer, proved very diverting; Regan and Ryan, eccentric comedians, and Dacy and Lewis, eccentric entertainers, provided good turns; and Annie Braddan, comedienne, sang catchy songs. The Palascope pictures were good.

COVENTRY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Bennett.—A powerful attraction is provided in A Daughter of the Sea, as presented by Mr. Lewis Gilbert's company. Mr. Gilbert himself ably enacts the character of "the octogenarian scoundrel," Mark Glensdale; Miss Florrie Green wins golden opinions as a girl of the sea named Sunshine, who loves Ken Moreland, in the capable hands of Mr. Ashmore Vincent. Mr. Gordon Blythe makes an excellent study of Dan Glensdale; and the humorous side of the piece is capitally represented by Mr. Joe Monkhouse as Billy and Miss Allyce Wyleyams as Molly. A word of praise is due to the excellent staging of the piece.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. S. T. Newsome; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. E. Wright.—Messrs. Le Roy, Talma, and Bosco, monarchs of magic, top the bill, their performance proving unique and mystifying, and also humorous; Park's Eton Boys and Girton Girls give a pretty scena, which is much enjoyed by the audience; the Lauri Brothers are first-class acrobats; Lalie Brooke gives an original quick-change number, illustrating girls past and present, in fine style; Jack Lane is a versatile comedian and clever mimic. Other good artists are J. K. Macfarlane, the quaint Scot; and Nellie Lunelle, soubrette and expert dancer. The Hipposcope pictures wind up a capital programme.

CROYDON. — GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Charles Wood; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Ernest Archer.—Messrs. Murray King and Clark's company is winning approval here in the romantic light opera A Bedouin Beauty. Miss Marjorie Maxwell sings and acts in charming style as Aisha; Miss Dora Lane is a captivating Densie; Miss Raynor Golden is a lively Valerie; Miss Flora Macdonald is pretty as Laila; and Miss Dulcie Gariand is quite suitable as Lucille. Mr. Murray King is in every way satisfactory in the rôle of Sidi Ben Hamid; Mr. Walter Brodie is a nimble and quaint Abdullah; Mr. Tom Macfarlane cuts a droll figure as Hippolyte; Mr. Claude Hogg is well placed as Raoul de St. Juste; Mr. P. Maxwell Stewart is in good voice in the rôle of Henri de l'Orme; Mr. Charles Cautley makes a pleasing impression as Jacques Beauregarde; and Mr. Ardene Linden is commendable as Sidi ben Achmet. Minor parts are in good hands.

EMPIRE PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter Gibbons; Manager, Mr. Eustace Jay.—Percy Honri and company receive quite an ovation in Concordia, which is full of mirth and melody; Miss Beaumont Collins and powerful company give a vivid rendering of the tragic sketch The House of Terror; Neville Graham's company cause amusement in the episode The Top-side Dog; George Collins is a quaint comedian; the Kasracs bring down the house in their acrobatic sketch; Coram is an exceptionally smart ventriloquist with his figure Jerry; and other entertaining turns are given by Cassie Walmer, comedienne; the Bartholomew Girls, duettists and dancers; Dale and O'Malley, comedians; Walton and Lester, comic wizards; Olive Dene, comedienne and dancer; Sid Bandon, comedian; and Bioscope pictures.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stanley Hope.—This week we have a powerful attraction here in Miss Ellaline Terriss and company in the musical sketch The Pink of Perfection. Miss Terriss wins all hearts with her bright and enchanting portrayal of Miss Middleton; Mr. Stanley Brett renders sterling services as the Hon. Herbert Fitzallen; Mr. Roland Chester is excellent as Sandy McPherson; and Miss Maie Ash is pretty as Mary. George D'Albert, comedian, is brisk and racy; Herbert Shelley, protean actor and singer, is clever in Patsy's Courtship; the Carina Sisters give a clever musical turn; Beatrice and Bert are interesting in a comedy musical act; Steph DARWEN.—Albert Hall.—Lessee, Mr. Harry Holden; Manager, Mr. J. Norris.—In addition to the usual good films, Gesta and Hoe provide a capital act of singing and dancing, and Lennard and Leslie prove themselves masters of wooden-shoe dancing.

DERBY.—Grand Theatre and Opera House.—Sole Proprietor and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Denley.—Lottie Bellman occupies the premier position here this week, and gives a delightful turn entitled Bits of Vaudeville, including singing, mimicry, and dancing, in which she is cleverly assisted by Ray Russell; Achmed Ibrahim's Troupe of Arabs submit a clever acrobatic show; the Clement Trio are hardworking flying trapezists; Alice Hoodless appears in a series of tableaux representing well-known English pictures; Louis J. Seymour wins the favour of his audience with cleverly rendered songs; Dot Hardy, a vivacious character comedienne, causes much amusement; Fayre and Manning, comedians and dancers, are altogether praiseworthy; and De Hais Brothers give a clever club juggling act. The Bioscope completes the programme with an amusing film.

Palace of Varieties.—Sole Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Moyes.—The dramatic season at this house opened on Monday, when Mr. W. V. Garrod and company presented The Prodigal Parson. In the title-rôle Mr. Garrod makes a distinct success, and Miss Bertha Kingston is to be complimented upon her assumption of Fern Godley; Mr. Ernest Vaughan makes a capital Enoch Jaggins, and Mr. Owen Redmonde as Phil Drive and Miss Madge Douglas as Gretchen Craus capably sustain the comedy element. An entertaining innovation is a series of Bioscope pictures during the intervals of the play.

DEVONPORT.—Hippodrome.—Manager, Mr. G. Prance.—The Cruise of H.M.S. Victory is on a welcome return visit, the piece, thanks to the efforts of Mr. Arthur Watson as Jack Marlinspike, being one of the funniest seen for a considerable period. Some fire dancing is incidentally introduced by the Vera troupe of dancers; and Miss Flo Stanley makes a fascinating heiress; Tom Wootwell is a comedian of unquestionable ability, his three songs being excellent; the Four Mayos introduce some accomplished skating, humorous and otherwise; Dolly Golden is a first-rate speciality dancer; Barrie and Wood are the rising comedy duo, and work hard to ensure success; the Three Orleans are attractive vocalists and dancers; and Taree extracts some pleasant harmony from a tiny autoharp and mouth-organ.

Metropole.—Manager, Mr. G. S. King.—The musical comedy-drama The Stowaway proves a popular draw. As Dick Dials, Mr. Victor Du Cane is effective, his songs being a feature of the performance; Mr. William Vane works hard as Tom Inglis; and Mr. Walter Ernest is very capable as Paul Inglis. Miss Winnifred Maude is quite at home in the exacting part of Althea Dale; and Miss Ethel Cranford is very successful as Florence Etherington.

DEWSBURY.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Herbert Asquith.—Mr. J. A. Campbell's company, in From Convent to Throne, is doing good business. The play is elaborately staged, and the acting leaves nothing to be desired. As Princess Maritza, Miss Valerie Crespin is particularly good, and is warmly applauded; Mr. Aidan Lovett gives an interesting and impressive delineation of the hero, Lieutenant Von Hapsburg; Mr. W. J. Milner well exemplifies the heartlessness and villainy of Baron Streslau; the rôle of General Von Hapsburg is skilfully handled by Mr. Courtney Robinson, who is also responsible for the stage-management; Miss Lissa Young submits an excellent depiction of the bugler boy, Cæsar Jesson; Mr. A. F. Stuart gives a powerful portrayal of Prince Maurice; some excellent comedy is introduced by Mr. T. G. Vane and Miss Maudie Grayson as Lieutenant Otto Felson and Rosella; Miss Gwen Verschoyle (Mother Superior) and Miss Cicely Barcham (Lady Violetta) ably sustain their parts; some good acting is also shown by Mr. C. M. Davidson as Eugene Von Tarlitz and Mr. H. Maxwell as Michael Von Hanz; and as Count de Presthon Mr. Fred Hallo does well.

Empire.—Proprietors, Messrs. G. W. and G. E. Smith; Manager, Mr. Claude Shayler.—Foremost on the capital programme is Mephisto, who is supported by capable assistants, and completely mystifies the audience with some marvellous illusions; a very amusing sketch, entitled My Lady's Chamber, is presented by Mr. and Mrs. Roystone-Dene and Miss Eileen Dartry, and they fully deserve the applause which is accorded them; Ritter and Foster are dancers and singers who are both clever and funny; Joe Archer's patter and singing cause roars of laughter; Margit and Lener, eccentric acrobats and contortionists, are popular; Tom Joy is a comedian of decided ability; Godfrey is an expert conjurer; Maidie Burker is a pleasing comedienne; and a display of animated pictures adds to the pleasure of the evening.

Hippodrome.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. Weldon; Stage-Manager, Mr. P. Hogg.—An attractive programme is headed by Minola Hurst and her miniature marvels; the Mannikins are responsible for much fun; Everhart and his clever assistants receive unstinted applause for some remarkable feats in hoop manipulation; Amy Bellwood is a dainty singer and dancer; the Kahn trio, in a skilful second-sight act, go well; Queenie Mayor, the Lancashire fisher girl, uses her voice effectively; and a good reception is accorded Dunning, ventriloquist, as well as to Walter Ford, comedian. Animated pictures are a leading feature of the programme.

DINNINGTON (Yorks.).—Lyric Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. James England.—In the early part of the week pictures occupied the bill and attracted good houses. On Thursday, Friday, and Saturday Mr. John F. Preston's very capable company presented Mr. Max Goldberg's Secrets. Mr. E. R. Allen made a fine Lieutenant Markham, R.N.; Mr. Dan F. Roe as the Hon. Cecil Cholmondeley gave admirable support; the Tivoli troupe of Continental dancers were responsible for one or two good turns. In scene 2 specialities were introduced by Miss Jennie Hackett and Mr. Geo. Seally, assisted by the Tivoli troupe.

DONCASTER.—New Grand Theatre and Opera House, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. J. W. Chapman.—Mr. Frank Curzon's company is presenting The King of Cadonia to packed houses. Mr. Bertram Wallis was excellent in every respect in the title-rôle, and was the recipient of warm applause; capital humour was supplied by Mr. Arthur Staples in his assumption of the Duke of Alasia; Messrs. Robert Selby, Lawrence Robbins, Francis Howard, Louis Russell, and C. H. Hobson were fine specimens of military men, and contributed a quintette which created a good impression; as Laborde, Mr. C. B. Williams gained popular favour; and Mr. Alec Buchanan treated the audience to an interesting portrayal of Panix; as Bran, Mr. Alfred Clark was seen at his best; Miss Lily Hodson won admiration as the Duchess of Alasia; and Miss Alice Venning portrayed Princess Maria with distinct credit; Miss Amy Preston proved herself an accomplished dancer and songstress.

DOUGLAS.—Grand Theatre.—Proprietors, The Grand Theatre Co., Ltd.; Chairman, Mr. Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. R. Wood.—Mr. William Mollison's company in The Chorus Lady made a successful appearance at the Grand Theatre on Monday. The Patricia O'Brien of Miss Rita Carlyle was a revelation; Miss Elsie Vron Neville was quite clever as the young sister; Mr. John Sims Woolley was manly and effective as Dan Mallory; Mr. Henry Ludlow gave a striking characterisation of Dick Crawford; Mr. C. A. R. Shum was well suited as Patrick O'Brien; Miss Mabel Durrant was effective as the show girl. The other characters were well played.

Gaiety Theatre.—Proprietors, the Palace and Derby Castle, Ltd.; Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Fox; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Brittain.—A very effective company, headed by Mr. C. Hayden Coffin and commanded by Mr. T. C. Wray and Mr. Austin Hurgon, is here. As Prince Charmis Mr. Coffin's acting and singing were delightful. He sang with poetic intuition and played with finished grace. The Princess Cynthia of Miss Marjorie Moore was a dainty performance. Mr. Hugh Weybrance's resonant voice was heard to real advantage in the rôle of Hebranoise; Mr. E. Statham Staples, a comedian of many resources, was artistically funny as Rolandyl, and Mr. Mark Lester was quaint as King Paul. The other merry monarch was presented with Aristophanic humour by Mr. Tom Shelford. Miss Gladys Black looked as pretty as a picture in the rôle of Iris.

Palace.—Proprietors, the Palace and Derby Castle, Ltd.; Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Fox; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Brittain.—Miss Hetty King is well received here this week; Herr Carl Muller is an expert dancer; the Napiers are smart eccentric jugglers; the Frazellis make violin, harp, and xylophone sing sweet music; Miss Maggie Carr is a piquant comedienne; Craig, Roze, and Craig are up to date gymnasts; Johnson and Bert introduce a novel act entitled A Queer Customer, which meets with cordial approval.

Derby Castle.—Proprietors, the Palace and Derby Castle, Ltd.; Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Fox; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. J. Kelly.—To the variety programme here Mr. Walter Bird's combination, including Mr. Ernie Lotinga, contribute a really amusing sketch entitled Her Husband. Mr. Lotinga is artistically funny as a Gilbertian burglar. The playlet evokes laughter. The living marionettes which Mr. Edgar Curtis manipulates are a draw; Andre Romanoff, gipsy violinist, plays with abandon; Professor Thornbury's lightning sketches are very clever; the Zingaris' dancing is full of poetry; and Bert Errol is popular.

Connor's Grand Circus.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Fred J. Connor.—Mr. Fred J. Connor's popular circus show still continues to attract. The novel cycling competition, Football on Wheels, has caught on; the Spanish Bull Fight evokes shrieks of laughter; an amusing sketch entitled Robertson the Hatter is played by the full strength of the company; the Leopold Leclerc Troupe, six in number, throw sensational somersaults; Miss Mona Connor and her brother Douglas ride daringly and gracefully; Frederico and Pagardo are sensational tumblers; Mr. George Madigan's fox terriers, with their canine quaintness, increase the circle of their admirers; the Circuscope is up to date and the clowns are clever.

Dare's White Minstrels.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Charles Dare.—Mr. Charles Dare's White Minstrels are very successful here. Mr. Fred Esdaile, a smart comedian, contributes a dainty melody with a fife solo; Mr. Harry Trellett sings with emphasis "I want no other girl for Sunday"; a sketch, Boiled Beef and Carrots, evokes laughter; Mr. Ernest D'Almaine's sweet tenor voice is heard to advantage in the tender lilt "What is the world to me?"; the Boston Twins are also amusing. But the gem of the show is Mr. Neville Landler in his Dickensian impersonation.

The Empire Theatre, which Mr. Charles Dare controls, makes a financial and artistic success by reason of the dramatic excellence of its pictures and the varieties introduced.

The Onchans.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. W. Cottier Cubbin.—The absolute success of this new enterprise must encourage our youngest of entrepreneurs. Mr. W. Cottier Cubbin. The artists, Mr. Charles Harvey, Mr. J. H. Scotland, Mr. Alfred Maynall, Mr. J. A. Lowe, Mr. Alexander Webster, are all in tune with our visitors' requirements, and Miss Grace Jean Crocker, society elecutionist, makes a real success. Other attractions at Onchan Head are roller skating on the largest open-air vehicle in the kingdom, dancing, fireworks, and side-shows.

Buxton's Amusements.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Fred Buxton.—The audiences here are large and well pleased. The Pierrots are up to date; they sing the latest songs in the most effective manner. Also the Picturedrome is a great attraction. The films are the most perfect yet presented to the public. Other mascots at Buxton's are roller skating and the billiard tables.

DUBLIN.—Gaiety Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Hyland.—Mr. Auguste Van Biene, supported by a fine company, is here in The Broken Melody. Mr. Van Biene in the rôle of Paul Borinski displays his undoubted ability, his charming 'cello solos being deservedly applauded, and Miss Mabel Tighe is to be highly commended upon her excellent rendition of Mabel. The part of Mortimer has an able representative in Mr. T. P. Haynes, and Miss Rose Ralph is all that could be desired as the Duchess de Vervier. General Ivanoff is capitally portrayed by Mr. Joynsen Powell, and the rôle of Mrs. Dickson is admirably depicted by Miss Esther Foible.

Queen's Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W Marriott-Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. F. Wright.—The boards are occupied by Miss Renee Glendower's company in What a Man Made Her. Mr. Frederick W. Freeman ably acquits himself in the rôle of Dr. Mark Haven, and the Janet McAllister of Miss Renee Glendower is a cleverly sustained performance. Mr. W. J. Butler is well placed as Rupert Wogan Danescombe, and Deborah has a pleasing representative in Miss Dorothy Dewhirst. Mr. Harry Ugar provides much humour as Lewis Gunnerstein, and Miss Beatrice Shirley makes a good impression as Lady Thora Danescombe. Sir Ernest Cavendish is capably portrayed by Mr. Charles K. Francis, and Miss Nora Kingsley makes an excellent Elfrida.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frederick Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Terry. The House of Temperley is being played here to large and appreciative audiences. Mr. Murray Carson gives a very fine performance of the villain, Sir John Harker; Mr. Claude King distinguishes himself admirably as Captain Jack Temperley; and as Sir Charles Temperley Mr. Stratton Rodney gives an excellent reading of the part. Miss Una Venning is most effective as Ethel Morley, and Miss Claire Pauncefort gives a clever and finished portrayal of Lady Temperley. Mr. Blake Adams makes a capital Ginger Stubbs, and Jakes is ably played by Mr. Leon M. Lion.

Empire.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. George H. Marsh.—Miss Daisy Jerome is a comedienne of charming style; the Constances in their comedietta A Game for Two create much laughter; Ed. E. Ford, the Australian Sundowner, scores a distinct success; Mr. Tom Bryce and Miss Ella Maynard, in a musical sketch entitled The Dude's Wedding, are warmly applauded; Mlle. De Shara presents Little Sunbeam, a clever comedienne and dancer; and other attractive turns are Gordon Stretton, coon vocalist, Fielding and Hull, in their musical comedy Mixed Bathing, Annie Blanchard, comedienne, and the Empire pictures.

Tivoli.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Jones; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—Messrs. W. A. Haines and Allan Borthwick's company head the bill here, presenting a laughable sketch entitled Half a Dollar; the Markies in a vocal and instrumental act are well appreciated; Colley and Scott in comedy tit-bits are highly amusing; and the Tissots, living marionettes, meet with warm approval. Other interesting items are: Marie Taft, comedienne and speciality drummer; Fred Lloyd, actor-vocalist; Sam Kee's Laundry, presented by Mr. James Mooney; Bob Wilton, comedian; Miss Ena Compton, comedienne, and the Bioscope.

Round Room Rotunda.—The Irish Animated Picture Company have been giving an interesting programme here. The varieties include: The Mona Ladies' Orchestra, who contribute several well-appreciated musical and vocal items; Mr. P. J. Maloney, a good baritone vocalist; the Sisters Colley, juvenile vocalists and dancers; and Miss Yeardley, a charming soprano.

World's Fair and Music Hall.—Proprietors, Messrs. Sprengel Brothers.—The following artists are appearing here: Jolly Jack Murray, character comedian; Henri Hertz, conjurer; the Two Welfords, comedy duettists; Miss Amy Bayne; and Jack Harrington, eccentric comedian. The pictures conclude.

Kingstown Pavilion.—The Fantastic répertoire company is the attraction here, and proves very entertaining. Miss Jose Leyton is an excellent siffleuse, and Miss Jessie Crone's agreeable contralto is heard to great advantage. Mr. Walter Dowling is a talented artist, and Mr. Alfred Daniel manipulates the banjo in capital style. Mr. Roland Green sings admirably, and Mr. Percival Mackenzie's lightning sketch performance is well received.

DUNDALK.—Town Hall Theatre.—Proprietors, Urban Council; Manager, Mr. M. Comerford.—Mr. Will L. Dobell's La Comédie Anglaise company is here this week, opening with Home, Sweet Home. Mr. Dobell appears in the important part of Stephen Armitage, and gives admirable portrayal of the rôle; Mr. Percy Dewhurst is responsible for a deal of quaint humour as the Hon. Percy; Mr. Thomson Whiett as Lucas Lyle is well suited to the part; David Armitage is impressively played by Mr. Horace Wright; Miss Nora Baker is powerful as Doris; Sybil Fay is safe in the hands of Miss Lillian Fenn; Little Nellie Melbourne enacts the part of Dora with girlish charm.

DUNDEE.—Her Majesty's Theatre.—Managing Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Manager, Mr. Louis Karpe.—Mr. James Willard's company is playing to good business here in Paying the Price. Mr. Willard acts earnestly and successfully as Lord Delemere, and also portrays Paul Hartmann with much dramatic power. Miss Margaret Damer interprets the character of Lady Delemere with excellent effect; a spirited and delightfully natural rendering of Doris Delamere is submitted by Miss Gem Lloyd, a particularly fine performance is that of Mr. Jackson Wilcox as Capt. Dick Clinton, V.C.; Mr. Frank Medhurst gives realistic representations of Hal and Jan Vortoone; Mr. H. Norton is responsible for an amusing impersonation of the Hon. Cecil Dalrymple; Mr. William Douglas does well as John Dent; and Miss Winnie Leslie is excellent as the servant. The play is nicely mounted.

King's Theatre and Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Moul; Manager, Mr. S McIntosh.—Heading a fine array of talent here is Lamberti, a thorough musician, whose impersonations of various famous musicians meet with vociferous appreciation. H. O. Wills's wit and humour are both smart and up-to-date; the Sisters du Cane sing with taste, and are well received; Captain Kettle gives wonderful examples of sleight-of-hand; Fred Maitland and Pauline Walker draw roars of merriment with their farcical extravaganza, Roots, Rash Chemist; the Eight College Girls sing and dance with considerable skill and grace; Randolph King, a versatile artist, proves very entertaining; the Bros. O'Brian are thorough masters of the horizontal bar, their performance being of a very finished order; Ian Colquhoun uses his fine voice to advantage; and The Tramp's Story is related by Jury's Bioscope.

Palace Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. J. J. Bennell; Acting-Manager, Mr. Tom Lunn.—A splendid programme of pictures here includes a magnificent film, A Midnight Cupid. The Little Fiddler is another fine film; while Tale of Two Coats proves a "rib tickler."

Gaiety Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. J. J. Bennell; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. K. Stewart.—The Winning Punch, an exciting sporting picture, is followed with interest here. The singing picture is always a popular item.

Empire Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. J. J. Bennell; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. W. Austin.—Many beautiful films are exhibited here this week, including Apaches' Gold and The Soldier and the Marchioness.

DUNFERMLINE.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Manager, Mr. W. E. Potts.—For the first three nights of the week Dickson's Scottish National pictures have been presented for the first time here, and proved highly popular and successful.

DURHAM.—The Palace.—Proprietor, Mr. T. C. Rawes.—George French's Troupe of trick cyclists top the bill, and are much appreciated; Alice Hughes and company in the sketch The Star of the Bazaar are warmly applauded; Payne's Wanderers give an enjoyable entertainment, including song and dance; the Snow Family are expert skaters, and create a deal of merriment; Wisper, with comedy juggling and patter, is a popular turn; and Beattie Bloom is a successful comedienne. The Cathedoscope continues to be of great interest.

EASTBOURNE.—Devonshire Park Theatre.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Murray, King, and Clark.—Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's company appeared the first three nights of the week in The Naked Truth. Mr. Stanley Logan as Bunny won praise for his artistic and genuinely funny work; Mr. Townsend Whitling was excellently suited as the bombastic James Darrell; Mr. E. Besley Beltran was a distinct, individual, and well-defined Mr. Hayter; Mr. Horace Sinclair was eminently successful as Teddy Lestrange; Mr. Laurence Arthur was an admirable Doctor Masters; and Mr. James Heddon worked well as Prosser. Miss Violet Ley was a tall, handsome, and clever Mrs. Hayter; Miss Ormonde Wynne, a natural, easy Mrs. Darrell; Miss Kathleen Maude played in a charmingly frank and girlish manner as Norah; Miss Dora Fellowes was full of brightness and vivacity as Madame Favre; Miss Violet Temple ably helps as Mrs. Hammond; and Miss L. M. Russell was a satisfactory Hammond. The House of Temperley is billed for the latter part of the week.

Pier Pavilion.—Manager, Mr. George Hayes.—Mr. Alexander Leighton's principal company opened the week with Havana. Mr. Oliver Rogers was a capable and interesting Jack Villiers; Mr. J. Brian Ridout, a bright, energetic, and hard-working Frank Charteris; Mr. Laurie Lisle played in excellent dramatic style as Diego; Mr. Cyril K. Percival displayed much fun and cleverness as the dude Adolfo; Mr. Arthur Wingrove did good work as Bombito; and Mr. Reg. Edwards as Brown the Yacht's Boy and Mr. J. R. Val as Nix the Bo'sun kept the laughter going continuously, the former singing, dancing, and acting with enthusiasm, while the latter was very droll in his serious indolence. Miss Winnie Browne's gaiety and vivacity make her efforts as Anita an unqualified success; Miss Hebe Bliss was an attractive and hard-working Consuelo; and Miss Winnie Milne a very pretty Teresa. A good and powerful chorus was under the directorship of Mr. J. H. Yorke. Mr. Percy and Miss Emma Hutchison's company appeared later in the week in Lady Frederick.

Royal Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Sidney W. Winter; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. F. Woodward.—Heading the bill here is the elaborate sketch The Gay Countess, in which Miss Josie Farrington, Mr. Harry Buss, and Mr. Gus Danby are the bright stars of twenty-six performers; Miss Bessie Slaughter's rich contralto voice is admirably used, and she is quite a favourite; the Stavordale Quintette of clever banjoists and harpist contribute one of the great successes of the evening; Miss Lily Arthur, bright and pleasing, sings and dances well; Miss Nellie Eglen and Mr. W. Percival play smartly in their sketch, Called for the Rent; Mr. Fred Costen is a successful comedian; and Miss Vic Laurie sings and dances well.

ECCLES.—Crown Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert Rogers.—Mr. J. A. Campbell's company is this week appearing in The Hand that Rocks the Cradle. Mr. Guy Hastings as Derek Mason gives a capital performance; in the character of Post-captain Henry Drummond, Mr. Douglas Tremayne acts with distinction; Mr. Gerald Jordon as Lieut. Philip Marchant proves himself a competent exponent of the part; the chief female character is admirably taken by Miss Gertrude F. Godart; Miss Babs Stuart as Nanoya, a Cingalee girl, is excellent.

EDINBURGH.—Royal Lyceum Theatre.—Managing-Directors, Mr. F. W. Wyndham and Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. M. Downie.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company began a week's engagement here on Monday with Brewster's Millions in the presence of a crowded audience. The diverting comedy was played with conspicuous success by an exceedingly clever cast. Mr. Percy Hutchison acted the title-rôle with his customary ease and humour, and with an occasional note of seriousness which deepened the effect of the impersonation. Among many admirable characterisations those of Mr. Aubrey Mather as Joseph McLeod, Mr. Henry Hampson as Archie Golding, Mr. Frank Hill as Rawles, Mr. A. Kay as Monsieur Bargie, Miss Lilian Earle as Mrs. Dan de Mille, Miss Marion Ripley as Janice Armstrong, and Miss Dorothy Whitaker as Peggy stand out vividly. The play was splendidly staged, the realistic mounting of the yacht scene commanding especial admiration. The curtain-raiser was a smart comedietta, Two in a Trap, acted with finish and intelligence by Miss Marion Ripley and Mr. Aubrey Mather.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Directors, Mr. F. W. Wyndham and Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Whitehead.—Miss Horniman's Repertory Company paid a welcome return visit to Edinburgh this week, bringing Mr. Bernard Shaw's Candida and Mr. Arnold Bennett's Cupid and Commonsense. In the former piece the name-part was admirably played by Miss Rosalind Ivan, who rose fully to the opportunity afforded in the last act; and Mr. Ian Maclaren is to be heartily commended for the excellent rendering he gave to the rôle of the Rev. James Mayor Morell. Mr. Leonard Mudie achieved considerable success in his interpretation of the difficult part of the intense young poet Eugene Marchbanks; very clever and entertaining character-studies of the parvenu Mr. Burgess and the business-like typist Prosperpine Gurnett were provided by Mr. Whitford Kane and Miss Louise Holbrook; and Mr. Ernest C. Cassell made an acceptable curate. In a one-act Irish play, entitled The Troth, by Mr. Rutherford Mayne, put on as a curtain-raiser, Miss Dorothy West-Symes, Mr. Cassel, Mr. Whitford Kane, and Mr. Joseph A. Keogh presented a picture of an unhappy landlord-shooting episode. Cupid and Commonsense was excellently presented, notably good impersonations being given by Mr. Leonard Mudie as Willie Beach, Miss Rosalind Ivan as Edna Beach, Miss Louise Holbrook as Mrs. Copestick, and Miss Dorothy West-Symes as Miranda Finney.

King's Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. Amand Mascard.—A capital programme at this house includes Lowenwirth and Cohan, two Hebrew comedians, whose patter and dancing are characteristically amusing; the Bijou Juvenile Troupe give a clever musical scena, entitled Pansy's Birthday; Miss Edna Latonne, male impersonator, is a great favourite, and her song, "The dear homeland," calls forth a specially hearty round of applause; the Warsaw Brothers contribute a pleasing musical act; and Mr. Ernest Clifford, comedian; La Belle Greta, an accomplished dancer; Madeline, also a smart dancer; Mr. Charlie Carr, vocalist; and Mr. Henry Hilton, an admirable sleight-of-hand performer, add to the attractiveness of an entertainment which likewise comprises excellent views by the King's Bioscope.

Empire Palace Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Aynsley Cook.—Fred Karno's company of comedians has the foremost place with the popular and amusing Football Match, the cast including Will Poluski, jun., and the Three Prestons, all of whom contributed successfully to the production of unlimited merriment; Ricardo and Salving introduced some original and striking acrobatic work in their novel act, entitled "The Human Bridge"; and the comedy cyclists Campbell and Barber displayed considerable skill on the wheel, combined with a capacity for quaint fun-making. Carrie Laurie's troupe of juvenile singers and dancers conducted "A Model School" in entertaining fashion; Chas. Lewis supplies a good ventriloquial turn; Ernie Mayne creates a great diversion with his grand opera parody; acceptable comedienne items are provided by Esta Stella and Ethel Beech; and up-to-date Bioscope pictures conclude.

Operetta House.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. J. H. Sanders.—A Midnight Cupid and The Sheriff's Sacrifice, a story of the Wild West, are the leading pictures here in a programme which is full of variety. Sports in Sumatra is a series which is very beautiful, and brings before the audience in realistic fashion the incidents depicted. The humorous films are numerous and mirth-provoking.

Pringle's Picture Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. Edmunds.—A more than usually interesting selection of pictures is shown at this house. The variety part of the entertainment is efficiently filled by Frances Hanlon, a clever comedienne and dancer, and by the Angelina Trio, in a smart gymnastic and juggling turn.

Marine Gardens.—Manager, Mr. G. B. Smith.—The Royal Piedmont Hussars' Band, which has given general satisfaction during its engagement, remains here for another week. Herr Meny's White Viennese Orchestra is a potent attraction in the Concert Hall, where the programme also includes the marvellous thought-reading performance by the Marriotts and a delightful musical entertainment by Mr. Ernest Lord's Excelsior Opera Singers. A daring diving exhibition is given in the Amusement Court by Professor Powsey. The skating-rink, the ballroom, and the various shows, such as the water caves and scenic railway, continue to do good business.

ELLESMERE PORT.—Hippodrome and Picture Palace.—Proprietors, Messrs. Corelli and Co.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Corelli.—Matthews and Haming as comedy sketch artists are received with approval here this week; the Sisters Lawson supply appreciated contributions as vocalists and dancers; Joe Bee has a cordial reception, and shows ability as a comedian; Little Alf Arbis, a phenomenal boy vocalist, calls for rounds of applause nightly; Gertrude Osborne is a pleasing comedienne. In addition to up-to-date and interesting animated pictures being thrown upon the screen, a series of actual photographs of the recent Johnson-Jeffries Fight are shown.

EXETER.—Theatre Royal.—Chairman and Managing-Director, Mr. Edward J. Domville, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford.—Mr. F. R. Benson's Shakespearean company is here with Mr. Henry Herbert and Miss Gladys Vanderzee. The répertoire includes The Taming of the Shrew, The Tempest, As You Like It, King Lear, The Merry Wives of Windsor, and Hamlet. On Monday The Taming of the Shrew was presented. Mr. Henry Herbert as Petruchio was admirable, his portrayal of the character being marked by great histrionic ability; Miss Vanderzee's Katherina was characterised by much dramatic power; Miss Rosalind Grey was a charming and graceful Bianca; Mr. Duncan Yarrow as Lucentio, Mr. John Cairns as Baptista, Mr. Chas. Warburton as Gremio, Mr. F. Wicksteed as Hortensio, and Mr. H. S. Cohen as Tranio acquitted themselves successfully; and Mr. Joseph O'Dowd and Mr. Andrew Leigh as Biondella and Grumio were smart and merry.

New Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Karno; Resident- and Acting-Manager, Mr. Frederick Sandy; Musical Director, Mr. Dudley Powell.—Lotto, Lilo, and Otto are a trio of trick and comedy cyclists whose evolutions cannot be surpassed; another trio, the Three Romas, are a smart and graceful troupe; Daisy Wood is a dainty and refined comedienne, and is loudly encored for both her songs; Miss Elsie Robey, the "pianologuedienne," keeps the house in a roar of laughter; Gracie Lawn is good both in her vocal effects and her graceful dancing; and Ada Cerito supplies some strikingly interesting character portrayals; W. P. Sheen is very smart both in his songs and his patter.

FALKIRK.—Grand Theatre and Opera House.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. W. Ebbutt.—Mr. Edmund Tearle, the eminent tragedian, with Miss Kate Clinton and a selected company, are drawing good houses. The plays staged included Jeanie Deans on Monday and Tuesday, and The Merry Wives of Windsor on Wednesday. In the former Mr. Tearle's appearance as the counsel for the defence in the trial scene was very effective; and Miss Clinton's presentment of the title-rôle left nothing to be desired in artistic finish. Mr. Horace Price made a dignified Duke of Argyle; Mr. Ernest Lodge gave a spirited rendering of Geordie Robertson; as David Deans Mr. Fawcett Lomax was very successful; and Mr. P. P. Millar was effective as the Laird of Dumbiedykes. Miss Mary Campbell invested the part of Effie Deans with the requisite gentleness and grace; and Miss Nancy Blackwood's Madge Wildfire was a piece of good acting. Macbeth, The Merchant of Venice, and The Octoroon were also billed.

Electric Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. J. E. Atkinson; Manager, Mr. Leo. D. Hickey.—Since its opening about a month ago this cosy little place of entertainment has done remarkably good business in a community where pictures are high in favour as a means of entertainment. The variety turns are of good quality, the comic interludes by Percy Curry, and the amusing sketches by Maclaine and Watt being hugely enjoyed.

FERNDALE.—New Workmen's Hall and Theatre.—Manager, Mr. David Williams; Secretary, Mr. William James.—Mr. Percy Williams is here with The Fatal Wedding. Mr. Cecil A. Melton is very successful as Howard Wilson; and Miss Violet Keand is a capital impersonator of Mabel Wilson. Miss Blanche Huber as Bridget keeps the audience in a merry mood; Miss Elaine Vanbrugh is successful as Cora Williams; Miss Dot Jeffreys is quite at home as Jessie, the little mother, and wins much applause; Mr. Percy Williams is an acceptable Rev. Dr. Lanceford; Mr. Harry M. Vernon gives a capital portrayal of Toto; and Messrs. Alexander Wills (Robert Curtis), Watson Hume (Peter Schwartz), and Frank Newtown (O'Reilly) are all well placed.

FLEETWOOD.—Empire Theatre.—Manager, Mr. H. J. Snelson.—Mr. and Mrs. Percy Brown's company is here in A Life's Revenge. Mr. Wilton J. Richards gives a sinister interpretation of Prince Boris Storogoff; Mr. Ulick Burke is excellent as Michael Orloff; the part of Paul Stanfitch could not be in better hands than those of Mr. Edward E. Louis; Miss Millie Ford gives a clever rendering of Princess Yanda Ivylia; while Miss Carter Livesey gets the full effect from Acculina.

FOLKESTONE.—Pleasure Gardens Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—Mr. George Dance's company in Our Miss Gibbs opened here on Monday. Mr. Theodore Leonard represented Timothy Gibbs with irresistible comicality; Mr. Ernest Darrell did full justice to the rôle of the Earl of St. Ives; and Mr. Montague Syrett sang and acted well as Lord Eynesford. As the Hon. Hughie Pierrepoint Mr. Eustace Burnaby was responsible for a deal of hilarity, and was ably seconded by Mr. J. Leopold, jun., as Shithers; Mr. Campbell Brown was all that could be desired as Mr. Toplady; and Mr. Reginald Weighill was good as Mr. Beavis. Miss Jessie Lonnen as Mary Gibbs has a charming presence and a fresh and pleasing voice, which speedily made her a favourite; Miss Nellie Cozens was a satisfactory Mrs. Farquhar; Miss Ellaline Thorne made a fascinating Mme. Jeanne; Miss Helen Langton gave a cultured portrayal as the Duchess of Minster; and Miss Lilian Birtles appeared with success as Lady Elizabeth.

GAINSBOROUGH.—King's Theatre.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Payne Seddon and Ernest Pope; Resident-Manager, Mr. Fredk. J. Reece.—This week we have for the first three nights Mr. Walter Steele's company in A Fast Life. Mr. Steele is a manly hero and Mr. J. Sommerville a robust villain in the characters of John Dixon and Sir Oliver Franklin. Miss Lilian Ross as Mrs. Dixon and Miss Lilian Barns as Lady Franklin are successful. The comedy element is safe in the hands of Mr. Willie Barratt and Miss Maud Ryder. The latter part of the week is devoted to pictures and a variety company.

GATESHEAD.—King's Theatre.—Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Chairman and Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Moul; Local Manager and Licensee, Mr. Sidney B. Stringer.—Starring on a strong programme here this week are Mr. Chas. Diamond and Miss Beatrice with pleasing items on the harp and soprano saxophone; Marcel and Boris present a remarkable equilibristic novelty; Harry Taft, whistling comedian, is very pleasing; and quite successful are the Brothers Brooks, whose welcome here is always hearty; Fatmah Diard renders two ballads agreeably; Miss Madge Morley and company make a hit with the comedy sketch, After the Races; the Sisters Brand are excellent comediennes; and the Kingscope adds to the enjoyment of the evening.

Metropole Theatre.—Sole Lessee, Mr. F. W. Bolam; General-Manager, Mr. R. G. Elder; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. F. Douthwaite.—Mr. W. W. Kelly's fine production of A Royal Divorce has drawn large and enthusiastic audiences to this house. An excellent Napoleon is Mr. Frank Bradley; a welcome reappearance is made by Miss Edith Cole, whose Josephine leaves nothing to be desired; Marshal Murat is well represented by Mr. Alfred Grenville; the part of Talleyrand affords Mr. J. H. Roberts an opportunity, of which he takes advantage; Mr. Charles Hartopp cleverly depicts the Marquis de Beaumont; a most amusing Grimaud is Mr. George Hudson; a charming Stephanie is Miss Dorothy Garth; Miss Florence Cudlipp as Blanche makes the most of the rôle; and Miss Minnie Tempest is a dignified Marie Louise. The staging and effects are on a lavish scale, the production all round being meritorious.

GILLINGHAM.—Public Hall.—Lessees, Messrs. Barnard Bros.—There is a varied selection of pictures here. The programme is en

Tom Costello, whose song, "The Dear Homeland," is favourably received.

PAVILION, LTD. — General-Manager, Mr. Evan Good; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Ernest R. Foster.—Ella Retford is taking well here in all her latest songs, this charming comedienne being a strong favourite in Glasgow; Marie Kendall shares the star honours, and is in excellent form, taking the fancy of the audience with her new ditties; J. G. Grahame and Zerlina Harrington once more present a powerful dramatic sketch, their latest production being Olga's Oath, in which they are afforded excellent opportunities; the Selbinis, as trick cyclists, are marvellous; Will Musgrave is a clever comedian, with many original touches; Frank Hartley is a really smart and up-to-date juggler; Curtis Leo, assisted by Little Noblesse, contributes a good turn; Steve M'Carthy dances neatly; and the mimicry of Cyril Ciensy is wonderfully true to life.

PALACE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Rich. Waldon; General-Manager, Mr. Harry M'Kelvie.—Jake Friedman is here once again, with his lively musical play, Happy Holland, and the fun is plentiful all through; Sam Thomson, Scotch comedian, is another favourite purveyor of humour; Johnson Clark is a ventriloquist of much originality; Mlle. Silotta, in her statuary poses, introducing a picturesque white horse, is heartily applauded; Gilbert Payne and Ethel Errol contribute a lively duologue; Arthur Woodville is a clever comedian and smart dancer; Maisie Dene takes well as a comedienne; Mabel Moss sings sweetly; and the equilibristic act of Smith and Gibbs is smart and neat.

COLISEUM. — District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. John M. Hay.—Darracq appears in a couple of sensational motoring performances, the first "Whizzing the Wheel," and the other "Shooting the Bar." Both are performed fearlessly and without a hitch. Oswald Williams is a clever magician, and his work is very entertaining; in a comedy acrobatic and juggling act Cornalla and Eddie are very clever; Peter Bermingham, Scotch comedian, keeps his audiences in roars of laughter; Grant and Grant, the American Octoroons, both sing and dance well; Fred Elton gets through his entertaining song scena in a business-like fashion, and his catchy chorus songs are well taken up; Fred Poplar and Kitty Wager are also in the bill; and the bioscope concludes.

GAIETY, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. J. J. Bennell; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geo. Dickinson.—Good business is to be recorded here. The entertainment comprises the usual interesting and amusing selection of pictures, varied by clever interludes by Lieut. Gordon, ventriloquist and mimic, with fresh and witty dialogue; and Tom Gillimore, in song and some smart dancing. The talking and singing picture is the popular one entitled "Come up in my Balloon."

PANOPTICON.—Proprietor and Manager Mr. A. E. Pickard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Sinclair.—Sydney Dolph tops the bill, and provides an enjoyable vocal, conjuring, and musical entertainment; Bill Bracey is a clever coon impersonator and dancer; Flo McCormack is a sweet ballad vocalist; George Casey, comedian, wins favour with his dancing; and Day and Martin are a taking pair of comedians, with plenty of patter. The pictures include up-to-date films.

HENGLER'S.—Proprietor, Mr. Albert Hengler; Manager, Mr. Harry Milne.—The popularity of this house continues, and seats are at a premium nightly. In a ventriloquial act Fred Milburn is responsible for much amusement; Olive Delta dances smartly, and has a good reception; and Jack Rosslyn, comedian, likewise takes well. The pictures are again of a most interesting and amusing nature.

STAR.—Resident-Manager, Mr. George Chandos.—Clara Coverdale's Nine Dainty Dots win high praise for their singing and dancing; Forbes Guilbert's impersonations of famous characters from plays gain much appreciation; and Victor Courtney proves most amusing as "the Boots at the Piano." The remainder of the programme is taken up with pictures.

SCOTTISH ZOO AND CIRCUS.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Assistant-Manager, Mr. E. H. A. Bostock.—Both the extensive zoological collection and the circus and variety entertainment here continue to be well patronized. The animals are a constant source of attraction to the younger visitors, and the performances at intervals by the various trainers evoke hearty applause. The addition of picture films has been much appreciated as another attractive feature.

GLOSSOP.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Sydney Spenser.—On Monday Mr. Harry Aynsleigh's company presented The King of Diamonds. Mr. Harry Aynsleigh gives a powerful interpretation of Sir Philip Garth; Mr. George Keene is a dignified Richard Fenton; Mr. Walter Warren is capable as the Hon. Herbert Selby; Mr. Bert Sharp submits a clever portrayal of Reginald A. Garth; Mr. Wilson Lowther does justice to the part of Sir Charles Lockwood, K.C.; Miss Camille Treherne is forceful as Olive Vandell; and Miss Peggy Rose graceful as Muriel Lockwood.

GLOUCESTER.—PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Will Smithson; Manager, Mr. B. T. Rea.—Mr. B. Marris Davis's company, in Lady Godiva, Jane Shore, David Garrick, Hamlet, The Bells, The Merchant of Venice, and The Three Musketeers, is here. On Monday Lady Godiva was presented, Mr. F. B. Woulfe playing Peeping Tom in excellent manner. Miss E. Lorraine proves a clever actress as Lady Godiva; Mr. Baliol Holloway is powerful as Algar; and Mr. George Tempest makes an effective Unwolf; Mr. F. Cheevers as Edgar the Nameless is good, as is Miss Josephine Richards as Lady Aldyth; Leofric is admirably impersonated by Mr. Henry Parr; and Miss Ada Gower is prominent as Elfrida. Other members of the company are Messrs. E. C. Coates, Alfred Wade, Henry Ernestine, Alfred Waghorne, Sydney Churchill, B. Marris Davis, F. Brandon, Mesdames Nellie Higgs, Eva Cartwright, and Marie Preston.

KING'S HALL.—Messrs. Poole's Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. T. Stewart.—The pictures are supported this week by St. Malo and Coombs, in their clever song scena; Miss Kitty Woodford, song illustrator; Alpho, the novel ventriloquist; and the Vocaphone.

THEATRE DE LUXE.—Electric Theatres, 1908.—Excellent business continues here with a good picture show. Free cycle, mail-cart storage, and cloak-rooms are announced by the management.

GREAT YARMOUTH. — ROYAL AQUARIUM. — Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. H. Nightingale. —Record houses have witnessed the presentation of The Dollar Princess by Mr. George Edwardes's excellent company. Miss Kathleen Courtney's charming personality, coupled with a delightful voice, makes her a big favourite as Alice; Mr. George Miller is very funny as Mr. Bulger; Mr. Alec Worcester's fine baritone voice is heard to advantage as Freddy Fairfax; Mr. Fred Leslie plays well as Harry Conder; Miss Muriel Allen as Olga is very popular, her songs being exceptionally well rendered. The orchestra, which has been augmented for this visit, is ably directed by Mr. Theo. Wendt.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. H. Nightingale.—Miss Lena Ashwell's company is paying a return visit in Diana of Dobson's.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor and Director, Mr. George Gilbert; Manager, Mr. George Zalva.—Menotti gives a daring performance on the wire; Leicester Cooke and Doodles appear with conspicuous success in an equestrian comedy entitled Chatarooga; Gaertner and May give a clever barrel-jumping performance; Halma is a juggler of remarkable dexterity; Bains and company have an amusing and clever acrobatic turn; the "Tallo-Ho" spectacle continues its successful run; and the amusing item by Doodles and Pimple causes screams of laughter.

BRITANNIA PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. Harry Tunbridge.—The excellent programme has resulted in the Pavilion being packed each evening. Fame and Fortune give a clever acrobatic performance; the Zaid Trio of Spanish Moors appear in an interesting speciality act; Cissey Dryden sings some excellent songs; Charles Penrose gives some clever imitations; and Blake and Granby cause a lot of fun with their sketch, The Man in Possession.

GREENOCK.—KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. A. B. and J. J. Wright.—The Love Birds, presented by Miss Lole Esmond's company, is the attraction here this week. Mr. Edward Neville acts cleverly as Colonel Fritters; Ferdinand Fluff is amusingly impersonated by Mr. Jay O. Russell; and Mr. Fred Alberto scores in the character of the Policeman. Miss Lole Esmond makes the most of the character of Araminta; Miss Blanche Courtney plays Agnes Fritters effectively; and the rôle of Philomena, the colonel's sister, is in the capable hands of Miss Cicely Byrne. Miss Esmond's quartette of clever dancers add to the general success.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. L. Skivington.—Cullen and Carthy, assisted by Little Cluly, top the bill here this week, and meet with a cordial reception; the Brothers Bradshaw are exceptionally clever acrobats; some particularly smart barrel-jumping is introduced by the Hartley Wonders; Spry and Austin are clever comedy artists; and others entertaining include Martinetti and Wallace, musical comedy artists; Joe Humphreys, vocal comedian; and Maggie Walsh, the singing mill girl. The Dromoscope shows some interesting pictures.

EMPIRE. — Lessee, Mr. J. J. Bennell; General-Manager, Mr. J. B. Lawton; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. L. Clayton.—The leading pictures this week are Convict No. 796, Red Eagle's Love Affair, and The Road to Happiness.

GRIMSBY.—PRINCE OF WALES' THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. North.—The farcical comedy, Those Terrible Twins, is meeting with exceptional popularity here. Mr. Leedham Bantock, the author, appears as William, and does much laughable burlesque as the eccentric butler; Mr. Cyril Delevanti acts with appropriate dash as Charlie Pringle; Mr. Archie McGaig makes the part of Minks, the lift-boy, highly diverting; Miss Enid Baird charmingly represents Violet Fairfield; Miss Norah Walker is pleasing as Lillie Leyton; Mr. Charles Hanbury is smart as the Hon. Harry Scott; Miss Maude Adams admirably realises the austere Mrs. Pringle; Mr. Robert Rivers does well as Samuel Pringle; and Mrs. Watt-Tanner is amusing as Maria.

THE PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. F. Verner Walford.—Carl Junor's skill as a pianist is highly appreciated here, and its effect is enhanced by being blended in a dramatic episode which embraces military and love romance. The Comedy Meisters do a capital turn, combining excellent fun with artistic vocal music; Dan Whitley is scoring a great success, and his business in conjunction with the orchestra is especially amusing; Arabella Allen presents excellently-studied Dickens character impersonations; Jessie Albini is a smart comedienne, and her Chantecler burlesque is good; G. Webber is a pleasing bass vocalist who sings good songs; and Eric Dalvere and Phil Wallace speak very laughable patter.

GUERNSEY.—THEATRE ST. JULIAN'S.—Joint Lessees, Messrs. Ed. Marris and Albany Ward; Manager, Mr. George A. Deighton.—Mr. Charles W. Poole's Myriorama opened here on Monday for a short season, and crowded houses are the rule. The descriptive picture tour piloted by Mr. John R. Poole is well chosen, and is very instructive, and everything is bright, attractive, and amusing. Excellent variety is introduced by Amasis, a man of mystery; the Cairo Trio, Three Ettenas, Harry Raymond, Inez and Pim, and The Verome Duo; and Poole's Bioscope is to the front with up-to-date events.

HALIFAX.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—Mr. Frederick Melville's company is here with The Bad Girl of the Family. Miss Florie Kelsey gaves an admirable rendering of Bess Moore; Miss A. E. Belmore makes a sympathetic Gladys Erskine; Mr. Barnett Lando gives a capital character study as Barney Gordon; and other artists engaged in the production are Messrs. R. M. St. John, S. Lynn, P. Haverstock, G. H. Asquin, W. Walmsley, J. Hignett, the Misses N. James, G. Newcombe, and E. Evans.

GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—Full houses are the rule here to witness an excellent picture display, The Detective's Dog (a thrilling picture), The Impalement (dramatic), and A Case of Mistaken Identity (comic) receiving chief honours. Miss Dot Ray, soprano vocalist, is having a royal reception nightly, and the Prince Milner Trio give a clever exhibition of wire walking, juggling, &c.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Julius Simpson.—Frank and Jen Latona are a decided success in a musical and comedy scena; the Westwoods contribute a clever cycling act; Jimmy Danvers and Eva Rosslyn provide plenty of amusement in A Pantomime Boy; the Sidney Girls are excellent skipping-rope dancers; Miss May Rowe's singing is appreciated; the Mars Trio give a smart exhibition of gymnastics; and Frank Boyce (character comedian), May de Rowse (comedienne and dancer), and the Pictures complete.

HAMILTON (N.B.).—HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; General-Manager, Mr. René Clayton; Musical-Director, Mr. G. Millar.—Cavalier Rabottini, with his international band of thirty performers in selections from various operas, is topping the bill here this week, and proving a big draw. Edwards and Edwards are good in a graceful dance and musical turn; the Whittakers are smart and amusing in their skit Dick Whittington; F. C. Note, light comedian, sings a couple of songs with style and finish; Charles Rothwell is quaint and amusing; Amy Anderson and company in their comedy scena, Black and White, take well; and F. W. Nash and T. Noel, together with the Bioscope, conclude.

HANLEY. — ROYAL. — Proprietors, Hanley Theatres and Circus Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone.—Mr. H. Armitage's company pays a welcome return visit in Leah Kleschna. Miss Margaret Cellier plays Leah, and wins much favour; Mr. Wm. Clayton's Kleschna is capital; as Sylvaine Mr. C. Austin Lee is admirable; Mr. Hy. Nunn supplies an excellent portrayal of Raoul Barton; Mr. Hy. Wrenn as the General is good; and Mr. G. Pockett is a successful Schram.

GRAND.—Proprietors, Hanley Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Arthur Rand.—This week Harry Lauder tops the bill, and is attracting large houses; Stella Gastelle introduces a fine scene from La Pouvee; Victor Travers is a good comic; Will and Alice Vokes dance wonderfully; Miss Nina Gordon is an excellent mimic.

KING'S.—Lessee, Mr. J. P. Moore; Manager, Captain F. Shaw; Acting-Manager, Mr. Colin Hazelwood.—The chief films this week are Jane Eyre, Lauder off the Stage, Water on all Floors, The Ranchman's Bride, and Hogarth the Detective. Mlle. Lucretia sings and dances acceptably.

HARROGATE.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Eric Fielding-Smith.—For the first three nights of the week the Hutchison company appeared in Smith. Mr. Robert Minster was excellent as Tom Neeman; and Mr. Douglas Greet was well placed as the man-about-town, Algy Peppercorn. Mr. Geo. Child was good as the easy-going Dallas Baker, K.C.; and Miss Ethel Hodgkins was a pretty Mrs. Dallas Baker. Miss Ethel Wellesley was a capable Mrs. Rosenberg; Miss Straus was good as Miss Chapman; and Miss Stuckey was excellent as Smith. For the rest of the week Mr. Harry P. Powers' company appeared in Dear Little Denmark.

THE KURSAAL.—Manager, Mr. J. E. Wilshire; Musical-Director, Mr. Julian Clifford.—Mr. Flockton Foster's costume comedy company, The Ideals, are here this week, and go well. Mr. Geo. Robey is to appear on Friday afternoon and evening; and for Saturday Fritz Kreisler, the world-renowned violinist, is to give a recital.

HARTLEPOOL.—EMPRESS.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Albert Maxsted.—Little Hackenschmidt, the champion lightweight champion wrestler, is giving exhibitions which find considerable favour; Burnetti, a man of many changes, impersonates musical artists of note and renders some pleasing selections on various instruments; and May Thorne, a popular vocalist, is given a hearty welcome.

HASTINGS.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. E. Scutt.—Messrs. Glenister and Ingram's company occupied the boards for the first half of the week in The House of Temperley, which filled the popular parts of the house with thoroughly delighted and enthusiastic audiences. The two brothers, Sir Charles and Captain Jack Temperley, were strongly played respectively by Mr. Howard Rose and Mr. Lionel Glenister, cleverly assisted by Miss Sheila O'Moore, whose Ethel Morley was a most winsome impersonation. Mr. Clifton Boyne played with great success as Sir John Hawker; Mr. John Detlly as Jakes gave a good delineation of evil characteristics; Mr. Charles D. Cleveland was popular as Ginger Stubbs; and much merriment was made by Miss Madge Devereux as Lucy, his sweetheart. The prize ring gentry were numerously in evidence, headed by Tom Cribb, excellently impersonated by Mr. H. A. Mather. The gentlemen of the Corinthians had convincing representatives, their ducal President, Mr. Arthur Jackson, acting with much impressiveness at the expulsion of Captain Hawker. The remainder of the numerous cast did good service, and the play was full of life and animation throughout. On Thursday Mr. George Dance's company paid a return visit in Miss Hook of Holland.

PIER PAVILION.—General-Manager, Mr. Walter Maxwell.—A half-week's engagement was opened on Monday by Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company in Lady Frederick. In the title-rôle Miss Decima Moore submitted a most attractive impersonation, replete with cleverly acted detail; Mr. George Mudie as Paradine Fouldes gave a finished sketch of a polished man of the world; Miss Celia Gordon was bitingly frigid and well bred as Lady Mereston; Lord Mereston was played by Mr. Graham Colmer with all the necessary impulsive ardour, and his disillusionment was cleverly conveyed; Mr. Andrew Wight as Sir Gerald O'Mara and Mr. Hugh Kennedy in the disagreeable rôle of Captain Montgomery were convincing. Mr. F. G. Thurstans was a jovial Admiral Carlisle, and the Mesdames Beryl Hamilton (Rose Carlisle), Rupert Lister (Mme. Claude), and Edith Anton Laing (Angelique) acted capably. For Thursday and remainder of the week Mr. Charles Macdona and company are billed in Niobe.

AMERICAN PALACE PIER PAVILION. — Lessees, Rinkeries, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. M. Leopold.—Mr. J. D. Hunter and his company are here in Nicholas Nickleby. The rôle of Whackford Squeers is an excellent presentment by Mr. J. D. Hunter, who cleverly indicates the craft and greed of the repulsive character, his make-up being capital; Ralph Nickleby is ably delineated by Mr. Entwistle, as also are Mrs. Squeers by Miss Eva Bayley and Fanny Squeers by Miss Blanche Bayley; Miss Vera Dudley is finely sympathetic as Kate Nickleby, whose brother is played with much feeling by Mr. Herbert Maule; Mr. C. Herman Pullen is a quietly humorous Newman Noggs; Smith is feelingly played by Miss M. L. Stephens; and good character impersonations are given by Mr. Frank Growcott and Mr. Cargill Campbell as John Brodie and Mr. Snawley respectively.

HOUGHTON-LE-SPRING.—GAIETY. — Proprietors, Messrs. Ainsley and Hall.—Mr. and Mrs. Kimberley's No. 1 company is appearing here in Her Secret Lover. On Monday Mr. Harry Wood as Gilbert Seymour, Mr. Walter H. Wilson (Captain Rose), Mr. Alfred Stretton (John Strange), and Mr. Frank Wheatley, give excellent portrayals; and Mr. Percy Boucher, Mr. J. Newton-Cowley, Mr. Hugh Clayton, Mr. Felix Lawson, and Mr. Harry Cobley contribute to the success. As Ivy Seymour, Miss Laura Walker gives a realistic impersonation; and Miss Flora Leslie performs her task with tact; the comic element is cleverly supplied by Miss Lynn Darlington, who scores as Jane Maria Wilkes.

PICTURE PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood.—Special films here include The Mule Driver, Caught in the Web, The Piece of Lace, and Buffalo Hunting.

HOYLAND. — HIPPODROME. — Owner, Mr. Scott Alexander; Acting- and Resident-Manager, Mr Harry Firth.—Mr. Charles H. Lester and company opened here on Monday night with A Life for a Life. Mr. Paul Neville as Kit Oswald and Mr. Hugh Travers as Pedro Li Calci are all that can be desired. Mr. Chas. H. Lester gives a convincing impersonation of Don Leon Fernandez. Miss Dorothy Riddell is a charming Kate Evelyn; and Miss Beatrice Anderson gives an excellent portrayal of Eulalie. The comedy element is well upheld by Mr. Sam Roberts as Tim McCarthy; and he is ably assisted by Miss Marie Ault as Nancy Dorn. Special mention should be made of Wee Winnie Warden as Venetta, who is exceptionally clever.

HUDDERSFIELD.—HIPPODROME, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—That brilliant protean actor R. A. Roberts heads the bill, and on Monday presented his "Cruel Coppinger" with unqualified success. Also appearing are Jack Sheridan, comedian; Benn's Dutch Boys and Girls; J. F. Franklin, comedian; Sisters Page, duettists; Seigel and Fields, in a musical medley; Bros. Horne, in a boxing turn; and the pictures are an amusing wind-up.

PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Herbert Garside. — The fine programme presented here includes Miss Mary Mayfren's company in a vividly-acted one-act play, entitled The Yellow Fang; the Maisanos, a quartette of clever and amusing musical clowns; John Donald, a cultured baritone vocalist, in a well-arranged song scena, "A Scottish Exile's Dream"; Colbert, juggler and hoop-manipulator; Poole and Maguire, a smart comedy pair; the Loube, in sensational feats in acrobatic trick cycling; Miss Julia Reeve, a bright comedienne; Julius Walther, the popular tenor from the Carl Rosa company; and the Palace pictures.

HULL.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Morton's, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. F. Morton.—What the Butler Saw is the attraction this week. Mr. Lionel Rignold plays the Butler with skill, and gives a very droll performance; Mr. Chas. Fawcett is well placed as Barrington; Miss Zoe Gilfillian is a delightful Mrs. Barrington; and Miss Foden is capitally cast in the hands of Miss Marie Daltra. Miss Christine Jenson is admirable as Nora; excellent support is given by Mr. Raymond Dudley as Sir Charles; Mr. Leo St. Clair is a satisfactory Sydney Clifford.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Morton's, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Geo. Morton.—Two Little Drummer Boys is here this week. The Alma Kingsley of Miss Violet Langley is a praisworthy portrayal; Molly Meadow is a comedy part well realised by Miss Patricia Connaghton; the Capt. Frank Carsdaile, as realised by Mr. T. Arthur Ellis, is a big success; the two little drummer boys were capitally enacted by Miss Maggie English and Miss Maudie B. Douglas.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. John S. Barnett.—A hearty reception is accorded to Mike S. Whallen, comedian and raconteur, who rattles off a batch of crisp witticisms; a feature of the bill is the cleverly trained ponies presented by Miss Marquis, each of whom perform some wonderful tricks; Fred Curran pleases immensely with his well-rendered parodies; the Miles Stavordale Quintette, with banjoes and harp, render several charming selections as comedy jugglers; Mons. and Mme. Alf. Agoust are original and very funny; Phillips and Merritt elicit hearty applause as society entertainers; and the Three Sisters Kilner are a trio of dainty dancers. Bert Marsden, light comedian, is a very acceptable turn; the Garden City Four win approbation for their capable rendering of "The Wreck of the Hesperus," with illustrations; and an interesting series of bioscope pictures complete.

THE EMPIRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hy. Slingsby.—The leading feature here is provided by Cormon's Juveniles, who present a pretty vocal scena, entitled "The Waifs"; Marie Blythe, the popular contralto, wins admiration; Verne and Green, comedy acrobats, present a turn both skilful and funny; other interesting items include the Two Countees, humorists and duettists; Goodall and Knox, comedians with good patter; Fred Kendall, Hebrew impersonator; Capita, the mechanical comedian; Fred Horsfall, an excellent humorist and mimic; and Katie More, a popular descriptive vocalist.

THE HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. Walter Bentley.—At the head of a varied bill are Sydney Mason and company, including Miss Theresa Moore, who present The Usurer with exciting results; Hyde and Cody trio, in a number of eccentric tricks, are much enjoyed; the singing and dancing of the Three Sisters Silcott is popular; as a character comedienne, Katie Butler has many admirers; Ted Gill, the Yorkshire tenor delights all with his excellent singing; and other favourite turns are Billy Marsden, the musical Lancashire lad; Dennis and Morris, comedians and simultaneous dancers; and Jimmy Ferguson, eccentric comedian.

IPSWICH.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Murray King, Clarke, and W. H. Savery. — Mr. Alex. Maclean's company is here this week with My Lady Bellamy, the title-rôle being played by Miss Laura Leigh, who gives a charming rendering. Queen Mary is well played by Miss Mary Palmer; Mrs. Mackie is in the hands of Miss Viola Marsh; and Miss Muriel Eastney is Mrs. Hemming. Mr. Alex. Maclean gives a good portrayal of the part of Sir Gervaise Bellamy; Mr. Arthur Layland makes a capital Lord Crawford; and Mr. Eric Snowdon an excellent Robert Tarfax. King William (Dutch Bill) is well played by Mr. Lyttleton-Holyoake; Mr. F. H. De Quincey is Captain Van Healer; Mr. L. D. Arthur is Sir Geo. Barclay; and Mr. A. L. Burke Captain Ottley. Mr. Barnard Stacey is Sam Waring.

HIPPODROME—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—The Bellong Bros., cycle equilibrists, give a clever performance, and are very popular; Mlle. Sarema has a large collection of performing animals, &c., which are skilfully trained, and this turn deserves high praise; Austin Temple is clever with sleight-of-hand tricks; Dion Wade is a good comedian and singer; Miss Kitty Collyer is popular with catchy songs; a good vocalist is Florence Esdaile; and Stella Austral is a juvenile performer of promise. Stevens and Brett have an amusing burlesque turn; and the Bioscope concludes.

THE WORLD'S THEATRE DECORATORS AND FURNISHERS.

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO. Ltd.,

SUCCESSORS TO

A. R. DEAN & SONS, Corporation Street, BIRMINGHAM

Telephone: {Show Rooms, 224 Central, Birmingham. Factory, 3834 Central, Birmingham.} Telegrams: "Carpets, Birmingham."

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD.,

Are at the present time by far the largest Theatre Decorators and Furnishers in the World. A proof of this is that at the present time they have Contracts in hand ten to every one of their competitors. These are plain solid facts.

Why do DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD., get nine out of every ten Contracts they estimate for? Simply because they know their business, complete to time, give best workmanship, only employ men who thoroughly understand this class of work.

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD.,

Are prepared to give three years' guarantee with all Chairs, Seating, &c., whether a Tip-up Chair is purchased at 4/11, including carriage and fixing, or 75/-. This should be a sufficient proof of the class of work we are executing.

Proprietors, Architects, Lessees, Managers, &c., have only to telephone, wire, or write, and Dean's Furnishing Co., Ltd., will at once send one of their Managers—either Mr. Windibank or Mr. Bardell—to wait on them next day. Distance no object—five or five hundred miles, one and all receive their promptest attention.

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD.,

Point with pride to the List of Contracts booked, executed, or in hand for immediate completion this year 1910.

1. PARKHURST THEATRE, HOLLOWAY. Reseating and Refurnishing.
2. NEW BIOGRAPH THEATRE, WILTON-RD., PIMLICO. Reseating and Refurnishing.
3. NEW BIOGRAPH THEATRE, WANDSWORTH. Reseating and Refurnishing.
4. NEW BIOGRAPH THEATRE, HORNSEA. Reseating and Refurnishing.
5. NEW BIOGRAPH THEATRE, KILBURN. Reseating and Refurnishing.
6. NEW BIOGRAPH THEATRE, CLAPHAM JUNCTION. Reseating and Refurnishing.
7. NEW BIOGRAPH THEATRE, ILFORD. Complete Furnishing and Seating.
8. NEW BIOGRAPH THEATRE, STOKE NEWINGTON. Complete Furnishing, Seating.
9. NEW BIOGRAPH THEATRE, RYE LANE, PECKHAM. Complete Furnishing, Seating.
10. NEW ALEXANDRA THEATRE, BELFAST. Complete Furnishing and Seating.
11. NEW ROYALTY THEATRE, CHESTER. Complete Re-upholstering.
12. NEW THEATRE, BILSTON. Complete Re-upholstering.
13. SPANISH CITY, WHITLEY BAY. Complete Seating and Furnishing.
14. MAGNIFICENT TABLEAU CURTAINS AND DRAPERIES, for Fred Karno, Esq.
15. EMPIRE, PORTSMOUTH. Complete Redecorations and Furnishings.
16. OPERA HOUSE, WORKINGTON. Complete Reseating.
17. NEW SKATING RINK AND PICTURE THEATRE, TODMORDEN. Complete Seating and Furnishing.
18. NEW SKATING RINK AND PICTURE THEATRE, WREXHAM. Complete Seating and Furnishing.
19. NEW SKATING RINK AND PICTURE PALACE, NUNEATON. Complete Seating and Furnishing.
20. NEW TOWN HALL, WESTGATE-ON-SEA. Furnishing, Seating, and Tableau Curtains.
21. NEW HIPPODROME, YORK. Reseating, Tip-up Chairs, &c.
22. HIPPODROME, COVENTRY. Reseating &c.
23. CITY VARIETIES, LEEDS. Reseating, &c.
24. NEW HIPPODROME, TON-Y-PANDY. Complete Decorations, Seatings, Tip-up Chairs, and Furnishing throughout.
25. NEW PICTUREDROME, SOUTHPORT. Complete Seating, Tip-up Chairs, and Furnishing.
26. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, BRIXTON. Complete Redecorations, Reseating, Tip-up Chairs, and Furnishing throughout.
27. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, MARBLE ARCH, OXFORD-STREET. The whole of the Magnificent Fibrous Plaster, Decorations, Furnishing, and Seating throughout.
28. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, THORNTON HEATH. Complete Seating, Tip-up Chairs, and Furnishing throughout.
29. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, CARDIFF. Tip-up Chairs, &c.
30. NEW THEATRE DE LUXE, BATTERSEA. Complete Seating, &c.
31. NEW ELECTROSCOPE THEATRE, TOOTING. Complete Seating, Tip-up Chairs, and Furnishing throughout.
32. NEW KING'S HALL, LEYTON. Complete Seating and Tip-up Chairs.
33. NEW QUEEN'S HALL, BRISTOL. Complete Seating, Tip-up Chairs, and Furnishing.
34. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, MARKET-STREET, BRISTOL. Complete Seating, Tip-up Chairs, and Furnishing.
35. NEW OLYMPIA ELECTRIC PALACE, BRISTOL. Tip-up Chairs, &c.
36. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, BEDMINSTER, BRISTOL. Tip-up Chairs, &c.
37. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, BATH. Complete Seating, Tip-up Chairs, and Furnishing.
38. VAUDEVILLE ELECTRIC THEATRE, READING. Tip-up Chairs, &c.
39. NEW ELDORADO ELECTRIC THEATRE, HAMPSTEAD. Complete Seating.
40. NEW SKATING RINK AND PICTURE THEATRE, CHELSEA. Complete Seating, Tip-up Chairs, &c.
41. NEW ELECTRIC PALACE, EDGWARE-ROAD. Complete Seating and Furnishing.
42. NEW ELECTRIC PALACE, KILBURN. Construction, Decorations, Seating, Furnishing.
43. GREAT CENTRAL PICTURE THEATRE, TOTTENHAM COURT-ROAD. Tip-up Chairs, &c.
44. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, LONDON-ROAD, BRIGHTON. Complete Seating, &c., &c.
45. ELECTRIC PALACE, BRAMBER BRIDGE, PRESTON. Tip-up Chairs and Complete Seating, &c.
46. NEW WINTER GARDENS, NEW BRIGHTON. Tip-up Chairs and Furnishings.
47. BORDESLEY PALACE, BIRMINGHAM. Refurnishings.
48. PALACE THEATRE, ABERDEEN. Reseating and Tip-up Chairs.
49. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, CREWE. Furnishing, Seating, and Tip-up Chairs.
50. NEW CENTRAL HALL, SHREWBURY. Complete Seating, Tip-up Chairs, &c., &c.
51. LIGHTHOUSE PAVILION, HOLYOAK, CHESHIRE. Complete Seating, &c.
52. ELECTRIC THEATRE, NOTTINGHAM. Tip-up Chairs, &c.
53. NEW TOWN HALL, KETTERING. Reseating, &c., &c.
54. ST. STEPHEN'S MEMORIAL THEATRE, CHESTERFIELD. Complete Reseating, Refurnishing, Tip-up Chairs, and Furnishing.
55. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, HIGH-STREET, BIRMINGHAM. Complete decorations, Fibrous Plaster, and Seating throughout.
56. NEW CINEMATOGRAPH THEATRE, SACKVILLE-STREET, DUBLIN.
57. NEW CINEMATOGRAPH THEATRE, PRINCE'S-STREET, EDINBORO'.
58. NEW CINEMATOGRAPH THEATRE, MARKET-STREET, MANCHESTER.
59. NEW CINEMATOGRAPH THEATRE, NEW-STREET, BIRMINGHAM.
60. HOWARD HALL, NORTH SHIELDS. Tip-up Chairs.
61. RAYMOND'S ELECTRIC THEATRE, WALTHAMSTOW. Reseating, &c.
62. RAYMOND'S ELECTRIC THEATRE, BLACKBURN. Tip-up Chairs, &c.
63. NEW PICTURE PALACE, WHITLEY BAY. Complete Furnishing, Tip-up Chairs, &c.
64. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, NUNEATON. Tip-up Chairs, &c.
65. MECHANICS' INSTITUTE. Complete Seating.
66. NEW SKATING RINK AND PICTURE PALACE, WINDSOR. The whole of Seating, Tip-up Chairs, &c.
67. THE ROTUNDA THEATRE, LIVERPCOL. The whole of the Decorations, Carpets, Seating, Tip-up Chairs, &c., &c., at a cost of upwards of £1,500.
68. ROYAL COURT THEATRE, LIVERPOOL. Reseating, New Tip-up Chairs, and our Patent Pit, &c.
69. NEW HIPPODROME & CIRCUS FOR MR. BOSTOCK, CITY-ROAD, GLASGOW. Complete Furnishing and Tip-up Chairs.
70. NEW HIPPODROME, KINGSTON-ON-THAMES. The whole of the magnificent Draperies, Carpets, Tip-up Chairs, and our Patent Pit, at a cost of upwards of £1,700.
71. NEW HIPPODROME, BEDMINSTER, BRISTOL. Whole of the magnificent Fibrous Plaster, Decorations, Draperies, Carpets, Tip-up Chairs, and our Patent Pit, at a cost of upwards of £3,000.
72. WINTER GARDENS, CHELTENHAM, The whole of the magnificent Draperies, Tip-up Chairs, &c., &c.
73. NEW HIPPODROME, EASTBOURNE. Complete Refurnishing, at a cost of £1,200.
74. NEW BIOGRAPH THEATRE, PECKHAM. Whole of the new Carpets and Tip-up Chairs.
75. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, HANLEY. Whole of new Tip-up Chairs.
76. NEW SPA THEATRE, BRIDLINGTON. New Tip-up Chairs.
77. NEW GRAND THEATRE, WEST HARTLEPOOL. New Tip-up Chairs.

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD.,

Supply every description of Fibrous Plaster and Decor

JARROW.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Edwards Evans.—An excellent variety includes Edie Endon, acrobatic dancer; Chant and Chant, who are well received, in patter and burlesque; Sim Maree, the marvellous contortionist and bender; the Two Castles, versatile artists; Yettmah and the Japanese lady; the International Mirth-Makers; Allie Moore, champion all-round skater; and a capital sketch entitled Before the Dawn.

The Kino.—Proprietor, Mr. Dixon Scott; Manager, Mr. John R. Scott.—In addition to pictures, the variety programme includes Mr. George Leonard, the blind musician, who establishes himself a favourite, and Mlle. Doris, who accomplishes clever feats with her dogs.

The Palace.—Lessees and Managers, Jarrow Palace Co.; Manager, Mr. John V. Kane.—Good audiences continue to patronise the excellent show of pictures and variety. In the programme are Mr. Gus Gauntlett, the well-known military athlete; Miss Eva Nelson, illustrated and ballad vocalist; and Walter and Eva Grey, in a blend of harmony, comedy, and dancing.

The Gem.—Lessees, John Tweddle and Co.; Manager, Mr. Frank Rabey.—A first-class show of films here is receiving liberal support.

JERSEY.—Opera House.—Lessee, Mr. Edward Marris; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lindsay Edwardes.—Mr. Walter Maxwell's company opened here on Tuesday with that funniest of recent plays, Mr. Preedy and the Countess. Miss Nella Powys is charming and delightfully graceful as the aristocratic Countess; and Mr. A. W. Bascomb as Preedy proves himself the life and soul of the piece. Mr. John Nesbit has just the presence for John Bounsall; Mr. Shirley Lea is distinctly good as Bilson; excellent support is also rendered by Mr. Cecil Humphries as the Earl; Mr. Hamilton Deane as the Honourable Robert; Mr. J. D. Geddes as Lord Kinslow; Mr. J. McClintock Clive as Reginald Saunders; and Mr. Edmond Beresford as Mr. Sidgrave. Miss Mary O'Farrell is a particularly taking Emma Sidgrave; Miss Ninon Dudley appears as Harriet Budgen; and Miss Violet Greville as Mrs. Sidgrave. The principal piece is preceded by The Chance, well rendered by Mr. Cecil Humphreys, Mr. J. D. Geddes, and Miss Ninon Dudley.

Alhambra.—Proprietors, Messrs. L. C. Langlois and L. Poulain.—The electric pictures here include On the Banks of the Nile and Cardinal Richelieu. Mr. J. A. Maurice, the comedian, has been re-engaged for another week.

Olympia.—Proprietor, Mr. Louis Marks.—This is the closing week here, this hall shortly reopening as a roller skating rink. Mlle. Cordelia is appearing in electric dances, and Les Vivandières Concert Party has been re-engaged.

Triangle Park.—The Tatlers, under the direction of Louis Rihill, are appearing here.

Royal Hall.—Lessee, Mr. J. T. West; Manager, Mr. George Francis.—Amongst the new films being shown are A Piece of Lace, Melbourne, Mario's Swan Song, and The Funeral of the Late Florence Nightingale.

KIDDERMINSTER.—New Opera House.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. Jas. P. Moore; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. C. Gudgeon.—For the first three nights this week Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch has been presented here by Mr. Gaston Mayer's company. Miss Lucy Beaumont in the title-part is very acceptable; Miss Armine Grace as Miss Hazy is very droll and quaint; Miss Winifred Murray plays Lovey Mary with considerable grace and charm; the Misses Doris Murray, Molly Shields, and Doris Beeton are delightfully girlish and animated as Asia, Europena, and Australia; Miss Sybil Brooke and Miss Violet Vivian are excellent as Mrs. Eichorn and Mrs. Schultz; Miss Ethne O'Brien as Lucy is very sweet; the part of Mr. Stubbins is played with convincing effect by Mr. Fred Forrest; Mr. Ernest Gray ably portrays Mr. Wiggs; Deacon Bagsby is in the capable hands of Mr. Alfred Fisher; Mr. Harry G. Wright and Mr. Robin Shiells are respectively good as Hunkerdunkus Jones and the Sheriff.

KING'S LYNN.—New Royal Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. B. Parcezer; Resident-Manager, Mr. Reginald Parcezer.—For the first three nights of this week excellent variety shows have been given. A welcome return visit was paid by the Maningos, head balancers; Dan Scott, comedian, was popular; Donald Murray gave selections on the banjo; May B. Brilliant was successful in her songs and dancing; Scholey and Scholey presented an interesting sketch; Will Avis did some skilful shadowgraphy; and Dora Martini, the lady gymnast, was successful.

LANCASTER.—Grand Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. C. Howitt.—Messrs. J. C. Lodge-Percy and James Martin's company is the attraction this week in Mr. Barnes of New York, A Fool's Paradise, and Frou-Frou. The former piece was presented on Monday to a good house. Excellent work was done by Miss Henrietta Schrier as Marina Paoli; Mr. F. Douglas Howard made up well as Count Danella; Mr. Bartlett Garth was a success as Capt. Gerald Anstruther; whilst the title-rôle was in the safe hands of Mr. J. C. Lodge-Percy; Miss Norah Vaughan gave a pleasing portrayal of Enid Anstruther, as also did Miss Kitty Trevail as Maud Chatris and Miss Nellie Stratham as Lady Chatris.

LEAMINGTON. — Theatre Royal. — Lessees, Messrs. Dottridge and Longden; Manager, Mr. John Halifax.—A strong attraction is provided this week, Mr. J. W. Lindsay-Ellis's company appearing with conspicuous success in Lights Out. Miss Pauline Emerie plays Klara Volkhardt with naturalness; Mr. Frank Caviello gives an admirable performance of Lieutenant Von Lauffen; whilst Mr. Robert Noble's Sergeant Volkhardt is a powerful and clever piece of acting. Mr. Herbert Tugg is commendable as Lieutenant Von Howan, Mr. Charles Vincent a dignified Major Paschke, and Mr. Philip Renouf's Corporal Helbig an artistic portrayal. Corporal Quiess finds a competent representative in Mr. Arthur T. Barugh, and Mr. G. W. Barnes plays the comic part of Private Michael with success. Preceding the play Mr. Bernard Merryfield, society entertainer, greatly amuses the audience with selections from his extensive répertoire.

LEEDS.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. Francis Laidler; Manager, Mr. N. Hepworth.—Claudian is here this week. Mr. William McLaren acts with ability in the title-rôle, and Miss Lily C. Bandmann as Almida makes an excellent impression.

Empire.—District-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alex. Galley.—Jackson and McLaren, champion tree-cutters of Australia, give a very clever and interesting exhibition; Ando's Happy Little Japs appear in a smart equilibristic act; Carter Livesay and Lilian Roseberry bring a new and amusing sketch, entitled An Amateur Anarchist; Great Lester gains much popularity as a ventriloquist; Orpheus, a talented musician, is admired and applauded. Other good turns are those of Sybil St. Elmo, Six Lancashire Lasses, Amy Marsden, and Dan Crawley.

Hippodrome.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry Dunford.—Four favourite star turns here include Henry Sleath's company, in The Third Degree; Wolkowsky Troupe of Russian musicians and dancers; Twelve Kennedy Girls; and Julia Mack. A clever musical entertainment is provided by Hamid Alexander; the Schilinsky Brothers are clever hand-balancers; and other popular artists appearing are the Keppels, the Triscos, and the Almas.

Queen's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Bush.—Performed here are two sketches, The Cattle Thief and The Gambler, and the following variety artists appear: James Shingleton, Woods and Walsh, Alice Blandford, the Kebbles, Rose and Jeanette, and Johnny Dwyer.

Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood; Booking-Manager, Mr. Johnny Whiteman.—The Heriot Trio are starring here in a capital sporting farce, Denbigh's Divorce. Other favourites are the Romah Sisters, Claymore Trio, Irene and Morton, Halbert, and the Mackinnon Family.

LEEK.—Grand Theatre and Hippodrome.—Proprietors, The Leek Theatre Co., Ltd.; Licensee and General Manager, Mr. Barry Bond.—Mr. Wilson Howard and a talented company are presenting two excellent dramas, viz., Under the Iron Heel and Under the Czar. On Monday night the first named was staged, and was well received. Mr. Wilson Howard as René de Maupassant gave a powerful interpretation, and had a sympathetic partner in Miss Carlotta Anson, who played Germaine Mirbleau with much feeling. A finished piece of acting was given by Miss Marie Angus as Andre; Mr. Henry Parr as Otto Marx sustained the necessary villainy of the piece with vigour; and Mr. Dennis Clyde as the German major obtained the approbation of the house. Under the Czar is billed for Friday and Saturday.

LEICESTER.—Royal Opera House.—Business Manager, Mr. Trueman Towers.—This week's attraction is provided by a first visit of Messrs. Wentworth Croke, Milton Bode, and Edward Compton's company in The Bishop's Son, the title-rôle being exceedingly well played by Mr. Derwent Hall Caine. Others in the cast who figure prominently with embodiments of cleverness are Mr. W. F. Grant as Gilchrist Mylrea, Mr. Julian Cross as Thorkell Mylrea, and Miss Verita Vivien as Mona Mylrea. A male quartette, consisting of Messrs. Lawrence, Carne, Young, and Nicholls, are also introduced with success.

Theatre Royal.—Acting-Manager, Mr. P. Allerton Turner.—The detective drama Sexton Blake is being presented here this week by the Melodrama Production Syndicate, Ltd. The name-part is well played by Mr. Murray Yorke, who is capably supported in other parts by Miss Elizabeth Watkins as Marjorie Lovell, Mr. Victor C. Rolfe as Farmer Blackburn, Mr. Millar Wilson as Tinker, Miss Dinah Wright as Euphemia Pattacake, Mr. Edward McLean as Roger Blackburn, Miss Lydia Manniugton as Philadelphia Kate, and Mr. Sydney Barner as Simos Faggas.

Palace Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. D. Elbourne; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Charles L. Sealey.—Splendid houses are delighted with this week's excellent show, at the head of which is Herbert Darnley's company in Private Potts, in which Fred Kitchen, an immense favourite here, keeps the house in a continual roar of merriment as Private Potts; the eminent ventriloquist Tom Edwards is receiving his usual warm welcome for a turn that is brimful of smartness; George French, a clever comedian, is making a hit; Evelyn Bingham, a young Leicester lady, possessed of a fine soprano voice, is accorded a flattering reception; Roma and Romani, the clever and versatile classical musicians, are ecoring their usual success; the Findens (Mr. and Mrs. Harold) create merriment with a well-played sketch; and other artists who give entertaining turns are Fred Lincoln, comedian; Georgina Leno, comedienne and dancer; and the Great Vincent, acrobatic table expert. The Bioscope is still retained.

Pavilion Theatre.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Joseph Lawrence.—Heading a very good show here this week is Percy Ford's company in the dramatic episode The Spy, in which Mr. Lionel D'Aragon sustains his original part of the spy with much success, Miss Millie Silvester as Madam Halcon being also good; Leo and Roland are smart equilibrists; Clarke and Mostol refined patter comedians and dancers, are successful; Mlle. Bartanelli is prominent as a clever contortionist; Cissie Carter renders a couple of catchy songs in capital style; and the picture programme is a fine one, and includes A Window to Let, A Colonel at Twenty-two, A Kid's Kite, The Majesty of the Law, and The Land of Eternal Summer.

Empire.—Lessees, The New Bioscope Trading Co.; Managing-Director, Mr. F. R. Griffiths; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. R. Craig.—The big attraction here this week is the Viviaphone Singing Pictures. Among a goodly array of diversified films is His Last Burglary. Millie Ray, vocalist and speciality dancer, also appears with success.

Grand Electric Palace.—Proprietors, the Midland Electric Theatres, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Joseph Eke.—The chief film in a fine programme is the Kinemacolour picture Venice and the Grand Canal, a beautiful subject. Other prominent films are Flowers that Bloom in the Spring, A Honeymoon for Three, A Lucky Miss, A Well-earned Meal, Industries in Cochin (China), A Window to Let, Indiscretions of Betty, The Eclipse Stakes, Cowes Regatta, &c.

The Cinema Theatre.—Proprietors, the London and Provincial Electric Theatres, Ltd.; General-Manager and Chief of Staff, Mr. W. Reynolds-Benjamin; Resident-Manager, Mr. Kingstone Trollope.—The principle item at this new picture house is the Animatophone song "Come into the garden Maud," which is supported by Fashoda, The Messenger Boy, Cow Puncher's Ward, Bath Chair Attendant, Season of Birds, Aviator's Dream, and New Park Keeper.

Boulevard Electric Theatre.—Managing-Director Mr. J. Noble.—The pictures at this hall continue to be of the best procurable, and are interspersed with variety by Kitty Bowen, a pleasing soprano, in illustrated songs, and Bert White, a quaint Yorkshire comedian.

LEITH.—New Gaiety Theatre.—Licensee and Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Darlison.—Her Love Against the World has proved very attractive here, the piece having been effectively presented by Mr. W. H. Hallatt and Mr. Walter Howard's principal company. Eric, Earl of Strathmere, was successfully filled by Mr. Fred Emery, and Miss Ellen Snow makes a good appearance in the part of Princess Iris. The rival Princes, Ulric and Othmar, are well portrayed by Mr. Roy Fortescue and Mr. W. H. Hallatt; evil-doing is ably personified in the Shula of Miss Blanche Steele; Mr. Arthur Chisholm makes an efficient Prince Maurice; and the boy Lionel has a sympathetic representative in Miss Rossie St. John. Messrs. Chas. R. Hann, Webster Grey A. B Cushman, and others do useful work; and comedy is provided in meritorious fashion by the Heinrick and Fritz of Mr. Fred Acton and Mr. John Mill, aided by the Katinka and Gretchen of Miss Winifred Acton and Miss Hettie Ferguson.

LIVERPOOL.—Royal Court Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Lawrence.—Mr. Lewis Waller has always been a prime favourite in Liverpool, and his appearance here on Monday evening with the new play, Bardelys the Magnificent, drew an immense audience. Those who delight in Mr. Waller's spirited, emotional style will certainly find his latest work well suited to their tastes. The whole of the company, which is a well-chosen one, had a very cordial reception. Mr. Herbert Jarman showed his high accomplishments to the full in the rôle of Louis XIII.; Mr. William Haviland played the heavy part of Phillipe with most convincing result; Miss Madge Titheradge as Roxalanne acted with delicacy and grace; Mrs. A. B. Tapping presented an amusing old Viscomtesse; Mr. Alec F. Thompson proved a quaint little Pierre; and good support also came from Miss Dorothy Dix (Andrée), Miss Gabrielle de Wilden (Paquotte), Mr. Reginald Dane (Laurent), and Mr. Frank Woolfe (Lavedan).

Shakespeare Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wentworth Croke; Manager and Secretary, Mr. John Gaffney. — Enthusiastic audiences are here this week to greet Mr. Laurence Irving and Miss Mabel Hackney in The Unwritten Law and Margaret Catchpole. The former, given on Monday night, afforded great delight, and the two distinguished players came in for rounds of applause. Miss Hackney as Sonio showed great emotional powers, and made a marked impression by the tenderness and charm of her efforts; Mr. Laurence Irving as Rodion took advantage of his numerous opportunities for exhibiting his dramatic powers, and afforded general satisfaction; Mr. James Skea was an excellent magistrate Bezak; and admirable work likewise came from Messrs. Frank Esmond (Kashin), Rupert Harvey (Zosimoff), Edward Chester (Gromoff), Wentworth Fane (Keller), and Miss Alice Inman (Pulcheria). In Margaret Catchpole Mr. Irving was John Luff, a rôle which suited him well; and Miss Hackney repeated her pleasing part of Margaret.

Rotunda Theatre.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Coles.—Messrs. F. Marriott Watson and James Ussher's company are here this week with The Face at the Window. Mr. W. Haughton Macaulay plays Delgado with considerable effect; Mr. T. W. Dunscombe presents an admirable Detective Gouffett; Mr. James Chippendale shows ability in the dual part of Brisson and Le Blanc; and others who appear are Miss Marie Pemberton (Lapinau), Miss Constance Glenabyn (Marie de Brisson), Mr. Richard Oliver (Lucien Cortier), and Mr. Leonard H. H. Rooke (Jean Barbelon).

Star Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—Was She to Blame? is being given by the Kimberley, Green, and Hinton combination. Mr. Charles March makes the most of the part of William Clark; Mr. J. A. Wilson does well as Captain Courtnay; Mr. Henry Rutland plays the Vicar with care and tact; Miss Nancy Roberts pleases greatly with her Lillian Norman; Miss Helene Forest ably enacts the part of Mrs. Kate Rosselle; and others who afford satisfaction are Messrs. George Langdon (Frank Rosselle), Ken Murray (Timothy Swales), Miss Nita Owen (Sarah Swales), and Miss Ellen Beverley (Mary Norman).

Kelly's Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Reginald Grant.—A round of Shakespeare is being given here this week by Mr. Alexander Marsh and company. On Monday night The Merchant of Venice was staged, with Mr. Marsh as Shylock, Miss Carrie Baillie as Portia, and the following suporters:—Messrs. Wilson Gunning (Bassanio), A. E. Walker (Antonio), Edwin Beverley (Tubal), Miss Kathleen Clanchy (Jessica), and Miss May Grimshaw (Nerissa). The other plays of the week were Hamlet, Romeo and Juliet, School for Scandal, Taming of the Shrew, David Garrick, Sleigh Bells, and Jane Shore.

Empire.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Manners.—Big business is being done here this week, on account of Wilkie Bard being foremost. His latest songs are raising shouts of delight. James Stewart, the tramp at shouts of delight. James Stewart, the tramp at the piano, is as funny as ever; some remarkable acrobatic dancing is gone through by the Satanella Trio; Ethel Newman delights everybody with her comedy monologue, "Her Wedding Day"; a charming turn is provided by Katie Moss, a talented vocalist and violinist; the always welcome Winifred Hare has a flattering reception for her latest successes; Rusell Carr, the military ventriloquist, pleases greatly; and Walter Bellonini gives an exhibition of juggling that calls forth great applause.

Lyric.—Lessees, Liverpool Lyric Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Henry C. Arnold.—Here this week is The Midnight Mail, sent by Messrs. Dottridge and Longden. Mr. George Harvard plays Harry Steyne capitally; Miss Trissie Humphreys pleases everybody with her Mary Steyne; Mr. Henry W. Hatchman afforded much satisfaction with his Leonard Royle; Mr. Frank S. Strickland stands out prominently as Hassan Padisha; Mr. Fred G. Evison acts excellently and amusingly as Billy Brewer; Miss Mildred Carr helps with the comedy in the rôle of Nancy Brewer; and Miss Jennie Weston pleases as Lady Eustace.

Royal Hippodrome.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Hassan.—Top of the bill here this week are the Six Bros. Luck, with H.M.S. Perhaps; Madge Grey, the Lancashire comedienne, causes endless laughter with her funny children's stories; Carlisle and Wellmon present a neat musical act; James and Jenny Jees earn rounds of applause for their dancing, jumping, and cycling on the endless revolving wire; the Sisters Geretti go through a sensational double trapeze turn; Boden and Bell, juvenile duettists and dancers, earn a cordial reception; Webb and Branston gain favour for their operatic duet singing; and others in the list are Leo Fields, comedian, and George Norton, comedian.

Royal Palace of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—The Old Folks at Home is being played here twice nightly by the stock company. Included in the principals are Messrs. Sydney Grant (Lord Howard), Harry Tresham (Andrew Ross), Tom H. Solly (Ben Jolly), R. Seth Innes (Joe Chaff), Miss Lina Nazeby (Patricia Bathurst), and Miss Florence Entwistle (Dorothy Robin). Brown's Bioscope shows Soap in the Eyes.

Olympia.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. M. Slater.—George Formby is foremost here this week with his latest songs, and is greatly enjoyed; that merry couple Alexandre and Hughes are as diverting as ever; as acrobatic eccentrics Griffen and Ardel provide an admirable turn; Elmer Spyglass, a fine baritone, renders several numbers to general satisfaction; May Mars pleases with her charming singing, an Oriental fantasy, "A Persian Garden," being very beautiful; the Sutcliffe Family of acrobats, pipers, and dancers are greeted with rounds of applause; and also in the list are Lulu Williams, juvenile comedienne; Bert Weston, light comedian; and Walter Wade, comedian.

Pavilion.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Manager, Mr. George F. Slatter.—A big line here this week is Amati's Band, which renders choice musical selections to everybody's delight; the O'Gorman Bros. are smart comedians and dancers; Master Edward Garratt and company cause endless laughter with Mortimer Magnus, M.P.; Arthur Aldridge sings tenor songs with artistic finish; Alice Edwards affords much satisfaction with her male impersonations; the Royal Banzai Family of Japanese entertainers are a treat; and the Three Comedy Chanters have some humorous and harmonious interludes.

LLANDUDNO.—Grand Theatre.—Manager, Mr. A. G. Pugh.—Commencing on Monday for three nights, Mr. Leigh Lovel and Miss Octavia Kenmore's company appeared in Ibsen's plays. A Doll's House was presented on Monday, The Master Builder on Tuesday, and Hedda Gabler on Wednesday. Mr. Leigh Lovel as Torvald Helmer plays well throughout; Mr. Claud W. Sykes being at home as Dr. Rank. Mr. F. Pennington Gush as Nils Krogstadt successfully portrays a telling part; Miss Katherine Maynard is excellent as Mrs. Linden; and Miss Octavia Kenmore as Nora Helmore performs effectively a difficult character. Smith was announced for the remainder of the week.

Pier Head Pavilion.—Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allandale's vaudeville entertainers are doing good business this week, Mr. Bert Byrne being a big favourite. Mons. Alec Chentrena, the Anglo-French comedian, delights all with catchy songs; Mr. Geo. Charlestone is one of the best basso vocalists yet heard here; and Mr. Douglas Campbell is popular. Master Charley Bray sings and dances excellently, whilst Mr. Arthur Sutcliffe renders his items in inimitable style.

LLANELLY. — Haggar's Theatre (late Royalty).—Proprietor, Mr. W. Haggar; Resident-Manager, Mr. Jas. Haggar; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Frank Danvers.—Lucky Durham is capitally staged here by Mr. Arthur Leigh's company. Mr. Edmund Kennedy appears with conspicuous success as John Durham; Mr. Leigh as the Hon. Reggie works hard, and creates a favourable impression; Mr. W. Calvert as Lord Mountfallon is also very good; Miss Nellie Bonsor as Mrs. Durham deserves high commendation; as Helen Vallerton Miss Florence Tressillian is sympathetic and charming.

LOUGHBOROUGH. — Vint's Electric Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. Leon Vint; General-Manager, Mr. Arthur Brogden; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. H. Bowmaker.—The "Rurals," comedy musicians, are clever, and their "anvil scene" is effective; Phil Rees' Stable Lads in their racing act, Not a Crook, are appreciated, and give a good singing and dancing turn. The pictures include Tunny Fishing, On a Carnival Day, A Child of Impulse, and The Tide of Fortune.

Temperance Hall.—Lessees, Messrs. Weisker Bros.; Resident Manager, Mr. A. Evanson.—The pictures here this week include Red Eagle's Love Affair, What the Daisy Said, The Two Portraits, Never Send a Man to Match a Ribbon, etc. The artists are Dan Rodney, comedian; and Anna Hope, contralto.

LOWESTOFT.—Marina.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. B. Parcezer.—The Arcadians are drawing capital houses, scenery and dresses are distinctly praiseworthy, and the company work together with pleasing results. Mr. Alfred Beers is decidedly amusing as the jockey, and scores a big hit with "I've a mother"; Mr. Chas. Stephenson as Simplicitas and Mr. Arthur Macdonald (Jack Meadows) are also well to the fore; Miss Violet Roberts is capably placed as Chrysea; Miss Mollie McIntyre is a decidedly pleasing Eileen Cavanagh; and the Mrs. Smith of Miss Gertrude Aylward is a capital study.

Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Gilbert; Manager, Mr. W. Alvar.—Excellent business continues here. The current bill includes Lydia Dreams in a clever "vento" sketch; Williams' Welsh Minstrels; and Carlos Menard. Glimpses of Bird Land and a fine story of the American Civil War are amongst the best of a capital pictorial display.

MACCLESFIELD.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. W. K. Gatley.—Mr. Morton Powell's company is here in From Mill Girl to Millionairess. Mr. D. Murry proves a capable exponent of Laurence Langdale; Dr. Lace Levallie is typically acted by Mr. Charles Vivian; Mr. J. A. Hybert submits a good rendering of Mathew Marsh; Mr. Gilbert Hall is equally successful as Dr. Bruce Cloud; Mr. Victor C. Vayne as Tommy Turnbull and Miss Lizzie Lennon as Tilly Tyndesly act with much humour; Miss Isla Garnett Vayne gave a talented and sympathetic performance as Lina Lee; Miss Hyda Moore portrayed Muriel Marsh with great effect; and Miss Alice N. Livesey's impersonation of Liz Lee is commendable.

MAESTEG.—Picture Palace.—Lessees, Poole's Theatres Co., Ltd.; Manager, Mr. F. G. Knowles.—Included in this week's programme are the following films: The Blind Child, The Poachers, A Millionaire's Adventure, and Paul. Varieties are given by Pappo and Ella, society gymnasts; and Howard and Wallace with a comedietta, Taming a Wife.

MAIDENHEAD.—Town Hall.—Secretary, The Town Clerk.—Messrs. Nicoll, Rivington, and Howard had a crowded house on Monday, when they played Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch. Miss Cecil E. Anson presents Mrs. Wiggs in a bright and captivating manner; Miss Muriel Locking emphasises the peculiarities of Miss Hazy, and Misses Edith Netting and Edith Tinniswood cleverly depict Mrs. Eichorn and Mrs. Schultz; Miss Clara Earle is good in the pathetic rôle of Lovey Mary; and Miss Constance Cammeyer is successful as Miss Lucy; Mr. Kenneth Rivington gives a good character study of Mr. Stubbins; and Mr. George Heward displays ability as Mr. Wiggs.

MAIDSTONE.—Palace.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Ewart C. Potter.—The Woman in the Case by Miss Florence Tyrrell's company has attracted good houses for three nights, and the remainder of the week was given up to Havana. In the first-named play Mr. Cecil Newton did good work as Julian Rolfe; and Mr. Harold Brennan excelled as Thomson; while Mr. Sidney Porter as Jimmy O'Neil and Mr. Charles Clark as Klauffsky were well suited; Mr. Gerald Alexander, the stage-manager, played Walters the Butler with credit; Miss Tyrrell made much of the part of Claire Forster; and Miss Mabel Ormande was good as Margaret Rolfe; while Miss Ethel Lodge caused amusement as Mrs. Hughes. As a curtain-raiser the one-act play, Barbara, was given.

MANCHESTER.—Theatre Royal.—Lessees, the United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edmondstone Shirra.—Full houses are attracted here by the appearance of Mr. Fred Terry and Miss Julia Neilson in Henry of Navarre and The Scarlet Pimpernel. The first-named play was given on Monday with tremendous success. Mr. Fred Terry's depiction of Henry de Bourbon was matched in charming detail by the Marguerite of Miss Julia Neilson, this being certainly one of her best impersonations. Strong parts also are Catherine de Medici, played by Miss Phyllis Manners with sinister power, the Guise of Mr. Philip Merivale, Mr. Malcolm Cherry's Charles IX., and the Marshal de Tavannes of Mr. J. Carter-Edwards; while Mr. H. H. Wright added an effective embodiment of Anjou. A praiseworthy piece of work was the Mouhy of Mr. Walter Edwin. Many curtains were demanded, and much enthusiasm was displayed by the audience. The Scarlet Pimpernel was set aside for Friday and Saturday matinée.

Prince's Theatre. — Proprietors, the United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Lee.—Mr. James Welch in When Knights were Bold is a sure draw anywhere if the requirement is food for laughter. So highly developed in this direction has the piece become, in fact, that people are now complaining that it makes them laugh too much. So, at least, is the state of things in Manchester. The old company in their old parts render the usual assistance, and all are very good. Millie's Mother precedes.

Royal Osborne Theatre. — Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Mason.—The King's Romance is doing good business here. It is written by Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds, who himself undertakes the heroic rôle of Prince Andreas, afterwards the King, with notable success. He is assisted charmingly and cleverly by Miss Haidée Gunn, who makes a very effective character of Vera Navairre, the girl who married the King. As her enemy, Michel Vacurat, Mr. John Dunbar makes his mark; and other interesting parts are well filled, the humorous ones being in the hands of Mr. George Toft and Miss Bella Power.

Metropole Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hearn.—Mr. Frank Bateman's company is here in The Way Women Love, which is making the circuit of local theatres. Friday and Saturday are devoted to Sapho.

Grand Junction Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Pearson.— Mr. Morton Powell's company is here in the popular drama Driving a Girl to Destruction. The cast is a strong one. As Ruth Wright Miss Marie Robson gives an excellent performance, which stands out equally with the fine delineation of Ruby Wright—the girl driven to destruction—by Miss Maud M. Powell. Mr. J. Edward Fletcher as the heroic Robert Ray is smart and manly, Mr. Walter Clark furnishing a contrast in the rascally doings of Lucas List. Miss Ana Corri as Mme. de Meral is also well in the picture, while light interest is provided by Miss Effie Mackintosh, Mr. Edward Swinton, and Mr. Arnold Allen.

Gaiety Theatre.—Proprietor, Miss A. E. F. Horniman; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edwin T. Heys.—Rostand's romantic comedy, The Fantasticks, opens the bill here. It is very tastefully rendered, but is by no means new to Gaiety audiences. More novel and attractive to the audience is Bernard Shaw's trifle, The Man of Destiny, not so much because of its Shavian quality, as that the cast contains, in the title-rôle, a veritable descendant of Napoleon, Mr. Juan Buonaparte, who looks like the Man, and whose acting ability is quite good enough to complete the illusion. Miss Edyth Goodall as the Lady plays finely in her exchanges with Napoleon; Mr. Esme Percy as the Lieutenant gives one of his best performances; and Mr. Edward Landor does all that is required as Giuseppe.

Queen's Theatre.—Manager, Mr. R. Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert Jones.—Mr. M. D. Waxman's Yiddish company is paying a return visit in a répertoire of interesting plays.

Palace.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. J. Carter.—A highly entertaining programme here includes Wee George Wood, the phenomenal juvenile artist, in his latest successes; Dr. Wilmar's spirit paintings, well described as the riddle of the century; Foreman and Fannan, the comedy millionaires; Hayman and Franklin, in their comedy act, A Matrimonial Agency; Cosgrove and Burns in The Singing Academy; Gwilym T. Evans, the South African tenor; the Five Havannas, comedy acrobats; Teresa de Silva, contralto; and Mabel Berra, American comedienne.

Queen's Park Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Meek.—Billy Watson and company in A Losing Winner are prominent here, while Florence and Rose Showell, duettists, also give a big turn, and Les Rallis create much amusement in the sketch The Artist and His Monkey. Other pleasing items are contributed by Philip Levard, illusionist; the Broadway Boys, singers and dancers; Alf Warner, swell comedian and instrumentalist; and Harry Luck, a smart comedian.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hall.—A capital programme here is headed by Courtice Pounds and company in Charles, His Friend, in which the well-known tenor acts and sings, and is admirably supported. The second place of honour is occupied by George Bastow, who is heartily welcomed, and whose songs, notably "Captain Ginjah," are much enjoyed. Laurence Barclay, the comedian, is another popular item; the Arthur Lloyd Trio go well in their playlet, Little Charlie; the Onetti Sisters are seen in a graceful and clever gymnastic act; Guyer and Valle make a hit in their comedy dancing sketch; and pleasing turns are added by the Durant Bros. in their comic speciality; Little Lily Shaw, juvenile comedienne; and the Sisters Allen, duettists and dancers.

Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Nelson Barry.—Harry Tate in his latest absurdity, Flying, is filling every house here. Willie Pantzer and company are seen to very great advantage in an acro-pantomimic sketch, The Limit, the whole performance being highly meritorious. Millie Hylton proves herself an exceedingly versatile comedienne, and is deservedly well received; Leslie Harris, at the piano with story, makes a big hit; the Sistars Doherty, original comediennes, are decidedly entertaining in song and dance; Udagawa and Kawamoura, Japanese actors, are followed with interest in a grim mimo-drama, Vengeance; Bugler Carr is seen in a unique balancing act of great merit; and Tom E. Hughes is a smart character comedian.

Tivoli.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—Victor Widdicombe, ably assisted, scores a success here in a comedy episode, Her Devonshire Dad. The Royal Italian Court Opera Trio give excerpts from grand opera in fine style, their singing being much above the average. Edith Harmer is a very charming vocal comedienne; the Three Grovini Sisters go through an astounding acrobatic, bending, and tumbling performance; Florence Wix, musical comedy artist, sings pleasing songs in nice style; Sadie Stanley is a smart male impersonator; Henrietta and Selina are accomplished vocal and musical entertainers; and Mark Hanbury is a capital comedian. Pictures complete.

King's, Longsight.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. James R. Trippett.—The well-known comedian Mr. Lawrence Brough and company are here with The Lady of Ostend. Highly successful are Mr. Brough and Mr. Alfred Hemming as Le Baron de Longueville and Joseph Carbury respectively; Miss Olga Esmé as Millie Grace, and Miss Beatrice Park as Dorothy Worths scored all along the line; and a big "hit" was made by Mr. Douglas Payne as the prize-fighter. Other parts were adequately filled, and the whole farce greatly enjoyed.

Hulme Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; General-Manager, Mr. H. Winstanley; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Dry.—Mr. Harry P. Selwyn's company in a sporting and dramatic episode, entitled A 30 to 1 Chance, is being played here with great success. The company—a strong one—includes Miss Mary Harrington, and Messrs. F. Deric Powell, Fred Monti, A. T. Lennard, Gerald Blake, Ben Jordan, and Young Sullivan. Horace Wheatley, genial as ever, sings, talks, and dances, and is well received; the Haytors give their popular turn; Seibo, a remarkably clever juggler, makes a hit; whilst others who provide enjoyable turns are Dixie Deo, comedienne; Tom Ellis, comedian; and the Dyotts, in a farcical episode, Only a Dummy. There are excellent pictures also.

Rusholme Pavilion. — Proprietor, Mr. Harry Leslie; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geo. Phillips.—The Cigarettes, an excellent combination of artists, under the direction of Mr. Ernest Crampton and Mr. Charles Hislop, are here this week, and include Miss Aimee Bebb, contralto; Miss Nellie Schrader, operatic vocalist; Miss Ida Stanley, accompanist; Mr. Leo Roy; Mr. Reginald Crowe; and Mr. Crampton himself, baritone.

Bijou Electric Theatre (Erskine-street, Hulme). —Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Thos. Morrison.—Grandfather's G

HIPPODROME.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. G. T. Smurthwaite.—In addition to an enjoyable show of pictures, which includes the Johnson-Jeffries Fight, Rowland Hill, a favourite comedian on Teeside, submits numbers which meet with much approval; and a turn given by J. P. Carroll, described as a military tambourinist, is also appreciated.

MORLEY.—ALEXANDRA PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Tom Diacoff; Manager, Mr. Arthur Izon.—Mme. De Rose, the lady Foli, is fulfilling a return engagement here, and fully upholds her previous reputation, ably assisted in duets by Hilda Claremont, a charming soprano. The approbation of the audience is most vociferous. Dancit, the queen of the golden clog, is a clever speciality dancer. J. H. Hawtrey, versatile comedian, also does well.

MOTHERWELL.—NEW CENTURY THEATRE.—Business-Manager, Mr. Ernest Wright.—Mr. Brandon Thomas's excellent company has been here for three nights in Charley's Aunt. Mr. Hugh Wakefield is funny in the extreme as Lord Fancourt Babberley, Chesney and Wykeham having excellent exponents in Messrs. Francis Drake and Robert Burnett. Mr. Theo McCausland Stewest acts and looks the retired Indian Army man to the life; Mr. Henry Hare is exceptionally good as Old Spettigue; and the Brasset of Mr. Sydney Compton is also commendable. Miss Audrey Stafford is charming and refined as the real Donna Lucia; and the three girls Kitty, Amy, and Hella find charming exponents in Mesdames Ruth Henton, Phyllis Black, and Janet Gillette.

NEATH.—Proprietor, Mr. Leon Vint; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Noice.—Mr. W. V. Garrod's excellent company is presenting A Country Girl in London. Miss Maud Merrick, in the title-rôle gives an admirable delineation; Mr. Fred Wilberforce submits a good reading of Mr. John Hamilton; Mr. Chas. Halling ably acquits himself as Frank Gordon; Mr. Scott Leighton, in the heavy character of Godfrey Clinton, is well placed; Mr. Frank is an amusing Henrich Oppenheim; Mr. Seymour Perry as Wilberforce Puddyphat and Miss Alice Clarke as his wife are a genial couple; Miss Elsie Marriot Watson is very popular as Gwendoline Gordon. The scenic effects are excellent.

PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Leon Vint; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Noice.—A good selection of pictures is presented, The Sisters Anderson are expert dancers and musicians, and the Herald Comedy Four are entertaining comedians, vocalists, and dancers.

NELSON.—PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Benson; Manager, Mr. J. S. Livesey.—An attractive bill is headed by Francini-Olloms and his pace in a clever variety entertainment, a feature of which is the performance of twenty-four somersaults by the former whilst playing a concertina; Ellen Sellars is a refined contralto singer; and attractive turns are supplied by Daisy Mayer, coon impersonator; Ruver's canine footballers; and Pollard Bros., in a novel sketch The Airship; or, The Stolen Plans; Dainty Vena Velma is a pretty dancer; and Mr. E. J. Sheldan a good comedian.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. W. C. Horner; Manager, Mr. Parker. Mr. R. Nightingale's company is presenting The Hindoo and the Maid here. Mr. Horace Buckley impersonates Chicke with considerable skill; Mr. Lauri Howard is an amusing Thistles; and the rôle of Mr. Stubbs is admirably sustained by Mr. Fred Watson; as Captain Hertage and Ernest Travers respectively Mr. H. Willis and Mr. J. Johnston are both clever, the latter scoring a big success with his 'cello solo; Miss Kitty Vernum makes a charming Primrose; and Miss Nell Ingram sustains the character of Eliza with distinct success.

NEW BRIGHTON.—WINTER GARDENS.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Jones and Douglass.—Crowded houses are the rule here, and Mr. Edward Terry and his London company have received a most enthusiastic welcome. The plays selected for the week are The Magistrate, Liberty Hall, Sweet Lavender, and for the second time out of London The Toymaker of Nuremberg.

TOWER.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. R. H. Davy.—Pictures and variety still continue in the theatre and give every satisfaction.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allandale.—The Pierrots are in evidence this week. The company includes Mr. Norman Osborne, Miss Emilie Tait, and others.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Resident-Manager, Mr. F. Teale Lingham.—The Grotesques are drawing crowded houses here; they are a versatile troupe, and prove themselves to be laughter-makers of an original character. "Some Impressions of a Ballad Concert" and "A Village Concert" are the two chief items, and are most diverting. The company include Miss Dorothy Doria, Miss Elsie English, Miss Kathleen Severn, and Mr. Cecil Cook, Mr. James Watts, Mr. Hugh Bayly, Mr. Harry Harmer, and Mr. Maurice Besly.

TYNE THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessees, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham, Manager, Mr. Fred Sutcliffe.—Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's company, in Under Two Flags, is creating a highly favourable impression on large audiences; Miss Agnes Verity's rendition of Cigarette is full of versatility and subtlety, and her impersonation is charming; Bertie Cecil Royellieu is graphically delineated by Mr. Wernham Ryott; and the Lord Royellieu of Mr. Charles Brooke is worthy of every credit; Mr. Wilfred Jessop gives a fine portrayal of Berklie; as Rake Mr. Harry Benson is highly amusing; Mr. Charles E. Johnson is well placed as Colonel Chaseauroy; and Mr. David Hawthorne is a vigorous Lord Rockingham. Miss O'Neill is a charming Princess Venetia; Countess Olga and Lady Beatrice Guinevere are ably portrayed by Miss Angela Stewart and Miss Madoline Gordon; Miss Tina Langlois, Mr. Lawrence Dew, Mr. J. O. Cuthbertson, and Mr. Arthur Redmond capably fill their respective parts.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. W. Rowe; Business-Manager, Mr. Edwin B. Clark.—Her Nameless Child is here. Arthur Ford finds an apt exponent in Mr. F. E. Noble, and Anthony Ford is in the capable hands of Mr. Arthur Keand; Mr. Leonard Aardale gives a vigorous rendition of the scheming Lord Henry Woodville, and the lesser villain Mongrole is admirably played by Mr. George Francis; Mr. L. Clements makes the most of his opportunities as Tona Rivers; Miss Dora Weber acts admirably as Lady Sybil Arundale; and the Phyllis of Miss Jean Wigney could not well be improved upon. This is the last week of the two-shows-a-night system here.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Manager, Mr. W. P. Wells; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. W. Kilgour.—Gertie Gitani is paying a welcome visit, and her new and entertaining songs are vociferously encored; Harry Randall, the popular comedian, was billed to appear, but is indisposed, and J. W. Rowley fills his place; the Jackson Family of trick cyclists are becoming more wonderful than ever; Harry Ford, the interrogative comedian, receives a warm reception; Roze and Calvert are highly amusing in their diverting sketch, Captain Kettle and His Mate; the Alex Picud company please by their absurdity; Elly Adair is a dainty little dancer and sweet singer; McConnell Trio are responsible for a musical comedietta, entitled The Invalid; Frank Couch, comedian, has some amusing patter; and the pictures wind up the entertainment.

PAVILION.—Proprietors. Newcastle-on-Tyne Pavilion, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Frank D. Todd.—Victor Niblo's talking birds are delighting the patrons of this popular hall; Peggy Lennie and Walter Hast act and sing well in their musical idyll, The Maid of Polaria; the Faludy Troupe are sensational acrobats; Ernie Myers scores with his amusing patter; Terry and Lambert are a clever comedy couple; Lilian French, is a smart mimic; Dalmere's performing animals show careful training; Stacey and Williams, comedians, patterers, and dancers; Lily Lonsdale, comedienne; and the pictures complete the programme.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. F. W. Bolam; General-Manager, Mr. R. G. Elder; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles E. Linney.—Some excellent films are being featured here, and the variety turns—Raglus, juggler, and Zena Hay, comedienne—obtain a flattering reception.

OLYMPIA.—Lessee, Mr. Sydney Bacon; Manager, Mr. Lindon Travers.—An excellent picture programme is being submitted here, and the huge auditorium is well filled nightly.

BRINKBURN PICTURE PALACE.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. T. McHary; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. T. Edminson.—Tiny Ashton, boy vocalist and impersonator, is here with a budget of good songs, which he renders in capital style. There is the usual picture programme.

NORTHAMPTON.—TEMPERANCE HALL.—Andrews' Pictures, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Frank Lyndon.—A Honeymoon for Three is an amusing wedding incident; The Purgation, Out of the Past, and Convict 796 are good dramatic subjects. Mr. Frank Power ably sings "I know in memory you'll recall me" and "And a little child shall lead them," illustrated with appropriate slides.

THE COUNTY ELECTRIC PAVILION.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. Lyle Edwards.—The Italian Lakes is a pretty travel series; The Firechief's Daughter, The Girl from Arizona, and Estralitta are replete with interest; and Desitution and Dreams is a good trick film.

PICTURE PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs. J. F. Bentley; General-Manager, Mr. J. W. Borrowman.—Some fine dramatic films include The Tongue of Scandal, A Child's Impulse, The Face at the Window, Grandfather's Gift, and The Poacher. Some good comic subjects are also provided.

NORTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.— Mr. Will Glaye's company is presenting No Mother to Guide Her here. Mr. Bernard Lieli submits a clever character-study of Felix Campbell; Mr. John S. Millward does well as the Rev. Tom Pelham; Mr. Frederick Biron capably delineates Bill Bunce; Mr. George Gormley scores as William Saxby; Mr. Will Glaze makes a capital Bob Coleman; and Mr. Charles Addison proves an interesting John Smart; as Julia Patterson Miss Georgette Thierry is seen to distinct advantage; Miss Betty Seymour makes the most of her opportunities as Nan; and Miss Roma Pendrous gives a good impersonation of Millicent Saxby.

CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. William Mould.—Gus Barra, eccentric musician, is the premier attraction, and is a big success; Madge Carew and Wynnie Russell, assisted by the Avril Juveniles, in The Little Gleaner, won well-merited applause; the Two Maros, triple-bar eccentrics, are exceptionally clever; La Belle Watson, in illustrated songs, is greatly appreciated; Mlle. le Barton, Continental performer, has a cordial welcome; and Jock Barrie, Scotch comedian and dancer, has made a great hit; the Sardines, vaudeville artists, go well; and the Palace Pictures conclude.

NORWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Manager, Mr. F. Morgan.—Messrs. Glenville and Elliston's company in The Wicked City is here this week. Mr. Harwood Cooper was most successful as Harold Vereker; Mr. Fellows Bassett was very good as Paul Desmond; Mr. G. Granville did well as Dr. Strangeways; Mr. J. H. Manbey well accounted for the part of Silas Sefton; and Mr. Clements was amusing as Charlie Chance; Miss Lorna Treherne excited much sympathy as Doris Grant; Miss F. Halton was admirable as Victoria McCleary; Miss Wallace was good as Cora Despard; and Miss Katie Norris was a merry Clementina Spikes.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. Councillor F. W. Fitt.—An excellent programme is presented this week. Frank Elliston and company heads the bill with a delightful masque, entitled Long Live the King, which is well rendered and well received; Barnard's Mannikins, in the coon's revelry, introducing their comedy rooster "Chantecler," are vastly amusing; George Brooks, in his old and new songs, pleases; Kenny Kay, ventriloquist, and his drummer boy Tommy, is successful; Ruby and Laws, in a smart comedy act, are well received; the Picquays exhibit some clever head and hand balancing; Elise Malpas, as child mimic and dancer, is good; while Lizzie Daniels, as a light comedienne, is pleasing; and the Hippo Pictures are interesting.

THE NEST, ROSARY ROAD.—Messrs. Goodman's Royal Pierrots, under the able management of Mr. Syd Goodman, continue successful here. Miss Effingham, Miss Cissie Scott, and Miss Delmore do pleasing turns; and Mr. Jack Bonny, Mr. Lawrence Howard, Mr. Leslie Sears, and Mr. Lockwood contribute to an excellent entertainment.

THORPE GARDENS.—Mr. Frank Lynne's Madcaps are still doing good business here. The company has been augmented by Miss Mabel Cameron, vocalist and dancer, and Mr. Alec Fraser, comedian, who are pleasing entertainers; Mr. Bert Gordon holds his position as a favourite; Miss Vi Huntly and Miss Dorothy Murray introduce new numbers; and Mr. Will Pitts, comedian; Mr. Harry Cove, vocalist; and Mr. Will Skidmore, comedian, are appreciated.

NOTTINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—Mr. Martin Harvey and company received a very warm welcome on Monday from a packed house. Richard III. was staged, and Mr. Harvey electrified the audience by his masterly assumption of the crafty, unscrupulous, and bloodthirsty monarch; Miss N. de Silva lent dignity and sympathy to the part of Lady Anne; Miss Sybil Walsh made an imposing Queen Elizabeth; and the two princes were capitally played by Misses Brenda Gibson and Ethel Patrick; Mr. Charles Glenny portrayed the scheming Duke of Buckingham with his accustomed artistic skill; Mr. Fred Wright, sen., made a natural and impulsive Stanley; and Mr. Philip Hewland supplied a vigorous interpretation of Richmond; Miss Bessie Elder (Page) and Mrs. Fred Wright (Duchess of York) gave admirable expositions; and other parts were ably filled by Messrs. P. Stone, Cowley Wright, C. George, Albert E. Raynor, and E. Stidwell. During the week were also staged The Only Way and A Cigarette Maker's Romance.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Harry J. Crane.—Messrs. Shirley and Landeck's new drama, Nick Carter, Detective, is having a rousing reception. Mr. J. Forbes Knowles plays the name part with power and intensity, earning well-merited applause; Mr. Raymond Thomas excites keen repugnance as Eustace Lee, and is capitally assisted by Mr. William Burgess as Crowley; Miss Helena Walbran gives a dramatic and sympathetic touch to her part as Madeline; while Nancy is energetically portrayed by Miss Nellie Waddington; Miss Nellie Shirley gains distinction as Stephanie; and Little Hilda Vokes makes an excellent Cyril Carter. A fund of humour is well exploited by Mr. H. C. Momber (Timmins), Miss Nellie Fern (Mrs. Timmins), Miss Nancy Lawrance (Bessie), and Mr. Will Ellythorne (Slade).

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert C. Duncan.—Enthusiasm was aroused on Monday last by Miss Ada Reeve, whose delightful turn was enjoyed to the fullest extent by packed houses; the Twelve Fezzans are wonderful acrobats; the golf skit by Minnie and Vesta Pine provokes hearty laughter; and the Mezzettis provide a skilful and humorous entertainment on the horizontal bars. Impersonations by Syd May are cleverly done; the singing of Edie Gray, to the accompaniment of dancing by two boys, is well received; and Sylvia Barry contributes an effective song-scena.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. F. Miller.—The Great Raymond's ability as an illusionist is shown in a number of smartly-executed tricks, that bring him well-merited approbation; Gene Morello keeps his audience in merry humour by a novel musical entertainment; the Three Gellins submit an expert acrobatic turn; Harrigan and Holt prove resourceful patterers; Little Sunbeam dances tastefully; Madge Osmond, male impersonator, Harry Cotton, comedian; Luella Cross, songstress; and Fanny and Harry Dent, in a burlesque act, all contribute to the general pleasure.

NUNEATON.—PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietors, Theatre and Entertainments Co.; Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. F. Brown.—The New Lady Bantock is being presented here by Mr. Horace Lingard's company. As Fanny Miss Beatrice Moreau's performance is delightfully attractive; Bennet is admirably portrayed by Mr. Horace Lingard; Mr. Edward Ray gives an excellent impersonation of Dr. Freemantle; Mr. E. Royson-Cousins ably depicts Lord Bantock; George Newte is well represented by Mr. Wilfred Compton; Miss Marie Saville and Miss Miriam Holt as the Misses Wetherell are entirely successful.

OLDHAM.—GRAND THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Kilrow.—Fred Karno's company is here in Perkins, M.P., and The Bailiff. Tom Nelson appears in the title-rôle, and is capitally supported by a good company. William Mollison and company, in The Touch of the Child, act in a manner which holds the audience enthralled; the Jaxon Family are smart in a musical turn, and prove delightful; Molly Maguire charms with her fine singing; Leon and Tee do well in a capital musical comedy act; and Thomas Bentley performs character sketches from Dickens with success; Cyclumina gives a capital cycle act; and Richardson Taylor, in his ventriloquial show, is clever; the Three Warringtons give a good equilibristic act; and Preston Holmes in a musical turn and Jack Straw (comedian) complete.

COLOSSEUM THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Wm. Eastwood.—Mr. Wilson Benge and company are here playing The Sinner. Mr. Benge as Monk Stretton acted exceedingly well; Miss Pauline Nanton was a sympathetic Vera Ewen; Miss Dora Mason as Nora Stretton was charming; Miss Dora Olga as Little Ned acted cleverly; Miss Mona Grey was forcible as Meg Stanton; Mr. Ben Carr played the part of Bill Stanton in a finished style; and Mr. Louis Lingard as Paule Levaine and Mr. Jay Kay as Chris Floppington were amusing; Mr. Chas. Digby as Lord Ewen and Mr. H. Hastings as Jack Ewen were good, as was Mr. S. P. Clewlow as Jim Stephens.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hulme.—Mr. Montague Beaudyn's company in Send Him Victorious is this week's attraction. Miss Lily Roselle as Countess von Mechlinberg and Mr. G. M. Montanini as Col. Henrich Kaufman do their work admirably; Mr. Edwin Turner makes a manly Capt. Allison; Miss Netta Mitchell is charming as Ethel Harding; and Miss Madge Palmer as Gretchen and Mr. Bert Woodin as Geordie are amusing; Mr. C. Russell does well as Sergt. Max; and Mr. H. Hardy is fine as the King.

ROYAL THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. Leach.—The Bellringer's Daughter is an excellent dramatic picture; The Gold Rose is a captivating love story; The Regatta on the Hekong is also interesting; Tilly the Tomboy is amusing; as is A Day in Mick's Life. Popular choruses are thrown on the screen, and Mr. Robert Leach contributes a capital song.

HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. L. King.—The Marked Time-Table is an interesting drama; and another capital film is The Wings of Love. The latest news in pictures is depicted by Pathé's Journal. The amusing portion of the bill includes Father Buys a Chimney-pot, The Amateur Grocer's Assistant, and others. Mr. King sings "Half a Moment."

OSBORNE HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. W. Hughes.—Stars and Stripes is a capital drama; Rent Day is a beautiful picture; The Customs Officer's Dog is another good dramatic; When Strength is Not a Blessing and A Terrible Secret are included among the comedy films. Mr. S. Whitehead is the vocalist.

BROWN'S ASSEMBLY.—Proprietor, Mr. W. Brown.—One Who Remembered is a thriller; Wings of Love is well depicted; Burglar's Misfortune is amusing. Other pictures are also shown, and selections are rendered by the Auxeto Grand.

OXFORD.—NEW THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. C. C. Dorrill; Assistant-Manager, Mr. G. T. Lucas.—Milton Bode's Varieties continue to attract large and highly delighted houses. Cecile Shannon scores heavily as ballad vocalist and comedienne; the Fimans are funny in their comedy sketch The Fire Station; Argo is wonderfully clever as an eccentric mimic; Vardon, Berry, and Wilber appear with much success in America's latest musical singing and dancing novelty; the Australian Bush Boys contribute an interesting turn in their scene An Australian Bush Camp; Austin Rudd fairly brings down the house with his comic songs and dancing; Briff, Braff, and Broff give a wonderful acrobatic display, the tumbling waiter "coming in" for a big reception; and the Premier Imperial Bioscope pictures bring to a conclusion a first-rate entertainment.

EAST OXFORD THEATRE.—Lessees, East Oxford Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Stuart.—Mr. W. Graham Arthurs and Co. are here with Every Inch a Man. The cast includes Mr. W. Graham Arthurs, as Daniel Barnet; Mr. Sidney Bayliss, as Dick Barnet; and Mr. Ralph A. Armfield, as Alderman Barnet. Miss Ada Band plays Teddy Edwards; Mr. Joe Barker portrays Ben Brown; Mr. Roland Davenport Billy White, and Mr. Arthur Jarvis is Marmaduke Poole Martin. Vera Maxwell finds an able exponent in Miss Marie Elliot; Miss Mollie Richardson does well as Martha; and Miss Mildred Eversleigh makes a good Mrs. Edwards.

PAISLEY.—PAISLEY THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile.—Miss Nora Carton's company is here this week with Temptation. Mr. Charles H. Mortimer as Sir Charles Tremaine gives a capital embodiment; Mr. Clifton Roystrell submits a powerful representation of Mr. Blight; and a clever enactment of Hubert Thorne is furnished by Mr. Norman A. Overton. Miss Nora Carton is to be complimented on her assumption of Hilda Dundonald, while the Irva Blight of Miss Lilla Wilde is admirably rendered; Mr. Frank Ayrton as Bob Saunders and Miss Madge Seymour in the dual rôle of Araminta and Emily are responsible for a great amount of mirth and fun. Mr. George Wallace as Stephen Rowe, Mr. Claremont Gaskell as Jacob Single, Mr. H. O. White as the Tramp, Mr. William Berson as Detective Holmes, and Mr. John Melville as P.C. Runhimin are all good; and Miss Anna Beaumont as Mrs. Oxen and Miss Kathleen Cranston as Agnes Rowe acquit themselves in creditable style.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jack R. Bostock.—Harry Lamore heads the bill here this week, and gives a grotesque entertainment; Big Jock Sinclair and Wee Gracie Whiteford, musical comedy duo, provide an excellent turn as musicians and vocalists, &c.; the Delafiores score heavily; Mlle. Haydeo's miniature theatre is greatly appreciated; David Poole, ventriloquist, is accorded a good reception; as comedy artists and dancers Cline and Clark are pleasing; Moon and Morris, comedians and dancers, are successful; Maud Esmond is a popular chorus songstress; and the Hippodrome Bioscope concludes.

PENTRE.—TIVOLI.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Will Stone; Resident-Manager, Mr. James Gunn.—The films include Lieut. Rose, R.N., Victim of Fate, and The Child and the Fiddler. Mr. George Hedges plays several pianoforte selections, which are much enjoyed.

WORKMEN'S HALL.—Manager, Mr. H. Salway.—A capital picture programme is supplemented by Mahatma, the Queen of Second Sight, and Robert Grieve, the ventriloquist in kilts.

PENZANCE.—ST. JOHN'S HALL.—Mr. Joseph Poole's Myriorama and vaudeville company opened here on Monday evening for the second week before a crowded house, who fully appreciated the excellent entertainment presented. Johnson and De Vere, in the wire and cycle performance, were exceedingly clever, and the film of the Funeral of the late King Edward was particularly good. Mr. J. Wolseley Poole is the general-manager and Director.

PERTH.—PERTH THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Saville; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. Aldridge.—Miss Ada Wallis and her company are here in The Major, a laughable musical absurdity. Miss Wallis, who is a host in herself, is ably supported by Mr. J. W. Groves, Mr. T. C. McQuire, Mr. Emlyn Davis, Mr. Arthur Douglas, Miss Ethel Tooney, and Miss Mercia Davis. A special word of praise is due to The Chanteclere Girls, an exceptionally smart trio of dancers.

PETERBOROUGH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. A. Darville Vernon.—Mr. G. W. Bowes' company is here with The Sign of the Cross. Mr. Leonard Yorke portrays Marcus with marked ability; Mr. Aubrey Fitzmaurice is a praiseworthy Nero; Mr. Duncan Gilmour gives a good impersonation of Licinius; Mr. Donald McAdam makes a capital Glabrio and Mr. G. Osmond Tearle is good as Tigellinus; Miss Pearl Gardner is an excellent Mercia; Miss Effie Dane supplies a finished exposition of Stephanus; Miss Daisy Towers as the Empress is all that could be desired; and the remaining parts are ably filled.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Karno; Manager, Mr. Percy Hart.—The Six Brothers Luck appear with distinct success in The Demon of the Cellar and Liftem's, Ltd., and evoke many a hearty laugh; Fred S. Howard, artist entertainer, is well received; Madge Bryce, comedienne, gains applause; the Rallis-Wilson Trio, acrobatic ragmen, are immensely entertaining; Sylveve and Florence provide a smart equilibristic display; Harry Knox is a popular comedian; Ida Kathrina sings acceptable songs; and Johnny Danvers scores heavily in his latest successes.

PLYMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee.—After a successful amateur production, The Pigeon House was presented for the first time professionally at Plymouth on Monday. The piece is written and composed by the Earl of Yarmouth, and has already been described at length in our columns. The author undertakes the rôle of Victor de Meneval, and proves himself an accomplished vocalist and actor; Mr. Ivan Berlyn is well placed as the lynx-eyed little lawyer, Paul Bouchard, and proves his ability as a comedian; Major Fallieres receives correct interpretation at the hands of Mr. Ernest Arundel, his mellow tenor voice being admirably suited in the numbers allocated to the part; and Mr. Haddon Cave as the Vicomte de Chantecler scores with a song dealing with the exhibition; as Leontine de Meneval, Miss Iris Hoey is both winsome and captivating, her "Cigarette" song being one of the most popular numbers of the piece; Miss Jane Eyre makes an attractive widow as Madame Verret; and Miss Violet Dere as Aglaia is responsible for some graceful dancing.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. Jack Field.—An exciting naval spectacle, entitled The Voice of the Empire, is the principal attraction, and receives unstinted applause; the principals are Mr. Hy. Baggo and Mr. Ray Raymond; the Twelve Daytons perform some wonderful feats acrobatic and otherwise; Wood, Wells, and Wilkins are genuinely amusing in their sketch entitled The Piano Tuner; the Four Royal Scots provide an accomplished musical turn; Cash and Clair perform some attractive eccentric dancing; Fred Dunstone is a popular comedian; and Beatrice Allen a vivacious comedienne.

PONTEFRACT.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee, Mr. George Tankard.—Athelda, the lady athlete, is an expert weight-lifter; the Two Romers present a military vocal scena, Comrades in Arms; Mr. Wally Bishop and company appear in an American dramatic episode, Pedlar Sam; Tom Lenton is a good character comedian; Wheatley, a clever ventriloquist; and Pat O'Connor keeps the house in roars of laughter with his Irish witticisms; Nellie Lenton is a pleasing comedienne and dancer; and the Brothers Almo are smart triple bar performers. The Alexscope show some excellent films.

PONTYPRIDD.—ROYAL CLARENCE.—Sole Owners, Messrs. Trenchard and Jones; Manager, Mr. Charles Trenchard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Willie Trenchard.—Mr. Will Casey and Co. are presenting An Unwedded Wife, and good houses are being attracted.

PORTH.—PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. W. Smithson; Manager, Mr. J. W. Bynorth.—Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's company is here in The Power of the King. Mr. Chas. Whitlock makes a truly regal King of Vallombrosa; Arthur St. John as Prince Oscar makes a hit; Mr. Clavering Craig as Captain Rupert Landgrave gives a faithful reproduction of "the people's friend"; Miss Isa Lydon makes a capable Lady Florina; and Rosa, a woman of the people, is capitally undertaken by Miss Alice Madell. Miss Marie Franklyn gives a clever impersonation of Lady Annatasia. The production is well staged.

PORTSMOUTH.—ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur A. Horner.—The Earl and the Girl, presented by J. Bannister Howard's principal company, is the attraction here. Mr. Edward Lewis as the dog-trainer, Jim Cheese, was chief funmaker; Mr. Herbert St. John creditably impersonated Dick Wargrave; Miss Lily Gullick was a captivating Elphin Haye; Liza was in the capable hands of Miss Lina Hicks; and the strong lady, Mrs. Black, was well played by Miss Edith Bland.

PRINCE'S.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Agate.—For Wife and Kingdom is being played here this week. Miss Hettie Zillwood makes a charming Duchess Marie, and is well supported by Mr. Reginald Fox as Captain Max Lupeck. The scheming Baron Breslaw is in the capable hands of Mr. Albert Guyon, and the part of Camille is well taken by Miss Margaret Frame.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Harris.—The usual vaudeville entertainment this week gives way to grand opera, and the Moody-Manners opera company are on their first week's visit, regaling musical patrons successively with Tannhauser, Samson and Delilah, Faust, Il Trovatore, Lohengrin, and The Bohemian Girl. On Tuesday evening Saint-Saëns's Samson and Delilah attracted a large audience, whose approval was manifested by the recall of the principals at the termination of the acts. Samson was splendidly rendered by Mr. Albert Bowner both vocally and histrionically; Delilah was finely acted by Miss Helen Culver, who realised with much ability the sensuous, bewitching Philistine beauty; Mr. William Farmer's powerful voice was heard to advantage as the High Priest of Dagon; Mr. Harry Brindle was impressive as the aged Hebrew; and Mr. Graham Marr did well in the small part of Abimelech. A powerful, well-balanced chorus and orchestra of some thirty instrumentalists did justice to Mr. Harrison Frewin's expert conductorship, and Mr. J. MacCabe was in charge for the company.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Captain E. H Warren-Wright; Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—Fred Moule and company present the exciting sketch Gretna Green. The Francoli Troupe create amusement as the "Billposters." Dan Thomas delights in his original creation, Play up, Pompey. The Carney Bros. score as vocal comedians. The other turns that please include Marjorie Lawrence, dansense; James Brady, comedian; Mayme Cannon, comedienne; and Beatrice McHadda, instrumentalist.

KING'S.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. I. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Claude Marner.—Merian's Canine Actors, introduced by Miss Lottie Passport-Merian, gave a wonderful exhibition of trained intelligence; the Schafer Four display skill with horns, cornets, &c.; a return visit by Fred Conquest and company in the sketch Something for Nothing amuses greatly; De Bière shows himself to be an expert and rapid conjurer and illusionist; Chas. Vincent's medley of popular songs is enthusiastically applauded; Louise Zeitlin is a cultured vocalist; a clever acrobatic entertainment is provided by the Five Olracs; an enjoyable musical item is presented by the Toilers, two Lancashire singing pit-brow lasses; and Jennie Gastelle is a diverting comedienne.

GOSPORT THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. C. W. Collings. Harry Hardy, in his grotesque Dutch act, and Marie Lea, character comedienne, give appreciative turns here. There are some capital pictures, which include How Championships are Won, &c., On the Wings of Love, and Nick Winter's Smart Methods.

SHAFTESBURY HALL.—General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Cole.—A capital selection of films is being shown this week, including The Special Agent, Sammy as Equilibrist, A Difficult Capture, and Midnight Cupid.

FRATTON ELECTRIC THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. H. Clarke.—As the pièce-de-résistance we have an exciting episode entitled Stars and Stripes. The Test, the Wrong Floor, The Antarctic Expedition, and Equal to Emergency are other entertaining films screened.

PRESTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, the Executors of the late Mr. W. Johnson; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Alban-Newton.—"House full" is the order here during the always-welcome visit of the D'Oyly Carte répertoire company, and the whole of the dress circle and stalls were booked for the week. On Monday a crowded house gave an enthusiastic reception to the company in The Mikado. Mr. Leicester Tunks in the title-rôle was heard to great advantage, and had a good reception; Mr. Herbert Henry was a pleasing Nanki-Poo, and sang his solos with excellent expression; Koko in the hands of Mr. Henry A. Lytton, convulsed the house with laughter; Mr. Fred Billington's entrance was the signal for vociferous applause, and his portrayal of Poo Bah proved a finished piece of acting. Mr. Sidney Granville was excellent as Pish Tush, as was also Mr. Frank Deawater as Go To. Miss Marjorie Stone as Yum Yum sang delightfully, and as Pitti Sing and Peep Bo Misses Beatrice Boarer and Myfanwy Newell were successful. Miss Louie Rene was a dramatic Katisha, and her excellent contralto voice was heard to great advantage. The chorus is one of the finest heard here for a long time. During the week H.M.S. Pinafore, Trial by Jury, the Gondoliers, Iolanthe, and The Yeomen of the Guard are in the bill.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank E. Burdett.—Morny Cash, the Lancashire lad, tops the bill, and his quaint style is much appreciated. Another great favourite is J. W. Hall. Edie Veno, eccentric comedienne, is inimitable; Otto and Olga have a capital musical comedy act; Sydney Brandon, character portrayer, gives a novel monologue entitled The Tramp; the Four Miovakys, acrobatic musical eccentrics, are decidedly clever; Adeline Yohle and company, including James Kurry, in a musical interlude entitled Difficulties, cause much laughter. Away out West on the Bioscope concludes.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Page; General-Manageress, Mrs. M. M. Clarkson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chas. E. Clarkson.—Tom H. Taylor's company in A Criminal's Bride is drawing good audiences. Mr. Frank Robertson is an excellent Sir Harry Felstead; Mr. Grayson Bancroft is well suited with the part of David Loseby; Mr. Annesley Hely as Austin Deepdale gives a capital portrayal of the unprincipled "crook". Miss M. Hackett as Jenny Jenkins is excellent; Miss Emmie Barton proves herself a good actress in the part of Lavender Loseby; Miss Ella Wilmer gives a clever portrayal of Tessa Grinella; and Miss Maud Tremaine as Kitty Felstead and Miss Lilah Petty as Bellamy acquit themselves creditably. The mounting is excellent.

RADCLIFFE.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Testo Santé; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jas. Boothman.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stuart's company is drawing good houses with My Irish Molly. Mr. Karl Edwards as Billy is very effective; Mr. Gordon Robey is satisfactory as Captain Vere; Mr. Kenyon Grey is a typical Father McGuire; and Mr. St. John Medley is seen to advantage as Dennis; Miss May Warden is fine as Molly; Miss Emma C. Turner as a stately and dignified Lady Blanche; and Miss Rosie Kearns does good work as Sally. The staging is admirable.

RAMSGATE.—ROYAL VICTORIA THEATRE AND PAVILION.—Lessee, Mr. T. R. Price; Entertainments-Manager, Mr. C. G. Price.—The Little Damozel was produced here for the first three evenings of the week, with a matinée on Wednesday, by Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's company. Miss Emelie Polini was splendid as Julie Alardy, the little Damozel; and Mr. Alick Chumley scored heavily as Recklaw Poole. Mr. Guy Newall did admirable work as the Hon. Fitzroy Lock; attractions are the Palace Pierrots, the Skating Rink, and the Troupe of Swimmers.

SEACOMBE.—King's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Kiernan.—Mr. George Edwardes's Co. in The Merry Widow is here this week. Miss Mary Ridley is a delightful exponent of the title-rôle; Mr. H. Sinclair Cotter as Baron Popoff is a big success; Mr. Ronald Pomeroy does clever work as Vicomte Camille de Jolidon; and Mr. Harry Emeric is effective as Nisch. Marquis de Cascade, M. de St. Brioche, and General Novakovitch are all capitally handled by Messrs. Tom H. David, Spencer Lloyd, and Cecil Warwick respectively. Mr. Robert Needham succeeds admirably as Prince Danilo, and Miss Mabel Hope gives a clever rendering of Natalie. Mr. C. L. Steward as M. Khadja and Miss Neste Laurel as Frou-Frou are good in their respective parts. The quintette of girls from Maxim's do their work well, as also does Miss Dorothy Arliss as Olga, Miss Alice Humphreys as Sylvanie, and Miss Nan Ainslie as Prascovia.

SHEERNESS.—Hippodrome.—Lessee, Mr. B. Pareezer; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Willerby.—Mr. T. Edward Ward's company is this week presenting His Real Wife. Mr. Albert Sember is a dignified Martin Avondale; Herbert Barton is effectively played by Mr. Clifford Rean; Mr. Frank Lyndon capably interprets the rôle of General Barton; Mr. Herbert Vere makes the most of the part of Randal Meredith; Mr. Charles Yorke cleverly portrays the ex-convict Colombe, his partner in crime, Alf Snickers, having an able exponent in Mr. Harwood Roberts; Miss Ward plays with fervour and pathos as Rose Avondale; and as Lady Sybil Miss Kate Walford submits an excellent portrayal.

SHEFFIELD. — Lycium Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—On Monday Mr. H. P. Towers presented for the first time in Sheffield the delightful and amusing comedy The Best People, which met with a cordial reception. The reappearance of that old favourite Mr. Henry Renouf gave a spice of affectionate interest to a careful and well-considered all-round performance, which was further improved by the artistic mise-en-scène. The curtain-raiser was a clever little episode of real life in Mr. Pett-Ridge's characteristic vein of London humour and pathos, Some Showers, which was naturally acted by Miss Sylvia Dawson and Mr. Edward Nimmo.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. Henfrey-Aldred.—Facing the World Alone is here this week. The heroine is represented in a graceful and emotional manner by Miss Ethel Van Praagh, who is well supported by a competent company.

Alexandra Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. C. M. Ramsay.—Another Melville drama, The Beggar Girl's Wedding, began a return visit on Monday. Mr. Norman B. Cannon appeared successfully as the smart young hero, Jack Cunningham, and Bessie, the beggar girl, is charmingly impersonated by Miss Muriel Dean. Other characters are well played by Miss Sybil Hare, Miss Daisy Meynard, Miss E. Walter, Miss Linda Riley, Mrs. Wilson, and Messrs. Charles Barclay, Fred Hodson, Frank McClellan, George Vernon, David Cartwright, William T. Riley, Wilford Bailey, Ellis Carlyle, Herbert Goddard, C. Brown, B. Elton, H. H. Stewart, and Miss Linda Riley.

Empire Palace.—The Moss' Empires Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar.—A good all-star programme was submitted to a full house on Monday, the pièce-de-résistance being the serio-comic sketch The Fool of the Force, in which Mr. George Carney distinguished himself by his comedy impersonation of P.C. Mudd. A coster episode, Jim's Pal, was capitally acted by Shirley and Ransom, who were loudly recalled. The well-staged illusions of the famous "Indian Fakir," Fasola, were enthusiastically applauded. Mr. Will Evans kept the audience in roars with his drolleries. The New Macs did well, and talented performers were Miss Lena Verdi, mimic; the Diamond Minstrel Trio; the Three Laurels, acrobats; Miss Marie Brayman, an attractive serio-comic; and Mr. Harry Marte, dancer. The Bioscope, with Doncaster Races films, concluded.

The Hippodrome, Ltd.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Frank Poole.—A good array of talent is billed this week, including Miss Diana Hope and company in The Altar of Duty; Mason and Bait, comedy gymnasts; Analys and Fredo, sensational handbalancers, &c.; Mr. Herbert Clifton, the newsboy vocalist; Miss Mary Law, a skilful violin soloist; the Four Burnells in a pantomimic act; Miss Hilda Light, a clever danseuse; Mr. Tod Lowen, comic; Mr. Harold Heath, coon singer; the Hassan Trio, wire-walkers; and Barclay Gammon, entertainer at the piano. The Bioscope concludes with St. Leger pictures.

The Picture Palace, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. Arnold Shaw.—A beautiful series of pictures, Carmen, acted by artists of the Odéon Theatre, are the principal Bioscope attractions, supplemented by comic and topical films.

SMETHWICK. — Royal.—Proprietor, Mr. C. Barnard; Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson.—Messrs. Travis Green and Arthur Hinton bring a strong and well-balanced company with His Indian Wife. In the title-part, Miss Leila Zillwood gives a meritorious performance; Mr. Arthur Hinton is strong and impressive as Hubert Ainsworth; the treachery of Wolfsfang is vividly depicted by Mr. Graham Winsford; Mr. Travis Green as the faithful redskin Lone Star is excellent, and well deserved the applause accorded him; White Eagle is well represented by Mr. Gerald Byrne; Mr. G. Moreton Williams plays admirably throughout as Sir Walter Kingsley; Little Lennie is naturally and amusingly represented by Master Max Gumpert; the comic relief is chiefly supplied by Mr. Tod Squires as Billy Twiggle, ably assisted in the fun making by Miss Nellie Richmond as an alert and astute French maid, and by Miss Stella Beck as a negress; the authoress, Miss Emma Litchfield, imparts conviction to the unsympathetic rôle of Lady Grace Kingsley; and Mr. J. D. Hennesy plays effectively a mad medicine man.

Empire, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. B. Kennedy; Secretary, Mr. W. H. Adams.—This building, of which a description appeared in our last issue, was opened on Monday under the patronage of the Mayor and members of the Council and a crowded house. Madame Constance Bellamy sang sweetly "Asthore"; Miss Maud Rowland is a capable chorus singer; Mr. T. E. Johnson is an actor-vocalist of no mean ability; Crossley is a clever acrobatic-table performer; Mr. E. W. Selman, a versatile vocalist, is very droll; Miss Ivy Gillard is a comedienne of considerable ability; Messrs. Herman and Evelyn, Continental wire walkers, were heartily applauded; Mr. Dan Pedley, comedian, delighted the audiences with his songs and dances. A number of pleasing items were shown on the Bioscope.

SOUTH SHIELDS. — Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. John Coulson.—The Midnight Wedding is being played to good houses by Messrs. Paumier and Howard's company. Mr. Alfred Paumier gives a fine portrayal of the heroic swordmaster, Paul Valmar; Mr. E. Winnington Barnes is good as Captain Rudolf von Scarsbruck; and the same may be said of Mr. Dalziel Heron as the Crown Prince Leopold. Miss Lilian Hallows displays histrionic talent as Princess Astrea; and Miss Madge Raper makes a good Rozel. Sergeant Max, Corporal Otto, and Private Bobo are all capitally played by Messrs. Fred H. Constable, St. George Frere, and Algie Spalding, who, together with Miss Phyllis Hume as Kathie, are responsible for the humour of the play.

Empire Palace Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ernest Bridgen.—The premier turn is Frances Letty, character comedienne, introducing "The Grandee's Pavilion," assisted by Mr. James Sutton, pianist, Little Tommy Shanley, and Miss Leonie Brewer. She sings and dances in good style, and is accorded an enthusiastic welcome. Harry Nelson is an old favourite here, and is well received; a good musical entertainment is contributed by Cavallotti Bros., who play on several instruments, and score a success; Lily Burnand renews her popularity. Other good turns are Bert Harrow, comedian; Rosa Loader, merry musical mimic; and the Bioscope.

Grand Electric Theatre.—Manager, Mr. Will Clark. — Rozel, the Monarch of the Air, is the attraction, and does some wonderful feats; the animated pictures continue to delight large audiences.

(Continued on page 29.)

The Norddeutscher Lloyd Co. is making special arrangements for theatrical parties at reduced rates for passages to Australia, and offers exceptional opportunities to theatrical managers taking companies out to the Antipodes.

"THE WAY OUT."

A Play in One Act, by J. B. Hothersall, Produced for the First Time at the Royal Court Theatre, Wigan, on Wednesday, Aug. 31.

Robert Hood .....Mr. John McNally
Patrick McGeagh .....Mr. Harry Daly
Earl of Dalmuir .....Mr. J. W. Tuttle
Countess of Dalmuir .....Miss Nellie Stott

(from our own correspondent.)

The incident depicted by the above playlet occurs during the Matabele Rising of 1896. Hood and McGeagh, a sergeant and trooper respectively, are discovered in a lonely settler's house in Rhodesia. They are waiting for a flooded river in front of them to subside. The rebellious natives are close on their heels, and there seems to be small hope of their escaping death. This leads Hood to tell McGeagh, in a few words, how he, an ex-cavalry officer, when on active service, had been jilted by the girl to whom he was engaged, and how she had married, in his absence, a brother officer who had played the coward's part by staying at home when the regiment was ordered abroad. As he finishes speaking a hail is heard outside, and the Earl of Dalmuir and his wife enter. They have also been forced to seek shelter from the natives, Dalmuir being in Rhodesia on a mission from the Government. Then ways and means of escape are discussed. One man must necessarily be left behind to hold the house—which covers the flood of the river—and so keep the natives in check and give the others a chance of getting away. McGeagh volunteers, but Hood will not allow him, although Dalmuir, in a cowardly manner, urges this arrangement. Finally Hood and Dalmuir toss, the loser to stay behind. Hood wins. Then Dalmuir loses all control of himself, and at last forces his wife to beg—as Hood's lover—for his (Dalmuir's) life. Hood, after some hesitation, consents to remain himself, provided that he is allowed a final interview alone with Lady Dalmuir. An affecting scene follows between Hood and the Countess, the latter telling how she was forced into marriage by her people. She determines to stay behind with Hood, but Hood will not hear of it. The sound of firing is heard and McGeagh enters with the news that the natives are on top of them. McGeagh forcibly takes Lady Dalmuir away, and the curtain falls with Hood defending the house; a final picture showing him lying dead.

It is a striking little play. The twenty minutes occupied by its presentation is brimful of incident and excitement. Played as it is by Messrs. Hothersall and Gardiner's company, it ought to achieve a distinct measure of success. Mr. John McNally is a manly Robert Hood, and hits the right note; Mr. J. W. Tuttle makes an excellent foil to him in the part of the Earl of Dalmuir; and as the impulsive McGeagh Mr. Harry Daly is appreciated; Miss Nellie Stott makes a decided impression by her rendering of the rôle of the hapless Countess.

PORTSMOUTH LICENSING.

At a recent meeting of the Watch Committee of the Portsmouth Town Council, held at the Town Hall, Mr. G. W. Ash, T.C., presiding, licenses for the performance of stage plays were renewed to Mr. J. W. Boughton for the Theatre Royal, the Prince's Theatre, and the King's Theatre, and to Mr. A. F. Lalande for the South Parade Pier.

With regard to the licence of the Hippodrome, Mr. G. H. King applied for its renewal to the manager, Mr. G. Harris, and also asked, as last year, for the removal of the restriction prohibiting them from selling intoxicating drinks in the house. They wanted, he said, to be placed on an equal footing with other places of amusement in the borough.

Mr. G. W. Corbin, T.C., remarked that the Hippodrome management promised to never apply for a drink licence. Mr. King said that they applied for a licence for a year only, and were then prepared to be restricted. Alderman Scott Foster observed that the Magistrates made certain conditions in granting the singing and dancing licence, and it would not look very nice for the Committee to go against them. Mr. King replied that they were in honour bound to go to the Magistrates and ask them to remove their restrictions. Alderman Scott Foster reiterated that it would be flying in the face of the Magistrates to remove the restriction. Mr. King said that they would not sell drink under any circumstances until the magisterial restrictions were withdrawn. Alderman T. E. Fulljames asked how many times during last year did the Hippodrome play legitimate drama pieces licensed by the Lord Chamberlain. Mr. King said he was informed that a dramatic piece, pantomime, or sketch, was played nearly every week.

Mr. F. G. Foster, T.C., asked if the class of patrons of the Hippodrome had changed. His reason for asking that was that on a previous occasion they were told that the Hippodrome had a better class of patrons than other places, because they had not got a drink licence, and if that was so it would be a pity to alter the class. A definite undertaking was given when the first application was made that they would not ask for a drink licence.

Mr. Walter de Frece, managing-director of the Hippodrome Co., pointed out that the conditions had entirely changed, as at that time the King's was playing dramatic pieces, and was not giving a variety entertainment.

Alderman Scott Foster said that if the Committee granted the application it would not be necessary for them to apply for a singing and dancing licence, but Mr. King replied that they would be prepared to give an undertaking that they would go before the Magistrates. The licence was renewed, but the Committee declined to remove the restriction as to the sale of drinks.

"Baby Mine," a farce in three acts, by Margaret Mayo, has made a big hit at Daly's Theatre, New York. The critics have pronounced it one of the funniest farces New York has ever seen. Cleverly acted by Mr. Ernest Glendinning, Miss Marguerite Clark, Mr. Walter Jones, Miss Ivy Troutman, and several others, the piece provokes great laughter. It is booked for a long run at Daly's, New York, and is likely to be numbered among the farces whose popularity is perennial.

Alfred Hardy and his wife, a very young couple, quarrel and part in the first act. After three months' absence the wife begins to pine for her husband, and sets her wits to work to bring him back. Aggie Jinks, Zoe Hardy's bosom friend, suggests that she send a wire to her absent spouse informing him that she has a baby, and offers to hire one for the purpose. A baby is secured, but there is some delay, and the expectant husband arrives on the scene only to be told that the baby is "out." The youngster has hardly been brought in when everyone is thrown into a panic by a message from its real mother demanding her child back at once. Jimmie Jinks, who has to bear the brunt of the trouble in keeping up the deception, rushes off to secure another infant, and brings one in before the first one has been restored to its mother. Consequently, when the happy father looks in the cot there are two! Furthermore, as a result of the complications which arise from the borrowing and returning of sundry infants, he soon has triplets on his hands. These complications are cleverly devised, and the final explanations are made in a plausible manner.

"Theatrical Accounts for Business Managers." How the affairs of a theatre can be most efficiently controlled by the adoption of systems of internal check. By Cuthbert E. Smedley, A.C.A. Price 3s. 6d., post free 3s. 9d. Address: The Publisher, "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

MR. E. P. MORGAN.

Our earliest recollection of Mr. E. P. Morgan was when he toured the provinces as acting-manager with Joseph Eldred's Light Opera Companies, the Criterion Comedies, Miss Kate Santley's La Mascotte and The Merry Duchess, Olivette, La Cigale, &c., not forgetting J. F. Elliston's big tour of New Babylon and other favourites of a few years ago. Mr. Morgan was then secured by Mr. George Edwardes as manager for the principal first tours of The Geisha, A Greek Slave, The Circus Girl, and San Toy. Having remained with Mr. Edwardes for seven years, Mr. Morgan left to accept an offer from Mr. Sidney Jones to present My Lady Molly in the big provincial towns and cities, and afterwards at Terry's Theatre, London. After the run at Terry's Mr. Morgan drifted into vaudeville, accepting a tempting offer from Messrs. Moss and Stoll, and his services were retained for the opening of the New Hippodrome, Manchester.

[Photo by Guttenburg.

MR. E. P. MORGAN.

Few managers ever had a stiffer task than he did as manager of the great house in Oxford-street—now known far and wide as the Manchester Hippodrome. He was practically hemmed in by competing houses of entertainment which had had established reputations for years. Within a distance of about 250 yards from the Hippodrome—at the farthest—Mr. Morgan had four theatres and four variety houses to compete with. But he never once mentioned the word "competitors." Indeed, he seemed unconscious of any competition at all. He knew he had a bill of amusements every day that could not be excelled; that the bill of fare was served up under the most comfortable conditions, and at prices known as "popular."

To carry through without ever a hitch such a complex business as that of the Manchester Hippodrome argues the possession by the manager of organising skill and method of the first order. The necessary knowledge for the successful management of a great variety house of entertainment like the Hippodrome could only be gained by long and varied experience.

Although only contracting for two years, Mr. Morgan remained with the firm for five years, during which period he gained a perfect insight into variety business and the inner working, methods, and systems of the big vaudeville syndicates. He holds a unique letter (of which he is very proud) from the Chief Constable of Manchester (Mr. Wm. Peacock) expressing regret at his departure from the city, and emphasising the fact that not one single complaint had been lodged with the police during his 4½ years' management of the place. Mr. Morgan (who is now in London) remarked at this office last week that things seemed quiet and that offers were not "pouring in," but we feel convinced that with such a record it will not be long before his services are secured by some far-seeing proprietor, and that, as they say in the vernacular, he has "clicked." We have not the slightest misgiving as to his ability to manage successfully any variety house or theatre in the kingdom.

MR. KINSEY PEILE.

Mr. Kinsey Peile was born in India, where his father, General Peile, was in the Royal Engineers, and held many important appointments. His brother, Colonel Peile, is at present commanding the Military Police in Burmah, a force of about 60,000 men. Mr. Kinsey Peile himself was in the Army—first in the Royal West Surrey Regiment of militia, from which he passed into the 2nd Battalion of the Welsh Regiment. When he left the service he joined the Post Office Rifles, the Honorary Colonel of which corps for many years was the Duke of Teck.

[Photo by Lafayette.

MR. KINSEY PEILE.

Mr. Kinsey Peile made his first appearance on the stage in Blue-Eyed Susan, at the Prince of Wales's Theatre, playing the small part of the White Admiral. Afterwards he joined the St. James's Theatre company, and played in The Masqueraders, The Triumph of the Philistines, Lane in The Importance of Being Earnest, and Hickson in Liberty Hall, of which a command performance was given at Balmoral before her late Majesty Queen Victoria.

Leaving the stage for a time, Mr. Kinsey Peile took to writing, his work including The Belle of Cairo, in which Miss May Yohe appeared, produced at the Court Theatre with considerable success; Solomon's Twins, which Mr. George Giddens produced at a special matinée at the Vaudeville; The Interrupted Honeymoon, produced by Miss Granville with success at the Old Avenue; and Lyre and Lancet, which he wrote with Mr. F. Anstey, at the Royalty. Perhaps he is best known by his adaptation of The Man Who Was, Rudyard Kipling's story, which was produced by Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree with great success at His Majesty's Theatre. The first performance was in aid of the Charing Cross Hospital, and was honoured by the presence of their Majesties the King and Queen and the Prince and Princess of Wales. Sir Herbert Tree also produced another adaptation, The Door Upon the Latch, the story of which is by Robert Louis Stevenson. Mr. Kinsey Peile has also written a play for Miss Ethel Irving, which may possibly see the footlights before long, and he has one or two other plays, which may be produced in the near future.

Mr. Kinsey Peile returned to the stage last year, when he played Blenkinsop in Mrs. Dot, by Mr. Somerset Maugham. Miss May Palfrey toured the play for six months with considerable success. Latterly he played the part of Henry Greville in Dame Nature at Terry's Theatre with Miss Ethel Irving.

MISS GRACE HARLINGTON.

Miss Grace Harlington's first recollection of the stage was at the early age of five, and on that occasion she so disgraced herself that it was doubtful if ever she would be allowed to act again. She was playing George in Frou-Frou, and her two aunts were sitting in the stalls witnessing the performance. During a pathetic portion of the play George cried out, much to the amusement of the audience, "There's my aunties"! Her next engagement was under Mr. Walter Bentley's management, playing children's parts in Shakespearean répertoire. This was followed by a succession of engagements, principal among which were under the late Mr. Andrew Melville at the Standard, creating his children's parts, her mother, Miss Violet Temple, being his leading lady.

After a tour with Mr. Graham Falcon in True as Steel and in her mother's company in Jane Shore, Miss Harlington returned to school until the age of sixteen. From that time she has played such parts as Laura North in Luck of Life, Ela in Charley's Aunt, Carrie in When London Sleeps, and Marie in Grip of Iron. Two years were then spent under Mr. W. S. Penley, during which Miss Harlington played Ela, and leads in The Confederates and The Boer Meisje. At the end of this engagement Miss Harlington was offered the same part at the Great Queen-street Theatre, but was secured to play Lulu in Somebody's Sweetheart. Immediately following this came Laura in Driven from Home, various stock seasons, Bob in The Shadow of Night, Betty in The Convict's Daughter, and Mary in At Duty's Call. It was during this engagement that she received two offers, one from South Africa from Mr. Leonard Rayne, the other from Mr. Frank Bertram to play Mrs. Martin Harvey's part in The Breed of the Treshams. Miss Harlington decided on the latter, which proved a wise choice, as she played Batty for over a year. Mr. T. E. Ward next engaged her for a tour of Second to None, which brings her list of engagements up to recent date. It is Miss Harlington's proud boast that she has played as many parts and had as wide a range as any young actress.

MISS GRACE HARLINGTON.

That young and enterprising theatre manager, Mr. Arthur Hardy, with whom is associated Sir A. Conan Doyle, is touring several companies in the provinces, and has more than one play now running in London. Last week at Cardiff Mr. Hardy gave a gorgeous production of The House of Temperley; this week he is presenting Mrs. Russ Whytal, in a quintuple bill.

"I am beginning the experiment at Cardiff this week," said Mr. Hardy, "and then we go to London. Why have I chosen Cardiff? Well, it is of easy access from London; it is a first-class theatre-town; and it is the Welsh Metropolis. Moreover, the New Theatre is exceptional in many ways. It has an ample stage, and holds a good-sized audience. I have brought Mrs. Russ Whytal, an actress of great reputation in America, who while engaged with Sir H. B. Tree in leading parts has added to her reputation.

"I am to test public taste," Mr. Hardy went on. "I am presenting five plays each night! It has never been done before. The authors of the plays include Sir A. Conan Doyle, Mr. F. Anstey, of Brass Bottle fame, and Alphonse Daudet, translated by Mr. Fred Pemberton. The experiment may be daring; but there it is. I shall see what Cardiff critics think of it. There will, at least, be variety, for the plays range from tragedy to comedy. If the experiment succeeds it will be developed. If it fails, well——. But I don't think it will fail; for it is meant to conform with the spirit of the age."

A Copy of "The Era" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

SHAKESPEARE'S WOMEN.

I have said enough, I think, about Shakespeare's earliest attempts at picturing women (writes Mr. Frank Harris in The English Review, in a series of articles in which he is developing his theory that Shakespeare suffered from a harassing passion for a certain Mistress Fitton). No great master has ever done worse. In spite of his rich sensual endowment and his incomparable gift of speech his first sketches were as bad as bad could be. To say nothing of the atrocious Joan of Arc, it is difficult to understand how a great man at twenty-six or twenty-seven years of age could have been content with a mere fiend like Tamora or a typical lay figure like Queen Margaret, and the talkative princess and her maidens in Love's Labour's Lost, and the innumerable duchesses and great ladies of the early historical plays are all just as wooden, mere marionettes.

The portrait of his jealous, scolding wife as Adriana is the first sketch which has any individual life in it. His unhappy marriage overshadows much of his early work. We have traced it in Suffolk's wooing of Margaret in the First Part of King Henry VI.; it dominates the whole of The Comedy of Errors; it inspires the great scene between Richard and Anne in Richard III; it supplies the theme of The Taming of the Shrew, and explains the otherwise inexplicable tirade in that play against those wives who are not the mere slavish instruments of their husbands' pleasure. Even the servility of Katharina and the submission of Anne did not satisfy Shakespeare. He will now show us in play after play how girls run after men. I cannot help thinking that the taming of women and the triumphing over them on the one hand and these pictures of girl after girl pursuing the hero with dog-like devotion on the other were not only a balm to his wounded vanity, but were also probably a result of young Shakespeare's conquests of women in those early years in London.

His success in every field had been astounding. He had come to the Bankside, at twenty-two or twenty-three years of age, an unknown country youth, and in five or six years he had made himself the first poet of his time and the master of the theatre. He was not only sensuous, good-looking, and sweet-mannered, but he had about him the halo of supreme genius; he had a good deal of money, too, and could invite ladies to the theatre to see his plays. Love must have been offered to him on every side, and the little soreness of the ancient wound which still twitched in him made him eager to dwell on his triumphs, and accordingly he pictures them for us in the Midsummer Night's Dream, in The Two Gentlemen of Verona, and in the first sketch of All's Well that Ends Well.

His life with his wife had hurt and angered him, but had not educated: rage and bitterness are poor schoolmasters. His happy pride and self-satisfaction during the early years in London were not more formative: he did not grow much, or learn much through contentment: happiness produces nothing but memories. It was well for Shakespeare and for us that his intense conceit came to a fall. Late in 1596 or early in 1597 he met for the first time the woman who was to change the world for him. We can tell in his works the very moment he saw her. As soon as he met her he tried to paint her, and at once began to abandon the lay figures which he had hitherto mistaken for heroines. From this time on his spiritual growth is astounding—a continuous flame-like effort reaching up from height to height. There is nothing in literature so instructive and few things so interesting as the extraordinary growth and development of Shakespeare's soul in the madding fever of passion.

The Midsummer Night's Dream, I imagine, dates from 1594; I like to think of it as written when Shakespeare was just thirty years of age. The play has a romantic individuality of its own. It is a charming fairy tale, and the hand of the dramatist begins to show itself in the portraits of the women. At first, it is true, they are not differentiated as they will be later. In the early scenes Hermia might be Helena, and Helena, Hermia; for they are both desperately in love, and that is about all we know of them. Hermia is happy in Lysander's affection, while Helena grieves because Demetrius scorns her; but these are differences of circumstances and not of character. Hermia begins to talk of her modesty and virginity, as all Shakespeare's girl heroines are inclined to talk, in contempt of probability; Helena, too, tells Demetrius of Hermia's flight with Lysander, and so brings about a meeting between the man she loves and her rival, in defiance of human nature; in all this there is no hint of character-drawing.

But when Hermia and Helena quarrel in the second scene of the third act they are for the moment clearly differenced, and curiously enough Shakespeare tries to distinguish between the two girls by contrasting their figures and tempers. Hermia is shown to us as small, vehement, and plucky, whilst Helena is tall, gentle, and faint-hearted.

"Hel. I pray you, though you mock me, gentlemen,
Let her not hurt me: I was never curst;
I have no gift at all in shrewishness;
I am a right maid for my cowardice:
Let her not strike me. You perhaps may think,
Because she is something lower than myself,
That I can match her. . . ."

A little later she again recurs to this difference and emphasises the same trait:

"Hel. O, when she's angry, she is keen and shrewd!
She was a vixen when she went to school,
But though she be but little, she is fierce."

This is about the only touch of character-drawing that can be found in the play. It is, however, sufficient for its purpose; the contrasted sketches are in perfect keeping with the charming foolery, and show us besides that Shakespeare is beginning to realise the necessity of painting women as individual beings. For a moment these two love-laden girls, Helena and Hermia, live for us—quarrelling, courting, and kissing—and then we lose sight of them down some green forest glade; for Titania is passing with her cowslip-pensioners in their golden coats, and we strain to catch a glimpse of Puck in the happy rout, while Bottom, the prince of mummers, roars like a lion, and the fairies flit across the moonlit spaces, hanging the flowers with pearls of dew.

N.D.L. IMPERIAL MAIL SERVICE TO AUSTRALIA.

REDUCED FARES.

SPECIAL ARRANGEMENTS FOR THEATRICAL PARTIES.

	First Class. Single.	Return.	Second Class. Single.	Return.
From Southampton	£60	£90	£35	£52 10s.
From Genoa	£56	£84	£33	£49 10s.

(plus 10 per cent. surtax.)

AUTUMN DEPARTURES.

Twin-screw.	Tons.	From Southampton.	From Genoa.
BREMEN	11,570	Oct. 3	Oct. 11
ZIETEN	8,066	Oct. 31	Nov. 8
GNEISENAU	8,081	Nov. 28	Dec. 6
BARBAROSSA	10,915	Dec. 26	Jan. 3
GROSSER KURFURST	13,102	Jan. 23	Jan. 31

Large state rooms and cabins for single passengers.

Apply to Keller, Wallis, and Co., 26 and 27, Cockspur-street, S.W., 2, King William-street, E.C., and at Manchester and Southampton, or to the Norddeutscher Lloyd Paris Office, 2, Rue Scribe.

THE NEW WIMBLEDON THEATRE.

The differences between the Corporation of Wimbledon and Mr. J. B. Mulholland, the proprietor and manager of the new theatre, which is rapidly nearing completion, and is situated at the junction of Merton-road and Russell-road, South Wimbledon, over the former granting a licence for the performance of stage plays, has not yet been got over. The question was again before the Corporation at its monthly meeting held on Wednesday night, and in the absence of an assurance from Mr. Mulholland to pay one-third (£50) of the cost of extending a high-pressure water main to the building, so that there may be a sufficient supply of water in the event of a fire occurring in the top of the theatre, upon terms set forth in the minutes of the General Purposes Committee, the Corporation refused to grant the licence.

These minutes showed that at a special meeting of the Committee the Town Clerk (Mr. A. Steele Sheldon) reported that the Council, at a meeting held on Aug. 3, 1910, ordered that the meeting be held to consider the rules to be annexed to the licence proposed to be granted to Mr. J. B. Mulholland for the performance of stage plays in the theatre now being erected in Merton-road, and stated that Mr. Mulholland had been invited to attend. He then read the correspondence which had passed between Mr. Mulholland and himself and reported the results of interviews between the chairman of the Watch Committee (Councillor Allen), the superintendent of the fire brigade, Mr. Mulholland, and himself, respecting the rules to be annexed to the licence. Mr. Mulholland thereupon appeared before the Committee, and, after discussion, the draft rules were considered seriatim. The committee also discussed with Mr. Mulholland the supply of water for fire purposes to the theatre, and the arrangements for the lighting thereof. It was resolved (a) That the question of granting a licence to Mr. Mulholland be further considered at the next meeting of the committee; and (b) that Alderman Porter and Councillor Stuart, with the Town Clerk and the superintendent of the fire brigade, be requested to have an interview at an early date with the engineer of the southern district of the Metropolitan Water Board and ascertain whether an adequate supply of water for fire purposes can be given to the proposed theatre from the Board's 7in. main in Merton-road, and what information has been furnished to Mr. Mulholland as to the water supply available.

At the ordinary monthly meeting of the Committee, which was held on the 31st ult., the Town Clerk reported (a) that, as requested, Alderman Porter and Councillor Stuart, with the superintendent of the fire brigade and himself, had interviewed the assistant engineer of the southern district of the Metropolitan Water Board with reference to the water supply available at the theatre, and had inquired whether an adequate supply of water for fire purposes could be given to the theatre from the Board's 7in. main in Merton-road, and what information had been furnished to Mr. Mulholland as to the water supply, and submitted a letter from the Metropolitan Water Board, in which it was stated that the main nearest to the theatre in which a pressure of water is available sufficient to afford an adequate supply for fire purposes at the building is situated in South Park-road, and from this an extension of the main would be necessary; (b) that the Mayor had received a letter, dated Aug. 9, 1910, from Mr. Mulholland, respecting his interview with the Committee on the 8th inst., and stating that he assumed his application for a stage play licence for his theatre would be heard publicly, "in accordance with the invariable custom and more especially of the London County Council"; (c) that he had sent to Mr. Mulholland draft of the licence, rules, and bond, as altered after discussion between him and this Committee on the 8th inst.; (d) that a copy of such licence, rules, and bond had also been forwarded to each member of this Committee; and (e) that a letter, dated Aug. 25, 1910, had been received from Mr. Mulholland, respecting the draft rules, stating as follows, namely:—

Rule 14. There was an addition to this agreed giving two inches for the purpose of draught exclusion, which you have not inserted.

Rule 16. The seating area to each person and spacing in the different parts of the house are shown upon the approved plans, and I object to any deviation from such areas and spacing as approved.

Resolved—(i) That Mr. Mulholland be informed (a) that the words "more than two inches" will be inserted after the word "trail" in Rule 14; and (b) that Rule 16 will be deleted and that the following rule will be inserted, namely:—

The seating accommodation of the theatre shall be as follows, namely:—In the stalls, not exceeding 356 persons; in the pit, not exceeding 660 persons; in the boxes, not exceeding 62 persons; in the circle, not exceeding 530 persons; in the gallery, not exceeding 974 persons. In all cases there must be a space of at least one foot between the front of one seat and the back of the next, measured between perpendiculars";

(ii) that a copy of the letter, dated Aug. 9, 1910, received from the Metropolitan Water Board, be sent to Mr. Mulholland, and that he be informed that this committee are satisfied that a proper supply of water for fire purposes at his theatre cannot be obtained unless the high-pressure main is extended from South Park-road to Russell-road, and that if he will contribute £50 towards the cost of the extension, the Council will pay the balance, the Board's estimate of the total cost being £150; (iii) that, subject to the before-mentioned contribution of £50 being made by Mr. Mulholland, the Council be recommended to grant a licence to Mr. John Brennan Mulholland, of "Millbrook," Upper Richmond-road, Putney, S.W., to keep open the building known as the Theatre Royal, Merton-road, Wimbledon, for the public performance of stage plays for the space of twelve calendar months from the 1st day of October, 1910; (iv) that the following Rules be annexed to such licence, namely:—

(i) The theatre shall be closed on Sundays, Christmas Day, and Good Friday, and on every day appointed for a public fast or thanksgiving.

(ii) Authorised officers of the Council, police officers when in uniform, or other constables when not in uniform if known as such to the manager or his servants, and firemen in uniform shall be permitted to have free ingress to the theatre at all times.

(iii) No person in a state of intoxication shall be permitted to enter or continue within the theatre.

(iv) The manager shall to the best of his ability maintain and keep good order and decent behaviour in the theatre during the hours of performance.

(v) No profanity or impropriety of language, dress, dance, or gesture, or offensive personalities or representations of living persons shall be permitted on the stage, or anything calculated to produce riot or breach of the peace.

(vi) No spirits, liquors, wine, ale, beer, porter, cyder, or perry shall be sold or consumed in the theatre except in the refreshment rooms thereof, and only to the audience and company engaged in the theatre when the same is open for performance.

(vii) All doors and barriers must open outwards.

(viii) The public must be allowed to leave the theatre by all exit and entrance doors. All doors used for purposes of exit must during the time the public are in the theatre be secured by automatic bolts only of a pattern and in a position to be approved by the Council.

(ix) All doors or openings used by the public for purposes of exit must be indicated by notices clearly painted to the satisfaction of the Council in not less than 5-inch letters. Such notices must be painted over such doors or openings at a height of at least seven feet above the floor.

(x) All exit doors except the front entrance doors must have a notice clearly painted on them indicating the method of opening them.

(xi) Each exit door from the auditorium and stage must have a distinct light fitted over it, such light to illuminate the exit notice and to be maintained during the whole time the public are in the theatre.

(xii) All gangways, passages, and staircases intended for the exit of the audience must be kept entirely free from chairs or any other obstructions, whether permanent or temporary.

(xiii) Persons must not be permitted to stand or sit in any of the intersecting gangways, and if standing be permitted by the manager in the gangways at the sides and rear of the seating, sufficient room must be left for persons to pass easily to and fro.

(xiv) All curtains covering doors or in passages must be hung so as not to trail more than two inches on the ground.

(xv) All check boxes must be fixed and placed in such positions that they will not obstruct exit.

(xvi) The seating accommodation of the theatre shall be as follows, namely: in the stalls, not exceeding 356 persons; in the pit, not exceeding 660 persons; in the boxes, not exceeding 62 persons; in the circle, not exceeding 530 persons; in the gallery, not exceeding 974 persons. In all cases there must be a space of at least one foot between the front of one seat and the back of the next, measured between perpendiculars.

(xvii) All gas pipes and fittings must be made of iron or brass.

(xviii) All fixed and ordinary gas burners on or about the stage must be furnished with efficient guards; moveable and occasional lights must be protected in the same manner, and be in charge of persons responsible for lighting, watching, and extinguishing them.

(xix) All gas burners within reach of the public must be protected by glass or wire globes.

(xx) Additional means of lighting the theatre in the event of the gas or electric light being extinguished must be provided for the auditorium, corridors, passages, exits, and staircases, by a sufficient number of oil or candle lamps, of a pattern to be approved by the Council, properly secured to an uninflammable base and placed in wire cages, and, if possible, out of reach of the public. This shall not apply where there is (a) complete installation of both gas and electric light; or (b) two complete systems of electric lighting from separate generating stations; or (c) two complete systems from one generating station, if specially approved by the Council for the purposes of these regulations. In cases (b) and (c), the exit notices must be provided with independent means of lighting or with lights on both systems.

All lamps or lights on both systems in the staircases, corridors, passages, and exits (including the exit notices) must be kept alight during the whole time the public are in the theatre.

No mineral oils must be used in oil lamps.

(xxi) Blankets or rugs, and buckets filled with water, must be always kept on the stage and in the flies, scene docks and passages immediately approaching the dressing-rooms, ready for instant use, and attention must be directed to them by placards legibly printed or painted and fixed immediately above them.

Some person must be held responsible by the management for keeping the blankets or rugs and fire appliances ready for immediate use.

(xxii) Scenery knives, hooks, ladders, and other appliances for taking down hanging scenery in case of fire, where such scenery is in use, must be always kept in readiness in the flies for immediate use.

(xxiii) Information of any outbreak of fire in the theatre, however slight, must be at once communicated to the Superintendent of the Wimbledon Fire Brigade, Central Fire Station, Wimbledon.

(xxiv) The corridors must not be used as cloak-rooms, and no pegs for hanging hats and cloaks must be allowed therein.

(xxv) No decoration, or construction for the purpose of decoration, must be employed in dressing-rooms which does not adhere without any cavities to the surface of the wall.

(xxvi) All open fireplaces or stoves must be protected by sufficient guards and fenders.

(xxvii) Permanent counter weights, where possible, must be carried to the walls of the buildings, and cased in. The ropes attached to them must be constantly tested.

(xxviii) A fire resisting safety-curtain shall be provided for the proscenium opening, and must be lowered at least once about the middle of each performance in the presence of the audience, so as to ensure it being in proper working order. Such arrangements must be made for pouring water upon the surface of the curtain which is towards the stage as may be approved by the Council.

(xxix) The words "safety curtain" must be exhibited on the safety curtain in sufficiently large letters to allow of them being read from all parts of the theatre.

(xxx) Whenever the curtain is lowered, the auditorium must be immediately and sufficiently lighted.

(xxxi) No wires, &c., in connection with gymnastic or other displays, or any other apparatus, must be allowed to interfere in any way with the lowering of the safety curtain.

(xxxii) All scenery, wings, sky borders, cloths, draperies, gauze cloths, floral decorations, properties, hangings, curtains, &c., on the stage must be rendered and maintained non-inflammable.

(xxxiii) At every performance where scenery is used at least one fireman must be on duty in the theatre during the entertainment. The responsibility as regards the employment of a fireman or firemen must rest with the management.

(xxxiv) Druggets or crumb cloths, where used, must be secured so as not to be in any way liable to rucking, or to be in any way a source of danger to members of the audience.

(xxxv) Smoking by members of the orchestra or others must be strictly prohibited within the stage risk, except in the band room and dressing rooms, and except so far as may be necessary on the stage in connection with the performance.

(xxxvi) A sufficient number of employees must have definite duties allotted to them in the event of fire or panic, and statements of such duties must be posted up in conspicuous positions in the theatre. Dry fire drills must be held at least once a month in the theatre.

(xxxvii) Any electrical installation in the theatre, whether for lighting, heating, or power purposes, shall be approved by the Council. No alteration of or addition to the permanent installation shall be made without the consent of the Council first had and obtained.

(xxxviii) A properly qualified man must be in charge of the electrical installation.

(xxxix) At least one pair of indiarubber gloves for each switchboard installed must be provided for the use of the electricians in the event of high voltage occurring, and must be kept on each switchboard and in good order.

(xl) At least one leathern bucket, filled with dry sand, must be kept in an accessible position near to each switchboard in readiness for use in dealing with an electric fire.

(xli) All boilers, pipes, radiators, and other apparatus used for heating purposes must be insured with a recognised boiler insurance company, and inspected not less than once in every year. The certificate of the company's inspection or a duplicate thereof must be sent or produced to the Clerk of the Council within twenty-one days after each inspection.

(xlii) No dangerous performance of wild beasts must be permitted.

(xliii) No structural alteration must be made in the theatre without the previous sanction of the Council first had and obtained.

(xliv) The name of the responsible manager must appear on the programme of each performance.

(xlv) The lavatories and urinals in the theatre shall at all times be kept properly and effectually cleansed, ventilated, disinfected, and supplied with all proper requisites.

(xlvi) The manager is held solely and entirely responsible for the carrying out of the foregoing rules, for the management of the theatre before and behind the curtain, and for the safety of the public and the employees in the event of fire or panic.

(xlvii) Copies of the following rules shall be exhibited in conspicuous parts of the theatre, namely:—

(a) The public may leave the theatre at the end of the performance by all exit and entrance doors;

(b) All gangways, passages, and staircases must be kept entirely free from chairs or any other obstructions;

(c) Persons are not permitted to stand or sit in any of the intersecting gangways, and if standing be permitted by the manager in the gangways at the sides and rear of the seating, sufficient space must be left for persons to pass easily to and fro;

(d) The safety curtain must be lowered about the middle of the performance so as to ensure it being in proper working order.

(v) that Mr. Mulholland and the two sureties named by him be required to enter into a bond with the Council for the due observance of the foregoing rules; (vi) that, as the building proposed to be licensed is not yet finished, the licence be retained by the Council until the Borough Surveyor certifies that such building has been completed in accordance with the approved plans; and (vii) that Mr. Mulholland be informed that the Council are not prepared to depart from their usual practice and hear his application in public.

Prior to the second minute being submitted, the Town Clerk, at the request of the Mayor (Councillor J. M. Bathgate) read the minute of a meeting of the General Purposes Committee held before the Council sat. It showed that the correspondence which had passed between Mr. J. B. Mulholland and himself since the previous meeting of the Committee was submitted respecting the conditions upon which the Council was prepared to grant him a licence for the performance of stage plays in his theatre. After discussion it was resolved that in the absence of any promise by Mr. Mulholland to pay £50 towards the cost of extending the high pressure water main from South Park-road to Russell-road, the Mayor be requested not to submit for confirmation to the Council the paragraph and resolution in the minute of Aug. 31 last.

The Mayor moved the minutes with the exception of that relating to the granting of the licence.

Councillor D. Stuart seconded.

Councillor J. S. H. Abbott said he felt although there had been a certain amount——

The Mayor: Do you move an amendment?

Councillor Abbot: Yes. I move that we agree to pass the minute subject to the Town Clerk getting a proper undertaking from Mr. Mulholland to pay the £50 towards the expenses of extending the high pressure main. He felt from what he could gather from what took place at the meeting that there might be a misunderstanding on the part of Mr. Mulholland with regard to the Metropolitan Water Board, and that if there was, he was quite agreeable to pay the £50.

Councillor G. A. Duff seconded.

The Mayor pointed out that he could call a special meeting for the purpose of granting the licence when they got the necessary assurance from Mr. Mulholland.

Councillor Abbott: Can you call one within a week?

The Town Clerk: In three days' time.

Councillors Abbott and Duff then agreed to withdraw the amendment.

Alderman G. L. Apperson then moved the adoption of the minute the Clerk had read. He observed that none of them wished to hamper Mr. Mulholland in the slightest degree. They made that plain to him when they had his society at the Committee meeting. It was their duty as a public body to see that the people of Wimbledon were duly protected. That was the only thing they had to do with in the present controversy. Now there had been a half verbal understanding that if the high pressure main was carried to the point mentioned in the resolution the cost would be about £150, and that Mr. Mulholland would pay £50 and the Council £100. Mr. Mulholland did not give them a definite promise, and they had nothing in the way of writing from him in reply to the Clerk's letter saying the licence would be granted on the conditions set down. As soon as they had that assurance the Council would be called together and the licence would then be granted. The ordinary water supply was only sufficient to give the merest trickle at the top of the house; what they wanted to see was a sufficient volume to cope with a fire if it took place in that part. The Water Board had told the Council the present supply would not give that, and one of the Board's officers had said they would not think of joining the hydrants, for they knew the supply would not give anything like the quantity of water required in case of a fire. If Mr. Mulholland paid his share of the cost—one-third—which was a modest one, the Council would willingly pay the other two-thirds.

Councillor L. Allen seconded, and the minute was unanimously adopted.

At a subsequent stage of the meeting, the minutes of a meeting of the Electric Lighting Committee were submitted, and these showed that the borough electrical engineer (Mr. H. Tomlinson Lee) reported that he had informed Mr. J. B. Mulholland of the terms upon which the Council is willing to supply electrical energy to the theatre and other buildings now being erected by him, and submitted a letter, dated 25th Aug. last, from Mr. Mulholland, stating (a) that, being advised by his expert that the use of metal filament lamps would considerably reduce the consumption of current, he was not prepared to guarantee a minimum consumption of more than 20,000 units per annum; and (b) that a charge of 1d. per unit should be made for his day consumption. After discussion, it was resolved that Mr. J. B. Mulholland be informed (i) that the Council assent to the minimum consumption of 30,000 units per annum being reduced to 20,000 units per annum; (ii) that the Council cannot agree to charge 1d. per unit for day consumption for lighting purposes and 2½d. per unit during other hours, but they are willing to supply at the rate of 1d. per unit between 12 o'clock midnight and 6 p.m., and at the ordinary lighting rates between 6 p.m. and midnight, a minimum consumption of 5,000 units per quarter to be guaranteed; (iii) that the meters will be read monthly, and that accounts must be paid within fourteen days after delivery; and (iv) that, as an expenditure of about £540 in providing necessary apparatus will have to be incurred by the Council, and as such apparatus cannot be obtained and installed in less than about two months, he must decide at the earliest possible moment whether he intends to take a supply of electricity from the Council or not.

On the motion of Councillor D. Stuart, this minute was confirmed without comment.

Mr. J. B. Mulholland sends us the following copy of a letter which he has sent to the local papers at Wimbledon:—

[COPY.]

DEAR SIR,—I beg to enclose you herewith copy of a letter I addressed yesterday to the Mayor of Wimbledon, and I feel I can rely upon your courtesy and your sense of fairness to publish it.

A full reply to the mis-statements which have been publicly made would occupy many columns of your paper; but just now I have not the time nor have you, I am sure, the space. Therefore seeing that a public hearing is denied me, I must for the present content myself with this brief disclaimer.

Since writing the Mayor I have seen the minutes published at the Council meeting last night, and anything more amazing than the manner in which the portions relating to my licence have been manipulated it would be difficult to conceive. Extracts from my letters, torn from their context, are published; other letters and many essential facts are entirely suppressed: and the whole constitutes an ex parte presentation of the case of a most insidious and dangerous nature. The perverted cleverness of the whole thing is undeniable, but that such a travesty should be seriously put forward is a matter of much greater moment than the personal interest involved.—Yours faithfully,

J. B. MULHOLLAND.

King's Theatre, W., Sept. 8.

Mr. Mulholland has also addressed the following letter to the Mayor, Aldermen, and Councillors of the Borough of Wimbledon:—

[COPY.]

YOUR WORSHIP,—With regard to the stage-plays licence to my new theatre, to be dealt with at to-night's meeting of your Council, I wrote you on the 9th ult. that I, of course, assumed my application would be heard publicly, in accordance with the invariable custom.

Not receiving any reply, I wrote the Town Clerk on the 26th ult. to similar effect, pointing out that this was the custom of the London County Council, "so many of whose rules it is proposed to force upon me." On the 30th ult. the Town Clerk replied: "The Council does not hear applications for theatre licences publicly, as is done by the London County Council."

This intimation I received on the 31st ult., and, understanding there was a meeting of the General Purposes Committee that evening, I dispatched a telegram (reply paid) to the Town Clerk, as follows:—

"Received your letter. I respectfully suggest your Council should follow same procedure as Surrey County Council, which, I am informed, will not grant original stage-plays licence unless applicant appears. Applications, moreover, are heard publicly. Please reply."

In the afternoon of the following day (1st inst.) reply was received as under:—

"Committee decline to depart from their usual practice. Letter follows.—SHELDON."

This is well worth noting, seeing that "the usual practice" has been entirely departed from to my prejudice, in practically every other direction. Yet this usual practice is to be strictly adhered to to stop a public application. Thus the methods and delays of certain of your officials and the breaches of faith I have experienced escape publicity. I beg to protest.

I have, however, pointed out to you what is the usual practice in this respect of the London County Council. Seemingly, you are prepared to adopt their rules, but not their method of publicly hearing applications. I have also informed you of the usual practice of the Surrey County Council from whom your Council hold delegated powers in respect of the granting of stage-play licences.

I desire also to protest against your method of using my licence to coerce me to contribute towards the extension of a public water-main.

Having regard to all the circumstances, I beg to inform you that I reserve the right to take such steps as I may be advised in the whole matter.—I beg to remain, yours faithfully, (Signed) J. B. MULHOLLAND.

Sept. 7.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LAW.

BY A. A. STRONG, LL.B. (LOND.), SOLICITOR

We have just received the third edition of Mr. Albert A. Strong's book on Theatrical and Musical Law, which is published at The Era Office, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand. Since the second edition of this work was published—nine years—many changes have taken place in the laws relating to entertainments, and these have necessitated a considerable enlargement of the volume. Full texts of the recent Berlin Convention and the United States Copyright Law are included in this edition, in which is also published the awards governing the relations between artists, agents, and managers. A number of new cases are also cited illustrating the effects of the barring clause. The Musical Copyright Act, children on the stage, the sketch question, and the Workmen's Compensation Act are all fully dealt with and in a readable and easy style, as free as possible from legal phraseology and technicalities. It is a legal axiom that ignorance of the law is no excuse for breaking it, and, therefore, it behoves everyone connected with the entertainment world to make himself acquainted with the law as it stands in relation to the profession or business in which he may be engaged. To everyone connected with the Drama or Variety Mr. Strong's book is a necessity, and this last edition is so comprehensive that anyone who consults it can have no possible excuse for infringing the law on the ground of ignorance. The work will, no doubt, have a ready and rapid sale, for all artists, managers, and agents should have it at hand.—The Encore.

Price 5s., post free 5s. 4d. Published at The Era Offices, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

INFLUENCE OF THE AUDIENCE.

Théophile Gautier, who disliked the stage, perhaps because he had to earn his living as a theatrical critic, used to disparage the drama as lagging far behind fiction in that it never dealt with a new idea until long after this had been exploited in newspapers and in prose-fiction (says Mr. Brander Matthews in his "Study of the Drama"). Perhaps he would have found it difficult to prove his assertion; but it would be easy to give a good reason why there might be some warrant for it. It is because the drama must appeal to the people as a whole, and not merely to the more intelligent, the more cultivated, the more advanced. Until an idea has sunk into the popular consciousness, until it has been absorbed by the main body of a playwright's contemporaries, he can put it into a play only at his peril. What Wordsworth said of the poets is true especially of the dramatic poets—that they write under the restriction of hoping to give "immediate pleasure to a human being, possessed of that information which may be expected from him, not as a lawyer, a physician, a mariner, an astronomer, or a natural philosopher, but as a man." In other words, the dramatist has ever to find the greatest common denominator of the public as a whole, whereas the lyric poets and the novelists can, if they choose, narrow their appeal to a single caste or a single class. Here we can perceive the justice of the general feeling that partisan politics and sectarian religion are, both of them, totally out of place on the stage.

The theatre is a function of the crowd; and the work of the dramatist is conditioned by the audience to which he meant to present it. In the main, this influence is wholesome, for it tends to bring about a dealing with themes of universal interest. To some extent, it may be limiting and even harmful—but to what extent we cannot yet determine in our present ignorance of that psychology of the crowd which Le Bon has analysed so interestingly. We are only beginning to appreciate the fact that a group of men and women gathered together has a psychic unity of its own, a consciousness of itself as an entity, a soul which is not merely the sum total of the souls of the men and women present. No one has asserted this more sharply than Professor Hibben. He declared that a patent fallacy underlies the saying that "the whole equals the sum of the parts." Although the saying may be sound in mathematics it is false in sociology:

"In any group of men, in a clan, a tribe, a society, in church or in state, the whole is more than the sum of its parts. The parts may be seen, they may be counted. We find them in registers, in rosters, in tables of census statistics, and yet the communal spirit which makes for unity and solidarity is unseen. It is the esprit de corps, without which the body dies and returns to its elemental parts. And, within the still larger range which embraces the circle of mankind in general, the several parts are bound together as members one of another, because they are united in a common ancestry and a common destiny, a common weal or woe. The spirit of humanity makes all one."

Thus it is that, in the playhouse, every successive audience has an individuality of its own, differing collectively from other audiences, seeing the same performance in the same theatre in the same week. An afternoon audience, composed mostly of women, will take the points of a play in quite different fashion from an evening audience, in which there is a larger proportion of men. Humorous speeches and effects which bring hearty laughs at night will sometimes scarcely evoke even a condescending smile in the afternoon.

An audience is a crowd, and it has the special characteristics of any other crowd, of the spectators at athletic sports, of the participants in a camp-meeting of the delegates to a political convention. And it has also certain characteristics peculiar to itself, to the fact that it is gathered in a theatre, that it is composed of a group of playgoers. Every crowd consists of human beings who, when they are a part of the crowd, and in consequence of that fact, have each of them lost consciousness of certain of his individual mental characteristics. On the other hand, every one of them has acquired a keener consciousness of certain mental and emotional qualities which he has in common with the other members of the audience. M. Le Bon's doctrine has been neatly condensed into this series of statements:

"The mental qualities in which men differ from one another are the acquired qualities of intellect and character; but the qualities in which they are at one are the innate basic passions of the race. A crowd, therefore, is less intellectual and more emotional than the individuals that compose it. It is less reasonable, less judicious, less disinterested, more credulous, more primitive, more partisan; and, hence, a man, by the mere fact that he forms a part of an organised crowd, descends several rungs on the ladder of civilisation. Even the most cultured and intellectual of men, when he forms an atom of a crowd, loses consciousness of his acquired mental qualities and harks back to his primal nakedness of mind. The dramatist, therefore, because he writes for a crowd, writes for an uncivilised and uncultivated mind, a mind richly human, vehement in approbation, violent in disapproval, easily credulous, eagerly enthusiastic, boyishly heroic, and carelessly thinking."

And Mr. Clayton Hamilton, from whom this extract is quoted, added that "both in its sentiments and in its opinions, the crowd is hugely commonplace. It is incapable of original thought and of any but inherited emotion. It has no speculation in its eyes. What it feels was felt before the Flood; and what it thinks, its fathers thought before it. The most effective moments in the theatre are those that appeal to commonplace emotions—love of woman, love of home, love of country, love of right, anger, jealousy, revenge, ambition, lust, and treachery."

This is what underlies Victor Hugo's assertion in the preface of his "Ruy Blas," that there are three classes which go to the theatre—the "main body of spectators who demand action, women who desire emotion, and thinkers who look for character." In other words, story, plot, incident, is of primary importance in a play, since that is what is most pleasing to the largest number; and delicacy of character-delineation and veracity of psychology are only secondary. This truth was seized long ago by Aristotle; and it was as imperative in Athens then as it is now in Paris and in New York. It seems to explain the boast of the elder Dumas that all he required for success on the stage was "four boards, two actors, and a passion."

The audience in a theatre is first of all a crowd, with the characteristics it has in common with all crowds. But it is also a crowd of a special type, in that it has come together with the desire of recreation, of amusement, of pleasure. Its purpose is not serious, like the purpose of the camp-meeting or of the political convention. It is inclined to resent instruction or edification, since it feels that the theatre is not the fit place for either of these useful things. This is one reason why the chief dramatists have rarely attempted to preach or to assume the attitude of the instructor; they have been satisfied to present life as they saw it with their own eyes, to mirror one or another aspect of the infinite complexity of human existence, leaving the spectator free to draw his own moral from the picture.

"THEATRICAL ACCOUNTS FOR BUSINESS MANAGERS." By Cuthbert B. Smedley, A.C.A. Price 3s. 6d., post free 3s. 9d. Published by The Era, Limited, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

LONDON AND SUBURBAN THEATRES.

KINGSWAY THEATRE.

Signor C. de Macchi's Italian company gave an attractive performance of Auber's opera Fra Diavolo at the Kingsway Theatre on Wednesday evening before a large audience. Auber's tuneful music is always welcome, and, as Fra Diavolo is so seldom heard, the revival seemed quite a novelty. Signor Franco de Gregorio as Fra Diavolo sang and acted with great spirit, and made a dashing Marquis San Marco, which disguise the famous bandit takes in the opera, and his singing of the Serenade and Barcarole was a great advance on the artist's previous performance in Il Barbière on the opening night of the present season. As Zerlina Signorina Isabella de Frate won frequent applause, and her solo with the flute obbligato in the second act had a most hearty encore. It is a pity the quality of Signorina de Frate's voice is not equal to her fluent execution of the pretty music or her really bright and clever acting. After Zerlina's chief solo in the bedroom scene floral tributes were handed to the young artist, which seemed utterly absurd, as in the plot all the males of the house except the three bandits are supposed to be in bed and asleep; but the audience, of whom a large number were Italians, received this proceeding quite as a matter of course. Signor Gaetano Rebonato and Signor Luigi Lucente were excellent as Beppo and Giacomo, the two accomplices of Fra Diavolo, while their capital make-up, good comic business, and talented singing well deserved the constant applause and laughter, and the trio, in the first act, one of the best numbers of the opera, went extremely well. In the bedroom scene of the second act the fun and humour were largely owing to the efforts of these two clever artists. Signor F. Talamanca appeared as Lord Allcash, and, for an English traveller, seemed strangely fluent in his Italian. Signorina Enrichetta Sogno impersonated Lady Allcash successfully, although her voice was somewhat small for the music of her part. Mr. Charles Neville made a gallant Lorenzo, and the little part of Matteo was ably undertaken by Signor R. Amati. The scenery and costumes were effective. Signor C. de Macchi proved an energetic conductor, and the singing and acting of the chorus were excellent.

KING'S THEATRE, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, Sept. 5, the Comic Opera, by Guy Eden and Reginald Somerville, entitled

"THE MOUNTAINEERS."

Pierre	Mr. Fred Eastman
Fritz	Mr. Claud Flemming
Conrad	Mr. Edgar Marsden
Gustave	Mr. Frank Lawton
Sergeant Frederico	Mr. Leo Sheffield
Annette	Miss Ida Stratham
Miss Spinifex	Miss Aida Jenoure
Clarice	Miss Marie Dainton

The present revised version of The Mountaineers is altogether a vast improvement on the Savoy Theatre production, and, judging by its very favourable reception at the King's on Monday evening, there are prospects of a successful future. With a slight, but interesting, story, plenty of humour and mirth, tuneful melodies, and, above all, excellent acting and singing, what more can the most critical patron require? Monday night's audience appeared to be perfectly satisfied, and calls were numerous and enthusiastic. That excellent comedian Mr. Fred Eastman was very much to the fore as Pierre, the chief Custom House official. He caused loud peals of laughter by his "confiscatory" powers as head of the Custom House, and in every other way proved himself to be a genuine humorist. As Gustave, his assistant, Mr. Frank Lawton was amusing, and showed the audience that his whistling powers had not in any way diminished. Mr. Claude Flemming in the part of Fritz sang beautifully, and showed that he could act with ability. His rival, Conrad, was exceedingly well sustained by Mr. Edgar Marsden, whose fine appearance and excellent voice were of material assistance. Sergeant Frederico was dashingly performed by Mr. Leo Sheffield; Miss Marie Dainton made a huge success in the character of the wayward Clarice, her talented singing and dainty acting being greatly appreciated. The song of "The Eidelweiss" particularly earned her great applause. A performance of undoubted merit was that of Miss Ida Stratham, who as Annette, the village coquette, furnished a representation of bright and vivacious acting and able singing which quite captured the house. As Miss Spinifex, a spinster, Miss Aida Jenoure, who has been seen too little of late, made a conspicuous success, and the audience were by no means slow in giving her a hearty welcome. The chorus was one of the most efficient that has been gathered together, and met with hearty approval. The composer, Mr. Reginald Somerville, conducted the augmented orchestra, and the plaudits of the audience must have repaid him for his efforts. The costumes were most artistic, and the picturesque Swiss scenery met with universal approbation.

THE MARLBOROUGH.

The Carl Rosa Opera Company opened here on Monday with The Queen of Sheba. Mr. Arthur Winckworth gave a very fine and noble impersonation of King Solomon, and as the Queen Miss Doris Woodall sang and acted superbly. Miss Beatrice Miranda, with a good appearance and excellent voice, was very expressive as the Shulamite, and Miss Annie Van Dyck as Astaroth showed the advantage of sound vocal and musical training. Mr. Walter Wheatley was a picturesque Assad, and as the High Priest Mr. Alexander Richard was thoroughly effective. Mr. George Reid scored highly as Baal-Hanan. Miss Annie Elliott danced artistically in the banqueting scene. Mr. Eugene Goossens conducted with his usual ability, and the piece was extremely well mounted. On Tuesday and Wednesday Faust and Carmen respectively were performed. The Bohemian Girl, Tannhäuser, and Il Trovatore were to fill up the week.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Sept. 5, the Play entitled

"THE FIGHTING CHANCE."

The Lyceum production, The Fighting Chance, claims attention at the Dalston Theatre this week, and, judging by the persistent applause, the play is evidently to the taste of the patrons of that house. The scenery, which is from the Lyceum Theatre studio, provides realistic surroundings to the events of the story, which runs smoothly under the stage management of Mr. Charles Leverton, and the incidental music also adds to the general effect. Captain Jim Blanchard is strikingly represented by Mr. Sidney Vautier, who is a favourite with the audience. Captain Philip Rivers has in Mr. Arthur Elwyn an exponent who infuses into the part just the necessary atmosphere of bitterness to render the enactment realistic. Considerable credit is due to Mr. Fred J. Waller for his General Sir Christopher Blanchard, and Mr. Austin Milroy, as Stephen Blanchard, quite maintains his reputation as a capable and spirited actor. Mr. Charles Leverton presents a lively sketch of an Irishman as Larry O'Brien. The Dr. John Vorland of Mr. Terence O'Brien, the Colonel Paget of Mr. James Wilson, and the Captain Fraser of Mr. Roland Daniel are highly praiseworthy; while Mr. Charles B. Bedells as Isra Mahomet Khan, Mr. Alfred Wood as the Maharajah of Daulatpore and Mr. A. B. Stanton as his brother, Lal Chandra, are equally distinctive. A charming portrayal of the interesting character, Ethel Hardy, is given by Miss Marie Duncan, who establishes herself a favourite. Another well-played part is that of Marjorie Vorland, by Miss Lilian Constance, while Miss May Campbell as Jean Fielding, Miss Annie Barclay as Mrs. Effie Mackintosh, and Miss Amy Venimore as Mrs. Vanstart, appear to equal advantage.

ELEPHANT AND CASTLE THEATRE.

On Monday, Sept. 5, the Drama entitled

"HER FATAL MARRIAGE."

Messrs. Arthur Hinton and Travis Green's company are paying a return visit with Her Fatal Marriage. The play receives a hearty welcome. Mr. Jerrold Heather is a sinister figure as the man-skeleton, Zaco Maletto, alias Capt. Vigo. Mr. Colin Peckover is a handsome hero as the young curate, Wilfred Grey. Mr. G. Mortimer Hancock makes an efficient Colonel Crichton. Mr. P. Morton Wright submits a weird character as the half-witted Paul. Mr. William Allen is much to the fore as Detective Smart. Mr. Frank Shepherd as Peter Pimple and Miss Elsie Dene as Dolly Dimple are responsible for some excellent drollery. Miss Minifred Rutland plays well as Lily the White Angel. Miss Hilda Shirley as Myra Maletto puts in some excellent acting, and lends an air of distinction to this important rôle.

KENNINGTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Sept. 5, the Naval Play,

"THE FLAG LIEUTENANT."

That delightful picture of naval life presented to the playgoer by The Flag Lieutenant has lost none of its charm, and the Kennington Theatre was filled by a large and appreciative audience on Monday, when the curtain rang up once again on the "Admiral's Cabin" in the "Royal Edward." The play was finely presented by Mr. Lyn Harding and Mr. Sidney Cooper's company, the personnel of which is exceedingly strong both from the point of view of numbers and ability. The dominating note of The Flag Lieutenant is its naturalness, and that note was emphasised to the full by the clever work of every member of the cast. The staging, too, was magnificent, and both the camp at Kandia, besieged by Bashi-Bazouks, and the quarter deck of the "Royal Edward," when the King's Birthday salute was given, were two strikingly great scenes. In the title-rôle Mr. Edgar Kent scored an immediate triumph by his admirable impersonation of Dicky Lascelles. He was a typical naval officer of the younger school, and played with much humour and liveliness. As Lady Hermione Wynne Miss Dorothy Ripley won all hearts by her graceful and sympathetic acting. Mr. George Mallett invested the rôle of Vice-Armiral Berkeley Wynne with just the touch of dignity and strength needed. Mr. A. V. Bramble contributed a vivid piece of stage portraiture as Major Thesiger, R.M.L.I. Midshipmen Hood and Dormer-Lee were impersonated with spirit and skill by Mr. George Robinson and Mr. Allen Harris respectively. Miss Clarissa Selwynne sketched the part of Mrs. Cameron with power, whilst Miss Winifred Vaillant was an engaging figure as Viola Hood. General Gough-Bogle was excellently impersonated by Mr. Lionel Isted, and Miss Stella Leigh was good as Mrs. Gough-Bogle. Mr. George Percy sustained the character of Surgeon Crutchley with credit. Mr. John Wheatman was a delightful Michael Palisser. Mr. James Coulsdon was excellent as Quartermaster Pennis, and Mr. Harry Haste deserves special mention as George Blockley (Yeoman of Signals). Mr. Victor Moore made a grim Sergeant Steele and Mr. Gordon Hamilton was a sardonic Private Borlase, whilst Mr. John Belton deserves a word for his representation of Seaman Sloggett. Mr. Edward Harrison and Mr. Gilbert Prentice made soldierly figures as officers of the Campbell Highlanders, and Mr. Jean Chassereau was a picturesque Bashi-Bazouk. Mr. Vincent Fletcher did well as Flag-Captain Penrose, and Mr. John Cross was a sedate Admiral's secretary; whilst Miss Ada Clarke adequately filled the part of Lady Dugdale.

THE LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, Sept. 5, the Drama entitled

"A GIRL'S CROSS ROADS."

Mr. Walter Melville's combinations always keep the box-office fairly busy at the Lyric, and the company playing this week is by no means an exception. The resulting business is naturally good. Mr. Edward Valentine gives a captivating and lifelike presentment of John Meadows which calls for a high tribute of praise. Mr. Chas. F. Kerzo is effective as Jack Livingstone; Mr. Willie Scott is boisterously funny as Toby Turvey; and Miss Amy Rudd, as Tilley Vane, is very sympathetic. Miss Doris Whyte acts the part of Constance Cornel with grace and dignity, and Mr. Fred Rivers sustains the rôle of Cuthbert Lumley with smartness and address. An able rendering of Luke Ramsden is given by Mr. Leslie Nolan; and Mr. Kendrew Milson handles well the part of Dr. Weston. Mr. J. Pickford plays the policeman and Mr. Walter Johnson the pickpocket, both ably. Miss Ada Rothwell's interpretation of the pretty but graceless Nellie Meadows, the farmer's daughter, leaves little to be desired, and Miss Nell Oliver's rendering of Barbara Wade fascinates with horror. The parts of Joe Coyle, Fred Hickley, and Harry Butler fall respectively to Mr. David Borone, Mr. George Wilson, and Mr. Harold Mace, who all do well; to Miss Emily Crossley and Miss Nellie Butts are judiciously allotted the rôles of Jane Thomas and Georgie Watts; and Miss Kate Walton is efficient as Jessie Wilton, Miss Louie Valentine and Miss Nellie Noble being suitably cast as Fay Dudley and Gertie Seemton.

BRIXTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Sept. 5, the Drama, entitled

"THE FATAL WEDDING."

Mr. Percy Williams is here this week with his excellent company presenting this old favourite to Brixton playgoers, with satisfactory results. Mr. Hugh Montgomery must be commended for his fine acting as Howard Wilson; Mr. Royce Milton deserves eulogy for the manner in which he sustains the rôle of Robert Curtis; Mr. Sam Springson displays ability as Toto, and causes much laughter; Mr. Frank Ashley is capital as O'Reilly; Mr. Cyril Milton is an excellent Peter Schwarz; Mr. J. Newton is very good as the clergyman; Miss Ethel Kay is winsome and convincing as Mabel Wilson; Miss Leah Marlborough is admirable as Cora Wilson; and Miss Marie Harcourt as the cook, Bridget, is very successful. The "little mother," Jessie, is charmingly played by Little Lausanne. Songs and dances are interpolated throughout the play by smart and clever artists, and a capital clog dance is done by Master Tom Grice. The children, it should be mentioned, are well trained. The Fatal Wedding lends itself to picturesque mounting, and this is well supplied by the management.

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.

On Monday the Comedy, in Three Acts, entitled

"OUR BOYS."

Our Boys, which is the principal item in the bill at the Royal County Theatre this week, has been attracting numerous audiences, and has been welcomed with much zest. The comedy is being presented by Mr. Chas. Otley, who himself fills the part of the honest old parvenu Perkin Middlewick, and invests it with a quaint humour that keeps the audience in a continual state of merriment. The part of the haughty aristocrat, Sir Geoffrey Champneys, is in the hands of Mr. Francis Hawley, who showed himself an actor of considerable ability. The two sons, Charles Middlewick and Talbot Champneys, are played by Mr. Douglas Gordon and Mr. Hugh Ardale respectively, and in each case nothing but praise can be said of the impersonation. Miss Phyllis Relph is appearing as Violet Melrose, and Miss Barbara Hanway as Mary Melrose, and they present the parts with a winsome charm that finds them friends in all parts of the house. The part of the aunt is admirably filled by Miss Mildred Gilbert, and much of the humour of the production is supplied by Miss M. Ladle as Belinda, the house drudge. The farce Ancient Britons is produced after the comedy, and much interest was manifested in it, as it gave an opportunity to Miss Kitty Darling, the young Plymouth lady who won the Folkestone beauty prize, of making her début as an actress before a Kingston audience. She filled the part allotted to her with credit. The whimsicalities of Mr. Jack Humphries who, with Mr. Rupert Stutfield, is associated with her in the farce, caused no end of amusement.

THEATRE ROYAL, WOOLWICH.

This week Mr. G. Carlton Wallace has brought his company here with his new play, The Apple of Eden, produced a fortnight ago at the Elephant and Castle Theatre. Mr. Lauderdale Maitland quickly made himself a prime favourite by his powerful acting. Most ably was he supported by Miss Janet Alexander; their scenes together were magnificent, too much praise cannot be accorded them. Mr. John F. Traynor was a vigorous General Paolos. The arch-fiend Prince Nicola was admirably played by Mr. T. Renaud Lockwood. Praise is due to Mr. Stephen E. Scanlan for his vivid portrayal of the besotted King Ferdinand. Excellent comedy was forthcoming from Miss Tessa Myers as Winifred and Mr. Bertie White as the fop Bertram. Miss M. Hayden enacted the grand dame Lady Hanbury to a nicety. Miss Mysie Monte was very smart as Queen Margaret's maid. As the brigand chieftain, Mr. C. W. Grahame was well placed, and so also was Mr. Francis James as Stefan. The remaining parts were well sustained by capable artists. The drama was well mounted, staged, and played.

THEATRE ROYAL, STRATFORD.

On Monday, Sept. 5, the Drama by Mrs. F. G. Kimberley, entitled

"HER PATH OF SORROW."

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Draycott's company in the above new piece is the attraction at the Stratford Theatre Royal for the current week. The story exudes with sentiment, is easily followed, and is well staged. Mr. John Davidson as the self-sacrificing Richard Burfield plays very convincingly, and Mr. Horatio Sinclair strongly emphasises the villainy of Guy Lowther. Mr. Frank Etheridge is a manly Lionel Heathcote; Mr. Harry Harrold does well as Markham Ferrars; and Mr. Charles Reyne is excellent as Farmer Rayne. Miss Florence Melrose Millett makes a charming though rather emotionless Pauline Ferrars; and Miss Fay Garnet Vane as the sorely-tried Nellie Rayne acts with considerable feeling and abandon. Mr. Will Hook in the comedy part of Tommy Onions provides a source of considerable merriment; Miss Daisy Carlton is a vivacious and sprightly Polly Green; and Miss Nellie Freeland makes a chic Lucille. In minor rôles are Mr. Hubert Lawrence (Jack Smith), Mr. Allan Sothwyn (Dr. Simms), Mr. Wilson Saunders (P.-C. Bridge), Mr. Eric Winstanley (Detective Williams), Mr. T. Wheeler (P.-C. Robinson), and Mr. Wilfred Eckhart (Warder Jackson).

BOROUGH THEATRE, STRATFORD.

On Monday, Sept. 5, the Drama, entitled

"THE WHIP."

The Stratford Borough Theatre enjoys the distinction of being the first to submit to suburbia the Drury Lane success The Whip, and Mr. Fred Frederick's enterprise in securing such an attractive booking is being rewarded with bumper houses. Taking everything into consideration, the piece loses very little by comparison with the production at headquarters, the railway collision at Mansfield Junction being very thrilling and realistic, while the race for the Two Thousand Guineas is quite a triumph in stage representation. Mr. James Lindsay as the cynical, callous Captain Sartoris contributes a clever exposition of gentlemanly blackguardism; Mr. Edwin Brett is a highly interesting and entertaining Tom Lambert; Mr. Dallas Cairns as Lord Brancaster is manly and convincing; and a sparkling sketch of the self-important bookmaker, Joe Kelly, comes from Mr. Eric Hudson. Mr. Fredk. Leister portrays the uneasy-minded Rev. Vernon Haslam very appropriately; Mr. Ernest A. Douglas is a fluent and dignified Lord Beverley; and Mr. Horace Kenney is fairly good as the jockey, Harry Anson. Miss Vera Beringer handles the thankless rôle of the scheming Mrs. D'Aquila very artistically; Miss Simeta Marsden is a highly popular representative of the "goey" Mrs. Beamish; Miss Gwendolin Wren as the sporting Lady Di is distinctly successful; and Miss Stella Campbell, while looking very charming, is somewhat overweighted with the part of the much-wronged Myrtle Anson. Remaining characters are all adequately filled; and the management of Mr. George Dance's company is safely entrusted to Mr. Hugh Nolan.

As a sample of eloquent praise, Mr. Hall Caine's eulogy on Miss Tittell-Brune's performance in The Eternal Question is worth preserving. He begins: "I call Miss Brune a great actress because, to begin with, she has the sense of the theatre. . . . It is the sense of how to speak to an audience in all its possible moods, its whims, its variations of temper, and in the midst of the unexpected waves of emotion that play upon people when they are sitting together in great numbers. . . . Miss Brune has it in a more marked degree than any actress I have ever seen. . . . That is what I call being an actress born, and this young Californian lady is a born actress beyond any possibility of doubt.

"Next, I call Miss Brune a great actress, because she has the gift of a personality which is capable of being put into the skin, so to speak, of any character she may be called upon to fill. . . . Her personality is neither so powerful nor so dangerous—it is the actor-personality pure and simple, the personality proper to the mime, and to the mime alone. The true actor has no individuality, in the sense in which the word is ordinarily understood.

"Next, I call Miss Tittell-Brune a great actress because she has one gift of nature—voice—which I have never before found in such absolute sympathy with the work it is called upon to do. . . . In particular, there is a note that is hardly voice at all, but a kind of breathless whisper, which seems to be the expression, not of the organs that produce sound, but of the woman's soul. I have never heard the like of this in any other actress in any country. You hear it as clearly as the loudest shout, yet it seems scarcely to make a ripple on the surface of the air. The effect of it is overwhelming. More than any sound I have ever heard from the lips of an actress, it goes through and through you. It is, perhaps, the greatest natural gift of this extraordinarily gifted young woman.

"Finally, I call Miss Tittell-Brune a great actress because she has a power of passion which I have never found in any English-speaking actress since Adelaide Neilson. . . . This Californian lady has a deeper well of passion to draw upon than any woman, save one, that I have seen on the stage since I began to go to the theatre forty years ago. . . . No such white heat of passion as Roma maintains through the long and trying scene with the Baron and with Rossi in the last act of my play has ever, to my knowledge, been exhibited on the English stage since Adelaide Neilson acted in the most passionate of Dr. Westland Marston's tragedies."

"CAPT'N JACK."

A Nautical Play, in Four Acts, by F. Ciel, Produced for the First Time in London, at the Royal Artillery Theatre, Woolwich, on Monday, Sept. 5.

Capt. John Wetherley	Mr. Ernest Owtrim
Andrew Lee	Mr. Herbert Bentone
Anthony Cliversedge	Mr. H. Ryeland-Leigh
Barry Trent	Mr. F. C. Leighton
Billy Bowster	Mr. Richard Seddon
Joseph Gympey	Mr. Owen Edwin
Ned Dedrull	Mr. Walter Kenion
Ben Billet	Mr. T. Otterspool
Jan Schafskopf	Mr. Ray Costello
Dan Shivertimbers	Mr. Eric Booth
Dick Marlinspike	Mr. Anthony James
Ginge	Miss Ada Arnott
Winnie Trent	Miss Betty Manners
Mary	Miss Nina Blake-Adams

The play is bright and breezy, free and easy, as a sailor play should be. It is essentially a clean and wholesome work, and has many good points. In the provinces it has already achieved remarkable success. The scene of the first act is outside Jolly Mariners, Seaport. There is general merry-making and excitement, Mary Lee, the village beauty, having that very morning been married to Captain John Wetherley ("Capt'n Jack"). The villain, Anthony Cliversedge, who is the owner of Jack's ship, has for a long time desired Mary, and when he hears of her marriage sets his brain working, and concocts dark and deadly schemes which bode ill for the happiness of the newly-married couple. It transpires that Jack has to sail by that evening's tide, and Cliversedge is informed that the steward has been taken suddenly ill. Thereupon he bribes Barry Trent, a wastrel whom he has completely in his power, to go abroad as steward and scuttle the ship. This Barry agrees to do after some persuasion, but is accosted by his sister Winnie, who, by her pleadings, brings his better nature to the surface, and he determines to turn over a new leaf. After Jack has said farewell he sails away, leaving his bride of a few hours disconsolate on the quay. Cliversedge, entering, watches her unobserved and gloats over her misery, congratulating himself on his idea for the speedy removal from this earth of "Capt'n Jack." In the midst of his complacent musings Barry enters, and when asked by Cliversedge why he is not on the ship, calmly informs him, "Well, I've changed my mind." We next discover Cliversedge in his office still intent on having poor Mary. He has bribed the postman to bring him all letters from Jack to his wife without delivering them. He also, by means of an affectionate letter that Winnie has written to her brother, and which, by a little manipulation, he contrives to make it appear was intended for Jack, secures false evidence of the hero's infidelity.

In the next scene, the Parlour of the Jolly Mariners, Mary, heartbroken and sad at not hearing from her husband, is confronted with the aforementioned letter by Cliversedge, and, at length persuaded by his oily manner and the weight of evidence, she agrees to leave Seaport with him. Six months now elapse, and we next see Mary in Cliversedge's flat in Kensington; he has discarded his veneer of polish, and shows himself in his true colours as a brutal drunkard.

During his temporary absence Jack, who has returned and been informed of Mary's whereabouts, arrives on the scene and upbraids her for her conduct. Mary tells him of the letter she had read which was apparently intended for him by Winnie, and at last has her eyes opened to the true state of things. She then informs Jack of Cliversedge's brutality, and Jack vows vengeance. Just then the key is heard turning in the lock. Jack conceals himself in an inner room, and Cliversedge and Barry enter, both slightly intoxicated. They are confronted by Jack, and Barry beats a hasty retreat, leaving Anthony to get himself out of the mess in the best way he can. Then ensues a fight between the two men, in which Cliversedge receives a knock-out blow, and Jack, touched by Mary's plight and remembering "To err is human, to forgive, divine," takes her to his heart again.

The third act represents Jack's cabin on board the Bonnie Mary. Here Mary, tortured by Jack's worship of her baby, confesses that it is not his, but the child of the villain who made her break her faith.

In the last act, at Cliversedge Cottage, Seaport, the villain puts out the light on the point on the night on which Jack's ship is expected back. A storm rises, and the Bonnie Mary is wrecked; but Winnie Trent rouses the lifeboat-men, and the crew are saved. They see the light in Cliversedge's cottage, and make their way towards it for shelter. Anthony, who, after extinguishing the light in the lighthouse has been amusing himself by strangling Barry Trent, makes a savage attack on Jack directly the latter enters the cottage carrying Mary. The villain is, however, frustrated in his final attempt at revenge by the rest of the crew, but manages to get clear away from them, and shoots himself. Mary recovers from her swoon and cries for her baby, only to be told by Jack that it is the only one of the ship's company who cannot answer the muster, having been drowned. The one bar to their reconciliation being thus removed, they fall into each other's arms.

Mr. Ernest Owtrim played Capt'n Jack in a manly and convincing manner; at times, notably in the Cabin scene, his histrionic powers reached a very high pitch ideed. Mr. H. Ryeland-Leigh handled the difficult part of Anthony Cliversedge in a masterly manner. He shone particularly in the last act, where he has splendid opportunities, and did not fail to avail himself of them. Mr. F. Cyril Leighton contented himself with the rôle of Barry Trent, and gave an excellent character study. Mr. Herbert Bentone as Andrew Lee had a part which suited this experienced actor "down to the ground." Miss Nina Blake-Adams acted and looked charming as Mary. It was a most trying rôle, but Miss Adams came out with flying colours. Miss Betty Manners made a most sympathetic Winnie Trent. The comic relief was in the hands of Miss Ada Arnott, Mr. Owen Edwin (the latter a particularly lugubrious Joe Gympey), and Mr. Richard Seddon as Billy Bowster. Special mention must be made of Mr. Walter Kenion, whose appearance as the longshoreman "Ned Dedrull" reminded one forcibly of one of W. W. Jacobs' delightful creations. The minor characters were capably filled. The scenery was all that could be desired.

An interesting ceremony took place on the stage of the Theatre Royal, Huddersfield, last Friday week, the occasion being the presentation to Mr. Geo. E. Carleton of a handsome silver-mounted walking-stick and silver cigarette-case from the orchestra and staff on his retirement from the management of the theatre. The presentations were made by Mr. James Hecker, the musical conductor, and Mr. Jonas Swinbanke, master carpenter, both of whom expressed the regret felt by all at Mr. Carleton's departure.

At the monthly meeting of the York City Council at the local Guildhall on Monday, with the Lord Mayor presiding, the following recommendation of the Council was considered:—"That a surrender of the theatre from Messrs. Waddington, the lessees, be accepted" from Jan. 1, 1911. Two offers, it was stated, had been made by would-be tenants of the theatre, one of whom proposed to carry on the place as a music hall. After discussion, an amendment to the effect that the matter should be referred to the Estates Committee with a view to reporting on some scheme as to conducting the theatre, was carried by a majority of two votes.

"SISTER ANNE."

A New Play, in Four Acts, by Mme. Albanesi, Adapted from her Novel of the same name, Produced at the Coronet Theatre, Notting Hill Gate, on Wednesday, Sept. 7.

David Barostan	Mr. Norman Trevor
Basil Barostan	Mr. Frederic Sargent
Mark Wallingford	Mr. C. Aubrey Smith
Parsons	Mr. Henry Kitts
Farm Lad	Mr. Arthur Cleave
Miss Rainham	Miss Rosina Filippi
Pamela Brookdale	Miss Ruth Bower
Muriel Peyton	Miss Viva Birkett
Grace Peyton	Miss Winifred Beech
Speed	Miss Marion Ashworth
Mrs. Garstan	Miss Amy Ravenscroft
Anne Brookdale	Miss Marion Terry

The Coronet Theatre has, during its twelve years' existence, proved one of the most successful of the suburban theatres, and Mr. Robert Arthur has decided that the time has come when this house should be brought into line with the central theatres. It is in the midst of a high-class residential district, and moreover, the theatre is easily accessible by the two railway stations at Notting Hill Gate and also by motor 'bus services from all parts of London. Mr. Robert Arthur can, with justifiable pride, point to the fact that the Coronet Theatre has long been noted for its French and original seasons, and the new scheme promises to bring to the house increased prosperity. Special matinée performances will be a feature, and in such a district these are sure to be well patronised, more particularly by the ladies.

Mr. Robert Arthur opened his autumn season with his "own West-End company" in a new play, Sister Anne, dramatised by Mme. Albanesi, from one of her novels. At Hutley Court reside Anne Brookdale and her younger sister Pamela, and when the play opens the last-mentioned is about to marry the man of her choice. Anne has shown her all the love and devotion of a mother, but the spoilt child—for Pamela has been terribly spoilt—seldom makes any satisfactory return for the affection and anxious care lavished upon him or her. Pamela has acted very indiscreetly in encouraging the attentions of a young fellow named Basil Barostan, the brother of David Barostan, who is the owner of the adjoining farm. She has foolishly led young Barostan to think that she was fond of him, and when on the eve of her marriage he turns up and asks her to fulfil her promises to him, she finds herself in a very awkward position. She has never had any intention of marrying a poor man, and Basil comes under this description. Angry at his appearance at such a moment, and his persistence in urging his claims, Pamela declares that she hates him. The words uttered in a passion strike home, and giving her to understand that she need have no fear that he would ever trouble her again, Basil departs. Anne has an ardent wooer in Mark Wallingford, a gentleman with a very good opinion of himself. His offer of marriage comes as a surprise to Anne, and she asks for time to consider his proposal, which she eventually declines. For years there has existed a feud between the Barostans and the Brookdales, this having arisen in regard to the ownership of a piece of land which lies between the two farms. Miss Brookdale is anxious to put an end to the old-standing quarrel, and in an interview with David Barostan, asks him to become her friend as well as neighbour. David is extremely cold and distant in his manner, but thaws slightly under the influence of the woman whom he secretly admires and loves. The wedding of Pamela duly takes place, but shortly afterwards comes the terrible news that Basil Barostan has shot himself, and David, who has loved his brother deeply, learns the reason why the young man committed suicide. Clutched in his dead fingers was found a letter with the signature of Anne Brookdale, and in a stormy interview with the bereaved brother, she takes upon her shoulders the full responsibility of what has happened, although she knows that the cruelly-worded letter was a forgery on the part of Pamela. She succeeds in preventing Mark Wallingford going to Pamela's husband and exposing her heartless conduct. David, however, makes it a condition that she shall marry him at once. The wedding takes place, and David accompanies his bride to a lonely farmhouse in Yorkshire, which belongs to him. Here he gets at the truth with regard to the conduct of Pamela, and the self-sacrifice of her sister. He, however, announces his intention of journeying to New York on business, and he does not return to England for four months. In the meantime Anne has grown to love her husband, and though Mark Wallingford makes a last attempt to separate them husband and wife are reconciled, and there is a happy ending to this story of a sister's self-sacrifice.

Miss Marion Terry, in the title-rôle played with all her wonted charm of manner, and so contrived to make the heroine of the story a truly lovable woman, who, at any cost to herself, is prepared to shield from the results of her own folly and deceit, the sister she has always so dearly loved. Miss Terry's admirable performance greatly delighted the audience, and their recognition of its many good points was cordial in the extreme. Miss Terry was well supported by Mr. Norman Trevor, who deserves to be highly complimented upon his fine acting in the part of David Barostan. He had a firm grip of the part and was in no small degree responsible for the favourable reception accorded the new play. Mr. Frederic Sargent played with earnestness and sincerity the character of Basil Barostan, who is only seen in the first act. Mr. C. Aubrey Smith did all that was possible with the part of Mark Wallingford, and met with deserved success. Miss Ruth Bower played excellently as Pamela Brookdale, whose selfishness and insincerity cause so much trouble. Miss Rosina Filippi was well placed as Miss Rainham, a lady who speaks her mind very plainly. Miss Filippi played the part with a delightful humour that was evidently much appreciated by the audience. Mr. Henry Kitts was good as Parsons. Miss Amy Ravenscroft deserves a word of praise for her embodiment of Mrs. Garston, and Mr. Arthur Cleave was a capital farm lad. Two young girls, Muriel and Grace Peyton, had bright and pleasing representatives in Miss Viva Birkett and Miss Winifred Beech, while Miss Marion Ashworth as the smart maid-servant, completed the cast.

The play was most favourably received, and at the final fall of the curtain a call for the author brought Mme. Albanesi to the front.

Arrangements are now complete for the Tetrazzini concert at the Crystal Palace on Saturday, the 24th inst., at 3 p.m., when Mr. Percy Harrison will present the prima donna, Mme. Tetrazzini. She will sing three of the finest arias in her repertory, viz., "Caro nomo," from Rigoletto, by Verdi; aria and variazioni, "Carnovalo de Venezia," by Benedict; and polacca, "Je suis Titania," from Mignon, by Thomas. Those arias are in excellently varied styles, and should show the beautiful voice and method of Mme. Tetrazzini to perfection. The full Queen's Hall orchestra, under Mr. Henry J. Wood, has been engaged, and will accompany the songs, and will also on its own account play the overture to "Oberon" (Weber) and "Zampa" (Herold), scherzo from "A Midsummer's Night Dream" (Mendelssohn), "Humoreske" (Dvorak), and the "Peer Gynt" suite (Grieg).

"Theatrical Accounts for Business Managers." How the affairs of a theatre can be most efficiently controlled by the adoption of systems of internal check. By Cuthbert B. Smedley, A.C.A. Price 3s. 6d., post free 3s. 9d. Address: The Publishes, "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

DRESSES AT THE PLAY.

Redfern and Lucile made the dresses for Nobody's Daughter at Wyndham's on Saturday last. Miss Lilian Braithwaite, whose gowns have been made by Mme. Lucile, makes her entry in the first act in a pale Nattier-blue crepe-satin over green silk, with touches of creamy lace on the corsage, which is cut in one with the long sleeves moulded to the arms. The waistline is slightly shortened, and a wide sash, which is drawn through the swathed folds of the material at the left side of the waist, falls to the hem, where it is weighted with heavy silk fringe. The skirt is draped and finished with embroidered buttons. A black hat, with shaded blue aigrettes, and a black cloak is worn with this dress. The cloak, in quite a new shape, is lined with the blue of the dress, with touches of gold braid. The long revers of the blue outlined with the gold braid run down the front to meet the fastening point, which comes at the knees in the front, and the upper collar, cut square at the back, is faced with silk embroidery in Eastern shades of blue, pink, gold, &c., a short line of heavy gold fringe in military effect furnishing this collar in front. At the back, running to the waistline, there is an under-collar of the black material, gathered into a heavy tassel, which introduces the blue and gold of the lining. The sleeves run to the wrists, with turn-back blue and gold cuffs.

The dress worn by Miss Braithwaite in the second act is in faded pink charmeuse, trimmed with buttons in the shape of acorns worked in faded pink, grey, and dull gold. A close line of these buttons runs down the skirt from a shaped ceinture of gold, orange, and shaded blue velvet, braided in silver. The corsage and sleeves are draped to the figure over a collarless V-shaped vest of pin-spot lace and net and a double frill of the lace softens the line at the throat.

In the garden party scene Miss Braithwaite wears a shell-pink satin, with creamy lace insertions in the bodice and skirt. The skirt, draped with an over-dress which comes down one side towards the back, where it is rolled over and brought round again to the waistline, is finished at the side of the front with a flowing panel of the lace insertion, bordered with a flat band of the satin. This panel falls from the waistline from a cluster of tiny pink and green rosebuds. The corsage has the sleeves cut in one, and the V-shaped neck, slightly décolleté, is finished at the throat line with a double frill of white lace, laced across in front with a narrow green silk tie with fringed ends. Showing through the transparency of the filmy vest of flesh-pink tulle there is an under-corsage of fine Valenciennes threaded with blue bébé ribbon.

In the last act Miss Braithwaite is in chiffon and charmeuse in exactly the same shade of grey. The charmeuse, banded with silver galon, is used for the skirt, and the chiffon for the bodice. The bodice, with collarless vest of lace, is piped with pink chiffon, and a chiffon sash, weighted with silver fringe, makes an effective finish.

Miss Henrietta Watson wears a gown of pale grey charmeuse, trimmed with braided grey silk cord and silk to tone, made by Redfern. The skirt, draped to the figure, has an overdress running from the left side of the waistline, across the front, round to the back, where it is turned over and brought back again in a looped-over effect, under a wide sash end, which falls to the hem with a border of grey silk fringe. The bodice, scooped out in a round shape, under a vest and high transparent collar of lace, has the dividing line covered with the corded and silk embroidery, and a line of the trimming crosses the front to the waistline from the vest. Touches of the lace trim the wrists of the long, smooth-fitting sleeves. The hat worn with this dress is in grey Tagal, lined with chiffon, and trimmed with two huge ostrich plumes in grey, running from the front across to the back.

Fine navy blue serge coating is used for a smart tailor-made worn by Miss Watson. The coat, with a shaped back, trimmed with buttons, gathered in slightly at the back of the waistline under a smooth-fitting basque, is finished in front with long revers to the waistline, under an open waistcoat of striped pique. The walking-length skirt has a shaped panel at the back and front, and the sides are trimmed in pointed effect with black silk braid. The waist is finished in corselet effect. The hat which accompanies this tailor-made is in soft butter-coloured felt, in toque shape, trimmed smartly at the side with a bird in yellow and blue tonings.

A covert coating coat and skirt (fawn colour), made perfectly plain, with a single line fastening on the coat and pocket at the side, is also worn by Miss Watson, with a fawn-coloured toque trimmed with black velvet and a black aigrette.

When Queen Katharine (Miss Violet Vanbrugh) pleads the cause of Buckingham in Henry VIII. at His Majesty's, she wears a very beautiful Royal purple velvet dress, brocaded with gold, and lined with yellow satin. This forms a sleeveless over-dress, and is bordered with fur, and it opens over a rich robe of brown brocade patterned with gold, and arranged with long and wide hanging sleeves. The dress is cut square at the neck, and is finished at the waist with a heavy jewelled band. On her head the Queen wears a tight cap of black satin, fitted with two quaint points sticking out at each side, and surmounted by bands of crimson velvet and black satin, edged with pearls. These two bands are arched over the forehead, and thus form a very attractive head-dress. The closely fitting cap is only seen at the back.

In the trial scene Katharine is an impressively regal figure in the same purple velvet dress; but in this instance she is wearing it over a dark green silk, brocaded with gold; and the head-dress is of crimson satin, studded with rubies arranged in diamond patterns and finished with a wide end of satin which falls on the shoulder. A Prayer-book bound in crimson velvet hangs by long chains from the waist, and over one arm is thrown a wide scarf of gold tissue. The whole scene, with the colours of the gorgeous dresses and the rich red of the Cardinals' robes against the dark background of the hall, is most beautiful.

Anne Bullen (Miss Laura Cowie) is, of course, quite a girl, so her dresses are designed to give a very youthful effect. But they are beautiful; and in the wonderful scene of Wolsey's entertainment no woman is more charmingly clad. Over a white brocaded petticoat, patterned with pale rose pink, and set with pearls and diamonds, she wears a dress of pale rose-pink satin. The décolletage is cut in a low cut in a low square, edged with white net richly jewelled. There is also a jewelled band at the waist, and from this fall long chains of pearls ending in tassels. Anne's head-dress is of pink satin, and her ornaments are of rubies. The King wears a very rich dress of green velvet and silver, so that, as may be imagined, when he dances with Anne the effect of these two costumes is one of unusual beauty.

Anne's coronation dress is the most exquisite of all. It is made of cloth of silver, and over it falls a long robe of cloth of gold, lined with yellow satin, and fitted with hanging sleeves of ermine and miniver. These sleeves are so wide that they disclose an under-pair of silver gauze sewn with jewels. Anne's hair falls on the shoulders, unbound, save for the string of diamonds which holds it loosely together.

"THE LAW OF MUSICAL COPYRIGHT." By Albert A. Strong, LL.B., Lond. Price 1s., post free 1s. 1d. Address: The Publisher, "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

A CHAT WITH MISS BEATRICE LINDLEY.

Miss Beatrice Lindley, who has been selected to play Priscilla, the character so bewitchingly created by Miss Neilson-Terry in Elizabeth Arnim's amusing comedy, Priscilla Runs Away, on tour, under the management of Messrs. John E. Watson and C. T. Doe, is delighted with her part. It is a long and arduous one, and the rehearsals, under Mr. Charles La Trobe, stage-manager at the Haymarket Theatre, are heavy, but the task she finds most enjoyable. In a brief talk with an Era representative she spoke enthusiastically of the play and the character of the beautiful young princess she is to portray, and gave a few particulars of her stage work.

Miss Lindley's first part of any importance was that of Joan Trevelyan in Sweet and Twenty, the author, Captain Basil Hood, choosing her for the character originally enacted by Miss Ellaline Terriss. Later she played the Marie Tempest parts in The Freedom of Suzanne and The Marriage of Kitty. To enact characters created by so gifted a comedienne as Miss Tempest must have been a severe test of ability for so young an actress, but that her portrayals gave entire satisfaction is proved by the fact that she played each part for a year.

"I have also played important parts in The Squire and Honours Divided, with Miss Kate Rorke, and the lead with Mr. Louis Bradfield in Mr. Gilbert Dayle's Australian play, What Would a Gentleman Do? and toured with Mr. Harcourt Williams in pastorals."

An accomplished pianist and versatile entertainer, Miss Lindley gave songs at the piano at the Palace, and was for two tours with Miss Maud Allan, and also with Mr. George Grossmith, sen., in his Steinway Hall Recitals. She has also appeared in vaudeville in America. Here she found the audiences very nice and kind, and the trip was delightful. But her preference is for the English public, and she finds more interest and pleasure in dramatic work than appearing solus on the halls or concert platform, where she confesses to feeling a little lonely. She appeared as an amateur very early in life—somewhere about the age of seven—and could play the piano almost as soon as she could talk. Her social and concert engagements are, of course, numerous.

Miss Lindley speaks with pardonable pride of one special occasion when she had the honour of singing before Queen Mary at Grosvenor House, to whom she was presented after giving her songs at the piano. Just lately she has been leading the simple life in a bungalow at the fishing village of Selsey, and having a splendid time. But the call for rehearsals must be obeyed, and her holiday had to be curtailed.

[Photo by Hana.

MISS BEATRICE LINDLEY.

Keen on many kinds of sport, Miss Lindley confesses to a partiality for golf. She has encountered no thrilling experiences in her brief but busy career worth speaking of, never having been shipwrecked or bitten by a dog. Loving the stage ever since she was a kiddie, this charming and enthusiastic young actress is eagerly—and naturally a little anxiously—looking forward to playing Priscilla in public. She is full of admiration for the creator of the part in which she hopes to make a success. To one so thoroughly equipped for the rôle there should be little anxiety.

A GOOD many new works figure in the programme of the fifth week of the promenade concerts at Queen's Hall. Mme. Helen Noldi and Mr. Herbert Heyner are the vocalists at the Wagner concert on Monday, Sept. 12, the second part of which concludes with Sinigaglia's bright and popular overture "La Baruffe Chiozzotte." "The Magic Mirror," a descriptive suite for orchestra, founded on one of Grimm's fairy tales by the late Mr. William Hurlstone, a young English composer of great promise too soon lost to the musical world, will be given for the first time in London on Tuesday, the 13th. Another work which is comparatively unfamiliar to the audiences at these concerts is a suite from Gabriel Faure's incidental music to Maeterlinck's Pelleas and Melisande. Elgar's "Dream Children" is down for performance. The singers will be Miss Lillie Wormald and Mr. Robert Burnett, while Mr. Albert Fransella contributes a group of flute solos. Wednesday's Symphony is Brahms' in F, No. 3. Mr. O'Neil Phillips makes a first appearance in Cesar Franck's Variations Symphoniques for piano and orchestra. Miss Esta D'Argo sings "Ah fors e lui," from La Traviata, and Mr. Morgan Kingston a Handel aria. Tchaikovsky's overture-fantasia, "Hamlet," and the overture to "The Magic Flute" complete a very varied programme. On Thursday the concert opens with Mozart's overture to Don Giovanni. A new work, described as a study for orchestra, with the sub-title "Voices," by Mr. Ernest Bryson, will be heard for the first time. Lalo's charming "Aubade," for small orchestra, is included in the scheme. Paderewski's Concerto in A minor for piano and orchestra will be given, with Miss Elsie Horne as soloist. Miss Violet Oppenshaw will make her début as a vocalist on this occasion, the second singer being Mr. Herbert Brown. The classical programme for Friday, the 16th, contains Beethoven's C minor Symphony. Schumann's Concertstuck for four horns will be played by members of the orchestra. In Bach's Concerto in E for violin, organ, and strings Miss Marjorie Hayward takes the solo part. Miss Florence Schmidt will be heard in a Mozart aria, and Mr. Julien Henrys in Bach's "Mark, O my heart," with trumpet obbligato by Mr. F. L. Gyp.

A COPY of "THE ERA" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

THE "FIRST NIGHT" OF "CATO."

"At last came the eventful evening of April 13, when Cato saw the light," writes Mr. Edward Robins in "The Palmy Days of Nance Oldfield." "The theatre was packed, just as Steele promised that it should be, yet the audience would have been large had Dick never existed. There were no Press agents to 'boom' matters, but as it became known that the Whigs stood sponsors for the tragedy there was a corresponding desire to be in either at its triumph or its death. The result has passed into history. The characters were, for the most part, finely acted, and the play was admired for its lofty sentiments and elegance of expression, while the Tories, mirabile dictu, vied with their enemies in enthusiastic tokens of approval. The Whigs went to the theatre expecting to appropriate all of Mr. Addison's illusions to the sacred cause of liberty, and what must have been their horror on finding that the Tories, refusing to be discomfited by any of those illusions, applauded as violently as did the friends of Hanover?

"Pope has left us a description of this first night, in a letter to Sir William Trumbull. 'Cato,' he writes, 'was not so much the wonder of Rome in his days, as he is of Britain in ours; and though all the foolish industry possible has been used to make it thought a party play, yet what the author once said of another may the most properly in the world be applied to him on this occasion:

"'Envy itself is dumb, in wonder lost,
And factions strive who shall applaud him most.'

"'The numerous and violent claps of the Whig party on the one side of the theatre, were echoed by the Tories on the other; while the author sweated behind the scenes with concern to find their applause proceeding more from the hand than the head. This was the case, too, of the prologue writer, who was clapped into a staunch Whig at almost every two lines. I believe you have heard that after all the applause of the opposite faction, my lord Bolingbroke sent for Booth, who played Cato, into the box between one of the acts, and presented him with fifty guineas, in acknowledgment (as he expressed it) for defending the cause of liberty so well against a Perpetual Dictator. The Whigs are unwilling to be distanced this way, and therefore design a present to the same Cato very speedily; in the meantime they are getting ready as good a sentence as the former on their side: so betwixt them it is probable that Cato (as Dr. Garth express'd it) may have something to live upon after he dies.'

"So important a rôle did politics play in this first performance of Cato, that to many in the house the merits of the actors must have passed unrecognised. And yet those merits were striking. Who could have made a lovelier Marcia than did Nance; and how thoroughly she must have justified the passion of that most virtuous of princes, the sententious Juba. The character was not worthy of her genius, but that did not prevent this true artist from giving to it all manner of dignity and beauty. Who could help pitying her lover when Marcia first repelled his amorous advances:

"'I should be griev'd, young Prince, to think my presence
Unbent your thoughts, and slacken'd 'em to arms,
While, warm with slaughter, our victorious foe
Threatens aloud, and calls you to the field.'

"And when Marcia, having sent away the youth, explained:

"'His air, his voice, his looks, and honest soul
Speak all so movingly in his behalf,
I dare not trust myself to hear him talk,'

the apology came with such delicious grace and plaintiveness that the house forgot her coldness in sorrow for her woes.

"And Barton Booth? His superb acting of Cato raised him to such an airy pinnacle of fame that he soon became one of the managers of Drury Lane. The other players were evidently all more or less effective, barring Cibber, whose Syphax (the Numidian warrior who seeks the downfall of Cato), must have made the judicious grieve. Indeed, we can easily believe that he used so many grotesque motions and spoke his lines with such a cracked voice as to win only ridicule and 'a loud laugh of contempt.'

"Lord Bolingbroke's gift of fifty guineas had a disturbing effect not only on the Whigs but on Manager Dogget as well. That worthy feared the success of Cato would cause Booth to claim a share in the direction of Drury Lane, as he did, of course, in a very short time. In the hopes of shutting off all pretensions to this honour by a paltry expedient Dogget thought that Cibber, Wilks, and himself, as joint managers, could relieve themselves of every obligation by duplicating the generosity of the Tory statesman.

"'He insinuated to us (for he was a staunch Whig)' relates Colley, 'that this present of fifty guineas was a sort of Tory triumph which they had no pretence to; and that for his part he could not bear that so redoubted a champion for liberty as Cato should be bought off to the cause of a contrary party. He, therefore, in the seeming zeal of his heart, proposed that the managers themselves should make the same present to Booth which had been made him from the boxes the day before. This, he said, would recommend the equality and liberal spirit of our management to the town, and might be a means to secure Booth more firmly in our interest, it never having been known that the skill of the best actor had receiv'd so round a reward or gratuity in one day before.

"'Wilks, who wanted nothing but abilities to be as cunning as Dogget, was so charm'd with the proposal that he long'd that moment to make Booth the present with his own hands; and though he knew he had no right to do it without my consent, had no patience to ask it; upon which I turned to Dogget with a cold smile [what a freezing, polar expression Cibber could put on when he desired] and told him, that if Booth could be purchas'd at so cheap a rate, it would be one of the best proofs of his economy we had ever been beholden to: I therefore desired we might have a little patience; that our doing it too hastily might be only making sure of an occasion to throw the fifty guineas away; for if we should be obliged to do better for him, we could never expect that Booth would think himself bound in honour to refund them.'

"From this little conversation we see that art is not always the one beacon light of the player or the manager. Cibber argued with his natural shrewdness, but Wilks would not be convinced, and began, 'with his usual freedom of speech,' to treat the suggestion 'as a pitiful evasion of their intended generosity.'

"'But Dogget, who was not so wide of my meaning, clapping his hand upon mine, said, with an air of security, "O! don't trouble yourself! there must be two words to that bargain; let me alone to manage that matter." Wilks, upon this dark discourse, grew uneasy, as if there were some secret between us that he was to be left out of. Therefore, to avoid the shock of his intemperance, I was reduc'd to tell him that it was my opinion that Booth would never be made easy by anything we could do for him, 'till he had a share in the profits and management; and that, as he did not want friends to assist him, whatever his merit might be before, everyone would think since his acting of Cato, he had now enough to back his pretensions to it.'

In the end Cibber's objections were overruled, 'and the same night Booth had the fifty guineas, which he receiv'd with a thankfulness that made Wilks and Dogget perfectly easy, insomuch that they seem'd for some time to triumph in their conduct, and often endeavour'd to laugh my jealousy out of countenance.'"

DRAMA IN FOR A GOOD TIME AGAIN.

A CHAT WITH MR. G. CARLTON WALLACE.

The poor old drama has been in a very grave condition of late years, both in London and the provinces, according to many, and its early demise has even been predicted, but there have recently been indications that it is quickly recovering, and will soon be quite its old lively self again. There is the wonderful success of the sporting drama The Whip, at Old Drury, which reached its anniversary yesterday; the fortunes of the Lyceum were revived with romantic drama; melodrama has been packing the Aldwych for months; and the suburban houses devoted to this class of fare have little to complain of in the way of attendance and takings when they stage really first-class plays and companies.

If the croakers with their lamentations were to run up against the well-known touring manager and author, Mr. G. Carlton Wallace, they would speedily be convinced that drama—well written, well played, and well mounted—is still a big attraction in the country. Mr. Wallace, whose company has recently been doing excellent business at the Elephant and Castle Theatre with his new romantic play, The Apple of Eden, written by himself, speaks with authority and complete knowledge of his subject, for he has been touring plays from his own pen for some considerable time now, and frankly admits that he has little to grumble at. Besides his latest success he has written The Love That Women Desire, A Thief in the Night, The Lancashire Lad, and The Village Blacksmith, a play which ran for seven years. His shortest run was with A Lancashire Lad (three years), and he has never written a failure, which is something unique in the way of dramatic authorship.

"Yes, drama is in for a good time again," said Mr. Wallace emphatically, in a brief chat with an Era representative. "It is the staff of life to the theatre. Audiences may stray for a time, but they invariably return. Witness the strong demand there has been recently in the West-End for drama. When it languishes the blame must rest mainly with the resident manager. He has the power to sweep every bad play or company off the road by shutting his doors on them. Bogus could not obtain a foothold were resident managers to personally visit the companies they contemplate booking. They would see plainly whether the play would draw or not. Proprietors with the monopoly of a town are the worst offenders in this respect. When they think their audiences want a rest from musical comedy they invariably book the cheapest drama obtainable, thereby giving their patrons a false impression of what the first-class article is like.

[Photo by French.

MR. G. CARLTON WALLACE.

"Personally, I have little to complain about. Being so long established a manager, and known to give good productions, resident managers will book a play in advance. The only complaint I have against resident managers is that they will not come to see a production, and judge for themselves the merit or otherwise of a show."

There does not appear to be sufficient elasticity in the terms given to touring managers. Some resident managers there are who offer a ridiculously low percentage. You may take it or leave it. And the little man, of course, has to take it. There are many young touring managers ready and willing to do the thing properly who, after one tour, are compelled to retire. Mr. Wallace is of opinion that if a town is properly worked there should never be a dull season. The best of the kind of entertainment in demand should be provided, and there is always sufficient good drama to go round.

It is the cheap and nasty in drama that does the harm, and morbid and harrowing situations appeal only to the minority. Mr. Wallace, an enthusiastic and energetic worker, personally supervises every department in his companies, down to the smallest detail, and is careful that everything shall be of the best so far as in his power lies. Being the writer of all the plays he runs, he saves author's fees, and this is a big advantage to a touring manager. He, of course, also knows exactly how each part should be played, and is particularly careful in the selection of his company. Any success he may have achieved he attributes mainly to hard work and a determination to go in and win, and "Thoroughness in everything" would appear to be his motto. "I firmly believe, he says, "now that the picture palaces and skating rinks have levelled themselves out, the drama will quickly come into its own again."

So confident is he in the drawing power of good drama that he anticipates a London season in the not far distant future.

But he will speak of this later, when his plans are more matured. At present he finds himself kept pretty busy looking after his two companies touring A Thief in the Night, and his latest artistic and financial triumph, The Apple of Eden, both of which are well booked ahead.

A LIVERPOOL correspondent writes:—"May I, through the medium of your paper, call attention to the dangerous practice of striking matches in places of amusement? I was in the upper circle of a theatre last evening, and, though not an alarmist, I could not help being appalled at the thought of what a stray spark from one of the matches several men around were striking would mean in so crowded a place if it fell on any inflammable material. We have read a great deal lately of the inconsiderateness of women—by the way, I think most unprejudiced people agree that inconsiderateness is not monopolised by either sex altogether—but here is an instance in which the inconsiderateness of men may lead to more than a passing inconvenience, or a rushing of some 'lordly male's' temper, and steps should be taken to put a stop to such a dangerous habit."

THE DRAMA IN PARIS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, THURSDAY, Sept. 8.—Mme. Georgette Leblanc, wife of the famous writer, Maurice Maeterlinck, has given a marvellous production of Pelléas et Mélisande in St. Wandrille, the ancient abbey in Normandy, which the Belgian poet has made his home. When, after the passing of the Congregation law, M. and Mme. Maeterlinck heard that the Abbey of St. Wandrille was for sale, they at once made a bid for it, and having become the happy possessors of this ideal spot, carried out their plan to produce Pelléas et Mélisande in the halls and wooded dales of the ancient monastery. The price to attend this wonderful performance was fixed at 200 francs (£8); but the novelty of the thing appealed to the members of the fashionable world, many of whom turned up, and constituted a brilliant array of elegant women and Society men. But Mme. Georgette Leblanc, always well disposed to the Press, had also asked many journalists, and as I happened to be in Brittany, not far from St. Wandrille, I gladly accepted the great artist's kind invitation to witness this wonderful performance. The weather, unfortunately, was rather inclement, but it did no way damp the enthusiasm of the guests, among whom I noticed Mr. McKenna, First Lord of the Admiralty; Mr. Walkley, dramatic critic of the Times; Mme. Réjane; her daughter, Mlle. Parel; M. Deutsch de la Meurthe; Mr. Charles Waldstein, professor at Cambridge University; M. Francis de Croisset, the well-known author; and several members of the French aristocracy. There can be no doubt that the work produced eminently fitted the sylvan dales and the thirteenth-century halls in which the sixteen scenes were presented to the audience. The manner, however, in which this performance was given was novel in the extreme, inasmuch as each scene was enacted in a different spot. Thus, we were first guided by attendants in mediæval dress, bearing torches, to a place in the park where Mélisande was found weeping over her forlorn condition and the crown she dropped in the lake. Thence we returned to the front of the abbey to witness the interview between Arkel, the aged King, and Genevieve. At another door we found the old King and Genevieve waiting, and, from the distant wood heard the sound of horses' feet announcing the procession of Golaud bearing his young bride in his arms. In this way all the scenes in the beautiful work passed before us. Nothing could have been more simple, yet more natural, than the setting. The audience, being so few, did not disturb us, and during the entr'actes the costumed guides conducted us from one spot to another, full of the interesting aroma of the past. The work was admirably acted. Mme. Lablanc, who created the rôle some years ago, was an impressive and wonderfully fascinating Mélisande; as Pelléas M. René Maupré won golden laurels; M. Jean Durozat impersonated Golaud with masterly skill; and the minor parts were held by Mlle. Jeanne Even, M. Severin Mars, and Mlle. Gilberte Livettini.

AT the Théâtre du Châtelet the scene-shifters sprang an unpleasant surprise upon the management. After the second act they went in a body to M. Prévost, the stage-manager, and informed him that unless the demands they put forward some time ago were immediately complied with they would strike work. M. Prévost informed them that he could not discuss the question with them, M. Fontanes, the manager, being away. He promised them, however, to lay the matter before M. Fontanes and to espouse their cause. Before this conciliatory attitude the scene-shifters consented to resume work, but the discussion had lasted over half an hour, and the public, tired of waiting, had begun to show their impatience in an unpleasantly audible form.

AT the Palais-Royal MM. Allévy and Jaullot have read their new three-act vaudeville L'Enfant de l'Amour that will be the first novelty to be produced at that house. The work will be interpreted by Mlles. Marcelle Yrven, Tempiey, Calvat, Danjau, MM. Charles Lamy, Le Gallo, and Levesque.

Several new operas will be produced at the Opera-Comique during the coming season. Celeste, by M. Trépard; L'Heure Espagnole, that will be given at the same time as L'Ancestre; a new three-act opera by Saint-Saëns; Bérénice, by M. Alberic Maynard; Isdronning, by A. Coquard, whose death was announced in our last issue; Le Voile du Canheur, by M. Pons; La Yota, by M. Laparra; and two works by M. Claude Debussy, Le Chute de la Maison Ascher and Le Diable dans le Ceffroi, both founded on stories by Edgar Poe.

THE list of novelties which the Vaudeville has in store for us is not only a long one, but promises to be particularly interesting. That house will re-open on Sept. 20 with a revival of La Maison de Danse, and start the rehearsals of M. Kistemæcker's new comedy Le Marchand de Canheur. This will be followed by Rue de la Paix, three acts, by MM. Abel Hermant and de Toledo; Le Tribun, four acts by M. Paul Bourget; Raissa, four acts and five tableaux, by M. Pierre Berton; Montmartre, four acts, by M. Pierre Frondale; Sa fille, four acts, by MM. Félix Duguesnel and André Bard; Crésus, by M. Henri de Rothschild. Moreover, on Oct. 1 M. Gabriele d'Annunzio will read a new comedy specially written for Mlle. Simone, who will interpret the principal rôle therein. M. Parel also intends to revive La Famille Benoiton, the well-known comedy by M. Victorien Sardou, which created such a sensation during the latter part of the Second Empire.

"NOBODY'S DAUGHTER."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Will you kindly give publicity to the fact that "George Paston's" clever play Nobody's Daughter has, fundamentally, the same plot as a play which I submitted to Mrs. Kendal in the spring of 1901, and that it formed part of the basis of my play John Malone's Love Story, which was produced at the Court Theatre in January, 1908.

The likeness between the play, which was read by Mrs. Kendal, and Nobody's Daughter is one of the most remarkable coincidences I have known.

In both plays the father of the illegitimate girl is a soldier: in both plays the mother places her child out to nurse with a kindly-hearted but severely moral woman: in both plays the mother wishes to have the girl live with her, not as a daughter, but simply as a young friend, that the mother's husband may not know the relationship existing between the girl and herself, and in both plays the husband is a good, genial, light-hearted, affectionate, lovable man until the fourth act, when he learns his wife's secret.

That all this is mere coincidence I am perfectly aware, and I don't claim that it is anything more than mere coincidence; but as I have recently learned from two or three sources that I am saddled with some grossly untruthful accusations, I do not wish to have plagiarism added to the load, an addition which would seem a very justifiable one if the likeness between the two plots were not pointed out until my play was either produced or published in book form.—Yours faithfully, RACHEL PENN (Mrs. E. S. Willard).

43, Acacia-road, N.W., Sept. 8, 1910.

NEW PLAYS OF THE MONTH.

BERLIN.

Polnische Wirtschaft, musical farce, in three acts, by MM. Kraatz and Okonkowsky; Thalia, Aug. 6.

Auf der Goldwage, five-act play, by B. Ritterfeldt; Luisen, Aug. 6.

Simson und Delila, tragi-comedy, in three acts, by Sven Lange; Deutsches, Aug. 19.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP

Sir Herbert Tree has issued a circular letter calling attention to the complimentary matinée to be given at the Lyceum on Tuesday, Oct. 4, for the benefit of Mrs. Ernest Carpenter. Sir Herbert will appear in a selection from one of his productions, and Mr. Cyril Maude and Miss Marie Löhr in a new comedy, Mr. Henry Ainley, Miss Ellis Jeffreys, and Mr. Eric Mayne in monologues, Mr. Joseph Coyne and Miss Lily Elsie in a duet, Mr. Alfred Lester in A Restaurant Episode, Mr. Frederick Ross and Miss Norah Kerin in a new play, Mr. Espinosa and Miss Marjory Carpenter in a pas-de-deux, and the members of the Drury Lane company, in a scene from The Whip, will contribute to the programme, as will also Little Tich, Mr. Harry Lauder, and Miss Amy Evans, "the Welsh Patti." The matinée bids fair to be very successful, by reason of the remarkable strength of the programme, and the pathetic circumstances, which have excited so much sympathy both in the profession and amongst the general public. The demand for seats is already so large that it is advisable to book early.

The autumn term of the Academy of Dramatic Art will commence on Oct. 1, and on the 4th Mr. Arthur Bourchier will deliver a lecture on "The Art of Speaking Distinctly." On the 17th Sir Herbert Tree will preside at a reading by Mrs. Leo Grindon of a paper to the students on the subject of Shakespeare's Henry VIII. Mr. A. E. George has been specially engaged to preside over classes for declamation, and the number of the students is between eighty and ninety.

Mr. George Alexander, though The Importance of Being Earnest is still attracting the public, is compelled to announce the last performances, owing to previous arrangements for the production of D'Arcy of the Guards, in which he and Miss Evelyn D'Alroy will play the leading parts. The new play will be produced on Tuesday, Sept. 27.

In D'Arcy of the Guards the leading parts will be played by Mr. Alexander, who will represent a plausible and fascinating Major of Irish extraction, and Miss Evelyn D'Alroy, who will enact an American maiden. The period of the story is 1777, during the occupation of Philadelphia by the British under Sir William Howe and Lord Cornwallis.

The question of the colour of Henry VIII.'s beard is still in debate. Mr. Arthur Bourchier has received a letter from a correspondent who says:—"I possess in my collection all the manuscripts and notes concerning 'The Glimpse of Henry VIII.'s beard,' which George IV. obtained on April 1, 1813, while the coffin of Charles I. was being opened in the crypt of St. George's, Windsor. The beard was of a lightish red or auburn tinge, and I have two or three sketches of it. There is no doubt about its colour, but it does not seem to have been a very dark red. Sir Henry Halford left some notes about it, and the caricaturists of the time went boldly for both the King and the doctor for opening these coffins."

Mr. Laurence Irving, who, with Miss Mabel Hackney, is playing at the Liverpool Shakespeare Theatre this week, spoke very strongly on Tuesday evening, on the fall of the curtain, concerning the inadequate support he had received during that particular visit, and concluded by saying, "You have done your best to keep me in the theatres, but unless things take another turn I shall have to go where audiences are still to be found, namely, in the music halls."

Mr. Martin Harvey, who commenced his tour at the Opera House, Harrogate, on the 22nd ult., and subsequently visited Llandudno and Buxton, enjoyed exceptional success at these three popular resorts, especially at Llandudno, money being regretfully refused at all four performances, and the scene of enthusiasm on the final fall of the curtain on The Only Way on the last evening of the visit being described in the local press as "unexampled in the history of Llandudno theatricals."

Mr. Martin Harvey repeated at the Theatre Royal, Nottingham, on Wednesday, his lecture on the National Theatre. There was a large audience, including several local magnates, and it was announced that over £85 had been received from local supporters of the scheme, £18 more being collected at the lecture.

Mr. Loraine, the actor-aviator, as a result of an attempt to rise on Sunday evening from the field into which he dropped more than a fortnight ago, wrecked his machine for the second time, and now lies at an hotel with a badly-sprained ankle. The disappointment both for Mr. Loraine and his friends is great, but he had a lucky escape. The aeroplane collapsed right on top of him and pinned him to the ground, and his injuries might easily have been serious. The aeroplane, which did not leave the ground, had run more than a hundred yards when the wreck took place.

Mr. Stanislaus Stange, the well-known dramatist, who came over from New York to produce The Chocolate Soldier for the American manager, Mr. F. C. Whitney, at the Lyric Theatre this evening, had a paralytic seizure on Saturday afternoon, and although the doctors think that he will get over it, his recovery must necessarily be slow. Mr. Stange was rehearsing the company at the Lyric, and had brought them to the end of the third act, when he became suddenly ill and collapsed. He was removed to a nursing home, and since then has been progressing favourably. He was the adapter from the German, of the book of The Chocolate Soldier.

The curtain will rise on Mr. F. C. Whitney's elaborate presentation of The Chocolate Soldier at the Lyric Theatre at 8.30 punctually this evening, and one of the principal situations in the opera—a scene between Nadina (Miss Constance Drever) and Bumerli (Mr. C. H. Workman)—follows almost immediately. In order to give the fullest possible effect to the enchanting music of Mr. Oscar Straus, the chorus and the orchestra, under M. Jacques Heuval's, direction, have been increased to sixty and fifty performers respectively; and when the big scene in the second act is reached—the Return from the War—there will be no fewer than one hundred and twenty persons on the stage.

Mr. Louis N. Parker, who rendered such valuable assistance in the mounting of Henry VIII. at His Majesty's, was confined to his house by illness on the first night of the production, but is much better, and has now gone to Switzerland to write a new play for Mr. George Arliss, which Mr. Parker hopes to finish by the end of November. A prominent personage in Mr. Parker's play will be Lord Beaconsfield. The drama will first be tried in America.

Mr. Charles Frohman's cast of A Woman's Way, the comedy in three acts by Mr. Thompson Buchanan, at the Comedy Theatre on Wednesday evening will include Mr. Charles Quartermaine, Mr. Edmund Maurice, Mr. Charles Bryant, Mr. Eric Maturin, Mr. Athol Stewart, Mr. Frederick Lloyd, Mr. Frederick Volpe, Miss Kate Sergeantson, Miss Helen Rous, Miss Nina Sevening, Miss Madge Murray, Miss Marguerite Leslie, Miss Evelyn Beaumont, and Miss Alexandra Carlisle.

Mr. W. W. Kelly's many friends will learn with regret that he has been seriously ill during the past fortnight. Being at Manchester some fourteen days ago in connection with the fifty-eighth visit of A Royal Divorce to that city, Mr. Kelly was caught in a downpour of rain. A bad chill supervened, which at one time threatened serious consequences. However, Mr. Kelly's medical man ordered him to bed imperatively, and Mr. Kelly was obliged to submit. During the present week a marked improvement has slowly but surely been taking place, and yesterday Mr. Kelly was stated to be progressing as well as could be expected.

That popular comedian, Mr. Lionel Rignold, is still appearing in his capital creation of Pink, in that most successful comedy, What the Butler Saw. The Press everywhere is unanimous in its praise of himself and of the strong company he carries to support him. The piece is now on its seventh tour, going stronger than ever, and doing enormous business everywhere. On its third and fourth return visits to Manchester, Sheffield, Hull, &c., it has beaten its own records, and its career bids fair to equal, if not excel, the run of any farcical comedy which has been produced for many years.

We regret to announce the death at Ludlow, Yonkers, in his fifty-fifth year, of Mr. Julian Edwards, the well-known composer of light opera in America. Mr. Edwards was an Englishman, and was born at Manchester in 1855. His musical education was gained at Edinburgh University, where he studied under Sir Herbert Oakeley. He afterwards became conductor of the Royal English Opera Company.

Mr. Edwards' first important effort in music was a grand opera, Victorian, performed at Covent Garden, the libretto being founded on Longfellow's "Spanish Student." He was next associated as conductor with the Carl Rosa Opera Company, under the late Carl Rosa. Going to America to conduct a series of Gilbert and Sullivan revivals, Mr. Edwards was prevailed upon to remain there, and to direct his talents to high-class light opera.

Mr. Edwards' triumph in light opera was Madeleine; or, The Magic Kiss, which ran for three years without a break. Afterwards he wrote Brian Boru, The Wedding Day, The Jolly Musketeer, The Belle of London Town, The Princess Chic, and The Goddess of Truth, founded on Sir W. S. Gilbert's "Palace of Truth."

In When Johnny Comes Marching Home, written in collaboration with Mr. Stanislaus Stange, who provided the words for most of the above operas, Mr. Edwards composed an American national opera. His King René's Daughter was a one-act grand opera, and was performed at the Metropolitan Opera House. Dolly Vardon, with beautiful Miss Mabelle Gillman and charming Miss Madge Temple in the cast, was heard in London some years ago. Mr. Edwards also wrote the score for Sienkiewicz's play, Quo Vadis. He married in 1889 Miss Philippine Siedle, the well-known soprano vocalist.

The subjects of the late Mr. Holman Hunt's paintings were generally religious, but he exhibited in 1853 a remarkable picture of "Claudio and Isabella" in the prison scene in Measure for Measure, the attitudes of the brother and sister being quite unconventional, and the whole work having a realistic quaintness and force which were very arresting and impressive.

The usual monthly meeting of the directors of the Royal General Theatrical Fund was held at Savoy House, Strand, on Tuesday last, when the secretary reported that his Majesty the King had been graciously pleased to become the Patron of the Fund and that her Majesty the Queen had been graciously pleased to become a Patroness of the Fund. It was agreed that a further investment of £1,000 be made. The office of the Fund will be closed during next week.

The Rehearsal Company will present Shakespeare's comedy Much Ado About Nothing at the Court Theatre at a special matinée on Friday, Sept. 23, with the following cast: Benedick, Mr. H. A. Saintsbury; Leonato, Mr. Story Gofton; Claudio, Mr. Clarence Derwent; Pedro, Mr. Dennis Cleugh; John, Mr. Cyril Cattley; Friar, Mr. H. K. Ayliff; Antonio, Mr. Richard Neville; Borachio, Mr. W. A. Mackersy; Conrade, Mr. W. Coats-Bush; Verges, Mr. W. G. Fay; Dogberry, Mr. Clive Currie; Beatrice, Miss Mabel Manneringe; Hero, Miss Evelyn Vanderzee; Margaret, Miss Katherine Stuart; Ursula, Miss Grace Richardson.

This week Mr. Martin Harvey, Miss N. de Silva, and their company have been at Nottingham, where on Monday Richard III. was revived for the first time during the present tour. The magnificently-staged revival created a great impression, and as the King Mr. Martin Harvey won a conspicuous personal triumph, his performance being described as "a brilliant feat of histrionics and a tour de force wholly memorable." Richard III. will be played twice to-day, and to-morrow Mr. Harvey's company travel to Glasgow, where they open at the Theatre Royal on Monday in The Only Way. Richard III. will be played on four occasions during Mr. Harvey's stay in Glasgow, the demand for the play having necessitated extra performances. It is some time since Mr. Harvey has used this able little piece, and he will again appear as the blind ouvrier, Miss de Silva figuring in her original rôle.

That clever actor, Mr. Wm. Mackintosh, was due to appear with the Glasgow Repertory Company, as old Eccles in Caste, during this week; but an unfortunate difference of opinion at one of the final rehearsals, deprived local playgoers of the opportunity of seeing what would have been a notable impersonation. Mr. G. W. Anson (who was playing the part at Greenock last week) stepped into the breach at short notice, with the utmost credit to himself and satisfaction to the Repertory patrons.

Next Wednesday will be the opening night of the new autumn drama, entitled The Sins of London, by Walter Melville, at the Lyceum Theatre. The cast includes Mr. Frederick Ross, Mr. Harry Cane, Mr. Herbert Williams, Mr. J. C. Aubrey, Mr. Eric Mayne, Mr. S. Major Jones, Miss Polly Marsh, Miss Eva Dare, Miss Auriol Lee, Miss Vashti Wynne, Mr. Vassall-Vaughan, and Miss Amy Brandon Thomas.

Miss Thomas, although not yet out of her teens, has had a varied career and considerable experience in her profession. She had her first training from her father, Mr. Brandon Thomas, and made her début in his famous comedy Charley's Aunt. After appearing in several of his plays, she was engaged by Sir John Hare, and played with him in his last season at the Garrick Theatre and during his farewell tour. Mr. Forbes Robertson selected her for the part of Vivian in The Passing of the Third Floor Back. She then made a distinct hit as Portia in The Merchant of Venice at the Royal Court Theatre, and was chosen by Sir Herbert Tree for the part of Olivia in Twelfth Night in his recent Shakespeare season.

Mr. Charles Frohman is trying to secure a modification of the American law prohibiting dramatic productions on Sunday, so as to permit the presentation of plays on Sunday that have a sound moral lesson. He proposes that those plays shall be chosen by an appointed committee of citizens in each community, who have long been identified with humanitarian projects; and that the strictest civic supervision shall be exercised over the productions. Mr. Frohman's object is to expose on the stage the shams and injustices of contemporary, social, and political life, and turn the thoughts of the people to higher ideals on a Sunday. Justice, by Mr. John Galsworthy, Mr. Frohman regards as suitable for Sunday presentation, and also Smith.

The Liverpool Royal Court Theatre has, during a short closing, undergone a most striking alteration, and Mr. Robert Arthur is to be congratulated upon his enterprise. Some months ago premises adjoining, which had been used by a banking house, became vacant, and it was decided to utilise the space for the enlargement of the theatre. Mr. Arthur has accordingly remodelled everything on a comprehensive scale. The old winding staircase to the dress circle has disappeared, and in its stead is a beautiful straight cut approach with white marble pillars, leading up to a charming crush room. The sides of the dress circle and gallery have been pulled down and reconstructed, affording better lines of sight. New private boxes have been erected near the stage, the former ones at the rear of the dress circle having disappeared. Several rows of seats are added to the pit, the dress circle is enlarged, the proscenium widened, extra exits and entrances made, cloak room and lavatory accommodation increased, and, in fact, the whole place entirely altered in a surprising manner. The predominating tones are red and white, the walls being covered with very fine Japanese paper of cream and gold. Everybody who has witnessed the metamorphosis has given it the highest praise. The Liverpool Royal Court is now a thoroughly handsome and up-to-date theatre.

Miss Lily Elsie returns to Daly's Theatre this evening, resuming her original part of Alice in The Dollar Princess. Miss Elsie has been holiday making both on the Continent and in the country for the past seven weeks, having greatly benefited both in voice and health by the complete rest and change.

Mr. James Berry thanks all inquirers for their kindly solicitude, and although at one time things looked very bad, they are now quite hopeful for the future. The eminent specialist, Dr. Hutchinson, from the London Hospital, was called in at a critical moment, and there is every hope of a successful recovery.

The Saturday matinées of Tantalizing Tommy, which were discontinued during the summer months, will be resumed to-day, and a morning performance of the play will in future be given every Wednesday and Saturday.

Mr. J. Edward Pearce has been engaged by Mr. J. E. Watson to play Herr Fritzing in Priscilla Runs Away, on the forthcoming tour. Mr. Pearce has just concluded a long engagement with a repertory of plays by Mr. Bernard Shaw.

To-night the Saturday evening performances of Priscilla Runs Away will be resumed at the Haymarket Theatre. Although the public has greatly missed these performances, the pretty Princess Priscilla and her fellow-actors have gained so much energy from their week-ends as will keep them working merrily at the Haymarket for many months to come.

Mr. Sidney Bacon reopened the Public Hall, Carlisle, on Monday, after it had been closed for two weeks. The hall has been entirely redecorated and refurnished, and the latest improvements have been carried out, making this hall one of the finest in the provinces. Plans have been passed for the enlargement of the Victoria Hall, York, Mr. Bacon having purchased some property adjoining. The contractors are now at work, and it is expected that everything will be ready a month hence. Business has been carried on as usual during the alterations, and continues to boom as at Mr. Sidney Bacon's other halls, which include the Olympia, Newcastle, St. James's Hall, Kingston-on-Thames, Romilly Hall, Barry, and Public Hall, Erith.

Amongst those present at the hearing of the Crippen case at Bow-street on Tuesday were Sir W. S. Gilbert (on the bench), Mr. J. W. Mathews, of the Duke of York's Theatre, and Mr. J. M. Glover.

A copyright production of a play in three acts by Samuel Shipman, entitled The Woman of To-day, was given at the Court Theatre on Monday afternoon.

Mr. Philip Leslie, who at the end of the run of The Dawn of a To-morrow was engaged by Mr. George Tyler for Liebler and Co., sailed for New York this week.

Miss Lila Field, who last winter presented The Goldfish, acted by children, at the Playhouse, will, in the middle of October, at one of the large West-End theatres, produce a series of plays which will be performed entirely by juveniles. The plays will be given on matinées on five days per week, and will be specially written to interest young people. The Goldfish will be the first to be performed. Miss Field has obtained the support of Princess Dolgorouki, Princess Hatzfeldt, the Duchess of Norfolk, the Duchess of Marlborough, and the Marquis de Soveral.

Mr. Nat Gould's first play, The Chance of a Lifetime, is playing to record business at the King's Theatre, Melbourne. Mr. Wm. Anderson has staged the piece lavishly, and his Australian company give an admirable performance. A tour of Australia is being booked, and Mr. Frank Gerald hopes to be home again in time to produce the drama in England next Easter.

Miss Annie Hughes, in consequence of her provincial bookings with Miss Tommy, by Jerome K. Jerome, has been compelled to relinquish several engagements for this autumn. The latest offer Miss Hughes has received is from Miss Gertrude Kingston for her new theatre. In Norwich next week Miss Hughes will produce a farce in one act by David Garth, called In Private Life. David Garth is the Rev. D. Wallace Duthie, a canon of Norwich Cathedral.

Mr. Walter Reynolds is enjoying an ideal holiday at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

The popular theatre of the Crystal Palace, which is situated in the Centre Transept, will reopen on Sept. 26, with D'Oyly Carte's Opera Company, who bring with them a popular and extensive répertoire Mr. J. Bannister Howard, under whose management the theatre is run, has used every effort to provide patrons with a good weekly programme, and judging from the list we have been shown, we should say Mr. Howard has been very successful in his efforts, the list including as it does A Woman in the Case, The Prince and the Beggar Maid, A Speckled Band, The Naked Truth, and many others. The Sydenham Hill Operatic Society will again present their light operas. We are pleased to learn that Mr. J. B. Sharpe will retain his former position as resident-manager of this theatre.

A welcomed instance of the revived interest in the provinces in Shakespearean and classical plays was evidenced last week on the occasion of Mr. Allan Wilkie's visit to the Alexandra Theatre, Widnes, when the holding capacity of that theatre was taxed to its utmost limits, and many would-be patrons of the stalls and circle had to be content with standing room at the back of the pit, even this not always being available. To cope with such enthusiastic patronage Mr. Wilkie has arranged with Mr. Gar Kiddie to extend his next year's visit to Widnes to a fortnight, when he will present a repertory of no fewer than twelve plays, so that no repeat performance of any one play will be given during the visit—this, in Mr. Wilkie's opinion, being the secret of successful touring with a Shakespearean repertory.

Messrs. Pain's great spectacle, entitled The Destruction of Pompeii, at the Crystal Palace, on Monday enters on its final week, the last performance being on Saturday next, so that those who have not yet seen this wonderful and beautiful open-air ballet will have to make the most of their opportunities, as after the 17th inst. Pompeii will be withdrawn from the Palace programme.

In view of the great success that has attended the nightly performance of this spectacular drama, it has been decided to accord Messrs. James Pain and Sons a grand benefit, and Thursday next is the day chosen. On this occasion a special programme has been arranged, which will include many pyrotechnic novelties. There will be daylight fireworks at 5.30 on the cycle track, a grand full performance of The Destruction of Pompeii at 7.15, and a magnificent display of fireworks on the terraces at 9.15. Other attractions in the programme will be four military bands, viz., the Coldstream Guards (conducted by Lieut. Mackenzie Rogan), Norwood Postal Band, the Crystal Palace Military, and the Crystal Palace Quadrille bands. Two performances of a vaudeville show will be given, the artists including Mlle. Doris and her Canines; Le Clement, trapeze act; the Adras, acrobats; Talberto and Douglas, speciality artists; and the Schafer Four, musical act.

There will also be the Fairy Archipelago, with its numerous attractions, such as the great water chute, rapids, and many side shows, including "Old London," so that it is pretty certain that a huge crowd will assemble at the Palace on the 15th, for the fame of Pompeii is world-wide.

Miss Maie Hoey, who has made a great success as Fatma and principal dancer in Messrs. Murray King and Clarke's Bedouin Beauty company, is a pupil of Mlle. Genée. Miss Hoey paints, and plays the mandolin, violin, and piano.

Mr. Douglas Stuart has nearly completed the compilation of his Railway Fare Book for this year. A new feature is the inclusion of over 1,000 fares from smaller towns in the provinces to the most important adjacent centres. The last day for advertisements to be received is Thursday next, Sept. 15.

Miss Phyllis Relph, who was the Joan Fielding in The Fighting Chance at the Lyceum early in the year, and has lately been playing the Hon. Gwendolin Fairfax in Mr. Peter Davey's and Mr. Douglas Gordon's summer tour of The Importance of Being Earnest, has been engaged by Mr. Forbes Robertson to play Vivian with him in The Passing of the Third Floor Back in New York and on a tour in the States. She sails by the Laurentic on Sept. 17 from Liverpool.

A meeting of the committee of the Managers' Club was held on Friday, the 2nd inst. Present: Mr. H. Ralland (in the chair), Mr. Weathersby, Mr. Lambert, Mr. Carlton Wallace, Mr. Maitland, Mr. Clifton Alderson, Mr. Bertram, Mr. Graham Falcon, and Mr. Martin (secretary). Mr. H. W. Rowland and Mr. J. Garrett Todd were duly elected members, and Mr. George N. Ballanger was elected an honorary member during his stay in London.

A meeting of the committee of the Touring Managers' Association, Ltd., was held on Friday, the 2nd inst., at the Managers' Club. Present: Mr. H. Ralland (in the chair), Mr. Lambert, Mr. Carlton Wallace, Mr. Weathersby, Mr. Maitland, Mr. Brydon-Phillips, Mr. Langlois, Mr. Bertram, Mr. Alderson, Mr. Falcon, and Mr. Martin (secretary). A member having reported an actor for breaking his engagement, the secretary was asked to obtain a statement of damages from the member, to enable the solicitor to take the necessary proceedings. A member complained of the way in which he was treated on a journey by a railway company, and the secretary was requested to move in the matter.

"Are You a Mason?" is still drawing big houses, and during its visit to Scotland through August has met with success upon success. At the Lyceum Theatre, Edinburgh, and King's, Glasgow, the play has done phenomenal business, and hundreds have been turned away, not being able to secure seats.

Miss Gertrude Boswell has been engaged by Mr. Ian Robertson to play the part of Vivian in The Passing of the Third Floor Back for his forthcoming American season. Miss Boswell, who has done so much good work in America, Australia, South Africa, and England with the late Mr. Wilson Barrett, and latterly with Sunday and her most successful creation of the dumb girl in Mr. Fred Melville's play, Married to the Wrong Man, is delighted at the thought of returning to America, though on her last trip to the States Miss Boswell was wrecked and on an island for five days. However, she was landed safely on inhabited shores, and in time to open in Canada in a part she went there to sustain.

The Wrexham Opera House has been reopened this week with Mr. Hubert Helliwell's company in Wrongs of a Woman. Mr. Herbert Kingsley has been secured as local manager, and the musical direction has been placed in the hands of Mr. Holman.

Mr. Arthur Collins-Rolfe, who is at present playing the Earl of St. Ives in Our Miss Gibbs, under the management of Mr. George Dance, has recently presented some interesting photographs of Old Dulwich to the Camberwell Central Library, including one of the birthplace of Mr. Joseph Chamberlain in Camberwell Grove. The photos are now hung in the vestibule of the Library.

On Sept. 26 the American scout Young Buffalo will commence his English tour at the Borough Theatre, Stratford, in King of the Wild West. For five years Young Buffalo has toured America in this melodrama. While playing at Toronto and Montreal, Miss Ellen Terry was appearing in the same towns, and she and her company visited the play several times, and it is partly on her suggestion that Young Buffalo is making the tour. He will be supported by Miss Caroline May Blaney as a Western cowgirl, and he is bringing some Indians direct from the reservation, and three Mexican ponies. As in America, the entire company will parade, the principals on horseback, headed by Young Buffalo in scout costume, and Miss Blaney riding astride in Western costume, with cowboy band and Indians in native dress. As soon as a theatre can be found in the West End where he can play at popular prices, Young Buffalo intends coming to London for a run. He will arrive at Waterloo Station with his company on Sunday between 11 and 12 by the Southampton boat train.

Mr. Frederick Melville's successful drama The Bad Girl of the Family is already creating considerable excitement in Australia. It has not yet reached Sydney; but at Perth, Adelaide, and amongst the silver mines of Broken Hill there have been "record rushes" to witness the play. A well-known lady lecturer has made it the subject of her nightly discourse, and thus the "Bad Girl" is good business even as a lecture.

Mr. Alexander Marsh and Miss Carrie Baillie are this week in occupation of Kelly's Theatre, Liverpool, and last Tuesday Mr. Marsh won much appreciation as Hamlet, a rôle he had not previously played in Liverpool.

Mr. Charles Road-night's Havanah company, which is proving a success in the provinces, includes such well-known and excellent artists as Mr. William Pringle, Mr. Arthur Lenville, Miss Josephine Sullivan, and Miss Ada Davidson. Mr. Road-night has arranged to tour The Prodigal Son and The Dairymaids at Christmas, in addition to three companies already on the road.

"Are You a Mason?" like Charley's Aunt, will have a West End season at Christmas, and a London theatre is being negotiated for by "Productions Limited." This excellent comedy is sure to attract large audiences.

Mr. James Carter Edwards writes: I note in your account of Herbert Hudson's old concert hall in Birmingham that a John Carter Edwards appeared there. No "John" Carter Edwards ever appeared there, nor have I had that honour, although I was very much and for a long period connected with the hall, as my brother, George Henry Edwards, was constantly acting there as a leading amateur.

At the recent musical examination, Mr. Fred Clarke Holliday, seventeen years of age, son of the well-known composer and conductor at the King's, Seacombe, succeeded in gaining the Cheshire Educational Musical Scholarship, tenable for three years at the Royal College of Music. No doubt more will be heard of this promising young musician in the future.

The new musical play by Lord Yarmouth, The Pigeon House, was most successfully performed at the Theatre Royal, Plymouth, on Monday. Mr. Ivan Berlyn made a big hit in his scenes with Miss Jane Eyre and Miss Iris Hoey, and was accorded an ovation at the end of the second act. The production will come to London shortly.

A new one-act drama, entitled Two Men and a Woman, written by the authors of Looking for Trouble, will precede the performance of that play for the first time at the County Theatre, Reading, on Monday.

Mr. O. Silverstone will put on the road about Easter a new production with the title The Ruin of a Countess. The play is built on exceptionally original lines, and the whole theme is quite away from the beaten track. Mr. Silverstone intends to make this production a very fine one, and one of the best known scenic artists will be engaged upon it. The production will be the sole property of and under the personal supervision of Mr. Silverstone.

Alfred Bruneau's orchestral suite, "L'Attaque du Moulin," which was so enthusiastically received on Tuesday evening last at the Promenade Concerts, when it was performed for the first time in England, will be repeated by special request on Friday evening, taking the place of Bach's Brandenburg Concerto No. 1.

M. Ysaye will make his reappearance in London on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 8, at Queen's Hall, when he will give an orchestral concert with the Queen's Hall Orchestra, under the conductorship of Mr. Henry J. Wood.

On Saturday evening there will be one novelty, a set of six Flemish dances by M. Jan Blockx, head of the Antwerp Conservatoire. The young school of British composers is represented by Mr. Hamilton Harty's "Comedy Overture." Lalo's "Russian" Concerto for violin and orchestra will be interpreted by Mlle. Ivonne Astruc, who appears for the first time at the promenade concerts. The rest of the programme is made up of popular and well-known items.

Herr Fritz Kreisler will make his reappearance in London on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 24, when he will give a violin recital at Queen's Hall.

Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's Naked Truth company has certainly caught on at the Devonshire Park Theatre, Eastbourne, this week. "House full" has been the nightly announcement, and amongst the visitors have been Princess Storokoff and Countess Starkey, who professed themselves delighted with the performance. Miss Molesworth and Mr. Blow have dressed the play with exquisite taste, the gowns worn by the ladies coming from leading West-End firms. Mr. Townsend Whitling is stage-manager, and Mr. Arthur Law Raynor business-manager for the tour.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Chas. Imeson celebrate their silver wedding on Sunday, Sept. 18.

Mr. Oscar Hammerstein has elected to take advantage of an option he acquired some time ago from the London County Council, and has secured property situated in Kingsway, between Kemble and Keeley streets, as a site for an opera-house of modern construction to seat over three thousand persons, with a balcony devoted entirely to boxes, of which there will be forty-five. Mr. Hammerstein expects to finish the building in the autumn of next year. His répertoire will be selected from the French, Italian, and German schools. He will call his theatre the "London Opera House," and will set aside two boxes for the exclusive use of the King of England and the Lord Mayor of London.

The head of the Follies is once again to give the halls a taste of his quality, having been commissioned by Mr. Alfred Moul to supply a revue for the Alhambra, to be produced there about Christmas. The revue will deal entirely with passing events, and Mr. Pélissier will depart as far as possible from conventional lines, dispensing with imitations of popular artists and the "potting" of current plays.

Mr. Eugene d'Albert's dramatic opera Tiefland, which will be heard for the first time in England on Oct. 1, the opening night of the Beecham Opera season at Covent Garden, is now being rehearsed. Mr. d'Albert was born in Glasgow. Tiefland had been sung on the Continent 1,854 times up to the end of February last. The plot is practically the same as that of Feudalismo, the drama which the Sicilian players presented in London.

Messrs. J. E. Watson and C. L. Doe's Priscilla Runs Away company, from the Haymarket Theatre, starts on its tour on Monday, Sept. 19, at Hastings and Eastbourne Piers a week before it was intended originally to commence the tour. The play is drawing such crowded houses in London that the Haymarket management have found it necessary to put on an extra matinée on Saturdays to cope with the increasing demand for seats. The application from provincial managers for the play have been so numerous that the management have decided to book right ahead till June next.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Short-winded

In the second act of Coriolanus—writes Mr. R. O. Mason in "Sketches and Impressions"—when Kemble as Coriolanus returns from his late victory, he gave instructions to Schmidt, the little German trumpeter, to continue the trumpet flourish until he got well down to the front of the stage. At the rehearsal Kemble walked in a slow and stately manner from the back of the stage down to the footlights; but during the stately march the little trumpeter became exhausted and the flourish died out. "Sir!" said Kemble, with severe dignity, "did I not tell you to keep on blowing until I stopped?" "Yes, sir," meekly answered the breathless trumpeter, "but, mine Gott! who is to find der vind?"

Nothing Impossible.

KEMBLE'S energy when once he had decided to do a thing was immense. While the play of Henry VIII. was in preparation, he desired the chief "property man," Bradwell, to have a certain piece of stage property ready in a certain time. Bradwell demurred, saying it was impossible to prepare such a piece of work so quickly. "Impossible!" said Kemble, "I don't know the word; if it were necessary for the play I would have a pickled elephant in that time."

An Amusing Accident.

OLD Mr. Stephens, father of Catherine—"Kitty Stephens"—afterwards Countess of Essex was at one time the victim of an amusing incident. He was one evening, during the music between the acts, standing on the stage with his back in close proximity to the "act drop." Either purposely or by mistake the prompter rang up the curtain, and while slowly rolling up, it quietly took in Mr. Stephens' coat-tails. Notwithstanding his struggles he was lifted clean off his feet and hung doubled up like a half-closed jack-knife, with legs and arms dangling in the air. The English broadcloth refused to give way, and his bulk prevented the curtain from going up any farther. So there he hung in full sight of the audience. There was some confusion, the curtain was rung down, and Mr. Stephens, very red in the face, was safely landed on all fours, and crawled off amid screams of laughter both before and behind the scenes. His remarks on the occasion have never been fully reported.

Mr. Billington's Record.

MR. FRED BILLINGTON, interviewed by the representative of the Glasgow Citizen, has reminded us of the length of his connection with the D'Oyly Carte Company. "I joined in the autumn of 1879, so that you can figure it out for yourself. About thirty-one years and six months is the total, I believe. In that time I have witnessed many changes, but I am glad to say there has been no change in the popularity of the operas. I am the only member of that company left. I had played Poo-Bah in The Mikado exactly 3,054 times up to March last. I stopped counting then.

Like Sims Reeves.

"PERSONALLY, I make it a point to remain off the bill rather than risk going on when I don't feel quite fit. Let me appear to falter for one instant in saying my lines or utter one cracked note and immediately people will begin to say: 'Ah, he is not the Billington he was. He's failing.' There are always critics looking for faults. I want to disappoint them for a while yet.

Mrs. Carte's Thoughtfulness.

"WE do not always take away money from the places we visit," said Mr. Billington. "There are towns in our itinerary where the question is not—'How much shall we make?' but rather—'How little shall we lose?'"

"Then why not drop calling at them?"

"Because we have to take the fat with the lean. It keeps the company together instead of leaving the members wandering about idle so many months and leaving it almost impossible to get them together again. That shows Mrs. Carte's thoughtfulness, and helps to explain the esprit-de-corps which is so prominent a feature of the D'Oyly Carte Company."

Overheard at a Music Hall.

FIRST Speaker, who has brought his unsophisticated friend to see the show: "This is the star turn—Courtice Pounds and company. You'll enjoy this."

His Friend: "Oh. Seems a clever company. Is that Pounds?"

First Speaker: "Oh, no—Pounds is not on yet. These are the shillings and pence."

Long Waits.

MISS DREVER is not impressed by "production" in Paris. "Any clever stage-manager over here," she has told the Daily Express, "who knows the language can make his fortune in Paris. In 'straight' comedy they are perfect, but in musical comedy they have only the ideas. They can't carry them out. The 'waits' are intolerable, and if the leading man gets to the theatre long after he is due it doesn't matter; the curtain can be kept down."

Working for the Ensemble.

"BUT the French artists are charming with an English woman, and I can't tell you what I owe to their exquisite camaraderie. There, too, they work for the picture, the ensemble. No one strives for the merely personal success. And the audience? Well, as a rule, the claque does all their applauding, but they broke their rule for The Merry Widow, and cheered us to the echo."

A Bad Beard.

MR. ROY COCHRANE, the manager of the Surrey, was, as everyone knows, a leading actor before he became a music hall manager. On one occasion he was playing Rhodrick Dhu in an old Scottish drama, and was engaged in a fiery combat with King James. The actor who played that part wore the cloven beard of the period, which had been clumsily fixed, with the result that in the course of the vigorous cut and thrust it gradually slipped lower and lower down his face until just as Roderick bore his opponent to his knees and cried, "Now yield ye, King James!" the beard slipped completely off and fell to the ground amid roars of laughter from the audience. It was the quickest shave on record!

A "Fit" of Laughter.

ONE frequently reads in the criticism of a play that the audience went into "fits" of laughter, but this seldom occurs in reality. It, however, actually did happen during the performance of Miss Florence Baines' musical farce Miss Lancashire, Limited, on Monday last at the Grand Opera House, Middlesbrough, when a youth in the pit was moved to laughter to such an extent that he was seized with a fit, and some considerable time elapsed before he could be brought round.

An Audience of Seven.

MR. C. W. SOMERSET, who is playing the part of Dr. Grimesby Rylott in The Speckled Band on tour, says: "I have a recollection of an amusing event at Salisbury. We were billed to play, She Stoops to Conquer, but when we were ready to commence there was not a soul in the building, and we were told there would be no performance. Just at that moment a gentleman drove up to the theatre with a party of seven from a village ten miles away, and when he found there was no show he was so disappointed that he offered to pay the expenses of the whole company if they played. To cut a long story short we did play, and to a party of seven people only! This gentleman was so delighted with the performance that he invited us to his house, and we had a very jolly time."

"NOBODY'S DAUGHTER."

Play, in Four Acts, by George Paston, Produced at Wyndham's Theatre, on Saturday, Sept. 3.

Mr. Frampton	MR. GERALD DU MAURIER
Mrs. Frampton	MISS LILIAN BRAITHWAITE
Colonel Torrens	MR. SYDNEY VALENTINE
Mrs. Torrens	MISS HENRIETTA WATSON
Tony	MR. RONALD SQUIRE
Honora May	MISS ROSALIE TOLLER
Christine Grant	MISS MARY RORKE
Teresa Holroyd	MISS DOROTHY BELL
Sir Jasper Marchmont	MR. LEON QUARTERMAINE
Will Leonard	MR. H. MARSH ALLEN
Maid	MISS MARY LESLIE

Mr. Frank Curzon and Mr. Gerald du Maurier can be heartily congratulated on the success of their first production under joint management. There is every possibility that Nobody's Daughter, by George Paston, produced at Wyndham's Theatre on Saturday, Sept. 3, will be "Everybody's Child," for a play so fresh, of such delightful simplicity, with so strong a human interest, and withal so happily cast, is likely to become a universal favourite. "We are only children wandering over the moor," is the summing-up of John Frampton's view of life. Helen Frampton, his wife, had gone astray from the path of virtue twenty years before the play begins, before she had ever met the man she marries. She and young Jim Torrens had been madly in love with one another and too poor to marry. The result of their brief period of madness, a baby girl, has been handed over to the care of a Calvinistic old nurse, Christine Grant, and the unfortunate episode has been kept carefully hidden. Jim Torrens is sent to India, and in twelve months he finds a rich wife, and the mother of his child marries a wealthy man with whom she is genuinely in love. There is nothing to recall the brief period of their infatuation but the little Honora May, to whom they pose as guardians and family friend. The child is well looked after, well cared for, but her companions belong to the working classes, and from them she takes her ideas and her general tone.

When she reaches the age of nineteen her self-appointed guardians come to the tardy conclusion that her surroundings and associates are unfitted for one of her birth. In the meantime the Torrenses have returned from India and are on terms of intimate friendship with the Framptons. It is suggested that Honora shall go into a "nice" family for two years, but the girl, who is unaware of her parentage, refuses. She has made her own plans, she has given her heart to an ambitious young chauffeur, and she is going to marry him. They will sail together for Australia, where Will's chance in life is to be found. The mother is horrified at the idea of her daughter marrying a working-man; she will save Honora from such a marriage at all costs. As Honora refuses to go to a "nice" family, Helen will take her into her own home for six months, hoping that in a different atmosphere and surrounded by congenial society the vision of the young chauffeur will fade away. So Honora goes unwittingly to her mother's home. There now appears on the scene John Frampton, Helen's husband, a charming, boyish middle-aged man, devoted to his wife, happy in the friendship of Jim Torrens. He is delighted at the advent of his wife's protegée, his one regret being that they are childless; and, on finding that poor Honora occasionally frets because of her lack of "real" relations, he in an idle moment sets himself the task of discovering the secret of her antecedents.

He succeeds only too well for the peace of mind of everybody concerned. It is, of course, on the woman, his wife, that his anger is chiefly concentrated. That she has been a loving, faithful companion to him for seventeen years counts not at all; she has deceived him, she has abjured her motherhood, she is altogether vile, she must be cast away. And who induces him to take a more rational view of the matter and is principally instrumental in bringing about a reconciliation? Who but the wife of the other man, a woman of beautiful character, sane, broad-minded, with a heart quick to feel, and a brain clear to judge rightly, a woman who "knew it all the time," and had kept silence until the time came for her to speak.

We cannot conceive a better rendering of this part of Mrs. Torrens than that given by Miss Henrietta Watson. There is nothing showy or theatrical in the character; she is a sweet-tempered, reasonable human being, and as such Miss Watson presents her, giving, by a multitude of clever touches, an impression of strength behind the sweetness, of the big heart of the woman behind the clear brain. Miss Watson's one chance for effect comes in the third act, and she rises magnificently to the occasion in her denunciation of "man-made laws." It is a performance that reaches a very high level of artistic merit. Miss Lilian Braithwaite hits exactly the right note as Helen Frampton, the sweet, soft, yielding woman of many charms, one of those "who love and feel, but cannot reason," and so "fall," and, alas! are not strong enough to bear the consequences of their folly. Miss Braithwaite conveys with exquisitely modulated pathos the suffering of the woman who, when her belated mother-love is awakened, finds her child's affection is wholly given to the nurse who has "mothered" her from her cradle. Miss Rosalie Toller is a very sympathetic figure as Honora, the "Nobody's Daughter," and plays with much charm and feeling, though her performance might perhaps be improved if she indicated her village upbringing in the first act by a little more shyness, even a touch of gaucherie. Miss Mary Rorke gives a beautiful and touching picture of a stern Calvinistic woman who cannot lie—and "a woman who can't tell a lie is like a firebrand," says Jim Torrens—whose love for her charge is for ever breaking through the crust of duty with which her hard religion has hedged her round. Miss Dorothy Bell is piquant as a vicar's daughter, "one of six" doomed to wear clothes from a "universal family wardrobe," who bemoans the gift of a smart hat because "the other five are always wanting to borrow it." Mr. Gerald du Maurier is extraordinarily interesting in the part of John Frampton, the easy-going, genial, middle-aged man, who is "bouleversé" by the discovery of his wife's deception. It is, we believe, the first time that Mr. du Maurier has attempted a part of this description, and his talent recently has been expended in depicting heroes of criminal or quasi-criminal characters. In a "straight part" Mr. du Maurier has more chance of showing his scope. His John Frampton is a clever, well-considered study, the "jolly" man who fools delightfully and without buffoonery in the privacy of his own circle, who is as quickly sensitive to the vague yearnings of the young girl for "somebody to belong to" as to the doubts of the austere old nurse who fears that "the world, the flesh, and the devil" will prove too strong for her child. As Jim Torrens, Mr. Sydney Valentine plays with his usual excellent judgment and psychological insight. Mr. Marsh Allen is first-rate as the straightforward and attractive young chauffeur of humble birth, and Mr. Ronald Squire is natural as the crippled son of Mr. and Mrs. Torrens. Mr. Leon Quartermaine, who enacts an aviator, plays an unobtrusive part easily and well, and Miss Mary Leslie is satisfactory as a maid.

"A BOLT FROM THE BLUE."

Play, in Three Acts, Adapted by Cosmo Hamilton from Le Costaud des Epinettes by Tristan Bernard and Alfred Athis, Produced at the Duke of York's Theatre on Tuesday, Sept. 6.

Claude Brévin	MR. ARTHUR WONTNER
Doizeau	MR. DENNIS EADIE
Valtier	MR. LESLIE FABER
Gabriel	MR. A. HOLMES-GORE
Gomez	MR. HERBERT ROSS
Père Tabac	MR. EDMUND GWENN
Chémard	MR. HAROLD CHAPIN
Le Baron de Rouget	MR. A. G. ONSLOW
Chagnard	MR. HERBERT BUNSTON
Sauvalin	MR. HUBERT HARBEN
Boissonet	MR. J. H. BREWER
Doulieus	MR. WALTER KINGSFORD
La Tanche	MR. A. SCOTT-CRAVEN
Le Nantais	MR. ERNEST YOUNG
Ferdinand	MR. HAROLD WEST
Julian	MR. ARTHUR ELDRED
Achille	MR. CHARLES VERNON
Le Concierge	MR. DERLINCOURT ODLUM
Manager of the Hotel	MR. P. L. JULIAN
Arsène	MR. RICHARD HAIGH
Adèle	MISS LYDIA BILBROOKE
Agathe	MISS FRANCES DILLON
Eugénie	MISS AGNES MILLER
Clorinde	MISS LILY MCINTYRE
Mme. Sauvalin	MISS MINNIE GRIFFIN
Ginette	MISS EVANGELINE HILLIARD
Valentine Gay	MISS ANN CLEAVER
Julia Varin	MISS SHEILA HESELTINE
Jeanne Dargens	MISS THEODORA GERARD
Irma Lurette	MISS IRENE VANBRUGH

There would seem to have been something in Le Costaud des Epinettes which has evaporated in the process of adaptation from the French, for when it was produced at the Paris Vaudeville on April 14 last our correspondent described it as a "singular and charming play." Our readers will judge from the following scenario if these adjectives are applicable to A Bolt from the Blue.

Irma Lurette, a beautiful and attractive Parisian actress, has in her possession some compromising letters which will prove fatal to the peace of mind of a certain noble family if, as Irma threatens, she makes them public property. To prevent this at all costs, the matter is placed in the unprincipled hands of an unscrupulous old villain, Doizeau, who sees no alternative but the murder of Irma as a prelude to the theft of the papers. To find a man who, for a suitable consideration, will stop at nothing, not excepting homicide, Doizeau visits a café-restaurant in the Quartier des Epinettes, kept by one Père Tabac, a favourite haunt of the Apaches, where we are shown some weird and horrible specimens of humanity.

The first man chosen for the task is a creature ready to commit any atrocity for money, but he fights shy when he learns that as a preliminary it will be necessary for him to make himself attractive to the woman he is to murder. He confesses that he has always had an invincible repugnance to feminine society, and that, so far as he is concerned, the job is "off." But the restaurant keeper, Père Tabac, who is an ally of Doizeau's, has another card up his sleeve. He has had a visit that same day from a man whom he had formerly befriended to the extent of granting him a loan of 2,000 francs, and who has returned to his old haunts, after trying ineffectually for a year or so to earn an honest living. Claude Brévin is a gentleman by birth, who, finding the burden of life too heavy for him, is on the point of ending it, when the thought of his debt to the man who had done him a good turn causes him to pause. He goes to Père Tabac famished in body and broken in spirit, and implores him to come once again to his —Brévin's—aid. Père Tabac rises to the occasion. He gives Claude food and drink, and then tells the revived and grateful man that he has found him work to do. It is dirty work; he must make no objection if his hands are soiled; but if he consents he will find himself the richer by 10,000 francs.

The prospect of possessing this sum decides the penniless Claude to agree to anything; he is introduced to Doizeau, and the plot is laid before him. He is to accompany Doizeau to an hotel where a reception is to be held in honour of the hundredth performance of the play in which Irma is appearing. He will be introduced to her, and is to set himself the task of attracting her sufficiently to persuade her to permit him to accompany her to her flat, where he is to murder her and obtain possession of the papers. As the whole villainous scheme is unfolded, Claude realises its infamy and wavers. At first he refuses the job; but eventually he remembers his desperate condition and the promised reward, and consents to do the deed.

The plans of the conspirators are entirely successful. Irma takes a violent fancy to Claude, apparently because he makes her lose her temper within five minutes of their meeting. Within another fifteen she has accepted a valuable sapphire ring from him, and in half an hour she has agreed to take him with her to a tête-à-tête supper at her flat. He is hardly to be blamed for thinking the charming actress "no better than she ought to be" when he finds himself alone with Irma in her rooms, her maid Eugénie having been hurriedly called away by a "bogus" telegram; and she, preparatory to changing into something "soft and loose," asks him to undo the top hook of her evening frock. It is a surprise to others besides Claude to find that, in spite of her Bohemian tendencies, Irma has an invincible prejudice for remaining "straight." However, straight or otherwise, Claude has come to murder her. She retires to her room to don a teagown, and he turns out the light and waits her return with unclasped knife. But another is before him. Into the darkened room creeps an Apache who seizes Irma by the throat. Claude dashes to her rescue, the Apache is overpowered and kicked out, and Irma falls in the arms of the man who has saved her life—by accident. He confesses all to her. She forgives him, hands over the letters, refusing to accept in payment for them the 10,000 francs which were to have been the price of her murder, and invites him to join the company to which she belongs—an offer which Brévin gladly accepts.

Parisian taste, it seems, highly approved of Le Costaud des Epinettes. In the form of A Bolt from the Blue it appears to an English audience as a somewhat lurid melodrama, with a distinctly morbid atmosphere, and it is a matter of some regret that the talents of such fine exponents of their art as Miss Irene Vanbrugh, Mr. Edmund Gwenn, and Mr. Dennis Eadie should be expended on parts which do not call for the exercise of a tithe of their ability. Miss Irene Vanbrugh does everything she can with the part of Irma, and actually manages by sheer force of personality and charm to make her appear an acceptable character, a delightful Bohemian, unaffected, unconventional, who rules her life by laws of her own making, and has the courage to act on her instincts and defy conventions. Miss Vanbrugh's supreme art enables her to give an exquisite touch of womanliness to a part which might have been easily made hard and unsympathetic. As Claude Brévin Mr. Arthur Wontner takes full advantage of the emotional phases through which the unfortunate man passes, and contrives, with much cleverness, to make his best effect in the most difficult phase—that of Brévin's indecision. Mr. Dennis Eadie makes a very interesting study of the wicked old Doizeau, a sinister figure, always hovering in the background, recalling to the unhappy Claude the hideous task which he has undertaken. Mr. Edmund Gwenn gives a very interesting character-study of the restaurant keeper, Père Tabac; and Mr. Leslie Faber's polished style is effective as a man about town, a former associate of Claude's. Miss Minnie Griffin as an ill-mated wife introduces an excellent and welcome note of comedy; and Miss Lydia Bilbrooke is charming and graceful in a small part. Mr. Scott-Craven imparts a vivid touch of realism to the character of a jovial Apache, who has just "done time"; and Miss Frances Dillon looks lovely and acts with passionate earnestness as Agathe, a female Apache. Miss Agnes Miller merits praise as Eugénie, the maid; and as for the other members of the cast it is difficult to discover their separate identities, and it must therefore suffice to say that, one and all, they played with a spirit and a fire which left nothing to be desired.

"LA FORZA DEL DESTINO."

("THE POWER OF DESTINY.")

Verdi's Opera, in Four Acts, Played for the First Time in England at the Kennington Theatre on Friday, Sept. 2.

Don Alvaro	MR. WALTER WHEATLEY
Don Carlos di Vargas	MR. HEBDEN FOSTER
Marquis di Calatrava	MR. ALEXANDER RICHARD
Friar Melitone	MR. FREDERICK CLENDON
Father Guardiano	MR. ARTHUR WINCKWORTH
Preziosilla	MISS ANNIE VAN DYCK
Trabuco	MR. WILLIAM O'CONNOR
The Alcade / A Surgeon	MR. GEORGE M. REID
Curra	MISS DOUGLAS WILSON
Leonora di Vargas	MISS INA HILL

At the Kennington Theatre on Friday night, Sept. 2, the Carl Rosa company produced, for the first time in England, Verdi's opera La Forza del Destino, originally performed on Nov. 10, 1862, at St. Petersburg, and in a revised form at Milan in 1869, and on both occasions the opera met with little success, mainly owing to Piave's involved libretto and the small share the heroine has in the music. La Forza del Destino is the commencement of Verdi's third manner, shown in Aïda and Otello, now justly considered the composer's greatest works. Although the libretto of The Power of Destiny is unfortunate, there is much charm in its music, and the Carl Rosa Company deserve hearty thanks for an interesting revival. The English adaptation is by Mr. Percy Pinkerton, and as the opera is in four acts and unduly long, the Carl Rosa Company have wisely shortened the second scene of the third act to a ballet, and made several "cuts" in the fourth act. In the first act Leonora is waiting for her lover, Don Alvaro, and as her father will not consent to their marriage, they are on the point of eloping when Leonora's father enters and orders his servants to arrest Alvaro. The lover produces a pistol, but at Leonora's appeal throws it down, and the pistol going off with the fall her father, the Marquis di Calatrava, is mortally wounded. The second act opens in a Inn Kitchen, some of the company are dancing, and others are having supper. Preziosilla, a gipsy, sings a sparkling air in praise of the Italian Army, and the refrain "E bella la guerra, ev viva, la guerra ev viva," is taken up by the chorus. Among the company is Don Carlos di Vargas, Leonora's brother, who narrates his story of the death of his father and his sister's flight with the assassin. Don Carlos is seeking Don Alvaro, determined to avenge both his father and sister. Being overheard by Leonora, who is in the room disguised as a boy, we find her in the next scene outside the Church of the Madonna Degli Angeli, Spain, seeking asylum of the monks. The finest music of the opera occurs in this scene, for Leonora has an expressive solo, "At last, here! Heav'n be praised. My final refuge on this earth," and the chorus of friars singing "Venite, Adoremus, et procedamus, ante," gives fine effect to the heroine's solo "Hark, 'tis the holy chant divine," while there is much beauty in her duet with Father Guardiano. Leonora is given a cave to shelter in, and dressed as a friar, the Father Superior gives her his benediction, the friars extinguish their tapers and enter church, while the scene ends with solemn music. A Room in a Spanish Officer's Quarters near Velletri, Italy, is the first scene of the third act. Alvaro, after singing a scena expressive of his fear that Leonora is dead, hears shouts without, and going out rescues Don Carlos. Not knowing whom he has saved, they swear to be friends. Later on Alvaro is wounded in a skirmish, and thinking he is dying, gives a packet to Don Carlos. Alvaro recovers, but Don Carlos, by a portrait with the packet discovers his sister's lover, and vows he will kill him. The second scene, A Camp near Velletri, Italy, is entirely devoted to a pretty ballet between the vivandières and soldiers. The fourth act is the Interior of the Convent of the Madonna Degli Angeli, Spain, and the second and last scene, A Rocky Valley near the Convent. Alvaro has become a friar. Don Carlos enters, and challenges him to a duel. Alvaro at first will not, but after great provocation at last consents, and they fight near Leonora's cave. Don Carlos is killed. Alvaro goes to the cave for help, and sees Leonora. Overjoyed to meet her lover again, but hearing of her brother's death, she stabs herself, and when brought in by Father Guardiano dies in the presence of her lover. The performance on Friday night was excellent. Owing to the dramatic nature of the third and fourth acts of the opera the music only follows the various incidents; but where there was any chance the artists did justice to the great composer. In the second act Miss Ina Hill, the Leonora, sang with great purity of tone and artistic expression, while Mr. Walter Wheatley, besides acting with rare spirit, sang his chief scena in the third act admirably, and was effective in the love duets. Excellent also was the Don Carlos of Mr. Hebden Foster; and Mr. Frederick Clendon cleverly acted the amusing part of Friar Melitone, the comic relief which the opera greatly needs. As Father Guardiano Mr. Arthur Winckworth sang with fine quality of tone; and Miss Annie Van Dyck was heartily applauded for her singing of Preziosilla's pretty air in the Inn scene. Mr. Alexander Richard, the Marquis, has little to do, as the Marquis is killed in the first scene; but that little was ably accomplished. Mr. George M. Reid appeared as the Alcade and a Surgeon; and the part of Trabuco was ably played by Mr. William O'Connor. The chorus sang and acted well, and under Mr. Van Noorden the orchestra gave an excellent account of Verdi's score.

AT the Auction Mart, Tynewydd-road, Barry Dock, on Tuesday, Sept. 20, Messrs. Rufus A. Davies and Co. will sell by public auction scenery and wardrobe used in the two dramas The Assassin and Mysteries of the Thames. The properties include many elaborate sets of a comprehensive character from a palace to a kitchen, together with military uniforms, swords, helmets, wigs, and printing.

MR. MARTIN HARVEY AT NOTTINGHAM.

There was a numerous and distinguished audience on Wednesday afternoon at the Theatre Royal, Nottingham, to hear a lecture by Mr. Martin Harvey on the aims and objects of the National Theatre movement, coupled with an appeal to the people of the district on behalf of the Shakespeare Memorial National Theatre Fund. Mr. Harvey was eminently fitted for the task which he undertook "con amore," as he is an eminent exponent of Shakespeare's genius, and a member of the Executive Committee of the National Theatre. The Rev. Rosslyn Bruce, M.A., D.D., presided, and was supported by, among others, Canon Baigent, Professor Frank Granger, Mr. H. S. Perris (organising secretary of the movement). Mr. R. H. Jackson, and Mr. J. F. Townend. Letters of apology were received from Countess Manvers and Bishop Hamilton Baynes, who expressed sympathy with the object of the gathering.

Mr. Martin Harvey, who was very cordially received, said he came before them in a new part—that of an earnest petitioner and beggar. And he must tell them at once that he had never taken up a part with more enthusiasm or greater conviction that his view of the part was the right one. After that burst of modesty, he must warn them that, as in other parts which he had essayed, he was going to try by every means at his command to convince them that his view was the right one. He was there to plead for their help to rear a noble and monumental institution to our greatest Englishman. No—not Nelson, whom they had honoured with countless and greatly deserved monuments all over the British Isles. He meant to Shakespeare. To their hero of naval warfare they had created obelisks, memorials, statues innumerable, and never too many. But it had taken them three hundred years to rear a worthy memorial to their great hero of letters—and "the pen is mightier than the sword."

Well, it was going to be reared now, and he wanted everyone present—yes, and all their sisters and cousins and aunts—to help. He did not despair of playing his part to heedless ears, as it was played by one of the greatest men in his walk of life for many years—Sir Henry Irving. However, things had moved rapidly of late, and Sir Henry Irving's voice, which, not so long ago, was one of "crying in the wilderness," was now echoing throughout the breadth of the land. He had at all events the joy of seeing his hope crystallised into substantial shape before he died, and into a form which was nearest his heart—a Shakespeare Memorial National Theatre. To-day had he lived he would have seen eagerness to support the movement by representative men from all the learned professions and arts, united in their determination that an old neglect should no longer be a reproach to our country and our Empire.

Let us face this fact, the lecturer continued. In 1916 it will be 300 years since there died in this country the most amazing giant in the history of the world—an Englishman. What have we reared to honour him, to express our pride in our fellow-countryman, our gratitude for the boundless wealth of beauty, of thought, pleasure, and wisdom which the whole civilised world has rendered homage to? A trivial and unregarded little figure perched above a fountain which trickles its small jet of water into a basin in Leicester-square. This is the sole monument which is pointed out to the amazed foreigner when he visits the land of Shakespeare's birth. But all that is going to be changed; our self-respect, as grateful recipients of the noblest fount of wisdom ever poured forth by living man, will be restored, and soon we shall all be able to join in a chorus of pride, when we see erected in the Capital a monument worthy of our sublimely gifted countryman, and this shameful neglect of Shakespeare's memory put an end to.

Dealing with the financial side of the Memorial National Theatre scheme, the lecturer explained that £500,000 had to be raised, to be spent in £100,000 for a suitable site, £150,000 to build and equip the theatre, and the remaining £250,000 to permanently endow it. That would yield an income of about £10,000 a year, the same sum, roughly, which the State allowed annually to the famous National Theatre of France, the Comédie Française. A splendid stimulus was given to the movement by a princely gift of no less a sum than £70,000, and since then the donations had been steadily rising, and they were not far short now of possessing a fifth of the entire amount needed.

The building must be a noble one, occupying a noble position in the heart of that London in which Shakespeare for the most part lived, laboured, and achieved his triumph and the triumph of the British drama, not only for "the spacious days of the great Elizabeth," but for all time. It must be at once conspicuous and dignified, standing entirely detached from all other buildings, on a commanding site, bearing unmistakable reverence for its greatest poet, and respect for the art to which his life and genius were devoted. The uses of the Memorial Theatre were:—(1) To keep all the plays of Shakespeare in its repertory; (2) to revive whatever is vital in English classical drama; (3) to prevent recent plays of great merit from falling into oblivion; (4) to produce new plays and to further develop the modern drama; (5) to produce translations of representative works of foreign drama, ancient and modern; (6) to stimulate the art of acting. That touches home, Mr. Harvey put in naively.

The framers of the scheme were anxious that the theatre should not fall into the hands of any one party or clique, but desired that it should be wide in its scope, all-embracing, entertaining educational, ranging in its choice of work over the high dramatic achievements of the whole world; in short, such an institution as will worthily mark our reverence for the all-embracing genius whose name they desired to honour. Having met objections to the scheme, showed how liberally the drama was State and municipally supported on the Continent, and quoted the views of eminent men in favour of the scheme, Mr. Harvey explained how those he was addressing could help, both financially and by their active interest.

In conclusion, he commended the scheme to the patriotic, because the neglect of Shakespeare was a reproach throughout Europe and because it would place our national drama on its rightful pinnacle as the richest in the world; he commended it to the wealthy, to the artistic and the studious, and to the Church and churchmen, because in the words of Archdeacon Bevan, people go to see plays who will not come to hear sermons, and tens of thousands have owed to Shakespeare the best inspirations of their lives, next to those they have received from the Bible itself. The memorial must be an accomplished fact five years hence, and so there was no time to be lost.

It was announced that £85 11s., including £50 from Captain J. A. Morrison, had already been received from Nottingham supporters of the project, this sum not including subscriptions and promises that afternoon. Votes of thanks were accorded to Mr. Martin Harvey for his inspiriting and closely-reasoned address, to the chairman (who showed why the clergy should be associated with the uplifting of the drama), to Mrs. Martin Harvey and the ladies of the company for assistance rendered in receiving subscriptions, &c., and to Mr. Robert Arthur and Mr. Howard Pinney for the use of the Theatre Royal.

COLONIAL GOSSIP.

Theatre Building Craze in Melbourne.

The theatre-building craze has not allowed Melbourne to escape, and the latest advices state that a new playhouse is to be built in Prahan, says the Canterbury Times (Christchurch). Suburban theatres around Melbourne have always been tricky ventures. Several have been erected, but one is now in the hands of the Salvation Army, another is now a brewery, and two others are drapery shops. What a queer collection of terminations—religion, beer, and clothing!

"What Every Woman Knows" in Sydney.

"'What Every Woman Knows' is generally recognised as the most whimsically humorous comedy in which Miss Nellie Stewart has yet appeared," says the Sydney Morning Herald, "and constant laughter attends the highly original scene in which, as Maggie Wylie, she responds to the almost defiant 'Miss Maggie, will ye?' of John Shand (Mr. Harcourt Beatty). To miss seeing the prim Scotch lassie half strangling her newly-acquired man with his woollen comforter is to miss one of the funniest incidents of a homely character presented on our stage for many a long day."

Back in Australia.

Mr. Frank Gerald, who was in Australia some years ago, has returned under engagement to Mr. William Anderson, to assist him in the Melbourne production of Nat Gould's sporting drama, The Chance of a Lifetime. He will also play the rôle of the villain in the piece, Captain Francis Clinch. After he left Australia he appeared for some years at the theatres and halls in London and the provinces in his sketch Jealousy, and a play written by George Roberts and himself, and based on the story of Dick Turpin. Mr. Gerald, says the Sydney Daily Telegraph, speaks of The Chance of a Lifetime as one of the best sporting plays he has met.

Proposed Municipal Orchestra for Wellington.

Mr. J. Maughan Barnett's proposal to establish a municipal orchestra in Wellington has created quite a favourable impression amongst those interested in promoting good music in Wellington, says the Dominion. The lack of a really good orchestra to interpret the classical writers has long been felt there, and both musicians and that section of the public interested look forward with pleasurable anticipation to the development of the scheme. Mr. Barnett is not asking the City Council to bear any burden worth mentioning, and at the outset is relying to some extent on guarantees from the public. So far he has not received a refusal, and quite a nice little sum has been assured already for the prosecution of the enterprise. Mr. Barnett hopes that in time the orchestra will be able to meet its obligations without seeking aid from the city treasury.

Hugh Ward's Retrenchment.

Mr. Hugh Ward, of the Hugh Ward-Grace Palotta Company, appearing in New Zealand in Paul M. Potter's new farcical comedy, The Girl from Rector's, is never happy unless he is manufacturing fun or laughter. He was with a party of friends when the news of the result of the Johnson-Jeffries fight at Reno was received, and he was very hard hit. At once he started for the theatre. His friends asked the whyfor, and the comedian retorted: "I must do something; I'm going to sack two stage-hands."

Leslie Holland in Sydney.

Mr. Leslie Holland, who is playing the architect Horace Ventimore in Anstey's farce, The Brass Bottle, at Her Majesty's, Sydney, is a comedian well known in England. He is one of Mr. George Edwardes's "discoveries," who played leading rôles in the No. 1 tour of the English cities, and three times went out as the leading comedian of musical organisations to the Cape.

Conway Wingfield in New Zealand.

Mr. Conway Wingfield, appearing as Philip Christian in Pete, produced in Christchurch by the Roberts-Day Company under the direction of Messrs. Clarke and Meynell, is a well-known English actor, who has appeared with considerable success under the banner of Messrs. Beerbohm Tree, Forbes Robertson, F. R. Benson, and other London managers. Mr. Wingfield was taken out to Australasia by Messrs. Clarke and Meynell to star in The Little Stranger company, and has since appeared under their management with the Beatty M'Intosh and Maud Hildyard companies. Mr. Wingfield was last in New Zealand with Miss Nellie Stewart's company, from which he seceded to accept the present engagement.

The "Eventio Enterprises" have been launched in South Norwood, where Mr. Harry Eventio has reopened the Stanley Hall with a programme of varieties and pictures. The hall is being run on the American continuous system, the entertainment being repeated twice nightly. A well-filled house was secured for the opening on Monday, and much satisfaction was expressed. The inaugural programme was a strong one, and in addition to a well-assorted series of pictures, consisted of Muir and Bartlett in their "side-splitting" sketch The Collar Stud; Miss Marie Rivers, with illustrated songs; the Sardons, illusionists; and Gladys Hamilton and Irene Farmer, expert dancers. The pictures are changed twice weekly, and a feature is made of free Wednesday matinées.

To Singers AND Elocutionists.

It is essential that the Nasal Organs be kept free from mucous secretions, stoppages, &c. Colds must be prevented and relieved at once. If you use NAZENE daily you will be free ::: from all nasal trouble. :::

A leading London Specialist has lately invented a treatment which has caused a great sensation among the Medical Profession, Elocutionists, and Singers.

Nazene & Nasal Bath.

SIMPLE AND HARMLESS. DOES NOT TOUCH THE VOCAL CORDS.

NAZENE is a solvent, purifier, cleanser, and disinfectant, and its powers are immediate and ::: ::: wonderful. ::: :::

Testimonial from a London Physician. July 6, 1910

Gentlemen,—I have used Nazene for nasal obstruction and can testify that the result was highly satisfactory. I consider it most efficacious for post Nasal Catarrhs, and allied conditions. It would be most beneficial to those who find difficulty in nasal respiration, and greatly relieve snoring and mucous secretion. M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P.

Every Public Speaker and Singer must give this marvellous preparation a trial now—to-day!

IMPORTANT FREE TRIAL.
If not approved, money will be returned.

Send at once postal order for 2/10 to the NAZENE COMPANY, 30 & 31, Great Marlborough-street London, W.

THE POETRY SOCIETY.

Mr. Forbes Robertson, who is himself perhaps the finest living exponent of the art of elocution, is much interested in the Poetry Society, and will conduct the first of its auditions which will be held to-day in the large room at the Holborn Restaurant. It will be a thorough and searching trial, the scheme including a variety of poems calculated to test the examinee's range of expression and capacity.

The Poetry Society's aim is to secure recognition for the cultured use of the speaking verse and to make the "reciting" of poetry less subordinated to singing and music as a form of entertainment, the society seeking through its members to develop from the inside outwards. It should be pointed out, however, that centre meetings—the semi-private meetings of groups of members—are not elocution classes. No particular methods, reformed or otherwise, are forced upon members, and no preliminary examination is insisted upon. The "auditions" are held for the help and satisfaction of members and to test and control those who represent the society publicly and professionally.

The Society's attitude on the subject of speaking verse was well defined and its policy indicated by Lady Margaret Sackville's admirable presidential address, in which that clever lady remarked, inter alia, "Elocution differs as much from the proper rendering of a poem as a gramophone does from the human voice. The somewhat blatant methods of elocution are only suitable where the emotion to be expressed is obvious, and the atmosphere thin and unreal. The elocutionist aims at telling a story with entirely artificial intonation and gesture, instead of allowing the poem to speak quite naturally through him. The poem, which should suggest its own interpretation, he forces into unnatural attitudes, and the result is too often ridiculous. At his touch poetry shrivels up like the leaves of a sensitive plant.

"The true art of speaking rises as naturally from good verse as the song from a bird's throat. For every poem exists its appropriate expression by the human voice—since poetry is capable of two appeals, silent and articulate—both equally forcible. The poem, if it is great enough and the speaker sufficiently receptive, will suggest its own utterance. There should be no striving from outside to produce a definite effect; the soul of the interpreter should be so possessed by the poem that it follows it instinctively in every modulation and inflection as easily as water flows between winding banks, and this impression should be conveyed without effort to the listeners. We must possess an exquisite sense of a poem as a living organism, not as dead material to be exploited as one chooses.

"Elocution is contrary to all this. It is a hard and egotistical tyrant, making poetry its slave, and reducing everything to a matter of tone and gesture. It is never inspired by the spirit of the verse it professes to interpret. To my mind the proper rendering of a poem requires an attitude of surrender on the part of the speaker, and he must certainly possess a power of emotion equal to that contained in the poem itself. For the moment he is identified with the words he utters, and he should convey the impression that he is relating a personal experience, that the grief or joy or terror of the thing he is speaking are not simulated, but actually his own.

"The speaking of poetry is one of the means by which the soul, through the medium of beautiful words, can express itself as it would, and all those dumb and faltering emotions which, though usually inarticulate, are its life. It is when life is unable to endure the pain of silence that it breaks into a cry which is poetry, and in poetry all art is included. And certain temperaments cannot find their true expression save in the words of others, and these belong to the ideal speaker of verse.

"I believe as little gesture should be used as possible, and that, as a rule, the voice alone, provided it is flexible enough, is sufficiently effective. The speaking of verse is not acting. It is rather the imaginative expression of a mood; and gesture, unless very sparingly used, interrupts and produces a wrong atmosphere. The effective speaking of verse is before all else a question of temperament joined to the dramatic faculty (insufficient by itself, however) and a keen sensitiveness to poetry. It is from a lack of sensitiveness that so many actors fail in their rendering of verse."

STAGE-STRUCK NOVICES.

"Theatrical managers," says the Birmingham Dispatch, "have many trials and troubles which are unknown to the general public. To make up an attractive programme which will draw large houses is a work of art. On this subject the writer of the article had an interesting conversation recently with Mr. Edward Foster, the manager of the Grand Theatre, Birmingham.

"'Do I get many applications?' he said in reply to a query. 'Well, they number hundreds in a year. There is a general impression that it is the young girl of sixteen or seventeen who is stage-struck. It is true that the majority of applicants are women, but not all. Some of the letters I receive are pathetic. Others are of a purely business character, and yet again there are some decidedly humorous. Take this one as an example. A lady aspirant a few days ago sent me the following letter. I give the spelling as it reached me:—

"'"Will you do me a favour? I am a lady who wants a start on the stage. It am really no good for anythink but for the stage. I cannot take to anythink. I know a lot about the stage, so I should not want much learning. I am seventeen years of age, I feel I should be very much more happier on the stage. I wrote to a gentleman, Mr. ——, who was advertising for girls for the stage, but he dose not seem to trouble about me. He wrote and told me I should have to pay half a crown entrants fee for the stage. That I paid him. Now I think he was doing it for no use at all. I am longin for nothink else but stage. It is my longest and greatest wish, for I know I should do it well. I should like to go as a comice comedienne for a start. I am very fond of singing comice songs. I hope you will give me a start and I will return my kindness back to you if you will only help me."'

"'That lady,' remarked Mr. Foster, 'is, I am afraid, not likely to realise her ambition. Here is another letter which has some point in it. A girl writes:—

"'"I am in service, but I want to go on the stage. I have seen a good deal of the stage, and I am quite sure I can do quite as well as a good many I have seen.'"

"'There is a bit of humour about that statement which might be accepted as favourable to the lady's ambitions.

"'Another girl wrote saying she wanted to go on the stage and "do Vesta Tilley." Evidently Birmingham's favourite must look to her laurels.'

"The girls, however, as Mr. Foster pointed out, are not the only ones who imagine that they have been gifted beyond others. A young man wrote the other day saying he had a heavy baritone voice, and was quite sure he could give a good turn.

"He candidly admitted, however, that he could not go in for hand parts just yet, but as an incentive to an engagement said he had been complimented on his voice by one manager, and would have been taken into the company if he had known operas."

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

Minutes of the Council meeting, held at 32, Regent-street, on Tuesday, Sept. 6, at 2.30 p.m. Present: Mr. Richard A. Greene (in the chair), Mr. H. W. Mote (hon. solicitor), Messrs. Cyril Cattley, F. J. Arlton, Robson Paige, J. Poole Kirkwood, Miss Mildred Cottell, Miss Beatrice Chester, Miss Joan Pereira, Miss Rose Cazalet, Miss Vita Spencer, and Mr. D. Young (secretary).

The secretary read the minutes of the meeting held on the 30th ult., and the meeting confirmed and the chairman signed same.

Concerning the case of objectionable dressing-rooms at a provincial theatre dealt with last week, Mr. Cattley reported that he had received an independent complaint from another artist. On the motion of Mr. Arlton, seconded by Mr. Cattley, the secretary was instructed to write to the Town Clerk of the town and lay the facts before him, at the same time pointing out that the manager of the theatre had been communicated with, but had not troubled to reply.

In the matter Mr. Ernest B. Norris versus a member, the member interviewed the council, and the secretary, on the motion of Mr. Cattley, seconded by Miss Spencer, was instructed to inform Mr. Norris that the council having heard both parties saw no reason to take further steps in the matter.

After discussion and an amendment made by Mr. Paige, this was agreed to.

The secretary was instructed to acknowledge receipt of Mr. Gerald Ames' letter, and to say that the council had much pleasure in acceding to his request to post his circular on the notice board of the Association, and likewise draw attention of the members to the benefits to be derived.

The secretary read a letter from Messrs. Mote and Sons, enclosing a letter from Mr. Albert Strong re "Robert Hilton," and was instructed to file the same for further reference.

The secretary read a letter from Mr. Edwin F. Fysher, and was instructed to acknowledge same and to say that the Council regretted that it was out of their power to take any action in the matter, he not being a member.

The Finance Committee's report was read by Miss Chester and adopted.

The hon. solicitor reported receipt of a letter from a manager in reply to a claim made on behalf of a member. Also a letter from another member concerning a claim against a manager. Further, that he had written to Messrs. Strong in reply to their letter re Robert Hilton.

Miss Vita Spencer's motion—"that members accepting engagements with bogus managers, whose names had been posted, be debarred from the privilege of the hon. solicitor's services to recover arrears of salary"—was seconded by Mr. Paige, and, after prolonged discussion, it was put to the meeting. The motion was lost by four to three.

Mr. Kirkwood gave notice of motion for next meeting, that "From the new year the Actors' Association be registered as a club, the present subscription to cover membership of Actors' Association and the club."

The secretary reported three engagements through the Agency.

Messrs. J. C. and E. C. Jack have published a neat edition of Henry VIII. at the low price of 8d., with very full annotations by Henry N. Hudson, and a pithy and well-considered preface which is unsigned, but is, we suppose, by the same writer. The little edition is in large, clear type, and has a tastefully-designed title-page.

There is an agreeable definiteness about the opinions of the writer of the preface as to the authorship of Henry VIII., about which so much has lately been written. He says:—"It would not be in accordance with the purpose and method of these brief prefaces to enter into the details of the argument in the present instance; so I can but say that, for my part, I have slowly and reluctantly grown, or been drawn, into the same upshot with the writers named (i.e., Mr. Spedding, Mr. Hickson, and Mr. Fleay), and that I am now thoroughly satisfied that the conclusion they have reached is substantially right. The particulars of this conclusion are as follows:—That the first and second scenes of Act I. are Shakespeare's; also the third and fourth scenes of Act II.; also about three-sevenths of the second scene in Act III., down to the King's parting from Wolsey with the words, 'and then to breakfast with what appetite you have'; also the first scene of Act V.; and that all the rest of the play is Fletcher's; namely, the third and fourth scenes of Act I., the first and second of Act II.; the first, and about four-sevenths of the second in Act III.; the whole of Act IV.; the second, third, and fourth of Act V.; also the Prologue and Epilogue. Mr. Fleay makes the whole number of blank-verse lines in the play to be 2,613, of which 1,467 are Fletcher's, thus leaving only 1,146 to Shakespeare.

"From the forecited distribution I see no reason to dissent, except that, as Mr. Spedding admits, some of the portions assigned to Fletcher have traces of a superior workman. In particular, the latter part of the second scene in Act III., all after the exit of the King, seems to me a mixture of Fletcher and Shakespeare; though the Fletcher element preponderates, still I feel some decided workings of the master-hand. The same, though in a somewhat less degree of the coronation scene, the first in Act IV. Certainly, if Fletcher wrote the whole of these, he must have been, for the time, surprised out of himself, and lifted quite above his ordinary plane; even the best that he does elsewhere giving no promise of such touches as we find here. On the other hand, I doubt whether the first scene of Act V. be pure Shakespeare; at all events, it seems by no means equal to his other portions of the play. And, as the two authors probably wrote in conjunction, it might well be that some whole scenes were done by each, while in others their hands worked together, or the one revised and finished what the other had first written, thus giving us choice bits of Shakespearean gold mingled with the Fletcherian silver."

A Hull correspondent writes as follows respecting "Artists Unseen": "While no one would wish to crush an artist's laudable ambition to reach the dramatic Mecca—the Metropolis—I feel that we, whose lives are chiefly spent in the provinces, have some claim for consideration.

"During the autumn season we have, it is true, Mahomets, in the persons of some London stars of the first magnitude, coming to the provincial mountain. But our dramatic season is not confined to the autumn alone. For the rest of the year the patrons of the playhouse rely upon replicas, many of them excellent representations of the successes of the day, brought to their own doors. These representations are made more acceptable by the presence in the companies of clever men and women, all capable artists, such as your correspondent in last week's issue—Miss Doris Gilham.

"Provincial critics, called upon to review each week these performances, could easily add to this list of those who, without any need for London's endorsement, are ever welcome in our midst.

"The great mass of provincial theatregoers have some call for consideration, and I for one feel that artists should recognise that in catering for our instruction, entertainment, and amusement, they are largely helping on that great and notable cause—the British drama—and that the plaudits of the provinces are joys of this world not to be disdained."

INSOMNIA.

By Tom Craven.

When the demon, insomnia, is on yer, you never know when it's going to go from yer. My insomnia is another notable instance of the law of heredity. My father never slept. He was a night watchman, and in the daytime he was an inspector of tankards. From birth I never was a sleeper. I came into the world crying, and, being an Irishman, shall probably leave it with a wake. Strangely enough, I have always been connected with sleepers. I was a minor official employed on the London, Crashem, and Turnover Line. I was not a violent success, the line wasn't much in my line. I was a signalman, but I was not a signal success. Sometimes I was put on point duty, but I could never see the point. I only succeeded in wrecking my future and several milk trains. When beer was scarce they put me on as porter, but the job turned me sour, and as I grew stout, the authorities thought I wasn't hale and hearty. I grew bitter, and was drawn off the engine. Then I retired on a small income, earned by my wife, who was a model for a pavement artist. She worked. I didn't. I thought it too foolish for both of us to do the same thing. Things went on pleasantly enough, until one unhappy day she took the key of the beer-barrel. Now use, as we all know, is the second law of nature. Robbed of my beer, I acquired a thirst that kept me awake. I tried water, but it wouldn't work. It got into my head, and I nearly had water on the brain. I couldn't sleep. I had a friend who shared the same maisonette. He was a pal. He was a guard who continually watched me: as a matter of fact, he was a watch-guard. He sympathised with my position. He knew what I wanted, and never brought it to me. But this I will say of him, whenever he had had a glass of beer he brought me up the empty glass to smell. When he was in a generous mood he'd bring me up two empty glasses to smell. I told him my troubles. I said I was the victim of insomnia. He offered to send me to sleep for a week or so by hitting me over the head with a coke-hammer. I suggested that he should break his hammer on something less soft. Then he said he thought a strong dose of arsenic would bring about the desired result. He said he had tried its effect on a Thomas cat a month ago, and that it hadn't woke up yet. I said I didn't want to go to sleep for a month or I might forget myself, and a man who forgets himself is no gentleman. We had a little argument over the matter, and he went downstairs the wrong way up. Then I tried to sleep "on my own," but it wasn't a success. I have known myself to keep awake for half an hour at a stretch, then, perhaps, I would go to sleep for a paltry eight hours and not go off again for quite ten minutes. Now, no man could go on like this for more than fifty or sixty years, so I determined to get advice elsewhere. I lived near a chemist's. I asked for a blue pill. He said I should have a black draught with it, but I said I could get all the draughts I wanted through the bedroom door. I told him the tale. I said I suffered from want of natural sleep, and inquired whether he could name a remedy. He wanted to know if I'd tried work. I replied that I'd rather keep awake all my life than indulge in so dangerous a cure. He then asked if I'd tried walking on an empty stomach. I said that I didn't think stomachs were good things to walk upon. He hinted that it was usual to walk on one's feet; but when he saw my feet he felt sure that two steps would be sufficient. With extreme politeness I informed him that I couldn't walk as I had a corn on my big toe. He hinted that I should get a razor and cut my corn—or my throat; it didn't matter which. Then some kind pal said I ought to put a cold-water bandage round my head. I attempted the feat, but got so sleepy in the process that I put the bandage on too low down and awoke with a sore throat. Then came along my maternal grandmother. She got to the point right away. She boxed my ears, pulled my nose, and borrowed one and fourpence till next washing day. When I told her I couldn't sleep she advised me to count two hundred sheep going through a gateway. She said if I couldn't afford English meat Australian mutton would do. Well, I went to bed. I counted 199 sheep going through a gateway, but when I got to the two hundredth the gate slammed, and the last one could't get through. I was done by a neck of mutton. I went downstairs and tried to push a beefsteak through the gate, but a collie dog came along and pinched it. Then came the climax. A doctor gave me a powerful sleeping draught. My wife said she would give it to me, but before she came up to bed I grew so sleepy waiting for my sleeping draught that I went into a heavy, dreamless snore. My wife awoke me at 3.30. I said: "What the deuce did you want to wake me up for?" She said: "To give you your sleeping draught, you silly ass."

From the "Tom Craven Mixture" of recitations and monologues, published in book form by Samuel French, Ltd., price 1s.

"What has become of British farce?" asks a writer in What's On. "Last year only two out of some fifty leading theatrical productions were labelled by their authors 'farces,' though many comedies and even serious pieces contained incidents distinctly farcical in character. But the real genuine article—where has it gone? What are our managers thinking about? The Brass Bottle, strictly speaking, was fantastical comedy farce in excelsis, Billy's Bargain was mere noise—farce in extremis, and except for revivals of When Knights were Bold, The Importance of Being Earnest, and Charley's Aunt, this completes the list of farces produced at leading London playhouses during the year. Tantalising Tommy might be designated farce, but there is nothing wildly improbable in its idea or treatment, and to our mind it more nearly resembles the lightest of comedy.

"Of melodramatic plays with farcical situations we have had a plethora—but the first dramatist who reserves the principle and gives us a genuine melodramatic farce ought to reap a high reward. Perhaps he may find a reason for this singular neglect of a profitable form of theatrical amusement in the advance of so-called musical comedy of the type of Our Miss Gibbs and The Arcadians. In such plays as these farce rank and unabashed runs riot to the accompaniment of maddening melody, and small wonder that the jaded workers of our cities and their equally wearied wives should seek diversion in their thousands at the shrine of the musical horse-collar. Agreeable absurdity will always command its market, and when set to tuneful music seems irresistible.

"The most hopeful feature of the past season has been the increased measure of support extended to Sir Herbert Tree's Shakespearean season, wherein many leading actor-managers participate. These revivals are eminently worthy of encouragement, for many of the best artists take part in them, the dresses, scenery, and properties are elaborate and handsome, and opportunity is afforded for seeing interesting differences in reading of the same character. It must be freely conceded that these productions, which, under the personal direction of Sir Herbert himself, reached a much higher intellectual and artistic level than those of his brother managers, the ultra-provincial attempts of that well-meaning but misdirected Mr. Benson serving to show us on the same stage per contra 'how not to do it.' Mr. Poel's form of Shakespearean representation was also included, and proved distinctly interesting to the patrons of His Majesty's.

ON THE ROAD, SEPT. 12.

Angel of His Dreams.—Grand T., Doncaster.
Another Man's Wife.—O. H., St. Helens.
Apple of Eden.—T. R., Chatham.
Arcadians (N.).—T. R., Cardiff.
Arcadians (S.).—T. R., Bury.
As Your Hair Grows Whiter.—Empire T., Hyde.
At the World's Mercy.—Hippodrome, Stoke.
Beecham Opera Co.—O. H., Belfast.
Bedouin Beauty.—Pavilion, Ramsgate.
Beggar Girl's Wedding.—Palace T., Newcastle.
Benson, F. R. (N.).—T. R., Plymouth.
Benson, F. R. (S.).—Ringwood and Bridport.
Best People, The.—Eastbourne and Hastings.
Bishop's Son, The.—Grand T., Leeds.
Black Mask.—Princess's T., Glasgow.
Brass Bottle, The.—O. H., Blackpool.
Brewster's Millions.—King's T., Glasgow.
Broken Heart.—Palace T., Perth.
Bulmer, Mr.—Metropolitan T., Glasgow.
Can a Woman be Good?—T. R., Sheffield.
Candida.—T. R., Hanley.
Carl Rosa Opera Co.—Broadway T., New Cross.
Cassidy J. Rice.—T. R., Leeds.
Caste.—King's T., Sunderland.
Castellano Opera Co.—T. R., Bradford.
Charley's Aunt.—Castle T., Stockton.
Child of the Streets.—Kelly's T., Liverpool.
Christian, The (Draper).—Ferndale and Aberavon.
Cingalee (A.).—Morecambe and Kendal.
Claudian.—Grand T., Nelson.
Cloches de Corneville, Les.—P. T., Bristol.
Coal King.—T. R., Belfast
Compton Comedy Co.—King's T., Seacombe.
Country Girl, A.—P. G. T., Folkestone.
Country Girl in London.—Clarence T., Pontypridd.
Criminal's Bride.—Alexandra T., Birmingham.
Dairymaids, The.—T. R., Stockport.
Dame Nature.—T. R., Manchester.
Dare Devil Dorothy.—Brixton Theatre, S.W.
David Garrick.—T. R., Worthing.
Dawn of a To-morrow.—T. R., Edinburgh.
Dear Little Denmark.—O. H., Middlesborough.
Diana of Dobson's.—Colchester and King's Lynn.
Dollar Princess (Edwardes) (N.).—Grand T., Blackpool.
Dollar Princess (S.).—Marina T., Lowestoft.
Don.—Harrogate and Tunbridge Wells.
D'Oyly Carte.—O. H., Buxton.
Draycott, Chas.—Colosseum, Oldham.
Driven from Home.—P. O. W., Mexboro'.
Driving a Girl to Destruction.—Osborne T., Manchester.
Earl and the Girl.—Weymouth and Exeter.
East Lynne (Watt).—Alexandra T., Hull.
Every Inch a Man.—Grand T., Walsall.
Eyes of the World.—Elephant and Castle, S.E.
Face at the Window.—Grand T., Stockton.
Fast Life, A.—T. R., Goole.
Fatal Wedding (N.).—Canning Town, E.
Fatal Wedding (S.).—Royalty T., Llanelly.
Fighting Chance.—Boro' T., Stratford.
Fires of Fate.—T. R., Margate.
Flag Lieutenant.—Empire T., Southend.
Florodora (Constant).—T. R., Barry.
For Love and the King.—Metropole T., Birmingham.
For Wife and Kingdom.—T. R., Merthyr.
From Convent to Throne.—Scarborough.
Geoffrey Langdon's Wife.—Cambridge T., Spennymoor.
Girl on the Boat.—Gaiety T., Douglas.
Girls of Gottenberg.—O. H., Torquay.
Girl Who Went Astray.—Metropole T., Glasgow.
Glossop-Harris.—T. R., Northampton.
Hand that Rocks the Cradle.—Longsight, Manchester.
Happy-Go-Lucky O'Lyn.—Grand T., Oldham.
Harvey, Martin.—T. R., Glasgow.
Havana.—Artillery T., Woolwich.
Her Fatal Marriage.—Lyric T., Hammersmith.
Her Forbidden Marriage.—Palace T., Bordesley.
Her Love Against the World.—T. R., Coatbridge.
Her Nameless Child.—T. R., West Stanley.
Her Path of Sorrow.—T. R., Edmonton.
His Indian Wife.—T. R., Sunderland.
House Opposite, The.—T. R., Preston.
House of Temperley.—T. R., Dublin.
Irving, Laurence.—T. R., Blackburn.
King and the Unknown Woman.—T. R., Aston.
King of Cadonia.—Aquarium, Yarmouth.
La Comedie Anglaise.—Cavan and Tullamore.
Life of a Showman.—Tivoli T., Pentre.
Little Phil's Mother.—Gaiety T., Leith.
Lodge-Percy, J. C., and J. Martin's Repertoire.—Chesterfield.
Love of the Princess.—Grand T., Mansfield.
Lucky Durham.—Rotunda T., Liverpool.
Lucky 'Liza.—Hippodrome, Leek.
Man to Man.—Grand T., Chorley.
Married to Wrong Man.—T. R., Bristol.
Marsh, Alexander.—Colwyn Bay.
Master of the Mill.—O. H., Burnley.
Merry Widow (N.).—Lyceum T., Edinburgh.
Merry Widow (S.).—Londesboro' T., Scarborough.
Merry Widow (3).—T. R., Rochester.
Message from Mars.—Grand T., Llandudno.
Midnight Mail.—Alexandra T., Widnes.
Miss Hook of Holland.—T. R., Brighton.
Miss Lancashire, Limited.—T. R., Bolton.
Miss Tommy.—T. R., Norwich.
Moody-Manners Opera Co.—T. R., Bournemouth.
Mountaineers, The.—O. H., Southport.
Mr. Preedy and the Countess.—West Pier, Brighton.
Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch.—T. R., South Shields.
My Irish Molly.—Hippodrome, Hoyland.
My Lady Bellamy.—Worthing and Cambridge.
New Frivolity.—T. R., Great Yarmouth.
New Lady Bantock.—Leamington and Rugby.
Nick Carter.—Star T., Liverpool.
Night and Morning.—T. R., Darlington.
Nihilist, The.—Alhambra, Openshaw.
No Man's Land.—Metropole, Openshaw.
No Mother to Guide Her.—H. M. T., Barrow.
Old Folks at Home.—Devonport.
Old Heidelberg.—King's T., Hammersmith.
Our Miss Gibbs (Edwardes).—Newcastle.
Our Miss Gibbs (N.).—Grand T., Southampton.
Our Miss Gibbs (S.).—T. R., Bath.
Outcast of the Family.—Grand T., Falkirk.
Paying the Price.—Greenock.
Pigeon House.—O. H., Cheltenham.
Power of the King.—Palace T., Gloucester.
Private Secretary.—H. M. T., Dundee.
Prodigal Parson.—Hippodrome, Birkenhead.
Proof.—Carlton T., Birmingham.
Prince and the Beggar Maid (N.).—New T., Consett.
Prince and the Beggar Maid (S.).—P. O. W., Grimsby.
Queen of the Fair.—Weston-super-Mare.
Raynor Repertory.—Junction T., Manchester.
Royal Divorce.—O. H., Workington.
Sailor's Wedding.—Queen's T., Manchester.
Sexton Blake.—P. O. W., Nuneaton.
Sign of the Cross.—H. M. T., Aberdeen.
Sign of the Cross.—T. Hall, Loughborough.
Silver King.—T. R., Halifax.
Sir Walter Raleigh.—T. R., Newcastle.
Smith (N.).—Hastings and Folkestone.
Smith (S.).—P. T., Manchester.
Still Alarm.—T. R., Smethwick.
Swiss Express.—O. H., Kidderminster.
Tantalizing Tommy.—Grand T., Croydon.
Temptation.—Royalty T., Barrow.
Terry Edward.—P. O. W., Birmingham.
Terry, Fred, and Julia Neilson.—Liverpool.
Thief in the Night.—O. H., Wakefield.
Through the Divorce Court.—Prince's T., Portsmouth.
Two Lancashire Lasses in London.—Sheffield.
Two Little Drummer Boys.—T. R., Leicester.
Two Merry Monarchs.—D. P. T., Eastbourne.
Uncle Tom's Cabin.—T. R., Peterboro'.
Under the Iron Heel.—Palace T., Derby.
Under Two Flags.—T. R., Wolverhampton.
Village Blacksmith.—T. R., Chesterfield.
Waller, Lewis.—Lyceum T., Sheffield.
Was She to Blame?—Queen's T., Longton.
Webb's Vaudeville.—Hippodrome, Wigan.
What the Butler Saw.—T. R., Huddersfield.
When Knights Were Bold.—T. R., Birmingham.
When Knights Were Bold (S.).—County T., Kingston.
When London Sleeps.—T. R., Stratford.
When Woman Hates.—Met. T., Glasgow.
Whip, The.—Marlboro' T., Holloway, N.
Whom God Hath Joined.—Star T., Swansea.
Wilkie, Allan.—T. R., Ashton.
Woman in the Case.—Hippodrome, Sheerness.
Woman of Two Lives.—Empire T., Oldham.
Woman's Past, A.—Gloesop and Wrexham.
World, Flesh, and the Devil.—Palace T., Ramsgate.
Wrecker of Men.—T. R., Tonypandy.

Mr. Editor.—Sir,—Your Hull correspondent in his notice of the Hippodrome last week failed to mention that Billy Ross and company, in a boxing act, deputised for Keene and Adams and Pike and Evans.—Yours faithfully, Billy Ross.

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES, & DEATHS.

The charge for inserting in "The Era" an announcement of a Birth, a Marriage, or a Death, or an "In Memoriam" notice, not exceeding twenty-four words, is One Shilling and Sixpence.

As a guarantee of good faith, the name and address of the sender must accompany each notice.

BIRTHS.

HAGGAR.—Sept. 2, at 1, Park-street, Neath, the wife of Will Haggar (Jenny Lindon), Castle Theatre, of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

BRENCHLEY—CAROZZI.—Aug. 25, at St. Mary's, Clapham, by the Rev. Father Burke, Charles Albert Brenchley to Marion Louise Carozzi.

DEATHS.

KEITH.—Sept. 1, at Richmond, Va., U.S.A., Elaine Muriel, aged 24, the beloved and only daughter of Royston and Blanche Keith.

MARSHALL.—Sept. 1, at South Shields, Willie Marshall, only son of Thomas F. Marshall, aged 19.

WHITE.—Sept. 3, at Cardiff, as the result of an accident, John White, retired showman, aged 76.

IN MEMORIAM.

ELCOCK.—In ever-loving memory of our darling mother, who departed this life Sept. 9, 1908. Never forgotten by her loving daughters, Amy Elcock (Mrs. Fred Goss) and Florrie St. Roy (Mrs. Fred Laurel).

FORD (Thomas Waters).—In loving memory of my dear husband, who passed away Sept. 6, 1909. Interred in Dunfermline Cemetery. "Rest after toil."

FORD-THOMAS WATERS.—In affectionate memory of my dear father, who died Sept. 6, 1909.—Mourned by his loving daughter, MINNIE WATERSFORD CROSS.

KING.—In loving memory of my dear husband, James King, who departed this life Sept. 9, 1909, in his eighty-second year. Never forgotten by his sorrowing wife, JEMIMA KING.

TOWNSEND.—In ever-loving memory of my darling wife, Lucretia, who passed away Sept. 10, 1908.

"She is gone, but not forgotten,
Never will her memory fade.
Sweetest thoughts will ever linger
Around the spot where she is laid."

TOWNSEND.—In ever-loving memory of our darling mother, Mrs. Edward Townsend, who fell asleep Sept. 10, 1908. Never to be forgotten by her sorrowing daughters, Lucretia and Josephine. Sleep well, dear one.

FOR SYMPATHY.

LE BRETON.—Lillie Le Breton and mother wish to express their thanks through the columns of "The Era" to all those friends who sent kind messages of sympathy and floral offerings on the occasion of the death of her nineteen-year-old brother and son; and to Lamberte for kindness; also Victor's friends, Sister Johnne, Mr. and Mrs. George Barnard for beautiful cross, and all the beautiful wreaths sent by friends.

BIRTHDAYS OF THE WEEK.

We wish Many Happy Returns of the Day to the following ladies and gentlemen:—

Marie Studholme—Saturday, Sept. 10.
Winnie Donovan—Saturday, Sept. 10.
Bassett Roe—Saturday, Sept 10.
Lillia Le Main—Saturday, Sept. 10.
Vita Spencer—Sunday, Sept. 11.
Richard Ganthony—Sunday, Sept. 11.
Mrs. Bandmann-Palmer—Monday, Sept. 12.
Alfred Holles—Monday, Sept. 12.
Douglas Munro—Monday, Sept. 12.
Wallace Stranack—Tuesday, Sept. 13.
Jack Wayho—Wednesday, Sept. 14.
Edward Valentine—Wednesday, Sept. 14.
Eric H. Albury—Wednesday, Sept. 14.
Lily Langtry—Thursday, Sept. 15.
Charles Allan—Friday, Sept. 16.
Lucy Coventry—Friday, Sept. 16.

SHAKESPEARE'S AVERSIONS.

"It may be possible to get nearer to Shakespeare's life while showing how his personal experiences affected even his mature art," says Mr. Frank Harris in an admirable continuation of his series of articles in the English Review. "We know a good deal about the bitter quarrel between Ben Jonson on the one side and Dekker and Marston on the other; it seems probable that Shakespeare, when creating Ajax made the character life-like and recognisable by lending the stout Grecian some of Ben Jonson's peculiarities; and perhaps 'rank' Thersites shows Shakespeare's judgment of Dekker.

"Here is the portrait of Ajax put in the mouth of Alexander:

"'This man, lady, hath robbed many beasts of their particular additions; he is as valiant as the lion, churlish as the bear, slow as the elephant: a man into whom nature hath so crowded humours that his valour is crushed into folly, his folly sauced with discretion: there is no man hath a virtue that he hath not a glimpse of, nor any man an attaint but he carries some strain of it; he is melancholy without cause, and merry against the hair: he hath the joints of everything, but everything so out of joint that he is a gouty Briareus, many hands and no use; or purblind Argus, all eyes and no sight. . . .'

"This is too precise portraiture for an historical figure; it is evident that Shakespeare had some contemporary in mind when he thus individualised Ajax. I cannot but think he was glancing at Ben Jonson, his constant and not always fair critic, in this astonishingly realistic description. That 'gouty Briareus' is poisonously clever and the 'purblind Argus, all eyes and no sight' flicks the raw spot with consummate skill. It looks to me as if Shakespeare were paying off old scores in thus ridiculing his fellows; his caricature of Jonson is on the whole good-humoured and extremely effective, whereas his opinion of Dekker, though Dekker was supposed to be his partisan, is sharpened by contemptuous aversion. Nothing gives a better idea of Shakespeare's extraordinary insight than these disdainful glances at his contemporaries. They had not made life very pleasant to him, as we know; he retorts by showing the clumsiness and ineptitude which disfigured Jonson's strength and the foulness which prevented the gutter-mind of Dekker from rendering a fair reflection of earth and sky. But even here while giving play to keen eyes, he judges with imperial fairness: his friends fare worse at his hands than his enemies."

MR. LEON M. LION, who is a member of The House of Temperley company, and who is only in his thirty-second year, is engaged on a big national Welsh drama in which Owen Glendwyr and Iolo Goch will be the leading characters. "I have been for some time," says Mr. Lion, "interviewing Welsh experts on the period with which the Welsh drama in question deals. The history of Wales," he added, "teems with dramatic incidents. My difficulty is my wealth of material. At first I hardly knew what to select; but with the aid of friends in Wales I have been able to get to work on what I believe will be a national drama in a very real sense.

"WALES has as yet no such drama; and yet she is the land of poetry and of song—and of great actors and actresses. The piece is likely to be first produced in America, then in London, and afterwards in Wales. There have been and are distinguished Welsh novelists. Of all my work I am most in love with this effort to produce an essentially Welsh national drama of a period when the great forces that have made Wales a nation were shaping themselves. I want to show how the destinies of a great race were first directed into the channels from which have come the distinctive traits of a poetic and progressive people. This can be done in drama, and I mean to do it. I have been at work for some time in Wales, and the name of the drama, its exponents and place of production, will shortly be announced. It should bring Wales into line in drama with the other nations."

"THE ERA" NEWSPAPER.

Notice to Contributors.

All communications intended for publication should be sent to "THE EDITOR," and be accompanied by the Writer's Name and Address, not necessarily for insertion, but as a guarantee of good faith.

The Editor will not undertake to be responsible for any rejected MSS., nor to return any Contribution unaccompanied by a stamped and directed envelope.

Notice to Subscribers.

"The Era" is sold by all Newsagents in all the leading English, Irish, and Scotch towns, every Saturday Morning. Price Sixpence.

TERMS, POSTAGE FREE.

Home Subscriptions.			Foreign Subscriptions.
One Year	£1	6	One Year	£1	12
Six Months	0	13	Six Months	0	16
Three Months	0	6	Three Months	0	8

Cash must accompany order.

Notice to Advertisers.

Advertisements should reach the Office early in the week and not later than Thursday, 7 p.m. Remittances payable to "THE ERA," LTD., and crossed Lloyd's Bank.

Communications.

Business Communications should be addressed to The MANAGER,
"THE ERA" BUILDINGS,
5, TAVISTOCK-STREET, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.
(two doors off Wellington-street).
Telegrams, "The Era, London." Telephones, 4747 and 1433, Central.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

[We do not answer inquiries by post. In all letters the names and addresses of inquirers must be given as a guarantee of good faith. Initials only or pseudonyms will be used in the answers if so desired.]

PISTOL.—For arms and ammunition for the stage try Williamson's, Waterloo-road, near the bridge. He supplies the profession.

L. A.—(1) The Merry Widow ran at Daly's from June 8, 1907, to July 31, 1909. (2) We believe not.

G. E. EVERED.—There is no fixed rule that we know of. Each manager acts as he thinks best.

WALTER JAMES.—We know of no standard agreement. The amount of commission is regulated by the terms of the Arbitrator's Award issued in February, 1909.

J. C. E.—Mrs. Patrick Campbell played Militza in For the Crown on its production at the Lyceum in 1896. At its revival at the Scala in 1905 the part was sustained by Miss Gertrude Elliott.

G. C. M.—We do not recall the case alluded to. It is, however, a well-known rule of law that if an author sends by request to a manager or publisher his MS., which is lost through the negligence of the latter, then the author can recover damages.

WM. SEELEY.—The song is published by Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter. The chorus runs as follows:

Playmates were we,
Little we thought it then
How we should change
When we should all be men.
How sweet boyhood's days,
Free from all care and pain.
Playmates, Playmates—
I wish we were young again.

THE monthly meeting of the committee of the Music Hall Sick Fund will be held at the Crown Hotel, Charing Cross-road, on Wednesday afternoon next.

MR. CHARLES S. KITTS and Miss Rhoda Windrum commence on Monday their ninth tour with Messrs. Moss and Stoll at the Empire, Hackney.

A SENSATIONAL aeroplane act is in course of preparation for December by Etherdo, Pugh, and Olrac, now touring with Sanger's Hippodrome.

MR. HARRY DANBY, who made one of the hits of The Islander at the Apollo in his own part of Seaman Jones, will produce a new sketch, entitled Be a Pal, at the Camden Hippodrome on Monday.

"RAYNE'S POCKET DATE BOOK." A new and enlarged edition. Price 1s. Send 13 stamps to the Publisher, The Era Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

BENGER'S

FOR ACTORS, ACTRESSES, VOCALISTS AND ATHLETES.

When fatigued or overstrung, the first refreshment should be Benger's Food, because all exceptional physical effort and nervous strain causes a temporary lowering of the digestive capacity, just when Food is required as a pick-me-up.

It is unwise then to take ordinary food, and stimulants should be doubly avoided, Benger's Food is, however, just what is required to revive from fatigue, to give immediate nourishment, and to tone up the system in readiness for ordinary food.

Benger's is the lightest and daintiest of foods; it is also the most digestible and most highly nutritious.

It should be made with new milk strictly in accordance with the directions contained on each tin.

Benger's Food is sold in Tins by Chemists, etc., everywhere.

365

"THE ERA" LETTER-BOX.

No Circulars, Post Cards, or Parcels admitted to this list.

Albas, the Great
Armstrong, Mr. W. J.
Ault, Miss Marie
Bagnall, Mr. Ronald
Baldwin, Mr. Lawrence
Barlow, Mr. Robert
Barry, Mr. Shiel
Battersby, Mr. Harry
Bawtree, Mr. Arthur
Baxter, Mr. Bob
Behrens, Mr. Nat
Bell, Mr. Gordon
Bellis, Mr. F. A.
Berkeley, Mr. F. J.
Bernac, Mr. Clifton
Birkett, Mr. Harold F.
Bosco, Mr. Irving
Bramley, Miss Bel
Bramley, Mr. J.
Branstone, Miss B.
Briff, Mr. Joseph
Brown, Miss Fanny
Brune, Miss L.
Burnette, Mr. T.
Calvert, Mr. Frank
Campbell, Mrs. P.
Carlos
Castle, Mr. Chas.
Chanti
Chard, Lieut.
Clark, Mr. E. H.
Clarke, Mrs. Leoni
Clyo, Mr. Leo.
Collier, Mr. Hal
Conquest, Mr. Fred
Cordell, Miss Daisy
Croke, Mrs. Wentworth
Cumberland, Mr. E. G.
Currie, Miss Lilly
Dalby, Mrs. Louisa
Dashwood, Mr.
Dauncey, Mr.
Davies, Mrs. Tilly
Deering, Miss Joan
De Santely, Mr. Bernard
Donaldson, Miss Alice
Donatos, The
Douglas, Mr. Geo.
Dubois, Mr. Leon
Dunlops, The
Earle, Miss Victor
Eckersley, Mr. Dick
Edwards and Ward
Elliston, Mr. Harry
Farren, Mr. Wm.
Field, Miss Lila
Fields, Miss Fannie
Flemming, Mr. Claude
Frecker, Mr. C. D.
Freeman, Mr. Claude W.
Golden, Mr. Horace
Gordon, Miss Kitty
Goregund, Miss D.
Gregson, Miss E.
Grenville, Miss Helen
Grey, Miss Marion
Grossi, Mr. G.
Haddon, Mr. Jack
Hales, Mr. Frank
Harris, Miss B.
Haywood, Miss Hettie
Hickish, Miss Anna
Hill, Miss Adria
Hilsberg, Mons. Karl
Hodges, Mr. Seymour
Holt, Mme. Blanche
Hope, Mr. Jones
Horac, Mr. S.
Howard, Mr. Geo.
Irving, Mr. K. Ernest
Jelliman, Miss A.
Jennings, Mr. Frank
Johnson, Miss Queenie
Jones, Mr. Gilbert V.
Jones, Mr. Henry A.
Karr and Kooney
Kendal, Miss Marie
Kirk, Miss P.
Kirk, Mr. George
Landon, Mr. J.
Leonard, Mr. Arthur
Leslie Brothers.
Lewis, Miss Mabel
Lindo, Mr. Frank
Lorraine, Miss Nellie
Lupino, Mr. Barry
Luxmore, Miss Mabel
Lytton, Mr. Edward
Mackinder, Mr. L.
Mark, Mr. John
Marshall, Mrs. C. R.
Martens, Mr. H.
Manning, Mr. W. J.
Maxwell, Mr.
Mayne, Miss Vera
Mazzoni, Mr. Fred
McEwan, Mr. Walter
Mead, Mr. J. H.
Menva, Mr. G.
Millais, Miss Ivy
Moillson, Mrs. W.
Moore, Miss Jessie
Morton, Mr. James J.
Nord, Miss Serene
Oakley, Miss Ada
Oliver, Mr. J. C.
Parker, Mr. Louis N.
Parry, Mr. Edward A.
Paul, Miss Mab
Payne, Mr. W.
Pedley, Mr. Dan
Potter, Mrs. Brown
Preston, Mr. John P.
Ra-Leslie, Miss Ethel
Restall, Mr. John
Richards, Miss Marion
Richardson, Mr. Harold Richardson, Mr. Harry
Roberts, Mr. Francis
Rose, Miss Marie
Rose, Mr. Leonard
Samosa, Prince
Santoi, Miss Marie
Saxony, The
Seeley, Mr. W. R.
Selby, Mr. Alf.
Seymour, Miss Maud
Shelley, Col. J.
Shields, Miss Ella
Shirley, Mr. Arthur
Shortland, Mr. K.
Shrapnel, Mr. L.
Simpson, Master R.
Sivado, Mr. C.
Somers, Mr. J. J.
Sowerby, Miss May
Steele, Mr. Ralph
Stephens, Mr. Billy
Stevens, Mr. R.
Stewart, Mr. H. H.
Stormont, Mr. Leo
Sullivan, Mr. A. M.
Taylor, Capt.
Thompson, Mr. Alec F.
Trevosper, Miss M.
Von Etta, Madam
Wamratta, Mr. W. J.
Ward, Mr. M. S. C.
Williams, Mr. Roland
Wyatt, Miss M.
Wynne, Miss Wish

BLACKMORE'S THEATRICAL AGENCY, 11, GARRICK-STREET, W.C. Under the present management since 1869. Office hours, 10 to 3. Interviews between 11 and 4. 'Phone 1785 Gerr. Wires, "Dramatique, London." All descriptions of Theatrical Business negotiated. Also First-class Music Hall Business.

'Phone 5160 Gerrard. Tel., "Impresario, London." C. ST. JOHN DENTON, DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL AGENT, English representative for Messrs. Clarke and Meynell, T. R., Melbourne, Australia; Mr. A. de Jong, Tivoli, Cape Town; and Fernandez and Paine, New York. 34, Maiden-lane, Strand.

The Great Raymond

BREAKING RECORDS FOR BIG BUSINESS EVERYWHERE.

"THE ERA" IN SOUTH AFRICA.

THE CENTRAL NEWS AGENCY, LTD.

Apply or Address,
The CENTRAL NEWS AGENCY, Ltd.,
Cape Town, Johannesburg, Pretoria, Durban
Bloemfontein, &c., &c.

BIRKBECK BANK
ESTABLISHED 1851.
SOUTHAMPTON-BUILDINGS, HIGH HOLBORN, W.C.
2½ PER CENT. INTEREST
allowed on Deposits repayable on demand.
2 PER CENT. INTEREST
on Drawing Accounts with Cheque Book.
All general Banking Business transacted.
ALMANACK, with full particulars, POST FREE.
C. F. RAVENSCROFT, Secretary.

ACCIDENTS OF ALL KINDS, SICKNESS, EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY, BURGLARY AND FIDELITY GUARANTEE RISKS
Insured Against by the RAILWAY PASSENGERS' ASSURANCE CO.
Capital (fully subscribed), £1,000,000.
Paid up £200,000.
Claims paid £5,700,000.
64, CORNHILL, LONDON.
A. VIAN, Secretary.

MONEY
£5 TO £5000

DON'T BE WITHOUT READY MONEY. I will advance any sum you may require AT ONCE without fuss or formalities, and you can repay by easy instalments to suit your own convenience. Courteous personal attention. Call, write, or 'phone.
Mr. ROSSLYN STUART,
Barton House,
253, Brixton Rd., Brixton, S.W.
Telephone 1235 Brixton.

"I'll swear upon that bottle."—TEMPEST, Act. ii., Scene ii.

WHITBREAD'S
BOTTLED BEERS

maintain their popularity because they are brought into condition by

MATURING IN BOTTLE,

the Natural method,

without the aid of carbonating or other artificial process.

The Largest Beer Bottlers in the World.

APPLY TO CHIEF OFFICES,
BRITANNIA ST., KING'S CROSS, LONDON, W.C.
(Telephones: Nos. 2510 and 2511 North. Telegraphic Address, "Bearseller, London.")

FOR NAME OF NEAREST AGENT.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES.

For Sustaining the Voice.
Invaluable for ACTORS and SINGERS.
Indispensable for PUBLIC SPEAKERS

GENTLEMEN,—For sudden affections of the Bronchial Organs I use and most cheerfully recommend "Brown's Troches." They are regarded as most eligible, convenient, and indispensable by numerous artists of my acquaintance, BOTH IN EUROPE AND AMERICA. They seem to act specially on the organs of the voice, and produce a clear enunciation.—Yours truly (Signed), MARIA ROSE MAPLESON.

SOLD EVERYWHERE AT 1/1½ PER BOX.

DINNEFORD'S MAGNESIA.

The Best Remedy for Acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and Indigestion. The Safest and most effective Aperient for regular use.

TYPEWRITING.
MRS. MARSHALL, 126, STRAND, W.C.
PROMPT BOOKS and ACTORS' PARTS.
TRANSLATIONS FROM and INTO ALL LANGUAGES.
ADAPTATIONS of FRENCH and GERMAN PLAYS UNDERTAKEN.
SHORTHAND DICTATION in FRENCH or ENGLISH. REFERENCES to MANY LEADING AUTHORS and MANAGERS

In the Autumn sudden changes of temperature, drinking impure water, or excessive indulgence in fruit, frequently result in bowel troubles.

DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE

Will Stop Immediately an Attack of DIARRHŒA, DYSENTERY, or CHOLERA.

Everyone should take a sensible precaution. Don't wait until you actually need the Chlorodyne, and may find difficulty in procuring it, but always have a bottle at hand.

To avoid disappointment, insist on having
Dr. J. Collis Browne's CHLORODYNE.
The Original and Only Genuine.
IT ACTS LIKE A CHARM
OF ALL CHEMISTS, 1/1½, 2/9, and 4/6.

DELICIOUS COFFEE,
RED WHITE & BLUE
For Breakfast & after Dinner.

TRADE MARK No. 214238.
Velvet Grip
REGD. TRADE MARK No. 204904.
Stocking Supporters

The only "GRIP" that "GRIPS" SECURELY without injury to the HOSE

			Single ends	Double ends
ALL THESE HAVE CLIP TOPS.	1¼in. wide,	Plain Cotton Elastic	No. 401 1/-	No. 601 1/-
	1¼in. ,,	Plain Silk ,,	No. 405 1/6	No. 332 2/-
	1¼in. ,,	Frilled Art Silk ,,	No. 607 1/-	No. 606 1/6
	1¼in. ,,	Frilled Best Silk ,,	No. 68 1/6	No. 40 2/6

By Post 1d. per pair extra.
If unable to obtain from your draper, write to—
The MANUFACTORY, Hackney Road Works, London, N.E.

LONDON THEATRES.

GAIETY THEATRE.
Manager, Mr. GEORGE EDWARDES.
EVERY EVENING at 8,
A Musical Play,
"OUR MISS GIBBS."
Box-Office open daily 10 till 10.

ST. JAMES'S.
MR. GEORGE ALEXANDER,
Sole Lessee and Manager.
LAST NIGHTS (Final Performance Sept. 23).
Every Evening, at 9.
"THE IMPORTANCE OF BEING EARNEST,"
By Oscar Wilde.
MR. ALLAN AYNESWORTH in his Original Part.
At 8.30, "A MAKER OF MEN," by Alfred Sutro.
LAST 2 MATS., WED. NEXT and Sept. 21, 2.30.
Sept. 27, New Play, "D'ARCY OF THE GUARDS."

DALY'S THEATRE.
EVERY EVENING at 8.15.
Mr. GEORGE EDWARDES'
Production,
"THE DOLLAR PRINCESS."
A Musical Play, in Three Acts.
Matinée Every Saturday at 2.15.
Return of LILY ELSIE as Alice.
Box-office (Mr. H. W. Anderson) open 10 till 10.

DUKE OF YORK'S THEATRE.
Sole Lessee and Manager, Charles Frohman.
Every evening at 8.30
Charles Frohman presents
IRENE VANBRUGH in
"A BOLT FROM THE BLUE,"
by
Tristan Bernard and Alfred Athis.
Adapted by Cosmo Hamilton.
Matinée every Thursday and Saturday at 2.30.

KING'S THEATRE, W.
Telephone, 119 HAMMERSMITH.
Owner and Resident-Manager, J. B. MULHOLLAND.
Every Evening at 8. Matinée Thursday, 2.30.
"OLD HEIDELBURG."
For dates at Marlborough, the King's, and the New Wimbledon Theatre, address King's T., W.

MARLBOROUGH THEATRE.
Managing-Directors,
Mr. ERNEST STEVENS and Mr. R. C. BUCHANAN.
Sept. 12,
"THE WHIP."
Address all communications re dates to Mr. J. B. Mulholland, King's Theatre, Hammersmith, W.
All other communications to Messrs. Stevens and Buchanan, Marlborough T., N. 'Phone 131 North.

ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE
KINGSTON-ON-THAMES
Sept. 12, at 7.45. Matinée Wednesday at 2.30.
"WHEN KNIGHTS WERE BOLD."
Mr. PETER DAVEY, Managing-Director.
Telephone, No. 58, Kingston-on-Thames.
Telegrams, "Theatre, Kingston-on-Thames."

GRAND THEATRE, CROYDON.
Manager, Mr. CHARLES WOOD. Assistant-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. ERNEST ARCHER.
Sept. 12, Lyn Harding and Sidney Cooper's Co., in "TANTALISING TOMMY."
(By arrangement with Cyril Maude.)
For future bookings, apply to Manager.
Only First-class Companies entertained.
Telephone, 12 Croydon.

CRYSTAL PALACE.
"POMPEII."
Last Week of "Pompeii," 8.30 Nightly. Last Week
"Pompeii," 8.30 Nightly,
By Messrs. J. Pain and Son.
Saturday next, Last Performance of "Pompeii."
Vaudevilles, Archipelago, Organ, Bands, Gardens, &c.
Return Rail and Admission, 1s. 6d. from all stations.

MASKELYNE and DEVANT'S MYSTERIES.
St. George's Hall, W. DAILY, at 3 and 8.
New Holiday Programme.
"Psycho," Mr. Maskelyne's famous automaton. "The Scarab," New Magical Farce; Mr. Archie Naish, Humour at the Piano; Memora, the Human Encyclopædia; Mr. Owen Clark, with Novel Magical Problems, &c. Seats, 1s. to 5s.
'Phone, 1545 Mayfair.

LONDON MUSIC HALLS.

OXFORD.—MARK SHERIDAN (9.30), Venie Clements (8.10), Bransby Williams (10), Rich and Rich, Joe Elvin (8.40), Millie Payne, Billy Merson (9.30), Chas. Austin as "Parker, P.C." (10.45), Archie Royer, Jack and Evelyn (10.20), The Fitzroys, Gus Elen (8.20), The Crisps, Boganny's Lunatic Bakers, Ruth Lytton, Lily Black, Fred Laud, Ruffell's Bioscope.
Open 7.15. Saturday Matinées, 2.15.

TIVOLI.—
HARRY LAUDER, Mark Sheridan, The Two Bobs, Geo. Lestocq and Co., Footgers, George Nagel and Co., Billy Merson, Maddison and Webb, Jennie Hartley, Josie Delaine, Arcadia, Spalding and Riego, Mildred Bryan, H. La Martine. Open 7.40. Saturday, Matinées, 2.15.

METROPOLITAN.
Twice nightly, at 6.40 and 9.10.
Mark Sheridan, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard, Dolly Elsworthy and Co., in "Right's Right," Ivan Ischernoff's Circus, The Three Drummonds, Cissie Lupino, Walter Munroe, Josie Mooney, Jack Marks, Mlle. Yetta, Ruffell's Bioscope.

CHELSEA PALACE,
KING'S-ROAD, CHELSEA.
Twice Nightly, at 6.40 and 9.10.
Charles Austin and Co., in "Parker's Progress," Phœbe Mercer and Co., "Mistakes Will Happen," Harry Bancroft, Hanid Alexander, Harry Thurston, Aimee Roberts, Ethel Campbell, Ruffell's Bioscope, Dufor Trio, and Boganny's Lunatic Bakers.

QUEEN'S PALACE OF VARIETIES,
POPLAR. Tel. 714 East.
Proprietors, F. and M. ABRAHAMS.
General-Manager, Mr. MORRIS ABRAHAMS. Twice nightly, 6.30 and 9.10. Matinée Thursday, 2.30. Band Rehearsal, Monday, 1 o'clock. Daisy Jerome, Adam Tomlinson, Millie Doris, Parks and Price, Willie Benn and Freddie French's Co., in "The King of Sleepland," Rose and Challoner, Daisy Mayer, Bioscope, Lee and Kingston, Winnie Barr, Jolly Jimmy Walker, Three Langfords, Billy Rex. Artists must forward bill matter to above, according to Clause 18.

THE NEW BEDFORD
PALACE OF VARIETIES, LTD.
Twice Nightly 6.10 and 9.
Sept. 12, 1910.—Fred Eustace and Co., "The Family Name," Edw. Cranston and Co., "Jaws of Death," Mrs. Will Pettitt, Garti and Law, Little Ganty, McKie and McKay, Everard Denton, Rose Devella and Mabel Woods, Brothers Durant, James Lawrence, Bioscope, Kitty Colyer, and others.
Artists are notified that they must send their full Bill Matter in two clear weeks before opening. Rehearsal, 1 o'clock Mondays. All must attend. Artists not complying with the above rules are subject to having their Contracts cancelled at option of Management.

ROYAL STANDARD MUSIC HALL
(facing Victoria Station).—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. T. S. DICKIE.—One House Nightly. (Half-time 9.30, except Saturdays and Holidays.)
Monday, Sept. 12.—John Lawson and Co. in "The Open Door," Rich and Rich, Three Flying Winskells, Dan Whitley, Clare Histob's Co., May B. Brilliant, Nat Watkins, Victoria Glen, Two Astralis, Ethel Pierce, Geo. Gordon, Gertie Leslie, Edisonograph. Rehearsal Monday, 1 o'clock. Doors open 7.30 (Saturdays 7 o'clock). Commence 7.40 (Saturdays 7.15, with augmented programme). Tele., Westminster 503. Assistant-Manager, Mr. MAURICE VOLNY.

LONDON MUSIC HALLS.

ALHAMBRA.
"FEMINA."
Grand Spectacular Ballet.
LEONORA. FAICO. BRITTA.
CARMEN TURIA, TERRY and LAMBERT, Jack 'Ark, Emma and Victor, Miss Coombs, Fuji Japanese Troupe, OLYMPIA DESVALL Jury's Pictures, "ON THE SANDS."
Every Evening at 8 (doors 7.45).
Managing-Director, ALFRED MOUL.

EMPIRE (Leicester-square).
New Ballet:
"THE DANCING MASTER."
FRED FARREN, PHYLLIS BEDELLS,
Geo. Mozart, Sybil Arundale,
The Perezoffs, Asra, Smite and Smote, Russian Divertissement, "Moscow," The Leger on the Bioscope, &c.
Evenings at 8.
Manager, Mr. H. J. HITCHINS.

PALACE.
Margaret Cooper, Nat M. Wills, Mary Grey, Kaufmann Troupe, Six American Dancers, Les Trombetta, De Serris Bas-Reliefs, Bioscope, &c.
Evenings at 8.
Matinée, Full Programme, Saturdays, at 2.
Managing-Director,
Mr. ALFRED BUTT.

COLONIAL THEATRES.

AUSTRALIA.
MELBOURNE, SYDNEY, BRISBANE, WELLINGTON, N.Z.
Mr. J. C. WILLIAMSON,
Manager of the Leading Australasian Theatres,
HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, MELBOURNE;
HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, SYDNEY;
THEATRE ROYAL, SYDNEY;
HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE, BRISBANE.
London Representative,
J. A. E. MALONE, Adelphi Theatre.

AUSTRALIA.
MR. HARRY RICKARDS,
Sole Proprietor and Manager,
GRAND OPERA HOUSE, MELBOURNE;
PRINCE OF WALES' HOTEL, MELBOURNE;
TIVOLI THEATRE, SYDNEY;
TIVOLI HOTEL, SYDNEY;
TIVOLI THEATRE, ADELAIDE;
PALACE THEATRE AND GARDENS, PERTH.
Mr. Harry Rickards has arrived in England.
Address, c/o "The Era."

AUSTRALIA and NEW ZEALAND.
GEORGE MARLOW'S ENTERPRISES.
London Agent,
EDWARD THANE,
15, Mount Pleasant-lane, Upper Clapton, N.E.

NEW ZEALAND.
FULLER'S AMUSEMENT ENTERPRISES.
Props., JOHN FULLER AND SONS.
AUCKLAND OPERA HOUSE, SKATING RINK (shortly building).
WELLINGTON THEATRE R. (shortly re-building) HIS MAJESTY'S OLYMPIA RINK.
CHRISTCHURCH OPERA H., COLOSSEUM.
DUNEDIN, HIS MAJESTY'S, ALHAMBRA, and PRINCESS THEATRES.
INVERCARGILL. ZEALANDIA HALL.
Head Office, Wellington.

INDIA AND THE FAR EAST.
BANDMANN'S EASTERN CIRCUIT.
MAURICE E. BANDMANN controls
the only Circuit of Theatres in the East, and can offer attractions a Twelve to Eighteen Months' Consecutive Tour.
Rent! Share! or Certainty!
ROYAL OPERA HOUSE, BOMBAY.
Joint Owners, MAURICE E. BANDMANN and J. F. KARAKA. District Manager, F. MITCHELL.
The Premier Theatre of Bombay!
This new and magnificent three-tier theatre, now under course of erection, built on the cantilever principle, will be opened in October next. Holding capacity at ordinary prices £300. Every modern improvement. Stage capable of any production.
EMPIRE THEATRE, CALCUTTA.
Joint Owners, MAURICE E. BANDMANN and A. STEPHEN. District Manager, J. BURY.
Acknowledged by Press and Public as the Premier Theatre of the East!
Now in its second year of unprecedented success. Holding capacity at ordinary prices £350.
A magnificent four-tier playhouse, built on the cantilever principle, with modern mechanical stage capable of any production.
A play palace.—Vide Press.
At last Calcutta has a theatre where one can both see and hear in.—Vide Press.
A Manager writes:—I have taken more money at the Empire, Calcutta, in one night than in another theatre in Calcutta in one week.
THEATRE ROYAL, CALCUTTA.
Sole Owner, A. STEPHEN. Joint Lessees, MAURICE E. BANDMANN and A. STEPHEN.
Holding capacity at ordinary prices £250.
THE FAR EAST.
District Manager, ROY H. SMITH.
Address all communications to District Managers or to London Representative, 44, Cranbourn-street, W.C. Cables, "Svengali," London. "Svengali," Calcutta. "Svengali," Bombay.

MADRAS.
Fitted and equipped on the latest English lines.
THE NEW LYRIC THEATRE.
THE NEW LYRIC THEATRE.
THE NEW LYRIC THEATRE.
Electric Lighting and Fans.
The finest and most up-to-date Theatre in Southern India.
Will open in August.
For vacant dates apply,
THE MANAGER,
New Lyric Theatre,
Mount-road, Madras.
Cables, "Misquith, Madras."
Codes, Reuter and A B C 5th Ed.

CAPE TOWN.—Correspondent required to Supply Theatrical and Music-hall Reports. Apply DRAMATICUS, 5, Tavistock-street, Covent Garden, London.

JOHANNESBURG.—Correspondent required to supply Theatrical and Music-hall News. Apply DRAMATICUS, 5, Tavistock-street, Covent Garden, London.

MONTREAL.—Correspondent required to supply Theatrical and Music-hall Reports. Apply DRAMATICUS, 5, Tavistock-street, Covent Garden, London.

TORONTO.—Correspondent required to supply Theatrical and Variety News. Apply, DRAMATICUS, 5, Tavistock-street, Covent Garden London.

PROVINCIAL THEATRES.

ALDERSHOT.—THEATRE ROYAL.
VARIETY SEASON TWICE NIGHTLY.
Autumn Dramatic Season commences Sept. 19.
Address, MR. CLARENCE SOUNES, New Empire, Kingston. Telephone, 1200 P.O., Kingston.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL. Owner and Manager, Mr. CHARLES REVILL. Vacant Feb. 6, 20, March 6, 13, and 20. First-class Attractions only. Address, CHARLES REVILL, THEATRE ROYAL, STOCKPORT.

PROVINCIAL THEATRES.

BIRMINGHAM.
CURZON HALL.
Holding capacity about 3000.
To Let
for various dates
during 1910 and 1911.
Suitable for Circus, Diorama, &c.
For particulars apply to
EDMUND W. BIRCH,
Chartered Accountant,
37, Temple-street,
Birmingham.

BLACKPOOL.
HER MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE,
WINTER GARDENS,
The PRINCIPAL THEATRE.
Holds MORE MONEY at ORDINARY PRICES and has better average business throughout the Year than any Theatre in the Town.
The Most Comfortable, Elegant, and Best-equipped Theatre, Large and Well Electric Lighted Stage, and First-class Orchestra.
All visitors to the Theatre have Free Admission to the Winter Gardens, Floral Hall, Empress Ballroom, and Pavilion Entertainments; thus Companies visiting Her Majesty's Opera House have this additional attraction, which no other Theatre can offer. Only best No. 1 Companies Booked For dates address, JNO. R. HUDDLESTONE, Manager, Winter Gardens, Blackpool.

BLACKPOOL.
GRAND THEATRE, BLACKPOOL,
under the entirely new Proprietorship and Management of the Blackpool Tower Co., Ltd.
General-Manager, GEO. H. HARROP.
Acting-Manager, PERCY HARROP.
The Finest, most Popular, and High Record Money-holding Theatre at ordinary prices in the town. Charmingly re-decorated and re-appointed throughout. A beautiful luxurious, and perfectly appointed playhouse. Spacious and brilliantly lighted stage. Superior dressing-rooms. Magnificent Orchestra. First-class West End company only wanted for the following date, Oct. 24, 1910.
All communications, which should be made at once, to GEO. H. HARROP, General-Manager, as above; or, Mr. E. LOCKWOOD, 5, Winterbrook-road, Herne Hill, London, S.E. Teles., "Tower, Blackpool."

CAMBRIDGE.—NEW THEATRE (Ltd.)
Man.-Director, Mr. W. B. REDFERN, J.P., D.L.
A theatre among the most beautiful in England.—Sunday Times.
All dates filled this year.
Now booking Spring of 1911.
Silence a polite negative.

CORK.—OPERA HOUSE.
No Vacant Dates this Year.
Now Booking next Spring and Autumn.
Apply, R. J. BELL, Manager.

DARLINGTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.
Lessee and Manager, JAMES BELL.
The Finest, Most Popular, and Record Money-holding Theatre in the Town. Brilliantly-lighted Stage, Magnificent Orchestra.
A Few Vacant Dates Oct., Nov., and Jan.
No. 1 Companies only.
Bookings already include "Our Miss Gibbs," "Merry Widow," "Arcadians," Moody-Manners, "Hook of Holland," "Dick Whittington," "Aladdin," &c., &c.

EPSOM PUBLIC HALL.—TO LET
for Theatrical Touring Companies, Variety Entertainments and Concerts. Dressing Rooms, electric light. Tariff on application.
MANAGER.

GRIMSBY.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE, LTD.
Established 1884.
Managing-Director, JOSEPH H. CURRY.
Open all the Year Round.
Telegraphic add., "Curry, Grimsby." Tel. No. 240.

HANLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.
The Staffordshire Potteries
for all
Dramatic Purposes
must be considered as one large town.
Accommodation for 3,000 People.
Electric Trams and Trains after Performance to all ends of the District.
Vacant
Nov. 7, 14, 21, 28, and Feb. 13, onwards.
First-class Attractions only.
CHAS. E. ELPHINSTONE, Managing-Director.

LONDON.—Correspondent required to supply occasional reports of the Shoreditch Empire and the Shoreditch Olympia. Apply, DRAMATICUS, 5, Tavistock-street, Covent Garden, W.C.

LONDON.—Correspondent required to supply occasional reports of the Sadler's Wells Music Hall. Apply, DRAMATICUS, 5, Tavistock-street, Covent Garden, W.C.

LONDON, N.—Correspondent required to supply occasional reports of the Edmonton Empire. Apply, DRAMATICUS, 5, Tavistock-street, Covent Garden, W.C.

LONDON.—Correspondent required to supply occasional reports of the Finsbury Park Empire. Apply DRAMATICUS, 5, Tavistock-street, Covent Garden, W.C.

OLDHAM. — GRAND THEATRE
Only Principal Attractions entertained.
Vacant Nov. 28 (?), Dec. 5, 12.
Can entertain a big Panto. Feb. 6 or Feb. 20, 27.
Address, ERNEST BOTTRIDGE.

OXFORD. — NEW THEATRE.
Managers of First-class Companies are invited to apply for Dates to
Mr. C. C. DORRILL,
Managing-Director.
Silence a polite negative.

PLYMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.
Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. LANGDON LEE.
Vacant dates,
Nov. 14, March 27, April 10, 24,
and onwards.

PORTSMOUTH.—NEW THEATRE. ROYAL.
Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. BOUGHTON.
Open throughout the year.
First-class Companies.
Weekly Matinées.

SCARBOROUGH.—THEATRE ROYAL.
Sole Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. GARSIDE.
Holding capacity £60, at ordinary prices, 2s. 6d., 2s., 1s., 6d., private boxes 10s. 6d.
Now booking summer, 1911.

SOUTHPORT. — OPERA HOUSE.
Lessee and Manager, PERCY HUTCHISON.
Possibly Vacant
Dec. 5.

STOCKPORT. — THEATRE ROYAL.
Owner and Manager, Mr. CHARLES REVILL.
The Premier Theatre of Cheshire.
Vacant Jan. 16, Feb. 13, March 13.
First-class Attractions only.

SUNDERLAND.—KING'S THEATRE.
Lessee and Manager, S. F. DAVIDSON.
Business-Manager, LLOYD TOWNROW.
Visited by all the best Companies, including Geo. Alexander, Lewis Waller, Oscar Asche, Martin Harvey, Geo. Graves, Moody-Manners, D'Oyly Carte, "Arcadians," "Merry Widow," &c., &c.
Now Booking Spring and Autumn, 1911.

PROVINCIAL THEATRES.

WINDSOR. — THEATRE ROYAL.
A New and Up-to-date Theatre now being erected at a cost of nearly £30,000, will be opened in December next, with a full and capable staff, both back and front, and a first-class Orchestra. Money capacity at Drama Prices (exclusive of Early Doors), £50; Musical Comedy and Special Production prices, £80. Stage: Depth, 36ft., width, 48ft.; floor to grid, 53ft.; proscenium opening, 28ft.
Managers of First-class Companies are invited to send vacant dates and terms to
Mr. J. E. BULL (for the Proprietors),
c/o Managers' Club,
5, Wardour-street, London, W.

A FEW VACANT DATES
for the following
First-class Theatre Circuit:—
OPERA HOUSE, TUNBRIDGE WELLS;
GRAND THEATRE, SOUTHAMPTON;
THEATRE ROYAL, BOURNEMOUTH;
OPERA HOUSE, CORK;
THE GRAND THEATRE, SWANSEA, can be booked in conjunction with the OPERA H., CORK. Journey via the popular Fishguard-Rosslare route.
GAIETY THEATRE, DUBLIN;
THEATRE ROYAL, DUBLIN;
OPERA HOUSE, BELFAST.
Apply, FREDK. MOUILLOT,
1 and 2, King-street, Covent Garden.

SCALE OF CHARGES FOR PROVINCIAL THEATRES AND PROVINCIAL MUSIC HALLS.
Five Lines, TWO AND SIXPENCE.
Thirteen Insertions (Including a Copy of "The Era" Weekly), THIRTY SHILLINGS.
For Each Additional Line, Sixpence.
Address, THE PUBLISHER,
5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.
"Wire," "The Era, London."
"Ring-up," 4747 or 1433 Central.

ACADEMIES AND SCHOOLS.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,
TENTERDEN-STREET, W.
Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.
The Academy offers to Pupils of both sexes an opportunity of receiving a thorough education in Music in all its branches, the Drama, and Dramatic Elocution under the most eminent Professors.
For terms and all other information, apply to F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC
(Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883).
PRINCE CONSORT-ROAD, SOUTH KENSINGTON, S.W.
Director, Sir C. HUBERT H. PARRY, Bart., C.V.O., D.C.L., M.A., Mus. Doc.
Hon. Sec., CHARLES MORLEY, Esq.
Syllabus and Official Entry Forms may be obtained from FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.
Established and Managed by the Corporation of London.
The only School in London for
OPERATIC and THEATRICAL
TRAINING which possesses a completely equipped Theatre. Public Performances periodically given. Stagecraft, Elocution, Fencing, Gesture, Stage Dancing, and Deportment Taught by Eminent Professors. Autumn Term commences Monday, Sept. 26. New pupils can enter at any time.
FEES MODERATE. Prospectus on application to H. SAXE-WYNDHAM, Sec., Victoria-embankment, E.C. Tel. No. 1943 Holborn.

FUNDS, &c.

ROYAL GENERAL THEATRICAL FUND.
FOR MEMBERS BECOMING INCAPACITATED EITHER BY OLD AGE OR INFIRMITY.
Hon. Treasurer, EDWARD TERRY, Esq., J.P.
Subscribers are requested to send notices of alteration of addresses.
CHARLES CRUIKSHANKS, Secretary,
Savoy House, 115-116, Strand.

ACTORS' BENEVOLENT FUND.
8, ADAM-STREET, STRAND.
C. I. COLTSON, Secretary.

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.
32, REGENT-STREET, PICCADILLY-CIRCUS, W.
Free Medical Advice.
Free Legal Advice.
Agency. Tours Booked.
Telegrams, "Actoris, London."
Telephone, 1753 Gerrard.

THE MANAGERS' CLUB
and
TOURING MANAGERS' ASSOCIATION, LTD.
For particulars of Membership, apply to THE SECRETARY, 5, Wardour-street, W. Telegraphic address, "Playwright, London." Telephone 8458 Gerrard.

Price 3s. 6d., post free 3s. 10d.
THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT
FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER.
By ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (Lond.).

Chapter I.
COPYRIGHT AS OPPOSED TO PERFORMING RIGHT.
Chapter II.
PERFORMING RIGHT.
Chapter III.
INFRINGEMENT AND REMEDIES.
CHAPTER IV.
MUSICAL COPYRIGHT.
Chapter V.
INTERNATIONAL AND COLONIAL COPYRIGHT.

"The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer," by Albert A. Strong, LL.B., solicitor, author of "Dramatic and Musical Law," ("The Era" office), seems to be the one compendious and indispensable authority on the subject, as vexed as the "Bermoothes" and as tortuous as a Chancery suit, that has long been wanted. It is in every essential a text book for the perplexed layman, and no solicitor or barrister worth his salt ought to think of taking or appearing in "proceedings" without consulting its pages. It must suffice, after what has been said, to state little more than that the contents include five chapters, respectively named "Copyright as Opposed to Performing Right," "Performing Right," "Infringement and Remedies," "Musical Copyright," and "International and Colonial Copyright." The work, for all its precise authority, is not dry reading. The statutes, with the elucidatory notes, necessarily impose a task on the reader which takes some tackling, but they had to be there. The cases adduced, however, are full of interest. Certain of them might fitly find a place in the romance of copyright. There was the fight of Charles Reade with George Conquest over "It's Never Too Late to Mend," for instance, and the equally interesting conflict of Mr. J. A. Cave with Chatterton over "The Wandering Jew." The latter was a famous battle. Chatterton took it to the House of Lords, and was finally beaten, to the unspeakable relief of Mr. Cave, who is never weary of relating the story. Had the result been otherwise, it would have meant his ruin. I well remember meeting him on the day of his victory and "crashing a cup with him" in honour of the same. "The Law of Copyright" is dedicated to Mr. A. W. Pinero.—Sportsman.
Mr. A. A. Strong has published a book on "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer," which should be in the hands of everyone who is obliged to know about this perplexing subject. Dramatic copyright in England is in a particularly unsatisfactory state, and it is much to be hoped that ere long some more rational method of securing protection for a play may be devised than the slovenly and sometimes costly "production for copyright purposes" which is at present required. — St. James's Gazette.

Published at "The Era" Buildings,
5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

ALPHABETICAL LIST
OF
ILLUSTRATED BIOGRAPHIES.

Albury, Mr. Eric H. ....Feb. 5, 1910
Allan, Mr. Charles ....Jan. 22, 1910
Anthony, Mr. Mark ....Jan. 1, 1910
Arnold, Mr. Harold ....Nov. 6, 1909
Austin, Late Miss Amber ....Aug. 13, 1910
Austin and Cowan ....Feb. 5, 1910
Avinal, Mr. Edward ....June 11, 1910

Barbour, Late Mr. William ....Feb. 19, 1910
Barrasford, late Mr. Thomas ....Feb. 5, 1910
Barratt, Mr. Lester ....Oct. 23, 1909
Barth, Late Miss Alice ....July 23, 1910
Beltram, Miss Josie ....Jan. 22, 1910
Black, Mr. Kenneth ....Nov. 20, 1909
Black, Mr. Stuart ....Aug. 6, 1910
Blackmore, Mr. Herbert ....Aug. 13, 1910
Blackwood, Miss Nancy ....March 12, 1910
Blanchard, Miss Mildred ....Nov. 27, 1909
Bodie, Mr. Albert Edward ....Aug. 20, 1910
Box, Mr. Ted E. ....Nov. 6, 1909
Boyde, late Mr. Edwin ....Nov. 6, 1909
Braithwaite, Mrs. J. W. ....April 30, 1910
Brandreth, Mr. H. B. ....Aug. 27, 1910
Brough, late Mr. Lionel ....Nov. 13, 1909
Broughton, Mr. W. H. ....Jan. 22, 1910
Brown, Mr. Charles ....Aug. 6, 1910
Brown, Mr. Frank ....June 11, 1910
Bushell, Mr. Albert ....Nov. 20, 1909

Calvert, Mr. Cayley ....Feb. 12, 1910
Carpenter, Late Mr. Ernest ....Jan. 1, 1910
Carpenter, Mr. F. W. ....March 6, 1910
Carr, Mr. James ....March 5, 1910
Caselli, Sisters ....Nov. 13, 1909
Chapman, Miss Ida Assheton ....Dec. 18, 1909
Chumley, Mr. Alick ....July 23, 1910
Clarkson, Mr. W. ....July 9, 1910
Clifford, Mr. Julian ....June 18, 1910
Clifton, Miss Dorothy ....Feb. 12, 1910
Clyffe, Miss Dolly ....Jan 22, 1910
Colley, Mr. Herbert ....Jan. 22, 1910
Collingwood, Mr. Lester ....March 26, 1910
Collins, Late Miss Lottie ....May 7, 1910
Collins, Mr. Arthur ....Feb. 26, 1910
Compton, Miss Viola ....June 11, 1910
Corri, Mlle. Ghita ....April 23, 1910
Craven, Miss Elise ....Jan. 1, 1910
Craven, Late Mr. Hawes ....July 30, 1910
Cross, Late Mr. A. B. ....Jan. 8, 1910

Dagmar, Miss Alexandra ....July 30, 1910
Darien Mr. Philip ....Feb. 5, 1910
Davies Late Mr. Chas. J. ....Jan. 29, 1910
Davis, Mr. Maurice ....June 18, 1910
Day, Mr. Harry W. ....March 26, 1910
Delaine, Miss Josie ....Feb. 12, 1910
Dodd, Miss Rosabel ....Sept. 3, 1910

Earle, Miss Amy Lloyd ....Feb. 5, 1910
Edmonds, Mr. E. Vivian ....Aug. 20, 1910
Ellis, Mr. Walter ....June 18, 1910
Entwistle, Mr. Henry ....June 11, 1910
Esdale Brothers ....Sept. 3, 1910
Evans, late Mr. Evans ....Nov. 6, 1909

Feldman, Mr. Bert ....Aug. 20, 1910
Fern, Miss Sable ....Jan. 22, 1910
Ferris, Mr. Edward ....March 26, 1910
Forbes, Miss Mary ....July 23, 1910
Ford-Howitt, Miss Gladys ....Jan. 22, 1910
Ford, Mr. Herbert ....May 7, 1910

Gibbons, Mr. Walter ....Feb. 5, 1910
Gittins, Mr. Ernest Ch. ....Feb. 5, 1910
Grahame, Miss Dorothy ....June 11, 1910
Graydon, Mr. J. C. ....Jan. 15, 1910
Green, Mr. Tom ....Aug. 6, 1910
Gregory, Mr. Wilmer ....Jan. 15, 1910
Griffiths, Mr. F. R. ....May 28, 1910
Gros, Late Mr. Henri ....July 30, 1910
Gwyn-Richardson, Mr. F. R. ....July 16, 1910

Hardacre, Mr. J. Pitt ....Oct. 23, 1909
Hargreaves, Mr. W. H. ....April 23, 1910
Harwood, Late Mr. Robb ....Feb. 26, 1910
Hastings Batson, Mr. J. ....March 5, 1910
Heath Late Mr. Frank ....Dec. 18, 1909
Hickman, Mr. Charles D. ....April 23, 1910
Hill Mr. Rowland ....May 28, 1910
Hughes, Miss Annie ....June 18, 1910
Hylton, Miss Millie ....Sept. 3, 1910

Jesson, Mr. C. ....June 4, 1910

Kenyon, Mr. Neil ....Aug. 20, 1910
Kitts, Mr. Charles S. ....Feb. 12, 1910

Leon, late Mr. Frank ....Nov. 6, 1909
Leslie, Mr. George ....Sept. 3, 1910
Lingwood, Miss Sophie ....July 2, 1910
Linn and Darius ....Aug. 20, 1910
Littlewood, Miss Gertrude ....July 16, 1910
Lloyd, Mr. Tom ....May 7, 1910
Lockhart, Mr. William ....Nov. 27, 1909
Lonsdale, Mr. T. S. ....Aug. 20, 1910
Loveday, Late Mr. H. J. ....April 2, 1910

Mackay, Miss Ida ....Feb. 12, 1910
Mackay, Mr. A. B. ....Feb. 12, 1910
Mapleson, Colonel ....April 23, 1910
May, Miss Daisy ....April 2, 1910
Meadows, Mr. Lonnen ....July 23, 1910
Moller, Madame Annie ....Aug. 27, 1910
Montague, Little Constance ....April 30, 1910
Morgan, Miss Dorma ....Dec. 26, 1909
Morgan, Miss Mabelle ....Oct. 30, 1909

Neville, Late Mr. Henry ....June 25, 1910
Newall, late Mr. Richard ....Oct. 30, 1909
Nolan, Late Mr. Michael ....Jan. 15, 1910

Parker, Mr. Frank ....July 2, 1910
Payne-Seddon, Mr. W. ....April 16, 1910
Penso, Mr. R. ....Nov. 27, 1909
Perrette, Mr. W. H. ....Jan. 22, 1910
Petley, Mr. Edward S. ....July 2, 1910
Phillipini, Madame Jeannette ....Feb. 5, 1910
Power, Mr. Oscar ....March 12, 1910
Pringle, Mr. William ....April 23, 1910

Raymond, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. ....Dec. 18, 1909
Reade, Mr. Randolfe ....Aug. 6, 1910
Reeves, Fred and Horace ....Jan. 1, 1910
Reid, Late Mr. Henry Erastus ....June 18, 1910
Reynolds, Mr. Walter, L.C.C. ....Jan. 1, 1910
Rhodes, Mr. Percy ....June 11, 1910
Richardson, Miss Dorothy ....Feb. 5, 1910
Rickards, Mr. Harry ....July 16, 1910
Robinson, Mr. Kendall ....Aug. 20, 1910
Russon, Mr. Harry ....March 5, 1910

Salambos, The ....Jan. 8, 1910
Sargent, Mr. Frederic ....Feb. 5, 1910
Saunders, Miss Vera ....July 16, 1910
Schalkenbach, Late Herr ....April 16, 1910
Schonberg, Mr. W. Lake ....May 28, 1910
Scott, Mr. Bennett ....Aug. 27, 1910
Selwynne, Miss Clarissa ....Feb. 5, 1910
Shaw, Late Mr. Sydney ....April 23, 1910
Shelley, Mr. Herbert ....July 2, 1910
Simms, Rosa and Kitty ....Nov. 20, 1909
Smith, Late Mr. Vere ....Jan. 29, 1910
Somerfield, Late Mr Fred C. ....Feb. 26, 1910
Stephenson, Mr. Chas. A. ....July 23, 1910
Stirling, Mr. Charles ....Aug. 6, 1910
St. John, Mr. Herbert ....May 28, 1910
Stranack, Mr. Wallace ....June 18, 1910
Stretton, Mr. Alfred ....March 26, 1910
Stuart, Miss Eva ....Dec. 25, 1909
Stuart, Mr. Dudley ....April 2, 1910
Studt, Mr. Henry ....Oct. 2, 1909
Swinerd, Late Mr Henry ....Jan. 8, 1910

Taylor, Late Mr. Henry ....May 28, 1910
Temple, Miss Madge ....July 30, 1910
Tracy, Miss Louie ....March 12, 1910
Tracy, Mr. Howard L. ....April 30, 1910

Vernon, Mr. Percy H. ....July 2, 1910
Vezin, Late Mr. Hermann ....June 18, 1910
Victor, Mr. Frederick ....Dec. 18, 1909
Vine, Miss Lily ....March 26, 1910
Vint, Mr. Leon ....Jan. 8, 1910
Von Brunner, Miss Beatrice ....Aug. 20, 1910

Wakeford, Miss Marion ....Feb. 26, 1910
Walshe, Late Mr. W. S. ....Aug. 20, 1910
Ward, Miss Maud E. ....Jan. 8, 1910
Warren, Mr. Charles ....Oct. 30, 1909
Weaver, Mr. Wyn ....May 28, 1910
Wellesley, Mr. Alfred ....Feb. 5, 1910
Wentworth, Miss Fanny ....Feb. 5, 1910
Were, Mr. Arthur ....July 2, 1910
White, Mr. Will ....Feb. 12, 1910
Whitling, Mr. Townsend ....Feb. 12, 1910
Williams, Mr. Arthur ....Aug. 13, 1910
Wills, Mr. Brember ....June 18, 1910
Wynne, Mr. Edwin H. ....Feb. 12, 1910

Young, Miss Rosamond Mayne ....July 23, 1910

Copies of "The Era" containing the above can be obtained, price 6d. each for any issue 1910; other dates double price.

Address, THE PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

THEATRICAL SHOE AND HOSIERY MANUFACTURERS,
MAKERS TO THE PRINCIPAL LONDON THEATRES.

Louis Heel Dancing Shoes a Speciality.
Sixty Art Shades of Linen Back Satin, Specially Woven for the Manufacture of Dancing Shoes, kept in stock.
This Satin has a Fine Lustre, and is almost as Strong as Leather.
Large Stock of Pure and Spun Silk Tights, Worsted and Cotton Tights, Opera Hose, Stockings, &c.
A Special Study made of Symmetrical Paddings.
The Most Up-to-date Stock of Stage Requisites and Sundries.
Everything of the Best and at Store Prices
H. and M. RAYNE,
115, 117, and 119, WATERLOO-ROAD, LONDON, S.E.
(Opposite Electric Tram Terminus).
Tel. 7978 Central. Telegrams, Raynaloo, London.
And at 49, Charing Cross-road, W.C. (near Hippo).

TO OUR READERS.
A SINGLE COPY OF "THE ERA."
Post Free to any Address in the United Kingdom for SIX STAMPS.
Telegraphic Address, "The Era, London."
Address, THE PUBLISHER,
"The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-st., Strand, W.C.

THE ERA

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1910.

THE HALL CAINE CONTROVERSY.

After an important production by Mr. HALL CAINE we usually notice certain phenomena. Mr. CAINE is an expert playwright whose aims, as he describes them, are ethical; that is to say, he attempts in his plays to solve, or at all events state, certain vital problems of life. To the ordinary playgoer, however, Mr. CAINE'S work appeals more by the variety of its story and the melodramatic vigour of its situations than by any elaborate demonstration of truth or theory. It would, perhaps, be well if he were satisfied with his success, and "left it at that." But Mr. CAINE is such an ardent controversialist that he cannot resist the temptation of arguing with his opponents; and in his recent contribution to the Daily Telegraph, entitled "A New Actress," we have the curious spectacle of a dramatist writing to traverse the verdicts of his critics.

Mr. CAINE seems to have a very great contempt for these verdicts. Even when dramatic criticism is "reasonable," he complains that he has to "translate the abstract ideas of writers who have no practical knowledge of the stage into the concrete forms in which they may be useful to the drama." Criticism, therefore, according to Mr. CAINE, may be reasonable but unpractical, or unreasonable, personal, and designedly offensive. It is never satisfactory.

It may be said that Mr. CAINE has the best answer to his critics in the success of his plays. But this is not exactly the case. The critics are distinctly invited by Mr. CAINE to judge his work on a high plane. Many of them do so, and consequently condemn the play. They complain that in no case does Mr. CAINE go below the surface of the questions he handles, and that instead of using a problem as the basis of his plot he introduces it as a kind of accessory.

The theatre has suffered for years from the influence of the brilliant essayists who started out many years since to "reform" the stage in the early PINERO period, and have on the whole injured its popularity. For the theatre, in England, cannot be "elevated." Some of the more glaring theatrical conventions and absurdities may be removed, but the English stage will remain what it always has been—a popular form of amusement and recreation. The only result of what we may call "unsophisticating" the playgoing public is to make a certain ever-increasing section of them rather more exacting and fastidious. The serious, the intellectual, and literary classes in England read essays on the theatre—they do not support the drama financially at the box-office.

Present-day criticism is, as a rule, too clever to be useful or effective. In the very curious dialogue-preface of a novel called "The Price of Freedom," by DEANE BALLYNN, just published by the WALTER SCOTT Company, a list is given of the objections of the different critics to little inconsistencies and minor theatrical ingenuities in Sir ARTHUR PINERO'S House in Order. All this is the result of placing the drama, for purposes of criticism, on too high a plane, of expecting too much from a theatrical entertainment. The practical critic—and only the practical critic is of any benefit to the theatre—has to be "a little blind" to faults of detail and tricks of convention in a play, and "very kind" to its virtues of theatrical effectiveness and power of pleasing the public. The critic must be the friend, not the opponent, of the author. Almost every book or essay which is written about the English drama nowadays is an attack on it. Playwrights are urged to be realistic, to found their plays on some great problem of life, to emulate the achievements of the new school of Parisian dramatists—in short, to do everything they ought not to do if the drama in England is to be prosperous and popular. Many of our critics are hopelessly out of touch with the British public, whom they treat with open scorn and contumely in their articles. Fortunately, in most cases, the strength of mind of our actor-managers prevents them from paying attention to these evil counsellors; and possibly, also, the rarity of the advanced playwright capable of writing a technically satisfactory play may assist the abstention.

Incidentally we may remark on the strange side-shoot of the HALL CAINE essay in connection with Mr. CAINE'S allusion to the late Mr. CLEMENT SCOTT. Mr. CAINE in his article said:

> I have asked and obtained the permission of the Editor of the Daily Telegraph to deal with what I consider a still more glaring instance of deficient appreciation—that of Miss Tittell-Brune. I venture the opinion that if Clement Scott (who was in more than one respect the best dramatic critic, English or foreign, of the past half-century) had been present at the Garrick Theatre on Saturday night, Miss Brune would be by this time the most talked-of woman on the English stage, for he would have seen and said, with the courage and emphasis that never failed him, that not since the days of Adelaide Neilson, nearly forty years ago, had any such remarkable talent revealed itself on the boards as was shown by this young Californian lady, who has hitherto been known as an Australian actress.

These remarks, which seem to us to have been meant to be highly complimentary to the deceased critic, were resented by his widow in a letter, in which she said:

> "This statement is not only a distinct violation of good taste, for it creates a purely fictitious impression about an actress as emanating from a dead man of whom Mr. Caine knew personally very little; but, moreover, it is calculated to produce a gross misconception, in that it distinctly points to an inferior quality of judgment as existing in his living confrères—an allegation that Clement Scott could never have made under any circumstances, for he thought too highly of his fellow-journalists, and was too loyal to his profession ever to have insulted it."

There are certainly two ways of looking at Mr. HALL CAINE'S statement. It may be taken as lauding the late CLEMENT SCOTT for his keen appreciation of talent and impulsive, eloquent way of expressing it; or it may be considered as implying that he had a lower standard than those of the critics who did not praise Miss TITTELL-BRUNE as warmly as Mr. CAINE considered they ought to have done. Mr. CLEMENT SCOTT certainly used to "let himself go" freely when he thought he had discovered a rising genius; but it is impossible to say what his opinion would have been in this case. Mr. CAINE was perhaps expecting too much. The sort of notices he hoped for would, it seems, have resembled that which he has written in the Telegraph on his "leading lady." It is, indeed, "appreciative."

THE SHOP HOURS BILL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—With reference to Mr. Bloom's letter in your last issue, I may say I read same with considerable interest, having studied a copy of the proposed Bill carefully some weeks ago. On placing the matter before my confrères, manufacturers and merchants whose living depends entirely upon the freedom of trading of auctioneers in general, I found that not one of them ever took the matter seriously and that they were ignorant of the effect on their business of the above Bill in its present form becoming law. As Mr. Bloom states, it would mean the closing down of the whole trade, and throwing out of work hundreds of people interested, directly and indirectly, in the manufacturing of the various articles we sell. I am pleased to see you are willing to help us, and I would suggest a petition being got up by yourselves to present to the gentlemen responsible for the introduction of the Bill. I hardly think the promoters have taken into consideration the annual loss that will be incurred to the Government through loss of revenue from licences (auctioneer's, £10, hawker's, £2, hawker's plate, £2 6s.). Some auctioneers employ as many as half a dozen assistant salesmen. It would mean thousands of pounds each year. It is revenue that is wanted, so why attempt to close such a lucrative source? The argument they will bring forward is that "auctioneers will have an equal chance along with other traders"; but this is not so. Our trade is solely among the working classes, and in consequence thereof our business does not commence until 7.30 or 8 p.m. each evening. All we ask for is a clause to be inserted in the Bill exempting auctioneers the same as other trades enumerated in the second schedule of the Act.

The matter is most urgent, and not a moment should be lost before something is done, as I understand the Bill is down for second reading on the opening day of Parliament, and it is the Right Hon. Mr. Churchill's intention to have the Royal assent to the Bill by Christmas. I feel sure that if everybody interested in the matter will lend you a helping hand to do his level best to obtain signatures (of which there will be thousands) to the petition, the promoters of the Bill will see how unjust and unfair it will be to travelling auctioneers, not forgetting those whose businesses are permanent, as the Bill forbids all sales by auction except in a private dwelling house.

If you are successful in helping us to retain our freedom of trading you will earn from the whole members of the business their life-long gratitude.—Yours faithfully, WM. TAYLOR.

MISS MARION TERRY as Sister Anne in the play of that name at the Coronet Theatre in the first act wears a very graceful gown in a very soft and restful shade of pale grey. The gown is composed of an overdress of pale grey transparent chiffon over an under-dress of soft oyster-grey satin. The over-dress clips the figure closely at the waist, and is fastened in front with an ornamental clasp, and then opens out to display the satin skirt. The bodice is of the chiffon, with wide bands of the satin arranged in a V-point both at the back and front, and edged in their turn with a narrow border of rose-coloured satin. Satin of the same tint forms the chemisette, but is veiled by cream lace. A long stole end of the grey satin falls from the waist to the hem of the skirt at the back, and this again is lined with pink. The grey chip hat worn with this confection is trimmed with a mass of pink roses.

IN the same style is another of Miss Terry's gowns, composed of an over-dress of black net over an under-dress of rich blue satin. Great richness is given to this gown by the heavy gold embroidery in a butterfly design on the front of the bodice, and the over-dress is held together at the waist by rich gold ornaments. Both dresses illustrate the present fancy for a loose over-sleeve reaching to the elbow, and a close-fitting under-sleeve to the wrist.

VERY handsome is Miss Terry's third gown in soft mole-coloured cloth, with a bodice of pleated chiffon in the same shade, enriched by heavy bands of mole-coloured velvet. A cloak to match is worn with this gown, and a handsome black toque. Miss Terry's gowns are by Reville and Rossiter.

"HAPPY-GO-LUCKY O'LYN."

Irish Comedy Drama, in Three Acts, by G. Brian Daly, Produced for the First Time at the Royal Court Theatre, Warrington, on Monday, Sept. 5.

Bryan O'Lyn ..... MR. JOHN CHILD
Donald Dunn ..... MR. WALTER B. NUGENT
Isaac Murch ..... MR. J. G. MCMAHON
Frank Fentiman ..... MR. REGINALD ADAIR
Dennis O'Lyn ..... MR. S. LANSDALE
Shaun Dermot ..... MR. F. B. WALTERS
Amos Pringle ..... MR. BRIAN DALY
Michael Mulcahy ..... MR. FRED WILLIAMS
Jemima ..... MISS HETTIE GRAHAM
Aunt Charlotte ..... MME. MARIE ALEXANDER
Mollie Murch ..... MISS JOSEPHINE ELLIS
Kathleen O'Lyn ..... MISS ANNA HICKISCH

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Exciting situations galore abound in Mr. Brian Daly's well-written play, and the Irish humour is so good and so naturally introduced that success is sure to attend it. The introduction of many popular numbers contributes in no small measure to the excellent results achieved. The period of the play is 1820, and the opening scene shows the bar parlour of the Harp of Old Eire, near Sligo, the landlord and Donald Dunn, a secret service agent, playing cards and drinking. There enters Isaac Murch, with Aunt Charlotte and Kathleen O'Lyn, who have been snowed up on their journey from Kerry to Sligo. They have decided to remain at the inn. Donald, it appears, is the illegitimate son of Dennis O'Lyn, and has sworn vengeance against him for discarding his mother and disowning him. Isaac discovers that Donald is his cousin, their mothers having been sisters, and reveals the fact that Charlotte and Kathleen are travelling with the hope of tracing Bryan, the nephew and heir-at-law of old Dennis. The uncle has decided to divide his fortune between Bryan and Kathleen, who are cousins. The landlord confirms a story of Bryan having been washed off a fishing boat and drowned a year before, and this proves to be Donald's opportunity. He decides to impersonate the supposed dead man, and partially makes an impression on the ladies. The appearance of Bryan, who is known as Happy Hooley, is the cause of much unrest. He is fitted up for the night, and the delightful trio from Martha, "Good Night," is effectively rendered. Shaun Dermot, an inventor of explosives, appears on the scene, and demands food and drink. Bryan makes known that he has saved the mail bags from the storm, the mail carrier having been overcome, and during his absence Donald and Isaac extract a letter from the bag addressed to Bryan. He recovers possession of the letter, and immediately retires for the night. Disturbed in his sleep by the marauders, Bryan finds another sleeping place, and Shaun, taking his place on the couch, falls a victim to Donald's baseness and is murdered. Bryan is an eye-witness of the crime, and also watches the villain set in motion an explosive machine. Donald escapes by way of the window, whilst immediately after Bryan flings the machine through the window. The inn is, however, burned down, but the party escape.

In act two Donald is endeavouring to secure the hand of Kathleen, who, however, declares her allegiance to Frank Fentiman, of the Military Constabulary, who arrives at the opportune time to spoil the undesirable attentions being paid by the adventurer. Donald and Isaac plan the destruction of Dennis O'Lyn, who is being driven to Kerry for a final settlement of his affairs. Isaac, who drives the coach, agrees for a sum of 5,000 guineas to cause the horses to take fright, and during the storm they plunge over a quarry and all is commotion. Frank Fentiman appears, and an indirect charge is made against Donald of being associated with the strange affair at the Harp of Eire Inn eighteen months before. The charge, however, is not sustained.

The last act witnesses Donald trying to make a bargain with Kathleen as to the disposing of the property, offering her the homestead if she will consent to be his wife, but she point blank refuses. Isaac, wild with drink, abuses Kathleen, but meets with a warm time at the hands of Frank. The play proceeds on the usual conventional lines, and at the close Donald, after paying Isaac his "blood money," arouses his anger to such an extent that Murch attempts to murder Frank. The latter is knocked insensible, but Dunn rushes forward and stabs his assailant, who falls dead. Dunn accuses Frank of the murder, but the watchdog Bryan has been an eye-witness of the affair, and proves Frank's innocence and establishes his own identity.

The play abounds in delightful Irish airs, and the beautiful vocalisation of Mr. John Child, who made a fine, rollicking Bryan, was a feature of the first night. His rendering of "It is a charming girl" ("Killarney"), "Can't you see I'm lonely," and "Let others sing the praise of wine" were in keeping with his reputation. Mr. Child and Mr. Adair were heard to advantage in "The moon hath raised her lamp above." Mr. Adair made a manly Frank Fentiman, and scored well in the song "A soldier's life" and in the duet with Miss Hickisch, "Without you." Mme. Marie Alexander represented the portly Aunt Charlotte capitally, and sang delightfully "Come back to Erin" and "To the end of the world with you." Miss Anna Hickisch was a charming Kathleen, and her rich soprano voice was agreeably exercised in "By the garden gate" and "The last rose of summer." Miss Josephine Ellis, with a song, "The Green, Green Ribbon," and dance earned applause, and the laughing song of Miss Hettie Graham was much enjoyed. Mr. Walter Nugent imparted plenty of dramatic force into the part of Donald Dunn, and a clever sketch of Isaac Murch was supplied by Mr. J. G. McMahon. Mr. F. B. Walters scored as Shaun Dermot. The staging was very effective, and the overture and incidental music, composed and arranged by Mr. H. E. J. Nation, were delightful.

THE Millionaires' Theatre, New York, will endeavour to change the standard of dramatic taste of the working man by giving a series of plays during the coming season at prices ranging from 2s. to 5d. The plays are to be performed by the theatre's regular stock company, which includes some of the most famous actors and actresses in the United States. No tickets are to be sold at the box-office, but they will be distributed through university settlements and similar organisations, so that they will get into the hands of the working classes.

THE first play to be staged will be Maeterlinck's Blue Bird, which will be produced on Oct. 3. This will be followed by Shakespearean drama on Dec. 24. Other plays not yet selected will be produced in February and March. If the experiment proves successful it may result in an annexe to the new theatre being constructed in one of New York's working-men's districts, subsidised by millionaires, for the permanent presentation of the highest drama by the best actors, at cheap prices.

THE total takings of Parisian theatres for 1909 reached the highest amount on record, namely, over £2,056,000, or more than sixteen times the total of 1850. Authors' net royalties increased, of course, proportionately, being always in France, owing to the contracts signed with all theatres by the Society of Dramatic Authors and Composers, calculated on a minimum basis of 10 per cent. of the gross takings. Last year authors' royalties on plays in Paris reached £240,000. Seven or eight dramatists pocketed from £4,000 to £6,000 each in the twelvemonth, twenty-five from £2,000 to £4,000, twenty-five from £1,000 to £2,000, twenty-five from £400 to £800, and all the rest from £20 to £200. Thus about fifty-eight authors make over £1,000 a year in France.

"THE QUEEN OF THE FAIR."

Comic Opera, in Two Acts, Libretto and Lyrics by R. C. Tharp, Music by Basil Horsfall, Produced at the Empire, Swindon, on Monday, Sept 5.

'Enery ..... MR. ARTHUR REYNOLDS
Burgomaster of Rumpeldorf ..... MR. GEORGE CARROLL
Pierre ..... MR. CLAUDE CASEY
Herr Funf ..... MR. JAMES BOIS
Karl ..... MR. ALBERT CHAPMAN
Freda ..... MISS AUDREY ESMONDE
Rosalie ..... MISS CARLOTTA SILVANO
Ermyntrude Higgins ..... MISS JANET REEVE
Jemima Jellicoe ..... MISS KATE NORTH
Queen of the Dance ..... MISS ROSA MAIR
Elsa ..... SENORA MERCEDES DALMADA

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The plot of the libretto of The Queen of the Fair is rather light, but there is plenty of fun in it, and the music is very agreeable. The leading character, the Burgomaster, a diminutive person with colossal self-conceit, is a droll figure; and another clever character sketch is that of 'Enery, a London 'bus driver. The opera was prettily dressed and mounted, and had an enthusiastic reception at its production at the Empire, Swindon, on Monday.

The Burgomaster of Rumpeldorf has banished from the village all the young unmarried men, to the despair of the village maidens—and it is only two days before the Midnight Fair. When the hour of twelve strikes, each "eligible" must rush forward, seize his fair charmer, and they are engaged to be married within the year. But salvation comes, in the form of a regiment of Hussars manœuvring near the village. The Burgomaster is adamant; he refuses to let his daughter take part in the revels. But while 'Enery, a London 'bus driver, who is vegetating at Rumpeldorf, uses the Burgomaster to free himself from the too amorous Jemima Jellicoe, a gallant Captain of Hussars, named Karl, carries off the Burgomaster's fair daughter Elsa. The Burgomaster is left with Jemima, and 'Enery with Ermyntrude. So the Burgomaster has to abandon his objection, and the curtain falls on his consent and his blessing.

Señora Mercedes Dalmada made a capital Elsa, Queen of the Fair. She has a capital voice, and rendered several fine solos in excellent style. Señora Dalmada was heard to great advantage in the duet, "Promises," in the first act, and her "Song of love" was an especially agreeable item, with a pretty chorus. Mr. Arthur Reynolds was a great success as 'Enery; he acted with an easy spontaneity and great effect. Mr. George Carroll was very droll as the Burgomaster, and a topical trio, rendered in good style by him, Mr. Arthur Reynolds, and Mr. James Bois (as the village policeman, Herr Funf), was twice encored. Miss Carlotta Silvano's bright interpretation of Rosalie earned for her golden opinions, and her duets with Pierre (Mr. Claude Casey) were very well rendered. She scored a success in "Gay Paree." Mr. Albert Chapman, as Captain Karl, used a good voice skilfully, and won warm applause in a patriotic piece, "The roll of the drum." Miss Janet Reeve ably represented Ermytrude Higgins, and Miss Kate North was good as Jemima Jellicoe. Miss Rosa Maie, as the "Queen of the Dance," did a couple of pas seul cleverly, and an augmented orchestra, under the conductorship of the composer, Mr. Basil Horsfall, did full justice to the score.

At the close of the play there were loud calls of "Author" and "Speech," and Mr. Alfred Manners appeared on the stage, accompanied by his Worship the Mayor (Ald. W. H. Lawson), Col. T. C. P. Calley, C.B., M.V.O., M.P., and the composer, Mr. Basil Horsfall, the whole company remaining on the stage.

Mr. Manners said: "Ladies and Gentlemen,—May I, on behalf of Mr. Horsfall and the author and myself, thank you most sincerely for the very flattering way in which you have received this new play. I thank you, Mr. Mayor, and also Col. Calley, Capt. Wright, and numerous other ladies and gentlemen for the hearty manner in which you have supported me on this auspicious occasion. We have all seen produced to-night one of the finest of comic operas. It has entailed a great expense, but I feel sure the public will support us most readily."

The Mayor said: "I am sure we are all delighted to be here to witness the first performance of this comic opera. When we bear in mind the enormous amount of work entailed in a production of this kind, and the many difficulties to overcome, it is simply amazing that everything has run so smoothly. To us it has been presented to-night as though the play had been running for some considerable time. I do certainly congratulate the company upon their excellent first-night performance. I feel sure you were all pleased with the extremely pretty music, and the whole production has given us entire satisfaction. I can only express our hope that it will be a financial success. At any rate we are all proud that Swindon has been the birthplace of such a pretty comic opera, and hope that it will, like Charley's Aunt, run for ever. We have had to-night an excellent orchestra, conducted by one whose whole soul has been in the work. In your name, ladies and gentlemen, I thank the author and composer and Mr. Manners."

Colonel Calley, who was greeted with ringing cheers and the singing of "For he's a jolly good fellow," said: "I thank you all, ladies and gentlemen, for the way you have received me on the stage to-night, on this my first appearance in comic opera. My friend Mr. Manners has asked me to say a few words, not so much to you as on your behalf. I am not a dramatic critic, but I know something about plays and critics. There is only one real criticism worth having, and that is the criticism of a critical audience—and we have that in Swindon. We have here good plays, and we know what we are talking about. We have witnessed here to-night a good play, and heard some really good music, something bright and pleasing, something to take away with us, something we shall remember. This new play has been well performed, and the music well rendered. The company have done their level best. I am saying what you all feel when I say that this new play deserves success, and that it will be a success. That is the hope of a Swindon first-night audience. I do hope that when it is a success, the author, the composer, and those who are taking part in this new play will always have a tender feeling towards their Swindon first-night audience. We hope this new piece will have a long run, and that when the time comes for it to, like all mundane things, pass away, it will die regretted, and leave a rich legacy to everybody concerned with it."

Mr. Basil Horsfall, who was received with cheers and the "Jolly good fellow" chorus, added a few words: "All I can say, on behalf of the author and myself, and Mr. Manners, is to thank you most sincerely for your verdict on our little effort to-night."

The National Anthem was then sung, the curtain rung down, and the audience dispersed.

ACCORDING to the latest reports, I regret to say the condition of the famous actor Josef Kainz is very critical. Herr Kainz was compelled to undergo a very dangerous operation, which was said to have passed off satisfactorily; he had left the private hospital and was already thinking of reappearing on the stage, both the Imperial Burg at Vienna and the Royal Schauspielhaus awaiting the result anxiously. The old trouble, it is stated, has now begun all over again, and another operation is inevitable.

THE DRAMA IN BERLIN.

"DER ARZT WIDER WILLEN."

Opera Buffo, in Three Acts, by Gounod.

Geronte ..... HERR MANTLER
Lucinde ..... FRAULEIN BACHRICH
Leander ..... HERR BLOCH
Sganarelle ..... HERR ZADOR
Martine ..... FRAULEIN SEEBOLD
Robert ..... HERR WAGNER
Valere ..... HERR WISSIAK
Lucas ..... HERR KREUDER
Jacqueline ..... FRAULEIN EHRLICH
Hirtin ..... FRAULEIN HEIDE

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, THURSDAY, Sept. 8.—It was a very happy idea of Herr Gregor to revive this merry work of the French composer. Many a long year has passed since it has been seen and heard in Berlin, and it came as a novelty to the entire audience. The reception was so hearty that a lengthy run may certainly be predicted, and probably the work will be more successful than it was when first produced in its native city. The cast was excellent, foremost being Herr Mantler, in the rôle of the "doctor in spite of himself." His fine voice and clever acting were each exhibited to the best possible opportunity, and his humour, while broad enough for the requirements of the burlesque, was always refined. Each of the characters, however, was splendidly given, and the conductor of the evening was Herr Reznicek, always a guarantee for a good performance. Herr Moris had mounted the work in his customary tasteful and appropriate style, so that altogether there was little left to be desired.

FRAULEIN HANSI NIESE commenced her season on Thursday last at the Berliner Theater, meeting with a welcome from the crowded audience, which must have done her heart good. The clever Viennese artist is exceedingly versatile, and whether she plays comedy or tragedy, sings or dances, it is always a pleasure to see and hear her. Fräulein Niese has brought with her this time a novelty for Berlin—the vaudeville operetta, Das Musikantenmädel, by the Austrians Jarno and Buchbinder, that has enjoyed a long run at Vienna already. The libretto is not very clear, but the music is bright and melodious, and the cast was capital. One of the most appreciated figures on the stage was that of a real donkey—a dear little animal—who behaved himself in most exemplary manner, and was altogether as pretty as a picture.

THE Hebbel Theatre during its struggle for existence, which has been a desperate one, has had to suffer a good deal from the hands of the Press on account of its classical name. Did the management attempt to better the situation by producing a flimsy, up-to-date comedy, it was at once reminded in none too tactful manner of the responsibilities of living up to the name of Hebbel. The new manager has determined to put an end to this, and has changed the name of his theatre to that of "Modernes Theater," under which he will be able to produce whatever piece takes his fancy. The opening performance, under the new auspices, was given last night, with a three-act comedy by André Picard, entitled Die Wespe, done into very good German by Dr. Lothar. It was a distinct success, and augurs well for the future. The plot being probably known to your readers, a few words only will be necessary. The "wasp" of the title is Therèse Duvigneau, a woman who is thus termed behind her back by her acquaintance, on account of the sharp sting she is supposed to possess. In reality, however, Therèse is a woman of high ideals, virtuous, and resigned to the hard fate which has pursued her all her days. She has been misunderstood by all, and even she herself has not been always clear about her feelings; she thought she hated a man when, in reality, she loved him, and after his own feelings have undergone a similar process, life still holds some sweetness for the maligned Therèse. The interpretation was good all round, and the mounting excellent.

THE Literary Association gave a performance last week at the Lessing Theatre, of Heinrich von Kleist's early tragedy Penthesilea. It was not a success, which was considered by many of our critics to be due to the adaptation—or, as some called it, mutilation of the unfortunate genius's work. The whole was exceedingly drawn out to the verge of wearisomeness, and, despite the painstaking acting, there was little or no applause. It is an experiment that will certainly not be repeated.

THE next novelty at the Komische Oper is a three-act lyrical composition by Dr. von Oberleithner. It is entitled Die Sünde des Priesters, the text being drawn by Adalbert von Goldschmidt from Zola's novel, "La Faute de l'Abbé Mouret."

SINCE France is the home of operette, it is only fitting that the distractions of the French seaside Casino should include Planquette's ever-fresh Cloches de Corneville, Lecocq's Petit Duc, and the sparkling, joyous works which Offenbach gave to a grateful world, says a writer on the subject in the Morning Post. It is to be regretted, however, that they are not always as well performed as could be wished, except in places which are patronised by "le monde chic" (which includes many well-to-do vulgarians) fifth-rate companies try conclusions with their charming music which, though it "sings itself," as the saying is, on the lips of an inferior performer, decidedly is a mixed joy. A Serpolette who is passé and a Grenicheux with one foot in the grave does not conduce to excellence of ensemble, while a skimpy chorus with scarcely a good voice amongst the lot creates an atmosphere, which, to put it politely, is depressing.

LUCKILY for the management, the play-going Frenchman, when in holiday mood, is rather easily satisfied, and the lady who accompanies him usually follows his lead. "Les artistes ne son pas du premier rang, mais ils chantent assez bien" ("The artists are not of the first rank, but they sing well enough") is his amiable comment. The Merry Widow, which is transformed into La Veuve Joyeuse, is a favourite wherever holiday-makers most do congregate, and several standing dishes which have done duty during the past twenty years are in constant demand.

THE performances given from time to time by the students of Stedman's Theatrical Academy have become so popular that the seating accommodation of the little theatre attached to the Academy at Great Windmill-street, Piccadilly Circus, is now totally inadequate. To cope with the demand, a society has been formed amongst the students, to be known as "Stedman's Students' Stage Society," and the performances will be given at the Court Theatre. The Society will be entirely self-supporting, and any profit made will be placed to the credit of the society, and utilised in defraying the expenses of the acting members, who will be drawn exclusively from the students of the Academy. Honorary members will be enrolled at a subscription of 1 guinea per annum, for which the member is entitled to twelve 10s. 6d. stalls, i.e., one for each performance given during the season—surely, an excellent investment for the winter evenings. The directors of Stedman's have become guarantors for any loss sustained by the society for the first year, and have also provided free of cost stage and musical directors, business-manager, secretary, and assistant. The producer will be Marshall Moore, who will also conduct rehearsals, and the first performance is arranged to take place this evening.

A COPY of "THE ERA" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

Mr. Laurence Irving made a significant allusion to the prosperity of the variety theatre at the Shakespeare, Liverpool, where he has been appearing in The Unwritten Law and Margaret Catchpole. In reply to demands for a speech on Monday, Mr. Irving referred to the criticism which his appearance on the music-hall stage had called forth, and offered as his defence that it was necessary to provide the means to produce such plays as he was offering to Liverpool during that week.

Entire satisfaction was expressed at the results of the past year's working of the Palace Theatre, Ltd., at the seventeenth ordinary general meeting, which was held on Thursday at the theatre, Shaftesbury-avenue. Mr. T. Ernest Polden presided, and in moving the adoption of the report, said that shareholders would, no doubt, agree with the directors in regarding the balance-sheet and profit-and-loss account as very satisfactory. The total receipts amounted to £98,868, and the total expenditure, including interest on mortgage, £74,491. Adding the balance brought forward from last year, £33,282, they had a balance to deal with of £56,618.

The directors proposed to pay a dividend of 20 per cent. for the year, which would absorb £18,000, to transfer to the reserve account £30,000, and carry forward to next account £8,618. The large sum of £30,000 would, of course, always be available for any purpose the directors might deem advisable, such as the equalisation of dividends, although the directors hoped to gradually and continuously increase this amount until they had a sufficient sum to extinguish the mortgage, £5,000 of which had already been paid off, thereby strengthening their financial position.

Mr. J. L. Graydon seconded the motion. Mr. Dingwall thought that anyone who studied the report would say that the entertainments provided by this theatre had given satisfaction to a great many people, and that the Palace had established itself in the affections of the great British public. Whatever doubts might have been felt or expressed as to the management of the theatre in times past had now, he thought, been set at rest by the test of actual experience.

Sir Edwin Galsworthy congratulated the board on the fact that they had started a reserve fund with such a substantial sum. The fact that they were able to do so was the best evidence the shareholders could have of the continued good management of the Palace Theatre. The report was adopted.

The annual general meeting of the Music Hall Benevolent Institution will be held at the beginning of October. The business will include the presentation of the report and balance-sheet.

How Paris came to Leeds for dancers might be the title of the story of the engagement of Emie's Blossom Girls at the Olympia, Paris. Mme. Emie, for years principal dancer for Mr. John Tiller, was some time ago commissioned to form and train a troupe of sixteen dancers to appear in revues in Paris and Lucerne. Their success was immediate with the susceptible Parisians, and they are booked for the Continent for the next four years. Curiously enough, every member of the troupe is a Leeds girl, and not yet twenty years of age.

The Sketch Association, at its committee meeting on Tuesday, appointed six delegates to act on the proposed joint committee to press forward legislation on the lines of the Report of the recent Censorship enquiry. The committee will be called together in the course of the month.

Admirers of Femina at the Alhambra may become the possessors of a dainty souvenir in the shape of a booklet issued by Mr. Alfred Moul, giving an interesting account of the picturesque ballet. In addition to the reading matter there are a number of striking photographs of the two leading performers, Mlle. Leonora and Mlle. Britta.

Mlle. Genée, who has been enjoying since her marriage last June a holiday which she describes as a "summer of Sundays," will return to the stage for some eighteen months in order to complete existing contracts, after which she will retire permanently. The accomplished danseuse leaves on Sept. 14 for the United States, where she has a contract for a thirty weeks' tour at nearly £500 a week. Mlle. Genée intends to give some farewell performances in London before finally leaving the stage.

Mr. John Le Hay was the star of the municipal entertainments at Margate last week, his ventriloquial performance figuring as the chief item of the Randell Jackson party at the popular Westbrook, Oval, and other enclosures. Mr. Le Hay kept the crowded audiences convulsed with his smart "patter," and also gave a taste of his tenor quality in the song "Tom Bowling." The individual on the roof, who is responsible for singing the "last lines," was likewise in evidence, the effect of distance being marvellously suggested. The versatile polyphonist and comedian had to respond to repeated encores.

The Elliott-Savonas opened at the Apollo, Königsberg, on the 1st inst., and made a brilliant success, being received with continuous cheering, and complimented by the director.

The Crisps, a trio of clever youngsters, two girls and a youth, are this week giving a very attractive and novel dancing interlude at the Oxford, and from the flattering nature of their reception there is little doubt they will soon become established favourites in the West End. Two of the party first appear as a pierrot and pierrette, and indulge in a few neatly-executed steps, and are soon joined by their companion, a dainty figure in white, who gives a difficult toe solo, for which she is loudly acclaimed. A step dance by two of the trio is next smartly done, the pair moving together in perfect unison.

At the conclusion the youth falls, and, blaming it on to his companion, the couple have a few words. The other young lady then comes on to sing, but there is no band, and even if there were the quarrel of her companions would spoil her "turn." So she indignantly retires, and in a scene representing the dressing-room angrily declares that she will leave the troupe. The dresser then rushes on with a telegram containing an offer for them to appear in the Apache dance.

The youth, much to his regret, cannot accept, for the lady who partners him in it is the damsel who determines to sever her connection with her companions; and she refuses to be conciliated. But the younger girl pleads to be allowed to take her place, and, although the youth doubts her ability, he agrees to give her a trial, and "wires" accepting the engagement. Donning the familiar costume, the twain then engage in the famous Parisian dance, with an energy and abandon which proclaim them experts in the movement, and at the conclusion they are heartily recalled. The Crisps are gifted young terpsichorean artists, with an evident enthusiasm for their work, which is very refreshing, and the turn altogether is a well-worked and very enjoyable one.

They have been secured, through their agent, Will Oliver, for the Oxford, Tivoli, and all other Syndicate halls for 1910-11-12.

The Oxford, Middlesbrough, will be offered at auction at the Wellington Hotel, Middlesbrough, on Thursday next at 3 p.m. The house, which is the oldest licensed music hall in the town, has been closed for over a year.

The Star Theatre of Varieties, Dublin, has declared a dividend of 6 per cent. on the cumulative preference shares, payable for the year ending May 31.

The second anniversary of the Hippodrome, Devonport, will be celebrated on Monday next, when municipal countenance will be given to the occasion by the presence of the Mayor and other local dignitaries. The following week—Tuesday, the 20th inst.—will see the anniversary of another popular provincial hall—the Regent Theatre, Salford.

On Thursday next at St. Peter-le-Bailey Church, Oxford, Mr. George A. Gillespy (of the Milton Trio) is to be married to Miss Mary Studt, youngest daughter of Mr. Jacob Studt, the well-known show proprietor.

We hear that Mr. George E. Mudd, who until recently was business manager at the Grand Theatre, Nelson, which position he held for over eight years, has entered into partnership with Verno's Variety Agency, of Liverpool, and starts on his new venture Monday next.

A future star in the music hall world, Miss Violet Gerald, the only daughter of Mr. Frank Coyle, the well-known variety agent, is now appearing with the greatest success at all the leading halls in the country. Miss Gerald is a charming comedienne, and has everything in her favour—good songs, a capital voice, and pretty frocks. All her business, of course, is in the safe hands of Papa.

The Five Musical Palmers were such a success at the Jubilee Hall, Weymouth, last week that Mr. Albany Ward asked them to remain for his Sunday concert. They did so, and the efforts of the expert instrumentalists were most enthusiastically received by a crowded audience. Next week they appear at the Hippodrome, Blackpool, following on to Cheltenham and Gloucester with Messrs. Poole.

Mr. Tom Nelson, who is Mr. Fred Karno's new comedian, was on Saturday evening last, at the Hippodrome, Birmingham, presented with a massive gold signet ring, as a mark of appreciation of his great success in the part of Perkins. Recently, at the Nelson Palace, the comedian received from the directors a handsome cigar and cigarette case, to mark the occasion of record business.

That refined and accomplished comedienne and violinist, Miss Mollie Seymour, is adding greatly to her laurels at the Pier Pavilion, Weston-super-Mare, which is packed to overflowing twice nightly. The audiences are of a high-class order and fully appreciate Miss Seymour's artistic efforts. Her success has been phenomenal, and after taking five and six calls nightly she has had to appear between the "tabs," before her admirers would allow the programme to proceed.

At the 674th meeting of the Executive Committee of the M.H.A.R.A., held at the offices of the Association on Wednesday, Mr. Fred Herbert presided, and there were also present Messrs. Fred W. Millis, Tom Packer, J. W. Cragg, and Lieut. Albini. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. It was decided to reinstate a member who was expelled some months ago for an offence against one of the railway companies. The weekly financial statement, showing the addition of fifty-five new members to the roll, was passed.

Sandy McNab is drawing record houses this week at the Empire, York—his first visit to the historic city. The success enjoyed by his sketch The Egyptian Mummy has been phenomenal, the enthusiasm of the audience being such that Sandy had to make a speech acknowledging the hearty reception accorded him. He paid a graceful tribute to the city, adding that he had long looked forward to his visit because York was so famous. He was shortly going to America, but the people of York would ever have a warm corner in his heart.

The complimentary benefit to Mr. Eric Victor in the Town Hall, Paignton, on the 31st ult., was from all appearances a huge success. Mr. Victor was the recipient of over twenty presentations, amongst them being a fountain pen from Fred Spencer. Other articles included a dressing case, dressing gown, silver match box, silver stamp case, gold tie pin, ebony manicure set and case, silver bottle, morocco address book, silver cigarette lighter, gold pin set with pearls, gold pencil and silver pencil, socks, ties, note papers, fruit, chocolates, and flowers.

On behalf of the committee of the Music Hall Ladies' Guild, Miss Melinda May, the secretary, gratefully thanks the following:—Miss Alice Raymond for a donation of 10s.; Mrs. Keen (Keen and Waller) for collecting 5s.; Miss Clarice Mayne for a donation of 2s. 6d.; Mrs. Vernon Cowper for collecting 2s. 6d.; Mr. Jackson, Eight Lancashire Lads, for 1s. (per Mrs. Charles Coborn); Miss Mary McNeill, Edinburgh, for box of clothing; and Mrs. Abel Ethel Arden for useful parcel of clothing.

Miss May takes this opportunity of thanking Mrs. George Smythson most sincerely for her kindness during the last two weeks in attending to all duties whilst Miss May was on her holidays.

It has been decided that the president, vice-president, and executive committee ladies desiring copies of the minutes may have same by forwarding a stamped addressed envelope to Miss May in time for Wednesday's meeting. A prize will be given to anyone in or out of the profession collecting the most money for this deserving charity in twelve months commencing Nov. 4 last. Will anyone make an offer for fifteen large-sized band books given by Messrs. Dennis and Morris (per Sisters Macarte)? Friends of the charity are heartily welcomed to tea and reception, held every Wednesday, four to five o'clock. Funds, boots, and clothing are urgently needed. Cheques should be made payable to Music Hall Ladies' Guild, 61, New Oxford-street.

The popularity of Mr. R. C. Luxton, the new manager of the Spa and Gardens, Bridlington, was shown on the 1st inst., the occasion of his first benefit, when a crowd of about four thousand assembled to enjoy the monster programme provided. Herr Julian Kandt and his talented band gave some of their choicest selections; Messrs. Adeler and Sutton's Pierrots presented a big programme in the Opera House; and they were followed by Mr. Walter George and his "Smart Set" entertainers. Miss Mabel Manson, the accomplished New Zealand soprano, and Miss Annie Croft, the clever young vocalist and dancer, entertained a packed house in the Glass Dome, where later the Waterloo Pierrots, from the Summer Gardens, drew an enthusiastic audience. There was also a Confetti Battle and display of fireworks.

Mr. Harry Randall, our Newcastle correspondent informs us, was too indisposed to appear at the local Empire on the night of his visit this week. The popular comedian had a substitute in an old friend—the veteran, J. W. Rowley, who was warmly welcomed.

Miss Vesta Tilley paid a flying visit to Southport on Saturday last, and gave two performances at the Empire Music Hall. The popular artist was on both appearances enthusiastically welcomed by crowded audiences.

One of the competitors in the Amateur Carnival at the Hammersmith Palace this week was disqualified under amusing circumstances. As a Hebrew comedian Ike Josephs displayed a remarkable talent for mimicry. He received no award, however, as the Israelite turned out to be no other than Mr. Bransby Williams, who is at the head of this week's company. The joke was thoroughly enjoyed by the audience.

Miss Adele Levey secured one of the heartiest receptions of the evening at the Hall-by-the-Sea, Margate, on Wednesday, where the talented comedienne and raconteur appeared for Mr. Evan's benefit. The following laconic but eloquent sequence best suggests the effect of her appearance: "Seven tales—three pieces—great hit—lovely roses—a speech." On Monday the fair Adèle goes to the Theatre Royal, Aldershot.

A "Miniature Genee" is the description applied to Miss Gwen Zalska, who is winning admiration at the London Pavilion. She is one of the daintiest dancers imaginable, and her Japanese number not only proves her to be an accomplished danseuse, but reveals the possession of a pretty voice. She would be a decided acquisition to any programme, and will no doubt be sought after for pantomime.

Mr. Laurence Irving, who, with Miss Mabel Hackney, is playing at the Liverpool Shakespeare Theatre this week, spoke very strongly on Tuesday evening, on the fall of the curtain, concerning the inadequate support he had received during that particular visit, and concluded by saying, "You have done your best to keep me in the theatres, but unless things take another turn I shall have to go where audiences are still to be found, namely, in the music halls."

Mr. R. G. Knowles has concluded his brief visit to London, and sailed for America on Wednesday.

Miss Marie Jones is still playing her protean act, Wanted, the Co-respondent. This intimation is rendered necessary by the fact that a lady billed in the same name is taking part in a double act as an operatic and character vocalist.

Miss Lil Hawthorne received quite an ovation on her appearance at the Empire, Bristol, this week, and was compelled to sing four songs at each performance. Quite a number of presents were handed over the footlights from her many Bristolian friends.

Mr. Neil Kenyon, who is en route to New Zealand on board the R.M.S. Corinthic, sends the welcome tidings that his health is already greatly improved. The boat has passed Teneriffe, and delightful weather up to then had rendered the voyage most enjoyable.

Miss Louisa Peach's sketch, The Settler's Daughter, went so well on Monday at the Foresters' that it was instantly booked for the Surrey Theatre next week and Battersea the following, through Mr. Fred Durham. Miss Peach will be supported by the same excellent company.

Miss Sylvia Cavalho plays Mr. W. Malcolm Watson's sketch Sanctuary at the Coliseum during the coming week. The play will be mounted in very fine style and has been rehearsed under the author's personal supervision. Miss Cavalho will be supported by Mr. Clifford Pembroke and Mr. H. Buckstone Clair.

In reply to numerous friendly enquiries as to what has become of Harry Nation, the laughing comedian, we are in a position to state that he can be found at the Blue-eyed Maid, 173, High-street, Borough, S.E., where he is always pleased to welcome old friends and new. His telephone number is 4145 Hop.

Mr. Fred Barnes, of "The black sheep of the family" fame, has definitely arranged to play his pantomime season at the Theatre Royal, Portsmouth, this year, with Mr. J. F. Elliston's production. In addition to playing a leading rôle, he will render some of the big successes from his music-hall répertoire.

Willie Benn and Freddie French's comedy sketch, King of Sleepland, which has had a successful provincial tour, will be produced at the Queen's, Poplar, on Monday, for the first time in London. Mr. Freddie French will himself appear in the chief part, in which he has many opportunities for the display of his comedy talents.

The Three Florodoras, who had the misfortune to lose their wardrobe basket, which dropped overboard at Belfast, are now working with an entirely new outfit. They are desirous of thanking Mr. Jones, manager of the Tivoli, Dublin, for his valuable help, by means of which they were enabled to appear on Monday night.

Once more has the generosity of the music-hall profession towards a public charity to be recorded. Over the box-office at the Surrey is just now to be seen a note acknowledging the receipt of the substantial sum of £19 17s., collected by the manager, Mr. Roy Cochrane, on behalf of Prince Francis of Teck's appeal for the Middlesex Hospital.

Miss Lilian Lea arrived in London last week from Australia, where she made a brilliant success as principal boy in pantomime under the management of Mr. William Anderson, not missing a single performance during a run of twenty-two weeks. Miss Lea has a sheaf of glowing notices from the Australian Press, of which she is naturally proud.

That popular comedian and whistler, Mr. Ted E. Box, has returned to town, and is meeting with one of the greatest successes with his funny burlesque song, "I'm the keeper of a lighthouse." Audiences at the Empress and Euston join in the chorus with might and main. Mr. Box's comedy whistling is always a sure winner, as he is the only comedian adopting that style, and his sayings and mannerisms are original.

Reano, the proprietor and conductor of the world-renowned band that bears his name, is still making rapid progress towards vigorous health, and hopes to be on the "warpath" early next month. He renews his thanks to the numerous friends who have so kindly sent letters of enquiry and good wishes during the past week. Reano is booked a long way ahead at all the principal music halls in Great Britain, and has under immediate consideration three offers for an Australasian tour, two for America, and two for the Continent. Rumour has it that Reano is interested in other bands that are endeavouring to book the music halls, but he wishes it to be distinctly understood that he has no connection whatever with any band or bands other than the one which he personally directs, and which has appeared with such great success at every hall of any importance in Great Britain.

The all-embracing variety stage has received into its ranks yet another recruit from the theatre in the person of genial Mr. George Graves, who will play the leading part in a new sketch entitled Koffe of Bond-street, by Mr. Arthur Falkland, which is due at the Palace Theatre on the 19th inst. Mr. Graves will be supported by Miss Dorothy Monckman, Mr. J. B. Gordon, and Miss Constance Hyem. Special scenery is being painted by Mr. Bruce Smith, and the production is under the direction of Mr. Frank Parker.

The present programme of the Palace is particularly strong. Mr. Ernest H. Mills has returned with his lightning sketches in crayons; and the Six American Dancers, who are as rapid in their movements as any seen in this country; Mr. Nat M. Wills, the American humorist; Les Trombettas, in a French Revue; and the ever-delightful Miss Margaret Cooper with new songs at the piano, together with a varied selection of up-to-date pictures, provide a delightful evening.

Eight new acts will be introduced at the London Hippodrome on Monday. Included among them will be the Carmos, Australian herculean and novelty jugglers; Les Alex Carangeot in the whirlwind dance "La Fiancee du Dragon"; the Four Poncherrys in a wonderful wire act; Les Romanis, Continental musicians; and Speedwell, the wizard painter. Miss Zena Dare and company remain with the successful musical comedy The Model and the Man; Mlle. Cleo de Merode will continue her dainty dances; Mr. Harry Fragson has still some more new songs; and Mr. Herbert Lloyd will give his amusing burlesques.

The next important production at the Empire will be of a high-class musical order, and will afford Mlle. Lydia Kyasht an opportunity for the exercise of her brilliant Terpsichorean talents. Later on will come a new ballet to be called Ship Ahoy! the events of which will take place on board an ocean liner, and a spectacle surpassing that of the realistic yacht scene in Brewster's Millions may be anticipated. Mlle. Kyasht, Miss Phyllis Bedells, Mr. Fred Farren, and Miss Unity More will be included in the cast.

A new revue, by Mr. George Grossmith, jun., is promised for the New Year. The groundwork has already been settled, and all sorts of novel ideas are to be fitted into it. The Empire's contribution to the Coronation year will take the form of a new ballet, on a large and elaborate scale.

Aptly named the Russian Marie Tempest, Mlle. Charpentier, a favourite actress of St. Petersburg, will be one of the prominent features in a very interesting bill at the Coliseum next Monday. Another notable arrival is Sylvia Cavalho in Malcolm Watson's dramatic incident Sanctuary. Joe Peterman's company will also be seen in Chanteclair, an elaborately-staged burlesque on Rostand's play. Jack Lane, the rustic at the piano; Sam Stern, in Hebrew and Italian songs; the Francoli Troupe of pantomimists; Mlle. Dolli, a dainty dancer; and Mr. and Mrs. Finden in one of their sketches are other important performers. The Russian Court Balalaika Orchestra remains the principal attraction.

The Oxford announces several changes for Monday next. Three prominent stars who join the bill are Bransby Williams, Mark Sheridan, and Gus Elen, and Billy Merson, Joe Elvin, and Chas. Austin remain in the programme. Another act retained is that of Boganny's Lunatic Bakers, who take things from an oven that no baker ever thought of putting there.

Mr. Harry Lauder makes his reappearance in London at the Tivoli on Monday, and will sing, among others, "The Picnic," "Every laddie loves a lassie," and his old favourite, "I love a lassie." The famous Scotch comedian will also produce a new song, of which report speaks highly. Mark Sheridan opens with new numbers, and Billy Merson, George Nagel and company in American sketch, Trial Turns, and Miss Arcadia are also new-comers. The Two Bobs, Foot-Gers, Robert Cunningham and company, and Jennie Hartley remain on what is assuredly one of Mr. Joseph Wilson's strongest programmes.

Amongst those present at the hearing of the Crippen case at Bow-street Police Court on Tuesday were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Martinetti, Mrs. Chas. Coborn, Mrs. Gintaro, Mrs. George Smythson, and Miss Melinda May.

The two-and-a-half year old boy, named Lorimer Tucker, who won the prize (silver mug), by fifty-two votes, at the beauty competition at the Pier, Dover, on Sept. 7, is the son of Miss Esmé Gordon, who is appearing at the Hippodrome, Dover, this week.

Mr. Walter Gay has been engaged by Mr. H. P. Selwyn to "star" in his sketch, The Price of Peace, an adaptation of Mr. Cecil Raleigh's Drury Lane drama at its production at the Surrey on Monday. The sketch is in four scenes, one of which is the interior of the House of Commons.

Mr. Arthur L. Williams, of Collins's Music Hall, is producing on Sept. 26, a new sketch, written by Percival Sykes, entitled The Girl Who Did. The company numbers upwards of twenty artists. There are three sets by the clever young scenic artist Francis Bull, the costumes are direct from Paris, and the music is by Mr. Alf. Petersen. The sketch is said to contain some remarkable situations, but is characterised by complete refinement.

The twenty-first anniversary of the formation of the Terriers' Association will be reached in May next. Terriers are invited to forward to the Secretary suggestions as to how this event may be suitably celebrated.

Messrs. Eddie Gibbs, Albert Heath, and Billy Hobbs were initiated into the mysteries of the Order on Sunday last. The ceremony was performed by Terrier C. W. Kloof, assisted by Terrier D. M. H. Hoffman, V.T.; Organist, Terrier Arthur Were. Arthur Bromley, Edward Crossland, and Dan Hendy have successfully passed the ballot for membership of the association. A hearty welcome was extended to Terriers Ted E. Box, James Carr, F. Hughes, T. Howard Ward, Edward Rose, and J. Miller on their reappearance in the Kennel. Terrier E. Rose acted as Y.B. and Terrier J. Miller as W.D. Any Terrier who has not received a copy of the alterations to the rules of the association is requested to communicate with the Secretary.

Poor Belle Elmore, it may be recalled, figured on at least one occasion as a speaker. It was at the dinner of the Music Hall Ladies' Guild just two years ago, at which Dr. Crippen was also present. Miss Elmore's duty was to present a testimonial to Mrs. Fred Ginnett, the president of the Guild, and she discharged it in the following graceful words:—"I have a tribute to pay to our president. It is only the ladies of the committee who realise Mrs. Ginnett's generosity towards the Guild. She is always coming forward with assistance in every way, especially in finding material for our entertainments. She invariably says she will 'see Fred about it,' and 'Fred' always sees it through, obtaining many influential performers. Words really fail me to express the gratitude we owe our president, and we have accordingly prepared a little surprise for this night to convey to her an earnest of our appreciation."

Miss Hetty King is scoring heavily at the Palace Theatre, Douglas. The artistic excellence of her impersonations are thoroughly recognised, and audiences are loud in their praise.

In consequence of the pronounced success of Very Much Engaged, Mr. George Lestocq and his "bevy of beauties" are remaining at the Tivoli a third week. This arrangement is rendered possible by the kindness of the management of the Palace, Clacton-on-Sea.

The Variety Bookings Agency are successors to, and exclusive proprietors of, the entire business formerly carried on by Rosen and Bliss. Their offices are Rooms 26 to 30, 12, Henrietta-street, Covent Garden, W.C., where a comfortable waiting-room has been installed, which is always at the disposal of clients.

While crossing Upper-street, Islington, on the evening of the 26th ult., Mrs. Yangar, wife of the "West African Wonder Worker," was run over by a taximeter cab. The injured woman was taken to the Royal Free Hospital, Gray's Inn-road, where she remained unconscious for two days, and it was found necessary to have an operation. Mrs. Yangar has sustained a compound fracture of the ankle and a severe injury to her head.

Gulliver and the doll with the laugh will make their initial bow to a West End audience on Monday at the Holborn Empire.

Miss Millie Hylton has been scoring at the Hippodrome, Manchester, this week with her latest comedy and dramatic successes. Reports to hand are exceedingly flattering to both the artist and the beautiful costumes worn in her comedy songs. Miss Hylton wishes it to be known that she has appointed Mr. Will Collins, of Broadmead House, as her representative.

The suburban Moss-Stoll houses are offering attractive programmes for next week. At the New Finsbury Park Empire the principals are the Raymond Phillips' Airship, the Seven Perezoffs, Harry Bedford, and Howard and Harris. The Croydon Hippodrome programme includes Le Roy, Talma and Bosco, George Bastow, Russell Wallett, and the Norman and Leonard Trio; and at the Hackney Empire will be found Kate Carney and company, Fred Russell, the Daunton-Shaw Troupe, the Jackson Family, and Drew and Alders.

At the New Cross Empire figure Mme. Ella Russell, John Warren and company in The Magic Carpet, Mr. and Mrs. Kirby, and May Henderson. The Stratford Empire has tried favourites in George Lashwood, Nelson Jackson, Nellie Wallace, and the Sisters Gladwyn; and at the Shepherd's Bush Empire the bill is adorned by G. H. Elliott, Harry Roxbury and company, Leo Stormont, and Helen Trix.

The Secretary of the Music Hall Home, Mr. Ben Woodger, desires, on behalf of the committee, to thank the following for box collections:—Mrs. Sedon, "Pankard," Kennington-road, 13s.; David Hart (variety agent), Brixton-road, 4s. 5d.; C. Perress, Prince of Wales, Brixton, 3s.; and Bob Graham and Co., Electric-avenue, Brixton, 2s. 5d. He also thanks Mrs. Egerton (American Bar), Liverpool, for her kind help to the committee. Any men's left off clothing (small size) would be very acceptable at the Home, 31, Wilson-road, Camberwell, S.E.

"Lady Betty," a musical comedy idyll, produced at the London Hippodrome on Monday, is quite an agreeable trifle of the period of the farthingale, when the aristocrats were gallants and the plebs swains. The scene is the outskirts of Bath, a town much affected by the comedy writers of the last century. Something has happened whereby Sir Harry and Lady Betty have become estranged; but, as luck will have it, he is fortunate enough to be near her when she is frightened by a bull, and soothes her alarm. Why he does not recognise her in her milkmaid's dress is one of those things at which one acquainted with the artlessness of these musical idylls need not be surprised. The meeting is quite opportune for song and duet, and the mere chance reading of the monogram on Lady Betty's handkerchief brings the lovers to each other's arms. Miss Netta Lynde sings effectively and looks dainty in the title-part; and Mr. Conway Dixon is a personable lover, singing with sufficient ardour and sweetness.

The humour of the Hippodrome programme is considerably augmented by the amusing impersonation of a New York dude by Mr. Bert Coote, who presents A Lamb on Wall-street. We have outlined the lamb's adventures in former descriptions of this favourite episode, and there is nothing to add except to chronicle the excellent reception of the little company at the hands of a very large house, a special call for Mr. Bert Coote being well deserved. Mr. Herbert Lloyd, the king of diamonds, has a little company to assist him in "Special Scotch," and the droll business of singing to a comedian seated among the audience goes down particularly well. Mr. Lloyd's business is the limit of whimsical exaggeration.

Fragson returns to renew favourable impressions with songs old and new; Lockhart's elephants, presented by Captain Taylor, retain all those qualities of docility and intelligence that specially endear them to the youngsters; Carl Lynn's imitations of the horse and the lion and the cat are about as near the real thing as can be; and the Riogoku Family are very smart at Risley business, ten somersaults, feet to feet, by the diminutive Jap bringing down the house. Miss Zena Dare and company have scored a great success with The Model and the Man, which is applauded by packed houses.

T. Reed Pinaud is well known as a famous legmania artist. The show under the name of The Pinauds was at one time world-renowned. Mr. Pinaud is now turning his attention to commercial matters. He claims to be the inventor of a butter-making machine which is designed to halve the butter bill of the highest and lowliest in the land. To prove what the machine could do he called together a number of friends and members of the Press to witness a demonstration of its capabilities. What Mr. Pinaud claims for his invention savours of the feat of a necromancer. He is able to convert one pound of butter into two pounds and a quarter of butter, and he showed that he really can do what he promises. It is butter that he produces, and not buttermilk.

The process is easily described, and a child can do all that is needed. One pound of butter is taken and one pint of milk, and a spoonful of salt, the whole is placed in an inner cylinder of the apparatus, which resembles an ice-making machine, although its principle is entirely dissimilar. A handle is turned for 4½ minutes, during which time the milk has incorporated itself with the butter, with the result that the pound of butter has become two pounds and a quarter of butter. Really an extra pound and a quarter of butter has been secured for the outlay of the cost of the milk, say for ¼wopence. Anyone wishing to witness a demonstration of this wonderful little machine, has only to notify Mr. T. Reed Pinaud, at his office, 30 Wellington-street, Strand, when he will receive a polite request to attend at the next demonstration. These wonderful little machines cost the small sum of 12s. 8d., and soon return its cost to the owner.

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

MR. F. V. ST. CLAIR and Mr. Fred Barnes are very satisfied, we should think, with their new number, "Just remember me to Mary." It has turned out a big winner, Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter are the publishers.

AT the London Coliseum on Thursday was produced, with the greatest possible success, by Miss José Collins, the talented daughter of a talented mother, Leonard Cooke and Henry E. Pether's beautiful number "In cherry blossom time in Japan." It was a foregone conclusion that this, the great floral number of the forthcoming pantomimes—it has already been selected by many of the most prominent producers, including Mr. Robert Arthur—would be a triumph, for not only has the author supplied a picturesque groundwork, but the well-known composer of "Rainbow"—a greatly featured pantomime effect item in its day—has surpassed himself in the melody. Messrs. Francis and Day are the publishers.

MR. TOM FINGLASS has been the recipient of great receptions nightly everywhere for his fine rendering of Messrs. Francis and Day's song "My southern rose." The song is by Harry Von Tilzer.

MR. HERBERT LA MARTINE'S new song, "Many happy returns," has been acquired for publication purposes by Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter. It is by Paul Pelham and J. P. Long.

A NEW number, by Harry Castling and C. W. Murphy, entitled "Play us a tune on the gramophone," will shortly be issued by Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter.

AN amusing ditty will shortly be placed on the market by Mr. David Day's firm entitled "Sea Sights." It is from the joint pens of Charles Osborne and Fred Elton.

MR. HERMANN E. DAREWSKI'S new two-step, "Down in Jungletown," will be much sought after, the song of the same title on which it is founded having been one of the most successful of the present year. Messrs. Francis and Day will issue it shortly.

MISS CLARA BECK, after her recent successful Australian tour, has produced with gratifying results a pretty new ballad, which is being issued by Messrs. Francis and Day. It is entitled "You taught me how to love you, now teach me to forget."

THE good people of Dublin have taken very kindly to Mr. Gordon Stretton, the ideal coon, and at the Empire his songs, "If I were a girl like you," "Estrella," and "There's a brown girl in old Dahomey," have been found greatly to the liking of audiences. The last of these, by Mellor and Gifford, is being published by Messrs. Francis and Day.

THE artiste appearing at the Folkestone Town Hall in conjunction with Messrs. Jury's fine exhibition of living pictures are the Barringtons, a clever trio of vocalists, dancers, and instrumentalists, and Mr. Watty Macnab, who sings "Tobermory," "The Wedding of Sandy McNab," and "Keep on doing it, Sandy O!" with much éclat.

(Continued on page 24.)

A MARGATE MANAGER'S BENEFIT.

Wednesday night was set aside for the annual complimentary benefit of Mr. Charles Evans, the enterprising manager of the Hall-by-the-Sea, Margate, and his great popularity was evidenced by the huge crowd of friends and patrons who assembled to help make the benefit an unparalleled success. Large as is the Hall-by-the-Sea, the accommodation was severely taxed; the concert hall was packed and the magnificent ballroom crowded almost to suffocation. The Mayor of Margate and several Councillors were present, and Mr. Evans had the direct patronage of the member for Thanet, Mr. Norman Craig, K.C.

There was a long variety programme, the contributors to which included the Three Hodginis, aerial gymnasts; Tom Leamore, star comedian; Miss Cissie Paris, queen of burlesque; Charles Coborn, the favourite comedian; Adele Levey, in tales, recitations, and monologues; Charles Bignell, the ideal comedian; Edie Rhobins and Gwennie Crusoe, the South African musical comedy duo; Miss Nita Clavering, L.A.M., operatic soprano vocalist; Hugh and High, in their artistic musical act; Nell Derry, comedienne and dancer; Laurie and Leslie, comedians; and Dandy Dick, comedian. There were also illustrated vocal specialities and a series of Bioscope pictures.

Even this long programme did not exhaust the bill of fare Mr. Evans had provided, for there was an excellent display of fireworks in the garden, the concluding set piece in which was worded, "Mr. Charles Evans' Thanks." A ball in the exquisitely lighted ball-room, which was ablaze with myriads of electric fairy and gem lights, followed, and with the crowd of dancers presented a very pretty and animated scene. The Hall-by-the-Sea orchestra was assisted by the Royal Excelsior band, and the band of the G Co., 4th Batt. The Buffs, was also in attendance and played during the firework display.

Mr. Evans, who was the recipient of a batch of telegrams congratulating him upon his successful control of two of the most popular places in Thanet, the Hall-by-the-Sea and the Royal Palace Theatre at Ramsgate, and wishing him all good luck in the future, had to make a short speech during the evening. He cordially thanked his numerous patrons for the support they had given him during the season, he thanked the artists for appearing for him, and he thanked the audience for their attendance and the flattering way in which they had shown their appreciation of his efforts to entertain them. The Hall-by-the-Sea staff presented Mr. Evans with a dress-suit case.

JUDGMENT was delivered in the Glasgow Sheriff's Court last week in an action for damages, laid at £80, for breach of contract brought by Messrs. Fields and Lewis, variety artists, against the Glasgow Pavilion, Ltd. In the course of a note the Sheriff said pursuers alleged that they were engaged to play at defenders' music hall by Mr. Samuel Lloyd, defenders' former general-manager. Defenders said Lloyd was only an agent and was sent to look for performers, and if he saw anything suitable he noted it in pencil in the Pavilion contract book against a suggested date. On his return this was submitted to the directors, and if they approved of the performer and the terms they then proceeded to complete the contract with him. Mr. Lloyd was the only witness in support of the claim, and he was empowered to contract finally in the case of London engagements.

THE managing-director, continued the Sheriff, declared that he first heard of the engagement when their signatures came on Nov. 26. He was told by Mr. Lloyd that he had made no condition of power to cancel after the first evening if the directors did not like them. He said the directors must see if they were worth £80 and withheld his signature. On Nov. 30 Lloyd telegraphed the pursuers' agent that if £80 was the lowest the engagement was off. Pursuers replied that their signatures had been accepted without any reservation, to which Lloyd replied that pursuers were pencilled in subject to their (defenders) approving of the act, and immediately returned the contract. The Sheriff found that no contract existed between the parties, and assoilzied the defenders with expenses.

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

NEW CROSS EMPIRE.

Large and delighted audiences are the rule at this handsome hall, which is now capitally managed by Mr. E. W. James, late of Balham Empire, who is ably assisted by Mr. Will Horsfield. As Mr. James becomes better known to the patrons of this theatre he will certainly increase in popularity, for he is indefatigable in his efforts to promote the comfort of visitors. Mr. Russell Forbes directs the fine band with his customary skill, and the stage is in the safe hands of Mr. Walter Smith.

George Lashwood received an ovation on his appearance, and his songs, entitled "Just for a girl," "Mr. Pat O'Hea," and, finally, as the railway guard, singing of his experiences on the line, were warmly applauded. Mr. Lashwood here, as elsewhere, is a huge favourite. Nellie Wallace made a great hit in her low comedy impersonations, entitled "The Silvery Sea," "The Hobble Skirt," and "I've Lost Georgie." This lady's quaint method renders her performance unique. Russell Wallet is a fine artist, and his turn is always enjoyable. His "Lady in Black" contribution made a marked success with the audience, the sketches at the piano being received with much applause. Dan Hendy, a quietly humorous comedian, was rewarded with an excellent reception; and King's College Boys gave their musical entertainment. The speciality wire performers, Wyndham and Kitty, are also on the bill.

Elsa Brull and Arthur Hemsley caused much amusement as the Dainty Damsel and the Dancing Dude in their contribution, entitled Fun in a Music Shop; the Bollingers, in their rag-the original dancing acrobat, gives a unique turn, for which he is heartily applauded. Ruffell's Bioscope is still a prominent feature of the programme, and some excellent pictures are exhibited. The manager, Mr. G. Wells, continues to see to the general comfort of his patrons.

HAMMERSMITH PALACE.

An exceptionally strong bill, together with what is always a strong local attraction, an Amateur Carnival, is filling this house twice nightly to its utmost capacity. The proprietors also have recently reduced somewhat the prices of admission, and this move been abundantly justified by a very large increase in business. Mr. Bransby Williams as Montague Tigg from Dickens' "Martin Chuzzlewit," in the Ghost scene from Hamlet, and as the Penny Showman showed his versatility, and each item gained most enthusiastic applause. Especial favour was bestowed on the last-named, throughout which the audience fairly rocked with laughter. Lively Miss Daisy James proves a great favourite, singing "The squeegee dress," a tuneful ditty concerning the latest fashion, of which her dress is an excellent, though somewhat exaggerated, example, and also in a tasteful principal boy costume, the popular "Ship ahoy!"

Mr. Alec Hurley meets with all possible success. He sings about the charms of Walworth-road, and "She's a little whipper-snapper" is a very pretty coster song concerning a "little mother." His third item, "My particular business," is a clever song which was keenly appreciated by the crowded house. Mr. Cecil Gray, who with his company appears in a powerful dramatic sketch, entitled To-morrow's Dawn, by the Rev. S. S. Edwards, supplies a thrilling and intense piece of acting as Dorian, the Fifth Earl of Norton, and the resident scenic artist, with appropriate verses from his pen, assist to lend bold advertisement to the competition. The matrimonial market of the district has consequently received a decided fillip, young couples having built the highest hopes of housekeeping on the result. The features of the competitors are exhibited in a frame on the stage under a strong light, and many varieties of beauty have been displayed. Some objection has been taken on the part of the young ladies to figuring as the unlucky No. 13, and in that case humour is lent to the proceedings by putting on "Billy," a local matchboy, whose appearance with his face "made-up," causes roars of laughter. The final was fixed for last (Friday) evening.

Chief among the company for the week is the sketch Sexton Blake, the first of the series, if we mistake not, to be presented on the halls. Mr. C. Douglas Carlile repeats his clever performance of the title-rôle, which he realises completely. Miss Carlotta De Yonson again utilises her emotional gifts in the part of the devoted Leah, and Mr. Lee Gilbert again wins success as Tinker. Mr. Charles A. Carlile is effective as ever as the Master Criminal, and Mr. H. Duncan and Mr. J. Langford complete the able cast. A great favourite of the neighbourhood, Miss Florence Yaymen, wins renewed popularity with her coon caricatures, in which many remarkable effects in facial expression and vocal eccentricity are gained. The Scotsman's Visit to London serves Pete and Minnie Lee as a vehicle for the introduction of entertaining comedy and vocalism.

Fun is aroused by the Ardel and Odell Trio, who have a novel acrobatic act, and the Phydoras spring musical surprises upon the audience to their great delight. Miss Norah Desmond's picture

FRANCIS, DAY & HUNTER,

THE WORLD'S SONG PROVIDERS.

FLANAGAN.

SUNG WITH ENORMOUS SUCCESS BY MISS FLORRIE FORDE.

MISTER OWL.
G. H. ELLIOTT'S LATEST & GREATEST SUCCESS.

DOWN IN JUNGLETOWN.
MISS ETHEL LEVEY'S "ALHAMBRA" HIT.

I WISH I LIVED NEXT DOOR TO YOU.
Sung by MISS DAISY DORMER.

I'VE GOT RINGS ON MY FINGERS.
MISS JEN LATONA'S COLISEUM HIT.

THERE'S ANOTHER FELLOW LOOKS LIKE ME
GEORGE LASHWOOD'S LATEST HIT.

PUT ON YOUR TATA, LITTLE GIRLIE.
MISS CLARICE MAYNE.

IF I HAD THE WORLD TO GIVE YOU.

DAVE CARTER'S GREAT SUCCESS.

HE'S A NAUGHTY, NAUGHTY BOY.
CHARLES WHITTLE'S LATEST HIT.

HI! HI! MISTER McKIE.
MISS ELLA RETFORD.

IN THE OLD DUTCH DAIRY.
THE GREAT SEASIDE SUCCESS.

WE DID ENJOY OURSELVES IN LONDON.
A Great Chorus Song sung by GUS GARRICK and the TWO ARNATOS.

'TIS A FADED PICTURE.
Sung by FRANK CASS.

MY PONY BOY.
MISS NELL EMERALD.

ON THE SILVERY SANDS.

MISS MADGE TEMPLE'S GREATEST SUCCESS.

AND JUST THEN HE FELL OUT OF BED.
MISS ADA REEVE.

LA LA LA, SING THIS CHORUS WITH ME.
HERBERT RULE and GEORGE D'ALBERT.

I DON'T MIND LEAVING THE DEAR HOMELAND
TOM COSTELLO'S FURORE.

THERE'S A LITTLE BLACK CUPID IN THE MOON.
G. H. ELLIOTT'S LATEST MOON SONG.

SAM.
MISS HELEN TRIX.

IN CHERRY-BLOSSOM TIME IN JAPAN.
A CHARMING JAPANESE ROMANCE.

FRANCIS, DAY & HUNTER, 142, Charing Cross Rd., London, W.C.

painting act, gave a performance of wonderful ability, constructing in view of the audience excellent pictures from small pieces of rag; and Howard and Harris made a considerable success with their comedy act, entitled The Adventures of a Happy Tramp, in the course of which they introduced some capital dancing and funny original business. Pictures were also included in the programme.

ILFORD HIPPODROME.

The world-famous Houdini, the original handcuff king and gaol-breaker, proves a huge attraction here this week, and his performance is not only skilful but astonishing. Local carpenters, locksmiths, and others have tried in vain to invent a trap from which he cannot free himself, but in each and every respect Houdini has proved the victor. Mr. Frank Lister, the popular London actor, presents an original American dramatic sketch, entitled No. 99, and the playlet receives the heartiest applause.

Adele Moraw, the clever international comedienne, is very popular, and sang three excellent songs in her own inimitable style, first favourite being "The Fire Brigade," which this dainty Parisienne sings in English. The Gascoignes, patter comedians and comedy jugglers, are clever and witty, the various juggling feats causing endless laughter. Lily Edwards, a dainty and vivacious chorus singer, scores well with two catchy songs, "On a Sunday afternoon" and "Sympathy," the chorus of each having a good swing and being taken up by the audience.

The sensational comedy act of the Four Paulastos, "the lively waiters," is extremely funny; and the Watneys give a skilful exhibition of club-swinging and hoop manipulation. Alec. Lawson, other characters are efficiently filled. Ward and Davis in a comedy skit, Wanted, a Typist, do some excellent fooling and a well-executed dance. Mr. Fred Hastings in song and patter "It's all right when you're courting" causes much mirth, and is heartily applauded. The impersonations of Miss Gladys Nelson are very good for so small a child, that of Maidie Scott being particularly clever.

A most artistic item is provided by A-Ba-Bee's picture postcard album. Crosby and Walker, the jocular Eton boys; Hillman and Russell in vocal comedy scena; and Mme. Holt's Juvenile Follies, consisting of four boys and four girls, who sing and dance, severally and collectively, in charming style; with the Grand Amateur Carnival, complete the long and exceedingly varied programme. Mr. Jack Hart, bronzed after his short holiday, courteously manages the house.

THE SURREY.

The fair maids of South London are having a look in this week at the Surrey, where a beauty competition is in progress. The entries have been remarkable, Mr. Roy Cochrane having for one evening upwards of a hundred aspirants for the distinction of being adjudged the belle of the Borough. The prizes are exhibited outside the theatre under the portico of the pit, and are handsome enough to tempt the most modest flower that blows in the Blackfriars-road. The first is a Chippendale drawing-room suite, covered in silk tapestry; the second a satinwood bedroom suite of first-rate quality; and the third a 14-day marble gong clock and equestrian figures to match. Numberless other prizes include a dinner service, silver-plated carvers, and useful articles galore. Coloured cartoons of the Cynicus pattern by the songs are widely appreciated; Mr. Ernest Rees makes good his claim to be "just a comedian"; the Great Virto again proves himself to be master of the art of music; Sidney Bach supplies a diverting time as "Mrs. Jones, the Welsh lady at the piano"; and each performance concludes, as usual, with the "pick of the picture world."

GREENWICH PALACE OF VARIETIES.

The new management here are making a bid for popularity by giving the best possible entertainment at the lowest possible price. Last week the artists engaged included Sid Stagg and Tommy Salten, boxers; Victoria Loving, a charming vocalist and dancer; Miss Maudie Leslie, who possesses an excellent voice, which she uses with great ability in "The Girl up North" and "Keep on walking in the park"; Miss Lilian Maude and Mr. Frank Mundill, in their amusing duologue, Uncle's Coat; George Bendon, whose white coon impersonations are most enjoyable; Messrs. Alf Roscoes, Will Burton, Will Grant, and Dan Renshaw, and the Sisters Dene.

This week there are many good turns, including Mr. Fred Mason, who contributed an excellent song on "Foreigners," and whistled in a manner which evoked loud applause; Tom Edwin submitted an enjoyable turn, consisting of patter, which was funny and original, and a clever eccentric dance; Alexander Homewood did a clean, smart turn, and sang effectively "Good-bye, Jack" and "That's the way of the world"; Miss Gertie Leslie vocalised very pleasantly "In your old-world garden" and "The drum in the big brass band"; Mr. Wal Clinton submitted a capital rendering of "I'm a millionaire," and concluded with a clever dance; the Three Langfords made a hit with their smart and agile dancing; Ted Davis, the Welsh collier-vocalist, made a decided success; Miss Jessie Harper is a clever comedienne; the Rowlands are expert acrobatic performers; Little Baby May is an intelligent juvenile, and was warmly received. Other excellent turns were contributed by Fred Laurier (legmania), Fred Walker (eccentric comedian), Jack Phillips (dancer), Davis and Deane (comedians and shadow dancers), and the Imperial Bioscope.

WILLESDEN HIPPODROME.

On Monday evening last the Willesden Hippodrome was filled from floor to roof, and the entertaining fare provided was thoroughly appreciated. Messrs. Lew Lake and company head the bill with their well-known and humorous sensation, Five Years Later. The piece is well staged and is full of fun, and though the escape is rather far fetched and some of the situations somewhat ludicrous, the audience are highly delighted with the production, which continually evoked loud outbursts of laughter. Miss Eileen Douglas, looking very fresh and charming in a grey silk dress, gave a very pretty number, "I'll show you how to paddle your canoe," which she followed with a dainty dance, holding a canoe paddle; the air was taken up enthusiastically by the audience, who accorded the artist a hearty reception. Mr. George Gilbey was responsible for two very good songs, "Not to-day, nor to-morrow, nor the day after," and "How to be happy though married," and thoroughly earned the applause of the audience, his discourse during the second song upon courtship, worship, and hardship, and on marriage and its attendant evils being very, very funny.

Miss Daisy Dormer looked pretty in dark blue when she appeared to sing "Molly from Lancashire," and her style and the swinging melody evidently appealed to her listeners; she was as successful with a second, entitled "I wish I'd a girl like Molly," and afterwards with a dance, for all of which she was vociferously applauded. Ross and Lewis are a very clever American comedy duo. The former, in the garb of a messenger boy, gave a clever and novel exhibition of step-dancing to a rag-time accompaniment by the latter on the piano, the dancing being preceded by some smart patter, Ross being particularly quaint. Their show was much appreciated. Little Pam with an American cowboy song was good, and his dancing smart. The Dufors, American simultaneous dancers and singers, are full of energy and vivacity, and with two songs, "Down in Louisiana" and "Down in Jungletown," and particularly clever exhibitions of dancing, were much appreciated. The W. T. Thompson trio, in a farcical sketch, Watch the Chalk, were very amusing. The story is one of a henpecked husband who, being left to look after the house-work, eventually turns the tables on his wife, who asks forgiveness. The part of the husband as a weak, wan-faced little man is especially well portrayed. The Narow Brothers, trick cyclists and tramp acrobats, were a distinct success, and created hearty laughter. Mr. Geo. Gulliver, with his lay figure dressed in a khaki uniform, gave a good ventriloquial entertainment, and concluded with the song, "Let me like a soldier fall." The Bioscope concluded. Mr. L. F. Maloney remains the courteous manager, and Mr. G. R. Hatley continues to wield the bâton successfully.

WALTHAMSTOW PALACE.

The programme Mr. Cohen provides this week at this popular hall may be best described as a good all-round bill of fare, containing nothing which the epicurean in music hall menus could cavil at, but, at the same time, not offering any particular feature calculated to overshadow the others. Cole and Rags provide plenty of amusement, the eccentricities of Rags and the clever juggling of both partners finding equal favour. Arthur Leslie sings about the pleasures to be discovered in a "Dear Old Country Lane," and subsequently gives a very close imitation of Mr. Wilkie Bard. The next item is that that tops the week's bill, viz., Joe Peterman and his company in their latest success, Slaterstein, Ltd. Patrons of the variety stage know exactly what to expect from Joe Peterman—and they get it almost in excelsis in the latest. Slaterstein, Ltd., is a perfect orgy of Hebraic comicality—pretty girls, handsome dresses, fine scenery, dancing and singing, the whole connected by a story of the death of the King of Monte Rosa, the kidnapping of his rightful heir, the attempt of a usurper to seize the throne, the latter's efforts to enlist the assistance of a handsome and outspoken lady, who eventually turns on him, the unexpected appearance of the aforesaid rightful heir, the discomfiture of the would-be usurper and—all ends happily and merrily. The piece is handsomely staged, the scenery being most elaborate and the dresses and uniforms splendid.

Miss Olga Dore is an operatic actress of fine appearance, a good style, and a voice of extraordinary brilliance. In "Banish Sorrow" some of Miss Dore's high notes are quite surprising in their purity of intonation. Phœbe Mercer and company appear in a farcical episode, Mistakes Will Happen, an amusing little piece which is smartly written, and played just in the right spirit by Miss Mercer as Mrs. Spicer Curry and Mr. Frank Harrison as Mr. Sydney Matcham. Ethel Eden is a pretty and dainty little comedienne in a fetching costume, who sings "Sheila" with spirit, and anon indulges in some step-dancing that sends her audience into ecstasies. Edward Rose and Dora Challoner do some good work in the fun-making line as The Porter and the Singer, and are well received.

A perfect hurricane of applause follows the final exit of Billy Merson, the quaint comedian, who, coming as a stranger to these boards, had not been on the stage many minutes before he was accepted as a prime favourite. His quaint appearance tells at once in his favour. As a grotesque little soldier in an ill-fitting uniform, he first sings about "Welcoming her soldier boy," after which he gives "I'm going to dance," in which humorous antics and a continual stream of amusing patter fairly bring down the house. Tschernoff's Circus is worth going far to see. The beautiful ponies and dogs, in fine condition all of them, have been trained to perfection, and seem quite to enjoy their work. The musical pony, "Hans," is a perfect artist in his way. The whole circus is redolent of beauty, neatness, and spirit, and is received at every performance with shouts of approval. During the absence of Mr. Cohen, who has been enjoying a much-needed holiday, the managerial duties here have been admirably filled during the past two weeks by his assistant manager, Mr. H. V. Mann.

THAT well-known musician R. Farban has published with Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter his new and beautiful waltz, "La Reine d'Amour."

THE telephone was resorted to as a means of promoting a quick settlement in a case heard at the Vacation Court on Wednesday, in which Miss Ada Reeve complained that Saronie's Picture Palace, Tranmore, Birkenhead, had exhibited posters suggesting that she was to appear at their entertainments and sing a "catchy, illustrative song." This, she said, was damaging to her in her profession, as she was earning £200 a week, and the defendant's "palace" was not very "high class," as the prices for admission ranged only between 2d. and 8d.

COUNSEL said the parties were in negotiation by telephone to Manchester with a view to settling the case, and asked for a short adjournment. A little later he announced that the parties had agreed, the defendants being willing to treat the motion as the trial of the action, submit to a perpetual injunction, and pay Miss Reeve's costs. The Judge made the consent order, but added that it was not to be taken as a precedent in any other case.

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

(Continued from page 23.)

Miss Florrie Forde, at the Empire, Stockport, this week, has made a sensational "hit" with John P. Harrington and John Neat's comedy song "Cock-a-doodle-do, in the morning." After the first chorus, every member of the audience seemed to be seized with a frantic desire to assist the singer in the catchy refrain. This number is predestined to become a huge pantomime "production," and Feldman and Co. are to be congratulated on yet another triumph.

Phenomenally successful at the Pavilion, Liverpool, this week has been Mr. Arthur Aldridge, in his two dainty songs of sentiment, "All in a day," by John P. Harrington and William Hargreaves, and "Beautiful garden of roses," by Dempsey and Schmid, and his turn has evoked the greatest enthusiasm. These two delightful Feldman publications are assured pantomime favourites.

In addition to Miss May Lilian Levey, who has been scoring all round the provinces with John P. Harrington and John Neat's sterling comedy chorus song, "Oh, boys, I've seen you there," Mr. Colin Carlisle records the pleasing fact that he has been taking three and four curtains nightly, at the Grand Pier Pavilion, Weston-super-Mare, for the same ear-haunting Feldman song.

Habitués of the Empire, New Cross, have, if anything, waxed more enthusiastic over Mr. George Lashwood's masterly rendering of Feldman's big Irish comedy number, "Mister Pat O'Hare," by Benjamin Hapgood Burt, than even those of the other suburban Stoll houses where this gifted artist has previously sung this naïve and racy ditty. It certainly is one of the best numbers America has given us, and should enjoy a great vogue in this year's annuals.

Miss Annie Schuberth is making a great success on the Gibbons' tour with Feldman's big "winner," "Beautiful garden of roses" and "Star of hope." Miss Ailsa Douglas, at the Palace Theatre, Buxton, and Miss Lilian Pollard, at the Town Hall, Leamington, are also achieving triumphs with the first-named.

A dainty little number, which is being extensively exploited by alfresco performers at the seaside, as well as on the halls of variety—notably by Haley's "Garden of Girls" company among the latter—is "My sweet garden queen," by Harrington, Rogers, and Neat, one of the most delightful numbers published by the Feldman firm.

Mr. George Formby, happily recovered from his recent indisposition, is in better form than ever, and is winning plaudits loud and long at the Olympia, Liverpool, this week, for his side-splitting interpretation of "Playing the game in the West" and "I'm taking my father's tea," both of which are published by Feldman and Co.

Miss Dorothy Ward continues to charm all hearers with her beautiful rendering of Chas. K. Harris's exquisite ballad, "Yesterday," and is eminently successful at the Camberwell and Shoreditch houses, where she is appearing this week Feldman and Co. issue this new number from the pen of the author-composer of "Somewhere."

Mr. Jim O'Connor, Miss Gertie Gitana's manager, writing Messrs. Feldman and Co. from the Palace, Glasgow, records the remarkable success which this dainty little lady is making in the Scotch city with Mellor, Lawrance, and Gifford's charming number, "You were coming through the corn, Molly dear," which is one of the greatest successes of her career.

Messrs. John P. Harrington and Maurice Scott have just fitted Miss Cissie Curlette with three new comedy numbers, all of which she will produce in America, whither she sails in a fortnight's time. The new numbers are entitled "Everybody's happy," "So simple," and "Mixed proverbs," and Messrs. Harrington and Scott are now busily engaged on yet a fourth number for the same versatile artist.

Messrs. B. Feldman are to be congratulated on adding two more successes to their already large number—"Let's have a little bit of sunshine," by Glover Kind, and "What's the matter with father?" Both are in the hands of that rapidly rising star, Mr. Fred Barnes, and, judging by their nightly reception, in capable hands, too.

Miss Gwen Zalska, who is appearing this week and next at the London Pavilion in a dancing scena, will shortly be featuring a song by Messrs. Feldman entitled "A little china doll."

(Continued on page 25.)

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Buxton's annual benefit at Douglas, Isle of Man, on Wednesday was a memorable event. This smart entrepreneur adventured here with his clever wife as Pierrots on the Promenade. Now Buxton's Amusements cover an acre or more of the land, and include an elaborate Picturedrome, and a medium whereby al-fresco concerts can be given three times a day.

The audience on Wednesday was large and enthusiastic. The artists appearing were Mr. Allan Hanbury, with the latest comic chatter and quaintest drolleries; Miss May Birkett, a sweet soprano who sang emotional ballads artistically; Mr. Harry Braddan, a Manx comedian, who was funnier than ever; Mr. Charles Dawson, a real musician; impersonations from the works of Dr. Boz by Mr. John Story, which were entirely Dickensian; Mr. Ernie Famont, who again proved himself a genuine comedian; Mr. Walter Buxton, a tuneful baritone; and Miss Edith Buller, an admirable flute and piccolo soloist.

The beneficiaire himself took part in the programme, and his robust and tuneful tenor voice was heard to great advantage. In addition to the regular roll-call of artists engaged for the season, the following talented people appeared: Foley and Francis, fun makers; Miss Kathleen Garnon, musical comedy favourite; the Marvellous Howards, in a novel instrumental turn; Miss Dorothy Middleton, in her particularly clever imitation of music-hall stars; and the Edwin Hugh Trio.

The balalaika, the Russian national instrument exploited by the Balalaika Court Orchestra at the Coliseum, was known to the ancient Russians, but remained in its primitive condition until the last decade of the last century. Then Mr. W. W. Andreef, the conductor of the Balalaika orchestra at the Coliseum, heard the instrument played by a peasant labourer, and struck by its possibilities, decided to study it with the object of trying to improve it. Under his superintendence a famous Russian musical instrument maker made the first improved balalaika, and since then Mr. Andreef has little by little brought it to its present state of perfection.

The birthday of Mr. Frank Poole, the respected resident-manager of the Hippodrome, Sheffield, was marked last week by the presentation of a solid silver cigar-case, suitably inscribed, from the members of the orchestra. The event took place at the local headquarters of the Amalgamated Musicians' Union, the presentation being made by Mr. J. G. Hahn, the clever and genial musical conductor, who spoke highly of Mr. Poole's kindness and consideration. Mr. Poole, in reply, heartily thanked the donors, and paid a high tribute to the members of the orchestra and their talented conductor.

M. HENRI CAZMAN'S NEW ACT.

M. Henri Cazman, the versatile and clever entertainer, has been presenting his latest creation at Collins's Music Hall, Islington, this week. The performance is divided into four sections—The Scarlet Chamber, The Orange Corridor, Le Café Chantant, and Les Ombres des Mains. On the night of our visit, time would not permit of M. Cazman giving his entire entertainment, but sufficient was seen to again prove the varied accomplishments of this resourceful and expert performer.

His astonishing act is a vaudeville show in miniature, and smartly worked and staged as it is, should prove a big attraction in the variety theatres. A burlesque on the lightning painter was the first item in the interlude, The Scarlet Chamber. On the evening to which we are referring, M. Cazman rapidly plied the brush on a number of panels, which were afterwards placed in a frame, and made a very presentable picture. With a number of what appeared to be knotted handkerchiefs and a strip of ribbon, he next fashioned a vase of flowers. A dexterously-worked illusion was that in which an empty cabinet placed over a sheet is suddenly and mysteriously inhabited by a lady; and an equally marvellous piece of deception was the trick of the lady apparently floating in the air, a hoop being passed all over her body to prove there are no wires or other supports.

For neatness and adroitness there is nothing in the act to beat M. Cazman's card tricks, which are accomplished with all the aplomb and ease of one who makes sleight-of-hand his special study. Then there is the elaborate and bewildering Escape from the Kremlin illusion. No sooner is the prisoner incarcerated in an iron cage and blinds drawn, than he disappears, and other mystifying things happen. And it must be remembered this is only a portion of an olla podrida packed with surprises. For novelty M. Cazman's new act is not to be surpassed.

The stage of the Woolwich Hippodrome was the scene of a felicitous incident on the evening of the 1st inst., when a birthday present was made to the popular manager of the Hippodrome, Mr. Herbert H. Laidman. The orchestra and the staff assembled on the stage after the second house, and Mr. Ambrose Nicholls, of the Upton Hotel, Bexley Heath, at the request of the staff and several friends, handed to Mr. Laidman a handsome diamond ring. He expressed the hope that Mr. Laidman would live many years to wear the ring, and that when he looked at it he would think of the friends who presented it to him. Mr. Laidman suitably returned thanks.

A similar ceremony was gone through the previous evening, the stage manager, Mr. P. H. Presland, being the recipient of a presentation. It took the form of a gold albert and locket, presented to him by the staff and a few friends in recognition of his services in connection with the recent theatrical sports at Stamford Bridge, and it was handed to him by Mr. Laidman.

PROPOSED TESTIMONIAL TO FRED NEIMAN.

Mr. Fred Neiman, the popular ventriloquist, was born at Brighton on Oct. 16, 1860, and therefore attains his fiftieth year next month. Many of the friends he has made during a busy career intend to take the opportunity of his fiftieth birthday to present him with a testimonial. Mr. Neiman has always been a hard worker in many charitable causes, being a Royal Arch Freemason, of the Chelsea Lodge and a member of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of America, his lodge being the Newark No. 21, New Jersey. He is also a member of the committee of the Music Hall Artists' Railway Association, of which he is one of the founders; a founder and vice-president of the Music Hall Home Fund, in which he takes a keen interest; and a founder of the Terriers' Association, of whose executive he is likewise a member. He belongs to the Antediluvian Order of Buffaloes, his name being enrolled in one of the oldest lodges, viz., "The Pride of Sheppey." The proposed testimonial is supported by many influential gentlemen, headed by Sir Edward Moss and Mr. Walter De Frece. Any of Mr. Neiman's friends desirous of having their names on the testimonial committee should send to the Honorary Treasurer, Mr. Harry Barnard, 43, Marsham-street; the Hon. Secretary, Mr. F. Hardie, 18, Cranworth-gardens, Brixton, S.W.; or Mr. W. Benn, 108, Strand, London, W.C.

MR. FRED NEIMAN.

Mr. Neiman commenced his career as a ventriloquist in 1876, with a Panorama of the Russo-Turkish War, using at that time two knee figures with great success. Subsequently he was secured by the "Wizard of the North," Prof. Anderson, and then fulfilled a two years' engagement with Leotard Bosco. In the course of his long career Mr. Neiman has toured all the principal music halls in Great Britain and Ireland, and produced many ventriloquial novelties, notable among which are "Funny Folks," introducing a life-sized automaton and ventriloquial parliament, using "Folly talking sticks," the heads of which represented all the leading politicians of the day, including the Right Hon. W. E. Gladstone, Disraeli (then Premier), Chas. Bradlaugh, C. S. Parnell, and Lord Randolph Churchill. He afterwards invented and produced his greatest success, viz., "Ventriloquial Minstrels," which he manipulates up to the present. The show consists of a complete nigger minstrel first part, Mr. Neiman being the interlocutor. With this act he visited America, where he remained three years, touring the whole of the United States and California. He returned to London to open at the Tivoli, where he remained some considerable time, and has since played all the leading tours in England. He is now in partnership with Mr. Willie Benn, with whom he carries on a variety agency business at 108, Strand.

"THE LIGHTHOUSE KEEPER."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Under the heading of "Song Writers and Singers" in your last issue I notice a par re the publishing of a song by Francis and Day, entitled "The Lighthouse Keeper," for Mr. Billy Merson. I sang a song twelve years ago entitled "I'm the Keeper of a Lighthouse," and in March last, at South Shields produced a revised version of the same by Wells and Terry, and am still working it. It is only fair to me to give this fact publicity, as I may be accused of borrowing Billy Merson's ideas, whereas the above clearly shows it is anything but that.—Yours faithfully,

Sept. 7, 1910. TED E. BOX.

An undignified struggle for the possession of the famous Paris music hall, the Moulin Rouge, occurred on Wednesday. A body of shareholders appointed a new manager, M. Faber, some days ago, but the former manager, M. Ruez, refused to leave, and he was supported by other shareholders. M. Ruez, who a few days previously had been locked out of the Moulin Rouge by his successor, forced his way into the building at the head of a dozen friends and took possession of the offices.

A hand-to-hand fight resulted, when M. Faber returned with reinforcements, and in the course of the struggle M. Faber fired a revolver, and, according to M. Ruez, the bullet whistled past his head. M. Faber declares that there were only blank cartridges in his revolver. Eventually M. Ruez left the Moulin Rouge, and the rival managers have brought charges again one another of burglary with violence.

LOTTIE BELLMAN.

ASSISTED BY BAY RUSSELL, IN BIRMINGHAM.
TALENT WILL TELL.

Two years ago Lottie Bellman came fresh from America to the Birmingham Hippodrome. About that time the public were demanding entertainments of a higher order than that provided by the red-nosed comedians, gymnasts, and knock-about comedians, and Lottie supplied the needful. The audiences grew quite excited over the little lady, and applauded her loudly at the close of every incident of her performance. They saw in her the true artist, novel, original, and versatile, and above everything a real, genuine worker. Since that time Miss Bellman has appeared at the Grand, where she was a big success, but this week at the Hippodrome her performance surpasses anything she has ever done in this country. She is ably assisted by Bay Russell, a stylish young man with an enviable reputation in musical comedy. The couple work admirably together, and if there still remain sceptics who talk about the conventional low comedy acts which bore one, they should not fail to see Bellman and Russell. No incident in the brightest musical comedy is equal to their act, and that is saying a good deal. The public continue to demand such turns, and if poachers do creep in, as I know they have done, and given Miss Bellman's "tit-bits" without acknowledgment, I am confident this versatile American lady and her partner can hold their own in the front rank. Their's is a whirlwind performance, full of entertaining material from beginning to end. The little "cross-talk" song about aviation is bright and attractive; the lady's hambone Virginian song is a masterpiece; the duet and dance characterising "the college boy" goes with an exceptional swing, the dancing being most extraordinary, and the finale—The Merry Widow burlesque puts the Russian and Apache dances completely in the shade. It is burlesque involving considerable skill and hard work, but Bellman and Russell are equal to all demands.—Birmingham Weekly Mercury, Saturday, Aug. 27, 1910.

THE IMPERIAL, CANNING TOWN.

The genial manager, Mr. Frank Clarke, has again provided an exceedingly good programme for his patrons this week, and the business is excellent. The hall is certainly one of the cosiest in the East-End of London, the seating being particularly comfortable, and the decorating most tasteful. One important matter also is worthy of mention, viz., the splendid order that is maintained throughout the performance, which is certainly due to Mr. Clarke's tact. The premier position on the programme is occupied by Messrs. Joe Peterman and Geo. Ricketts' company in Slaterstein, Ltd., a farcical skit in four scenes, the former gentleman being responsible for the writing of the skit. Much fun is made by Mr. Harry Rogers and Mr. Charles Hylton as the brothers Slaterstein, their antics throughout causing great laughter. They are ably assisted by Mr. Mark Lane as Barge, other characters being well sustained by Mr. Leonard Maxwell as Prince Antonio, Mr. Robert Purser as Jim Ferres, and Mrs. Bennett as Cora. A bevy of pretty girls and smart male choristers help to dress the stage, greatly assisting in making the production a success.

Miss Nita Wairing, a talented descriptive singer, is decidedly entertaining in her song, "That's how they say good-bye," at the conclusion of which the lady does a clever dance, which is greatly appreciated. Vere and Royal, comedy artists, are a clever duo, the male partner being equipped with a full stock of quips and gags, the lady greatly assisting in the fun, her voice, too, being particularly powerful. Mitchell and Stott, comedy tumblers, do many difficult feats, a special feature being their neatness. Everard Denton and company in their mystifying magical act are very interesting, the various tricks being watched with much attentiveness with the hope of finding out "how it's done," but the audience is entirely baffled. The last illusion with the hat, cat, and bird is decidedly good. Bernard and Marion, comedy vaudeville entertainers, provide an interesting few minutes. Smart singing and dancing are done by the lady, and the gentleman's humour is quite broad and causes much laughter.

Miss Ruby Roya did not appear on the evening of our visit, but an able substitute was found in Miss Vera Rochdale, who possesses a good voice, which was heard to advantage in those popular numbers, "Dreamland" and "Colon Town." Her dancing was also excellent, and at the conclusion of her turn she was warmly applauded. Mr. James Lawrence sang well "There are nice girls everywhere"; and Miss Bertha May, a recent winner in an amateur competition, pleased all with "I'm trying so hard to forget you." Miss Ethel Grahame and company apeared in a South American episode, The Coward and the Flag, the scene depicted being on a ranch, and the coward being an English settler who is badly treated by the ranchers, who are foreigners. They appear to despise the British race, hence their cruelty to the white man, which is certainly excessive, and Miss Grahame would be well advised to modify a portion of it. Many exciting incidents occur, and the finale is reached when the villain, a German, is shot. Many interesting films are displayed on the Bioscope, and a capital orchestra is ably led by Mr. H. A. Knight.

Mr. Rowland Hill is scoring in every town with his comedy chorus song, "Why does Mrs. Flanagan want to go to the Isle of Man?" This number is from the pen of Tom B. Newsome, and will be a winner for pantomime comedians in any character.

Messrs. Devon and Earle have collected the following amounts for the Music Hall Home:—J. Alexandre, 1s.; Geo. Hughes, 1s.; James Devon, 1s.; Gus Earle, 1s.; E. C. Gittins, 1s.; Adele Prescott, 1s.; Neil Kenyon, 1s.; Phil Rees, 1s.; Harry Russon, 1s.; Stella Dell, 1s.; Cissie Curlette, 1s.; Chiko, 1s.; Smarte Bros., 1s.; A. Lennard, 1s.; the Mosaics, 1s.; the Yokels, 1s.; Hollman and Russell, 1s.; Paul Lovell, 1s.; Katherine Kennedy, 1s.; Henri Helme, 1s.; Tom Lloyd, 1s.; total, 21s.

FELDMAN'S GREATEST TRIUMPH

GARDEN OF ROSES

CREATED BY ARTHUR ALDRIDGE.

THE ASSURED
HIT
OF THE YEAR.

Another Winner.

ALL IN A DAY.

ALSO SUNG BY ARTHUR ALDRIDGE.

B. FELDMAN & CO.,
2 & 3, Arthur St., New Oxford St., W.C.
Tel. Address: "HUMFRIV, LONDON." Telephone: 4447 GERRARD.

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

(Continued from page 24.)

"ONE of the most remarkable instances of vitality in a popular song." This is how a well-knowm critic describes the phenomenal success of A. J. Mills and Bennett Scott's breezy nautical ditty, "Ship ahoy!" It is a noteworthy fact that as time goes on the song seems to grow in popularity instead of diminishing. The lilting melody seems ever fresh and redolent of the briny sea. The Star Music Co. are at present coping with an enormous demand for copies.

MISS JESSIE STEWART is a new star, and one who has come to stay. Possessed of a melodious, yet withal powerful voice, and a fascinating personality, she is a decided acquisition to the variety stage. On Monday last Miss Stewart made her bow to the critical Canterbury audience, who immediately recognised the real artist. Her principal contribution was A. J. Mills and Bennett Scott's new song, "I wonder if you miss me sometimes?" To say that the audience were delighted with her rendering of this charming ballad is to put the fact very mildly. The Star Music Co. find it necessary to state that the above-mentioned song is not a free number.

CHAS. WHITTLE has undoubtedly surpassed all his previous successes with his new song, "Fall in and follow me." Each performance adds to the rapidly-spreading popularity of this catchy number, which is by those ubiquitous writers A. J. Mills and Bennett Scott. Last week Mr. Whittle appeared at Grimsby, and the town is now literally saturated with the chorus, which is being whistled and sung in all its highways and byways. The Star Music Co. consider this the biggest winner in the light comedy vein they have ever handled, and a worthy successor to their famous "Ship ahoy!"

G. H. ELLIOTT, the ever-successful chocolate-coloured coon, continues his triumphant tour of the Stoll circuit. This week he is appearing at the Stratford Empire with his usual great success. He is specially featuring A. J. Mills and Bennett Scott's novelty song, "Loo, Sue, Mary, Dinah," and the audiences are not slow to show their appreciation of a great artist and a great song. The applause when Mr. Elliott retires after this number is truly deafening, and a third song is absolutely demanded. The Star Music Co. are the fortunate publishers of the above-mentioned winner.

MISS KATHLEEN GRAY, whose sweet voice and charming manner win her hosts of admirers, has returned to London in better form than ever. On Monday, at the Shoreditch Olympia, she produced A. J. Mills and Bennett Scott's delightful ballad "I want to be more than a friend." This number, which is fast becoming a popular favourite, shows Miss Gray's ability to great advantage, and looks like being one of the Star Music Co.'s biggest winners.

AMONGST the songs recently acquired by the Star Music Co. are:—"You can always find a friend in the summer-time," George Lashwood's latest "find," by Paul Pelham and J. P. Long; "Follow the soldiers," Arthur Reece's bright military ditty, by Worton David and R. Penso; and a catchy aeroplane number by J. P. Harrington and Harry Lane, entitled "There's a little cot in Dover." This is sung by Lloyd Morgan, one of the most talented of our light comedians. Mr. Morgan will shortly feature the song in London.

TED E. BOX wishes to draw attention to the following from the "Variety Gossip" of The Era, March 12, 1910, owing to a song being published under the same title, mentioned in this column last week:—"The popular comedian Ted E. Box has purchased a song, by Gilbert Wells and Will Terry, entitled 'The Lighthouse-keeper,' which has been produced with tremendous success. It is understood that Wells and Terry had to write four songs on the lighthouse-keeper before they hit upon the identical article. The lightning and thunder and crockery-smashing effects were rehearsed at Mr. Box's house, much to the surprise and perplexity of the popular Wells, who began to prepare for earthquakes, and Will Terry had laughing hysterics at the perplexed Gilbert. And then another song was written, and a success was found at last."

MR. TOM E. FINGLASS must feel proud of the enormous success which greets his three numbers this week at the Palace, Oldham, "My Baby," his big Coliseum hit, being greeted with tumultuous applause.

PROMENADE CONCERTS.

An interesting programme was forthcoming at the promenade concert at Queen's Hall on Thursday evening, Sept. 1. Mozart's Overture, "Le Nozze di Figaro," was followed by a particularly fine performance of Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2, which the audience applauded with great enthusiasm. The novelty on Thursday evening was Mr. Vaughan Williams's Fantasia on English Folk-songs, a spirited work, chiefly interesting on account of the purely English nature of its subject. In Richard Strauss's Horn Concerto in E flat Mr. A. E. Brain, jun., gave an effective account of the solo instrument. The orchestral works included Suite "Peer Gynt" (Grieg), Walford Davies's Solemn Melody for organ and strings, Prelude to "Sappho" (Bantock), Mendelssohn's Ruy Blas Overture, and the "Marche Slave" (Tschaikowsky). Miss Laura Graves, who appeared at these concerts for the first time, was well received in Hatton's song, "The Enchantress," and Mr. Thorpe Bates sang "If love were all."

There was a large audience at Queen's Hall on Saturday last, Sept. 3, and the programme commenced with Goldmark's Overture, "Sakuntala," a romantic and richly scored work, originally produced at Vienna in 1865, and having special interest on this occasion owing to the recent production of the composer's opera, The Queen of Sheba, by the Carl Rosa company. Goldmark's overture was in admirable contrast to Boccherini's Minuet in A for strings, played with delightful finish and refinement by the orchestra. Other excellent performances by the orchestra were Elgar's second "Wand of Youth" suite, Järnefelt's "Praeludium," Pizzicato "Sylvia" (Délibes), Prelude "Die Meistersinger," and E. German's Three Dances from Henry VIII. Miss Esta D'Argo sang the aria in Bantock's "Christ in the Wilderness," and Mr. Herbert Heyner "Mephisto's Serenade" from Berlioz's Faust. Miss Jean Marcel was the solo violoncellist in Saint-Säens's 'Cello Concerto in A Minor.

Juggling Geraldos for Australia.

I MET one of the Juggling Geraldos the other evening, and as I have been interested in the great country of Australia for some time, I am always a ready listener for news about this far-away country. Geraldo visited the Antipodes some time ago, and was such a good success, according to the Australian Press, that he is making arrangements to again make the tour.

Dewitt, Burns, Terrance.

THESE clever comic eccentrics have been doing nicely over on the Continent, and from the success they are meeting, will remain there for some time.

"THE LAW OF MUSICAL COPYRIGHT." By Albert A. Strong, LL.B. (Lond.). Price 1s., post free 1s. 1d. Published at The Era Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

MUSIC HALLS MUNICIPALISED.

"It is a theory which pleases me, that everything that is wrong with the music hall is the imposition of the commercial-minded manager," writes Mr. P. P. Howe in the Socialist Review. "I want to see the tendency towards commercial monopolisation reversed. I want the music hall to be municipalised.

"It is time to be specific. The principle of collective ownership gets taken up in this country for one of two reasons: first, that it isn't safe to leave the enterprise in private hands; second, that the enterprise is profitable, which is to say, more or less of a monopoly. The music hall should be municipalised for both reasons. The risks of its misuse and its persistent profits are equally conspicuous. Every municipality should acquire or erect its own music hall. A committee of the Municipal Council should run the theatre, with competent and experienced managers to do the practical work. It will not be desirable to provide this municipal service, as it is others, such as transport, free of charge to the public. On the contrary, it will be the one municipal enterprise run frankly for profit. This will be used to subsidise the municipal music hall in its competition with other variety theatres; for, as with the legitimate stage and the publishing trade and several other industries, an absolute monopoly will be undesirable. The programme would be selected and arranged by the experienced managers, responsible to the committee of the council. There need be no tyranny in this, and, I think, no Puritanism, for the public will soon see to it that certain persons are elected to the council for the express purpose of administering the great business of municipal entertainments. There would be general guidance by the council, but each 'turn' would be considered by the managers separately, and on its merits. I do not know that this guidance would not include certain general restrictions and prohibitions. Indeed, I think these will be some of them: (a) The impersonation of women by men will be restricted; (b) the humour of physical violence will be prohibited; (c) very sparing use will be made of the cinematograph. But there would be no preconceived decision as to what sort of things might be presented and what might not; impersonations of men by women would be frequent, and performances involving a display of the human form would be judged individually and on their merits. In the last resort, it must be remembered, if any sort of entertainment to which you were partial suffered prohibition because it would not, on the whole, be wise to give it municipal sanction, you would quite likely find it at another theatre round the corner. For there is not to be a municipal censorship, nor a municipal monopoly. There is only to be vigorous and subsidised municipal competition.

"I have it in my mind, before going any further, to say a word about the so-called improvement in the music hall. I don't mean to imply that there has been no improvement in the music hall during, say, the last couple of decades. I imagine, and I am sure I hope, there has. My misgiving is that the people who talk so much about it are wrong-headed people, who, not having any appreciation of what is good in the music hall, are not likely to be the best authorities upon its improvement. Partly also they are interested people whose concern it is to write up one or other of the couple of great syndicates that are engaged in converting the old intimate hall of moderate size into the vast palace of varieties. These have their place, and their resources for the presentation of spectacle are not without significance to the art of the theatre. Incidentally, the drinking-bar is vanishing in the process, and also—Hallelujah! says Mrs. Grundy—the promenade. But it is evident that the new palatial conditions are not adapted to what is best in the music hall—the diversity of its humours and its whimsical characterisations. Intimacy is the very spirit of the art of the music hall.

"Delicate and humorous characterisation is provided to-day by a large number of very able artists—perhaps a larger number than ever before; I will take Mr. Beerbohm's word for the brainlessness of the music halls of his youth. Setting their performances aside (and one cannot quite do that, because they are affected by the tendencies I am going to name), the music hall deals in humour of three sorts. There is the humour of over-drinking, the humour of sex innuendo, and the humour of physical violence. I am quite aware that drunkenness leads to the exhibition of mirth-provoking characteristics of which the stage has always made free use. I hope it always may, and I rather think so. It pleases me to think that something one might call sex wit—quite a frank, and therefore always a pretty clean, thing, such as one finds in the best of the Restoration comedies—used to prevail, and that our reformer succeeded in abashing it into taking the form of the sex innuendo of the present day. Physical violence, again, is, and must be, a constituent of broad comedy. But do you know what it is for your gorge to rise at it? No; I dislike the greasiness in music hall humour. The political humours of the music hall are greasy. They are not exclusively Tory in their bias, as some of our reformers like to make out. A self-respecting municipality will find no place for them.

"The permeation of the music hall by the short play is, of course, an improvement. I have yet, however, to see, with some three exceptions, a play in a music hall which is of any use to anyone. The trouble is only partly that of their difficult environment. Mr. George Alexander, it will be remembered, told the Censorship Committee that coming between performing elephants and human apes a good short play was inconceivable; but then it is impossible to conceive worse short plays than those with which Mr. Alexander raises the curtain at his own theatre. The trouble lies in the sort of short play that gets written. What could be calculated to appeal less to an audience inexperienced in plays and demanding that its attention shall be tickled every moment than great slabs of dialogue bandied from mouth to mouth? The writers of short plays will have to become more concerned with the method of realism (as to an extent have W. W. Jacobs and Henry Arthur Jones, two of the exceptions I mentioned just now). Touch-and-go dialogue is the thing for the music hall. The short play has no real hold on the music hall at present, but it will have so soon as the music hall is presented with plays so obviously cut to its measure as is Mr. Barrie's Twelve-Pound Look.

"A very great deal of nonsense is talked—and, what is worse, not talked, but loftily implied—about the puerilities of the music hall. Distinguished dramatic critics pay a biennial visit, and expect us to be mortified by their phonographic reproduction of the words of some chorus. These critics miss the whole spirit and the whole purpose of the music hall, and make a positive parade of their unfamiliarity. One may see how unfair a standard is applied to the music hall when one considers with what leniency is treated the instinct to stand and gaze at the veriest nothing being done in the street, while so soon as something twenty times as difficult is done twenty times as well in the music hall the onlookers and everyone concerned are regarded as fools and knaves. This is the lowest ground on which to defend the music hall. The municipal music hall will appreciate the need to provide intimate social amusement as well as to encourage the arts."

CRICKET.

TERRIERS C.C. v. HAMMERSMITH PALACE XI.

The above match took place on Tuesday, Sept. 6, and resulted in a win for Hammersmith Palace by 44 runs.

TERRIERS C.C.—Alan Marshall, b W. Ware, 51; H. Bekker, b Webber, 2; W. Bekker, b Richardson, 1; Billy Kloof, c Lewis, b Webber, 9; H Conlin, b Webber, 0; D. M. H. Hoffman, b Ware, 0; Tom Packer, b Ware, 5; W. Dunkley, b Webber, 4; T. Buckley, b Ware, 4; H. Bennett, not out, 0; H. Karno, 1 b w, 0; byes, 7. Total, 83.

HAMMERSMITH PALACE.—Chittenden, c Conlin, b A Marshall, 6; Leslie, c Buckley, b A. Marshall, 2; Webber, c Bekker, b W. Dunkley, 32; C. Richardson, c Hoffman, b A. Marshall, 0; Parsons, 1 b w, b W. Dunkley, 0; Davis, b A. Marshall, 9; W. Richardson, b Hoffman, 14; L. Richardson, b W. Dunkley, 20; Nat Lewis, not out, 7; Pank, c Conlin, b W. Dunkley, 0; Ware, c H. Karno, b H. Conlin, 19; byes, 18. Total, 127.

The return and last cricket match of the season will take place on Tuesday next, Sept. 13, at Peckham Rye Park. Match starts 11.30. All Terriers wishing to take part in match kindly send names in to Tom Packer, hon. secretary, 69, Kennington-road.

STAR MUSIC CO., LTD.

AGAIN REMOVE TO LARGER PREMISES,

51, HIGH ST., NEW OXFORD ST., LONDON, W.C.

(Opposite TOTTENHAM COURT ROAD).

BAND PARTS . In this key . 1/-

THIS IS "IT."

Published in 3 Keys.

I WONDER IF YOU MISS ME SOMETIMES

(I WONDER IF YOU CARE).

SEND FOR CATALOGUE, FREE. PROFESSIONAL COPIES, 3d. EACH.
Applicants must state whether Required for Music Halls, Theatres, or Concert Work, &c.

NOTE NEW ADDRESS

51, HIGH ST., NEW OXFORD ST., LONDON, W.C.

Wires: "SONGONIA, LONDON." 'Phone: 8446 GERRARD.

LOOK OUT FOR THE "CORONATION LANCERS," TO BE ISSUED SHORTLY

AT the King's Theatre and Hippodrome, Dundee, on Wednesday afternoon, a classical art performance and matinée musicale was given by Miss Morlich Macleod, popularly known as "Erato." Miss Macleod appeared in her original symbolic representations, "The Tragic Muse of Scottish Ballad," her interpretations including "The bonnie Earl o' Murray," "The Lowlands o' Holland," "The four Maries," and "The land o' the leal." She was assisted by a talented company, including Madame Francesca Zanfretta, classical art danseuse, in æsthetic art dance postures; Miss Innell Græme, diseuse; Miss Adeline Hope, contralto; and Hon. Charles Vincent, tenor. Mr. Harold Craxton was a most efficient accompanist. The entertainment, which from start to finish was of the most enjoyable description, was under the direction of Mr. John Halpin.

"MR. EDITOR.—Sir,—Will you permit me to correct a mis-statement in your last issue? The dramatic scena now being played by me is entitled For a Woman's Honour, and not For a Woman's Sake.—Yours faithfully, MILLIE HYLTON, Hippodrome, Manchester. Sept. 6, 1910."

MR. EDITOR.—Sir,—In your notice last week of the Queen's, Poplar, you mention Daisy Hicks as having sung "I wish I could let those rooms" and "If I hadn't got the dinner on the hob." May I say that I was deputising for Miss Hicks?—Yours faithfully, DOROTHY VERNON, 3, Beach House, Royal Crescent, Margate.

Soon be Back.

CHARLENE AND CHARLENE will sail from Australia the middle of the month, and will open in the English halls for a lengthy engagement about the latter part of October.

OPENING OF THE FINSBURY PARK EMPIRE.

Yet another magnificent Moss-Stoll variety palace, the Finsbury Park Empire, opened its doors to the public on Monday evening, when a large and appreciative audience quickly packed every part of the fine building. Expressions of admiration were heard on all sides at the beautiful and perfectly-equipped house, a full description of which appeared in our last issue, and the latest addition to the vast aggregation of variety houses governed by the Moss-Stoll syndicate started on its career under the happiest auspices, and a career of prosperity would appear assured. The prices charged for admission are within the reach of all, and seem absurdly moderate when the quality of the entertainment and the palatial nature of the building are taken into account.

Apart from the band playing "The King" before the entertainment started, there was no special ceremony on the opening night, and the first artist to have the honour of taking the stage was Mr. George Rae, a Scotch comedian who aroused much merriment with his droll description of the adventures of six bonny boys who came to London town, a smartly-executed dance concluding a much-appreciated turn. The spacious stage of the new Empire enabled the Daunton-Shaw troupe of Australian trick cyclists to exploit their wonderfully clever and smartly-worked exhibition to the greatest possible advantage, and the many difficult feats accomplished by these monarchs of the wheel were loudly acclaimed. Nothing finer in its line is to be seen on the variety stage, and not the least attractive feature of the show is the apparent enthusiasm each member of the troupe takes in his or her part of the proceedings. Siems, the great Danish coin and card manipulator, seemingly produces coins from the air with marvellous skill, and his card tricks are particularly perplexing, his entire turn being a very enjoyable one; and Miss May Henderson, the dusky comedy queen, extracted much humour from her song, "I don't like London" and another number, her smart step-dancing also being a much-appreciated item. The ludicrous burlesque business introduced by the Kirbys, in their musical comedy pot-pourri, provoked hearty laughter, especially the "Lady Doctor" and "Lady Barber" impersonations, the grotesque antics of the male member of the duo creating much hilarity.

Those distinguished operatic stars, Mme. Fanny Moody and Mr. Charles Manners were accorded a very flattering reception, Mme. Moody's artistic and expressive rendering of Tosti's "Good-bye" and "The Last Rose of Summer" making an irresistible appeal to the crowded and delighted house. Mr. Manners' fine voice was admirably employed in a couple of old favourites, "To-morrow will be Friday" and "Father O'Flynn," both of which were given in a quietly droll style that greatly enhanced their effect. That high-class vocalism is appreciated at the halls—not only in the West, but in all parts of London—was again demonstrated by the lavish applause bestowed on Mme. Moody and Mr. Manners at the conclusion of their turn. The musical comedy interlude of Tom and Marie Motrama was punctuated (as it always is) by hearty laughter, the ludicrous behaviour of the male of the duo towards his charming partner being very funny. The instrumental portion of the turn is also appreciated, and the turn throughout is a most enjoyable one.

The playlet of the programme is A Lamb on Wall-street, an episode of the New York Stock Exchange, in which Mr. Bert Coote gives his inimitable portrayal of the dude, Tapsley Framingham, who outwits his rascally partner Horton. The business in the earlier portion of the sketch, especially Tapsley's singing to his lady love of a song of his own composition, is screamingly funny, and the portrayal throughout is a very clever one. Miss Ada Russell, a charming figure in black, admirably depicts Eleanor Belding's indignation with Tapsley and her terror when threatened by Horton, and the scenes between her and Tapsley are neatly and adroitly managed, and Mr. J. C. Aubrey's representation of the unthankful rôle of Horton is a convincing and easy one.

Miss Helen Trix, a clever little American comedienne and sifflleuse, proved her undoubted versatility by contributing three impersonations of an entirely different nature, the first—her own sweet self—in which she sang a taking little song, accompanying herself at the piano; next appearing as a boy, and rendering with much expression a love idyll, "I'm awfully strong on you," and whistling the melodious refrain at the conclusion; and, lastly, as a lively and lovable old dame in a costume of mid-Victorian days, who is celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of her wedding, and evidently sets out to enjoy herself. All three impersonations were capitally given, and the audience recognised the ability of the artist by much hand-clapping. The American Bioscope, in up-to-date subjects, is also on the excellent programme for the week. The fine orchestra is under the control of Mr. Fred Camp.

"PROBABLY in no public places is the advance of ideas with regard to public health and sanitation more apparent than in our theatres," says a writer in the Scots Pictorial. "The old-fashioned house, with heavily-papered walls—so suitable a harbourage for germs—dusty, insanitary decorations, and defective ventilation, is rapidly passing away, and in its place a fine modern style of house is being reared up that has such important improvements as sanitary wall-coverings, washable decorations, and ventilation by means of forced draught. While such progress is, generally speaking, satisfactory, there does seem some further room for improvements in one or two respects. But before such further improvements could be effected, the general public, who make up the audiences, and not the management of the theatres, would have to be made to feel the necessity for them, and concur in the effort to introduce them. As an instance, why should there be so much heavy upholstery about a playhouse or a music hall? Does it not go without saying that nothing is more likely to aid and abet the ubiquitous microbe than this class of appurtenances, or at least that it is extremely difficult to keep such material clean and in a sanitary condition? Now, here, the management of the theatres are not to blame. They would no doubt very gladly dispense with extravagant upholstery when building new houses, but what would the audience say to it? Yet, if the audience could only be got to know it—it seems like Spartan philosophy; but, at any rate, it is strictly true—it is much better to sit for a couple of hours on a hard seat than to be in contact for a like period with dusty, musty cushions. The danger, however, is not so serious as it was, as so many houses have introduced leather upholstery, which is clean and easily kept clean."

Diamond King Back.

JULES JORDAN arrived last week from America. During his stay over on the other side he was caused quite a little annoyance by the American Customs House officials, who tried to get gay with the clever actor. Jules beat them at their own game, however, and showed clearly that a man has a right to wear his own property in any place without going to the trouble of having to cough up money to the Government for the privilege.

"Theatrical Accounts for Business Managers," by Cuthbert E. Smedley, A.C.A. Price 3s. 6d., post free 3s. 9d. Published by The Era Ltd., 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

American Vaudeville Artists in England.

AMERICANS IN ENGLAND AND ELSEWHERE.

[By Americus.]

Beck Busy With Acts.
Martin Beck seems to pay little attention to the movements of other combines, and is busy booking up his bills for the season. It is quite evident that a few of the Eastern managers became very much alarmed at the rapid strides Beck has been making in American vaudeville, and the Cincinnati move was for the sole purpose of stalling Beck or blocking his rapid move East for some time at least.

Mighty Strong.
It is a well-known fact that the Sullivan and Considine circuit has been on the move during this past year, and will come into New York and the East regardless of all with their popular price vaudeville shows. This circuit is now considered one of the strongest in America, and has some thirty or more weeks to offer, and I look to see John Considine one of the biggest men in American variety, if he isn't right now, within a very short time.

Good Shuffler.
Herbert Lloyd caused the audience to roar with laughter at the Hippodrome during this week. This funny fellow shuffles a bunch of shirt fronts about the same as a card man would shuffle a deck. He does it with such finish that he never misses his right or left throw once.

Bert Coote Goes Next Week.
Bert Coote, the lamb of Wall Street, sails next week for America, where he opens with the United time with his present offering. The act has got a laugh or two every second at the Hippodrome all this week, besides playing at the new Empire at Finsbury Park.

Gilday and Fox at Paragon.
Gilday and Fox, the American Hebrew comedians, were held over for another week at the Paragon, where the act was a big success.

Sam Stern on Big Time.
The single American Hebrew comedian, known throughout the States as the Indian Jew comedian, Sam Stern, has gradually been going along on the Stoll time, and will be seen next week at the Coliseum. Stern has a new budget of songs and parodies which are fine, and he is putting them over the footlights with good results.

Carron There Every Night.
The German clubs would hardly exist if the patronage of Paul A. Carron, of the Marinelli office, were to withdraw. Not only this; but if anything comes off in the booking line Marinelli has his man there all the time on the spot, and Paul always has his eyes open for his boss.

Newcastle This Week.
The famous Jackson Family of cyclists are at the Empire, Newcastle, and the act is one big success.

Balloon Girl for the Palace.
Marinelli has booked The Balloon Girl, which has proved such a big hit in Berlin, for the Palace. The act was also a fine success in Paris for some weeks.

At Edinburgh.
The comedy man with his partner (Campbell and Barber) are at the Empire, Edinburgh, this week. The funny falls of the cyclist and the expert riding of the trick man have made them big favourites in the Scotch city.

Du Gros Bar Act.
The Du Gros comedy bar act are on the Stoll time, and are at Birmingham this week. The act may return to America next spring, for another stay over the Orpheum circuit.

Belle Belmont, Entertainer.
If there is anyone in the world can continually hand you a laugh or two during an evening at the German Club, it is Belle Belmont, the singer and comedienne. One of the boys came in the other evening with a new check suit on, and Belle handed over a big laugh by saying the checks on the suit ought to be chloroformed. Miss Belmont has a new find in a young lady who sings very prettily, and should be given some good time in the halls. I was told she was the daughter of an old performer who was quite popular here in the English music-halls in his day.

Nuremberg, Germany.
Bert French and Alice Eis, in their famous vampire dance, are the big attraction at the Central Theatre, Nuremberg, Germany, this month.

Wallace Bradley on Way Back.
Mr. Wallace Bradley, of the Kaufman troupe of expert cyclists, is on his way back from America via the Cunard Line. Mr. Bradley will arrive in London on Monday night from Fishguard. During his stay in America he reports that his son, Frank Kaufman, has made some very profitable real estate deals in their old home, Rochester, N.Y.

Pretty Dorothy Kenton,
The little banjo girl, who has been on this side and the Continent for the past few years off and on, is playing at the Alhambra, Paris, commencing in October for an indefinite engagement, booked by the Marinelli agency.

Ronacher's, Vienna.
Latell, the great mimic, is a big success at Ronacher's this month, according to the Wein Press. His clever mimic work has been noticed quite a good deal by the Austrian Press.

General Lavine.
This comic juggler goes to the Circus Carre next month for a two weeks' engagement, after which he will play the French Metropolis, Paris. The General has been getting on nicely on the Continent, and has been booked for returns at every hall.

Hymack Sails in November.
Hymack, the quick-change artist extraordinary, who was such a big hit in America last year, goes back to play a return trip over the Orpheum circuit.

Hansa Theatre Gets Ethel Levey.
Miss Ethel Levey has signed for a month at Hamburg, and will play at the pretty Hansa Theatre one month during the coming fall.

Five Mowatts, Dresden.
Topping the bill at the Central Theatre, Dresden, this month, are the American club jugglers, the Five Mowatts. These clever fellows have the reputation of being the greatest of club jugglers, and by their pretty work they have gained for themselves an international prestige in the variety halls all over the world.

For the United Time.
Alfred Whelan has been booked by the Marinelli office for a tour over the United time in America. The clever pianist and entertainer will open at Trenton, New Jersey, on Sept. 26.

RINALDO.

WILLY PANTZER & CO.,
STOLL TOUR.

SPISSELL BROS. and MACK.
AMERICAN ECCENTRICS AND PANTOMIMISTS, IN A QUIET LITTLE SUPPER.
Aug. 29 to Sept. 24, TOWER, BLACKPOOL. A FEW VACANT DATES.

EMERSON and BALDWIN.
WINTER GARDENS, BLACKPOOL. Six Weeks.

SIX AMERICAN DANCERS.
at PALACE THEATRE, LONDON.

THOSE CLUB FELLOWS.
5 MOWATTS 5
DRESDEN, GERMANY.

HARRY JOLSON.
COLISEUM, LONDON.

S. and G. AUER.
LONDON SYNDICATE HALLS.

GILDAY and FOX.
Re-engaged for another Week, PARAGON.

NAT WILLS.
Re-engaged at PALACE, LONDON.

MISS MABEL BERRA,
PALACE, MANCHESTER.

SAM STERN. NOT AN INSTANTANEOUS SUCCESS, BUT GROWING POPULAR.
COLISEUM. Week Sept. 12.

NICK KAUFMAN.
Refined Cycle Troupe. Special Engagement PALACE THEATRE, LONDON.

CAPT. SPAULDING. The Man who Made Vesuvius Jealous.
Hottest Act in any Music Hall.

Luton Next Week.
Russell and Held still continue to be the big top on all the bills which they play, and from the success they are meeting they will hold this honour for many years to come. They do a fine act, and they are what one would call a riot at every performance.

Metropolitan Has Good Bill.
The comedy work of S. and G. Auer at the Metropolitan this week is good, and they present a mighty neat and pretty entertainment. The man does some fine jumping, all of which shows absolute finish and gracefulness, while the lady's looks and nice personality win their audiences over right from the start. The making of a dog's head with rags is a novel feature, which presents a pretty picture and gets some nice applause.

King of Buck Dancers on Skates.
After seeing the clever performance of the little American buck dancer, Willie Gardner, at the Metropolitan, the other night, I have forgotten that I have ever seen any buck dancing on roller and ice skates before. This little fellow may well be termed the greatest of dancers in his particular style.

Nat Wills Kidding.
The tramp comedian isn't satisfied with kidding on the stage, but he wants to hand out a few laughs when off. He sprang a report that Pat Casey had just sent his card back to him, and had just arrived from America. A few of the boys took it seriously, but Earle Reynolds wanted to make a small bet that there wasn't a boat sailing that anyone could entice the big agent on. Reynolds says Casey gets seasick crossing the ferry-boats in New York. At any rate, the rumour was afloat that Big Pat was in London, and there were about a hundred acts looking for Pat to try to get on his books for America.

King Rose Here.
Isaac Rose, impresario, and sometimes called the Herr Director of big novelties throughout the world, arrived in the city in the early part of the week. Ike has some new stuff he is here to place. In fact, he never has anything else but novel stuff. He says, "It is loss of time to deal in goods which don't show profit to the managers. Consequently I have brought over a few, just a few, that will bring the money in." Manager Rose has the two famous Bohemian Twins, which have caused such a world-wide interest on account of being grown together. The impresario is arranging a time for their London appearance, and Ike says that London will see the greatest attraction in the freak line that the world has ever seen or ever heard of.

Nick Kaufman Goes Back Soon.
Nick Kaufman, who is one of the big hits of the Palace bill, goes back to Berlin the latter part of next week. As soon as his brother-in-law, Mr. Wallace Bradley, arrives from America, Nick will turn the troupe over to him, and he will proceed to Berlin, where he will get ready a big roller skating ballet for the American Roller Rink Company, which he has signed a contract for a three months engagement with. He will produce some ten or fifteen girls in a neat skating ballet at the opening of the Berlin rink on Oct. 1.

Captain Spaulding.
I see that the Captain has been booked for some time through the office of Shereck and Braff, twelve weeks being the number allotted to him for a short tour, after which he will go on the Continent. The man who makes Vesuvius jealous was a big headliner at Brighton a few weeks ago, and last week was repeating at the Canterbury, registering a big success. The blowing off gunpowder in his hand, biting off redhot carbons with his teeth, and chewing up melting lead, are only a few of the marvellous things the man who is immune presents in the course of his entertainment.

Mabel Berra Went Great.
The clever little American comedienne, Miss Mabel Berra, was a real good hit at the Palace, Manchester, last week. In addition to this success I notice that Miss Berra is registering many big votes for the popularity contest in a New York racing paper which devotes some columns to vaudeville.

Six American Dancers.
These clever people, and there are six of them, all clever, are still going great at the Palace. The German impresario, Isaac Rose, who paid three shillings to stand up to see the act, was very much in love with the performance, and applauded it throughout. The dancers sail for Australia on Nov. 12, via the Orient Line, for a trip over the Rickards circuit.

Nick Kaufman Again.
This famous bicyclist has been asked time and again, "Why don't you ride yourself, Nick? Why, you used to be a good one in your day; in fact, there never was anyone any better. You are a young fellow yet." "Well. Maybe you fellows think I can't do it. If you have your doubts about me, just hike over to Berlin Wintergarten about Christmas Day, and you will see that I am still there." Kaufman is going to ride in the Kaufman act on this day, and I hear that his friends are going to be there strong that night to see whether the old champion has lost any of his skill and cleverness. Nick will do his act on the old ordinary wheels, which will bring back fond memories to those who remember when the big wheels were just the thing.

Millman Trio.
The Millman Trio open at Dresden, Germany, for a two weeks' stay. The act proved to be a good winner right from the start. This is not the Bird Millman Trio that the halls saw last year.

Rinaldo the Great.
Just as big a hit at every performance as when he came over is this fellow, who acknowledges that he doesn't know one minute what he is going to play the next on the fiddle.

La Belle There With Gowns.
I called the turn that La Belle would be some picture this week at the Coliseum, but I am not going to say what Nat Wills told La Belle after her act on Monday afternoon.

Nellie Donegan Improving.
Nellie Donegan, who has had three months of mighty bad luck, is able to be around now, and will be out by the time this goes to press.

H. B. M. in Berlin To-day.
The international booker, H. B. Marinelli, went over to Berlin for a week's stay on Thursday. Mr. Wolheim is going to Paris to look over some matters while the boss is away. Chas. Bonaught, the American manager for Marinelli, has resigned, and will open an office of his own.

On Stoll Time.
Lamberti, the musician, will open on the Stoll time, making his first stop at the Hippodrome, London, on Oct. 3.

Athletas for America.
Carron tells me that the Marinelli office has recently booked the Sisters Athletas for America, opening on the United time in Jan., 1912.

Off for Louisville.
The Aurora Troupe sailed last week for America, and will open at the Mary Anderson theatre, Louisville, for a trip over the Orpheum time.

Jimmy Britt's Good Show.
Jimmy Britt, who is representing Hugh McIntosh (the big fight promoter), of Australia, is handling the first show to be pulled off here in London, which will be known as an "Elimination" series, and will give the public an opportunity of finding out which is the best man in England, and which will eventually bring forth an opponent for Jack Johnson. The first bill which is scheduled is Sept. 15, at the King's Hall, London-road, and the bout is between Bombardier Wells and Sergeant Sunshine.

Helen Trix's Sister Here.
Miss Helen Trix's pretty sister, Alma Trix, arrived from America last week, and will spend a few months with Miss Trix here in London before returning to the States.

Ritchie in Paris.
The Ritchie cyclists closed a fine engagement at Wein last week, and will open in Paris this month for a month's stay.

Cliff Going Back.
The comedy circus act of Cliff Berzac, which has registered a tremendous success all over the world, will return to America in a short time, playing the Big time, where he has a year's work booked.

De Coe at Olympia, Paris.
The American equilibrist, De Coe, is at the Olympia, Paris, this month. After this engagement he comes to London, at the Hippodrome.

THE SHOWMAN WORLD.

Barnet Great Fair.

FRIENDS and foes (if there be any of the latter) all admit its claim to greatness. It is great as a business mart, world famous as a horse fair, and, despite all the pessimists, it gets greater every year as a pleasure fair for North London. Barnet, like Mitcham, can claim the sanctions of ancient origin and unbroken continuity. With its trading, or horse fair side, we have little to do. It is with the pleasure that follows business that we are concerned—when the trader and his customers unbend the severity of "haggling and higgling," and go to the shows, roundabouts, and all the fun of the fair, to rest and to recreate the body and the mind.

FOR this salutary medicine of the mind, this never-failing tonic for the jaded and worn faculties of body and soul, it is that the mighty physicians of the people—the itinerant showmen—provide.

ALL sorts and conditions of shows and showmen, from the colossal cinematograph palace to the peepshow; from the proprietor of a six-foot stall to the owner of both shows and roundabouts; from the camp-follower and kerbstone salesman to the stately orator, with his modern appeal on the picture palace parade; the cokernut men to the houp-la merchant. All these enterprises, all these men are needed to make up your modern fair. Barnet Fair lives and grows in popularity every year, because it does fulfil its true destiny. It supplies what the people require; it needs no other defence, and we, of all people, are ready to admit and to defend its claim to be modern as well as ancient. Modern, with the vigour of new life, and ancient with its many links with an honourable past. No; Barnet Fair will remain to the teeming population of great London town on its northern boundaries.

SPREADING by the roadside, nearly half a mile in length, over 200 caravans, shows, and stalls, entertainment by the thousand yards, at many pitches, and by 500 entertainers. So is great Barnet Fair as we know it to-day. Thurston's show and roundabouts, Biddall's show, Gray's roundabouts, Pettigrove's gallopers, Manders' racers and motors, houp-las, shooters, cokers, toy and gingerbread stalls in galore, swings, highfliers, aeroplanes, boxing booths, side shows, refreshment tents, throwing games, bazaars; in fact, all the best elements of a popular fair. Who shall gainsay its claim to endure so long as it satisfies its hundreds of thousands of patrons?

Oxford St. Giles Fair.

HERE, again, we have a hardy annual—a twentieth-century carnival for the people in a mediæval setting—"apples of gold in a silver frame"— the people at play with the seats of learning as the background. For even in a great university city it is wise and salutary to let the people free to enjoy the lighter things of life for a brief time. So the fair spreads its magic and glamour along the Broad and the Corn Market of ancient Oxford. The clown and the cheap jack (or their modern counterparts) display their talents or shout their wares. "And all the people go out to play." It is well that it is so. Oxford has the best that showland can give every year at St. Giles' Fair. Cinematograph shows by Wm. Taylor, Alf. Ball, and others; roundabouts and machine novelties by Thurston and Sons, Wilson, Buckland, Bird, Collins, and others; side shows in great variety, swings, bazaars, and games of all kinds; crowds of all classes, from the College Don to the College Scout, all are there—all do their share to make up that unique survival of ancient fitness, St. Giles' Fair at Oxford.

The Guild Chaplain at Ayr Fair.

THE Scotch showpeople hope to repeat the great success of the past three years at Ayr Fair. For the benefit of the Parliamentary Defence Work funds of the Guild the entire proceeds of the opening night of the fair are given. Over £50 were realised by this means last year. The Rev. T. Horne, Guild Chaplain, will address a mass meeting of the showpeople at Ayr on Sunday afternoon next, Sept. 11, at 3.30 p.m., in Green's show on the fairground. In the evening at 8.15 the Chaplain will conduct the usual Guild service, assisted by, as on former occasions, the local clergy.

Ayr Fair, 1910.

THE splendid open parkland and recreation grounds at Newton, Ayr, enables that celebrated expert showman, George Green, to set out a fair with both distinction and satisfaction. It was a pleasure to us to see the Great Fun City in the making at Newton Park, the orderly procession of huge traction engines convoying trains of caravans, carriages, and trucks, all loaded with the building plant, each train load moving to its appointed place. Then the magic celerity with which the builders set to work, till like a fairy transformation scene a vast square of shows, roundabouts, variety circles, throwing games, tents, and stalls sprang, like the prophet's gourd, into wondrous shape and being. It was a triumph of management that waved its magic wand. It was George Green as the Aladdin with the magic lamp. It was forethought and skill and power of expert organisation, a dozen traction engines, scores of draught horses, hundreds of willing men, all knowing what to do, and how to do it, and the vast quadrangle of the park became a city of joyous pleasure, a vision of light. From 200 and more powerful arc lamps, fed by ten electric light installations. That is the building of a modern fair; that is what we saw as we watched it rise into being at Newton Park, Ayr.

The Machine Novelties at the Fair.

THE veteran leader of Scotch showland, Mr. John Wilmot, had two high-class machines on exhibition—the racing motor-cars and the four-abreast galloping horses. Mr. George Green contributed two big sets—the motor-cars and the galloping horses. The cake walk was another novel feature by Mr. Green. Steam yachts were provided by Mrs. Baker and Sons and Howard and Sons; juvenile sets and gem horses were by Messrs. John Wilmot, jun., Talbot, Smith, and Baker; Mr. Joe Caddick, with photo saloon; and Mr. J. Caddick, jun., with novel throwing games, were located near the main entrance.

The Shows. Great and Small, at the Fair.

CHIPPERFIELD'S Franco-British menagerie, Paulo's circus, Biddall's optotechiscope, Manders' cinematograph, Green's gigantic picture palace, and the No. 2 show, the haunted castle, Testo's aeroplane, the golden staircase, Buckley's midget menagerie, T. Wortley's model of a coal mine at work, and the No. 2 show, the fine art gallery, Testo's giant horse exhibition, and Chapman's trained hares and birds, all these were set out on the two principal sides of the vast square. A galaxy of shows difficult to equal.

Shooters, Houp-las, Throwing Games.

SHOOTERS by Messrs. Rostron, Sheeran, Lawrence, Wright, and others; houp-la circles by Messrs. Baker, Sheeran, Carrick, McIndoe, Mrs. Smith, and Mrs. Cunningham. Throwing games, novelty frames, dolly stalls, cokers, refreshment tents, bazaars, pannum stalls, &c., by Messrs. Blockley, Irvin and Son, Bradley, Ross, Merrick, Cooper, Johnson, Day, Anderson, Kelly, Carrick, Graham, Smith, Dawson, Carter, Stevenson, Newey, Talbot, Lawrence, Swallow, and many others.

White City, Old Trafford.

THE return of the summer weather has brought crowds to this beautiful park, where the plants and flowers are in excellent condition. The Scenic Railway, water chute, and the many other outdoor amusements are being used to the utmost of their capacity. Meanwhile, the band of the 18th Hussars (Prince of Wales' Own) play during the afternoons and evenings. The 20th Annual Lifeboat Saturday demonstration is announced to be held here to-day (10th inst).

Gorton Fair.

GORTON this year has been more fortunate than the last few fairs held during August as regards the weather, which will be welcomed by one and all, and with hopes that it will continue. The wakes were under the direction and control of Mr. J. Collins, who had with him his motor-car track, airship, electric horses, and twin yachts. T. Hurst's electric farmyard and Helm's cycle track, along with Mrs. Hibbert's hobby-horses, completed the machine list. This year we were favoured with a visit, after a long absence, of Crighton's electric palace, whose elaborate, massive, and magnificent organ was surrounded by admiring crowds, and the show, both in and out, is without equal, and has left a good impression behind it, and will always be welcome and looked forward to in the future. Clarke's electric bioscope, the Lancashire favourite show, occupied its usual place, and was always showing the best pictures. Proctor's circus got some nice houses, and the national boxing academy completed the shows. Juvenile machines was catered for by Messrs. Fords, Thwaites, Mercer, and others, rifle ranges by Fletcher's, hoop-las and other games were supplied by Messrs. Wood, White, Calver, Mercer, Mulcaster, and others too numerous to mention. Gingerbread and nut stalls were catered for by Robert Dixion. Business was good, and the majority assembled here will be at Pendlebury, Manchester, this week-end.

Is Haslemere Fair to be Saved?

OUR London and Southern Counties showmen have only a fortnight wherein to get to work to save Haslemere Fair. We gave them full warning last week, and sounded an earlier alarm a fortnight ago. Who is going to stand in the breach and save Haslemere Fair? Please send in full particulars to the Guild secretary at The Era offices, and steps will be taken at once.

The Shops' Hours Bill and Auction Vans.

HERE, too, is a matter that demands immediate action. The warning we gave last week demands work at once if the interests of a large body of people are to be adequately protected. What are the travelling auctioneer and the allied trades and industries going to do in the matter? The Bill will go through Parliament because it has behind it all the force of the Home Office and the strong personality of a great Home Secretary. The travelling auctioneer is no sweater of labour. He does not keep open his shop for long hours. The cheapjack and his merry men work, as a rule, less than half the number of hours in any given week than the best employers exact from their assistants. Why should he be penalised for the sake of the sweater? The matter is serious, and that it is urgent we know and recognise. The Home Secretary must be approached, and safeguards for the auctioneering business must first be submitted to him.

IT may well be that with this Bill, as it was with the Cinematograph Act as first drafted, no provision was made to safeguard interests of great importance, because the Department of State dealing with the question had no means of knowing until it was told how serious the measure was to people of whose existence (much less their importance) the departmental draughtsmen were unaware. In all matters of this kind there is only one safe rule—make your case known, and it is certain you will get justice done.

An Old Showman's Fatal Slip.

AN inquest was held at Cardiff on Monday touching the death of John White, aged seventy-six, a showman, who for the past ten years had lodged with Mr. George Collins, of Tin-street. The latter said that deceased had suffered from rheumatism. On Aug. 13 he slipped in the passage, and was laid up. Death occurred on Saturday. His son, also a showman, travelled about the country and assisted his father. At present he was at Swansea. According to medical evidence, death was due to heart failure, accelerated by the fall. Verdict accordingly.

"The Band-box Clown."

MR. ALFRED NORTON, the long-time manager of Ginnett's Circus, regretfully informs us that George Benham, the well-known circus clown, is in Westminster Hospital, after undergoing a serious operation. Benham's many friends, in and out of the circus profession, will be glad to know that the operation has been perfectly successful, and that he is progressing satisfactorily. We heartily wish him speedy recovery. He was popularly known as "the band-box clown," because of his extra good "make-up" and spick-and-span appearance. In his time he has served nearly every circus of any note, as the following correct list shows, viz.:—McCullum, Bourne, Talliott, Myers, Powell, Foottitt and Clarke, Chas. Adams, Tudor, Keith, Swallow, Boswell, Hengler, Ginnett, Cooke and Sanger. We feel sure that any of the above, who are still left amongst us, will wish their old clown a quick convalescence.

Doncaster St. Leger Fair.

THE great fairground at Doncaster for the Race Week was, as usual, chiefly supplied by the local caterer, Councillor G. T. Tuby, who exhibited his colossal Temple of Light and varieties, the superb set of Gordon-Bennett racing motor-cars, the four-abreast galloping horses, and the mountain ponies. The novel mechanical feature of the fair was Farrar and Tyler's scenic railway, which attracted great crowds of patrons. The other machines were Richards' Brooklyn cake-walk and Doubtfire's rollicking pigs; shooting saloons and tubes by Fisher, Pullen, Leven, and Brannan; and houp-la circles and throwing games by Doubtfire Bros., Appleton, Lever, Lewis, Norman, Williams, Lazarus, Vint, Campfield, Dunkerley, Shaw, Fairplay, and other amusement providers.

Guild Subscriptions, 1910.

JOHN GREEN, £1 1s.; A. Crighton, 10s.; J. Day, 5s.; J. Matthews, 5s.; Thomas Bugg, 5s.; H. Castle, 5s.; and James Prestney, 5s.

Showman's "Letter Box."

LETTERS await the following at The Era offices:—Messrs. Anderton and Rowland, Biddall Brothers, Frank Bostock, H. Fossett, and Purchase Brothers.

Sad Fatality to a Young Showman.

A YOUNG man named Robert Purse, aged twenty-three, employed by Mr. S. White, was killed near Skewen on Thursday. Deceased was proceeding with a van towards Gowerton, and when descending the hill at Skewen jumped off the traction engine to scotch the wheel, when unfortunately the poor fellow stumbled under the wheel of the second waggon, and was instantly killed. Mr. White, with his characteristic promptitude and sympathy, journeyed from Ely, Cambridgeshire, and made all the necessary arrangements for the funeral at his own expense, although the young man had only been in his employ for thirteen days. He was a clever pianist. The funeral took place on Sunday at Skewen Church, when a beautiful service was rendered by the district Chaplain of the Guild, the Rev. T. C. Philips, assisted by the curate, the Rev. D. Lewis. The vicar and choristers met the sad cortège at the church doors, when a choral service was given. Among the chief mourners was Mrs. Purse (mother), Miss Purse, and Mr. Purse, jun., Mr. S. White, Mr. Chas. White, and staff, Mr. Hutchins (Era), Mr. Ben Cripps, Mr. David Butler, and several local residents. Some beautiful floral tributes were sent by Messrs. White and staff and Mr. Emerson and family.

South Wales Notes.

NEATH great fair opened in delightful weather, and attracted good crowds. The various concerns were as follow:—Bioscopes: Dooner, Wadbrooke, Haggar, and Crocraft. Machines: H. Studt, motors and zoological; E. Danter, gondolas; Ford's rizzle-razzle; T. Butlin, juvenile; A. Mathews, juvenile; J. Jones, juvenile; and White's tunnel and porkers. Cokernuts: J. North, Odley, J. Day, Mathews, Winsper, Holmes, Kinder, and White. Exhibitions: Birch, Wm. Davies, and Howard. Swings: Roberts, Odley, North, Winsper, Danter, Butlin, W. Kinder, and White. Shooters: J. North, Fossett, Roberts, and Mathews. Photographic: Fossett. Hoop-las: North, T. Butlin, J. Day, E. Danter, Winsper, Odley, Haggar, Dooner, Roberts, White, Holmes, Fletcher and Joe Danter. Aerial flights: S. White. Big boats: Roberts and Mathews. Palmistry: Carr Bros. Tatooist: Prof. Thomas.

ABERAVON FAIR was not so popular this year as usual, no doubt due to the depression of trade locally. Among the attractions, which were not so numerous as usual, was Messrs. Hy. Studt and Son's magnificent motor-cars and geological set, Messrs. R. Dooner and Son's bioscope exhibition, with some of the best animated photography; Messrs. Haggar was equally up to date; Davies's colliery exhibition was popular, also Birch's promenade of amusements. Phrenology was represented by the Bros. Carr, and tatooing by Prof. Thomas. Several old friends were in their usual places—popular John North, Thomas Butlin, James Day, Mathews, Odley, Symonds, Kinder, Winsper, J. Jones, with juvenile sets, hoop-la, shooters, Mollie's rings, photos, strikers, &c. Jim Sullivan's boxing saloon had attractive exhibitions during the fair.

GOWERTON FAIR was held in delightful weather, when Mr. S. White, of Bioscope fame, gave a good programme of pictures. He also had tower chute, porker's, swings, aerial flights, shooters, &c. Crowds visited the fair during the days, which also gladdened the hearts of flannel vendors, who report good business.

A COPY of "THE ERA" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

Copying, mimicry, and imitation are exceedingly sincere forms of flattery

BUT there is NONE like the original—NONE

REANO

The Modern "SVENGALI"

AND HIS

FAMOUS BAND.

The Finest Combination of Instrumentalists in the World.

Sole Conductor and Controller, T. HAYDEN REANO, who wishes to express many, many thanks to the very numerous friends who have so kindly sent letters of enquiry and good wishes during the past week, and to inform them that he is still rapidly improving in health, and hopes to be on the warpath again early next month.

"Bands"? will come and "Bands"?? will go,
But mine goes on for ever.

All communications to "THE ERA" OFFICE.

THE DOGS BARK, BUT THE CARAVAN PASSES.

THE NEW MOVEABLE DWELLINGS BILL.

In accordance with the resolution passed at the joint committee meetings of the Federated Trade Societies of Showmen, held at Oldham on Aug. 30, the president and council of the Showmen's Guild submit the following amendments to the new Bill. They will be fully considered at all the meetings of showpeople at the great autumn fairs, and also at the annual meetings of the various societies in January next.

The First Amendment.

The Bill, as it left the Select Committee and was duly reported to the House of Lords before the adjournment of Parliament, had the following title and preamble:—

"A Bill (as amended by the Select Committee) intituled an Act to provide for the regulation of Moveable Dwellings.

"Be it enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—"

The Guild would thus amend and extend it:—"An Act to provide for the regulation of (insanitary) moveable dwellings, and for County Council camping-grounds for gipsies and other campers and squatters on common and waste lands."

Whereas, a Select Committee of the House of Lords having reported that with regard to gipsies and squatters on commons and waste lands "real public grievances" (dangerous to public health) "arise, and that a case for further legislation regulating moveable dwellings" (used by this class), "has been made out." Further, the Committee having reported with reference to other users of moveable dwellings: "As regards the showman class no legislation appears to be required," and that "no grievances arise against them":

"Be it enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

Amendment to Clause 1.

"1. Where it appears to any county council that the presence of moveable dwellings on any specified place or places within the county would be dangerous to the public health, the council may by bye-law prohibit any moveable dwelling from being on such specified place or places."

To add the following words:—"All such proposed bye-laws to be duly notified in the London Gazette before confirmation by the Secretary of State."

Amendment to Clause 7.

As this clause now stands it reads as follows:—"7. Nothing in this Act shall apply to any moveable dwelling used by any portion of his Majesty's naval or military forces, or to any encampment which may be certified as under proper supervision by the territorial force association of a county."

The Guild executive council propose to add the following:—"Nor to the assembling for the purposes of their trade and business of moveable dwellings used by showpeople on any places or places for the holding of a Fair, Feast, Wake, Fête, Holiday Festival, or Carnival."

The Importance of Clear Definitions.

In the report of the Select Committee, commenting on the case for the travelling showman as against the original bill, it is said that "Apart from a small number of persons who use moveable dwellings as a pastime, van-dwellers are divided into two classes—the showman class and the gipsy class. As regards the showman class no legislation appears to be required. Mr. Horne, the Chaplain of their Guild, told the Committee that there were some 4,000 showmen's vans travelling the country, and carrying a population of something like 12,000 souls. The trade is perfectly honest and respectable and its members are well-to-do, and in some cases even thriving. No grievances arise against them, and it was represented to us that not only is no legislation necessary, but that existing legal restrictions occasionally involve a grievance upon their side. In certain cases it is said local bodies avail themselves of these restrictions, not with a view to prevent breaches of the law, but in order within the area of their jurisdiction altogether to put an end to the Fairs where the showmen gain their living. Any further powers to make regulations, it is contended, would intensify this grievance. Without pronouncing as to whether there may not be a reasonable answer to these allegations, the Committee are certainly of opinion that so far as the showmen are concerned no legislation on the lines of this Bill is called for."

The italics are our own, and used to point out the justice of the showmen's demand for clear definition in legislation giving local authorities further powers to deal with van dwellers. The Showmen's Guild came into existence for the very purpose of defending showpeople and their avocation in life from the mistaken energies of fanatics, faddists, and local busybodies (in office or out), anxious and ready to persecute showpeople and to deprive the common people of innocent and popular amusement. The record of the Guild's work is the continual story of struggle in the work of trade defence and the vindication of the showman's character. Prior to 1893, when the Guild first gave its serious attention to local bye-laws penalising the show business, and later on in 1898, when the Parliamentary work began, Corporations led by the fanatic and the puritanical zealot did seek powers to kill the people's Fairs, Feasts, and Wakes. Since the Guild, taught by sad experience, has set to work to oppose all such mistaken legislation, a great change has come over the country at large and Parliament in particular with regard to the showman's claim for full citizenship. He is no longer regarded as a fit subject for repressive class legislation.

The reason why is not far to seek. The showman, through his trade society, has met his enemies fairly and squarely in the open, in Parliament and in public debate, and has proved his manhood and his rightful claim for equal treatment with all other classes of workers and traders in the country, under the same laws and the same moral safeguards and sanctions as all the other subjects of the Crown.

Hence the paramount importance of clear definition in any legislation touching showman van dwellers. Having obtained a full and generous verdict from Parliament in their favour, a full acquittal of every charge brought against show life, from so high and august a judicial as the Select Committee of the House of Lords, it is extremely important that care be taken to secure in all future legislation touching vandwellers, that the advantages obtained be kept in their full power and integrity.

For example, the Bill, even with the Select Committee's own amendments, is still capable of being used in certain places where prejudice is rampant as an excuse to penalise showpeople and to abuse fairs. Clause 5 of the old Bill, modified and split up as it is in Clauses 1 and 2 of the new bill, still remains in a form that it might become, in the hands of an enemy of the showman and of the people's fair, an instrument of oppression and suppression. The Guild Executive Council will not leave anything to chance, but will insist upon clear definitions. If the showpeople as a class are honest traders and create no grievances, then it is only just and right that the Moveable Dwellings Bill should clearly set out in its scope and force that it does not touch them.

We said at the very commencement of the fight against the various bills brought before Parliament by zealous reformers anxious to deal with gipsy life, if you do not attach showpeople using movable dwellings, say so, and embody it in your Bill and we will be satisfied.

All our work, all our trouble and agitation arose from the fact that they would not do so. For an admittedly limited area, when grievances do arise, the original promoters sought powers to cover the whole country with repressive machinery that might be used against all classes of vandwellers without distinction or discrimination. The result was seen in the triumphant vindication of the showmen's case against the Bill and the various amendments—amounting to the recasting of the original measure—by the Select Committee, to whose wise and judicial consideration the original Bill was referred.

We are confident that Parliament will take care that amendments on the sure and clear lines of those set out by the President and Council of the Showmen's Guild shall be inserted in the Bill before it passes into law.

White City, Old Trafford.

To-day (Saturday), the twentieth Annual Lifeboat Saturday demonstration will take place at Manchester, and for the fourth successive year Mr. John Calvin Brown, proprietor of the White City, places that popular resort at the disposal of the committees in charge of this national charity movement, and donates to the worthy cause a large share of the receipts of the day, which each year considerably augments the takings of the fund. Last year Manchester, Salford, and district sent in £22,000 to this fund, and from the preparations being made for the coming demonstration to-day the committees confidently look for even better results from their efforts than in any previous year. A number of special features are to be added, and a parade made through the principal streets that will be as attractive and as novel as any parade ever held in the North, where parades have been brought to a scientific perfection.

On Saturday, Oct. 1, a great memorial parade of Salford people in memory of the late King Edward will be made, and will end in the White City. For this occasion also a number of special features have volunteered, and the receipts are to go to a memorial fund being created by Salford. Councilman Jackson is chairman of the general committee, and in his experienced hands a great success is looked for. This will be the last day of the season for the summer of 1910, and, as usual, large crowds are naturally to be expected, and these should be materially increased by the memorial parade and exercises at the grounds. After Oct. 1 the summer amusements at the White City will be closed down, and will not be opened till May 1 next, at which time a number of new attractions will be added to those that have made this the popular resort of Manchester.

Showmen's Guild at Holbeck Feast.

The vicar and clergy of Holbeck Parish Church will conduct a service for the showpeople and their many friends at the feast. It will be at 8 p.m. on Sunday, and in Wm. Murphy's show pavilion.

The large St. Giles annual pleasure fair was held at Oxford on Monday and Tuesday last in the broad boulevard of St. Giles-street. The attendance, swelled by excursions from London and all parts, was, as usual, enormous, and the shows, favoured by the fine weather, did splendid business. As in former years, Taylor's, Jacob Studt's, Thurston's, and Ball's shows were all of a first-class kind, and well merited the patronage bestowed. There were the usual galloping horses, motor-car roundabouts, &c., and altogether the fair was a big success.

We have to record the death on Wednesday of Mr. George Parker, for over thirty years fireman at various London music halls. He was for twenty years fireman at the London Pavilion, commencing his service at the old house under the proprietorship of the late Mr. Loibel, afterwards serving under the late Mr. R. E. Villiers, and still later under the late Mr. Edward Swanborough. He was employed in the same capacity for five years at the Granville, Walham Green, under Mr. Alf Barclay and others; and was also at the Palace, Walthamstow, for five years. He was doorkeeper at the Luna Park (late Kursaal), Southend, for the past two seasons, and it was while on duty at the last-mentioned place that he was taken with a fit, which was ultimately the cause of his death. The widow is left entirely without means, club benefits, or insurance benefits of any description, and the son, Mr. William Geo. Parker, writes in hope that some of our readers will render assistance. It is a great pity that the late Mr. Parker did not join the Stage Operatives' Benevolent Fund.

"Humorous and Tragic Stories of Showman Life." Told by the Rev. Thomas Horne. Price 6d., post free 7½d. Address, The Publisher, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

FILM GOSSIP.

Bath Horse Show.

So up-to-date are the management of the Bath Electric Theatre that they arranged with the Bath Horse Show Committee to have an operator at the show and exhibit films on the screen during the week, so that the public had the advantage of seeing themselves as others see them, while others enjoyed the experience of viewing the horses and the fashionable assembly that always attend this the premier equine show of the West.

Shooting at Pictures of Moving Enemy.

In the basement of the Royal Warwickshires' drill hall at Birmingham, says the Evening News, stands a remarkable target, the invention of Mr. B. W. Bates, a South African war veteran. Based upon the cinematograph principle, the object of the invention is to provide snap-shooting practice at objects which move more naturally than do those which are governed by the mechanical and electrical appliances at present used at the great rifle ranges. The principle of the invention is extremely simple. A cinematograph apparatus throws a picture of an infantry charge in open formation upon a screen, which consists of two rolls of heavy paper, one placed less than half an inch in front of the other. Immediately a shot is fired a red light appears on the screen indicating the spot where the bullet has perforated the paper. Instantaneously with the report of the shot the picture is fixed, and a glance is sufficient to determine whether or not the marksman has succeeded in wounding or killing one of the onrushing foemen. The touch of a button and the rear paper roll moves across half an inch, the front one remaining stationary. In this way the perforation caused by the shot is concealed from the marksmen. The same action restarts the cinematograph, and once again the soldiers are charging down upon the marksmen.

Kensington Picture Theatre.

Last week's programme at this popular and luxurious picture palace included the following entertaining films:—Tontolini the Toreador (Cineo), Bob's Escapade (Gaumont), Excursion through Brittany (Urban), Water on Every Floor (Gaumont), Daughter of the Mine (Walturdaw), Betty's Removal (Pathé), and The Forest Ranger (Essanay).

New Picture Theatre at Guildford.

The new Picture Theatre, at the junction of Richmond-road and Cromwell-road, from which hundreds of people had perforce to be refused admission last week, continues to attract crowded houses. Another splendid series of pictures is being shown, including the comedy, The Portrait, one of the most brilliant productions in animatography; A Visit to an American-Indian Village, which is not only full of interest, but possesses an educational value; and others of a humorous and dramatic character. The animatophone is also a great attraction.

History in Films.

The Daily Express is now in possession of a film of the Funeral Procession of King Edward VII., which will be sold for the benefit of the Fresh Air Fund. It is the gift of Mr. F. R. Griffiths, the managing-director of the New Bioscope Trading Company, of Cecil-court, Charing Cross-road. The film, which is 1,250ft. long, has been specially treated, and will last for thirty-five years. At the end of that time it could be treated again, and rendered imperishable for another long period. It was suggested in the Express some time ago that films of historical events should be acquired for the education of a future generation. The present is an excellent opportunity for the formation of such a collection, for a better nucleus could not be found than a film which shows so unmistakably a nation's grief.

New Coloured Film.

A private demonstration was recently given of a new coloured film done by the Anthesian process. The chief feature of the film is its beautiful effects, which make the colours as near Nature as possible. The cost will compare favourably with that of other coloured films now in use, and arrangements will be made for colouring all or any makers' films which can be done expeditiously.

More British Films Wanted.

A company is being formed to exploit this colouring process, as well as to produce original subjects of a distinctly British type. The public is asking for more British and less foreign films. It is expected that in a few weeks' time everything will be ready for putting these films on the market.

Pictures at Limerick Roller Rink.

The animated picture exhibition in connection with the Limerick Roller Skating Rink proved a veritable attraction again this week. The Pathé films were very instructive and humorous, whilst the gazette of current events was most interesting. Mme. O'Connor introduced new musical numbers for Fra Diavolo, Beautiful Poetry, and the Greek subject Clytemnestra, and for variety, Mr. Potts, the skilful operator, put on Foolshead Distracted, Hypnotic Suggestions, and the Quizzed Lover, which won marked applause. The vaudeville turns were supplied by that clever humorist, Mr. Fred A. Jeffs, who proved universally attractive. The director, Mr. Edward Kidd, and his courteous staff, can well be congratulated for supplying two hours' fun without one particle of vulgarity.

Reopening of a Picture Hall at Stalybridge.

Messrs. A. and H. Andrews have spared no expense in the beautifying of their Stalybridge hall, which has ben fitted throughout with plush tip-up chairs. All round the screen has been fixed some pretty brown velveteen, which hangs in heavy folds. The stage has been enlarged to provide more room for the artists. Mr. Robson is the expert operator, and Mr. Llewellyn conducts the entertainments admirably.

Jury's Imperial Pictures at Canterbury.

Jury's Imperial Pictures commenced at the Theatre Royal, Canterbury, on Monday, and will run until further notice. Good up-to-date pictures are being shown, and the programme for the opening week includes such fine films as that of The Leper of Aosta, Native Life in Malacca, Cow and the Earthquake, The Duke's Plan, The Girl and the Fugitive, His Chum, Mountain's Inn, and Dotty Nob's Engagement. An appreciative audience is present nightly, and no clearer pictures have been shown on any screen than those now appearing at the Theatre Royal.

St. Margaret's Hall, Canterbury.

The St. Margaret's Hall Picture Palace, Canterbury, is always to the fore with good films admirably depicted. This week's programme compares favourably with any of its many predecessors. Among the attractions, and perhaps chief of a long and varied programme of dramatic and humorous films, is that of Fra Diavolo, a story of thrilling interest and dramatic intensity.

Edmonton King's Hall.

The programme provided at the King's Hall, Edmonton, is of exceptional quality, and includes The Cowpuncher's Ward, The Fruits of Vengeance, Cracker's Bride, Two Bears, Love and Goodfellowship, Pill's Playing Truant, and illustrated songs by Mr. Jack Roberts, who also acts as cicerone. The hall is crowded nightly.

World-Wide Pictures at Aldershot.

The excellence of the subjects shown at Messrs. Golder and Sloman's picture palace in Station-road, Aldershot, is still maintained. The management have been favoured with a large attendance of the Canadian Rifles during their stay at Aldershot, who have expressed their high appreciation of the fare provided. Appropriately an instructional picture showing life in Canada, has formed one of the chief items which, needless to say, has been watched with interest alike by our friends from across the herring pond and local patrons. A dramatic picture of an enthralling nature is that entitled Pluck of a Naval Officer, whilst the humorous side has a good exponent in The Funny Foolshead, a character which always provides fun. The management at this hall deserve the patronage they receive, for they invariably provide a good programme.

ALF. BALL SUBSCRIPTION FUND.

We shall be glad to receive all outstanding subscriptions to this truly deserving fund.

Per Mr. Henry Thurston.

H. Thurston, sen.	£10	10	0
Mrs. H. Thurston, sen.	1	1	0
Mr. J. Brown	0	5	0
Mr. Sattackelt	0	5	0
	£12	1	0

Per Mr. Titcomb, saddler, of Witney.

T. H. Titcomb	£0	2	6
T. S. Gibbons	0	2	6
F. M. Green	0	2	6
F. Middleton	0	2	6
J. Wilsdon	0	2	0
"A Friend"	0	2	0
T. M. Cook	0	2	0
W. J. Hobbs	0	2	0
Mr. Sharpe	0	2	0
B. L. Hieatt	0	2	0
W. G. E.	0	2	0
A. Titcomb	0	1	0
R. W.	0	1	0
W. J. Felton	0	1	0
H. Harris	0	1	0
H.	0	1	0
T. W. J. M. B.	0	1	0
J. P.	0	1	0
J. V.	0	1	0
H. C.	0	1	0
A. E. Horne	0	1	0
H. Dobretty	0	1	0
L. Oldham	0	0	6
J. S	0	0	6
	£1	16	0
Thos. Holden	1	1	0
Wm. Sweetingham	1	0	0
C. Simpson (Eggware)	0	5	0
Mrs. J. Pettigrove	0	5	0

Per H. A. Suggett, Tilbury.

Benefit Fund	8	1	8

Further subscriptions will be thankfully received and duly acknowledged. They should be addressed to Mr. F. H. Pedgrift, Hon. Treasurer, "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, W.C.

Roller Skating at Hamburg.

Plenty of excitement is being caused at the Velodrom, Hamburg, by Miss Adelaide D'Vorak, who nightly races any man on the rink over a distance of half a kilometre. The management offers a prize of 100 marks for the best time made against this famous American lady skater during her engagement. Earlier in the evening and each afternoon Miss D'Vorak shows her proficiency in another direction by presenting a wonderful display of trick and fancy skating. During the summer the fine floor has been re-surfaced, and the thousands who have availed themselves of it during the past week have declared it to be the "best ever." Three sessions daily are being held, and last season's prices have been revised. No free tickets are being issued, with the result that the undesirable class of skaters, which at one time last season threatened to destroy the tone of the establishment, has been entirely eliminated. Adjoining the rink a luxurious cinema theatre has been opened.

At the Croydon County Police Court, yesterday, twenty showmen were summoned under a bye-law for taking up positions on Mitcham Common before twelve o'clock noon the day previous to the opening of Mitcham Fair. There was a great competition for the pitches for the Fair, which is held from Aug. 12 to Aug. 14. The showmen begun to take up positions two days before the show opened. Among the defendants were thirteen members of the Showmen's Guild, who were represented by Mr. A. A. Strong. The plea for the defence was that when the showmen arrived at the Green they found their pitches which they had occupied in previous years taken by the gipsies. They bargained with the gipsies, in many cases paying large sums for the privilege of keeping the pitches which the gipsies had already taken. They infringed the bye-laws of the Conservators because they were afraid of the gipsies backing out of their bargains. Each defendant was fined £3 and costs.

RINKING GOSSIP.

Opening of Dartmouth Rink.

The Roseville Rink, Dartmouth, opened to record business on Sept. 1, the hall being packed to its fullest capacity. A grand display of fancy, trick, and speed skating was given by the floor manager, Mr. W. L. Mullinger, who has secured the post of skating instructor to this rink.

Novel Race at Darlington Rink.

A large crowd of skaters and spectators assembled at this popular rink on the night of the 31st ult. A special feature was a half-mile race entirely new to Darlington rinkers. The competitors skate half the distance, eat a banana, don female clothing, and complete the journey. After an amusing race, Mr. F. Bell was declared winner, and was presented with an umbrella by Mrs. F. Bloom. A tug-of-war took place afterwards, and much interest was evinced in it. The "married" team (Messrs. Richardson, Boyd, Walker, McLean, and R. Walton) defeated the "single" team (Messrs. W. Tose, W. Weldon, W. Thompson, C. Whitfield, and R. White). The evening was brought to a close by a confetti battle, in which skaters and spectators alike took part.

American Roller Rink, Cardiff, Reopened.

Many skating enthusiasts welcomed the reopening of the American Roller Rink, Westgate-street, Cardiff, on the 30th ult., when the popular resort was reopened for the autumn and winter season. Many of last season's enthusiasts were noticeable among those skating, but there were numerous beginners, which fact seems to indicate that the rink will be as well patronised as formerly. The interior of the building has been renovated, fresh decorations have been put up, and numerous improvements made, making the rink more attractive than ever. One of the improvements, which is likely to be very popular, is the enlargement of the café, which this season is to be under the same management as the rink, and which has been luxuriously furnished. Mr. Georgo Thomas is still acting as manager, and many of the old members of the staff are retained, Mr. J. Matthews again having control of the military band of twenty performers.

Rinking at Catford.

Catford Skating Rink reopened to the public for the autumn and winter season on Saturday. The building, which in the past has proved such a popular rendezvous, has undergone thorough renovation, and various improvements have been carried out. The proprietors have obtained the services, as manager, of Mr. E. E. Bance, who has the reputation of having handled some of the largest houses of entertainment in London and the surrounding districts, and who has relinquished his managerial position of a well-known and fashionable West London rink to come to Catford. A special feature he proposes to introduce is afternoon "at homes," and those ladies desirous of inviting their friends to tea at the rink will find this a very pleasant way of spending a merry afternoon on wheels.

Opening of Prince's Rink, Mansfield.

This rink will be opened for the winter season to-day. The inside of the building has been redecorated, and various improvements made. A military band will be in attendance each session, and during the winter amusements will be provided for patrons, in the form of carnivals, gymkhanas, and sports.

Waterford Roller Rink.

This magnificent rink, up to date in every detail, was opened to the public on Thursday. The management, realising the demands of the skating public, have overlooked nothing in the construction of the building for the comfort of the visitors. Situated at Adelphi Quay it is most central, and it is capable of accommodating a large number of skaters on the magnificent maple floor. Spacious promenades run around the skating surface, and at one end is a spacious tea café, where first-class refreshments are served. Mr. F. Cleesons' Rink Band plays each afternoon and evening. The rink is open for three sessions each day.

Maida Vale Open.

Maida Vale Roller Rink is open for the season. The chairman, Mr. Louis N. Schoenfield, an Indiana Hoosier, sure enough has one beautiful rink here in London. Splendid management and fine music should spell success for this pretty roller rink.

Beautiful Holland Park to Open Sept. 17.

The Holland Park Skating Rink will open for the season on Sept. 17. This beautiful rink has been recently redecorated. The skating surface, made like new, presents the appearance of one of the handsomest rinks in all England, where the élite of the British Empire congregate to enjoy the sport on the rollers. Mr. E. B. Barnes, operating-manger of the International Rink Operating Co., has appointed a corps of attendants and officials selected specially for this rink, who are the most experienced and expert in Rinkland. The music has been furnished by the ex-British Guards Band of London. A new equipment of the latest Winslow's model roller skates have been restored, and special attention will be given to the morning and afternoon sessions for the promotion of the art in its most advanced form.

Roller Skating at Hanover.

The Rollschuh Palast in Hildesheimerstrasse started its second season last week. During the summer the rink has been tastefully decorated and several structural improvements effected; also, the floor has been re-surfaced; and at all sessions, but particularly in the afternoon, it has been thronged with most representative gatherings of Hanover society. Spectators, as well as skaters, have been catered for by the new management by the engagement of the Great Monohan and Charlotte, who each afternoon and evening present really remarkable displays of the skating art. Little Charlotte, who is described as the "kleine rollschuhkönigen," presents a fairy-like figure as she glides gracefully through difficult figures, with her golden hair hanging loosely over her shoulders and her mass of chiffon skirts. The Great Monohan makes his chief effects with trick-skating, and proves himself worthy of his advertised appellation—"the Great." Books of twelve tickets are being sold for eight marks, and, with the new rules of half-price for skating with one's own skates, the present tariff should prove popular.

Edgar K. Smith's New Appointment.

Mr. Edgar K. Smith, who was manager of the American Skating Rink, Sheffield, from its opening until its destruction by fire, has been appointed general-manager of the Olympia Rink in that city, which re-opened for the season on Saturday last.

Reynolds and Donegan for Berlin.

The American skaters and dancers, Earle Reynolds and Nellie Donegan, will leave for Berlin the latter part of the month, to open at the Wintergarten for a two months engagement. The act was booked through the Sherek and Braff office.

AMUSEMENTS IN AUSTRALIA.

(from our own correspondent.)

SYDNEY, Aug. 2.—Miss Nellie Stewart played Trilby for the first time last Saturday night at Her Majesty's and scored a distinct success. In the first act Miss Stewart acted, spoke, and looked admirably. Enthusiasm grew as the play progressed, and calls were numerous, until at curtain-fall the enthusiasm was immense. Mr. Gaston Mervale is a very powerful Svengali. He made two departures from tradition in producing Paul Potter's play. He draws a curtain from up stage and discovers Trilby singing to her audience with Svengali conducting, and he makes Trilby sing "Ben Bolt" just before she dies. Mr. Harcourt Beatty is the Laird; his disguise is effective and his accent admirable. Mr. T. Eardley Turner plays Taffy very naturally. Mr. James Atholwood as Parson Bagot is very amusing. Mr. George Thorne, junior, as Gecko is pathetic; Zouzou has an excellent exponent in Mr. Gregar McMahon; the Mme. Vinard of Miss Rosslyn Vayne is very good; Miss Madeleine Meredith gives us a staid, precise Mrs. Bagot; and Mr. Norman Campbell as Colonel Kaw is a typical Yankee entrepreneur. The smaller parts utilised the services of Misses Edith Lewis and Gwen Burroughs and Messrs. A. J. Patrick, Stuart Clyde, and William Ladd. The firm of J. C. Williamson, now a limited liability company, mounted the play with all necessary care.

"The Brass Bottle" is booking well at Her Majesty's. The Arcadians at the Criterion, West's Pictures at the Palace, and Spencer's Theatrescope at the Lyceum, all do well.

The Tivoli has a new serio-comic in Miss Lily Thompson, a young Australian, whose work is admirable, and she herself most popular. Two clever patter comedians, Bovis and Zoli, take the fancy of Mr. Harry Rickards' constituents. Charlene and Charlene; Sam Le Mert, a famous whistler; Kate Vesey, a graceful dancer and sweet singer; Fanny Powers, a clever mimic; and the Australian Dartos and Littlest Tich are also in the bill.

Mlle. Dolores is now touring Queensland with success. Mme. Calve, having failed to secure theatres for her proposed opera scenes with orchestra, Messrs. J. and N. Tait announce a series of return and farewell concerts at the Town Hall, with Gasparri and Pintel in the programme.

The Besses o' th' Barn Band is crowding the Town Hall here, under the Tait direction, managed by Mr. G. P. Barnes.

Mr. Walter Bentley is giving Robert Burns and Shakespeare lectures here.

"The Law of Musical Copyright." By Albert A. Strong, LL.B., Lond. Price 1s., post free 1s. 1d. Address: The Publisher, "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

PALACE, BRISTOL, STAFF OUTING.

In glorious weather some fifty odd of the Palace staff and friends journeyed on Sunday last by motor charabancs to Cheddar and Burnham. A start was made about ten, and after a short halt at Brockley Coombe, Cheddar was reached at 12.40. Making the Cliff Hotel their headquarters, the party spent the time before dinner in football and in admiring the grounds and magnificent waterfall which descends from the cliff and flows through the grounds. Dinner was served at 1.30, and the excellent repast of four courses provided by Host Franklin was done hearty justice to.

After the loyal toast, proposed by Mr. Welchman, had been drunk, Mr. Finch-Hatton, the manager, addressed the staff, thanking them for their co-operation since he had taken up his duties, and asking for loyal individual efforts in the future. He proposed the health of Mr. Moul, the managing-director, coupled with the success of the Palace. A short musical programme followed.

The afternoon was spent in visiting the Gorge, Gough's Caves, Jacob's Ladder, and other spots of interest. High tea was served at 5 p.m., and afterwards a start was made for Burnham-on-Sea, which was reached at 7 p.m. An hour on the sands and promenade was thoroughly enjoyed, and Bristol was safely reached at 10 p.m., after one of the most enjoyable outings the staff have ever had. It was a matter of regret to all that Mr. Horace Livermore, so long connected with the Palace, was unable, through unforeseen circumstances, to be present.

REGENT, SALFORD, STAFF OUTING.

Brilliant weather favoured the Regent's, Salford, fifteenth annual outing on the 4th inst., the place selected being Chester. The party, numbering fifty, journeyed in special saloons from Cross-lane, Salford, at 8.45, arriving at Chester at ten. The party included Mr. Herbert Raymond, Mrs. Herbert Raymond (Miss Dorma Morgan), Mr. R. H. Lee (secretary), Mr. E. Shepherd (manager, Opera House), Mr. E. T. de Banzie (musical director), Mr. George Yarmouth (stage manager), and Mr. Jack Waters (Theatre Royal, Warrington) joined the party at this stage. Dinner was served at the Olde Pyed Bulle at 12 noon, after which the party drove in brakes around the Duke of Westminster's estate, returning to do ample justice to tea at 4.30, the remainder of the day being devoted to boating on the River Dee, returning to Salford from Chester at 8.35, arriving home at 9.45, after an enjoyable day.

Reading from left to right:—1st row: Mrs. Bedgood, Mrs. Creighton, Mrs. Green, Mrs. Kay, Mrs. Shepherd, Mr. E. Shepherd, Miss Taylor, Mr. Herbert Raymond, Mrs. Herbert Raymond, Mr. E. T. de Banzie, Mrs. Lord, Mrs. Hannon, Mrs. Yarmouth, Mr. Wardlesworth.

2nd row: Mr. Rutherford, Mr. Daniels, Mr. Bedgood, Mr. Kay, Mr. Kershaw, Miss Collins, Mrs. Wardlesworth, Mrs. Loughrey, Mrs. Frankell, Miss Hardcastle, Mr. Reay, Mr. Pedlar, Mr. Lord, Mr. Hannon, Master S. Green, Mr. J. Christian, Master Creighton, Mr. G. Walsh.

3rd row: Mr. Lee, Mr. Yarmouth, Mr. Johnson, Mr. Foster, Mr. Benn, Mr. Creighton, Mr. Snaith, Mr. Ryder, Mr. Hamilton, Mr. Cousins, Mr. Merton, Mr. Oliver, Mr. Elliott, Mr. Tom Sherlock, and Mr. Heywood.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

(Continued from page 12.)

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA. — EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. B. Pareezer; Resident-Manager, Mr. Julian Graham.—The first half of this week was devoted to Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's The Fires of Fate, which was presented by Glenister and Ingram, Ltd. A splendid character study of Colonel Egerton, D.S.O., by Mr. Lewis Fielder, was deservedly applauded; while Miss Aimee de Burgh also gained appreciation for a graceful and talented impersonation of Miss Sadie Adams; Miss Derbyshire as Miss Adams and Miss Dorothy Maude as Mrs. Belmont submitted excellent portrayals; the Brothers Roden were ably represented by Messrs. Gilbert Yorke and George F. Ide; Mr. Sam Wilkinson as Mr. Cecil Brown and Mr. H. Dolby as Mons. Octave Fardet were humorous; and Messrs. A. C. Holmes, J. M. Olivert, and Sidney Carlyle also gave commendable impersonations. Our Miss Gibbs commenced a three nights' engagement on Thursday.

THE HIPPODROME.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Lewis De Burgh.—A first-class programme includes Mr. Arthur Roberts in his mirth-provoking sketch, The Importance of Being Another Man's Wife; Chas. Sloman, a comic singer; Shirley Siggins and company, in a twilight serenade; Stewart and Morris, clog dancers; Doris Trevelyan, singer; The Hesseys, instrumentalists; Victor Newman, character actor; Marie Raikes and Partner, acrobats; Keen and Adams, American singers.

LUNA PARK AND PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. W. Hilton; Manager, Mr. T. W. Wright; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. Edwards.—The programme for this week, submitted twice daily, is a pronounced success; much bewilderment is shown in the sensational and mysterious cabinet performance by Miss Colley Ashton, the turn being loudly applauded; the Two Daimlers give bright comedy and eccentric dancing; while Morris and Marte also give a pleasing comedy act; the Swift Duo as comedy cyclists display talent; Harry Hunter, both as a vocalist and ice skate dancer, is entertaining; Jessica Brooke dances and sings with evident satisfaction; Freda Fern is a delightful comedienne; and Ryder Davis deputises as a vocalist. Dancing, Astley and Lorenzo's Circus, and the outdoor attractions continue to gain good patronage.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. E. Angless.—A popular feature of this week's programme is the performance of Dandy Dick's well-trained and clever dogs, while the pictorial entertainment is one of the best seen here under the direction of the London Cinematograph Company.

SOUTHPORT.—OPERA HOUSE AND WINTER GARDENS.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Percy Hutchison; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Clarkson.—The Compton Comedy Company met with a cordial reception from a good house on Monday, when David Garrick was presented. Mr. Edward Compton, who undertook the title-rôle for the 1635th time, was eminently successful with his polished and realistic impersonation of the well-known character; Miss Rita Sponti was a charming and piquant representative of Violet Gresham; Alderman Gresham was exceedingly well played by Mr. Henry Crocker; Mr. Frank Royde sustained the part of the Hon. Tom Tallyhaut with vigour and effect; Rumbelow had an amusing impersonator in Mr. Charles Stone; Miss Marie Hassell presented a diverting sketch of Mrs. Rumbelow; and Sowerberry, Simkins, and Selina were creditably enacted by Mr. J. W. Austin, Mr. C. Marquand, and Miss Agnes Williams respectively. As a curtain-raiser Tom Noddy's Secret was presented, in which Miss Nell Compton and Mr. Frank Royde were prominent. The répertoire for the week includes She Stoops to Conquer, A Reformed Rake, The School for Scandal, and Used Up.

SPENNYMOOR.—CAMBRIDGE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. David Collins.—Way Out West was presented here the first half of the week by Mr. Junius Booth's able company. The principal character was taken by Mr. Booth, who was very popular as Jack Hamlin; Mr. Millar Anderson acted capably as Jim Harkins; Mr. Harry Bannister was seen to advantage as Bet Masterton; Mr. John Sanger played well as Abner Byers; and Mr. J. F. Brandon made a realistic Chinaman; Miss Alice West gave a careful study of Helen Easterton; Miss Lilian Deane as Paquita was a success; and Miss Phyllis Keith as Arethusia Byers created much laughter. For the latter half of the week Monte Cristo is billed.

TOWN HALL.—Lessees, Messrs. A. J. Vasey and E. W. Dodshon; Manager, Mr. Alfred Burrows.—The Three Cymbelines head an attractive programme, and win success with their musical talent; Joe Henderson is a popular comedian; Carlos Blondell is a good juvenile violinist; and some fine films are projected.

ARCADIA.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred J. Gowland; Manager, Mr. Robert Fenny.—Another capital batch of pictures is on view here, and highly appreciated. The variety element is contributed by Earl and Melville, diverting comedians, and Nellie Nora, an interesting instrumentalist.

TIVOLI PICTURE PALACE.—Lessee, Mr. Arthur Sleep; Manager, Mr. George Battle.—Heading a strong programme here is the famous J. H. Millburn, who fairly brings down the house with his songs and patter; Weary Willie is well received; the Five Yorkshire Lasses create a great impression in their song scena. Pictures of note are A Child's Impulse, The Lost Trail, The Poacher, and House on the Hill.

ST. HELENS.—THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. McLeod Loader; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harry E. Johnson. — Mr. J. Rice Cassidy's company in The Beggar Princess occupies the boards here. With an easy manner and a humour which appears to be spontaneous, Mr. J. Rice Cassidy in his impersonation of the Hon. Algernon Fitzhugh is delightful; Mrs. J. Rice Cassidy in the part of Seaweed sustains her high reputation as an artist, and her representation of the Beggar Princess is exceedingly attractive; Miss Ada Roscoe acts with realistic power the part of Countess Olga; as Duke Sergius Rubinoff Mr. J. Dalberta portrays the villain in a manner which does him credit; and Mr. Alfred Boxhall adds dignity to the part of King Olga. Mr. Cowell Clarke is likewise good as Michael Ichon. The highly-trained goat, Billy Butts, causes much amusement. The play is excellently staged.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford, Sley, and Wilmot; Acting-Manager, Mr. Leo Weisker.—John S. Leick and Mabel Keith head a capital programme with an exhibition of their remarkable talent as cornetists; Hayes and Merritt, the bounding marvels, go through their wonderful act; Miss Hazel Glade, a beautiful figure in a beautiful dress, sings taking songs; the Martineks are very clever in The Rag Doll; and the Four Vagabonds receive enthusiastic encores. Stanley and Vandyke give a good turn; as also does Mark Leslie, coon artist and eccentric dancer.

STOCKPORT. — THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Revill. — A cordial greeting has been bestowed upon Mr. and Mrs. William Maclaren's company upon its return visit here in Proof. Mr. Francis Roberts acts with power and ability as Pierre Lorance; Mr. Thomas E. Marshall is amusing as Chemboran; Little Adrienne is pleasingly played by Miss Pauline Garside; and Miss Hero Hathaway most charmingly acts the part of Madeleine.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, The Stockport Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.—Crowded audiences have welcomed the reappearance here of Florrie Forde, whose latest successes have been greeted with gratifying applause; Fred Barnes is a talented light comedian; Leroux's cycling monkeys are entertaining; the Athol Trio of vocalists and dancers are very pleasing; Abel and Welsh are smart comedy acrobats; and among others who contribute satisfactorily to the entertainment are Victor and Louis, in their vocal comedy act; Charles Craston, quaint comedian; and Maggie Rimmer, vocalist.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES. — CASTLE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Chas. Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Cecil Imeson.—Alone in London is presented here this week by Mr. Charles Gibbons's company. Miss Nellie Clyde is excellent in the rôle of Nan; Miss Joan Harcourt and Miss Ethel F. Greene also are seen to advantage; and Mr. Chas. Gibbon, Mr. W. S. Stevenson, and Mr. J. W. Wilkinson play their respective parts with distinction.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry Burns; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. Stainton.—The popular Scotch comedian, Jack Lorimer, is proving a big success here this week; Charles Prelle's Bijou Circus is capital, including an original dog act; Clifton and Gibson are good comedians; Richard Wally is a clever juggler; Will Thomas is a funny comedian; Edna Deno is a favourite as a comedienne and dancer; and Stella Stahl is a daisty comedienne.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. John Batty; Manager, Mr. Walter Batty.—Mr. M. Montgomery's company presents the Grecian play, Ingomar, the Barbarian. Mr. Stanley S. Gordon is capital in the rôle of Ingomar, and deserves great praise; and Miss Nina Vaughton gave an excellent delineation of the rôle of Parthenia.

STOKE.—THE HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Will A. Jackson.—Mrs. E. Knight's company present The Lighthouse Robbery here. Baby Freeda is an accomplished little artist, and has a cordial reception. The scenery is good.

STOURBRIDGE.—ALHAMBRA THEATRE, PICTURE HALL, AND PALACE OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Douglas C. Phelps.—La Valti heads the bill with her company of charming girls, in enchanting dances, and does a very smart turn; George Reeves is a comedian who takes well, and is encored nightly; Matheson and Johnson have good sketch, called A Gentleman Thief, which goes well; Sisters Rosalind win their way to the hearts of the audience by their pretty duets; Beatrice Harrold's Six Charming Gipsy Girls, in a song scena, Carmencita, deserve special mention; Edward Mortimer is an amusing cartoonist of exceptional ability, whose wit delights his hearers; and Connie Duprez sings and dances nightly with great verve and "go." The Great Amonda's pantomime company, in The White Statue, winds up an exceptionally strong programme, which is interspersed with some very good electric pictures.

SUNDERLAND.—KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. S. F. Davidson; General-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Townrow.—Mr. Ernest Benham's company is appearing here in Old Heidelberg before crowded and appreciative houses. Mr. Owen Narr's portrayal of Prince Karl stamps him as an actor of exceptional ability; Miss Kitty Ricimer acts with piquancy as Kathie and is good in the emotional scenes; Mr. Ernest Bodkin gives a capital study of the fine character of Dr. Jutner; Mr. Percy Crawford is amusing as Ruder; Mr. Ian Ogilvie Will gives a quaint impersonation of Kellerman; Mr. Frank Powell is excellent as Von Haugh; and Mr. Sydney Hamilton does well as the pompous Lutz. The remaining rôles are all capably handled, and the vocal work is well done. The piece is suitably mounted.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Dunn.—Messrs. Alfred Paumier and Walter Howard's company is playing The Prince and the Beggar Maid before well-filled houses. In the rôle of Monica Miss Viola Holland gives a meritorious performance, and puts great feeling into her impersonation; Miss Violet May submits a sympathetic study of Camiola, "the Beggar Maid"; the brothers Prince Hildred, Prince Michael, and Prince Olaf have capable representatives in Messrs. Leonard Booker, Victor Rae, and Henry Hallat, all of whom act in an accomplished manner. Good work also comes from Messrs. N. Burton, Oswald Waller, and Chas. Coleman. The humour is in the capable hands of Miss Mona Hall (Viola) and Mr. Stafford Dickens (Lieut. Stromberg), who cause much amusement.

AVENUE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden. — The Nicholsons are proving very popular with their smart patter; Bergitte is a comedienne who receives much encouragement; and Harry Hoyde comedian, causes much amusement. The picture programme is equally good.

PALACE THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Archer Hamilton.—Maurin's Marvellous Fountains are displayed well and form a beautiful spectacle; Jules Kiaro does some clever equilibristic work which is keenly appreciated; and the Hargreaves Trio are extremely popular with their turn, which comprises music, vocalism, and dancing. The Fire Chief's Daughter is a fine dramatic and descriptive film.

EMPIRE THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Esden.—The Poluskis are heading the bill here and cause endless amusement with their cross-talk. Harry Weldon is as popular as ever with his screamingly absurd character of Stiffy and Dick Turpentine; Arden and Abel appear in Town Hall, To-night, with tremendous success; Will Johnson, comedian, is finding much favour; the Three Merrills give an exceedingly daring cycling display relieved with capital humour; Daisy and Dot, duettists and dancers, give a smart turn; Arthur Slater is a remarkably powerful whistler; and Daisy Martell is a pleasing comedienne.

TODMORDEN.—HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Richard Dewhirst.—Mr. Ernest R. Abbott's representative company is here. On Monday A Wife's Triumph was played. On Tuesday Trilby was presented to an appreciative audience. As Svengali, Mr. Ernest R. Abbott presented a powerful impersonation; Mr. John Lister was a typical Talbot Wynne; Mr. Edwin Keene infused a good deal of humour into the part of Alexander McAllister; Mr. Edward Ouston gave a good representation of Little Billee; Mr. Weedon Ross was effective as Gecko; and Mr. Stephen Crossley made a capital Rev. Thomas Bagot. Miss Ada Abbott was admirable in the title-rôle and Miss Ethel Tinsley and Miss Marjorie Tennant were good as Mrs. Bagot and Madame Vinard respectively. Sapho and The Man of Her Choice are also on the bill.

OLYMPIA PICTURE PALACE.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs. A. and H. Andrews; Manager, Mr. Chas. Tyers.—There are many up-to-date features in an enjoyable programme. Mr. Tyers continues popular in his song scenas.

TONYPANDY.—ROYAL.—General-Manager, Mr. Sam Duckworth.—A pleasing variation is afforded by the engagement of Mr. Charles Constant's company in Florodora. The setting is remarkably good, and the chorus is strong in all respects. Mr. Johnnie Schofield as Anthony Tweedlepunch is irresistibly funny; Frank Abercoed is capably undertaken by Mr. C. R. Dutton; Mr. Stanley White is excellent as Cyrus Gilfain; Mr. Jno. Junior does well as Captain Arthur Holyrood; Leandro is safely entrusted to Mr. J. Parker; Miss Daisy Lake is a capital Dolores—a remark equally applicable to Miss F. Hersee as Angela Gilfain. The Lady Holyrood of Miss K. Leicester is a highly-meritorious impersonation.

HIPPODROME.—Lessees, the Tonypandy Hippodrome Co.; General-Manager, Mr. D. Taylor.—The Five Jolly Bakers form a strong attraction; The Three Krakes cause hearty laughter; Jack Mackenzie scores heavily; and Harry Keeble is a clever ventriloquist; Clara Wells and Golden and Chance worthily get good receptions. Some interesting pictures are shown.

EMPIRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Jno. Young.—G. W. Hunter is an attractive "top of the bill"; R. Cardigan and Co., in a musical sketch, do well; and the Soho Trio are clever dancers; Little Zola pleases greatly; Susie and Protti present a highly acceptable item; Cissie Lupino is a neat speciality dancer; Burt, Ward, and Barney Murphy uphold their reputations. The Empiroscope concludes.

TORQUAY. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Licensee and Managing-Director, Alderman W. H. Mortimer; Secretary, Mr. Arthur Pearse.—Mr. George Dance's company in Our Miss Gibbs is here. In the title-rôle Miss Daisy Wallace presents a charming interpretation, her singing and dancing being excellent. Miss Louie Beckmann gives an artistic rendering of Mme. Jeanne, and Miss Florence Hylton is very acceptable as Mrs. Farquhar. Mr. J. Herbert Willis creates much amusement in the part of the Hon. Hughie Pierpont, and Mr. J. S. Durant is very successful as Slithers. A capital impersonation of Lord Eynsford is given by Mr. Douglas Phillips. Mr. Vincent Erne is quite in his element as Timothy Gibbs, and his clever antics are the source of much merriment. The chorus is a powerful one, and is under the bâton of Mr. Hubert Boggetti.

PRINCESS PIER CONCERT HALL.—Proprietors, the Torquay Town Council; Manager, Mr. A. T. Tremlett.—Mr. Charles Conyers' company, the Go-Bangs, are paying a return visit this week. Miss Edith Eatherley introduces some clever sketches at the piano, and Miss Kitty Conway is also very acceptable. Mr. Bryan O'Sullivan is a vocalist of ability, and Mr. Charles Resti and Miss Blanche Belsham also contribute some good numbers. Mr. Chas. Conyers is a humorist of versatility, and the concerted items are well rendered.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.—OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Welton Dale; Manager, Mr. Harry Ball.—Miss Hook of Holland is receiving a clever interpretation here at the hands of Mr. George Dance's company. Miss Dorothy Southgate is a most vivacious Miss Hook, and is very cordially received; Mr. Alfred Wellesley gives a humorous study of the wealthy distiller, and Mr. Mansell Stringer admirably portrays the Bandmaster; military characters are ably given by Mr. A. W. Mansey and Mr. Lacey Mills; and Mr. Harry Brayne is excellent as the loafer; Miss Maud Deny scores a success as Mina. The week and attraction is Miss Hutchison's company in Smith.

TYNEMOUTH. — PALACE.—Proprietors, the Palace, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Harold Arnold.—This popular resort of entertainment is still doing excellent business. A good programme is headed by the Lukushimas, Japanese entertainers, who score in their amusing and sensational turn; Marie Santoi and company are responsible for a capital scena. A Night in Japan; Jessie Broughton and Dennis Creedon are seen to advantage in their vocal and instrumental act; Haidee St. George, at the piano; Tom Gott, comedian; the Hudsons, comedy duo; Damerell and Rutland, comedians; and the pictures, conclude.

WAKEFIELD. — OPERA HOUSE. — Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.—Mr. Andrew Melville's company in Driven from Home is appearing here. Mr. Felix Pitt gives a powerful impersonation of Anthony Raybrook; Mr. P. George Beresford is eminently successful as Walter Hatherleigh; George Clissold is well played by Mr. Howard Thornby; Mr. J. B. Shinton does full justice to Geoffrey Waring; Mr. Harry Leyton gives a good character study as Willie, an outcast; and the comedy element is well depicted by Mr. Fred C. Nubert as John Anderson and Miss Susie Bevan as Margaret Bailey. Mr. Edward A. Finlay shines as Dick Saunders. Mrs. Ada M. Ryden in the dual rôles of Laura Raybrook and Walter Hatherleigh acts well; Miss A. Williams is capable as Mrs. McCarthy; and the part of Barbara Ashdown is effectively filled by Miss Emily Burnley.

NEW EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.—The Waldrons, in their amusing absurdity, The Silly Burglar, create much laughter; Gicardo, juggler, performs some clever feats; Miss Grace Lester and company, in a sketch, A Ruined Life, prove most acceptable; Watson and Naylor ,comedians, give an entertaining turn; the Seven Monckton Musical Miners, glee singers, make their first appearance, and merit hearty approbation; Mr. J. H. McCann, roller skate dancer, is a success; and Dollie and Rosie are smart acrobatic dancers.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—Some excellent pictures on the Bioscope are shown here. Variety turns are provided by Mr. Leoni Clarke and his wonderful combination of performing cats, mice, rats, and birds, and the Sisters Ely, vocalists.

WALLSEND-ON-TYNE.—BOROUGH THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Hugh Duffy.—The American Comedy Chanters hold the place of honour here, and score in their vocal comedy act, How D'yu-do?. Oakes Duo are seen to advantage in an amusing skit; Dix and Dox are musical grotesques of ability; Cringle and Trewhitt present The Call Boy with success; the Three Alskarnos, acrobats; Flo Burnett, vocalist; Les Atans, gymnasts; and Leotara Brothers, Continental clowns, also appear.

PREMIER PICTURE PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. T. F. McDonald.—Cade Burnett, descriptive vocalist, obtains a flattering reception. There is a good show of pictures.

TYNE PICTURE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. T. McHary.—The Two Zets, vocalists, are paying a successful visit. A Child's Faith and Bootles' Baby are the two chief films.

WARRINGTON.—ROYAL COURT.—Proprietor, Mr. Joseph Beecham; General-Manager, Mr. A. M. Loader.—Mr. Frank Bertram's company is here this week in the new Irish comedy drama, Happy-Go-Lucky O'Lyn, a detailed report of which appears in another column.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Eric Longden.—Ching Lung Soo is drawing crowded houses here, and his wonderful feats are looked upon with amazement; Nellie Farrell is a dainty singer of dainty songs; the Brothers St. Clair are smart trick cyclists; Edwin Garth has a rare fund of anecdote; the Lomas Duo score in the specialities The Birthday, Teddy Bear; Pat Lynch gives a fine exhibition of wooden-shoe dancing. The pictures are good.

ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Central Theatres and Franco-British Animated Picture Co.; Managing-Director, Mr. Wilberforce Turner; Manager, Mr. F. Waters.—Captain Ellis and his talented son top the bill here, and their singing and dancing and playing on the cornet and trombone meet with appreciation; Alice Maud gives a capital impersonation of a dandy and a naval cadet; Bertha Evelyn has a rich contralto voice. The pictures are good.

GRAND. — Proprietors, The Palatine Company; Manager, Mr. Smyley. The principal picture at this house, The Angel of Dawson's Claim, is much admired, as are the views showing The Royal Agricultural Show and On the Border Line.

WASHINGTON. — ALEXANDER THEATRE.—Secretary, Mr. Joe Turnbull.—Miss Hilda Beverley's company is the attraction here in A Woman of Two Lives. The dual rôle of Ogarita and Angela Fenton is skilfully played by Miss Hilda Beverley; Mr. Herbert Pearson (an old favourite) scores heavily as the Hon. Travers West; Miss Mary Brammer is excellent as Drampardie Lares; Mr. James Jarrett is successful as Garda Khan; Mr. Jack Armitage and Miss Louis Gilmore as Lieutenant Lord Billy Tremaine and Lady Arabella Mount Phayton respectively are commendable; Mr. Tom Slater is good as Archibald Briggs; Mr. Arthur Swaine gives a capital rendering of Colonel St. Aubrey Fenton; the humour of the piece is in the hands of Mr. E. Hall Eldon and Miss Dorothy Hildebrande, who keep the audience in good spirits. The scenery and dresses are much admired. The Ticket of Leave Man is also billed.

WATFORD.—PALACE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Lionel G. Holding.—This week's company includes Madge O'Neill, in some excellently rendered songs; Arthur F. Ward, who supplements his clever juggling with a good exhibition of dancing; and Nora Dene, the latter a charming vocalist; Maude Courtney and Mr. Courtney individually and dually provide refined and amusing business; Edie King, the Sisters Josie and Frances Jonghmann, and Adam Tomlinson complete the programme.

WELLINGBOROUGH.—KING'S PALACE.—The pictures here are good enough to satisfy anyone, and there is a heavy demand for seats. The Five M.P.'s are giving a most effective musical act; and Andy Mack is first-rate.

EMPIRE.—The Frohmans, with their dog, are very smart, and please everybody; Fred Tresco succeeds as an eccentric; and Winnie Barr is well worth seeing. Some striking films make up a very full programme.

WEST BROMWICH. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. R. Nightingale.—This week Mr. Montague Beaudyn is presenting Women and Wine. Miss Sidney Crowe as Marcel Rigadout submits an interesting study; Miss Margaret Noble as La Calombe is good; and Miss Irene Stanhope and Miss Emmie Gurney as Mary Andrews and Juliet Marlow do excellent work; as Dick Seymour Mr. Herbert Shandon has a part well suited to him; Mr. Gilbert Lonsdale as Hugh Seymour is also good; and the other parts are in capable hands.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. R. Colin; Resident-Manager, Mr. R. Colin, sen.; Secretary, Mr. W. Hebden. An excellent bill here is headed by Lillian Devon, Grace and Alleen, Gertrude Martin, Sisters Miller, Harry Bentley, Hugh and Hugh, and Dorians also provide capital turns.

WEST HARTLEPOOL — GRAND THEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. Seaward.—Mr. Arthur Shelton's company is this week giving Beauty and the Barge. Mr. Maitland Marier is a typical Captain James Barley; a success is scored by Mr. Fred Lake as Dibbs, the gardener; as the blustering Major Smedley Mr. Gerald is to be complimented. Other characters who have capable representations are Herbert Manners, by Mr. A. E. Jackson; Tom Codd by Mr. Herbert Russell; Augustus, by Mr. Frank Norman; and George Porter, by Mr. Frank Lilliput. Miss Hilda Vaughan is charming in the rôle of Ethel Smedley; Mrs. Smedley is effectively played by Miss Mabyn Fay; Lucy Dallas is well played by Miss Marie Clayton; and genuine comedy is served out by Mrs. Henry Renouf as Mrs. Baldwin and Miss Ethel Stalman as Mrs. Porter.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Resident-Manager, Mr. F. G. Thompson.—Charles Norton, in his mimetic monologue "Pros at the Races," introduces capital impersonations of some of the most popular music-hall stars; and an acrobatic cycling exhibition by the famed Cumberlands is well carried out. Lily Hayes is smart in what she does; at dancing Malsie Hibbs proves herself an expert; Happy Tom Parker is a popular humorist; in a farcical episode, A Man of Spirit, Daley Cooper and Mabel Lait are amusing; and smart dancing is done by the Brothers Herbert. Pictures are also screened.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE. — KNIGHTSTONE PAVILION AND OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. W. Payne.—Mr. Ernest E. Norris's company is paying a return visit here in The Education of Elizabeth. Mr. Ernest E. Norris is the life and soul of the piece as Reggie Hankey; Mr. Fred Castleman is artistic as Mr. Whitby; and Mr. Wilton Leonard is well cast as Harry Fairfax. Miss May Norris in the title-rôle proves herself an artist to the finger-tips; Miss Una Erle is successful as Lucy Middleton; and the Blanch Macintyre of Miss Emily Stevens is a very praiseworthy portrayal. Miss M. de Verne does good work as Lily Kerr, as does Mr. Cecil Wagner as Parsons.

GRAND PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. John H. Stevenson.—At the top of the bill this week is Arnold Richardson, a quaint and clever comedian, in "Ferdie's Ma-in-law"; Graham, the human marionette, is loudly applauded; the Jackley Trio is a good and comical turn; Miss Mollie Seymour excels as a vocalist and violinist; Metz and Metz are fine dancers; and Colin Carlisle is good as a light comedian. Mr. Lambert shows some excellent pictures on the Bioscope. Herr Fericescu and his band have returned for the remainder of the season.

WEST STANLEY. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Mark H. Linden.—Mr. Harry Foxwell's company is presenting Mother here this week. Mr. J. O. Stewart gives a capital representation of Duncan Fairweather; and as Frank Rodney Mr. A. J. Haviland does well; Mr. Leonard Harrison is a capable Stephen Carrington; and as Jasper Rawden Mr. Will Beasley is good; Mr. Roy Gordon as Old Crump and Mr. Pat Quin as Biggs are well placed; Miss Amy Wood is very capable as Martha; and as Vesta L'Estrange Miss Fannie Wellesley is satisfactory; Miss Emily Entwistle plays Little May with much feeling; and as Nellie Fairweather Miss N. Thorne Hallam is excellent; the comedy element is in the hands of Mr. Cecil H. Raymond as Tommy Nobletts and Miss Phillis Vaughan as Polly Crumpet.

VICTORIA THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. T. C. Rawes; Lessee, Mr. John Cottrell.—The artists appearing here this week are Miss Cissy Madcap (acrobatic and speciality dancer), the Primrose Quartette, and Royal Togo (Japanese equilibrist). La Savalle, The Mule Driver, and Tongue of Scandal are excellent pictures.

WEXFORD.—THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietor, Mr. E. P. Ronan.—Mr. Scott Alexander's variety combination is here this week, and gives an entertainment which is in every respect enjoyable. Fredda and Frank are agile acrobatic dancers and club-swingers; and Jean Kram is amusing in his novel interludes. The Merries prove popular in their songs and dances; and Will Warren's singing is much appreciated. The quips and antics of Sandy and Ramsay prove very entertaining; and the latest sporting novelty, "Whizzing the Whirl," is responsible for roars of laughter. Mr. Scott Alexander appears with success as the Emperor in a military episode, Napoleon at Waterloo; and Scottie's Operatic Ballet Troupe in The Cry of the Children gain much applause.

WEYMOUTH.—PAVILION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. R. Wallis.—Mr. T. C. Wray and Mr. Austin Hargon's company are appearing here in The Girls of Gottenberg. The part of Moddelkopf, played by Mr. Smith, is the essence of drollery; Miss Dora Langham is charming as Mitzi; Miss Melba Sharrott is amusing in her irresponsible gaiety as Katrina; and Miss Beryl Vaudrey gives an admirable rendering of Elsa; Miss Grace Desmond is successful as Clementine; and Mr. R. V. Cory is excellent as Prince Otto; while Mr. Jack Leyland, Mr. Eddie Foy, Mr. William Yaldwin, Mr. J. R. Timms, and Mr. Charles Squire render good service in their respective parts.

WHITBY.—SPA THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Payne Seddon.—The Gay Gordons, under the direction of Mr. Robt. MacDonald, had a good reception here on Wednesday. As Angus Graeme Mr. Frank Lincoln proved highly successful, and Mr. Harry Howe gave an artistic portrayal of Nervy Nat. As Edmund Siddons Mr. W. H. Desmond was capital; Mr. Chas. Benson capably portrayed Andrew Quainton, Mr. Stanley Maude giving an excellent representation of Corporal John Smith. In the rôle of Archibald Speedy Mr. Alfred Lloyd furnished a creditable performance. Miss May Yates merited the enthusiastic reception she obtained for her performance of Peggy Quainton, and Miss Marion Bradford as Lady Millicent was highly appreciated. Miss Mina Goss, Miss Mabel Crouch, and Miss Mavis Clare sustained their parts with success.

WHITEHAVEN.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Falconer Jackes.—Mr. Dudley Bennett and Mr. T. C. Wray's company is paying a return visit here in the popular Miss Hook of Holland. Mr. Chas. Simms repeats his amusing portrayal of Mr. Hook; and Mr. Edward Kipling is again the entertaining Slinks; Mr. Harry Winton is good as Schnapps; and Mr. Jack Gray is received well in his musical numbers as the bandmaster; Miss Carca Walker is pleasing as Sally; and Miss Marion Armitage excels as Mina.

WHITLEY BAY.—THE PLEASURE GARDENS, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Auguste A. Penlevé.—In the Theatre Royal an excellent company submits an attractive programme, which includes a smart sketch, entitled Barmaids, by Harry Lowther, Hulo Hodgson, Cissie Evelyn, Doris Dail, Chas. A. James, Dolly Gilroy, and Brighton; Slippere, the blind entertainer, is scoring equally as a mimc and as a trick pianist; Dalo and Leigh have a bright operatic episode, Sunny Spain; Donal McDougal, an amusing Scotch comedian; Else and Bob, equilibrists; Aggie Nolan, dainty comedienne and clog-dancer; Elsa Hulbert's dancing girls; and some particularly interesting films. In addition, the following members of the stock variety company—Dollie Hook, comedienne; Reuben Hill, actor-vocalist; Elsa Arnell, mimic and soubrette; Albert Hinton, comedian; and Harry Dunco, comedian—add considerably to a more than average entertainment. The various sideshows and other attractions continue to receive fair patronage.

THE COLISEUM.—General-Manager, Mr. William Smelt; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Patterson.—There is a good display of some of the latest Bioscope pictures, comprising dramatic, domestic, and comedy incidents, interspersed with varieties by Ryan and Hall, comedians and comedy wrestlers, and Young Ashcroft, comedian and dancer. On Wednesday the extra attraction of a wrestling match enhanced the proceedings.

EMPIRE.—Manager, Mr. T. J. Gregson.—The main draw here is an admirable show of moving pictures, that are being well received. Varieties form a welcome interlude, and are chiefly contributed by St. Ruth and Conyers, operatic duettists, whose efforts are duly appreciated.

BATHS PAVILION.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. L. Grice.—Pictures continue to go strong here, and diversity is furnished by Les Trippelos, in a musical mélange act that is thoroughly enjoyed.

BAND LINKS PAVILION.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Wm. Catlin.—This capable company of Pierrots provides a popular free venue ground for quite a concourse of the younger generation.

THE TOREADORS' ENCLOSURE (Promenade).—Manager, Mr. Charles Elderton.—The season stock company of variety artists under this control continue as popular as ever, the dramatic, vocal, and comedy element being evenly balanced, and highly appreciated.

WIDNES.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Managers and Lessees, Messrs. J. Gar Kiddie and Frank Bray.—Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers Mackey and star company are here with The Wearin' o' the Green. Mr. Mackey gives a realistic portrayal of Barney O'Hea, and is delighting large houses; Mrs. Mackey appears in the rôle of Norah M'Grath, and plays sweetly; Miss May Livesey makes a charming Biddy M'Ginn, and sings very sweetly; Mr. J. P. McBride is a true Irish gentleman as Shamus M'Dermott, and uses his well balanced voice to full advantage; Mr. Morley Carroll is an effectively villainous Michael Kenny; and the character of Sir George Courtenay is presented in a capable manner by Mr. Fred Charles; Mr. C. M. Julian is a good George Courtenay, and Miss J. Lyons is a motherly Mrs. M'Dermott.

CO-OPERATIVE HALL.—Managers and Lessees, Messrs. Hamilton and Hughes.—Mr. George Bernard, the well-known actor-vocalist, is an immense success here, especially in his portrayal of the military veteran; Messrs. Geo. Bennet and Tom Martell are refined humorists, and do credit to themselves in the sketch A Shipwrecked Sailor; The Sisters Emson are refined duettists; and Messrs. Will and Jack Walford are polite comedians. The pictures are good.

WIGAN.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Wigan Entertainments Co.—Mr. Allan Wilkie and company are appearing here in Shakespearean and other standard plays. On Monday evening The Merchant of Venice was presented. Mr. Allan Wilkie gives an impressive impersonation of Shylock; Mr. W. Henry Hargreaves is conspicuous as Bassanio; while Mr. Philip Gordon moves the audience to laughter as Lancelot Gobbo. Miss F. Hunter Watts gives a splendid portrayal of Portia; Miss Hilda Plowright is a dignified Jessica; and the part of Nerissa is in the capable hands of Miss Mary Dallas. Other plays staged include The Sleigh Bells, The Taming of the Shrew, Hamlet, The School for Scandal, and Virginius.

THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Co.—An original turn is provided by Signor Arvi, introducing Les Metables, who appear in Parisian poses and famous paintings, which are mysteriously produced; the Four Amaranths are clever acrobatic dancers; a welcome return visit is being paid by Stewart and Morgan, who are loudly applauded, in vocal selections; the songs of Sarah Rosebury, comedienne, are appreciated; the Unites, acrobatic comedians, and the Four Scoreys, in a musical mélange, deserve mention; Francis and Maxwell dance themselves into favour; and others who contribute are Conan and Doyle comedians and dancers; Chris. Van Bern; and Ivy Voyce, the popular contralto.

WISBECH.—PUBLIC HALL.—Manager, Mr. Goodley Fisher.—The Gem Picture Company is here, and has some good films. The turns include May St. Clair, an Irish vocalist; and Kid Love, vocalist and sand dancer.

WISHAW (N.B.).—PAVILION.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr. Fred Nimse.—The Edward Lauri and May

THE THEATRICAL ASPECT OF JAMAICA.

The British theatrical manager never, perhaps, thinks of Jamaica as a likely field for an extension of his activities; the "Land of Perpetual Summer" is so much out of the beaten track. And yet there are possibilities, if one is bold enough to go out there and to prove them for himself; rewards, too, for the man who is not afraid to venture. There are many things which tend to make a sojourn in Jamaica ever memorable, and first mention must be made of the marvellous hospitality, simplicity, and kind-heartedness of its people.

British theatrical managers, on the whole, have been strangely unenterprising as far as Jamaica is concerned, and not only Jamaica, but indeed the entire West Indies, Central America, and even South America, for that matter.

In the past there have been a few visits from American dramatic, comedy, and circus companies, from Italian opera companies, and, at long intervals, have come society entertainers, comedians, and others presenting one-man shows; musicians of more or less repute, singers, even picture shows have called in there and tasted of the bounty of the island. A few years ago the visit of a Benson Shakespearean company, including Mr. Matheson Lang, Miss Hutin Britton, Mr. Nigel Playfair, and others who have since "made good" on the London stage, created an epoch in the colony's dramatic history, suggested the beauties of some of the masterpieces of the master-mind to the inhabitants, and left behind ineffaceable memories. But these companies confined their visit to Kingston, the capital; or, if one or two of them did go out of Kingston, it was merely to pay a flying visit to one or two of the other important towns, such as Spanish Town, Port Antonio, and Montego Bay. Their experience, therefore, was not of a sufficiently wide nature to enable them to appreciate adequately what a profitable field the island opens up to the enterprising manager.

Theatrically speaking, Jamaica is virgin soil.

For there are no theatres (there was one in Kingston before that city was destroyed by the great earthquake of 1907), no music halls, no electric theatres. What talent there is is purely amateur, except in a few isolated instances where a British or American actor, or a native trained abroad, has settled down to teach elocution and to direct an occasional production. Of music, especially of singing, there is no lack, for Jamaica is another Wales in this respect; and the teachers of vocal and instrumental music cannot complain of dearth of employment. The visits of the Italian opera companies, too, have done not a little to encourage this passion for music. In the old Theatre Royal, in Kingston, before the terrible calamity of 1907, the first thing pointed out to the visitor was invariably a beautiful portrait of Mme. Lostegni, an Italian prima donna, who had visited the island with one of these opera companies, and, by her singing, had captivated the public imagination to an extent unprecedented in the history of the island. Her memory is tinged with pathos, for that Jamaican tour was her "Swan Song"; she died on landing in Panama immediately after her departure from Jamaica. And the scene of her wonderful triumph is now a collection of ruins, and her portrait—the spontaneous tribute of an appreciative people—is but a heap of dust. But her name lives on the lips and in the hearts of the Jamaican, and, at mention of her name, even the little bare-footed black boy, in shirt and trousers only, with the beautiful teeth, who fetches your newspaper in the morning, will exclaim: "Cho, boy! When yw waan fe 'ear a ooman fe sing, da Lostegni me son."

At the present day the idol of the colony is a black girl, a member of the Jamaica Choir which recently toured the United Kingdom. She is a first-class soubrette, with a magnificent voice, who would hold her own on the British vaudeville stage against the best of those in her own particular line. Then there is the famous West India Regimental Band, undoubtedly in the front ranks of the regimental bands of the Empire, and there are individuals of outstanding talent and personality; but, although one can easily see that music is universally beloved, the general development and the standard reached is not of a very high order. There are very few musical societies or organisations. Concerts are held frequently in the large towns in aid of religious and charitable causes, and there are amateur dramatic societies, which stage performances at irregular intervals. At the bazaars, garden parties, &c., you have farces, playlets, minstrel, pierrot, and marionette shows and such other forms of entertainment—all amateur. At intervals a party of enterprising and energetic people will put their heads together, organise a troupe, and make a tour around the island, the success varying in proportion to the quality and attractiveness of the show.

This barrenness of theatrical life is, perhaps, explainable by the following considerations:—

(1) Jamaica is a young country; everything is in an incipient state, and it is generally allowed that Art is essentially the expression of a people's consciousness of its individuality. Where this consciousness is not yet called into being, there can be no Art, and, as a corollary of this, no Drama.

(2) Then, Jamaica is essentially an agricultural country, and the inhabitants, perforce, are scattered over plantations, estates, farms, and fields. There are no industrial centres, a limited number only of communities of any size, and Art never yet did flourish where man lived under conditions of segregation.

(3) Again, the natives of Jamaica in the mass consist of people who have only been granted full facilities of adopting European civilisation since 1838; prior to that date they had lived under the degrading and soul-killing conditions of slavery. One, then, can hardly expect them to suddenly blossom out into Irvings, Kubeliks, Alma Tademas, and Tettrazzinis. Indeed, the impartial observer must be struck with the sound and not far short of marvellous progress that has been already made. The writer could name several West Indians who have made their name world-famous in various walks of life, but this article is not intended to be a biographical dictionary of the West Indies. It is of topical interest, however, to mention that in matters theatrical the Jamaican pays homage to the memory of Morton Tavares, a native of the island, the name of whom is not unknown or unremembered either in the outside theatrical world. There are also one or two present-day actors, native to the soil, who are enkindling eager hopes and expectations among their countrymen.

Now, the reader will have realised by this that the commercial possibilities of theatrical enterprise in Jamaica spring from the fact that the island depends entirely upon visiting companies for its professional amusements. Add to this the consideration of the infrequent visits of these companies. Consider again that the people are temperamentally pleasure-loving, that they are potentially an artistic people, that the love of the footlights is in their veins. Further recollect that, thanks to the rapid development of the fruit trade and the consequent extension of steamship lines and reduction in the passenger rates produced by stress of competition, hundreds of Jamaicans have been enabled to visit Europe and America, from which they return with a sharpened taste for the luxuries of life.

And now, will you wonder that they should hail the advent of a company with keen delight and crowd the auditorium to suffocation night after night? A slight qualification is necessary here. They will flock to a performance night after night if the performance is good, because the Jamaican is very appreciative, but he must be genuinely served at the same time. They have a habit of attending in force the first night of the visit of a new company; if they are satisfied, well and good; if not, the company might just as well fold their tents, and, like the Arabs, steal silently away! You cannot bamboozle them. Even those who have not travelled have a wonderful instinct for scenting out the true merit of a thing. Let us at this juncture take a view of the conditions confronting the enterprising manager who should take it into his head to tour Jamaica.

Since there are no theatres, the enterprising theatrical manager who should take it into his head to tour Jamaica will be saved an immense amount of money, as there will be no resident-managers or lessees to share with him the receipts on a percentage basis or otherwise. He will be saved much worry, too, in the matter of arranging his dates, as he will be able to go along almost at his pleasure, there being no crush of companies all struggling to fix their dates to suit their convenience. The field will be clear and open.

But, on the other hand, it will be easily recognised that the tour must necessarily be a "fit-up" one, and that there will be a busy time in store for the stage-carpenter and the other mechanicals. The manager must take then an adequate "fit-up," and he should pay particular attention to his lighting appliances for the stage, because in very few of the towns is there electric light or gas; in the majority of cases he will find oil lamps only. And his company must not be a big one, but those forming the troupe should be real good. If he likes, he may travel his own pianist, or he may engage a native one when he lands at Kingston, but he must do one or either of these two things, for, generally speaking, there are no bands or orchestras in the various parts of the island, though, now and again, he will come across a really fine orchestra or a fairly good band. Pianos may be borrowed; or, as is more often the case, hired at the rate of a guinea or half-guinea per night.

The performances will be held in the town hall or court house, for each town and every important village has its court house, and sometimes a town hall as well. In some cases these are already seated, in others chairs, &c., have to be hired or borrowed; and, in the case of a court house, the various fixtures, such as judge's throne, the criminal dock, the witness-stand, rails, &c., must be removed. This costs a matter of a few shillings only. The town halls and court houses, which are under the jurisdiction of the parochial boards of their respective parishes, may be hired at a rate not exceding the sum of £1 per night, in some cases ten shillings; there is likewise a deposit of £5 required, which insures against injury to the building or fixtures and loss of accessories. If no damage is done during the visit of a company, the full amount is returned to the manager after the building has been inspected by an officer of the parochial board. Application for use of the hall must be made out in writing, and handed or forwarded to the clerk of the board, together with the deposit and rental fee.

Accommodation is easily procurable, and, as the stay of a company in each town must be of short duration, there would be no ends served in living in private rooms, even were such easy to be had. The company then, must live in hotels or in boarding-houses. The cuisine in these is of a cosmopolitan character, English, American, Italian, native, and other dishes lying side by side, tempting every kind of appetite. The rates range from 5s. to £1 per diem inclusive for each person, though, if a manager knows how to go about it, he may obtain more favourable terms. Though many of the hotels are admirable in organisation and service, they cannot, as a rule, be said to be profitable investments to the tourist. Visitors to the island generally complain in that direction. The living of the company will prove the biggest item of expense. The other heavy item will be the travelling bill. And here again the tourist habitually grumbles. Much of the travelling is done by road. The Jamaica railway system, at present managed by the Government, is divided into two sections, one running from Kingston to Montego Bay, at the north-western extremity of the island, in distance about 113 miles; the other running from Kingston via Bog Walls to Port Antonio, at the north-eastern extremity of the island, a distance of about seventy-two miles. There is an extension from Bog Walls to Swarton, a distance of twelve miles. There are two classes, first and third, the latter costing 1d. per mile.

With regard to the road travelling, there has been introduced recently a motor company, from which touring cars and trucks for the luggage, scenery, properties, &c., can be hired. This company was started only at the beginning of the present year, and therefore is, as yet, an unknown quantity. The prevailing modes of road travelling are by waggonette, buggy or "bus," this last-mentioned being a light four-wheeled vehicle seating three or four comfortably, though as many as six or seven may be squeezed in at a pinch. They are to be had at livery stables, one of which may be found in every important village of Jamaica. The rates vary with the distance and with the number of passengers. A "bus" to carry three or four passengers for a distance varying from ten to thirty miles can be procured for 30s. Where two or more "buses" are engaged from the same livery stable at the same time, a reduction is of course made. A waggonette has been known by the writer to carry twelve people a journey of fifteen miles for £2. All these vehicles may be hired by the day or by the month, and are much cheaper if arranged for in this manner.

In every town there is some well-known and popular professional man, or tradesman, or artisan, who will undertake the working-up of a show in his particular town for a commission on the gross receipts, sometimes at the rate of 5 per cent., at times as high as 10 per cent. Thus the necessity of having an advance agent is obviated. One may have one, if he likes, but the local agent will prove a cheaper and more profitable investment in the long run. It is advisable, however, to take a man as ticket-collector, and roll tickets should be used. The prices of admission rest with the respective managers, though each town has certain traditions of its own in this respect, and the manager would do well to consult the local agents on this point.

These are the principal items of expense. There will, of course, be various little incidental bits, a matter of a few pence or shillings at the most.

The conditions in Kingston are somewhat different to those which obtain in the provincial towns, for, although there is no theatre proper in Kingston at present, there is a commodious (but only partially developed) pleasure resort called Rockfort Gardens, which has in its grounds a well-equipped open-air theatre. Hither the people of Kingston flock in their thousands when an entertainment of strong drawing power is on. The Gardens can be hired for a season, or leased from the proprietors, the West India Electric Tramway Co., whose trams run to its very gates, connecting it with every part of the city of Kingston and its suburbs.

There are widely circulated newspapers in which a manager can do all his advertising, and there is no lack of printers, photographers, &c. In the matter of theatrical requisites, he must be fully armed beforehand, for since there is no professional theatrical life in Jamaica, he will find no costumiers, perruquiers, vendors of grease-paints, &c.

In the general amenities of life he will find himself almost as well off in Kingston and in the larger towns of the island as if he were in an English city.

The length of a company's stay in the island will necessarily depend upon its drawing power and its capacity for endurance. For general purposes it may be stated as an axiom that so long as a company (no matter whether it be operatic, dramatic, vaudeville, or otherwise) can offer a good, attractive programme, and can vary that programme, it will be assured of a convincing success artistically and financially, for the Jamaican is quick to appreciate real merit and talent. To make the success tremendous two things further are needed, that the manager be a good business man, and that the members of the company be able to adapt themselves to the new conditions, and to make themselves popular socially, as well as artistically.

L.

"THE APOSTLE."

Mr. George Moore has written before the scenario of a play of his with the above title in the English Review the following amusing "Prefatory Note":—

"The publication of a scenario, that is to say the working notes that a writer has made to help him to write a play, is so unusual that it seems to me a few words of explanation are necessary.

"The story of The Apostle is one of those striking stories that one is tempted to relate to amuse one's friends after dinner, and I have related it sufficiently often to invite collaboration—I have in my mind a very generous letter which came a few days ago from a friend whose honour is above suspicion. But though one's friends may be trustworthy, our friends have their friends, and a story wanders far, like thistledown, and somebody hearing it and mistaking it for thistledown or folk-lore (which is the same thing), migh tunexpectedly feel himself called upon to write it. 'Very far-fetched suspicions' somebody mutters, raising his eyebrows, and hearing that matter, I answer that in the dramatic world all things are possible, and I make ready to pour into his ear the story of what happened to a comedy which I used to chatter about some few years ago.

"A friend delighted in the subject so much that I was besought to sketch it out to a shorthand writer, and the sketch pleased so much that I was persuaded to allow the friend to finish it. The method of collaboration adopted by my friend was to take it to a manager and to ask him what alterations he would like to have made. The manager was so caught by the comedy that he ordered it to be written according to his idea, and in a little while I found myself forced to choose between never seeing the play either acted or printed, or to agree to the production of the manager's version which I had never seen. All sight of it was forbidden me; I was not to have a voice in the rehearsing of the play. But if I sat quiet in the stalls no objection would be made to my presence. In return for my submission the manager agreed to allow me to print my own version of the comedy a year after the first performance. All this sounds like a fairy tale, but there can be no disputing the facts; for they are all written out in long agreements which lie at my solicitor's office. It was only the accident that the play the manager was then performing ran a little longer than he expected which prevented him from carrying out a project which I think is without parallel in literary history. He paid a forfeit of £200, and I found myself at liberty to write my play, which I did, sending it when finished to a fashionable London manager, who a few days after wrote to me saying that he had read it with great interest, and that it seemed to him delightful—I should have to look up his letter to find his adjectives—I am sure he used 'dainty' and 'refined.' He 'funked,' however, putting it into the evening bill, but asked me if I would allow him to keep it, promising to produce it on the first favourable occasion. To this I consented, and in the late autumn he produced a comedy, the plot of which, and some of the characters, were extraordinarily like mine, written by a fashionable dramatic author, whose ideas in all his previous works are so different from mine that I have ever since been trying to find out how it was that our ideas should have been so entirely fused together in the unhappy comedy whose history I am now telling.

"The first thought that came into my mind was of course 'a case of literary coincidence'; that is to say, different authors who had never spoken to each other, and between whom there had been no communication, direct or indirect, unwittingly thinking of the same plot and the same characters. It appears certain that such things have happened, and this much at least can be said in favour of the theory of literary coincidence, that commonplace people often think they have hit on an original plot, when what they have discovered is no more than a memory of some commonplace story they have either read or heard. A writer, therefore, is averse from explanation by 'literary coincidence'; and he is weary of the a che la morte of the dramatic organ; and, led by his vanity, perhaps, prefers to believe that he gossiped about the play he hoped to write, and that it drifted down the wind to a dramatic author, suggesting a comedy to him just as some event read in the newspaper or something heard in conversation might do, and that the comedy was sent to a manager without suspicion that another author had sent to the same manager a plot on the same subject with similar characters.

"If second thoughts are subtler than first, third thoughts are subtler than second, and though my third thinking will only appeal to a minority of readers I am not disposed to relinquish as altogether untenable the explanation that as the manager sat reading my comedy, admiring its dialogue, he began to wonder if there was anybody alive in London who could write it better; and that at the same moment a fashionable dramatic author was sitting alone in his study, his mind at pause. Who shall say that it is impossible that my story and my characters were suddenly precipitated into the empty mind ready to receive them, as a flower is to receive the pollen that the winds waft. The failure of the dramatic author's comedy to please seems to favour the belief that it was begotten of pollen too far removed in kind to produce anything except a hybrid that lived but a few days.

"Thought transference is, as everybody knows, irregular in its operations; and it does not follow that because I have not been able to get into communication with the manager and remind him that he should have written to explain the likeness between the produced and the unproduced, he did not unwittingly, as he pondered my comedy, get into communication with the dramatic author whose mind was at pause. The science of telepathy is still in its infancy, and, no doubt, some future scientist will be able to explain everything. For the present, however, the case of my comedy must remain obscure, and I shall go on nourishing the hope that the manager will put it to the test of a performance. In the world telepathic, as in the world dramatic, all things are possible. But, beset as we are by dangers—telepathy, literary coincidence, and our natural tendency to gossip—it seems to me well to publish my sketch for The Apostle and avoid all possible misunderstandings."

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LAW.

By Albert A. Strong, LL.B. (London). 5s. The Era Offices, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

Mr. Albert A. Strong's valuable work "Dramatic and Musical Law," published at The Era Office, Tavistock-street, has reached its third edition. The author has made every effort to bring the book right up to date.—Referee.

Should be found very useful.—Pelican.

Should prove perfectly invaluable.—Weekly Sun.

Furnishes useful information.—Daily News.

REVISED SCALE OF CHARGES FOR ARTISTS WANTING ENGAGEMENTS. MANAGERS WANTING ARTISTS.

THREE LINES (ABOUT TWENTY WORDS), ONE SHILLING.
Each Additional Line (Six Words or less), Sixpence.

This Scale does not apply to "Trade" Advertisements in these Columns.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION (Post Free).

	UNITED KINGDOM.	FOREIGN
One Year	26s. 0d.	32s.
Half Year	13s. 0d.	16s.
One Quarter	6s. 6d.	8s.

The Offices of "The Era" are "THE ERA" BUILDINGS, 5, TAVISTOCK-STREET, STRAND, W.C.

For the convenience of Advertisers, Replies to Advertisements are received. They can remain until called for, or be forwarded by Post if postage be arranged.

NO STAMPS.

Advertisers and subscribers are politely requested to forward Cheques or Postal Orders in payment of their Advertisements and Subscriptions, crossed "Lloyd's Bank, Ltd." Remittances should be made payable to "The Era," Limited, and addressed,

The Publisher, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-st., Strand, W.C. "Wire," "The Era, London." "Ring-up," 4747 or 1433 Central.

IN case of the non-delivery of "THE ERA" by the First Post, the Publisher will be greatly obliged if Advertisers will forward their Postal Wrappers with the time of delivery marked upon them.

COMPANIES WANTED.

TWENTY WORDS, ONE SHILLING.
Each Additional Six Words, Sixpence.

MILTON BODE and EDWARD COMPTON'S THEATRES.
WANTED, First-class Companies, for THEATRE ROYAL, BRIGHTON.
Feb. 6, 13, March 13, 20, on.
DALSTON THEATRE, LONDON, N.E.
Oct. 10, March 13, 20, April 3, 17, 24, on.
COUNTY THEATRE, READING.
Oct. 31, Nov. 21, Jan. 16, Feb. 6, 13, 20, 27, on.
OPERA HOUSE, LEICESTER.
Dec. 12, Feb. 6, 20, March 20, 27, April 3, 10, 17, on.
ROYALTY THEATRE, CHESTER.
April 3, 10.
GRAND THEATRE, WOLVERHAMPTON.
Oct. 24, Dec. 12, Jan. 2, Feb. 6, 20, March 6, 13, on.
THEATRE ROYAL, HUDDERSFIELD.
Oct. 3, 17, Dec. 19, Feb. 6, 13, 20, March 6, on.
OPERA HOUSE, NORTHAMPTON.
Dec. 19, Feb. 6, 13, 27, March 6, on.
THEATRE ROYAL, LEICESTER.
Oct. 31, Dec. 19, Jan. 9, 16, Feb. 6, 13, 20, on.
Address, Milton Bode, Theatre, Reading.

PIER THEATRE, EASTBOURNE.
WANTED, First-class Companies, Oct. 3 (?), 10 (three or six nights), 24, and various dates onwards.
Comedy or Musical Comedy preferred.
Dates in conjunction may be secured at Hastings Pier.
Apply, G. Hayes, Pier, Eastbourne.

PIER, HASTINGS.
May be booked in conjunction with Pier, Eastbourne.

WANTED, Wanted, Known, Possibly vacant Oct. 10.
Walter Maxwell, New Theatre, London.

WANTED, First-class Attractions, for COUNTY THEATRE, BEDFORD.
Sept. 19, 26, Oct. 10, 24, Nov. 21, onwards.
GRAND THEATRE, LUTON.
Sept. 26, Oct. 10, 17, 31, Nov. 7, onwards.
THEATRE ROYAL, CANTERBURY.
Sept. 19, Oct. 3, 24, Nov. 7, 14, onwards.
Address, E. G. Falcon, County Theatre, Bedford.

METROPOLE, GLASGOW, LTD.
WANTED, Plays for the People.
A few vacancies only in 1911.
Various 1912.

Continued success.
"Alone in London" closed to £90, despite almost tropical weather, totalling just under the £300. Brilliant reception accorded to "Little Phil's Mother."
Coms., Arthur Jefferson.

QUEEN'S THEATRE, DUBLIN, LTD.
Managing-Director, F. W. Marriott Watson.
WANTED, First-class Companies, Dec. 19, Feb. 27, March 27, May 1, onwards.
Re dates address, C. F. Wright.

RAMSGATE.
ROYAL PALACE THEATRE.
Director, Mr. Chas. Evans.
WANTED, First-class Companies, Easter (?), Whit, and season 1911.
Re dates, direct to Henry Bowman, Resident-Manager.

GRAND THEATRE, DERBY.
WANTED, First-class Dramatic and Musical Attractions, Feb. 6, 13, March 20, 27, April 3, 10. Address, T. Allan Edwardes.

PALACE THEATRE, DERBY.
WANTED, Strong Dramatic and Musical Attractions, Sept. 26, Oct. 3, on, with own scenery; good printing; twice nightly; must state lowest. Address, T. Allan Edwardes.

WANTED, Strong Dramatic and Musical Attractions, Palace Theatre, Derby, Sept. 26, on, twice nightly, must have own scenery and good printing. Lowest terms, share or certainty. T. Allan Edwardes.

WEYMOUTH NEW THEATRE.
One of the most charming Theatres in the Provinces. Holds £120 at ordinary prices. Lit throughout by electric light. No other Theatre within radius of thirty miles. Drawing capacity 60,000.
WANTED, First-class Companies, Oct. 6, 7, 8 (?), 10 (?), 31 (?), Nov. 7, 21, 28, Jan. 2, onwards.
All coms. re dates to London Representatives, Jay and Mann, 10-11, Jermyn-street, S.W.
All other coms. direct to W. R. Wallis.

THEATRE ROYAL, INVERNESS.
WANTED, Companies Touring Scotland, to book T. R., Inverness. Manager, C. Burgess.

KING'S THEATRE, GREENOCK.
WANTED, First-class Musical and Dramatic Attractions for Nov. 7, 21, Dec., onwards, with exceptions.
Address, A. B. and J. J. Wright.

WORTHING THEATRE ROYAL.
Rebuilt and enlarged, holding £100.
WANTED, First-class Companies, Sept. 29, Oct. 3, three nights each; also Oct. 31, onwards, full weeks or three nights. Communications to C. A. Seebold, as above.

KING'S THEATRE, SEACOMBE.
KING'S THEATRE, SEACOMBE.
The only fully licensed Theatre in Wirral.
WANTED, First-class Attractions, for 1911.
Apply, James Kiernan.

OPERA HOUSE, DUNFERMLINE.
WANTED, High-class Companies, Sept. 22, Oct. 10, 31, on, with exceptions, 3 or 6 nights, Share or rental. W. E. Potts.

NEW PALACE THEATRE, RUGBY.
This new and handsome Theatre to be opened on Dec. 26 next, under an alert and up-to-date management.
WANTED, First-class Companies, for few remaining Spring Dates.
Frank Langley, Proprietor and Manager.

ROYAL VICTORIA PAVILION, RAMSGATE.
Lessee and Manager, Councillor Charles Price.
WANTED, First-class Musical Attractions, for next season's dates, July, Aug., and Sept.
All communications re Bookings, William Martin, 415, Strand, W.C.

WANTED, for the Prince of Wales Theatre, Salford, First-class Companies, for Oct. 17, 24, 31, Dec. 12, 19, and 26. Address, E. B. Gouldon.

COMPANIES WANTED.

WANTED, First-class Companies. Wanted, First-class Companies.

THEATRE ROYAL, WORCESTER.
Vacant Nov. 21, Dec. 12, Feb. 6, 13, 27, onward, with exceptions.

EMPIRE, WORCESTER.
Pictures and Bijou Vaudeville.
All arrangements complete at present.

THEATRE ROYAL, TON-Y-PANDY.
THEATRE ROYAL, TON-Y-PANDY.
Vacant Dec. 5, 19, 26, Jan. 16, 30, Feb. 13, onward, with exceptions.

NEW THEATRE, BARRY.
NEW THEATRE, BARRY.
Undoubtedly one of the finest theatres in Wales, up-to-date in every detail. Holding capacity over 2,000. Stage 62 by 36. Equipped with every modern stage contrivance. Superb plant of electric light, 500 ampères available. This Theatre caters for a very large population, standing right in the centre of the populous towns of Cadoxton, Barry Dock, Barry, and Barry Island.
Vacant Dec. 19, Jan. 2, 16, April 10, 17, onward, with exceptions.

Bookings already include "Silver King," "Fatal Wedding," "Florodora," "Miss Hook of Holland," "Merry Widow," "When Knights Were Bold," "Gay Gordons," &c., &c.

KING'S HALL ELECTRIC THEATRE, BARRY.
KING'S HALL ELECTRIC THEATRE, BARRY.
Pictures and Bijou Vaudeville.
All arrangements complete at present.

Wanted, Dates, "ALADDIN," "BABES IN THE WOOD," "PUSS IN BOOTS."

All communications, Arthur Carlton, Theatre Royal, Worcester.

Telegrams, "Carlton, Worcester."

ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, BARROW-IN-FURNESS.
Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson.
The Premier Theatre in the Town, with a holding capacity greatly in excess of any other Theatre in the Town.
Booked by Mr. George Edwardes, Mrs. D'Oyly Carte, George Dance, Mr. Arthur Hart, Mr. Frank Curzon, Mr. Fred Mouillot, Messrs. Sidney Cooper and Lyn Harding, Messrs. Paumier and Howard, Mr. R. Courtneidge, Mr. J. W. Turner, &c., &c.
WANTED, First-class London Successes, for Oct. 17, 31, Nov. 21, 28, onwards, with exceptions.
All applications for dates to Hugh Robertson, Theatre Royal, Jarrow.

NEW HIPPODROME THEATRE, NEATH.
Proprietor, Leon Vint.
The above entirely New Theatre opened Aug. 22. Lighted throughout with electric light. Seating capacity, about 1,600.
WANTED, Good Musical Comedies, Xmas, Certainty only.
Feb. 6, on, &c. Easter, certainty only.
Neath played last week to over £250 gross, with "Sins of a City" and "Stowaway."
No. 1 Managements only dealt with.
All communications re Dates to William Minto, Palace Theatre, Barry Dock.

ROYAL ARTILLERY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, WOOLWICH.
Lessee and Manager, Jules Richeux.
WANTED, First-class Attractions for Sept. 26, Oct. 24, Nov. 21 (?), Jan. 2, 9, 16, onwards, with exceptions, for Big Musical Shows or First-class Pantomimes (first in). Bookings: D'Oyly Carte, Moody-Manners, and Turner's Operas, "Merry Widow," "Arcadians," "Our Miss Gibbs," "Dairymaids," "Gay Gordons," "Miss Hook," "Cingalee," "Country Girl," "Flag Lieutenant," "Pinkie and the Fairies," "Fires of Fate," "Havana," &c. Re dates, Jay and Mann, 10-11, Jermyn-street, S.W.

SCOTLAND'S PROVINCIAL THEATRES.
WANTED, First-class Attractions, for the following dates:—
Leith, Oct. 10, Dec. 5 and 12;
Falkirk, Oct. 17 and 24;
Ayr, Oct. 24, Nov. 14, 21, Dec. 12;
Motherwell, Dec. 5 and 12.
Also Good Pantomimes, for Dec. 26, and onwards.
Apply, R. C. Buchanan, 6, John-street, Adelphi, W.C.

THEATRE ROYAL, PRESTON.
WANTED, First-class Attractions, Nov. 14 and 28, Dec. 5 and 12.
Apply, J. Alban Newton.

AMERICAN PALACE PIER, ST. LEONARDS-ON-SEA.
WANTED, Big Attractions. Apply, full particulars,
M. Leopold, Manager.

KING'S THEATRE, KILMARNOCK.
WANTED, First-class Attractions, Oct. 3 (re-opening date) and onwards, with exceptions. Address, Arthur Talbots, Century T., Motherwell.

KING'S THEATRE, KILMARNOCK.
WANTED, for New Year's week, First-class Pantomime.
Address, Arthur Talbots, Century T., Motherwell.

GRAND T., STONEHOUSE, PLYMOUTH.
WANTED, Oct. 3 and on, First-class Dramas, Musical Comedies, Farces, &c., to play twice nightly; must have plenty of pictorials and scenery; share or certainty. All communications to Herbert Taylor, Broadmead House, Panton-street, Haymarket, London.

CRYSTAL PALACE THEATRE.
WANTED, Good Company, Oct. 17.
J. B. Howard, 15, Clifford's-inn, E.C.

HAGGAR'S THEATRE, LLANELLY.
Sole Proprietor, W. Haggar, sen.
Manager, Jas. Haggar.
WANTED, good Companies, in or near Wales, having Oct. 10 vacant, can have 3 nights at above; also Oct. 27, 28, 29. Xmas still Vacant for good Panto. or Musical Show. Share or cert.

WANTED, First-class Attractions, Oct. 6 (3), 10, 17, 27 (3), Nov. 14, on. Apply, B. Parbeier, New Royal Theatre, King's Lynn.

BATLEY THEATRE.
WANTED, First-class Attractions only, for Oct. 31 and Nov. 14.
Letters, J. Edward Whitty, Elephant and Castle Theatre, London.

WANTED, a Good Company, for the Public Hall, Exmouth, for two nights (Xmas date), Dec. 26 and 27, Drama or Musical Comedy. Pictures and varieties not required. Best date in the year. Apply, Leon Vint, Globe Villa, Exmouth, Devon.

WANTED, for Selwyn Hall Theatre, Wisbech, good Companies, for Sept. 29, 30, Oct. 6, 7, 8, Nov. 17, 18, 19, and Xmas vacant.

NEW THEATRE ROYAL, HALIFAX.
WANTED, First-class Companies, Nov. 7, 21, and Jan. 16.
Otto C. Culling, Theatre Royal, Bury.

LYRIC THEATRE, LIVERPOOL.
WANTED, First-class Attractions, Share or Certainty.
All must play twice nightly.
Henry C. Arnold, Managing-Director.

OPERA HOUSE, WAKEFIELD.
WANTED, Sound Attraction, Oct. 17.
Apply, Sherwood and Co.

COMPANIES WANTED.

Booked by
MOSS' EMPIRES, LIMITED.
BORDESLEY PALACE THEATRE,
GRAND THEATRE, NOTTINGHAM,
BROADWAY THEATRE, NEW CROSS,
and
GRAND THEATRE, GLASGOW.

WANTED, Musical Comedy or very Special Attractions.

BROADWAY THEATRE, NEW CROSS.
Vacant March 6, 20, 27, May 29.
Several Autumn (1911) Dates.

BORDESLEY PALACE THEATRE.
Vacant Jan. 9 (?), 16 (?), Feb. 20 (?), 27 (?), April 10 (?), May 1, 8, 15, 22, 29, June 5.
Several Autumn (1911) Dates.

GRAND THEATRE, NOTTINGHAM.
Vacant Dec. 5, April 3, 24, May 8, 15 (?), 22, 29, June 5.
Several Autumn (1911) Dates.

GRAND, GLASGOW.
Vacant several dates Spring, 1911.

GRAND THEATRE, WALSALL.
Vacant Nov. 14, Dec. 5, 12, Jan. 2, 16, 30, Feb. 6, 13, 20, 27, March 13, 20, 27, April 3, 10, 17, 24, May 1, 15, 22, 29, June 5.
Several Autumn (1911) Dates.

Address, with full particulars, terms, &c., where can be seen, to
MOSS' EMPIRES, LIMITED,
Cranbourn-mansions, Cranbourn-street, W.C.
Envelopes marked "Theatres."

CORPORATION THEATRE
(Late Stephenson Memorial Hall),
CHESTERFIELD.
Lessees and Managers, Messrs. HENSON and DAVIS. Re-decorated and renovated. Opens Sept. 5 with "The Thief." New Seating, new Ventilation. Beautiful refreshment bars, lounges, and cloak rooms. Full licences. The finest theatre of its size in the Midlands.
Bookings include:—
"Merry Widow" (third visit), "Arcadians," "Leah Kleschna," "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," J. W. Turner's Opera Co., "The Dairymaids," "The Gay Gordons," "Our Miss Gibbs," &c., &c.
WANTED, Light Attractions, Oct. 17, 18, 19, Dec. 12 and 19, Jan. 9, 16, and 30.
Re dates apply W. PAYNE SEDDON,
The Spa, Whitby.

THEATRE ROYAL, LINCOLN.
WANTED, Musical and Light Attractions, Sept. 26, 27, 28, Oct. 31, Nov. 28, first three nights.

NEW THEATRE, NEWARK.
Vacant Dec. 12, Jan. 9, and on (first three nights).

KING'S THEATRE, GAINSBOROUGH.
Vacant Nov. 21, Dec. 12, 19, Jan. 16 and 30.
Bookings include "The Arcadians," "Gay Gordons," "Merry Widow," "Havanah," "Girl's Cross Roads," F. R. Benson, Horace Lingard, &c.

NEW THEATRE, HAWICK.
Wanted, good Dramas, twice nightly,
Oct. 10, 24, 31, Nov. 7, Dec. 12, Jan. 16, and on.

W. PAYNE SEDDON, The Spa, Whitby.

METROPOLE THEATRE, BOOTLE.
Proprietors, THE PENNINGTON ESTATE CO., LTD.
The above will be open Dec. 12 next with Hall Caine's New Drama, "The Bishop's Son," by Wentworth Croke's company, followed by Edmund Tearle, "Miss Lancashire, Limited," "Pantomime," and other good Companies.
WANTED, Known, now open to book First-class Attractions for August Bank Holiday, 1911, and onwards.
The Theatre will be one of the most up-to-date in the provinces. Holding capacity 2,500. Population of 100,000 within three-quarter mile radius. All trams from Liverpool to Bootle North Docks, Seaforth Sands, and Litherland Terminus pass the door. It is also within five minutes' walk from the Lancs. and York Rly., Liverpool, Waterloo, and Southport Line. Full Orchestra, under direction of Tom Shaw.

THEATRE ROYAL, DARLINGTON.
WANTED, First-class Attractions, Sept. 26 (?), Oct. 17, Nov. 7, 14.
JAMES BELL.

AMERICAN PALACE PIER,
ST. LEONARDS-ON-SEA.
WANTED, Great Attractions. Wanted, Great Attractions. Wanted, Great Attractions.
Address,
M. LEOPOLD, Manager.

THEATRE ROYAL, CROOK.
WANTED, Companies, Oct. 24, Nov. 7, 14, Jan. 2, 9.
WALLACE DAVIDSON, Globe Hotel, Bristol.

GRAND THEATRES, CHORLEY & RADCLIFFE.
WANTED, Musical and Dramatic Attractions, Nov. 14, 21, Dec. 5, 12, on, Grand, Chorley; also Oct. 24, Nov. 14, Dec. 5, on, Grand, Radcliffe. Address, SANTE, Radcliffe.

WANTED, Companies, Oct, 3, 10, 17, and on (3-night bookings preferred). Christmas vacant. JAMES ELPHINSTONE, Lyceum T., Stafford.

Smithson's Speculations always good.
PALACE T., PORTH, Sole Lessee, WILL SMITHSON.
WANTED, Big Dramatic Attractions, Oct. 24, Nov. 21, 28, and later, business good, Saturday, Aug. 27, night receipts £85 with drama.
PALACE THEATRE, GLOUCESTER, Sole Lessee, WILL SMITHSON. Business good. Wanted, good Companies, Nov. 28 and later. All communications, SMITHSON, Barnsley.

WANTED, First-class Dramatic Attractions, Oct. 31 and Dec. 12.
H. MASTERMAN, Theatre Royal, Castleford.

METHIL THEATRE, FIFESHIRE.
12 miles North of Edinburgh. Population 90,000. 9 miles radius. Electric trams pass door.
Vacant Oct. 3 (3 nights),
Oct. 31 (6 nights),
Dec. 26 (6 nights).
WANTED, good Musical Comedy.
J. D. SWANSTON, Kirkcaldy.

GAIETY THEATRE, LEITH.
WANTED, First-class Pantomime, for Dec. 26 to Jan. 7, inclusive. Send full particulars to R. C. BUCHANAN,
6, John-street, Adelphi, London, W.C.

GLOBE T., ROYAL MARINES, WALMER, DEAL.
WANTED, First-class Attractions, vacant Sept. 15 Oct. 6 (three nights each week).
Apply, MANAGER.

EMPIRE THEATRE, SWINDON.
WANTED, Musical and Dramatic Attractions, Oct. 3, 17, Nov. 7 (first three nights), Dec. 5, 19, Xmas, on. Also Variety Combinations, Musical and Dramatic Attractions, Garrison T., Tidworth. Oct. 24, Nov. 14, Dec. 12, on, with exceptions. ALFRED MANNERS.

GRAND THEATRE, CROYDON.
WANTED, First-class Musical Comedies, Comic Operas, or High-class Dramas, for Oct. 24, Dec. 12, 19, Feb. 6, 27, March 6, 13, 27, onwards, with exceptions. Address, THE MANAGER.

THEATRE ROYAL, WHITLEY PLEASURE GARDENS, WHITLEY BAY.
WANTED, First-class Companies, Oct. 10, onwards; most Up-to-date Theatre on North-East Coast; seating capacity 2000. Good break for Companies travelling North to Scotland.

ASSEMBLY ROOMS THEATRE, DURHAM.
WANTED, First-class Companies, last three nights of week preferred,
Sept. 19, 26, Oct. 3, 10, 17,
Nov. 21, 28, onwards.
RUSHWORTH and SON, Proprietors.

COMPANIES WANTED.

FOUR PROGRESSIVE THEATRES.
WANTED, High-class Companies,
DEVONSHIRE PARK T., EASTBOURNE,
The Premier Theatre, open all the year,
Oct. 31, Nov. 7, 14, 28 (3 nights with Folkestone),
GAIETY THEATRE, HASTINGS.
Vacant Oct. 3 (3), 24 (3), Nov. 7, 28.
PLEASURE GARDENS T., FOLKESTONE.
Oct. 6 (3), 27 (3), 31, Nov. 7, 21 (3 nights with Eastbourne), 28, Dec. 5, 12.
LYCEUM THEATRE, IPSWICH.
Vacant Oct. 3 (3), Nov. 14 (3), 21 (2), Dec. 1 (3), Dec. 5.
Apply for all above.
H. W. ROWLAND, Theatre, Folkestone.

QUEEN'S THEATRE, FARNWORTH, BOLTON.
WANTED, Powerful Attractions, Nov. 7 (?), 21, 28, Dec. 5, 19, 26.
Pantomimes, Farnworth, Jan. 30, Feb. 6, 13, or 20. Brighouse, Dec. 26, Jan. 9 or 16.
MORTON POWELL, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

METROPOLE THEATRE, GATESHEAD.
Vacant Oct. 10.
WANTED, First-class Company.
Wire, E. G. ELDER.

WANTED for "Pretoria," Okehampton (main line Exeter-Plymouth), Companies, two nights Hall holds 300; scenery. E. WILKINSON, Whimple-street, Plymouth.

THEATRES WANTED.

WANTED, Theatres, Oct. 10, Oct. 24, Nov. 14, 21, 28.
WALTER MELVILLE, Lyceum Theatre, London.

Walter Melville's New Production.
WANTED, Theatres, Nov. 7, 14, 21.
WALTER MELVILLE, Lyceum Theatre, London.

"THE GIRL WHO LOST HER CHARACTER."
WANTED, Sept. 19.
Wire, DOUGLAS BRUCE,
Lyceum Theatre, London, W.C.

ANDIE CAINE'S PANTOMIMES.
Absolute Open Time 1911.
"CINDERELLA." All Dates Filled.
"RED RIDING HOOD," Feb. 13.
"BABES IN THE WOOD," all dates filled.
WANTED, Theatres or Music Halls, once or twice nightly; clean, smart, funny, and bright. J. L. BARRY, General-Manager, 21, Thomaston-street, Liverpool.

"A ROYAL DIVORCE."
"A ROYAL DIVORCE."
WANTED, for this Phenomenal Success, weeks of Nov. 14 and Dec. 26. Recently played to £900 at Dublin, £653 11s. 6d. at Belfast, and on Saturday night a fortnight ago closed our 58th visit to Manchester to a £137 house, being the biggest Saturday night's takings for a dramatic show in over twelve months.
Wire or write to W. W. KELLY,
New Theatre Royal, Birkenhead.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."
"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."
"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."
WANTED, Theatres, Nov. 14, onwards. Big Company, Chorus, Specialities, Special Scenery and Printing.
CHARLES HARRINGTON,
Managers' Club, 5, Wardour-street, W.C.

"DARE-DEVIL DOROTHY."
WANTED, Jan. 2, 9.
All communications, J. W. CORDINER,
Sept. 12, Brixton Theatre, Brixton, S.W.

"THE PRIVATE SECRETARY."
EUGENE C. STAFFORD'S No. 1 CO.
WANTED, for this Wonderful Moneymaker, Oct. 3, Nov. 7, and Dec. 26.
BISHOPSDALE, Biddenden, Kent.

"THE EDUCATION OF ELIZABETH."
The Brilliant Modern Comedy,
from the Haymarket and Apollo Theatres.
Refer to all managers visited.
WANTED, First-class Theatres, Oct. 17, 24, Oct. 10, to follow Margate.
ERNEST E. NORRIS,
Grand Theatre, Douglas.

Ireland's Representative Comedian,
CHALMERS MACKEY,
supported by
Mrs. Chalmers Mackey and Powerful Co., in
"ROLLICKING RORY"
and
"THE WEARING O' THE GREEN."
No Vacant Dates this Year.
WANTED, First-class Theatres, Autumn, 1911.
Record Business Everywhere.
CHALMERS MACKEY,
Sept. 12, Paisley Theatre, Paisley.

"LITTLE PHIL'S MOTHER."
WANTED, Theatres, for Nov. 21 (three nights), Jan. 2, March 13, 27.
Address,
FRANK M. THORNE, Gaiety T., Leith.

E. HILL-MITCHELSON'S CO.
WANTED, Oct. 10, for "The King and the Unknown Woman" Co.
E. HILL-MITCHELSON, c/o "The Era."

O. SILVERSTONE'S NEW PLAY,
"THE RUIN OF A COUNTESS."
Strikingly original.
Away from everything touring.
Nothing like it. Nothing like it.
WANTED, Dates, Easter, 1911, onwards.
Sole Owner and Manager,
O. SILVERSTONE,
H. M., Barrow; next, Alhambra, Higher Openshaw.

WANTED, for First-class Farcical Comedy, good towns, Oct. 10, onward.
Apply,
ROBERT ARTHUR, 24a, Regent-street, S.W.

WANTED, Theatres, for G. A. De Gray and H. Masterman's Co., "The Angel of His Dreams," closed to packed house last Saturday at Coatbridge; refer R. C. Buchanan, Esq., re business done on his circuit. Thanks Milton Bode, Esq., for offer of Jan. 16; thanks Moss' Empires, Ltd., for offer of Bordesley, Jan. 16; also offers of Walsall and Nottingham. Vacant Oct. 31, Jan. 2, Jan. 16. GEO. A. DE GRAY, to-day, Methil; Sept. 12, Grand Theatre, Doncaster.

WANTED, for "Havana," Good Theatre, Christmas. Apply,
A. M. LATHAM, 13, King's Bench-walk, E.C.

"NICK CARTER, DETECTIVE."
"NICK CARTER, DETECTIVE,"
by Arthur Shirley and Ben Landeck.
A Great Play with a Known Title.
WANTED, Oct. 24 (?), Jan. 2, 9, Feb. 6, March 6, April 17, and on.
Refer Mark Lorne (Bordesley), Messrs. Barnard, James Worswick, H. J. Crane (G., Nottingham).
J. FORBES KNOWLES, Star, Liverpool.

WANTED, for "The Cingalee," Nov. 7, 14, 28, Dec. 5, 19, 26, Jan. 9, 30, April 17.
HALDANE CRICHTON, Opera House, Leicester.

H. HAMILTON STEWART'S CO.
"SHERLOCK HOLMES."
WANTED, First-class Theatres, Nov. 7, 14, 21, Dec. 26.
STEWART, R. C. T., Warrington.

EDMUND TEARLE'S TOUR.
Shakespearean and Classical Répertoire; also "A Lion's Heart," by Arthur Shirley, and "The Three Musketeers," "Jeanie Deans," "East Lynne," "It's Never Too Late to Mend," "The Octoroon," &c.
WANTED, Nov. 14 and 21.
EDMUND TEARLE, Grand Theatre, Falkirk.

WANTED, Good Theatres, for the Great Success, "His Real Wife," Dec. 19, Xmas, Jan. 9, 16, on coms. T. E. WARD, Empire T., Swindon.

THEATRES WANTED.

MORTON POWELL ENTERPRISES.
WANTED, Wanted, Dates.
"FROM MILL GIRL TO MILLIONAIRESS,"
"FROM MILL GIRL TO MILLIONAIRESS,"
"FROM MILL GIRL TO MILLIONAIRESS,"
by
Mrs. Morton Powell.
Sensational Success.
Sensational Success.
Sensational Success.
Pavilion Theatre, London.
Pavilion Theatre, London.
Grand Theatre, Fulham, London.
Grand Theatre, Fulham, London.
Receipts went up nightly.
Receipts went up nightly.
Monday, opened at
T. R., Macclesfield, to packed houses.
Title and Printing brought big Monday.
Tuesday jumped up.
"FROM MILL GIRL TO MILLIONAIRESS,"
"FROM MILL GIRL TO MILLIONAIRESS,"
The most
Certain Success
Certain Success
Touring.
A People's Play.
People's Play.
A Grand Production.
The Death-bed Scene.
The Asylum Scene.
The Attempted Murder Scene.
The Fight in the Burning House.
Any one of which would make a Play.
Vacant,
Jan. 16, 23 (?), Feb. 6, May 1, Aug. 7, on.
MORTON POWELL, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

"BROUGHT TO RUIN."
By Mrs. Morton Powell.
WANTED, Wanted, Dates.
The Great Money-maker.
Vacant,
Dec. 26, Jan. 9, 30, Feb. 20, April 17.
MORTON POWELL, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

"A GIRL'S TEMPTATION."
By Mrs. Morton Powell.
WANTED, Wanted, Dates.
This mammoth Money Magnet
Draws the Public everywhere.
Again at Theatre Royal, Middlesbrough,
Enormous Success.
Refer, please, refer.
Vacant,
Nov. 14 (?), 28, Jan. 9, 16, 23.
MORTON POWELL, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

"DRIVING A GIRL TO DESTRUCTION,"
by Mrs. Morton Powell.
WANTED, Wanted, Dates.
The Never-failing Success.
Vacant,
Oct. 17, 31, Dec. 26, Jan. 2, 23, 30.
MORTON POWELL, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

MORTON POWELL ENTERPRISES.
WANTED, Wanted, Dates.
"FROM MILL GIRL TO MILLIONAIRESS."
"BROUGHT TO RUIN."
"A GIRL'S TEMPTATION."
"DRIVING A GIRL TO DESTRUCTION."
Notice.
The Titles, Plots, Situations, and Effects of the above Plays are fully protected, and any infringement will be at once proceeded against.
MORTON POWELL, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

New Play
by Mrs. Morton Powell.
WANTED, Wanted, Dates,
Production settled.
MORTON POWELL, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

"TWO LITTLE VAGABONDS."
WANTED, Wanted, Dates,
Jan. 2, 9, 16 (?).
MORTON POWELL, Queen's T., Farnworth, Bolton.

MRS. CHARLES SUGDEN
and Her Own Company
in
"THE RUIN OF HER LIFE,"
by Mrs. Morton Powell.
WANTED, Wanted, Dates,
for this Great Attraction,
Oct. 31 (?), Nov. 7 (?), 14 (?), 28, Dec. 26.
MORTON POWELL (dates only),
Queen's Theatre, Farnworth, Bolton.

MR. NORMAN V. NORMAN'S COMPANY.
By arrangement with R. C. Carton.
The Brilliant Sporting Comedy,
"LORD AND LADY ELGY."
Special Scenery and Printing.
WANTED, Theatres, Sept. 29 (3 nights), Oct. 17, Oct. 17, Dec. 5.
Address,
The Managers' Club, 5, Wardour-street, W.

A. and B. LIMPUS' No. 1 CO.
"THE THIEF"
(by arrangement with Mr. George Alexander).
Entire Production carried.
WANTED, Theatres, Oct. 10, 11, 12, Oct. 17 (?), Oct. 31, Nov. 7 (?), 28. Bookings include Scarboro', Harrogate, Yarmouth, Portsmouth, Plymouth, Brighton, Folkestone, Eastbourne, &c.
A. LIMPUS, Grand, Lancaster.

MR. STEPHEN PRITT'S CO.
"ALMOST HIS BRIDE."
WANTED, Sept. 26, Oct. 10, Nov. 21. MORRIS MAUD, to-day, Farnworth; next, East T., Oxford.

"COUSIN KATE."
WANTED, First-class Theatres, Oct. 24, 31, Nov. 7 (precede Brighton).
VERA LESLIE, 23, Hugh-street, S.W.

"THE IDOL OF PARIS."
"THE IDOL OF PARIS,"
by Chas. Darrell.
WANTED, First-class Theatres, Oct. 3, 17.
Record business again at T. R., Scarborough.
Wire, JAMES BELL, T. R., Darlington.

The New Musical Comedy Success,
"MISS PLASTER—OF PARIS."
WANTED, Good Theatres, Feb. 20, 1911, onwards.
HENRY L. OSMOND, Miners' Theatre, Ashington.

"MAN TO MAN."
EDWARD LLOYD and CLIFFORD BOWN'S CO.
WANTED, Nov. 21, and Christmas.
EDWARD LLOYD, Grand Theatre, Chorley.

"THE EYE OF HER WEDDING."
"THE SINNER."
WANTED, Wanted, Theatres, Oct. 31, Nov. 7, 21, Dec. 5, 26, few Spring. Can play one or two weeks.
WILSON BENGE, Hippodrome, Neath, South Wales.

"FACING THE WORLD ALONE."
Everything seen on the Stage Carried.
WANTED, Good Theatres, Oct. 3 and 17, for Charles Darrell's Great Moneymaker. Refer G. H. Page, Percy Broadhead, John Hart.
J. EDWARD WHITE,
Elephant and Castle Theatre, London.

WANTED, Oct. 3, 24, Nov. 14, Xmas, for Olga Audré, in "The Great Awakening."
Wire,
Shakespeare Theatre, Clapham; Sept. 12, Bargoed.

THEATRES WANTED.

FRED GRANVILLE'S PRODUCTIONS, LTD.
"ANOTHER MAN'S WIFE."
The Most Successful Drama Touring.
WANTED, Oct. 3, Wire.
Wanted, Oct. 3. Wire.
Wanted, Oct. 3. Wire.
Also Oct. 10, 17.
Playing to Enormous Business Everywhere. Refer Chas. Bush, Esq., Queen's, Leeds; Sherwood and Co., Opera House, Wakefield; Harry Eeden, Esq., T. R., Sunderland; Harris Fineberg, Esq.; Star Theatre, Liverpool; W. W. Kelly, Esq.; T. R., Birkenhead; J. H. Currey, Esq., P. O. W. T., Grimsby; Wm. Morton, Esq.; Alex. Theatre, Hull; &c., &c.
Re dates, address,
A. R. FEATHER,
The Depository, Cazneaustreet, Liverpool.

FRED GRANVILLE'S PRODUCTIONS, LTD.
"A HOT NIGHT."
Sparkling Musical Comedy. Screamingly Funny. Gorgeously Mounted and Dressed. 30 Performers.
WANTED, Good Theatres, Oct. 3, Oct. 3, Oct. 3, Nov. 14, 21, 28, and later.
Re dates, A. R. FEATHER,
The Depository, Cazneau-street, Liverpool.

FRED GRANVILLE'S PRODUCTIONS, LTD.
"THE BETTER LAND."
Vacant Oct. 3, 10, 17.
"ANOTHER MAN'S WIFE."
Vacant Oct. 3, 10, 17, Nov. 7, 28.
PANTOMIMES.
"BABES IN THE WOOD."
WANTED, to follow run at Grand Theatre, Derby, Jan. 9, 16, 23, 30.
"BEAUTY AND THE BEAST."
Vacant Jan. 16, 23, 30.
"ALADDIN."
Wanted, good Theatre for Production, Dec. 26. also Vacant, Jan. 23, 30, Feb. 6.
Re dates, A. R. FEATHER, Manager,
The Depository, Cazneau-street, Liverpool.

MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR HINTON AND TRAVIS GREEN
Present their No. 1 Company in
"HER FATAL MARRIAGE."
"HER FATAL MARRIAGE."
"HER FATAL MARRIAGE."
WANTED, Oct. 17, Dec. 19, Dec. 26, Jan. 5, 16, various later.
JERROLD HEATHER as Zaco.
HILDA SHIRLEY as Myra.
This, Elephant and Castle Theatre;
Next, Lyric, Hammersmith.
Vacant Oct. 17.
Wire,
ARTHUR HINTON,
To-day, T. R., Smethwick;
next, T. R., Sunderland.

"ALONE IN LONDON."
"ALONE IN LONDON."
"ALONE IN LONDON."
"ALONE IN LONDON."
"ALONE IN LONDON."
WANTED, for this Magnificent Production, with
New and Splendid Plant of Printing.
Carefully Selected Company, including
Miss Nellie Clyde
as Nan, the Flower Girl,
Sept. 19 (wire for Sept. 19),
Oct. 10 (?), Oct 17 (to precede Lyric, Hammersmith). Gross takings for four weeks, Aug. 8 to Sept. 3, £1,085 2s. 6d.
Address, CHARLES GIBSON,
To-day, C. T., Stockton; next, Prince's T., Preston.

"SEND HIM VICTORIOUS."
Always the same verdict. Once or twice nightly. Really excellent.
This week, twice nightly, Empire, Oldham. Refer.
WANTED, Oct. 17, Oct. 17, Oct. 17, Wanted, Oct. 31, Oct. 31, Oct. 31.
"FOR HONOUR AND REVENGE."
The Play of Intense Human Interest.
Vacant Oct. 17 (to follow Stratford).
New Xmas Production,
Powerful Domestic Play,
Vacant Jan. 2, 16,
"A BEAUTIFUL FIEND."
Gorgeous Revival.
Vacant Feb. 13, 27.
All coms. re above, MONTAGUE BEAUDYN, till Wednesday, Palace, Maidstone; then, Gaiety T., Worksop.

FRANK STANMORE
Introduces his New and Up-to-date Musical Novelty, in Two Acts,
"CHASING CYNTHIA."
"CHASING CYNTHIA."
Everything Carried.
The Brightest and Funniest Musical Play on Tour.
First-class West-end Cast and Chorus.
WANTED, Oct. 3 (Production), till Dec. 12, with few exceptions.
For Vacant Dates apply,
CHAS. C. OMMANNEY,
4, Duke-street, Charing Cross, W.C.

"PRISCILLA RUNS AWAY,"
by
Elizabeth Arnim.
Direct from the Haymarket Theatre.
By arrangement with Herbert Trench.
First-class Company. Approved by Herbert Trench. The Company Rehearsed and Production Superintended by Mr. Charles La Trobe, Stage-Manager, Haymarket Theatre.
Cast includes:
Miss Beatrice Lindley as Priscilla.
Mr. Clifton Alderson as the Grand Duke.
Mr. J. Edward Pearce as the Tutor.
Entire Production Carried.
Tour starts Sept. 19, Hastings.
WANTED, First-class Theatres only.
Vacant dates, Oct. 17 (North), 31, Nov. 7, 14, 21, Jan. 23, on.
Apply, Mr. JOHN E. WATSON,
Managers' Club, 5, Wardour-street, W.C.

MR. AND MRS. F. G. KIMBERLEY'S COS.
"HER SECRET LOVER."
WANTED, Oct. 3, 10, Feb. 6, 13, only Vacant Dates until Autumn, 1911.
"THE POWER OF THE KING."
Wanted, Oct. 10, 24, Nov. 21,
Oct. 10, 24, Nov. 21.
Only Vacant Dates until Autumn, 1911.
Refer this week Porth re business. Tuesday better than Monday. Big week anticipated.
"TWO LITTLE DRUMMER BOYS."
Wanted, Oct. 17, 24.
Wire for any of the above dates to
F. G. KIMBERLEY,
T. R., Wolverhampton.
Fit-up Rights to Let or Sell.

WANTED, Theatres for Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Draycott's Companies. "HER PATH OF SORROW," by Mrs. F. G. Kimberley. The most successful Domestic Drama Touring. Playing to splendid business everywhere. No finer mounted or better played production. Everything carried. Vacant Nov. 7, Jan. 16, Feb. 13, 20, 27, March 20, and various onwards. This, T. R., Stratford; next, T. R., Edmonton. "THE HEART BOWED DOWN," by Mrs. F. G. Kimberley. Production, Junction, Manchester, Feb. 13; London production Feb. 27, Lyric, Hammersmith. A really great play, of intense heart interest. Magnificently mounted, and interpreted by a specially selected company. Vacant March 13, April 10, May 8, 22, 29, June 5 (Whit), and Autumn, 1911.
Apply at once for all Companies to CHARLES DRAYCOTT (Répertoire Co.),
Next two weeks, Col. T., Oldham.

WANTED, Theatre, Sept. 19, for "THE MIDNIGHT MAIL."
Wire, DOTTRIDGE, Empire, Oldham.

THEATRES WANTED.

MISS HILDA BEVERLEY
in
"A WOMAN OF TWO LIVES,"
by Charles Darrell.
WANTED, Nov. 14, Dec. 26, Jan. 2, 9, 30, March 6, 13.
Enormous Success at Dublin.
Refer. Refer.
MISS HILDA BEVERLEY,
EMPIRE THEATRE, OLDHAM.

By special arrangement with Mr. Geo. Alexander, The Brilliant Comedy,
"THE IMPORTANCE OF BEING EARNEST,"
now in the ninth month of its present revival at the St. James's Theatre.
Followed by Peter Davey's successful Travesty on "CHANTECLER."
West End Company, including Mr. Douglas Gordon, Mr. Hugh Ardale, Miss Olivia Glynne, Miss Barbara Hannay, &c., &c.
And the BURLESQUE played by Miss Nellie Lomas and the entire Original Cast.
This exceptional combined attraction vacant Oct. 3 (only vacant date).
WANTED, First-class Theatre only, everything carried for both pieces. Communications to PETER DAVEY, Royal County Theatre, Kingston-on-Thames.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE, MIDDLESBROUGH.
Only vacant dates this year Oct. 31, Dec. 5, 12.

CASTLE THEATRE, STOCKTON.
WANTED, Theatres, Nov. 28, Dec. 5, 12, 19, also Christmas and New Year's weeks for good Musical Comedy.
All communications re Grand Opera House to be addressed there.
Others to
J. CHAS. IMESON, Theatre Royal, Middlesbrough.

MR. BULMER'S ENTERPRISES.
"THE GIRL WHO WENT ASTRAY."
"THE GIRL WHO WENT ASTRAY."
"THE GIRL WHO WENT ASTRAY."
The Drama that is averaging £200 a week.
Three weeks' receipts exceed £1,000.
Vacant Oct. 10.
Vacant Oct. 10.
"THE TYRANT."
"THE TYRANT."
"THE TYRANT."
(By arrangement with Miss Marie Dagmar.)
WANTED, Oct. 3, on, with exceptions.
FRED BULMER,
Metropole Theatre, Glasgow.

THE WILSON BARRETT
Original Version of the Famous Play,
"EAST LYNNE."
(Bullock Version.)
By arrangement with J. Pitt Hardacre.
TOM WATT'S SPECIALLY SELECTED CO.
Another Great Success at Gloucester.
Refer Will Smithson, Esq.
WANTED, Oct. 3, 3, 3, 3, 3, Nov. 7, 7, 7, 7, 7, Nov. 21, 28, Dec. 19 and 26.
Managers requiring a sound attraction and sure moneymaker, wire or write,
TOM WATT, 6, Adelphi-chambers, John-street, W.C.
Sept. 12, Alexandra T., Hull

J. PITT HARDACRE'S TOUR, with the Wilson Barrett Version of
"EAST LYNNE."
WANTED, Theatres, Jan. 1, 1911.
See Companies Page.

KIMBERLEYS, GREEN AND HINTON'S
"WAS SHE TO BLAME?"
By Mrs. F. G. Kimberley.
The Financial Success.
WANTED, Oct. 17. Enormous success this week, Star, Liverpool. Refer. Wire re this date, F. G. KIMBERLEY, T. R., Wolverhampton.
All other communications, GEORGE LANGDON, en route.

MR. J. W. LINDSAY ELLIS
Presents
"LIGHTS OUT."
As produced by H. B. Irving at the Waldorf and Savoy Theatres. Excellent business Leamington. Refer the Management.
WANTED, Oct. 10 (follow O. H., Middlesbrough), Oct. 17, Nov. 14.
This, T. R., Leamington; next, T. R., Bury St. Edmunds (3), Town Hall, Cromer (3).

WANTED, for the John Leopold Pantomime Comedy Productions,
"THE NEW FRIVOLITY."
"THE NEW FRIVOLITY," Preceded by
"THE HOUSEBOAT."
"THE HOUSEBOAT."
Wire for Sept. 19 (3 nights), to precede Glossop.
Oct. 3 and 10, Nov. 21, to precede Torquay. All communications to CHARLES GOFF, Sole Director,
this, Grand, Wolverhampton;
next, Theatre Royal, Great Yarmouth.

MISS NORA CARTON'S CO.
present the Modern Domestic Drama,
"TEMPTATION."
"TEMPTATION."
WANTED, Theatres; only vacant dates this year, Oct. 10, Nov. 21, Nov. 28, Dec. 5, Dec. 26. Please refer this week John Henry Saville, Esq., Paisley Theatre, re Play, Company, and Production. Tuesday pounds better than Monday, refer.
All coms., MARTIN COMSTOCK,
Royalty Theatre, Barrow-in-Furness.

"THE FEMALE DETECTIVE."
WANTED, Wanted, Sept. 26, between Fleetwood and Preston.
HORACE STANLEY,
Theatre Royal, Belfast; next, Prince's, Blackburn.

Mr. GASTON MAYER'S PRINCIPAL CO.
"MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH."
"MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH."
WANTED, Oct. 24, 31, Nov. 7 (North).
Coms., WALTER D. NICOLL, 106, Strand, W.C.

"THE MIDNIGHT MAIL."
WANTED, Theatres, for the above, Once or Twice Nightly,
Sept. 19, Nov. 7, 21.
Address, E. DOTTRIDGE, Empire, Oldham.

"A CRIMINAL'S BRIDE."
WANTED, Theatres, Oct. 10 (?), 17 (?), Dec. 26, Jan. 2.

"CAN A WOMAN BE GOOD?"
Wanted, Theatres, Nov. 14, 21, Xmas.
TOM H. TAYLOR, Alexandra Theatre, Birmingham.

WANTED, Hall or Theatre, for Oct. 17, for "Ferdie's Ma-in-Law."
The Biggest of Screaming Sketches Touring. Salary, share, or would bring Combination.
Address, E. DOTTRIDGE, Empire, Oldham.

WANTED, Good Theatres and Halls for First-class Combination, including Victor Widdicombe and Co. Vacant Sept. 19, 26, Oct. 10, and onwards (with exceptions).
WILLIAM MARTIN, 415, Strand, W.C.

ARTISTS WANTED.

FRED GRANVILLE'S PRODUCTIONS, LTD.
WANTED, Juvenile Light Comedy Gent, also Character Comedy Old Man (small), for Musical Comedy. Rehearse at once.
Terms, refs., photos., &c., to A. R. FEATHER,
The Depository Cazneau-street, Liverpool.

WANTED, Refined Lady and Gentleman, to play small parts and understudy, in first-class Fit-up Company; young, smart Gentleman, to learn duties of Business Management; respectability and good education essential; small premium required, salary given from commencement. Only those who are willing to learn the business need apply. Send full particulars, age, height, and photo. (if any), to MONTEFIORE and MARTINEZ, Post Office, Cambridge.
Interview in London by appointment.

ARTISTS WANTED.

STAGE.

WANTED, at once, Ladies and Gentlemen, must be young, good voices and appearance, absolutely essential; also Boys age 14, must have good voices, or useless. Apply immediately, Stedman's Agency, 58, Berners-street, W.

WANTED, Juv. and Light Comedian, and Actor, for Aristocratic Middle-age Parts, High-class Comedies (No Drama). Height, photo., terms, and references, Box 8,247, "The Era."

WANTED, Gentleman, for Mr. John Lawson's part, Good Leading Lady, Good Heavy Man, and Responsible People, for No. 2 Productions. Letters, Secretary, 49, Binfield-road, Clapham, S.W.

WANTED, to Rehearse, Sept. 19, First-class Chambermaid, able to sing and dance well; also Comedian, character man, play two small parts; Juv. Lady and Gent, both must sing well; also Mus. Dir. and Chorus (ladies). Terms, refs., Nightingale, T. R., West Bromwich.

WANTED, Juvenile, about 5ft. 8in., also two Character Actors, must be 6ft., for Cowboys. Address or call,
Bertram, 8, Rupert-court, London, W.

WANTED, immediately, smart Amateur, lady, small part, London production; also vacancy for Gentleman of appearance and ability. Howard, 453, Fulham-road.

WANTED, Young, Robust Chambermaid, 5ft. 6in., small part, sketch, special week. Write (or call to-day), Wallace, 49, Leighton-road, West Ealing.

WANTED, through relinquishing, Young Heavy Man for part of Levison; must dress well on and off.
Tour to end of Year.
Full particulars, last two references, and lowest terms, apply, Tom Watt, to-day, until 1 p.m., 6, John-street, Adelphi, W.C.; next week, Alexandra Theatre, Hull.

WANTED, for Mr. Norman V. Norman's Co., a Gent. for Character Parts, and Gent. to play Responsibles (tall); also a Lady for Small Parts. G. Smith-Neill, Lyndhurst, Herbert-road, Southsea.

"HAVANA" COMPANY.

WANTED, Young Gentleman; must have smart appearance, able to sing and dance, for part of Frank Charteris in the above. Apply, full particulars, Chas. Road-night, Heathcote, Grimwood-road, Twickenham.

WANTED, Clever Young Juvenile Actor, to be able to look about 22, about 5ft. 8in. or 9in., dark. Walter Howard, c/o Managers' Club, 5, Wardour-street, W.

WANTED, Young, Dainty, Smart Soubrette, must sing and dance; also several Chorus Ladies, must be pretty, young, smartly dressed, or useless. Full particulars by letter, with photos. (returnable), terms, &c. Chas. C. Ommanney, 4, Duke-street, Charing Cross, W.C.

WANTED, for Sketch, smart Juvenile and Character Actor. Apply, or write, stating age, lowest salary, photos., &c.; long engagement; also smart young Property Man. Full particulars, Lotinga, 34, St. Mary's-road, Sheffield.

WANTED, First-class Chorus and Show Ladies, for London Musical Comedy. Write for an appointment. No callers.
Joseph Davies, 18, Sackville-street, Piccadilly.

WANTED, First-class Elocutionist, able to Lecture Dramatic Pictures.
Apply, with full particulars and lowest salary, to the Manager,
Picturedrome, Bradford.

WANTED, Dramatic Artists who experience difficulty in obtaining copies of "The Era" at any of Messrs. Smith and Sons' Bookstalls to kindly communicate with the Publisher, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

ARTISTS' WANTS.

WANTED, Known, Ragna Dehn and Karl Antonini, in "The Romance of a Violin," vacant Sept. 12 and on. 35, Norwood-grove, Liverpool.

WANTED, Engagement, by Mina Hope, the distinguished Girl Tragedienne.
1, Norfolk House-road, Streatham.

WANTED, immediately, by young, brilliant Solo Tenor, Engagement, any business. Apply, Tenor, Royal Arms, Gaisford-street, Kentish Town-road, N.W.

PANTOMIME ARTISTS WANTED.

FRED GRANVILLE'S PRODUCTIONS, LTD
PANTOMIMES.

WANTED, Principal Boys and Girls, Smart Troupe of Juveniles, pair Sisters, Knockabouts, Comedians. Terms, refs., photos., and where working, to A. R. Feather, The Depository, Cazneau-street, Liverpool.

WANTED, for London and Provincial Pantomimes, First-class Producer, one who knows the Stanley Rogers version of "Cinderella" preferred; First-class Principal Boy, Prince in "Cinderella," must sing well; Lady for Cinderella, must be young, pretty, and sing well; smart Second Boy and Girl; a large number of Ladies for Chorus, must be young and tall; a Male Quartette for Speciality and Chorus, must be cheap.
Recognised Pantomime Comedians please write in.
Apply, C. St. John Denton, 34, Maiden-lane, W.C.

WANTED, Pantomime Artists, all Lines, Chorus, &c. Send full particulars, photo., and lowest terms for London and provinces, to Kelson Trueman's Agency,
17, Shaftesbury-avenue, W.

WANTED, a Comedian of Reputation for Pantomime. Terms and full particulars required. Also a first-class musical-director for same.
Address, E. Dottridge, Empire Theatre, Oldham.

WANTED, tall Chorus Ladies, for Pantomime; not less than 5ft. 7in. References, terms, to Ernest Dottridge, Empire, Oldham.

WANTED, through releasing, First-class Principal Boy (Crusoe). Must sing really well and have plenty of dash. Fullest particulars, E. C. Jazon, Hippodrome, Wednesbury.

WANTED, Pantomime Artists, Principal Boys and Girls, Comedian, Knockabouts, Quartettes of Dancers, &c. Write, Vaudeville Agency, 178, Charing Cross-road, W.C. References and photos required. Mark envelopes "Pantomime."

WANTED, for Pantomime, Two Excellent Knockabout Comedians, capable of playing good parts. Also first-class Comedians for Dame and Ali Baba. Principal Girl, Chorus, &c., &c.
Full particulars,
William Martin, 415, Strand, W.C.

PANTOMIME ARTISTS' WANTS.

WANTED, Known, Clara Reid
Vacant Pantomime.
1909, Royal, Birmingham.
Offers invited, Principal Boy or Girl.
See Back Page.
To-day, Empire, Birmingham; next, Pal., Lincoln

WANTED, Pantomime, by Sam Ello, Dame Comedian and Dancer. Last six seasons with John Tiller, Esq. Monday, Public Hall, Woking.

WANTED, Panto., by Li-Chang-Hi and Tai Mao, Chinese Conjurors. Speciality and Parts, three people, Li-Chang-Hi and male and female assistant, six-sheet posters. Sept. 12, Pavilion, Rothesay.

WANTED, Known, Victor Bros., vacant for Panto, Spec., also Animal Parts, exceptionally good Cat. Who wants these goods? Hippodrome, Aston.

PANTOMIME ARTISTS' WANTS.

WANTED, by Denby and Dent, Pantomime, thoroughly experienced.
Next week, Regent Theatre, Salford.

WANTED, by La Dor Troupe (six in number), male and female novelty acrobats, panto. parts, speciality, and harlequinade, everything carried. Jubilee Hall, Weymouth.

SCENIC ARTISTS WANTED.

WANTED, Scenic Artists, Theatre Managers, &c., to write for Leete's Catalogue of Colours, Varnishes, Painting Brushes, and every requisite for Scene Painting and Theatre Decoration. The fullest range of colours in the trade. A. Leete and Co., 129, London-rd., Southwark, S.E.

SCENIC ARTISTS' WANTS.

WANTED, Scenery, Contracts, Productions. Our Paint Frames, 40 by 34 Theatres completely fitted with Scenery. Ropes, Blocks, Cleats, &c. Estimates and Designs submitted free. Scenery bought and exchanged. Fred Wilkins and Bro., Ltd., 27-35, Duke-street, Liverpool. Telegrams, "Theatrical."

WANTED, Known, Theatrical Advertising Curtains, designed, painted, and written. Distance no object. Real good showy work. Will Molesworth, Shirley, Warwickshire.

WANTED, Known, Scenic Artists and Decorators, Bernasconis, Ltd., 41, Gore-street, Liverpool. Tel., "Scenery." 'Phone, 732 Royal. From Daily Mail, April 23, 1910.:—The Tudor Village, Olympia, London. The quaint old buildings, so permanent in appearance, were erected by Bernasconi, Ltd., Liverpool.

WANTED, Contracts for Painting Scenery First-class Work Guaranteed. Cecil E. Hicks, Painting Room, Princess's Theatre, Oxford-street, London, W.

SCENERY OR PROPERTIES.

WANTED, Contracts, Hire or Purchase. Largest stock in London. Estimates. Sharp, 272, St. James-road, Old Kent-road. Tel., 497 Hop.

WANTED, Known, S. Beltram, concluding eight weeks engagement with J. Bell, Esq., refer; at Liberty; offers invited. Theatre Royal, Darlington.

WANTED, Contracts for Scenery; High-class Effective Work at reasonable prices. Large Studio and Workshop. Address, Charles Sayer, Scenic Artist, 2, Clarendon-road, Croydon.

WANTED, Engagement, permanency preferred, by First-class Scenic Artist; over 20 years' experience. Terms moderate. Box 8,239, "The Era."

WANTED, by Philip Small, Scenic Artist, Engagement or Contract, Town or Provinces; References, &c., address 25, Elgin-terrace, Maida Vale, London.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WANTED, Experienced Business Manager, with knowledge of Stage and Advertising; no office work and counting money when it comes in, but one who will bring it in by initiating Advertising and other methods to attract the public outside.
Address Box 8,249, "The Era."

WANTED, Assistant Resident-Manager. Age, references, terms, and full particulars, E. E. Falcon, Carlton House, Bedford.

WANTED, Carpenter, combine Baggage, must be useful man and assist generally.
Apply,
Fred W. Goddard,
General-Manager for Mrs. Frank Bateman,
12th, Empire, Ashton-under-Lyne.

WANTED, good Baggage Carpenter, "A Life for a Life" Tour. Open Monday, Sept. 19. Able to play Small Part; must be robust, good voice, not less than 5ft. 10in. Age, terms, references, Chas. H. Lester, 44, Marton-road, Middlesbrough.

WANTED, Master Carpenter, practical man. Address, with age, references, to Bertram, 8, Rupert-court, London, W.

WANTED, good practical Carpenter, one able to take charge of Set, knowledge of electricity preferred. Letters marked "Humanity."
49, Binfield-road, Clapham, S.W.

WANTED, Smart Baggage Man, tall. Fullest particulars, references, lowest terms, to Russell Norrie, 44, St. Mary's-road, Sheffield.

WANTED, at once, young, neat, experienced, energetic Wardrobe Mistress, must be thoroughly capable of cutting out, making and fitting quick change and pantomime costumes; only abstainers need apply; long pleasant engagement if satisfactory. Fullest particulars first letter, photo. with stamped envelope for reply. The Great Raymond, Hippodrome, Nottingham; next week, Palace, Darlington.

WANTED, by well-known Variety Agent, late Manager, Management of Music Hall or Big Picture Palace, in or near London. No salary required, as advertiser after one month would be willing to rent Hall or work on commission, or share with proprietor if mutually agreeable. Anyone requiring smart manager write to
Box 8,231, "The Era."

WANTED, Known, First-class Manager, at Liberty; Resident or Tour; thoroughly experienced; young, smart energetic; expert advertising, accountancy, &c.; moderate salary. Box 8,235, "The Era."

WANTED, by Gentleman, young, with twelve years' experience of Pier Pavilion, Theatre, Variety, and Touring Management, offers for Management, home or abroad; would combine Secretarial duties if necessary, smart and energetic; good refs. Box 8,242, "The Era."

WANTED, Known, Manager Harry Lyons, at Liberty,
Resident or Tour, Theatre or Variety,
Highest credentials, covering years' experience.
101r, Gordon-chambers, Station-street, Birmingham.

WANTED, by Gentleman (active worker), place of trust;
£15 security.
Disengaged October.
Address, Box 8,218, "The Era."

Who wants me?

WANTED, Known, Walter R. Scragg, Advance or Advertising Manager, late of the foremost American Shows, just concluded two years with the Famous St. Louis Co., can Open at Once. Splendid references. Address, Waverley Hotel, opposite St. Pancras Station, London.

WANTED, Known, Thomas J. Hanlon, Advance Representative, Original Irish Animated Picture Co., Jeffries-Johnson Fight Pictures. Opera House, Cork.

WANTED, Engagement, as Practical Bill Inspector or Bill Poster, abstainer, reliable and experienced. Address, Emberson, 52, Howell-road, Exeter.

WANTED, Engagement, by Wardrobe Mistress, late charge workroom, Queen's, Manchester. Also Carpenter, Bill Inspector, Knowledge Electricity. Harrismith, c/o 78, Market-place, Middleton.

MUSICIANS WANTED.

THEATRE ROYAL, STOCKPORT.

WANTED, Musical Director, Pianist, to combine another instrument; must be experienced and first-class musician, with up-to-date library. Permanent engagement if suitable. Address, with refs. and lowest terms, Charles Revill.

WANTED, First Violin (able to lead if required), from Oct. 1, for my well-known Orchestra; must be young, steady, well-mannered man, good technique, good Sight-reader, strong rich tone, and temperament essential; unmarried. Permanent engagement for suitable person. Send references, photo., state age, lowest terms, Hunt, Scotch Orchestra, Knipperbrau, Saarbrucken, Germany.

WANTED, for Paisley Hippodrome, reliable Violin Leader, open Sept. 19; salary 32s. 6d. Apply, Manager, Hippodrome, Paisley.

MUSICIANS WANTED.

WANTED, Pianist-Conductor, Bass, Clarionet, Lady Pianist and Vocalist, for Pictures, Canterbury. Terms, age, refs., Falcon, County Theatre, Bedford.

KING'S THEATRE, DUNDEE.

WANTED, competent reliable Leader, First-class Varieties.
Age and references to Mundell, M.D.

WANTED, First-class Orchestral Leader, for White Star Mediterranean Service, Sept. 16, until Dec. Terms and conditions apply Messrs. C. W. and F. N. Black, 14, Castle-street, Liverpool.

WANTED, First-class Violin Soloist, for Sketch; smart appearance; height about 5ft. 6in. Apply, P. Gayer, 15, Chesterfield-road, Blackpool.

WANTED, good Solo Cornet, Rink, £2. open Monday.
W. Durrant, A.M.U., Arcade, Bristol.

WANTED, Cornet, open Monday; must be experienced quick variety, standard overtures, steady, or no use. Refs., terms, H. Stone, Conductor, Hippodrome, Keighley.

WANTED, a First-class, Sober and Steady Solo Cornettist for Big Musical Act. Must be good executant, triple tongueing, &c.
Apply Webb, Hipprodome, Wigan.
Height, 5ft. 6in.; chest 34in.

WANTED, good Cornet and Euphonium. Pitching. Terms, shares.
Apply, Sec., 95, Stow-hill, Newport, Mon.

WANTED, Good Solo Cornet, to open Sept. 19, only steady, reliable, and experienced men need apply. Signor Peri, Palace, Darlington.

WANTED, a Lady Double Bass, experienced, commencing Oct. 1, Milan, Stockham's English Ladies' Orchestra. Walhalla, Wiesbaden, Germany. Stamp 2½d.

WANTED, for the Cheltenham Town String Band, good Double Bass Player, also Violin. Terms shares. J. Boyce, 6, Queen's-retreat, Cheltenham.

WANTED, Trombone Player, to open Monday, Sept. 19. Apply, with refs., Sykes, The Palace, Southampton.

WANTED, Japan-British Exhibition, Sept. 19 (week), Good Solo Euphonium, Army Journal. Silence polite negative. Conductor, 42, Kenilworth-rd., Kilburn.

WANTED, for Croydon Band, E flat Bombardon and Cornet, for pitching. Terms, shares. Walters. 51 Waddon New-road, Croydon.

WANTED, good Viola, open Sept. 26, permanent. Age, terms, and references to Chas. Elphinstone, Theatre Royal, Hanley.

WANTED, Flute and Clarionet Players, employed on Foreign-bound Liners. Apply first instance, Box 8,224, "The Era."

WANTED, Pianist, for Palace Theatre, Derby, to open Sept. 19, must be experienced in Variety and Dramatic Work. Lowest terms and references, T. Allan Edwardes.

WANTED, Pianist (male), essentially First-class Accompanist and Sight Reader, required for hotel trio party; one who also plays viola preferred. Thomas, Cremona, Liverpool-st., Dover.

WANTED, Young Lady, Brilliant Pianist, must harmonise well, join Lady Music Hall Artist new act. Photos. Baxter, 29, Fentiman-road, Clapham-road.

WANTED, First-class Double Drummer and Tympanist, full effects, not afraid of work. Apply, Sheldon, New Empire, Kilburn.

WANTED, First-class Violinist, also 'Cellist, for R.M.S. "Orsova" sailing to Australia Sept. 16;
must be thoroughly competent; duties very light; arrive back in London Dec. 23.
One of the new 12,000 ton boats.

Write at once,
Herbert M. Sindall,
2, Harefield-road, Brockley, London, S.E.

WANTED, First-class Euphonium, Trombone,
B Clarionet.
Side Drummer.
None but absolute teetotalers. Long engagement offered. Good salary; must be prepared to start rehearsals from Sept. 26. Apply by letter only to Musician, c/o Will Collins, Broadmead House, Panton-street, S.W.

WANTED, First-class Leaders, Pianists, 'Cellists, for Atlantic Liners.
Applicants state age, experience, give names and addresses of two references for character, to Messrs. C. W. and F. N. Black,
Music Directors, 14, Castle-street, Liverpool.

WANTED, for Sept. 19, and other special weeks, Leader, 'Cello and Viola; must be good men of recognised experience. Apply, with terms and particulars, W. R. King, The Dalston Theatre, N.E.

WANTED, Cornet, Flute, and Piccolo, and Drums. Permanency to the right men. Lowest terms and references to T. W. Wright, Luna Park and Palace, Southend.

WANTED, for Duffy's Circus, Tenting Ireland, Cornet, Bass, Clarionet; open immediately. Wire, Claremorris, Saturday; Westport, Monday.

THE DE FRECE CIRCUIT.

WANTED, First-class Instrumentalists, all Lines, used to High-class Variety. Send age, terms, and addresses for reference, to Amos Parker, Hippodrome, Portsmouth.

WANTED, Orchestra (Pianist to combine), Theatre near Edinboro'. Terms, &c., Frederic Fuller, M.D., 33, Prince George-avenue, Raynes Park, London.

WANTED, Musicians all Lines, for Provincial Music Halls, good money to good people. State age and if can open at once. Letters only to Musical-Director, 116, Church-lane, Tooting Common, S.W.

WANTED, Brass Band, to parade, two First Cornets, one Second, Tenor Horn, Euphonium, two Trombones, Double Bass, and Big Drummer, with Drum, would engage separate or complete Band. Address, with full terms and particulars, to Bertram, 8, Rupert-court, London, W.

LONDON COUNTY ASYLUM,
LONG GROVE, EPSOM, SURREY.

WANTED, Nurses. Wages, £19 10s. a year for first six months, then, if satisfactory, rising to £21 10s., and subsequently by £1 annually to £23 a year, and, on promotion, to £37 a year, with board, lodging, washing, and uniform. Nurses are pensionable under the Asylums Officers' Superannuation Act, 1909. Previous asylum experience not essential, but ability to play violin well a recommendation. Daily leave (subject to convenience of service), 8 p.m. to 10 p.m. Weekly leave, 1 day; annual leave, first fifteen months (after nine months' service), 13 days; the following twelve months, 19 days; each successive twelve months, 21 days. Applications, stating age, height, experience, and previous occupation, should be sent (at once) to the Medical Superintendent, Long Grove Asylum, Epsom, Surrey.

WANTED, Conductors and Music Hall Artists to use our "Standard" Band Part Covers, strong dark green cloth, sizes 12¼ by 10½, 11¼ by 8, 7s. 6d. and 5s. 6d. dozen respectively. Instrument names 2d. set, carriage forward. Cash with order. The Standard Press, Blackburn.

WANTED, Musicians, before accepting Engagements in Scotland, to communicate with Mr. J. Bartley, 717, New City-road, Glasgow; Mr. J. Cameron, 20, Hazelbank-terrace, Edinburgh; or Mr. A. Fraser, 58, Victoria-road, Dundee.

MUSICIANS WANTED.

THE NATIONAL FEDERATION OF PROFESSIONAL MUSICIANS. Reg. No. 1398, T.U.

WANTED, Fully-qualified Musicians to join the above Protective Society, which is out to effect a Consolidation of the whole Musical Profession of the United Kingdom; to maintain the status of ability of the Musician, and to promote a system of fair and equitable dealing between its members and their employers.

Owing to the reliable efficiency of its members its popularity among managers and musical directors is rapidly increasing. Vacancies for certain instruments. Employers send along wants. Efficiency always guaranteed, as two-jobbers and unqualified musicians are not supplied by this Society.

Wire, "Orchestra," Manchester. For pamphlets, entrance forms, &c., or musicians, apply to the most convenient of the following offices:
Manchester: S. Broley, 1, Upper Kent-rd., Victoria Park.
Oldham: E. H. Goddard, 6, Crown-street.
London: Chris. J. Hoggett, 26, Wardour-st., W.
Glasgow: Fred Young, 71, Scott-street, Garnethill.
General Secretary: Joseph Ball, 19, Grange-street, Rusholme.

WANTED, Musicians who experience difficulty in obtaining copies of "The Era" at any of Messrs. Smith and Son's Bookstalls, or from any Newsagent in the United Kingdom, to kindly communicate with the Publisher, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

MUSICIANS' WANTS.

WANTED, Known, Chas. P. Fox, Musical-Director, Spa Theatre, Bridlington, Disengaged Sept. 17 (concluding second season). Refer, R. C. Luxton, Esq., Manager.

WANTED, Known, Wilfred Ball, Musical Director (Violin), Disengaged Sept. 19, with or without Orchestra; any business; extensive library; highest references. 13, Camden-sq., or Pavilion, Ramsgate.

WANTED, Engagement, by First-class Musical Director (Piano), Liberty Sept. 19; highest references. Good offers only invited to M. D., 4, Derby-street, Weymouth.

WANTED, Known, Musical-Director (Violin), with or without small Orchestra, Lib. Sept. 17; refs. Fay, Britannia Pier Pavilion, Gt. Yarmouth.

WANTED, by London Music Hall Conductor, Engagement; can open at once; up to date music; highest references. Box 8,223, "The Era."

WANTED, Known, Fred Eplett, Conductor, Composer and Arranger, is open to accept Engagement. Address, this week, Hippodrome, Southend-on-Sea.

WANTED, Engagement, by experienced Variety Conductor, late with Barrasford; excellent references; big library. Lancaster, 4, Rosslyn-house, Brixton Oval, S.W.

WANTED, Engagements, by Experienced Leader and Solo Violinist, now disengaged. Address, Rose Schoenthal, 59, Miranda-road, Highgate, London, N.

WANTED, Engagement as Leader or First Violin, thoroughly experienced. Offers to Parisi, 4, Adam-street, Burnham.

WANTED, Re-engagement by experienced First Violinist (all lines), Disengaged Sept. 24; age 32; abstainer. H. Phipps, 46, Oxford-street, Burnham, Somerset.

WANTED, Permanent Engagement, as Second Violin, thoroughly experienced any business.
Apply, Box 8,220, "The Era."

WANTED, Engagement, Pictures or Rink, Violin and Cornet (Ladies), in or near London preferred. E. R., 60, Kimberley-gardens, Harringay, N.

WANTED, by Violinist, First or Second, engagement. Good refs. Steady and reliable. Vio, 16, Loampit-vale, Lewisham, S.E.

WANTED, Known, First or Second Violin, combine Second Cornet, Disengaged 12th, any business, good ref. C. Johnson, 73, Arundel-rd., Great Yarmouth.

WANTED, Known, Cornet Soloist (Medalist), now free, any business, London preferred. Frank Clarke, 39, New Fillebrook-road, Leytonstone, N.E.

WANTED, Engagement, by Cornet, Disengaged.
W. A., 215, Portnall-road, Maida Hill, W.

WANTED, Engagement, by experienced Cornettist, First or Second, age 30; good refs.; at Liberty Sept. 19. Ellis, Hippodrome, Hastings.

WANTED, by Cornet, finishing Kursaal, Engagement, any business, three years Hippodrome, Eastbourne. Good refs. Morland, 29, Central-avenue, Southend.

WANTED, Engagement, as Cornet, First or Second, good refs., any business, can open at once. Hoyle, 9½, Russell-street, Stockton-on-Tees.

WANTED, by Cornet, Engagement, First or Second, any business.
F. Baker, 2, Sunnyside-road, Glasgow.

WANTED, by Brothers, Engagement as First and Second Cornet; experienced any business; young; Liberty 17th. Hullier, 72, High-st., Gorleston-on-Sea.

WANTED, Engagement as Solo Cornet, any business. Steady and reliable.
Address, A. Anstis, 39, Brewer-st., Brighton.

WANTED, Engagement, by Solo Cornet.
Cornet, 115, Haig-road,
Barking-road, Plaistow.

WANTED, Engagement, by Solo Cornet, experienced in Variety; young, steady, and reliable. Terms moderate; good references. Charles Walters, 6, Stanefordham, Consett, Co. Durham.

WANTED, Engagement, as Cornet, First or Second, any business, can open at once. J. Robson, 2, Waterhouse-terrace, Upper Kirkgate, Halifax.

WANTED, Known, Clarionet, at Liberty, Theatre or Variety, steady and reliable; good refs. T. Crawshaw, 89, St. Stephen's-avenue, Shepherd's Bush, London, W.

WANTED, Known, First-class Clarionet, at Lib. Oct. 2, any business.
Hillston, Princess Parade, Bridlington.

WANTED, by Clarionet and Saxophone Player, Engagement, any business. J. McRedmond, 3, Union-street, Ramsgate, or Pavilion, Ramsgate.

WANTED, Engagement, by experienced Clarionettist, any business.
H. Matthews, Orchestra, South Pier, Lowestoft.

WANTED, Engagement, Clarionettist, good, steady, reliable, all branches; good references; Union rates; ready Sept. 19. Chas. Calvesert, Success, Fence Houses, Durham.

WANTED, Engagement, by Clarionetist, can open Sept. 19, any business, young, good refs. Atkinson, c/o 2, Bank-terrace, Bowness, Windermere.

WANTED, Engagement, Clarionet, any business, good refs., steady and reliable. Clarionet, Municipal Orchestra, Winter Gardens, Great Yarmouth.

WANTED, Known, well-experienced Clarionet desires change; 6 years present shop; steady and reliable; open Sept. 19. Box 8,238, "The Era."

MUSICIANS' WANTS.

WANTED, Known, at Liberty, competent and experienced Contra Bass; reliable; good reference. Basso, 216, Lancaster-rd., Notting Hill, London, W.

WANTED, Known, good Bassoonist, at Liberty Sept. 12, high or low pitch; excellent refs. Apply, W. Bates, Ashworth-terrace, Dewsbury.

WANTED, Engagement, Bass and Violin, together or separate, experienced all lines, sober, reliable. Address, Lucas, Madoc House, Pwllheli, North Wales.

WANTED, Engagement as Double Bass, competent, reliable, experienced, Variety or Theatre. Wire, Alfred Sunderland, 5, Ebenezer-place, Great Horton, Bradford.

WANTED, Engagement, as Double Bass, any business, at Liberty Sept. 19. Address, W. Gott, Winter Gardens Orchestra, Morecambe.

WANTED, Engagement, as Double Bass, Theatre, or small Band, experienced, first-class references, steady and reliable; permanency preferred. Hogben, 29, Victoria-road, Folkestone.

WANTED, Engagement, by Double Bass; steady and reliable; good refs.
Harry Hare, Grand Theatre, Douglas.

WANTED, by Double Bass, Engagement in First-class Theatre, Music Hall, or Rink; just finishing season. Smith, Victoria Pavilion, Ramsgate.

WANTED, Engagement, through closing of season, as Trombone, Tenor, or Bass; highest refs.; late Guards. Bitmead, 27, Cornwall-road, Bexhill.

WANTED, Engagement, as First or Second Trombone, any business, life abstainer, good refs. Send offers to 18, Aberdeen-road, Lancaster.

WANTED, Engagement, by experienced Trombonist, any Business; good refs.; London preferred; would deputise. A. Matthews, A.M.U., 9, Great Newport-street, W.C.

WANTED, Engagement, as Trombone, through disappointment, thoroughly experienced, steady, and reliable, Theatre, Music Hall, Touring, any business. S. Smith, 24, Stanley-st., Blackburn, Lancs.

WANTED, Known, Euphonium Disengaged shortly, first-class man, could take Bombardon, Rink Band teaching or otherwise. Maddock, Municipal Band, Rothesay.

WANTED, by good Euphonium, Engagement (good), Rink or any business, Disengaged Sept. 24; refs. J. Stone, 7, Southend-terrace, Burnham, Somerset.

WANTED, Engagement, Open BB Bombardon, just finished Season Engagement, Rink or any business. Harman, 22, Fraser-street, Bedminster, Bristol.

WANTED, Engagement, as Bombardon; thoroughly reliable. Henry Woodage, 19, Cedars-road, Water-lane, Stratford, E.

WANTED, Engagement, by experienced reliable Bombardon and Double Bass Player, First-class references. E. Lazzari, 24, Hoxton-rd., Torquay.

WANTED, Engagement, after Oct. 1, by experienced Bombardon, any business. Address, Chas. S. Turner, Orchestra, South Pier, Lowestoft.

WANTED, by Good Bombardon, Engagement, any business, age 35, finishing season. Address, Basso, Municipal Orchestra, Wellington Gardens, Great Yarmouth.

WANTED, by French Horn, Engagement, any business, finishing season end of September, abstainer. Cheetham, 14, Valley-mount, Harrogate.

WANTED, by Horn, Re-engagement, any business; good refs. Solo Horn, Wellington Pier, Great Yarmouth.

WANTED, Engagement, 'Cellist, Theatre, permanent; present engagement finishes Sept. 23. State terms. A. D., C/o Vincent, 5a, Park-avenue, Whitley Bay.

WANTED, Known, Stanley E. Angless, 'Cellist, Queen's, and Highcliff Hotel, Cliftonville, Margate. Disengaged Sept. 30.

WANTED, by 'Cello, Engagement, or as Deputy or Tour, any business. Good ref. Address, R. Sortino, 65, Torren's-buildings, City-road, E.C.

WANTED, Engagement, Viola, any business.
H. Oldfield, 21, Ossory-road, Camberwell, S.E.

WANTED, Engagement, by excellent Oboeist; highest ref. Write,
Box 8,222, "The Era."

WANTED, Engagement, by Flute and Piccolo, young, experienced; good refs.; any business; finish season Sept. 15. Gent, 21, South-rd., Gorleston, near Yarmouth.

WANTED, Engagement, by good Flautist in Orchestra; Theatre or Variety; first-class references; can open at once. Address, Flautist, 37, Goodge-street, Tottenham Court-road, W.C.

WANTED, Engagement, by experienced Flautist, any business; concluding season Saltburn Pleasure Gardens, Sept. 11. Address, Flautist, 11, Holder-street, Redcar, Yorkshire.

WANTED, Engagement, by Flautist, any business, distance no object, good refs., at Liberty Sept. 10. Stewart, 176, Lancaster-road, Morecambe.

WANTED, Engagement, by Flautist, any business, at Liberty Monday.
Address, G. E. Beck, 91, Catherine-st., Warrington.

WANTED, Engagement, by Experienced and Reliable Flautist, good refs., any business, variety preferred. Flautist, 22, Almorah-rd., Victoria Park, Bristol.

WANTED, Engagement, by First-class Flautist, eight years O. H., Cork, just finished two years' Variety; best refs. W. A. Jordan, Pavilion, Ramsgate.

WANTED, Known, good Flute and Piccolo, at Liberty; experienced any business; reliable, abstainer; excellent references. Flautist, 27, Nicholl-street, Swansea.

WANTED, Engagement, by reliable experienced Pianist; combine Second Violin; Dramatic, Variety, Pictures; any Business; steady. Refs. Minton, c/o Holliday, 4, South Henry-st., Carlisle.

WANTED, Engagement in London, by smart Young Lady Pianist, any capacity.
Miss F., 1, South Park-road, Wimbledon, S.W.

WANTED, Engagement, by Pianist, Experienced and Reliable, Rink or Variety. W. Parratt, 17, Woodhall-dene, Mooreside-road, Ecclesshill, Bradford, Yorks.

WANTED, Engagement, Piano and Cornet, good sight reader. Address, Piano, 54, Dunstan's-road, East Dulwich, London, S.E.

WANTED, Engagement by Steady Lad, 16, Smart Pianist, reads sight, MS., London only. Experienced. J. D., 40, Ravensbourne-rd, Catford.

WANTED, Engagement, Lady Pianist, Double Second Violin; experienced all lines. Miss Lynton, 3, Havelock-road, Hastings.

WANTED, an Engagement, for Double Drums; first-class references (permanency preferred); Liberty Sept. 19. Tom Burt, 144, Lovell-street, Cleethorpes.

MUSICIANS' WANTS.

WANTED, Engagement, Double Drums, at Liberty Sept. 19, London Rink preferred. A. EASON, 34, Elizabeth-road, South Tottenham.

WANTED, permanent engagement, by Drummer and Tympanist (own Tymps), first-class Theatre or Music Hall preferred; refs. TORDOFF, Central Pier, Morecambe.

WANTED, Engagement, Double Drums and Effects; thoroughly experienced, reliable; any business; Orchestra or Military; Liberty now. 19, King-st., Morecambe.

WANTED, Known, Celebrated Cremona Ladies' Orchestras, smart uniform, now playing Olympia, Jersey, Cromer, Westgate, Folkestone, &c. Booking Autumn. DOROTHEA A. VINCENT, 8, Grafton-square, Clapham. 'Phone 990 Battersea.

WANTED, Known, Imperial Ladies' Orchestras, Vocalists, Belle, &c.; established 1890. Directress, Madame NELLIE BAKER, 114, Woodlands-road, Ilford. 'Phone 877 Ilford.

WANTED, Known, Shikissima Band, Original Ladies' Japanese Orchestra, at Lib.; all Soloists; latest répertoire. CONDUCTRESS, "Lansdowne, Falkland-road, Newbury.

WANTED, Offers, Ladies' Lyric Orchestra, concluded successful season Filey, now playing Tower, Morecambe, any number. 3, St. Albans-place, Blackburn.

WANTED, Engagement, Three Ladies (Violinist, 'Cellist-Pianist, Pianist-Vocalist), early October; splendid répertoire; good refs. 2, Seymour-street, New Writtle-street, Chelmsford.

WANTED, Offers for Bateson's Orchestra, Vocalists, Solo Instrumentalists, Up-to-date Répertoire. Twelfth consecutive season, Lakeside Pavilion, Windermere, Musical-Directress, Miss Maude Trainer. Vacant Oct., onwards. THOS. BATESON, Bowness, Windermere.

TRADES EXHIBITION, DEVONPORT.
WANTED, Engagement, by the Celebrated Bohemian Orchestra. Six Performers, all Soloists; fully experienced, any Business; Hotel or Café preferred; Pianist, Flautist, First Violin, Second Violin, Cornet, Bass. Apply, LU DELVA.

WANTED, Engagements, by the Lambeth Military Band.
Apply to O. H. CARTER, 32, Tenison-st., London, S.E.

WANTED, Known, to Skating Rink Proprietors, &c., the Anglo-Bavarian Military Band open for Engagements, up-to-date Library and Uniforms. Moderate. GROOF, Bandmaster, Hoylake, Cheshire.

WANTED, Engagement, by First-class Skating Rink Band, Liberty Sept. 10. Apply to Signor DANIELE PECORINI, 42, Abbey-road, Torquay.

WANTED, Engagement, for Brass Band of seven or more musicians, steady, reliable, uniformed, used to rinks. Terms moderate. Box 8,228, "The Era."

WANTED, Engagement, by small Band, scarlet and gold uniform, latest music, for Rinks, &c. BANDMASTER, 69, Carlisle-st., London, N.W.

WANTED, Engagement, Small Band (five or six), Rink or Pictures, latest music, smart uniform. Terms moderate. COOPER, 116, Shirebrook-road, Sheffield.

CIRCUS ARTISTS WANTED.

JOHN HENRY COOKE'S ROYAL CIRCUS AND HIPPODROME, EDINBURGH.
WANTED, Artists in Every Branch of the Profession, to open Saturday, Dec. 3, and during the season. Terms and particulars, first letter. Apply, TALBOT COOKE, Manager.

WANTED, at Once, good Tumbler for well-known Comedy Act. Send terms, prices, height, and age, in first letter to save time, Box 8,248, "The Era."

WANTED, Circus Artists who experience difficulty in obtaining copies of "The Era" at any of Messrs. Smith and Sons' Bookstalls to kindly communicate with the PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

CIRCUS ARTISTS' WANTS.

WANTED, Proprietors of Circus Buildings, Managers of Theatres, Rinks,
Your Eye,
Your Thought,
For a Brief Spell.
JOHN SCOTT'S ROYAL BRITISH CIRCUS.
General-Manager, Mr. G. H. SCOTT.
Equestrian-Director, Mr. JOE HASTINGS.
Many thanks to the various managers who have written us, but we must have fair terms. Still at liberty for winter season with our own family as complete Circus. Separately or collectively. We can fit you up with a Circus complete to the last button.
What we claim to give you:
A Magnificent Stud of Performing Horses and Ponies.
A Well-drilled and Efficient Staff.
A Constant Change of Novelties in Horsemanship.
A Troupe of Live Clowns with the Latest Entrées.
A Répertoire of Original Spectacles and Effects.
A Never-ceasing and Endless Stream of Animated Pictures.
Efficient Management and Fertile Brains.
A circus performance put on with such singular faithfulness that it will be hailed with admiration and delight by enthusiastic managers.
Vox Populi Vox Dei.
Substantial
Confidence and Originality in
Triers of ability invariably brings Triumph and Success.

Come and see our Horses, they are Infinitely superior and Right above the average Concerns; their Unique appearance will spell
Satisfaction.
Communications,
G. H. SCOTT, 9, Charles-place, Hotwells, Bristol.

WANTED, Dec. next, by Etherdo, Pugh, and Olrac, the Human Flying Machines. Mail, Sanger's Hippodrome, Horley, Surrey.

WANTED, Circus Engagements, for Winter Season, by Proctor's A1 Circus, Lady and Gentlemen Bare-back Riders, Gymnasts, Tight-rope and Wire Performers, Performing Horses, Ponies, and Donkey. Good Clowns, &c. Terms, address, PROPRIETOR, Proctor's Circus, Little Hulton, near Bolton.

WANTED, Known, Wanted, Known, Wanted,
Death
Defying,
Danger
Deriding,
Dare-
Devil
Diving
Cormack.

At Liberty Oct. 3, on.
Coms., "The Ship," next Hackney Empire, N.E. (the Professional House). or, American Park, Brussels.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS WANTED.

WANTED, Variety Artists, Dramatic Sketches Specially.
Pleased to see any Turn.
RICHARD CASS'S Agency,
18, Adam-street, Strand. 'Phone 615 City.

VERNO'S AGENCY.
Representative, GEORGE E. MUDD.
WANTED, Variety Artists in all Lines, for immediate and future dates. Terms, bookings, &c. 16, Elizabeth-street, Liverpool. Telegrams, "Merriment." Telephone 2076 Royal.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS WANTED.

WANTED, Wanted Wanted, Wanted,
Variety Artists in all Lines.
Star Comedians,
Star Comedians,
Star Comedians,
Star Comedians,
Star Comediennes,
Star Comediennes,
Star Comediennes,
Star Comediennes,
Star Specialities,
Star Specialities,
Star Specialities,
Star Specialities,
Star Comedy Acts,
Star Comedy Acts,
Star Comedy Acts,
Star Comedy Acts,
in fact, anything that is New and Novel, for Liverpool, Leeds, St. Helens, Accrington, Dublin Belfast, Glasgow, Newcastle, Bishop Auckland, Barrow, Derby, Nottingham, Manchester, Blackpool, Aston, Sheffield, Dewsbury, Rotherham, Southford, Stockport, Northampton, Bolton, Oldham, Southampton, Boscombe, Southend, Margate, Portsmouth, Coventry, Grimsby, Wolverhampton, Preston, Norwich, Ipswich, Chester, Bradford, Halifax, Southport, Leicester, Lincoln, Cardiff, Bath, Huddersfield, Darlington, Doncaster, Hamilton, Paisley, Wishaw, Hull, &c., &c.
Artists having immediate dates Liberty let me know quick, and always give house address.

Send full list of bookings and lowest terms.
WILL SLEY,
180, Oxford-road, Manchester.
Telegrams, "Variety, Manchester."
'Phone 9144 Central.

WORCESTER PALACE OF VARIETIES.
WANTED, Variety Artists, also Empire, Worcester. No wires. ARTHUR CARLTON, Palace, Worcester.

NEW GAIETY THEATRE, CLYDEBANK, and PANOPTICON, GLASGOW.
WANTED, Known, Variety Artists coming North can have two weeks at the above. Good, Sound Specialities, Double Acts, Sisters, Comedians, Comediennes, Dancers.

Lowest terms, lithos., &c.,
A. E. PICKARD,
Panopticon, Glasgow

FRANK COYLE'S AGENCY.
WANTED, Music Hall Artists, all Lines, Sept. 19 and Future Dates.
Big Specialities,
Funny Comedy Acts.
Bookings, terms, lithos., and house address, 1, Cross Flatts-drive, Beeston, Leeds. 'Phone 4195. Telegrams, "Alarm."

WANTED, Artists in all Lines to send full list of bookings. Always Vacancies for Suitable Acts. SKIVINGTON'S Agency, 41, Ardgowan-street, Greenock.

WANTED, Star Artists, all Lines, for Aug. Bank Holiday and Future Dates. WILLIAM MOULD, Central Palace, North Shields.

WANTED, Star Artists all Lines, from now onwards; Hall small, terms same. Good break for Artists going North, South, or Ireland. J. J. SCOTT, Empire, Wrexham.

WANTED, Music Hall Artists, all Lines, Speciality Acts, Comedy Acts, Novelties, Sept. 19, onward. Terms, bookings, &c., EDGAR STEBBINGS, 28, Egerton-street, Manchester. 'Phone, 9261 Central. Tels., "Stebbings."

WANTED, clever, versatile, useful Artists, capable of changing their Specialities, for season, in and around London, two years round the world tour, returning viâ America, to follow, to suitable people. Fullest particulars and photos. (stamped envelope for return) in first letter, HARRY CLARK, Premier Hotel, Southampton-row, London. No callers.

FRED DURHAM'S AGENCY.
WANTED, Artists in all Lines, Sept. 19, on. 14A, Loughboro'-rd., Brixton. 'Phone 15 Brixton.

VARIETY BOOKINGS AGENCY.
WANTED, Music Hall Artists in all Lines. Send full particulars, terms, and dates. Nothing too Big.
For immediate dates,
can place good Specialities.
12, Henrietta-street, Covent Garden, W.C.
'Phone Gerrard 7623.
Tel., "Twopence, London."

WANTED, Wanted, Wanted, Artists in all Lines, for several Halls in the North. Good strong Tops can be placed immediately.

Apply, Signor PEPI, Palace, Darlington.

WANTED, Artists in all Lines known to me, to communicate.

HARRY BOWERMAN,
Pringle's Palace, Bedminster.

WANTED, for long Follies tour Abroad, Artists in all Lines,
Rehearse London October, sail November.

Apply by letter only (in first instance), enclosing photo, full particulars.
ALICE E. JOSEPH,
Theatrical Bureau, Stafford-street, W.

WANTED, Known, that the Entire Bookings of Rothesay Pavilion are now in the hands of Skivington's Agency. 41, Ardgowan-st., Greenock.

DEETRICH'S AGENCY,
31, Islington, Liverpool.
WANTED, the Biggest Stars, especially Comedy, for immediate dates.
Full particulars, lowest terms, first instance.

CADLE'S AGENCY,
105-106, Strand, London, W.C.
WANTED, Sept. 19, and onward,
Stars in all Lines,
Stars in all Lines.

WANTED, Big Turns, three nights, Sept. 22 and 26, Shares. A break between Edinburgh, Dundee, and Aberdeen. W. E. POTTS, O. H., Dunfermline.

WANTED, Acts of all Kinds, Acts of all Kinds.

Lowest and House Address,

DALTON'S AGENCY,
29, Mauldeth-rd. West, Withington, Manchester.

WANTED, Wanted, Wanted, Wanted, Wanted, Wanted,
Acts of Every Description for
THE HIPPODROME, HULL.
THE HIPPODROME, HULL.
Can place Immediate Dates.
Good Comedians, Serios, Patter Comedians, and Comedy Acts
Write, with list of dates, and lowest terms, to
WALTER BENTLEY,
168, Brixton-road, London, S.W.

WANTED, Variety Acts of every Description. FRED COLLINS'S Agency, 21, Barclay-street, Springburn, Glasgow. Telephone, P.O. Springburn, 84.

EMPIRE PALACE, BARNSLEY.
Managing-Director, WILL SMITHSON.
WANTED, Good Speciality Acts, Sept. 19, 26, Oct. 3, and later dates.
All communications, WILL SMITHSON.

WANTED, Acts of all Lines, for Wallsend, for immediate dates; also Tops, for Sept. 19, Oct. 10, on. WILL LUND'S Agency, Liverpool. Wires, "Comedy, Liverpool." 'Phone 682 Royal.

WANTED, Very Best of Talent, in all Lines, for Widnes. Runcorn, and Northwich. Refinement Essential.
HAMILTON & HUGHES, Co-Op. Hall, Widnes.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS WANTED.

Wires, "Daneids, Liverpool."

Telephone, Royal 4036.

WANTED, the Greatest Acts in the Profession, immediate and future dates, for all the principal Variety Houses in the British Isles, Stars, Novelties, Specialities, Artists in all Lines, the bigger the better. Always vacancies for Monday next; give list of bookings and house address, and state lowest; six months' solid work waiting for the Right Acts. Sole Booking Agents for over 20 establishments. Also Artists all Lines, Doubles doing Singles, &c., for Picture Houses; also Acts of all descriptions wanted for immediate and future dates, for Hippo., Londonderry; New Theatre, Hawick; Palace Theatre, Selkirk; Palace, Galashiels; New Theatre, Dumfries; King's Theatre, Gainsboro'; New Theatre, Newark; Corporation Theatre, Chesterfield; Co-operative Hall, Rugby; Spa, Whitby; Picturedrome, Ulverston; Picturedrome, Clitheroe; Picturedrome, Dalton-in-Furness; Picturedrome, Atherstone; Picturedrome, Stanley, Liverpool.

Lithos., photos., particulars, to the Hustlers,

DALY and REYNOLDS,
Cyprus-chambers, 176A, London-road, Liverpool.

WANTED, for Hall twenty miles from London, Saturday night, Sept. 17, Comedy Acts and useful Turns in all Lines; exceptional opportunity for Artists to be seen with view to long engagements. All expenses will be allowed. No Amateurs need apply. Write full particulars, mark envelope "Special."
ASHBURN'S Agency, 295, Kennington-road, S.E.
Or, 'Phone 5467 Central.

WANTED, Immediate Dates, and Dates, onwards,

Big Specialities.

Comedy Acts,

Tops of all kinds.
for
YARMOUTH & LOWESTOFT HIPPODROMES
and
HENGLER'S, GLASGOW.

Say when and where in towns before.

Absolute lowest and fullest particulars.

GEO. ZALVA'S Agency,
2, St. George's-road,
Great Yarmouth.
Impossible to answer all.

WANTED, Specialities and Star Artists all Lines, immediately, run of several weeks to right Acts. Send at once with permanent, to RAWES and CLARANCE, Central Agency, Bath-lane, Newcastle-on-Tyne.

WANTED, Sept. 19, S. Wales, Rochdale, Glasgow, Dublin, Bristol, Star Speciality, Troupes, Novelties, Variety Acts. Full bookings imperative. GANNON, West-grove, Bristol.

BARNARD'S AGENCY,
Shaw-street, Liverpool.
WANTED, Big Tops,
Wanted, Big Tops,
Wanted, Big Tops,
Wanted, Big Tops,
and Strong Attractions of all Description.

'Phone 2349 Royal. Tele., "Aeroplane, Liverpool."

SMYTHSON'S AGENCY,
38, Craster-road, Brixton Hill, London, S.W.
WANTED, Top-Liner Novelties, Britain and Continent.
(For Continent Sole Agency only entertained.)
Also Panto. Principals for best houses.
Particulars re previous Pantos. and lowest terms.

PALACE, DURHAM (on main line).
WANTED, Startling Tops and Bottoms, for immediate and future dates. T. C. RAWES.

WANTED, Big Tops and Bottoms, Sept. 19, on. Big Novelties, Big Singing and Comedy Acts wanted. WILL LUND'S Agency, 24, Seymour-st., Liverpool. Wires, "Comedy, Liverpool." 'Phone 682 Royal.

PERCY VICTOR'S AGENCY.
WANTED, Top Liners, and Artists all Lines.
Acts free 19th and 26th. Send immediately.
Full bookings and permanent address imperative.
48, Bilston-street, Wolverhampton.

WANTED, Big Star Tops, for Sept. 12, 19, 26,
Artists, all Lines,
Big Comedy Acts. Wire quick,
CLIQUOT'S Agency,
9, Monton-street, Denmark-road, Manchester.

BREAK YOUR JOURNEY.
WANTED, big Top Liners, immediate and future dates. Terms and open time to GRIFFIN, Palace, Northampton.

PALACE THEATRE, READING.
WANTED, Tops and Bottoms of Bills, several dates this and next year. Letters only. STANHOPE and Co., LTD., 12, Buckingham-st., W.C.

WANTED, Sept. 19, on, really Good Sisters, Comedians, Doubles doing Singles, Specialities, &c., Stage 20ft. by 16ft, hall small, salary same. Call for Monday: Sketch, "The Culprits," Art Harrolld, Daisy Child, Sid Kearns, Arthur and Daisy, Harry Mantell, Scotch and Polly, Mitzi, Two Leons, The Orchids, Dave Murray, Carrie Ford. Rehearsal 12 noon. WALTER ADAMS, Cosy Corner, Romford. Twelve miles from London. Turns with own lithos preferred.

WANTED, for one night only, Oct. 27, an entertainment for indoor Primrose League Fête, lasting 1 to 1½ hours. Apply to Miss BODDY, Elmsleigh, Tarring, Worthing.

WANTED, Wire Walker, with own tackle, Lady preferred, to work in Cinematograph Picture. For full particulars, write Stage-Manager, CRICKS and MARTIN, London-road, Mitcham.

WINTER GAR. ELECTRIC T., CHELTENHAM.
WANTED, First-class Vocalists, for Illustrated Songs. GILLSMITHS, LTD.

WANTED, Lady, must have Smart Appearance, able to imitate Ashwell, Terry, Campbell, and others. Full particulars, Box 8232, "The Era."

JAMAICA.
THE COLONIAL AMUSEMENT SYNDICATE.
WANTED, First-class Lady Vocalists and Dancers,
Also Young Lady Pianist and Vocalist.
Return fares paid.
Journey takes two weeks.

Address, with full particulars, to
Box 8,202, "The Era."

WANTED, Really First-class Refined Comediennes and Comedians, with good voices, for six months' Tour abroad, must be young, handsome, talented beyond question, and Ladies and Gentlemen in the true sense. Excellent salaries paid to the right people; sail early in Nov. Apply by letter, enclosing photographs, to C. EMLYN JONES, 3, 4, and 5, Cartwright-gardens, Russell-square, W.C.

WANTED, smart Young Lady (Trapeze or Good Bender), to open at once. Apply, TRAPEZE, 67, Walcot-square, S.E.

WANTED, for Second Company, Smart Risley Performers, Tumblers, Contortionists, &c. Good salaries for the right people. Particulars, WILL DOUGLAS, New Theatre, Oxford.

WANTED, Wanted, Wanted, First-class Bearer and Catcher, at once.
Wire, No. 106, Variety Artists' Club, Booth-street East, Manchester.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS WANTED.

WANTED, Smart Improver, Hand Balancer, and Second Mount or Tumbler. Apply with terms, particulars, BONAIR, Bostock Pavilion, Wishaw, N.B.

WANTED, at Once, Good Tumbler, for Well-known Comedy Act. Send terms, tricks, height, and age in first letter, to save time. Box 8,248, "The Era."

WANTED, Smart Young Man, as Assistant to Illusionist; must be able to use tools. State age, height, salary, &c., to Box 8,190, "The Era."

WANTED, to Open Immediately, Dreadnought Machine, First-class Operator, to understand gas and electric. J. Gardner write in. Apply, stating terms and references, to MANAGER, Palace, High Wycombe.

WANTED, Music Hall Artists who experience difficulty in obtaining copies of "The Era" at any of Messrs. Smith and Son's Bookstalls to kindly communicate with the PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS' WANTS.

WANTED, for Gabrielle Hope's Novelty Musical Act, Sept. 12. This, Romford; Bournemouth 19th. The only lady playing organ chimes alone, and sleigh bells to own piano accompaniment; marimbaphone, spielophone, and piano solos. 1, Norfolk House-road, Streatham.

Enormous Success of the Great Top-Liner,
VERA DE ASTRA,
the Celebrated Andalusian Beauty,
in Sensational Creation,
"A SHEPHERD'S DREAM,"
a Refined Combination of High-class Dancing and Picturesque Posing.
Supported by the Famous Dancer,
WANDA BARANOFF,
and the great Premier Dancer,
OLAVE FRITCHOFF,
from the Royal Opera House, Copenhagen.
WANTED, immediately, Dates for this Great Act. Shares or certainties. A money-drawing attraction for every place.
Address perm., 10, Leicester-place, W.C.
Next week, Top of the Bill, Empire, Bristol.

WANTED, Sept. 12, Babs Lloyd, Comedienne and Dancer; also Nellie Boden, Comedy Artist. Wire, Picturedrome, Longton. North preferred. Good turns.

WANTED, Known, Patricia Lind, Refined Vocal Comedienne, Liberty Sept. 19. Best offers invited, Halls, Sketch, Concert Party, &c. Good Pianist, Concertedes; also Panto., Soubrette or Low Comedy part. MASQUERADERS, Frazerburgh, Scotland.

WANTED, Monday, by Miss Hazel Dean, Chic Comedienne and Skipping-rope Dancing Expert. Wire for Monday, Theatre Royal, Jarrow.

WANTED, Lady (29) Vocalist, experienced, also Pianist, wishes to join party or quartette, with booking ahead for halls; must be refined. Share or salary. Box 8,234, "The Era."

WANTED, Monday, also 19th and 26th, by Sisters Ely, the Refined Duettists, third visit Hippodrome, Wakefield, recalled nightly. Wire, Hippodrome; permanent, 7, Carver-st., Liverpool.

WANTED, Sept. 19, 26, by Dolly, Agnes, and Maud, the famous Singing Boxmakers, three people. A sure draw. Add., Monday, H., Bishop Auckland.

WANTED, Known, Pat O'Connor, Comedian and Champion All-round Dancer, Monday, Sept. 5, Alexandra T., Pontefract. Offers. 17, Newcastle-street, Hulme, Manchester.

WANTED, Sept. 19, or good Tour, by George Ritter, Speciality Musical Comedian and Pianist, 17th week Frewin's Coons. 2, Anchor-road, Clacton.

WANTED, Sept. 29 to Dec. 5, by Harry Hardy, Grotesque Dutch Comedian and Eccentric Dancer. This, Top, Theatre, Gosport, to precede Southport Palace, Bradford, Lincoln, Leicester, Bath, Cardiff, &c. Coms., 114, Shearer-road, Portsmouth.

WANTED, Monday next, various, on, by Frank Selby, Comedian at the Piano. This, Yarmouth; after Sat., 7, Grasmere-rd., Muswell Hill, N.

WANTED, Monday next, by Clive Watts, Eccentric Comedian and Dancer.
34, Gowlett-road, East Dulwich, London, S.E.

WANTED, Sept. 19, 26, by Sam Ello, Great Comedian and Dancer, D.C. lithos., and photo. frames. Public Hall, Woking.

WANTED, Engagement, Harry Barlow, Baritone, after Successful Tour of America, Open from Sept. 12 onwards; high-class Vocalist and Duettist. Perm., 10, Wellington-street, Stockport.

WANTED, by Geo. St. Helen, the Australian Actor-Vocalist, Nov. 7, 10, on, with exceptions. Latest Song Scena, "Out in the West." Seen by R. Colin, Esq., and given three special weeks. Next, Hippo., Ilkeston. Would buy a Wood Cloth, 24 by 18.

WANTED, Sept. 26, Oct. 3, 10, by Jimmy Shields, the Clever One-legged Comedian and Dancer. Empire Theatre, Hull.

WANTED, Monday next, onwards, exceptions, Dan Ashton, Empire's Collier Comedian, Copyright Songs, Sketches, Extraordinary Colliery Pictures. Encored nightly, Theatre Royal, Seaham Harbour, Durham. Enquire Management.

WANTED, Known, Stylo, Wonderful Hoop Juggling Effects, seven times London Pav. London Hippo., &c. Vac. next two weeks. Wire, Central Pal., North Shields.

WANTED, all Oct. and Nov. 7 and 14, to precede Bostock Tour, by Li-Chang Hi and Tai Mao, Chinese Conjurers. Share or salary. 6-sheet lithos. Address, Pavilion, Rothesay.

WANTED, Known, Olsen, Equilibrist, vacant Sept. 26, Oct. 3, Novelty for Picture Halls. All coms., 68, Talbot-road, Blackpool.

WANTED, Sept. 19 and 26, Wilton Warton, Incomparable Conjurer. This, St. James's Hall, Harrogate; next, Pavilion, Northwich, Cheshire.

WANTED, Sept. 19 (between Northampton and Tynemouth), through Dudley closing, by Philip Levard, Illusionist, three people, special scenery, big set, new illusions. Queen's Park Hippo., Manchester. Next week, Palace, Northampton.

WANTED, Dates, Oct. and Nov., by Pharos, the greatest Egyptian illusionist.—Vide Oswald Stoll, Esq. Good Top Liner, most sensational draw, well staged, beautifully dressed. 25, Osbourne-road, Blackpool.

WANTED, Monday next, Jean Seul, the Indian Mystery. Palace, Sale, near Manchester.

WANTED, Known, Little Hackenschmidt, with his Latest Challenges. Greater Success than Ever. Starring, packing, defeating, and surprising, all at Empress, Hartlepool, where wire. Vacant Sept. 19, 26, Oct. 3.

WANTED, Known, the Tissots, Originators of Living Marionettes, are Vacant Sept. 12 and 19. Wire, Tivoli, Dublin.

WANTED, by Meux's Marionettes, and L'Etoile, in Living Statuary. Oct. 10, to follow Darlington. Two acts. Panto. settled. MEUX, Kursaal, Southend.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS' WANTS.

Something new. Away from all others.
WANTED, Known, Gilbert Payne and Ethyl Errol, in the Original Episode "3 a.m."
Beautifully dressed and staged, capably played.
Vacant Monday, also Sept. 19, 26.
Wire, Wire, Wire, Palace, Glasgow.

WANTED, Oct. 3, 17, by Andre and Brenton, Fresh from American Triumphs in Screaming Duo, "Kitty." One long laugh. Good London agent required. 12th, Empire, Southport.

WANTED, Sept. 19, 26, by Harry Keeble, the Incomparable Ventriloquist; also Gladys Wells, the Celebrated Yorkshire Contralto. Monday, Grand, Gravesend.

WANTED, Wanted, Nov. 7, 14, and on, by the Unique Equilibristic Marvels,
PHINEAS and ADA.
On Tour.
Perm., Belfield Lawn, Rochdale.

WANTED, Known, the Two Le Bruns (Edgar, Comedy Equilibrist, and Edith, one of the cleverest of lady jugglers and stylish vocalist). Great success this week, Empire, Camberwell, London; vacant Monday; also 19th. Wire.

WANTED, next week, Wylie and Kitz, in Musical Comedy Sketch, "What Would the Vicar Say?" introducing Wylie, Expert Violinist Hippo., Shrewsbury. Refer Manager.

WANTED, Monday, Edinburgh to follow, by Chant and Chant, Vocal Comedy Duo. Wire, the Smart Pair, Theatre Royal, Jarrow-on-Tyne.

WANTED, Known, Pearce and Ward, Comedy Artists. Next, Pavilion, Leicester. Vacant Sept. 19 and 26. Wire offers to above.

WANTED, Sept. 19, 26, by Peakman and Walsh, the Real Comedy Jugglers, in a Novel Screaming Act, "The Waiter and Tourist." Many thanks to Dan Noble and Edgar Stebbings for Contracts. Big Success last week, Regent, Salford; ditto ditto, this, Palace, Buxton; next, New Empire, Merthyr Tydfil. Wire direct, or to our Agents as per above. Offers invited. Vacant for Panto.

WANTED, Known, The Cumberlands, free Nov. 14, 21, Dec. 5, 12, 19, 26. Letters, Empire, West Hartlepool.

WANTED, Known, The Danbys, Comedians, Knockabout and Dancing Experts. Liberty for Pantomime. Wires, Palace Theatre, West Hartlepool.

WANTED, Monday (Sept. 12), Sept. 26, and Dec. 5 and 12, by Folay and Francis, the extraordinary Comedians. Wire, Palace, Ramsey, I.O.M.

WANTED, by Benette and Kellino Trio, Eccentric Acrobats and Risleyists, Monday next, and onwards. This week, Empire, Merthyr. Perm. Add., 23, Hercules-road, Lambeth.

WANTED, Sept. 19, by Avrignys, great Jap Juggling number. A sure success. T. R., Grantham.

WANTED, by the Sisters Geretti, Premier Gymnasts, Sept. 19, 26, and Oct. 3 and 10.
Hippodrome, Liverpool.

WANTED, Known, Le Blond and Miss Ol. Dare, with their great Aerial Gymnastic Act, at Liberty Sept. 26. Wood Castle, Bordesley Green, Birmingham.

WANTED, Sept. 19, 26, by famous Attilla Bros., near Weymouth, two Acts, big Draw. Wire, O. H., Weymouth; next, O. H., Jersey.

WANTED, Sept. 19, on, to follow Neath, the Great Rohde and Roche, Original Novelty Act, the Chameleon Artist and It. Enormous success Long Eaton; Sept. 12, Pal., Neath. We guarantee you draw, wire.

WANTED, Oct. 10, by La Dor Troupe (six in number), male and female novelty acrobats. Big success Crystal Palace. Jubilee Hall, Weymouth.

WANTED, Sept. 12, on, The Flying Orenius's (Stage Aerial), last three weeks the Success of Edinburgh Marine Gardens. 67, Walcot-sq., S.E.

WANTED, Sept. 19, 26, Bouncing Peps, an extraordinary Gymnastic Comedy Novelty. Managers, Press, Public, and Artists all say: A smart act. Come, see us. Monday, Empire, Edmonton.

WANTED, Frantz's Comedy Five, Vacant Sept. 19, 26. Sept. 12, Paragon; Oct. 3, Empress; 10th, Dover; 17th, Eastbourne; 24th, Emp., Camberwell; Nov. 1, Rotterdam; &c. All communications, R. FRANTZ, Perm. Address, 15, Richmond-terrace, London, S.W.

WANTED, Sept. 26 and Oct. 3, by RICH. TAYLOR, the Whistling Ventriloquist.
An Act Brimful of Novelties, and a Huge Success everywhere.
This, Grand, Oldham; next, Empire, Southport.
Letters or wires as above.

WANTED, Oct. 3, 10, 17, by Hulbert (Ventriloquist) and De Lil (Illusionist), two smart Acts. Offers invited. COTTRELL'S Pictures, Consett, Durham.

WANTED, Sept. 19, on, by Grieve, Versatile Ventriloquist in Kilts, six figures, funny show, fine singing. Workman's Hall, Mardy, S. Wales.

WANTED, Monday next, for the Laughing Success, "Aunt Matilda." Three Artists; 15 minutes' fun. Vacant Nov. 7, through Ilkeston closing.
Wire for Monday next,
HARRY ELLISTON, Palace, Darlington.

WANTED, Known, to Proprietors and Managers, Wallace Selkirk's Juvenile Spectacles are in no way connected with any other person of the same surname. I am the Selkirk, of Juvenile Spectacle Fame, of twenty years' standing.—Signed, WALLACE SELKIRK.

WANTED, Monday, by Billy Ross and Co., Great Comedy and Speciality Boxing Act, Boxing Matinée; Competitions nightly if required. Wire, 22, Geneva-road, Brixton, London.

WANTED, Known, Fred Astley's American Circus, the greatest and funniest animal act. Five ponies and mules. Can work on any stage. Elaborate fit-up, everything smart. Vacant Sept. 26, Oct. 3 and 17.
Address, Luna Park Circus, Southend.

WANTED, Known, Miss Shanara's Great Troupe Deer, Goats, Great Novelty, the only Known Act of this kind; refined, up to date; something out of the usual, Stage Set and Costumes A1. Big Turn for Parks, Fêtes; the one Original. Marvellous performance, including the High-springing Bok. Vac. 19th. 18, Carter-street, Sunderland.

WANTED, Miss Doris' Fox-Terriers and Football Team, to communicate at once to J. SHARMAN, 8, Fenwick-street, Sunderland.

WANTED, by Inanda, presents "Bute," Marvellous Educated Canine Wonder, Refined Speciality, Clever, Humorous, the only dog performing the Barrel Act. Free Sept. 12, 19, 26, Oct. 17, Nov, on. Address, 8, Fenwick-street, Sunderland.

WANTED, Known, The Cyclinis, Comedy Cyclists, Football on Wheels, second to none, vacant Monday, also 12th, 19th. Agent, STEBBINGS, Perm., 7, Ebberstone-st., Moss Side, Manchester.

FOR CONTINUATION OF "WANTED" ADVTS. SEE PAGE 36.

MOSS' EMPIRES, LTD & STOLL COMPANIES SUBSEQUENT

(Moss, Stoll, Thornton & Allen Theatres, Amalgamated.)

Chairman: Sir Edward Moss

WORKING IN CONJUNCTION

Capital £2,086,000.

(Including Coliseum Syndicate, Ltd.)

Chairman Oswald Stoll.

Managing Director: OSWALD STOLL

Assisting Director and Chief of Staff: FRANK ALLEN.

Department Superintendent and Chief Accountant: W. S. GORDON MICHIE.

Co-Operative Offices: CRANBOURN MANSIONS, CRANBOURN STREET, LONDON, W.C.

INTERVIEWS BY APPOINTMENT ONLY.

CALLS FOR MONDAY, SEPT. 12, 1910.

Telephone: 1050 and 1051 Gerrard.
Wires: Moss' Empires and Associated Properties, "Twigsome, London."

THE LONDON HIPPODROME

Rehearsal at 10 a.m. for:—

Zena Dare and Co., Cleo De Merode, Fragson, Romanis, Poncherrys, Sisters Reeve, Alex. Carangeot, Lylie Read, Lena Verdi, Speedwell, Animated Pictures, Herbert Lloyd, Carmos.

EMPIRE PALACE, EDINBURGH.
Rehearsal at 1.30 p.m. for:—

Serene Nord, Maples, Rosa Loader, Harry Weldon, Jackson Family of Cyclists, Bert Harrow, McConnell Trio, Eily Adair, Bioscope, Poluskis.

EMPIRE THEATRE, GLASGOW.
Rehearsal at 12 noon for:—

The Great Lester, Merton and Rydon, Chas. Santon, Esta Stella, Piccad Troupe, Arthur Lewis, Marie Reeve, Bioscope, Campbell and Barber, Alexandre and Hughes.

COLISEUM, GLASGOW.
Rehearsal at 12 noon for:—

Karno's "Football Match," Beaty and Blanche, Bioscope, Ricardo and Salving, Cumberlands, Laurie's Kindergarten, Mazie Hibbs, Ernie Mayne, Motramos.

GRAND THEATRE, GLASGOW.
Rehearsal at 12 noon for:—

Stock Company, Illustrated Song, and Pictures.

ARDWICK THEATRE, MANCHESTER.
Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Horace Goldin, George Carney and Co., Betty Green, Jenny and Joe, Satanella Trio, Walter Wade, Bioscope, Winifred Hare, Harry Brown.

HIPPODROME, MANCHESTER.
Rehearsal at 12 noon for:—

George Graves and Co., Melford's "Non-Suited," Elizabeth Meacham, James Stewart, Grant and Grant, Sutcliffe Family, Georgina Leno, Bioscope, Marquis's Ponies.

EMPIRE PALACE, BIRMINGHAM.
Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Karno's "G.P.O.," Du Gros Trio, Edie Gray and Boys, Little Zola, Tom Clare, Arabella Allen, Elmer Spyglass, Harry Simms, Bioscope, King and Benson.

BORDESLEY PALACE, BIRMINGHAM.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for;

Fredk. Melville's Co. in "Her Forbidden Marriage."

GRAND, BIRMINGHAM.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

George Formby, Queenie Leighton, Cornalla and Eddie, Bioscope, Helene Donald, Lockhart's Elephants, Leipzig, Daras, Ernest Shand.

PALACE, LEICESTER.
Rehearsal at 2.30 p.m. for:—

Happy Fanny Fields, Tom E. Hughes, Nina Wood, Orpheus, Riogoku Family, Haig and Novel, Arthur Slater, Sisters Jerome, Bioscope, Livesey and Rosebery.

EMPIRE, NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.
Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Tom Foy and Co., Ada Colley, Rawsons, Tom Parker, Sanford and Lyons, Cissie Curlette, Cavalotti Brothers, Bioscope, Severus Schaffer, Johnny Danvers.

EMPIRE PALACE, LIVERPOOL.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Harry Tate and Co. in "Flying," Hardini Trio, Brothers Dean, Millie Hylton, Queen and Le Brun, Lumars, Maurice, Bioscope, Barton and Ashley, Lily Shaw.

OLYMPIA, LIVERPOOL.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Willy Pantzer and Co., Lilly's "Drummed Out," Fisher's Vocalesques, Syd May, Bert Williams, Sisters Doherty, Cassie Walmer, Bioscope, Ferry Corway.

EMPIRE, HACKNEY.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Kate Carney and Co., Lizzie Glenroy, Clown Argo, Kitts and Wyndrum, Jackson Family, Drew and Alders, Sybil St. Elmo, Bioscope, Daunton-Shaw Troupe, Fred Russell.

EMPIRE, FINSBURY PARK.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Raymond Phillips' Airship, Ugo Nap, Bioscope, Eisteddfod Sextette, Legay Trio, Howard and Harris, France and Stewart, Harry Bedford, Jack Pleasants, Seven Perezoffs.

EMPIRE, NEW CROSS.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Ella Russell, Videos, Niagara and Falls, Kirbys, Harry Jolson, May Henderson, Stephens and Rennior, George Rae, Bioscope, John Warren and Co.

BROADWAY THEATRE, NEW CROSS.
Rehearsal at 12 noon for:—

Carl Rosa Opera Company.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE, STOKE NEWINGTON.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Stock Company. Illustrated Song and Pictures.

EMPIRE, STRATFORD.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

George Lashwood, Dan Hendy, Brull and Hemsley, Nellie Wallace, King's College Boys, Sisters Gladwyn, Keltons, Bollingers, Bioscope, Nelson Jackson.

THE LONDON COLISEUM

Rehearsal at 10 a.m. for:—

Russian Balalaika Court Orchestra, Jack Lane, Mlle. Dolli, Sam Stern, Montgomery and Moore, Sylvia Cavalho, Finend, Francoli Troupe, Bioscope, Joe Peterman's "Chanteclair," Mlle. Charpentier.

EMPIRE THEATRE, BRADFORD.
Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Gertie Gitana, Will Evans, Empire Girls, Shirley and Ransome, New Macs, Three Laurels, Harry Marte, Bioscope, Gustave Fasola.

EMPIRE, SWANSEA.
Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Bella and Bijou, Marconis, Woodhouse and Wells, Conn and Conrad, Ben Albert, Verno and Voyce, Mona Vivian, Bioscope, Olga, Elgar, and Eli Hudson.

EMPIRE, CARDIFF.
Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

George Leyton and Co., Jack Lorrimer, Sylvia Du Barry, Barrett and Knowles, Avolos, Barry Lupino, Lydia and Amelys, Stella Stahl, Bioscope, Staley's Transformation.

PHILHARMONIC HALL, CARDIFF.
Rehearsal at 3 p.m. for:—

Company as booked.

EMPIRE, NEWPORT.
Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Whit Cunliffe, Bioscope, W. Fullbrook and Co., De Wynne Brothers, O'Hanlon Trio, Bugler Carr, Mike Nono, Maidie Scott, Hans and Lux.

EMPIRE, NOTTINGHAM.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Fanny Moody and Charles Manners, Lola Patey, Fielding and Hull, Grassis, Fred Earle, Keene and Adams, Violas, Bioscope, Tom Edwards.

EMPIRE PALACE, SHEFFIELD.
Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Hetty King, Leonards, Gwennie Hasto, Evelyn Stoll, Chas. Norton, Three Merrills, Ed. E. Ford, Goltz Trio, Sisters Pine, Bioscope, Fred Lindsay.

PALACE THEATRE, HULL.
Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Harry Randall, Australian Woodcutters, Johnny Walker, Mary Ambrose, Lawrence Barclay, Winifred Ward, Duncan's Collies, Musical McGregors, Bioscope, Gothams.

EMPIRE PALACE LEEDS.
Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Ella Shields, Daisy Dormer, Phillips and Merritt, Fred Curran, Garden City Four, Mons. and Mme. Alf. Agoust, Miles-Stavordale Quintette, Sisters Kilner, Bioscope, Mike S. Whallen.

EMPIRE, SHEPHERD'S BUSH.
Rehearsal at 11 a.m. for:—

G. H. Elliott, Harry Roxbury and Co., Leo Stormont, Azella Wilson, Eadie and Ramsden, Mitchell and Cain, Rhoda Paul, Musical Silvo, Bioscope, Helen Trix.

EMPIRE, HOLLOWAY.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m.:—

Stock Company. Illustrated Song and Pictures.

The following are Booked in conjunction with the above:

EMPIRE, SUNDERLAND.
Rehearsal at 12 noon for:—

George French, Ella Retford, Cull Pitt, Six Lancashire Lasses, Mezzettis, Roze and Calvert, Bert Weston, Bioscope.

EMPIRE PALACE, SOUTH SHIELDS.
Rehearsal at 2 p.m. for:—

Hadj. Mahommed Troupe, Frank Couch, Daisy Martell, Brothers Neill, Will Johnson, Pictures, Florrie Gallimore.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, WALSALL.
Rehearsal at 12 noon for:—

Twelve Fezzans, Fred Lincoln, La Superbe, Roma and Romani, Jennie Alexander, Bioscope, Horace Pollock and Co.

EMPIRE, WEST HARTLEPOOL.
Rehearsal at 12 noon for:—

Arden and Abel, Lock Mills, Carina Sisters, Doody and Wright, Bioscope, Andos Japs.

EMPIRE THEATRE, DUBLIN.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Anarios, Little Keeno, Peggy Pryde, Maud Rayne, Fred Hallam, Pictures, Burley and Burley, &c.

EMPIRE THEATRE, BELFAST.
Rehearsal at 1 p.m. for:—

Alice Hollander, Ethel Newman, Kitty Wagen, Chass Lewis, Lillian, Fred Poplar, Pictures, Tom Costello.

IMPERIAL HALL, WALSALL.
Company as Booked.

CROYDON HIPPODROME.
Rehearsal at 11 a.m. for:—

Le Roy, Talma, and Boscoe, Jessie Merrylees, Arthur Clifton, Luis Alvarez, Norman and Leonard Trio, Russell Wallett, Miller Brothers, Jenny Gastelle Bioscope, George Bastow.

PLEASE NOTE.—NO DEPUTIES WILL BE ACCEPTED AT REHEARSALS.

Special provision has been made at each theatre for the exhibition of loose photographs. Artistes are requested to supply these to the Manager on reaching the theatre, and they will be returned in good condition at the end of the week.

IMPORTANT NOTICES.

RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS.—All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office. Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns. Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier. Artists employing agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents. New Acts seeking Engagements, or turns not rebooked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our Districts Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follow:—

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, and DISTRICT.—MR. S. GETHING, Empire Theatre, Glasgow.
LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, and DISTRICT.—MR. PERCIVAL CRAIG, Empire Theatre, Bradford.
BIRMINGHAM, NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, and DISTRICT.—MR. HATTON WHARTON, Empire Theatre, Nottingham.
LIVERPOOL, MANCHESTER, and DISTRICT.—MR. HORACE COLE, The Empire, Liverpool.
SOUTH WALES DISTRICT.—MR. ALBERT MITCHELL, Empire Theatre, Cardiff.
LONDON DISTRICT.—MR. J. CHRISTIE, Empire Theatre, Shepherd's Bush, W.
TOURS COMMITTEE.—LLEWELLYN JOHNS and DISTRICT MANAGERS.

EMPIRE THEATRE, SOUTH SHIELDS.—Artists and Agents wishing to submit TRIALS for their Acts in the North, should apply to the Manager, as Matinées are held every Wednesday for that purpose.

N.B.—MR. OSWALD STOLL or MR. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously. Artists and Agents are requested to note that the Standard Theatre, Shoreditch, and the Terriss Theatre, Rotherhithe, come within the areas absolutely barred by us. Artists and Agents are also requested to note that the Hippodrome, Aston, Birmingham, comes within the area absolutely barred by the Grand Theatre and Empire Palace, Birmingham.

INSTRUCTIONS TO ARTISTS.—Artists must have at least Fourteen Band Parts for English Orchestrations, and Seventeen Band Parts for Foreign Orchestrations. Matter of Bill, Blocks, and Specimens of Pictorials FOR THE ABOVE THEATRES must be sent to Co-operative Offices, at above address, THREE WEEKS before Opening, failing which Artists will run the risk of having their Engagements cancelled. It is important that separate bill matter, blocks, pictorials, &c., for Dublin, Belfast, and South Shields, be sent direct to Mr. Frank Allen at the Co-operative Offices. IMPORTANT.—Artists must forward Copies of Songs to the STAGE DEPARTMENT, ABOVE ADDRESS, TWO WEEKS previous to opening, with Assignments for same, which will be returned. Artists are requested to note carefully that the clause in their contracts relating to rehearsals will in future be strictly enforced. Artists' Scenery, Properties, &c., MUST be fireproofed in accordance with the regulations of the Licensing Authorities. ARTISTS WILL CLEARLY UNDERSTAND THAT THEIR BUSINESS MUST BE FREE FROM ALL VULGARITY.

No order or contract for goods or services must be accepted for any of the foregoing theatres except upon receipt of an Official Form, issued from the Co-operative Offices, London, and signed by either Mr. Oswald Stoll, Mr. Frank Allen, or the Chief Accountant, otherwise the Company concerned will not be responsible for same, and will refuse payment. In special cases, where goods are required at once, suppliers must look to the individual placing the order, who will be personally liable, unless an official confirmatory order, signed as above, is received within forty-eight hours. Invoices must be sent to the Theatre, but monthly statements should be sent to the Co-operative Offices. The individual Company on whose behalf orders are signed is solely responsible for payment. The Management will not hold themselves responsible in the event of loss of or damage to any MSS., Songs, &c., submitted for consideration.

The Greatest Aggregation of Variety Theatres in the World

LONDON OFFICES:
— OAKLEY HOUSE, —
Bloomsbury St., W.C.,
where please address all communications in regard to the Professional and Publicity Departments of the PROVINCIAL CIRCUIT to Mr. SYDNEY ARTHUR.
—— Telegraphic Address ——
"CIRVAUMAC LONDON."
Telephone—No. 9167 GERRARD.

THE MACNAGHTEN VAUDEVILLE CIRCUIT

SHEFFIELD OFFICES:
KING'S CHAMBERS,
Angel St., Sheffield,
where please address all communications in regard to FINANCIAL, COMMERCIAL, and GENERAL BUSINESS MATTERS.
—— Telegraphic Address ——
"MACNAGHTEN, SHEFFIELD."
Telephone—No. 3449.

Director-General: Mr. FRANK MACNAGHTEN.

Secretary: Miss AMY ROBINSON.

General Business Manager for the Circuit: Mr. E. P. LAWTON.

Provincial District and Booking Manager: Mr. SYDNEY ARTHUR.

CALLS FOR WEEK COMMENCING MONDAY, SEPT. 12.

PROVINCIAL HOUSES.

PALACE, HALIFAX.
Gibbon and Bell, Maisonas, Juno Salmo, Bros. St. Clair, Poole and Maguire, Julia Reeve, Rizarellis, Recar Trio, Palace Perfection Pictures, Julius Walther.

PAVILION, LEICESTER.
Fred Ward, Jack Hamilton, "For Honour," Rose Cass, Goggin and Davis, Pavilion Perfection Pictures.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME, WARRINGTON.
Kirk and Saraski, Harry Taylor, Kitty Upton Three Delaries, Clark and Mostol, Ada Fawn, Tubby Edlin and Co., Hippodrome Perfection Pictures.

PALACE, SOUTHAMPTON.
Is It You? Competition, Ernest Rees, Bros. Rees, Cash and Clair, Showells, Mollie Doon, E. D. Nicholls and Co., Louie Freear, Russell and Held, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PALACE, BOW.
Matinée every Monday, at 2.30.
Sidney Bach, Florence Yayman, Cumminger and Colona, Maurice Lee and Company, Bros. Lawrence, Tho Boriskis, Pete and Minnie Lee, Tennis and Laune, Bessie and Neilson, Fred Maxwell and Company, Pictures.

SADLER'S WELLS.
Matinée every Monday, at 2.30.
"Lights of London."

PALACE, BRADFORD.
Matinée Thursday.
Frank Boyce, Millwards, Cissie Carter, Wilton Heriot and Co., Rowland Hill, Smith and Gibbs, Bibobi, Palace Perfection Pictures, Capt. Spaulding.

PALACE THEATRE, BATH.
Albert St. Clair, Daisy Hurdle, Gladys and Alber, Ethel Bourne, Reed and Stevens, Daisy Lloyd Wood, Harry Herbert, Guy Rider, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PALACE THEATRE, CARLISLE.
Coverdale's Dots, Maude Vera, Hayes and Merritt, Two Manites, Ford Williams, Mlle. Bartenelli, "The Key," Palace Perfection Pictures.

PALACE THEATRE, HUDDERSFIELD.
Bertha Winder, Shrillo, Albas, Bruce Green, "Compensation" Sketch, Mabel Thorne, Leoni De Lausanne, Zigeuner Quartette, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME, BURNLEY.
Ten Dixie Girls, Tom Davis Trio, Pat Lynch, Sisters Caine, Chas. Banks, Apollo, Edwin Garth, Palace Perfection Pictures.

PALACE THEATRE, LINCOLN.
Nellie Farrell, Reid and Power, J. H. Wakefield, Colbert, Doris Druce, "Plumbers," Danvers and Rosslyn, Mona Garrick, Palace Perfection Pictures, Beauty Competition.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME, CARDIFF.
Four Garricks, Arthur Harris, Cissie Brand, Rousby and Rene, Renot, "Yellow Fang," Palace Perfection Pictures, Four Figaros.

PALACE, BLACKBURN.
Forence Esdaile, Loube Trio, Hurman and Arthur, Dick and Dorothy, Latonas, Charburn's Juveniles, Colley and Scott, Palace Perfection Pictures.

THEATRE ROYAL, ROTHERHAM.
Chris. Baker, Pictures.

THEATRE ROYAL, CHESTERFIELD.
Village Blacksmith."

THEATRE ROYAL, ATTERCLIFFE.
Picture Entertainment.

KING'S, NOTTINGHAM.
T. C. Jaques, Pictures.

HIPPODROME, STOKE-ON-TRENT.
"At the World's Mercy."

PIER PAVILION, SOUTHPORT.
Morissey, De Breans, Sisters Hula, The Sages, Kitty Corelli, "Little Colonel," Cosgrove and Burns, Geo. Wood, Pavilion Perfection Pictures, Billy Elliott.

LONDON HOUSES.

FORESTERS'.
Matinées Monday and Thursday, at 2.30.
Vera Mayne, Arthur Bretton and Company, Norman Grant, Society Quartette, Harry Milton, Yangar, Oswald and Locke, Harry Harris, Alice Craven, Joe Collins, "Hello, Girls," Pictures.

SURREY THEATRE.
Matinée every Monday, at 2.30.
Oliver Martin, The Cedrics, Velda, Reg Beauchamp, Nellie Lunelle, H. P. Selwyn and Company, Ted Karno and Company, Josephine Crook, Lottie Lennox, Louisa Peach and Company, Pictures.

PALACE, BATTERSEA.
Matinée every Monday, at 2.30.
Pete and Juno, The Wedburns, Arthur Rose and Company, Virto, Sisters St. Julian, The Days, Myrtle Grove, Daisy Taylor, Little May Holden, Pictures.

London District and Booking Manager: Mr. FREDERIC BAUGH.

SPECIAL AND IMPORTANT NOTICE.—Artists engaged will please note that Rehearsals at ALL Halls take place at 12 o'clock noon each Monday. No excuses whatever for non-attendance will be entertained. All billing matter and notification of appearance accompanied by samples of pictorial printing must be IN THE CASE OF THE PROVINCIAL HALLS SENT TO OAKLEY HOUSE, BLOOMSBURY STREET, W.C.; AND IN THE CASE OF THE LONDON HALLS TO THE FORESTERS' THEATRE, CAMBRIDGE ROAD, E., fourteen clear days prior to opening, or Contract may be cancelled at the option of the Management. Artists wishing to negotiate Engagements for the London Houses of the Circuit will please apply to Mr. FREDERIC BAUGH, Booking Manager for London, at the FORESTERS' THEATRE, CAMBRIDGE ROAD, E. Telegraphic address, "Stageyness, London." Telephone 5954 Avenue.

Artists wishing to negotiate provincial engagements, Agents and Managers of Touring Companies, can be seen at Oakley House by appointment only.

All applications for dates at the Theatre Royal, Rotherham, and Theatre Royal, Chesterfield, to be addressed to Oakley House, Bloomsbury-street, London.

THE VARIETY BOOKINGS AGENCY
(Successors to, and exclusive proprietors of the entire business formerly carried on by ROSEN & BLISS.)
General Manager - JOHN H. STRINGER.
Rooms 25 to 30,
12 HENRIETTA STREET,
COVENT GARDEN, W.C.
Telephone, 7623 Gerrard.
Telegrams, "Twopence, London."

ARTISTS PLEASE NOTE: A Comfortable Waiting-room has been installed, which is always at the disposal of our clients.

OPEN TO BOOK ALL BIG ACTS.
WANTED for Immediate Dates,
FIRST-CLASS SPECIALITIES.

NOTE.—Our Only Address—
12, HENRIETTA STREET,
COVENT GARDEN, W.C.

SUCCESS! SUCCESS! SUCCESS!
of
"MOTHER," "MOTHER," "MOTHER."
WALTER EMERSON
in his Latest Success,
"Mother," "Mother," "Mother."
Sept. 12,
Hippodrome, Sheffield.
Agent, E. DE VERE, Esq.

INSTANTANEOUS SUCCESS!!!
"BE PREPARED."
THE SCOUTS' MARCHING SONG.
This Song is going Very Strong although only out two weeks. Applications invited for performance at the Halls. Professional Copy Free for professional card
R. H ALLEN & CO., Music Publishers,
32-34, Theobald's-road, London, W.C.

To Hotel Proprietors who regularly file "The Era."
HANDSOME ILLUMINATED METAL TABLETS
of
"THE ERA."
PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings,
5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

TO THEATRE PROPRIETORS, WARDROBE DEALERS, AND OTHERS.
The Auction Mart,
Tynewydd Road, Barry Dock.

MESSRS. RUFUS A. DAVIES & CO.
(Members of the Auctioneers' Institute) have received instructions from the Executor of the late Mr. Augustine Knight
TO SELL BY PUBLIC AUCTION at the above address on TUESDAY, SEPT. 20, 1910, the Entire Stock of SCENERY & WARDROBE
used in the two dramas "The Assassin" and "Mysteries of the Thames," comprising: 2 handsome Palace ects, 17ft. flats, doors, and openings; 2 light chambers, 17ft. flats, doors, openings, fireplace, &c.; interior Church scene, illuminated cloth and cut cloth, 4 wings, 30ft. and 20ft.; illuminated Garden cloth (snow scene) and 4 book wings, 30ft. and 20ft.; massive oak chamber, 2 large openings, 2 doors, fireplace, 4 plains, window piece, and backing; St. Petersburg, illuminated snow cloth and 4 book wings, 30ft. and 20ft.; 2 beautiful Palace cloths, 30ft. and 20ft.; illuminated Thames cloth, 30ft. and 20ft.; old Kitchen cloth, 2 doors, built staircase, and 2 plain pieces; oak chamber cloth, C opening, oak flats, 2 doors, fireplace, and several plains; Ship scene, complete, Horizon cloth, 2 side cloths, bulwarks, rattlings, deckhouse, bridge, mast, and border; 2 House pieces, practical doors, Bar-room cloth, 23ft. by 16ft.; Bedroom scene, window piece, door and 2 plains; Chandelier, Gong, Military Uniforms, Swords, Helmets, Wigs, Printing, &c., &c.
All scenery painted by Egerton, of Bradford.
On view day prior from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.
Sale to commence at One p.m. sharp.
Further particulars from the Auctioneers, at the Mart, Tynewydd-road, Barry Dock.

TO BE LET on Building Lease, the grandest and most perfectly positioned MUSIC-HALL or THEATRE SITE IN SOUTH LONDON, with main road frontage of 112ft., close to the London tram junction connecting with Wimbledon, Croydon, and Putney, side frontages 167ft. and 161ft. respectively. The scheme lately stopped by the death of projector ready for adoption. A small premium for a 99 years' lease at £250 per annum. Freehold might be acquired. Plans can be seen upon application (by appointment) to EWART W. FISHER, Sole Agent, 12, Norfolk-street, Strand.

For the convenience of Advertisers and Members of the Amusement Professions a PUBLIC TELEPHONE CALL OFFICE
is installed at
"THE ERA" OFFICES,
5, Tavistock Street, W.C.

SCHOOL FOR DAUGHTERS OF ARTISTS and Professional Men. Warwick College, 71, Brixton-hill, S.W. Large house and garden, excellent education in all branches, home comforts. Terms strictly moderate. PRINCIPAL.

NURSING HOME. On Northern Heights, overlooking London to St. Paul's and Alexandra Palace; comfort and good nursing; all cases received; £4 4s. to £8 8s. weekly. 6, Womersley-rd., N. 'Phone 327 Hornsey.

PROFESSIONAL APARTMENTS.
Three Lines, ONE SHILLING.
Thirteen Insertions, TWELVE SHILLINGS.
Address, PUBLISHER, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

ABERDEEN.—Mrs. Bowman, 41, Gilcomston-park, 3 sitting, 3 bedrooms (1 double), 2 pianos, bath, near H. M. Theatre, 5 mins. Halls.

BLACKPOOL.—13, South Edward-st. Sitting and Bed rooms; comb. room; 2min. amusements; mod. terms. Davies. 14 years refers.

BRIGHTON.—Seven Stars, Ship-street, opposite G.P.O. The professional house. Sunday Reunions. Always a hearty welcome. Luncheons, &c., at popular prices. DE COSTA, Proprietor.

EDINBURGH.—Cathedral Hotel, near Lyceum, Royal, Empire, and King's. Recommended. Personal Supervision. CHARLES GRANT.

GLASGOW.—Jenning's, Buchanan-st. Station Hotel; inclusive terms 30s. weekly. Near Royal, Royalty, Grand, Empire, Pavilion.

LIVERPOOL.—Royal Court Hotel, Queen-square. Open on Sundays for travellers. Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. De Silva (Cossie Noel).

LONDON, S.W.—Brixton. Comfortable Apartments (bath, h. and c.); good cooking and attendance; close to Theatre and Empire; motor 'bus passes for West End. 10, Effra-road.

LONDON, S.W.—Nice large dining-room and Bedroom (ex. piano); also Small Sitting-room and Bedroom. Terms mod. 42, Charlwood-street, near Victoria.

LONDON, W.—Furnished apartments. Bedrooms, from 10s.; combined ditto, and suites; bath. 6, Arundell-st., Piccadilly Circus (opposite Tube).

LONDON, W.—Hammersmith. 79, The Grove. Superior sitting, bed, and comb rooms; piano, bath; 2 mins. King's, Palace, Lyric; good cooking; well recommended; near Tube and rail.

LONDON, W.C.—Central. To let, two furnished flats. 66, St. Martin's-lane, W.C.

MANCHESTER.—Vac. Sunday. Sitting-rooms, bedrooms, or comb. rooms; piano. Terms mod. Mrs. Halliday, 45, Rumford-st., C.-on-M.

NOTTINGHAM.—Mrs. Till, 2, Chaucer-villas, Chaucer-st. Apartments, bath (h. and c.), w.c., piano; two minutes halls and theatres.

PORTSMOUTH.—Judd's Hotel. In same family over thirty years. Accommodation for professional gentlemen; inclusive from 30s.

WAKEFIELD.—Harewood Arms Hotel. Professional house of call. Close to Empire. All papers taken. WALTER HEWITT.

BRAID HILLS HOTEL, MORNINGSIDE, EDINBURGH. Charmingly situated hotel, completely appointed, every modern luxury, uninterrupted views of the city and surrounding district, 450ft. above sea level, pure mountain air, splendid public golf course adjoining hotel, also ladies' course; cable cars to and from city every three minutes up to 11.30 p.m. Terms moderate.
For descriptive brochure apply to MANAGER.

THE COVENTRY HOTEL FOR BACHELORS. 7 and 8, Rupert-street, Coventry-street, W. Terms moderate. Telephone No. 6369 Gerrard.

PHOTOS
with individuality, with Style, and with distinction,
MEAN SUCCESS.
MODERN PHOTOGRAPHIC WORK FOR ARTISTES.
The well-known establishment of THE Hana STUDIOS, Ltd., place at your service a thorough knowledge and experience of artistes' requirements.
WE CAN PLEASE YOU, AND OUR PRICES WILL SATISFY YOU TOO.
We gladly answer any enquiries.
THE HANA STUDIOS, Ltd.,
22, Bedford-street, Strand

FOR PRINTING
We aim to give the best, and we solicit a trial.
We have thousands of
STOCK PICTORIALS.
See our Catalogues.
STAFFORD & CO., Ltd., Netherfield, Notts.

MOODY BROS., Theatrical Printers, Birmingham, for Pictorials. Machinery to print 60 by 40. Write for new catalogue, which contains Mackenzie's and Hollingsburst's Illustrations; also Culliford's Catalogue for Bargains. Contracts for New Work solicited. 'Phone One-two-o-six Central. Tel. "Moody's, Bmgham"

WILSON'S Supply Streamer Letters. The Largest Assortment in the United Kingdom.
Mammoth Posters, Daybills, and the general Run of Show Printing at our usual Low Rates.
Roll Tickets and Railway Tickets a Speciality.
NEW WALK PRINTING WORKS, LEICESTER.

'Phone 177.
WE ARE POSTER SPECIALISTS. Try us.
Posters of all sizes, Daybills, Folders, Handbills, and all classes of Theatrical Printing, large or small.
HOLLOWAY and BIRD, Central Printing Works, Weston-super-Mare.

THEATRICAL ACCOUNTS
FOR BUSINESS MANAGERS.
How the Affairs of a Theatre can be most Efficiently Controlled by the Adoption of Systems of Internal Check.
By CUTHBERT E. SMEDLEY,
Chartered Accountant.
Price, 3/6. Post free, 3/9.

All concerned with the business side of a theatre will find much useful information and many valuable hints in "Theatrical Accounts for Business Managers," by Mr. Cuthbert E. Smedley, published at The Era office.—Referee, Jan. 31, 1909.

"Theatrical Accounts for Business-Managers," by Cuthbert E. Smedley, A.C.A. (The Era, Ltd., London, 3s. 6d.), is a most concise and comprehensive little work, calculated to prove of assistance to the theatre-manager. It shows how the affairs of a theatre can be most efficiently controlled by the adoption of systems of internal check. Specimen pages of the books to be kept are given, and the chapters treating of receipts, tours, book-keeping, and accounts and audit will be found to contain much useful information. In the appendix is given "a form of agreement with artists for touring engagements."—Liverpool Daily Post and Mercury, Feb. 3, 1909.

"Theatrical Accounts for Business Managers," by Cuthbert E. Smedley, A.C.A. (3s 6d., The Era, Ltd., 5, Tavistock-street, W.C.). The work of accountants has now been brought to a fine art, and in almost every branch of business a different system has been elaborated. The present work deals in a small compass fully and clearly with all the special features of theatrical management on the business side.—Financial Times, Feb. 1, 1909.

Skeleton schemes of book-keeping, &c., with explanations, showing how the affairs of a theatre can be efficiently managed by the adoption of systems of internal check in all departments. Contains also a draft agreement as between manager and artist.—Birmingham Daily Post, Jan. 27, 1909.

"Theatrical Accounts" (The Era, Ltd., 5, Tavistock-street, W.C.), we should say, is a very useful compilation for business-managers of our places of amusement. It is practical, exact, and analytical; it should stop leakages, and needs only good houses to keep it fully employed.—Sportsman, Feb. 8, 1909.

"Theatrical Accounts." By Cuthbert E. Smedley (The Era, Ltd., 3s. 6d.). Shows how the affairs of a theatre can be most efficiently controlled by the adoption of systems of internal check. Specimen pages of the books to be kept are given. Receipts, tours, book-keeping, and accounts, audit—each is allotted a separate chapter. In the appendix is given "a form of agreement with artists for touring engagements."—Morning Post, Jan. 27, 1909.

PUBLISHED BY
"THE ERA," LIMITED,
5, Tavistock Street, Strand, W.C.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 33.

MUSIC HALL ARTISTS' WANTS.

NOTICE.
NOTICE.
NOTICE.

WARNING.
WARNING.
WARNING.

WANTED, Wanted, Known, The Public are hereby informed that the Raymond Phillips' Wireless Controlled Airship is protected by Letters Patent in Great Britain and Abroad, under which the Sole and Exclusive Right to Self-propelled Air-vessels or Ships controlled by Wireless Electric Waves is covered, and that the use of any such apparatus by others will be an infringement of the patent against which Legal Proceedings will be at once instituted.

For terms, &c., apply to the Inventor,

T. E. Raymond Phillips,
15, Nicander-road,
Sefton Park,
Liverpool.

WANTED, by Swift Duo, Novel Comedy Cyclists, Sept. 12, 19. Wire, Kursaal, Southend; after Sat., 43, Oscar-st., St. John's, London, S.E.

WANTED, Known, two youths (17) seek Engagement in Sketch or Troupe. Photos if desired. Address, J. W., 29, Surtees-street, York.

SHOWMEN'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE ROLLING MOTOR TRACK RIDING MACHINE,
like the Cake-walk and See-saw Slip.
is
Always on the Move, and a Quick Money-taker.
Apply for full particulars to
Taylor, Plinston Bros., and Co., Ltd.

WANTED, Known, we are Sole Makers of W. Taylor's Patents for above Novelties. New address, Kingsley Works, Grange-road, Willesden Green, W. Registered Trade Mark "Cake Walk."

WANTED, Known, Cartridges, all Brands, Winchester Repeaters, Glass Globes, Water Balls, Targets, and every size cartridge, for the Stage, in stock. Greene, 74, Falmouth-road, S.E.

WANTED, Known, our Autumn Tour of Exhibitions commences Oct. 1, Streatham. For particulars, apply, Manager, Exhibtion, Town Hall, Streatham, S.W.

HALIFAX ZOO AND AMUSEMENT PARK.
WANTED, for the Grand Fun Fair, from Sept. 17 to Oct. 18, First-class Attractions, including good three-abreast Riding Machine, Helter Skelter, or anything suitable for outdoor; population 1½ millions. For particulars address A. G. Sandilands, Manager, Zoo and Amusement Park, Halifax.

WANTED, always, Freaks, Novelties, Sensational Attractions, with good drawing powers. Crouch's Old-established Wonderland and Variety Theatre, Argyle-street, Glasgow.

WANTED, Freaks, Novelties, and Attractions, now and onwards.
Full particulars, sample lithos., and postcards in first letter.
A. E. Pickard, American Museum.

H. E. MOSS'S CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR'S CARNIVAL, WAVERLEY-MARKET, EDINBURGH, commencing Monday, Dec. 26, 1910.
WANTED, First-class Side Shows. Apply, with full particulars, &c., to W. Campbell Milne, Carnival Offices, Waverley Market, Edinburgh.

WANTED, Lilliputians desiring to visit Australia. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Thumb write. Weathersby's Agency, 3, Bedford-street, W.C.

WANTED, for Barron's Free Exhibition, Kingstreet, Reading, opens Oct. 15, for Three Months, Wire-worker and Engraver, on shares or rental, also Lady Palmist, on shares. Must have good experience. Apply to Jack Barron, Sea View Exhibition, Marine-parade, Great Yarmouth.

WANTED, smart Saleswoman, to manage Jewellery Stall in Exhibitions. Apply, letters only, Manager, Exhibition, Town Hall, Streatham, S.W.

WANTED, for the Fishing Season, Tattooist, good money for right man, share or wages. Apply, Sherman, Bijou Hall, Great Yarmouth.

MR. JOHN STUDT'S NEW SHOW.
WANTED, Doorsmen, able to Lecture, assist Building, &c.; Open at Once, or later. Terms, age, refs., &c., to Pat O'Brien, General-Manager, Fair Ground, Brynmawr.

WANTED, Smart Young Man to help work up Local Exhibitions; must be used to calling upon tradesmen. Address, Box 8,196, "The Era."

WANTED, by Mme. de Para, well-known Palmist, Winter Business Place, London preferred or Trades' Exhibition. Rent or shares. 30, Anchor-road, Clacton-on-Sea.

PALMISTRY.
WANTED, Known, Madame James, Disengaged Sept. 17. The Aquarium, Scarborough.

WANTED, Situation as Floorman or Planksman, Shops, Tents, or Halls; sober and good worker; good refs. if required. Address, Box 8,221, "The Era."

WANTED, Work as Doorsman. Stands 6ft. 4in. and good worker. Smith, Auction Mart, Platt Bridge.

HIGH WYCOMBE, BUCKS.
WANTED, to Let, Spacious Yard, in Centre of Town, two acres in extent.
Good supply of water. Reasonable terms.
Apply, G. R. S. Brown, Auctioneer, High Wycombe.

WANTED, to Let, Show Ground. Splendid plot of land in a thickly populated district near Manchester; comprises about 1½ acres.
Has been used for show purposes for a number of years. Rent £100. Show not to extend more than five weeks per annum.
Apply, Pratt and Co., Market-street, Manchester.

WANTED, Known, Spaces to Let for Good Side-shows. Apply, the Manager, Fun Palace, 40, Pinstone-street, Sheffield.

WANTED, Known, reward for information of any large Shop to Let, in large populated town; must be in main position. Apply, Manager, Marine-parade, Exhibition, Southend-on-Sea.

WANTED, to Sell, Auction Mart, complete with Living Van, goes by rail; or let on terms. R. O., 65, Market-street, Manchester.

WANTED, to Sell, cheap, Shutters, Booth, and Stage, with Iron Box, also Butcher machine No. 2. Smith, Auction Mart, Platt Bridge.

WANTED, to Sell, Automatic Machines, New and Secondhand, Card Delivery, Mother Shiptons, marvellous money-takers. New Catalogue. Meurice, Argyle-square, W.C.

WANTED, to Sell, Photos, Husbands, Wives, Babies, Love Letters, Fortunes, Eyes, Astrology, Comic Cards, X Rays. Meurice, 39, Argyle-square, W.C.

WANTED, to Sell, Automatic Machines of every description (including the marvellous Guess Your Weight Weighing Machine). Wormald, 133, Blythe-road, West Kensington, London, W.

WANTED, to Sell, Automatic Machines, all kinds, lists free, Husband, Wife, Eye, Hair, Fortune, Astrologer cards, 6s. 1,000; Love Letters, 9s. Lestis, 6, Denning-rd., Hampstead Heath, N.W.

WANTED, Known, Gipsy Queen Spirit Writers are Money-getters, 50s. each, with Mechanical Eyes, messages written by unseen hand; suit inside or outside shows. Lester Co., Morgan-st., Pontypridd.

SHOWMEN'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

WANTED, Known, to Showmen, Stallholders, and Amusement Caterers, &c.
P. COLLINS is now open to book tenants for his well-known Autumn Round.

Willenhall Wakes, Atherstone Statute, and Uttoxeter Wakes, all opening Friday, Sept. 23.

Ashby de la Zouch Statute, opening Sat., Sept. 24. N.B.—Here I have a special concession to open in the streets on Saturday.

Birmingham Great Onion Fair,
Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, Sept. 29, 30, and Oct. 1.

Handsworth Wakes, Tamworth Fair,
Leicester Great October Fair.

Smethwick, West Bromwich, Great Bridge, Dudley, Bulwell, and a continuous run up to Christmas, when I shall have several good enclosed and sheltered grounds to let for Xmas and the New Year.

I have also taken the City Exhibition Hall, Manchester, where I intend running a monster World's Fair, all under cover. I am booking a first-class Circus Company as a Free Attraction. This show will open Dec. 20 for a short season.
For terms apply,
P. Collins, Gondola Works, Walsall.
Telegrams, "Gondola." Telephone 80.

WANTED, to Sell, 12 fine Distorting Mirrors, 6ft. by 3ft., in good condition, in black frames, used at Earl's Court. Further particulars and price apply, Box 245, G.P.O., Bristol.

WANTED, to Sell, a Quantity of Wax, also an Illusion known as the Mysterious Zoro, cheap. Apply, R. Arnold, The Novelty Exhibition, High-street, Southend-on-Sea.

WANTED, Secondhand, Automatic Box Ball Bowling Alleys. State very lowest price.
Box 8,219, "The Era."

WANTED, Known, the Seventy Thousand Showmen who use the Columns of "The Era" and are moving about should know that they can make "The Era" Offices their Permanent London Address. Letters received will be held till called for, or immediately re-addressed according to instructions. Address all communications respecting the Letter Department to the Publisher, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand.

WANTED, Showmen who experience difficulty in obtaining copies of "The Era" at any Railway Bookstall to kindly communicate with the Publisher, "The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

WANTED, every Showman who uses the railway to send to "The Era" for a copy of the article on the new Railway Rates. This will be sent on application, free of charge, to any Showman in the United Kingdom.

SKATING WANTEDS.

WANTED, Skating Instructors disengaged to communicate with Charles Evans, "the British Consulting Expert on Roller Skating," giving full particulars of experience, age, height, &c., The Margate Skating Rink, Grand Hall by Sea, Margate. Mark envelopes "Skating."
Silence a polite negative.

WANTED, Manager for High-class Rink in North of England. Only first-class man need apply. Highest references essential. State experience and salary required. Box 8,245, "The Era" Office.

WANTED, reliable Skating Instructor, to take charge of Rink in Midlands, open Sept. 17; must be good skater, have best refs., and some business qualification. Age, height, salary, photo., and copies of last three refs. Bird, c/o Hamples, 166, Shaftesbury-avenue.

WANTED, smart experienced Skate Mechanic, willing to be useful in Rink (Midlands). Fullest particulars, terms, and copies of last three refs. Bird, c/o Hamples' Agency, 166, Shaftesbury-avenue, London.

WANTED, attractive, pretty Lady Instructress, open Sept. 17, Midlands. Age, height, salary, refs., and recent photo., Bird, c/o Hamples, 166, Shaftesbury-avenue, London.

WANTED, good young Lady Trick Roller Skaters for Long Rink Engagement. Send photo and particulars of talent to Kaufmann Troupe, Palace Theatre, London.

WANTED, by Manager of Large Rink, Appointment; Disengaged Sept. 10; extensive experience; excellent references. Box 8,230, "The Era."

WANTED, by A. H. Lee, late General-Manager Ilkley, Yorks, First-class offers; large Rink preferred. 23, Well-close Mount, Carlton Hill, Leeds.

WANTED, by Young Man, position as Floor-Manager of High-class Rink; thoroughly experienced. Highest possible references.
Address, Box 8,226, "The Era."

WANTED, Re-engagement as Floor Manager on Instructor. Experienced Skater.
Box 8233, "The Era."

WANTED, Re-engagement by Instructor or Skates Mechanic, experienced, excellent refs. Write, W. C., 53 St. George-st, Leicester.

WANTED, by a well-known Professional, finishing Long Tour shortly, Engagement as Working-Manager of Rink. Box 8,237, "The Era."

WANTED, an Engagement, as Skate Mechanic and Instructor or Fitter (combined); many years' experience; good reference. J. A., Grand Pier, Weston-super-Mare.

WANTED, by experienced Skate Mechanic and Electrician, Berth, used to any Skates, own tools, &c.; excellent refs. Box 8,225, "The Era."

WANTED, to Sell, about 100 pairs Roller Skates, American, Raymond extension, 2/6 pair; lot Plimpton's, £2. Crowther, Lynthorne-road, Frizinghall.

WORLD'S FAIR SKATING.

ROYAL AGRICULTURAL HALL,
ISLINGTON.
Lessee, T. E. Read.

WANTED, to Let, Splendid Location, ground Dry Concrete, quite level, ready for laying, Maple, Asphalte, or Firmit Floor, size 102ft. by 150ft. Ideal position. Immense Success Last Season. Finest Position in North London.

Apply, T. E. Read, as above.

To Rink Managers and Others.
WANTED, 130 pairs of entirely new and about 450 pairs of nearly new Winslow Skates, assorted sizes, for Disposal; all in good condition and ready for use; also quantity of repair parts. Open to Offers.
Apply, Wm. Cottier Cubbin,
Proprietor, Winter Gardens, Onchan Head,
Douglas, Isle of Man.

WANTED, Skating Rink Buildings, commencing Nov., must be in large towns.
Apply, with particulars, to Box 7,853. "The Era."

WANTED TO SELL.

WANTED, to Sell, Several Fine Panto. Productions; or would Let on a Percentage of the Receipts. Arthur Carlton, Theatre, Worcester.

WANTED, to Sell, Films, cheap, and Films for Hire, up-to-date. The Bendon Trading Co., 75, Jamaica-st., Glasgow

WANTED TO SELL.

CITY OF EXETER
TO CIRCUS PROPRIETORS.
WANTED, to Sell, by Private Treaty, Freehold Site, six minutes from the High-street, with an area of 58,300ft., and road frontage of 750ft.
Plan and particulars of Lucas, Architect, Exeter.

WANTED, Known, for Sale by Private Treaty, Lancashire, Rawtenstall, centre of the Rossendale Valley, population of over 100,000 to play upon, three tram lines terminate at the Theatre door; an up-to-date new Theatre, cost £14,000; seating capacity for over 2,000 persons, Market Hall and three shops included. In order to effect a speedy sale, £7,500 will be accepted, just about half cost. Chief rent only £70 a year.
Further particulars,
Nasmith, 40, Brazennose-street, Manchester.

WANTED, Known, Corner Site, central Northampton, to be Sold or Let; suit Picture Theatre. Full plans, showing elevation, seating accommodation, will shortly be ready. Those interested should address, Cooley, Constitutional Club, Nottingham.

WANTED, to Sell, this year's Leger Film (Gaumont's). Price 30s.
Will be dispatched to-night (Saturday).
Smurthwaite,
Hippodrome, Middlesbrough.

WANTED, to Sell, one of the Latest Gaumont Biograph Lanterns, complete, bought new last May. Can be seen working by appointment. Apply, Milton Bode, County Theatre, Reading.

WANTED, to Sell, Gaumont's Chrono, complete outfit, four resistances, Paularc lamp, four spools. Apply, Film Exchange, 63, Whitechapel-road, London.

WANTED, to Sell, a Bioscope (New-Bio No. 15), accept £9, cash; also 20,000ft. good Film, at ½d. a foot. Fred Boulton, Pav., Tewkesbury.

WANTED, to Sell, Tubular Bells, plated, folding stand, perfect tone, £3 10s.; approval; also Benson Soprano Cornet, plated, 50s. Newman, 9, Elizabeth-street, Blackpool.

WANTED, to Sell, a 3 Chromatic Octave Resonated Concert Xylophone, complete on table and stand, cost £7 10s., sell £3 3s.; also a specially made set of 2 Chromatic Octave Concert Tubular Bells, unique, nothing like it ever seen, cost £40, sell £15; another unique Novelty, a 3 Chromatic Octave Resonated Xylophone Piano, manipulation as an ordinary piano, indescribable effect produced, cost £40, sell £18; also for sale, the greatest Instrumental Novelty ever produced for a musical act, the Steel Zimbal; this is a Novelty that cannot be described, but must be seen and heard played upon. The easiest imaginable manipulation; wonderful effective carrying power; best offer for this instrument.
All the above instruments must be sold by the 17th inst.
Your choice of a lifetime, ye instrumentalists.

Seen by appointment only any time.

Angval, 4, Sistova-rd., Bedford Hill, Balham, S.W.

WANTED, to Sell, Resonated Xylophones, for Bands, Orchestras or Stage, most powerful in the world. Lisle, 209, Camberwell New-road.

WANTED, to Sell, Cheap, two large best rubber Gas Bags, 12ft. capacity, massive Chinese Gong, number of old Playbills, Glasgow, 1822, and Property Animals (various). Goddard, Property Maker, 1, Wescombe-cottages, Hammersmith.

WANTED, to Sell, Tent Top, Birkmire best cloth, used for auction business, 60ft. by 50ft. Smith, Auction Mart, Platt Bridge.

WANTED, to Sell, Large Performing Bear, very quiet. Make fine parader, £6. Reading Zoo.

WANTED, to Sell, Secondhand, Turnstiles, Registering; 20 Penny-in-slot Closet Locks; also Chairs, and New Winslow Skates. Box 8,217, "The Era."

WANTED, to Sell, Cabinet Mystery, cost £25, accept 8gs.; Box Mystery, cost £8, take 3gs. Lester, Morgan-street, Pontypridd.

WANTED, to Sell, Sketch on "Raffles" Lines; ordinary scenery. Write W. Macqueen-Pope, 143, Stapleton Hall-road, Stroud Green, London.

WANTED TO BUY.

WANTED, to Purchase immediately, in London or within fifty miles, Picture Palaces as going concerns, and Halls, Shops and Theatres that can be converted into Picture Palaces; must be good positions, and in a thickly-populated district. Address, C. Emlyn Jones, 3, 4, and 5, Cartwright-gardens, Russell-square, W.C.

WANTED, to Purchase for Cash, Large or Small Houses of Furniture.
Address, F. and W. Pearson, 6, Station-road, Finsbury Park, N. 'Phone No. 2,913 North.

WANTED, to Buy, Good Secondhand Bass Drum and Pair 12in. or 13in. Cymbals.
J. Hinchliffe, Theatre Royal, Dewsbury.

WANTED, a Good Pantomime Production, suitable to play twice nightly.

Send full particulars to
Box 8,211, "The Era."

WANTED, to Buy, Good Production of "Aladdin." Scenery, Book Music, Dresses, &c. All particulars,
Dean, 159, Sherwood-street, Nottingham.

WANTED, to Buy, in good condition, second-hand Scenery, comprising the following: Wood and Landscape Sets, Chamber and Kitchen Sets, Street, Corridor, and Landscape Cloths, for Grand Theatre, Stonehouse. Terms and particulars to Herbert Taylor, Broadmead House, Panton-street, Haymarket, London.

WANTED, to Purchase, Complete Sets Dresses, for "Dick Whittington" Panto., Principals and Chorus; also good Pageant Costumes, suitable for Lord Mayor's Show scene. Address, Box 8,246, "Era" Office.

WANTED, to purchase, Serpentine Dancing Dresses, Lantern Slides, and Electrical Effects, Kaleidoscopic Discs, Slides for Posing Act, Spot Lights, also up-to-date Picture Machine, hyperbolic reflector, Comedy Films, Illusionists and Conjuring Apparatus, &c. Fullest particulars in first letter (no callers unless by appointment), Harry Clark, Premier Hotel, Southampton-row, London.

WANTED, Small Fit-up, also M.S. and Pictorials, suitable for "Trilby." State lowest price, &c., J. Errick, 15, Priestley-street, Sheffield.

WANTED, one or two Rickshaws, must be in good condition.
Address, Milton Bode, Theatre, Reading.

WANTED, to Buy, Prop. Hamper, 10ft. long, 2ft. wide, also Clever Dogs, or exchange for Warwick Bioscope. Tynewydd Villa, Rhyl.

WANTED, a Baritone Concertina, Lachenal's preferred, must be good. Particulars, L. K., Mayblossom, Belvedere, Kent.

WANTED, to Buy, two Second-hand Travelling Baskets, good condition; also Interior Light Drawing-room Set, centre folding doors, second-hand. Smith-Neill, Lyndhurst, Herbert-road, Southsea.

WANTED, two Scenes, one the Entrance Hall of an Hotel, second a handsome House Piece; must be in good condition, and cheap. Box 8,244, "The Era."

WANTED TO BUY.

WANTED, Quantity of Military Band March Books, cheap; also Valses, Barn Dances, Cake Walks. Cash down. Box 8,236, "The Era."

WANTED, Good Comic Songs, with Patter. Quote lowest. Must be original. Address, Rees, Public Hall Theatre, Barnsley.

WANTED TO LET OR HIRE.

GOTHENBURG HALL, BOWHILL, CARDENDEN, FIFE. Seating Capacity 900.
WANTED, Known, for vacant dates, terms, &c.; apply to Mr. Andrew B. Simpson, Secretary.

WANTED, to Let, Cardiff, Park Hall, seating 2,000. Vacant dates and special terms for Summer Months. Secretary, 3, Park-place, Cardiff.

WANTED, to Let, Dates in Sept. and onwards, Ryculiah Athenæum, Enfield, any kind entertainment, Scenery, Electric Lighting. Manager.

WANTED, to Let (off Westminster Bridge-rd.), 18, Hercules-road. Well-positioned shop, good living rooms, suit Wardrobe Dealer, Theatrical or otherwise. Low rent.
Edwards, 41, Finsbury-square, E.C.

WANTED, to Let, well furnished room in West End, suitable for High-class Lady Palmist. Apply, Sinkins, Photographer, 1, Harrow-road, W.

WANTED, Known, to Advertising Contractors, and Others, Stage Curtain in Edinburgh to Let for Advertisements; also Advertising Space on Programmes.
Apply to
Box 8,243, "The Era."

WANTED, to Let, Advertising Curtain and Programme, for the New Picturedrome, Long Eaton. Apply, Leon Vint, Globe Villa, Exmouth, S. Devon.

SURREY THEATRE.
WANTED, to Let, Paint Frames, from 30ft. to 45ft. in length, at very moderate rentals, by the week, month, or year, every convenience. Apply, Roy Cochrane.

WANTED, to Let or Sell, successful Play (small Cast), music, scenery, props.; also Musical Comedy. Central Agency, 453, Fulham-road, S.W.

WANTED, to Rent, Lease, or Purchase, Theatre or Music Hall, must bear strict investigation. State seating capacity and full particulars, James Hare, Kilboy House, Cloyne, Co. Cork.

WANTED, to Lease or Rent, Public Halls, Skating Rinks, Music Halls, and Theatres. Rent or long lease.
State all particulars in first letter.
Leon Vint, Globe Villa, Exmouth, Devon.

WANTED, to Hire, Garret Scene, with Practical Window, with view to purchase, 16ft. flats. Lynn and Harding, Savoy House, Strand.

PARTNERS WANTED.

WANTED, by recognised Artist, Partner for the Variety Theatres, must be good Character Comedian, accustomed to Music Halls and of repute, Act ready for production. Apply first instance, Box 8,229, "The Era."

WANTED, to join Proprietor or Manager desirous of changing over to Animated Pictures. Advertiser has £200 cash, complete set of machinery, and thoroughly knows the picture business. Principals only. Box 8,241, "The Era."

WANTED, Half-share in a good Production of "Aladdin."
All particulars, &c., in first instance, to
Dean, 159, Sherwood-street, Nottingham.

WANTED, Known, that Frank Aylmer, Song Writer, has many pupils in training, and will entertain a Partner in any town who can play piano and assist in tutorship. Address, 10, Cross-street, Holyhead.

WANTED, Partner, Underman, to join Top-mounter, with good act and Contracts. For particulars Box 8,240, "The Era" Office.

MISCELLANEOUS.

TWENTY WORDS, ONE SHILLING.
Each Additional Six Words, Sixpence.

WANTED, Known, Wright's Gymnasium for Practice, suitable for any Act; new floor; strictly private; 5s. per week. 66, Kennington-road, London, S.E.

WANTED, Known, F. G. Wright, Gymnastic Apparatus Maker, Electrical Engineer, and Theatrical Blacksmith. 66 and 68, Kennington-road, S.E.

WANTED, Known, C. Kinch, Gymnastic Apparatus Maker, Theatrical and General Blacksmith, 17, St. Mary-sq., Kennington-rd., S.E. Large Hall for Practice.

WANTED.—Managers and others please Note. MESSRS. LYNN AND HARDING, SAVOY HOUSE, SAVOY-STREET, STRAND, can supply
First-class experienced Artists all Lines.
Smart Men, Pretty Girls,
Talented and Refined Amateurs.
No inflated Salaries.
Plays typed, Productions arranged, Lowest charges.
Always safe to ring up 9907 Gerrard.
Australian Representatives for numerous London and Provincial Successes.
Several Plays and Sketches by well-known Authors for disposal.
We guarantee satisfaction.

WANTED, in Town or Country, Halls or Sites, suitable for Cinematograph Shows or Roller Skating. Letters only. M. W. Shanly, 33, King Henry's-road, South Hampstead, N.W.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WANTED, Known, Fred Karno's Theatrical Factory and Cartage Stores, 28, Vaughan-road, Camberwell, S.E. All kinds of Scenery, Properties, Costumes, and Electrical Effects made and supplied; Sketches and Models free. The Scenic Factory is equipped with full-sized Paint-Frames, capable of carrying any size cloth. The Scenic Stores are large, lofty, and dry.
Estimates for Storage given on application.
Every Description of Theatrical Cartage (day or night) on most reasonable terms. Omnibuses, Broughams, Lorries, and Motors on Hire. Contracts wanted for above. Telephone 3550 and 3551 Hop. Telegrams, "Karno, Camberwell, London."

WANTED, Known, Tip-up Chairs and Seating of every description, Constructional Alterations, Electric Light, and complete Furnishing of Electric Theatres. Send, and we will quote you with prices, best in the trade. Lewis and Deakin, Empire Works, 21, Cleveland-street, Wolverhampton. Telephone, 274 Wolverhampton; Telegrams, "Seating, Wolverhampton."

WANTED, Known, H. Boxall, maker of Tights, Symmetrical Paddings, Animal Dresses, &c. 166, Waterloo-rd., London, S.E. 'Phone 2681 Central.

WANTED, Artists when visiting Manchester to pay Mosco's Swiss House a visit, best house in the trade for all classes of Laces, Embroideries, and Fancies of all kinds; Draperies and Curtains always kept in stock. Note the address, 16, Oldham-street, Manchester.

WANTED, Known, Pictorial Postcards, reproduced from your own Photograph, 250 for 8s., 1000 for 16s. Senior & Co., Cotham-hill, Bristol.

WANTED, Artists to write for free samples, Memos. from 1s. 100, two colours; Cards, Envelopes, &c. Mention paper.
Artistic Printing Co., Dover-street, Folkestone.

WANTED, Amateurs to Note that "STAGE FACTS AND FIGURES," by Mr. WELLESLEY LYNN. This little book is crammed with information which is invaluable to the beginner, especially if he lacks "influence" and has to fight his battles single-handed. Mr. Lynn knows his business thoroughly, and he writes from a sound, common-sense point of view. He does not offer to make you a Tree or a Pinero, but he undoubtedly safeguards you from wasting time, money, and hope. To the author of one-act plays the book is more than helpful—it is a necessity.—Prompter, Aug. 25, 1910.
For straightforward, honest dealing go to
LYNN AND HARDING,
SAVOY HOUSE, STRAND.
who have built up their business simply by merit.
If you have talent we can help you.
For Songs, Sketches, Scenas, Typing, Band Parts, &c. go to
LYNN AND HARDING.
Production a Speciality. Ideas written up.
Trial weeks arranged.
Terms Reasonable and Inclusive.
Messrs. Lynn and Harding will give you a candid opinion as to your chance of success; they only accept clients who are likely to be a credit to them.
First-class References.

WANTED, Known, Geo. D. Fox, Composer and Arranger, 134, Queen's Park-rd., Brighton. Band Books a Speciality. Sample nine stamps.

WANTED, Known, if Miss Harris, of the —— Theatre, later of Ashley Gardens, S.W., in 1905-6, will communicate, she will hear of something to her advantage. Address, Box 8,227, "The Era."

WANTED, Known, Will Cartwright, Stage-Manager Elephant Theatre, wishes to thank Messrs. Green and Hinton for useful presents received after their production, "His Indian Wife."

WANTED, Man, accustomed to Public Speaking, for Medical Publication Sale. Letters only. R., 84, Merton-road, London, S.W.

WANTED, tall fair Beautiful Model, for Trying-on Gowns.
Good salary.

Apply, Lucile, Ltd.,
23, Hanover-square, W.

C. G. SPENCER and SONS,
56a, Highbury Grove, London, N.

Manufacturers of Airships, Aeroplanes, Balloons and Parachutes, Captive Advertising Balloons, and Small Toy Balloons.
Price Lists or Quotations 1 Stamp.
SPENCER BROS., Ltd.,
45b, Aberdeen Park, Highbury, N.,
Aeronauts to the Crystal Palace, &c.
Balloon Ascents, Parachute Descents, Captive Balloons, Airship Flights.
Terms upon application.
Telegrams, "Aeronaut, London." 'Phone, 1893 Dalston.

LEOLYN HART CO.
SOENIC ARTISTS
to the Principal London, Provincial, and Continental Theatres, Exhibitions, &c.
THE LARGEST STOCK OF SCENERY IN THE KINGDOM
ON HIRE
for Special Productions, Matinees, Sketches, &c.
LATONA-ROAD, OLD KENT ROAD, LONDON, S.E.
Telephone 1544 Hop.

CLERKS.—Add to Income. Christmas Cards. Sample Book Free.
Gordon, 27, Worship-street, London.

To Hotel Proprietors who regularly file "The Era."
HANDSOME ILLUMINATED METAL TABLETS
of
"THE ERA."
Publisher, "The Era" Buildings,
5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

Subscription to "THE ERA."

ORDER FORM.

Inland.		Foreign.
4 Weeks	2/-	4 Weeks	2/8
3 Months	6/6	3 Months	8/-
6 "	13/-	6 "	16/-
12 "	26/-	12 "	32/-

POST FREE.

A Single Copy forwarded for Six Stamps to any Address in the United Kingdom.

Fill up and send with remittance, to THE PUBLISHER, "THE ERA," 5, Tavistock Street, Strand, London, W.C.

Sir,—Please place my name on your list of Subscribers, and send copy of "THE ERA." I enclose remittance for £ s. d.

Name .....

Address .....

.....

Date .....

Remittance must be made payable to "THE ERA," Ltd., and crossed Lloyds Bank.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.]

ABERDARE.—NEW THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Aberdare Public Hall, Theatre, and Billposting Co., Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Z. Andrews; Acting-Manager, Mr. B. Richards.—Mr. Fred T. Webb's company is here in For Old Times' Sake. Mr. Rolf Leslie gave a fine study of Jean Brooke; Mr. Dick Eckersley was a most effective Dr. Heathcote; Wallace Rivington was powerfully impersonated by Mr. F. Cavannah; Mr. Fred J. Webb found ample scope for his undoubted abilities in the part of Rupert Sydney; Mr. R. Olive did well as Frank Rivington. The rôle of Sareta Berkley was sustained by Miss Marie Danvers-Smith in a creditable manner. In the hands of Miss Mamie Stanton the part of Phyllis Brooke was effectively represented. The comedy element was entrusted to Mr. Victor Coleman as Jimmy Jeppe and Miss Mary Robertson as Polly Pearson. Miss Dot Robins was well suited to the part of Mrs. Hale.

NEW EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Victor Rowe; Manager, Mr. Arthur Norton.—Clark and Glenny, in their screaming absurdity The Haunted House, top the bill here, and have a good reception; the Great Clifton, in his sensational wheel-jumping act, is appreciated; Charles Kean, light comedian, causes fun; and Tiny Arnold is a clever and dainty comedienne. Some very interesting pictures are shown on the Bioscope.

ABERDEEN.—HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Robert Arthur Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Adair Nelson.—The Sign of the Cross occupies the stage here this week. Mr. W. Lawson Butt makes a dignified Marcus Superbus; Miss Evelyn Hope is charmingly impressive as the martyr maid, Mercia; Mr. Bernard Elliot makes a typical Nero; Mr. Charles Aldred as Tigellinus, Mr. J. Wetherall as Licinius, Mr. Frank Wood as Glabrio, Miss Mabel Cooke as Poppæa, Miss Dorothy Lart as Berenice, Miss Esmé Lee as Dacia, Miss Julia Clarke as Ancaria, and Miss Winifred Delavanti as the boy Stephanus, play their several parts with judicious merit.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Percy H. Gallagher.—Lamberte is a big attraction here this week; George Melvin is a clever entertainer; Roots, Rash Chemist, proves an amusing skit; the O'Brien Brothers are gymnasts of ability; the Lacore Family give a triple trapeze performance of excellence; the Eight College Girls sing and dance with attractiveness; the Sisters Du Cane are entertaining humorists; and Ian Colquhoun tells stories and sings songs with mirth-provoking effect.

THE TIVOLI.—Proprietors, The Tivoli (Aberdeen), Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Walter Gilbert.—Henrietta and Selina give a charming display of their instrumental and vocal powers; Walter Bellonini proves himself to be a juggler and mystifier of no ordinary capacity; the Eight Lancashire Lads sing and dance effectively; Elsie and Cousin Bob are American artists of novel and pleasing turns; Bert and Dora sing and act with resource; the Sisters Wingrove are smart humorists and dancers; Cullen and Carthy dance and patter in a sprightly manner; and Will Musgrave is a funny comedian.

ACCRINGTON.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—Mr. James Bell's company, in The Idol of Paris, is the attraction here. Miss Annie Bell as Flare-Flare is a pronounced success; Mr. Charles Langdon as Prince Sergius plays admirably; Mr. Montague Lane gives a powerful interpretation of Philip d'Estarre; and Mr. Frank Brunell capably sustains the character of the notary Gustave Langlois; Mr. Chris. A. Olgar submits a manly and dignified portrayal of Victor Cashelle; Tabavé is amusingly represented by Mr. H. Vivian Thomas, and Mr. Chris. Roberts is seen to advantage as Theo Decline. Miss Frances Bruce as the satirical Mme. Sancterre gives a creditable impersonation; Miss Lottie Ray capitally plays the part of Ann; and Miss Pharo Anderson is praiseworthy as Rachel Bernhardt.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the Accrington Hippodrome Co.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Mould.—Max Waldon, impersonator of international stars, is the premier attraction here, and his remarkably clever performance has aroused much enthusiasm; Marie Racco, a finely-developed young lady, and her partner go through a graceful gymnastic turn; Fred Herbert is a capital vocalist; and the Zelovas prove themselves smart equilibrists. James Hare and company, in the dramatic episode Wrong 'Uns, deserves every commendation, the acting, staging, and scenery being excellent. Vowles and Bryan, in a pretty song scena, are decidedly popular; Elsie and Norah Herbert, juvenile vocalists and dancers, meet with a good reception; and the Bioscope pictures are up to the usual standard.

ALDERSHOT.—ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Saunes; Resident-Manager, Mr. Jack Gladwin.—Of the programme presented this week, the best item is undoubtedly the Flying Hanlons, whose thrilling feats in mid-air are very clever. The Dunvilles as comedy instrumentalists are amusing, and others who take part and add a share to the success are Ella Blair and her clever dancing marvels; J. W. Hall, comedian; Edgar Budden, roller skate dancer and bone soloist; Dale and Vale, in song and dance; Nancy St. John, comedienne and dancer; and Millie Denham, chorus singer.

WIDE WORLD PICTURES.—A series of Canadian scenes and industries is proving an acceptable and highly-appreciated item of the extensive programme presented here, the Canadian Rifles, many of whom are still in Aldershot, giving good patronage. Messrs. Golder and Sloman, who are always well up with the times, have also a capital set of comic and dramatic films showing.

ASHINGTON.—MINERS' THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. A. C. Moody; Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Campbell Brown.—Miss Winifred Chalmers's company is here in the musical comedy, Miss Plaster of Paris. Mr. Harry Ed. Ray as Alexander, the melancholy waiter, causes immense fun; Mr. Johnny McElroy as Numbskull Nubbs, J.P., also creates much merriment; Mrs. Nubbs, as played by Mr. Sid Dean, is very funny; and Tom Flubbs is well presented by Mr. Frank Bellamy. Miss Nellie Harcourt in the title-rôle plays with much vivacity, her songs and skipping-rope dance being very tastefully executed; Miss Winifred Chalmers makes the most of the stately and fascinating manageress; and a special feature of the show is the singing and dancing of the Sisters Holman.

PAVILION PICTURE PALACE.—Proprietors, Hirst Pavilion, Ltd.; Business-Manager, Mr. Arthur Stoker; Acting Manager, Mr. Joe Curry.—Mr. Albo Moore, world's champion all-round skater, gives a clever and entertaining performance, and the Musical Bentleys are most enjoyable in their turn. All the latest films are shown.

BUFFALO PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs. J. and E. Lamb; Business-Manager, Mr. W. P. Carr.—The Carlo and Maie Trio head the list here this week in a capital comic acrobatic performance; and another excellent turn is found in Judge's marvellous parrots and cockatoos. Madame Adah Payne sings very sweetly and acceptably; and the pictures are up to their usual standard.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill, jun.—Mr. Allan Wilkie, tragedian, and his Shakespearean company are here this week. Mr. Wilkie opened on Monday evening with The Merchant of Venice, giving a scholarly interpretation of Shylock. Miss F. Hunter-Watts was a comely and graceful Portia—kindly, tender, loving; Mr. W. H. Hargreaves as Bassanio was the Venetian gentleman, fearless and uncompromising; Mr. Herbert Mansfield's Antonio was a finished exposition; and effective impersonations were given of the Duke by Mr. Houston Meharry and of the Prince of Morocco by Mr. John Paley. Miss May Dallas as Nerissa found a character congenial to her temperament. On Tuesday evening The Taming of the Shrew was staged, and on Wednesday Virginius. Twelfth Night, The School for Scandal, and Hamlet are also in the repertory.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Mason; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Jesse Burslem.—A return at the Empire to the production of drama brings Mrs. Frank Bateman and company in a play, The Way Women Love, by Mrs. Bateman. The drama is domestic, and is produced in eight scenes. Mrs. Bateman takes female lead in the character of a Mexican. As Verena Alabra she portrays all the characteristics of the woman of a passionate and hot-blooded race; Miss Lily Vaughan enacts with skill and self-possession the part of Violet Tremaine; Mr. Fred W. Goddard sustains capably the arduous rôle of Captain Howard Tremaine; Mr. C. Clifford as Leslie Lamont, his cousin, finds congenial work; and Mr. Geo. Herbert is forceful as John Barryford, a farmer.

BACUP.—CO-OPERATIVE HALL.—Lessees, Messrs. Glenville and Osmond.—Pictures, dramatic and comedy, well chosen and displayed, still run merrily on here. Clarence Turner and the Mosaic Duo make their portion of the programme entertaining.

BARNSLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. A. C. Mitchell.—This week Miss Marie Dagmar and Mr. Percy Brown's company is here in A Life's Revenge. Mr. Edward E. Lewis is a manly Paul Starovitch; as Prince Boris Strogoroff Mr. Wilton J. Richards is all that can be desired; Mr. Eulick Burke is an excellent Michal Orloff; and as Maurice Trevor Mr. Lancelot Usher is good; Mr. Richard Walsh creates merriment as Nicholas, as does Mr. Chas. E. Warne as Colonel Tumbleoff. Miss Millie Ford displays histrionic ability as Princess Vanda Ivylia; Miss Nellie Hook is a bright Daphne Dashaway; and Misses Amy Ellam and Lillie Carter Livesey as Marcia Vittoria and Acculiara respectively are good.

NEW EMPIRE PALACE.—Proprietary, Barnsley Empire Palace, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Will Smithson.—A blend of comedy and mystery, Ghostland, is proving an attractive item in this week's bill. Mlle. de Louvois and company in living statuary present a pretty spectacle; Baby Vi Davis, child actress, is smart; Jessie Albini is an amusing comedienne; and Russell Carr a gifted ventriloquist. The bill also includes Russell Brandow, comedian, and Dennis and Morris, dancers. The Palacescope shows some new pictures.

PUBLIC HALL.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Geo. Johnson.—An attraction here is the Reays, neat and clever acrobats; Amie Jumel, vocalist and instrumentalist, is smart; Molly Edwards is heard to advantage in "Garden of roses"; and Madge Sefton is a good male impersonator. The Bioscope pictures include The Sheriff's Bride, A Plucky Youngster, Saved by Her Dog, A Funny Story, and Water on Every Floor.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS. — ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—Miss Nora Carton's company, in Temptation, is here. Mr. Charles H. Mortimer is excellent as Sir Charles Tremaine, and Mr. Clifton Roystell as Mr. Blight submits a capital portrayal. Miss Lilla Wilde is a capable Ivra Blight, and Mr. Norman A. Overton does well as Hubert Thorne; Miss Nora Carton is good as Hilda Dundonald, and Mr. Frank Ayrton as Bob Saunders and Miss Madge Seymour as Araminta and Emily provide the fun.

HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge.—Mr. Glaze's company, in No Mother to Guide Her, is here. Mr. Frederick Biron is a good Bill, and Miss Kitty Seymour gives a realistic impersonation of Nan; Miss Georgette Thierry, Mr. George Gounley, Mr. Bernard J. Lidll, Mr. Edward Halsey, and Mr. Charles Addison do well in their respective parts.

TIVOLI.—Lessee, Signor R. Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Wood.—A capital all-round programme is presented here, the principal item being the "Eight Charming Daughters of Eve" in living pictures; the Zanferellas present a novel equilibrist performance; Sinclair's Three Diamonds, clever young ladies, sing and dance most tastefully; Halma is a society juggler with some clever tricks; Monty Walker is well received; Bob Winter's humorous songs are popular; Gertie Rex is a pleasing comedienne; and Vernon's Bioscope concludes.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. C. Routledge.—Fred Newman's picture and variety company have the usual interesting programme this week.

BARRY DOCK.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Manager, Mr. Hamilton Warden; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Frank Dure.—The attraction here is Mr. Chas. Constant's company, in Florodora, under the management of Mr. Johnny Clegg. Mr. Johnny Schofield's drolleries as Tweedlepunch evoke much merriment; Mr. Courtier R. Button, a fine baritone, makes a capital Frank Abercoed; Miss Daisy Lake is clever as Dolores; Miss Kate Leicester wins hosts of admirers for her charming portrayal of Lady Holyrood; Miss Florence Hersee is very successful as Angela Gilfain, her Apache dance with Mr. Johnnie Junior (Captain Arthur Donegal) being highly enjoyed; and Mr. Jack Parker is convincing as Leandro. The chorus is strong, and an augmented orchestra is ably conducted by Mr. W. Neale.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. Leon Vint; Manager, Mr. W. W. Minto.—The Herald Comedy Four score well; Beeford and Mars, in a comedy duo, come in for a good share of applause; and Shepherd and Granville are clever comedians and dancers.

BATH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis A. Long.—Mr. George Dance has sent Our Miss Gibbs again to Bath. The title-rôle on this visit is entrusted to Miss Daisie Wallace, who gives a winsome performance throughout; the task of enacting Timothy Gibbs now falls to Mr. Vincent Erne, and this clever comedian gives a very funny performance; Mr. J. Heribert Willis does well as Hughie Pierpont; and Mr. J. S. Durant is slickness itself as Slithers. Mr. Douglas Phillips enacts Lord Eynsford agreeably; Miss Nan Stuart vocalises delightfully as Lady Thanet; Mme. Jeanne having an imposing representative in Miss Louie Beckmann. Miss Laura Hansen, with her wide experience, easily makes her mark as the Duchess of Minster. Others who deserve mention and appear in their former characters are Mr. A. Gordon Begg (Earl of St. Ives), Mr. Frank Sealey (Mr. Toplady), Mr. David Miller (Mr. Beavis), and Miss Florence Hylton (Mrs. Farquhar).

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schuberth.—Miss Daisy Lloyd Wood is making a first appearance in Bath this week, and gives four songs at each house before the audience will let her depart; Reed and Stevens have a cleverly thought-out comedy sketch in Married or Photographed? Harry Herbert is billed as an "entrée of eccentricity," and his turn fully justifies the title; Gladys and Alber present a funny act, including some smart tumbling by the male partner; Daisy Hurdle is a pleasing comedienne; Guy Ryder whistles with bird-like sweetness; Ethel Bourne, a cultured contralto, is responsible for some pretty selections; Albert St. Clair, the double-voiced vocalist, is on a return visit. The pictures are of the best.

SYDNEY GARDENS.—The last three weeks of the outdoor season are announced, and perhaps no more attractive engagement than the Cigarettes has been made, these clever artists delighting all by their smartness and vivacity in an entertainment which comprises songs, duets, dances, and duologues.

BEDFORD.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—The star turn here this week is Alfredo Marschall, who catches heavy cannon-balls and torpedoes on the back of his neck cleverly. Other turns are those of Andie Burns, a smart step-dancer; Winnie Melville, who plays her own accompaniments to her songs; Cadwall and Verne, a comedy duo with funny patter; Gladys Ray, a comedienne whose songs go with a swing; Will and Roze, in a Continental comedy; and the Three Favourites, talented vocalists.

BELFAST.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. McCann.—We are favoured with a visit from the Beecham Opera Company, and a crowded audience greeted Offenbach's fantastic opera Tales of Hoffmann, which was presented on Monday. In the rôle of Olympia Miss Caroline Hatchard achieved much success, her remarkably fine voice winning many admirers. Mr. John Bardsley shared the honours by his artistic performances as Hoffmann, his vocalism being perfect; Miss Edith Evans was well suited as Giuletta, rendering her numbers with wonderful dramatic power; congratulations are due to Miss Beatrice La Palme for her clever impersonation of Antonia; and Mr. Charles Magrath acquitted himself with high distinction as Copelio and Mirakel. Other principal rôles were effectively sustained by Messrs. Frederick Ranalow and M. R. Morand. On Tuesday evening Strauss' comic opera Die Fledermaus (The Bat) was produced. Mr. M. R. Morand was triumphantly successful as Frank, the Governor of the Prison, and Mr. John Bardsley furnished further proof of his ability by his admirable impersonation of Von Eisenstein. Miss Caroline Hatchard as Rosalinde rendered valuable assistance. Both operas have been lavishly mounted, and the largely augmented orchestra is under the skilful direction of Mr. Hamish McCunn.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. A. Saimond.—Mr. A. Clifton Alderson's company opened here on Monday with The Coal King. Mr. Cecil Woodhouse sustained the rôle of Tom Roberts with consummate skill, and Miss Winifred Love was a charming Grace Shirley; Mr. A. W. Norman furnished an effective impersonation of Sir Reginald Hartford, J.P., whose villainous son Walter Hartford was realistically portrayed by Mr. Sidney C. Kearns. A fine character sketch of Mad Ann was submitted by Miss Emily Levettez, and Mr. Frank Dalton left nothing to be desired in his impersonation of Dick Shirley; Miss Laurie O'Neil was a vivacious Araminta Green; and other rôles were adequately presented by Miss Lucy Caton and Messrs. Frank Caffrey, Aylmer Vane, Angus Hall, A. E. Hendley, E. Fortune, F. Wade, and Robt. Derwent.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred Willmott; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—The leading feature of the bill here is provided by Alice Raymond and company, who appear with great success in A Night in Egypt, in which delightful musical selections are included. Francis Ollows and Page do well in their remarkably smart acrobatic and musical act; Regan and Ryan, eccentric comedians, take well, as does Miss Patty Yolo, a capital comedienne and elegant dancer; the Jaxon troupe of dancers, vocalists, and pianists provide an act that has afforded the utmost pleasure; and the Floradoras appear in Two's Company, Three's None. Also here are Mr. Robb Wilton, comedian; Tiny and Mite, juvenile artists; and the Hipposcope.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. C. Laidler.—The star here is Miss Alice Hollander, the Australian contralto, whose cultured vocalism has been enthusiastically received. A return visit is being paid by Mr. Tom Costello, whose latest songs have been accorded a terrific reception; the cycling feats of the beautiful Lillian are really marvellous; and Miss Ethel Newman appears in her comedy monologue Her Wedding Day. Mr. Charles Lewis, ventriloquist, is among the best in his line. Also here are Miss Kitty Wager, Mr. Fred Poplar, and the Bioscope.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—General Manager, Mr. Will White.—Interesting and attractive films are presented here. The vaudeville element is sustained by Mr. Gordon Stretton, a first-class comedian, and the Lannons, champion pedestal dancers.

ST. GEORGE'S HALL.—General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Rogers.—Capital pictures are exhibited here. Miss Annie Blanchard, chorus songstress, is loudly and deservedly applauded nightly.

PRINCESS PICTURE PALACE.—General-Manager, Captain T. A. Blake.—The pictures shown here include The Brother, The Sister, and the Cowpuncher, What the Daisy Said, and The Clown and the Pasha. Mr. David Grant in his illustrated songs has afforded much pleasure.

BILSTON.—HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Edwin C. Jazon; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. J. Tunstall.—This week the management are trying a new departure with drama twice nightly. The piece presented is His Dishonoured Wife, by Mr. Harry Tilbury and company. Mr. George A. Fry is successful as Frank Lindon, and Miss Belle Tilbury makes a sympathetic Florence Lindon. The comedy parts are admirably sustained by Mr. Harry Tilbury (Mickey Doolan) and Miss Etta Spalding as Araminta.

BIRKENHEAD.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Herbert M. King.—Mr. Frederick Melville's company, in Her Road to Ruin, is fulfilling a highly successful engagement here. Nothing but praise can be awarded to a very creditable production, which is much enhanced by a clever performance of the curate, Frank Temple, by Mr. Charles Dickens; Miss Doris Gilham gives an admirable rendering of Jess Willoughby; Miss Gertrude Tate is exactly suited as her sister May; and Mr. J. Knox-Orde distinguished himself as the evil genius of the piece. Mr. Henry Powell and Miss Grace Emery afford the necessary comedy relief.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Keating.—Gilday and Fox, two smart Hebrew comedians from the United States, in their entertaining act "Cohen's Ward," head a strong programme, which includes Mooney and Holbein, clever American artists; Ike and Will Scott, thoroughly entertaining comedians; Miss Lillie Lassah, a talented comedienne; Mr. J. P. Ling, comedian and mimic; Otto and Olga, versatile instrumentalists; Mr. Arthur Woodville, light comedian; Miss Nora Stockelle, comedienne; Mr. Victor Travers, comedian; and Brown's Royal Bioscope.

HIPPODROME.—Director of Entertainments, Mr. Will Sley; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Weston.—The Prodigal Parson, in a somewhat condensed form, is played twice nightly to large audiences. Mr. Garrod as the Rev. Tom Godley acquits himself with marked ability; Enoch Jaggins is well embodied by Mr. Ernest Vaughan; and Mr. Carthage Caldleugh is a realistic Ben Jaggins. The important rôle of Vera Godley is admirably played by Miss Bertha Kingston, and the various other parts are efficiently rendered. The play is liberally staged.

WINTER GARDENS, ROCK FERRY.—General-Manager, Messrs. B. Allandale and L. Blattner; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry A. Dooley.—The musical comedy of The Gay Rivet is the attraction here. On Thursday Mr. Harry A. Dooley took a well-deserved benefit.

BIRMINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; General-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—Mr. James Welch is here again in When Knights Were Bold, which is as popular as ever. Mr. Welch as Sir Guy de Vere works hard, and his performance is exceedingly funny; Miss Audrey Ford is still happily identified with the character of Lady Rowena; and other members of a capable company to deserve special mention are Mr. Guy Lane as the Rev. Peter Pottleby; Mr. Henry J. Ford as the Hon. Chas. Widdicombe, Mr. Arthur Grenville as Isaac Isaacson, Mr. Cecil Kinnaird as Sir Brian Ballymote, and Miss Maer O. Hea as Lady Millicent Egginton.

PRINCE OF WALES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnstone.—Mr. Edward Terry, who has been heartily welcomed, presents an attractive series of plays, and is admirably supported by well-chosen casts. On Monday he presented The Toymaker of Nuremberg, and later appeared as Sergeant Buzfuz in Bardell v. Pickwick. Other productions during the week were The Magistrate, Liberty Hall, Fiander's Widow, and Sweet Lavender.

ALEXANDRA.—Proprietor, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. T. Guest.—Mr. Tom Taylor's company is playing the new sporting drama, A Criminal's Bride. Mr. Frank Robertson gives a faithful representation of Sir Harry Felstead, a young English gentleman; Austin Deepdale is an exceptionally cool villain, and the character is ably sustained by Mr. Annesley Hely; Miss Emmie Barton proves a popular heroine; Mr. Grayson Bancroft ably plays the part of the trainer; and Mr. Hubert Belmore is effective as the revengeful Italian.

BORDESLEY PALACE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Mark Lorne.—Her Forbidden Marriage, by Frederick Melville, is successfully produced by the author's own company. Miss Alice Bowes is responsible for a faithful representation of the sympathetic character of Lucy; Mr. H. Bonhote Wilson gives a capital study of the part of George Maddison; Mr. W. H. Porter is good as Charles Devereux; and Miss Vera Grafton represents Lady Lucretia Lancaster. The comedy element is in the capable hands of Mr. Fred de Vere as Timothy Tuttull.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Andrew Melville; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hindle Taylor.—Mr. C. Watson Mill is appearing here in his dramatic romance For Love and the King. With Mr. Mill as Gerald Meredith, the whole show is a success. The acting of Miss Rosa Mervyn as Edith Meredith is creating a favourable impression. The uniforms, costumes, and scenery are excellent.

THEATRE ROYAL, ASTON.—The King and the Unknown Woman is paying a welcome return visit, Mr. G. Hill-Mitchelson's company playing to good audiences. The scenes are laid in Russia, and the scenery and dresses are on an elaborate scale. Mr. Norman Partridge is seen at his best as Prince Loris, and as Prince Memski, the villain, Mr. Walter T. Clifford is strongly convincing. Other important parts are ably sustained by Miss Adeline Raby, Miss Violet Carlyle, Miss Ella Sinnett, Miss Ada Douglas, and Mr. Willie Hicks.

CARLTON THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. Alexander.—Proof is attracting good audiences. Mr. and Mrs. William Maclaren's company give every satisfaction. The story of the celebrated case is as fascinating as ever; and the costumes worn and the scenery are especially attractive. Mr. Francis Roberts gives an admirable representation of the character of Pierre Lorance; Mr. George Roberts is capital as Lazare; and Miss Elsie Goulding makes a charming Valentine. Other characters are ably sustained.

THE EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. Williams.—Audiences are being kept in merry mood by Mr. Fred Karno's company in The G.P.O., chief honours being carried off by Tom Nelson as Perkins; King and Benson live up to their reputation in a new musical burlesque, Around the Town; Tom Clare proves himself an entertaining performer at the piano; pleasing vocalism and graceful dancing are combined in the turn of Edie Gray, in which she is assisted by two boys; Elmer Spyglass, a coloured artist, warbles ballad and American plantation songs very acceptably; Little Zola gets plenty of humorous capital out of distortions of nursery rhymes; and the Du Gros Trio introduce new business into a gymnasium act. Arabella Allen, the "Dickens girl," and Harry Simms, comedian, complete an excellent programme.

GRAND.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Foster; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. Lucas.—George Formby, the droll Lancashire comedian, keeps the audience in merry mood, and Ernest Shand, a comedian of a different type, is equally successful. Queenie Leighton, a big favourite here, sings her latest successes delightfully; Captain Taylor presents Lockhart's Elephants, who are responsible for an intensely interesting entertainment; Comella and Eddie give an amusing acrobatic and juggling performance; Daras is as good a mimic as a juggler; Leipsig mystifies with his cards and other tricks; and Helene Donald sings pleasing numbers which are illustrated.

GAIETY.—General-Manager, Mr. Albert Bushell. A lion's share of applause is accorded to Miss Lilian Dundas for her smart performance in the title-rôle of a dramatic sketch entitled Convict Nance; Payne's Wanderers are a company of versatile vocalists who appear in a pretty caravan scena; the Little Lilleys are up-to-date and clever juvenile acrobats; Leslie, Lyn, and Willie are three funny men; Talbot and Pearce are responsible for a bright entertainment; Jack Roscoe has taking humorous songs; and Dolly England is a male impersonator with an attractive style.

HIPPODROME.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Ben de Frece.—The turn of John Clempert, wherein he frees himself from a maze of manacles and chains, is as meritorious as it is mystifying; Barclay Gammon shows what resources there are in the entertaining line at the piano; Mary Law displays marked executive ability as a violinist; exhilarating acrobatic feats are performed by Avalys and Freydo; and similar work, with a humorous leaven, is furnished by Cummin and Seaham. George Lawrence and George Norton, comedians of different methods, leave the imprint of the smile "that won't come off"; and taking dances and duets are supplied by Dollie and Rosie.

ASTON HIPPODROME.—Acting-Manager, Mr. T. H. Middleton.—A well-varied programme attracts large audiences. Auguste Van Biene, the celebrated 'cello player, thrills his hearers with his artistic playing; Miss V. Vaughan and Mr. George Child also appear in the sketch which is entitled Karl's Luck; smart acrobatic feats are performed by the Seven Wulfrumas in a comedy speciality entitled Fun in a Café. Other pleasing items are contributed by the Sisters Hall, vocalists; Lillie Soutter, an amusing comedienne; Tom Franks, an up-to-date ventriloquist; J. K. Macfarlane, a quaint Scot; Victor Brothers, herculean equilibrist; and Hattie Petro and Pete Leon, accomplished gymnasts.

CURZON HALL.—Lessee, Mr. Walter Jeffs.—Moving pictures illustrating racing, football, and a good production in colourgraphy are strong features of a popular entertainment. Miss Olga Leipold is a dainty little dancer and vocalist.

KING'S HALL.—Proprietors, Messrs. Moore and Kennedy.—A new series of moving pictures is exhibited to crowded audiences, and vaudeville items are contributed by Dan Idle.

BISHOP AUCKLAND. — EDEN THEATRE. — Lessees, Messrs. R. Addison, Ltd.; Business-Manager, Mr. J. Huntley.—Capital houses are witnessing Messrs. Dudley Bennett and J. T. C. Wray's company in Miss Hook of Holland. Mr. Charles Sims provokes much laughter by his clever rendering of Mr. Hook; Mr. Edward Kipling is in his right place as Simon Slinks, providing heaps of fun; Mr. Jack Gray as Bandmaster Van Vynt is very good, his songs being well received; and a like remark applies to Mr. Griffiths Moss as Captain Adrian Paap. Miss Marion Armitage is a host in herself as Mina, and Miss Hook is charmingly portrayed by Miss Corder Walker. The chorus and orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Geoffrey Blackmore, are excellent.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, The Hippodrome (Bishop Auckland), Ltd.; Managing-Director, Signor Pepi.—Ethel Arden and Geo. Abel, in the sketch Three of a Kind, are enjoyable; Alf Gibson causes much laughter as a quaint comedian; and other clever turns are the Hyde and Cody Trio, Dolly, Agnes, and Maud (vocalists), Lester Brothers, Victor and Vessey, and Watson and McIve.

BLACKPOOL.—HER MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—Mr. Gaston Mayer's company is attracting big houses here this week with The Brass Bottle. Mr. Holman Clark is a distinct success as Fakrash-el-Aamesh; and Mr. Langbourne Burton is just the right man for Horace Ventmore. Mr. Rudge Harding as Spencer Pringle and Mr. Percy Marshall as the Professor also contribute largely to the success of the production; Mrs. Rapkin is in the clever hands of Miss Mary Brough; while Miss Marjorie Chard does well as Sylvia Futvoye.

GRAND THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr Geo. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Harrop.—The attraction here is a welcome return visit of Mr. George Edwardes' company, in The Dollar Princess. The title-rôle is charmingly played by Miss Norah Barry; and Miss Emmy Wehlen's Olga is an exceedingly creditable impersonation, her acting and singing being equally fine. Daisy is in the capable hands of Miss Mabel Russell; Mr. Leonard Mackay is again the Freddy Fairfax, and a better could not be desired; Mr. W. H. Rawlins provides great hilarity as Mr. Bulger; and Mr. Leslie Styles is well suited to the part of Harry Q. Conder.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—The incomparable Vesta Tilley is retained here a second week, and business is still enormous; the Great Thora gives a remarkably clever ventriloquial turn; and Harry Tate's No. 1 company presents a clever little sketch, entitled Flying. Mr. C. is amusing with his patter; Felix and Fisher perform remarkable gymnastic feats; the Howards are retained in the comedy musical act; Maude Courtney is an attractive singer of American songs; Pera and Rennard appear in an amusing duologue; and Carl Lynn as an animal mimic has few equals.

HIPPODROME.—Licensee, Mr. J. A. Barraclough; Acting-Manager, Mr. Donald O. Clark.—The inimitable George Robey is here this week, and the management are being well rewarded for their enterprise. He is supported by Hulsey and Bowers, comedians; Walter Gray, a clever juggler; Lottie Holland, a dainty comedienne; the Great Vincent, in acrobatic feats; the Five M.P.s, in a musical act; and John A. Corry, who controls a wireless aerial torpedo.

BOLTON. — THEATRE ROYAL, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Moncur.—Miss Florence Baines is here on a welcome return visit, and is appearing as Mary Ellen Thompson to crowded houses in the musical farce Miss Lancashire, Limited, supported by a capable company.

GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenlon.—The company here consists of the Bros. Horne in a smat comedy boxing act; Lawson and Odell, comedians and dancers; Beatie and Babs, in A Pavement Rehearsal; Robins and Collier, quaint comedians, &c.; Cestria, comedy juggler and acrobatic waiter; Mabel Sinclair, a clever lady ventriloquist; Lucy Coventry, comedienne; Stacey and Williams, comedians, &c.; Harry Tate's No. 1 company in Motoring; and the Premier Imperial Bioscope.

THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the Hippodrome (Bolton), Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. R. Harrison.—Mr. Harry P. Selwyn's company is presenting The Flood-Tide. Variety turns are given by Hilda de Gray, Tyrolean vocalist; Charles Woodward, comedian; Drum and Major in a smart duologue, "The Broker's Man"; James Curwell, clever boy pianist and composer; Edna Deno, dainty dancer; the Four Burnells, comedians, &c.; Jean and Josie, contortionists; and the Hippodrome pictures.

BOOTLE.—MUNCASTER THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Pennington Estate Co., Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Harry Pennington; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alf. D. Adams.—At the Muncaster Theatre this week Mr. Alf. D. Adams and an efficient stock company are proving a strong attraction in Her Lost Self.

WINTER GARDENS.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allandale; Joint Managers, Messrs. Ludwig Blattner and Mr. Bobbie Allandale; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Boult.—The great success attending the visit of Mr. Eric H. Albury's répertoire company has enabled the management to prolong the engagement one week. On Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Saturday evenings they presented The Strange Adventures of Miss Brown. Miss Edith Benson made a natural and unaffected Angela; Mr. Eric H. Albury was highly-amusing as Captain Courtenay; and Miss Enid Ross and Mr. Louis Palgrave were capital in their delineations of Miss Romney and Sergeant Fanner. On Thursday and Friday evenings the company presented Our Boys.

BOSCOMBE.—HIPPODROME, LTD.—Joint-Managing-Directors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Gerald Spencer.—Miss Elsie Southgate, with her violin, and James Coward, at the Mustel organ, give fine selections, and are heartily applauded; Lala Selbini, the American bathing beauty, in a unique act, including juggling and trick cycling, is most successful; Wilson and Waring, American comedy couple, keep the house in roars; the Hovyns, Continental acrobats, are laughable in Fun in a Baker's Kitchen; Phil Parsons, light comedian, receives a hearty welcome; Lily Hayes as a comedien power and emotion in his acting; the part of the Curé is well played by Mr. Leslie Lingham; Mr. John Dunbar is powerful and most effective in his acting as the vile and cowardly anarchist Michel Vacurat; Miss Ethel Vinroy is a charming Lizette; Miss Bella Power is amusing as Madame Pomeroy; as Jean, Mr. G. Toft is quaint; and Mr. A. A. Valentine is picturesque and vigorous as Fragot. The interest throughout the play is intense, and loud applause greets its representation.

THE EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. J. Kelly.—The Great Fasola, the Indian Fakir, is presenting some marvellous illusions here this week, his astonishing performance eliciting great applause; in a very clever and original acrobatic speciality act, the Three Laurels are the recipients of well-merited and hearty marks of approbation; Shirley and Ransome present a well-acted sketch, Jim's Pal, successfully; in a grotesque burlesque on Chanticler Will Evans is very amusing; the Eight Empire Girls sing and dance acceptably in their military scena; with capital patter and rare fun the New Macs are diverting; Harry Marie is an energetic light comedian and dancer; Gertie Gitana, the comedienne with a charming voice and delightful abandon and spontaneity in her work, wins favour; and there are some excellent bioscope pictures.

THE PALACE.—Lessee, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Edward Harrison.—This week's programme embraces a truly wonderful performance by Captain Spaulding, who appears to be immune from fire and heat, and his eating of liquid wax and molten lead, amongst other remarkable feats, excites astonishment; the Millwards present a good comedy act; Smith and Gibbs are clever equilibrists; an acceptable comedienne turn by Cissie Carter finds favour; in their sketch, Father's Footsteps, the Heriot trio are entertaining; Frank Boyce submits a good turn as a comedian; Bi-Bo-Bi gives an eccentric musical turn, which is enjoyable and clever; as a comedy "dame," Rowland Hill is delightfully funny; and the Palace pictures are, as usual, very entertaining.

BRIDLINGTON.—SPA OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. R. C. Luxton.—The Arcadians paid its first visit to Bridlington this week, opening to a capital house on Monday evening. As Smith and Simplicitas Mr. Charles A. Stephenson proved himself a comedian of talent; Mr. Alfred Beers was a clever exponent of the melancholy jockey Peter Dooley; Mr. Arthur S. Macdonald is a manly Jack Meadows; and Mr. Cyril Lane makes a smart and dapper Bobby. Miss Sybil Tancredi was a charming Sombra, and Miss Violet Roberts was a pretty little Chrysea. As Eileen Miss Mollye McIntyre was enthusiastically received, and Miss Gertrude Aylward revelled in the part of Mrs. Smith.

ROYAL PRINCE'S PARADE.—Manager, Mr. Charles Palmer.—The tenth and last symphony concert this season, by Mr. Norfolk Megone's talented orchestra, marks the end of the season with the full band, Tschaikowsky's "Pathetic" Symphony was the principal item at the concert. The vocalist at the promenade concerts this week is Miss Helen Blair, a fine contralto. In the Grand Pavilion Mr. Walter George and his "Smart Set" entertainers finished their successful season on Saturday, when Mr. George was accorded a complimentary benefit. This week Mr. H. Flockton-Foster and his company, "The Ideals," are drawing crowded audiences to their excellent entertainment. On Tuesday evening they performed an original burlesque, written by Mr. Flockton-Foster, composed by Ernest Longstaffe, entitled Striking Matches by the Sea, which was capitally played.

NEW SPA AND GARDENS.—Manager, Mr. R. C. Luxton—Herr Julian Kandt and his famous band are still drawing crowded audiences to the Spa to listen to their fine programmes. The vocalist this week is Miss Vera Moore, a sweet-voiced soprano, who is re-called. Mr. Wilson James's vaudeville company opened on Monday, and are giving some excellent entertainments under the direction of Mr. Percy Watson, the Euterpeans being heartily received as on their former visit to the Spa.

BRIGHTON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee and Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Gates; General-Manager, Mr. Ben Court.—Mr. Herbert Sleath's company is here this week with A White Man, and is attracting good houses. Mr. Frank E. Petley gives a masterly impersonation of Capt. Wynnegate, V.C., afterwards known as Jim Carson; Miss Dorothy Edwards makes a sympathetic Nat-u-rich; Miss Nora Nagle is a pleasing Little Hal; Mr. Vernon Sansbury as Cash Hawkins, Mr. John M. East as Big Bill, Mr. Oswald Lingard as Tab-y-Wena, and Mr. James E. Page submit realistic impersonations; Mr. Charles Maunsell is well suited as the Earl of Kerhill; and other parts are ably sustained by Miss Enid Sass (Countess of Kerhill), Miss Gertrude Price (Dowager Lady Kerhill), Mr. Harold Richardson (Sir John Applegate), and Mr. Lewis Sealy (Malcolm Petrie).

ALHAMBRA. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Alfred Smith; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. A. Smith.—Alexandra Dagmar, comedienne and raconteuse, is enthusiastically received; Wragg and Wragg, military athletes, achieve great success; Charles Sloman is a quaint and diverting comedian; the Musical Keiths give an admirable turn; Wana Ma, acrobatic lady, assisted by her canine wonder, merits praise; the Sisters Slater, banjoists and sand dancers, are warmly applauded; W. A. Harvie is a capital wire performer; Lill Elfreda is a good mimic; and the Alhambra Biograph is interesting and amusing.

BARRASFORD'S HIPPODROME.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Bertram J. Brown.—De Biere baffles the audience with his series of clever illusions; May Moore Duprez, the entertaining Dutch girl, meets with a very hearty reception; Miss Anna Chandler, American comedienne, submits a pleasing turn; Marie Santoi and company appear in a charming scena, A Night in Japan; Maud Lordy's dog actors and acrobats give evidence of clever training; Ted E. Box is a humorous comedian; Leo and Roland are skilful equilibrists; Harry Levaine, comedian, is amusing; Gus Harris is effective in Hebrew delineations; and Phyllis Seymour is a charming comedienne.

WEST PIER.—Secretary, Mr. A. W. Scholey.—Mr. Walter Maxwell's company is here this week with Mr. Preedy and the Countess. Mr. A. W. Baskcomb submits an excellent character study as Hamilton Preedy; Miss Nella Powys makes a graceful and charming Countess of Rushmere; Mr. John Nesbitt gives an admirable impersonation of John Bounsall; Mr. Shirley Lea is diverting as Bilson; Miss Mary O'Farrell is a delightful Emma Sidgrave; and praiseworthy enactments are presented by Mr. Cecil Humphreys (Earl of Rushmere), Mr. Hamilton Deane (Hon. Robert Jennerway), Mr. J. McClintock Clive (Reginald Saunders), and Miss Ninon Dudley (Harriet Budgen).

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Jay and Mann; Resident-Manager, Mr. Wilfred R. Kent.—Messrs. Peter Davey and Douglas Gordon's company opened here on Monday with The Importance of Being Earnest. Mr. Douglas Gordon gave a very clever enactment of John Worthing; Mr. Hugh Andale's Algernon Montcrieff was admirably played; Mr. Alfred Wilson as Canon Chasuble was well suited; Miss Olivia Glynne made a graceful Hon. Gwendolen Fairfax; Mrs. Peter Davey acquitted herself with distinct success as Lady Bracewell; Miss Mildred Gilbert as Miss Prism, and Miss Barbara Hannay as Cecily Cardew, were also very effective; and the remaining parts were satisfactorily sustained. The play was followed by the up-to-date burlesque on Chanticler entitled Cock-a-Doodle-Doo, in which the characters were represented by Mr. W. Lazard, Miss Cissie Clark, Miss M. Sadie, and Miss Nellie Lomas.

COURT THEATRE.—Lessee and Manageress, Mrs. Maud Barrasford; Manager, Mr. F. J. Thompson.—A very attractive series of animated pictures is exhibited here this week. The great wrestling match between Gama and Zbysco at the Stadium for the championship of the world proves highly interesting; dramatic stories are conveyed by The Face at the Window, Tried and Found True, and the Eagle and the Eaglette (comprising incidents in Napoleon's career). Small Industries in Cairo is an instructive film; and much amusement is afforded by Looking for Lodgings, Getting Rid of Ma-in-Law, and A Funny Story. Mr. Arthur W. Briggs merits warm praise for his descriptive pianoforte accompaniments.

BRISTOL.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—Messrs. Milton Bode and John Hart's opera comapny is here with Les Cloches de Corneville, Planquette's favourite comic opera being staged most effectively, both in the way of pretty scenery and appropriate dresses. Mr. E. H. Alban acts really well as Gaspard, his make-up is good, and he does not "overact"; Mr. Cyril Thompson has a very pleasing high baritone voice, he sings artistically, and he acts the part of the Marquis for all it is worth; Miss Kitty Dale both sings and acts charmingly as Germaine; Miss Dolly Castles is pleasingly vivacious as Serpolette; Miss Lucy Kipling makes an imposing Christophe, and acts effectively; Mr. Arthur Geary has a pleasing tenor voice, and he makes the most of Grenricheaux; and the comic parts of the Bailie and Gobo are taken in amusing style by Mr. Fred Dark and Mr. Alfred Selby, the latter scoring heavily with his eccentric dance. The chorus is large and very effective, some really fine voices being distinguishable. The augmented orchestra does admirably under the direction of Mr. Knight-Pearce, and the large audience on Monday evening seemed to fully enjoy and appreciate the once very popular opera.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mrs. Emma Carpenter; Manager, Mr. Henry C. Alty.—Married to the Wrong Man is the attraction here, the drama being effectively staged and well played by Mr. Frederick Melville's company. Miss Mary Pemberton and Mr. Henry Lonsdale are admirable in their respective parts of Ruth and Jack Gladwin; Mr. George Arthur acts with distinction as Captain Deering; Mr. W. Pemberton makes a fine part of the bluff Sergeant Manners; Mr. A. E. Johnstone makes the most of Doctor Brandon; Mr. Leonard Thackery does well as Jasper Skinner; and the comic parts of Timothy Clinker and Dolly Fritter are capitally taken by Mr. Hyland O'Shea and Miss May Day. The remaining characters are all in very capable hands.

PALACE.—District-Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton; Treasurer and Assistant-Manager, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—Albert Ward and company are highly successful with the interesting dramatic sketch, A Noble Revenge; Rozel performs various difficult and sensational feats on a trapeze and rope fixed above the auditorium; Harry Taft, comedian and whistler, is appreciated; Marie Kay is a pleasing vocalist and dancer; Amy Anderson and company entertain with their excellent sketch, The Banana Girl; the Three Orleans are smart vocalists and dancers; Barry and Wood please with song and dance; Frank H. Fox, comedian, obtains applause; and the Dayton Family of twelve performers present a fine Risley acrobatic act. Interesting animated pictures conclude.

EMPIRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. Rhodes Parry; Advertising and Assistant-Manager, Mr. Sid Macaire.—Mlle. Vera De Astra, in a speciality scena, entitled "A Shepherd's Dream of the Year," presents classical poses in artistic style, and Mlle. Wanda Baranoff and M. Olave Fritchoff also present some superb dancing, the scena being very prettily staged; James and Jenny Jee are exceptionally clever as tight-wire artists; Arnold Richardson and company amuse with their comedy sketch, Ferdie's Ma-in-law; the Czar's Troupe of Russian Dancers are experts in their line; the Three Cape Girls do a pretty turn of song and dance; Zerlini amuses as a comic juggler; Fred Costin, comedian, is appreciated; Fyne and Wood do well with their "Coster Stall" speciality; Vere and Royal patter and sing to advantage; Louise Zetland is a pleasing ballad vocalist; and Dale and O'Malley, patter comedians, are exceptionally smart in their line. Animated pictures conclude.

BROUGHTON. — VICTORIA THEATRE. — Lessees, Messrs. J. P. Moore and Montague Beaudyn; General-Manager, Mr. Montague Beaudyn; Business-Manager, Mr. Arthur Collingwood.—The Princess and the Vagabond, with Miss Irene Munroe as the Princess heroine, and Mr. Montague Beaudyn in the dual-rôle of Prince Rupert and Ulrick Garstig drew a very good house on Monday. Miss Muriel Inglis forcibly played the Countess Carmercita; Mr. A. A. Tomlin as Baron Kelvitz and Miss Phyllis Rae as Lady Nora celverly sustained the comedy business; Mr. Val Gully (stage-manager) presented the King and Captain Max. The villainous Prince Roderick had a typical representative in Mr. Wm. Melvyn; Mr. Chas. D. Pitt (Cardinal), Miss F. Haldane (Bruno), and Miss Cora Patey also did good work.

BURNLEY.—VICTORIA OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—The Master of the Mill is presented here this week. Mr. Algernon Syms displays ability in the rôle of John Greenfield, whilst Messrs. Ernest Mason and Ernest E. Imeson are admirably fitted for the parts of Tom Bolton and Julian Croft. Mr. Daniel Green proves his power as Adam Davenport, and the humorous element is well maintained by Messrs. Frank Kingsley, Frank Ward, Jack West, and Will Crook. A winsome character is made of Nancy by Miss Enid Edoni, and Miss Valerie Russell as Isabel is a delightful actress.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—The Kebbles occupy a strong position here with happily-chosen duets enhanced by clever dancing; Lieven and Pantzer are a pair of smart athletes; and the Davenport Duo rank high with clever conjuring and irresistible humour. George Kill is a vocalist of merit; whilst Baby Baden shows promise as a comedienne. Ambrose Thorne and Harvey's American boys and girls help to complete a fine programme. Scenes in Constantine are shown by the Empire Theatroscope.

PALACE THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. R. Badcoe.—The principal turn here this week is Apollo in some marvellous feats of strength; an exciting turn is presented by the Tom Davis Trio in motor-cycling on a miniature track; and a clever step-dancing turn is given by Pat Lynch. Edwin Garth, comedian, is an amusing dame; and Carter's Ten Dixie Girls are a troupe of excellent singers and dancers. The Caines are a couple of smart athletic girls, whilst Charles Banks introduces his clever dog Woof. The film by the Palace Pictures shows How Scroggins Found the Comet.

BURTON-ON-TRENT.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. Ede Hague Body.—Cavalier Rabbottini, with his band of thirty performers, is creating quite a furore; the Milsted Bell trio give a side-splitting comedy act entitled Three Sharps in a Flat; a clever turn is that of Bu-Val, the Happy Dutchman; Layern mystifies the house with his clever tricks; Connie Isea is possessed of a sweet voice; Warren and Granville smartly present His Brother's Fiancée; Harry Martell, comedian and dancer, is clever and amusing.

BURY (Lancs.).—ROYAL.—Proprietors, Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Assistant-Acting-Manager, Mr. J. McPherson.—A crowded house on Monday witnessed the first performance here of The Arcadians, presented by Mr. Robert Courtneidge's company. As Simplicitas Mr. Gus Oxley keeps the audience in a continual state of merriment; Peter Doody is well played by that clever comedian Mr. Geo. Hestor; Mr. H. Nelson Hancock sings and acts with fine effect in the rôle of Jack Meadows; Bobby is cleverly presented by Mr. Freddie Bentley; and Mr. H. Fairfax is good as Sir George Paddock. Miss Marion Edwards as Sombra acts with charming grace and dignity; Chrysea is prettily played by Miss Gladys Silvani; Miss Mysie Devine as Eileen Cavanagh renders her songs with sweetness and expression; Miss Madge Haines gives a thoroughly efficient and amusing representation of Mrs. Smith; Messrs. Douglas Marrs and W. Dawson appear to advantage as Astrophel and Strephon respectively. The scenery and dresses are of the usual high Courtneidge order, and an augmented orchestra is under the direction of Mr. Albert Bartlett.

CIRCUS OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Assistant Acting-Manager, Mr. J. McPherson.—Pictures still form the main attraction; and excellent variety items are given by Dennis McCarthy and Edna Francis.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Resident-Manager, Mr. Thomas Baker.—Chas. R. Whittle, the quaint and original comedian, tops the bill; the Breen Family are responsible for some clever juggling; Will Walton is a quaint comedian; Mima Kello appears successfully in a song scena, assisted by the Raphael Quartette; a number of clever character studies are submitted by Sydney Brandon, that of the tramp being particularly good; and Edie Veno is also on the bill.

BURY ST. EDMUND'S. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Miss Florence Glossop-Harris; General-Manager, Mr. Max Jerome; Resident-Manager, Mr. James Mason.—The enterprise of the management in securing Miss Annie Hughes's company in Miss Tommy has resulted in packed houses. Mr. Mayne Lynton is quaintly humorous as Peter Hope; Dick Danvers is played with merit by Mr. Henry Deas; as the irascible Clodd Mr. Fred Marston acts delightfully; and Mr. Ernest Kendrick provokes mirth as Flipp. Miss Hughes blends the exquisite comedy and pathos of the title-rôle with unerring skill; Danver's wife is portrayed with power by Miss Winifred Pearson; Honor being prettily acted by Miss Vera Pole.

WEST SUFFOLK PALACE.—General-Manager, Sidney Reach.—Ibbotson, assisted by Helen Maynard, tops the bill this week; the Sprees give a capital turn entitled The Rustic and the Maid; Joa Con is capital in light comedy and song; Morris and Mart are favourably received; Ernie Brown is seen to advantage in light comedy; Bendello, the contortionist, is popular; Roma Ray is appreciated in song and dance; Fred Melburn proves an admirable comedian; and Steeley and Crawford's Pierrots are amusing. The Palace pictures conclude.

BUXTON.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Buxton Gardens Co., Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Arthur Willoughby.—The D'Oyly Carte principal répertoire company is the attraction here. On Monday a delightful performance was given of The Gondoliers. Mr. H. A. Lytton, Mr. S. Granville, Mr. Fred Billington, Mr. H. Herbert, and Mr. Leicester Tunks were conspicuous for excellent performances as the Duke of Plaza-Toro, Linz, Marco, and Giuseppe respectively; and mention must be made of Miss M. Stone as Casilda; Miss Louie René as the Duchess; Miss Cross, in the part of Gianetta; and Miss Beatrice Boarer as Tessa; Miss Anna Bethell gave a charming performance as Vittoria. On Tuesday The Pirates of Penzance was staged, followed by Trial by Jury; and on Wednesday The Mikado had a cordial reception. On Thursday The Yeomen of the Guard was the attraction, and on Friday Patience. The musical conductor, Mr. François Cellier had an admirable band well under his bâton.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Allan Milton.—Volteens slide on a tight wire from the balcony to the stage here, and are applauded to the echo; Miss Ada Gatley's juggling and swinging-wire turn is another prominent feature; whilst Miss Della Day is a popular comedienne. The pictures are also first rate.

CANTERBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham-Falcon.—Miss Violet Osmond's company is here in The New Barmaid. Mr. George A. Fox is good as Captain Lovebury; the William White of Mr. Charles Adeson is screamingly funny; and no less amusing is the interpretation of Bertie White of Mr. Alexander Loftus; Miss Violet Osmond enacts Dora Heather with ability; and the Ethel Joy of Miss Madge Prior is successful; Miss Dora Carmen as Brenda Louth, and Miss Beatrice May as Lady Moulton are other good representations; Mr. W. Granger is quite at home as Colonel Claymore, and the parts of Mabel (Miss Murielle Mascot), Mary (Miss Betty Dalmeny), Braddy (Miss M. Stead), and James (Mr. E. Osborn) are all capably placed. During the end of the week Jury's Imperial pictures have been delighting good audiences.

CARDIFF.—NEW THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—We have a welcome return visit of The Arcadians. Mr. Walter Passmore in the rôle of James Smith again gives a droll rendition; Mr. Oliver J. Round is again quite at home in the character of Peter Doody; Miss Billie Sinclair submits a most bewitching impersonation of Eileen Cavanagh; Miss Ethel Erskine as Sombra charms all by her sweet singing and graceful acting; Miss Veronica Brady as Mrs. Smith adds considerably to her reputation by her performance; Mr. Harold E. Pearce as Jack Meadows proves quite the right artist for the important part entrusted to him; and Mr. Louis Victor as Bobby, Mr. Ivan Cleveland as Sir George Paddock, Mr. James Stevenson as Time, Miss Florence Ivy as Chrysea, and Mr. Jack Morrison as Astrophel are all adequate.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. J. Taylor.—A strong and varied programme is in evidence this week. Geo. Leyton, the popular Crimean and Indian Mutiny veterans' idol, makes a return visit, and in his new scena "The Roll Call" appears to great advantage; Jack Lorimer is a successful Scotch comedian; a novel turn is that of the Staleys' company in a lightning transformation; Barry Lupino's trick dancing is quite a feature of his performance; Lydia and Ameleys, Parisian whirlwind dancers, gain tumultuous applause; and Barrett and Knowles, patter comedians, cause wholesome laughter. A high-class item is that of Sylvia du Barry, in her vocal scena "In Andalusia"; the Avolos and Stella Stahl are also in the bill.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Arthur Burton.—The Yellow Fang, an intensely dramatic sketch, presented by Miss Mary Mayfren's company, is proving a tremendous draw this week; a really pleasing number is that of the Garricks (four), in a pot-pourri of songs and dances; Renot is a mimic of the first water; and the Four Figaros, character vocalists and dancers; Rousby and Rene, in their new Lancashire comedy, "Fine Feathers"; Sissie Brand, a charming comedienne who sings well; Arthur Harris, actor-vocalist; and an exciting Bioscope picture complete.

CARLISLE.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Thos. Courtice.—Miss Minola Hurst and her miniature comedians top the bill in a smart performance; a wonderful manipulation of hoops is given by Everhart and assistants; one of the most popular turns is contributed by the Great Four, comedy vocalists; Paul Corrix's daring feats of strength meet with favour; in the comedy skit Dick Whittington, the cat is cleverly portrayed by the male member of the Whittaker Duo; Stanley and Vandyke have a laughable comedy act; and Drury and Lane, comedians and dancers, and Barney Murphy, in Irish songs, complete an excellent programme.

THE PALACE.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. J. D. Askew.—A powerful dramatic sketch entitled The Key is the feature of this week's entertainment. Mr. Gilbert Heron acts with force as the husband; Miss Jessie Danvers plays the wife with intensity; and Mr. Victor Huntley is effective as the friend. A really great trampoline act is given by Hayes and Merritt; Ford Williams uses a fine bass voice with effect in "The Wolf." Some excellent comedy club juggling by the Two Manites meets with warm applause; and Maud Vera, dainty comedienne and dancer, Mlle. Bartenelli, contortionist, and Clara Coverdale's Nine Dainty Dots contribute popular turns.

PUBLIC HALL.—Lessee and Director, Mr. Sydney Bacon; Resident-Manager, Mr. Peter Mooney.—Some capital pictures are being exhibited here. W. H. Downs, the Australian coloured vocalist, sings a couple of songs with telling effect.

CARMARTHEN.—ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—Proprietors, Public Rooms Co.; Secretary, Mr. Edward Baldwin.—This week Mr. Dudley Stuart presented Mr. Arthur Hare and company in the well-known comedy, A Pair of Spectacles. Mr. Arthur Hare as Benjamin Goldfinch gave an excellent interpretation; Mr. James Harcourt as Gregory was exceptionally clever; as was also Mr. Guy Vivian as Percy and Mr. Fernley Bisshoff as Dick; Mr. Alfred Kingston as Joyce was very amusing; Mr. Victor Stuart as Lorimer was very good; Mr. Jack Bertram represented Bartholomew very creditably, as did Mr. Martin Sherwood, another bootmaker; Miss May de Launey was most successful as Lucy; and Miss Carmena Rivers gave an ideal exposition to the rôle of Marion.

CASTLEFORD.—ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor and Licensee, Mr. Chas. Gadsby; Business-Manager, Councillor Henry Masterman, J.P.—Mr. Junius Booth and company, in Monte Cristo, is the attraction here this week. Edmund Dante, afterwards the Count of Monte Cristo, has a forcible exponent in Mr. Junius Booth; as M. Notier Mr. Millar Anderson gives a strong portrayal throughout; Mr. J. Sanger submits a natural delineation of Danglars. The scheming Villefort is capitally played by Mr. J. Hawden, while Mr. Harry Bannister enters well into the spirit of the part as Fernand. Mr. D. J. Bosher is seen to advantage as Lieut. de Morcef; Caderousse finds an amusing exponent in Mr. J. F. Brandon; Miss Lillian Deane ably sustains the rôle of Mercedes; while Miss Ethel Blake is good as Marie, and Miss Phyllis Keith is capital as Sophie Danglars. Way Out West is billed for the latter three days of this week.

QUEEN'S THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Proprietors, The Castleford Queen's Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Directors, Messrs. Chas. Beanland and Will H. Emerson.—Interesting and instructive pictures by the Loyal Dominion company provide an excellent show here this week. Kitty Leon sings and dances with a skill and vivacity that win the highest approbation; the Two Gilberts perform some expert and hazardous feats; and Jack Harris provokes merriment with songs and patter.

CHELTENHAM. — OPERA HOUSE. — General-Manager, Mr. H. Oswald Redford.—Mr. Eric Hope's company, in The Pigeon House, received a cordial welcome on Monday evening. The part of Paul Bouchard is capably sustained by Mr. Ivan Berlyn; Mr. Eric Hope as Victor de Meneval invests the part with a pleasing personality; Miss Iris Hoey as Leontine (Victor's wife), is delightfully piquant; Miss Jane Eyre does excellent work as Mme. Vernet; Major Fallieres is pleasingly impersonated by Mr. Ernest Arundel, who sings and acts well; Mr. Haddon Cave does well as Vicomte de Chantecler; Mr. A. J. Nicholls acts and sings with due point as Pierre; Miss Amy Fanchette does excellently as Celeste Bouchard; Miss Mary Hay is convincingly suspicious as Elise; and Miss Violet Dene (Aglaia) is a smart solo dancer.

MONTPELLIER GARDENS.—Manager, Mr. Alfred W. Newton.—Les Militaires holds the boards this week. Mr. Charlie Ross and Mr. Lauri Ray, the eminent pantomime comedians, are responsible for the fun; Miss Daisy Cordelia has a fine voice; Miss May Florence indulges in speciality dances; Mr. Henry Jordan is a capital tenor soloist; and Mr. Harry Langton a facile accompanist.

WINTER GARDENS ELECTRIC THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Cecil Gill-Smith.—This show is still very popular, the excellence and pleasing variety of the pictures continuing to draw immense houses. The Closed Door and The Punishment of the Samurai are two interesting pictures. Popular songs are rendered by Miss Alice Forbes.

POOLE'S PICTURE PALACE.—Manager, Mr. E. B. Shenton.—The artists here this week are Tony Clifford, ventriloquist; Lawson and Odell, in a laughable interlude; and the Godfreys, musical entertainers. Capital films include Dutch Children and The Alpine Guide.

CHESTER. — ROYALTY THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. S. Buccleuch.—The principal attraction of an excellent variety company is Ohana San and company, in a beautiful Oriental scena, A Vision of Japan; the Lovelaces are clever and tuneful song illustrators; Slippere is a man of many parts, and as a blind entertainer deserves great praise, and won hearty plaudits; Bernard and Weston are smart comedians and eccentric dancers; Johnny Fuller is skilfully amusing as "the little cat on the wire"; and the Four Vagabonds, a vocal comedy quartette, prove a welcome turn, and are the cause of much hearty laughter. Biographic pictures conclude.

CHORLTON - CUM - HARDY. — CHORLTON THEATRE AND WINTER GARDENS.—There is an attractive programme of pictures here this week. The variety turns are provided by Sands and Vincent, in an amusing comedy act; Stratton, a clever female impersonator; and Will B. Bright, vertatile vocalist and dancer.

CLACTON-ON-SEA.—WEST CLIFF GARDENS.—Proprietors, Messrs. Graham, Russell, and Bentley.—Excellent concerts here continue to draw good houses. Miss Lily Gover, contralto; Arthur Melrose, humorous siffleur; Fred Pardoe, in clever impersonations; Bert Graham, comedian; Bernard Russell, in his female impersonations; and Will Bentley, comedian, form the company. Mr. Cyril Well is the able accompanist.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. H. R. D. Hooper; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. S. Whitcher; Secretary, Mr. T. Butt.—Sam Mayo tops the bill here; the Harvey Boys are a success in their boxing act; Leo Tell is a wonderful animal mimic; Mabel Fairchild is extremely clever in her dancing scena, "A Bolfry Dream"; Bonnie Lexie is a charming danseuse; and Florence Cooper is popular in her descriptive songs. Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope shows some fine films.

CLYDEBANK. — GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. A. E. Pickard; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. Mitchell.—The current bill includes Loch and Glen, assisted by Pete Marzella, in a comedy triple-bar act; Sirron and Simkin, comic jugglers and conjurors; Durazcoe and Azella, chair pyramidists and equilibrists; Wills and Warlock, comedians and novelty dancers; Gipsy Bell, comedienne; and a fine selection of pictures on the Bioscope.

COLCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Chas. Macdona; Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. Graham Macdona.—Miss Lena Ashwell's company, in Diana of Dobson's, opened a half-week's engagement on Monday. In the title-rôle Miss Eva Leonard Boyne achieved a triumph; Miss Hilda Francks showed dramatic cleverness as Mrs. Cantelupe; Mr. Thos. Pauncefort in the character of Sir Jabez was remarkably natural; and Mr. Brisco Owen did well as Capt. Bretherton. The comedy was preceded each evening by the one-act drama Out West.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Hippodrome Co., Ltd.; Lessees, Co-operative Varieties, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Leo King.—The Venetians are concerned with living statuary; R. Cardigan and company, in The Distinguished Visitor, present a musical sketch, in which the outstanding feature is the admirable baritone contributions of Mr. Cardigan; Ryder Slone's character songs are loudly applauded; Winnie Dorson appeals strongly with her musical item; the Musical Wagners, on the xylophones, are a good turn; the Four Panamas present a pantomimical speciality, The Delineator; Tom Yorke goes well as a coster comedian; and the pictures form a welcome item.

CONSETT.—NEW THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Clarance.—The Prince and the Beggar Maid is being played here by Alfred Paumier and Walter Howard's company. Miss Viola Holland is a charming and accomplished Monica; as Camiola Miss Violette May receives much applause; and Miss Mona Hall is a pleasing Viola. Prince Hildred is ably portrayed by Mr. Leonard Booker; Mr. H. Burton as Captain Hector and Mr. Stafford Dickens as Lieutenant Stromberg are both good; Mr. Victor Rae is a capital Prince Michael; and as Prince Olaf Mr. Henry Hallatt is a big favourite. The Bishop of Illyria is in the capable hands of Mr. Charles Coleman, and Mr. Oswald Waller gives a good account of himself as Nathan.

DALY'S HALL.—Lessee, Mr. John Cottrell; General-Manager, Mr. W. D. Murray.—Mr. J. H. Milburn tops the bill here; De Lil is a clever illusionist; and Hulbert, ventriloquist, is well received.

NEW TOWN HALL.—Proprietors, the Town Hall Co., Ltd.; Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Campbell.—The Royal Quintette top the bill with extra good songs and dances; Henri Foden, hand jumper, &c., is an interesting turn; and up-to-date pictures conclude.

CORK.—OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. R. J. Bell.—The pictures of the Johnson-Jeffries fight were produced here this week, and the theatre was well patronised.

PALACE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Thomas F. O'Brien.—Mr. Lewys James (of Moody-Manners Opera company) was in splendid voice, and his operatic and other ballads were well received; the Juggling McBans gave an exhibition of skill which was clever and novel; Arthur J. Hill, in some clever imitations of comedy stars, won appreciation; May Mars, in vocal scena, was high-entertaining; Mr. Hymack, the chameleon comedian provided a most laughable entertainment; Millie and Arthur, in comedy act, were capital: Lily Eaton, comedienne, sang pleasing songs; and the Palacescope pictures are new.

COVENTRY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Bennett.—The play this week is entitled A Woman and Two Men, the piece from the pen of Messrs. John Buckley and Patrick Burnard, and is excellently produced by Miss Geraldine Montrose's company. Miss Montrose takes the part of Madeline Morden to perfection; Mr. Harold B. Lewis as Jack Maxwell is extremely good; Mr. Stephen Langton scores a success as Philip Collister; and Miss Maud Kirwan is equally good as Sybil Maynard.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. S. T. Newsome; Resident-Manager, Mr. G. E. Wright.—Cruikshank, the droll clown, is at the top of a good bill this week; Edgar Graham, the Lilliputian wonder, gives a marionette show in truly realistic fashion, portraying entertainers of the past and present with great credit; Messrs. Bellew and Stock's company, including Master Edward Garratt, give a comedy sketch entitled Mortimer Magnus, M.P., which causes great fun; the Great Northern Troupe of Dancers give a fine performance; Miss Rachel Lowe is a novel singer with a style of her own that is quite unique, and which amuses the audience immensely; Victor and Louis give a vocal comedy act, "The Golfer and the Caddie"; and Ariel and Astarte have a capital gymnastic turn.

CROYDON. — GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Charles Wood; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Ernest Archer.—The attraction here this week is Messrs. Lyn Harding and Sidney Cooper's company in Tantalizing Tommy. Miss Nellie Lonnen is delightfully fresh and merry in the title-rôle; Miss Margaret Stuart is suitable as Elsie Tatham; Miss Eva Brickwell is capital as Bertha; and Miss Kate Emerson is neat as the maid. Mr. Hastings Lynn is a great success in the rôle of James Cottenham; Mr. Ambrose Flower is satisfactory as Harry Killick; Mr. Roy Byford just touches the right note as Thomas H. Pepper; Mr. Ernest R. Holloway does well as Eustace Tatham; Mr. Geoffrey Denys makes the most of Lord Enderby; and minor characters are carefully played by Messrs. Olaf Hytten, Cyril Percy, Frank Creston, and Hubert Lane. The curtain-raiser is Collaborators, commendably rendered by Mr. Olaf Hytten and Miss Margaret Stuart.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter Gibbons; Manager, Mr. Eustace Jay.—This house is being packed at each performance to give a cordial welcome to that prince of Scotch comedians Harry Lauder—he receives quite an ovation, and his excellent songs are heartily applauded; the Cromwells give a clever juggling act; Jay Laurier is an irresistible comedian; Daisy James, comedienne, is full of life and spirit; Arthur Lennard is a vocal comedian of ability; Jack Smiles, comedian, is funny; Madge Temple sings her chorus songs with fine effect, her capital chorus song "The silvery, silvery sands," the work of that accomplished composer and musician Mr. Hermann Darewski, bringing down the house; Walton and Lester are a droll pair; the Romps are smart juvenile singers and dancers; Cribb and Cribb are amusing patter comedians; Eileen Northe, "Cullercoats' Fisher-Girl Vocalist," is praiseworthy; and the Bioscope pictures are up to date. Mr. Eustace Jay's excellent management of this house is causing much favourable comment.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stanley Hope.—An enjoyable show here this week. Le Roy, Talma, and Bosco create quite a furore in their marvellous conjuring act of magic and mirth; Arthur Clifton, comedian, is very good; Jessie Merryless, comedienne, is a favourite; Luis Alvarez's fine voice is heard to advantage; the Norman and Leonard Trio submit a talented musical and danc

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Geo. Weldon; Stage-Manager, Mr. P. Hogg.—The usual liberal supply of pictures is again in evidence here; there is also a variety programme. The Three Sisters Eston are very good on the triple trapeze; Billy Rhodes, a great favourite, evokes much laughter; Clare and Pastor provide fun; a clever knockabout act is presented by Reski and Reski; and James Rich, comedian, and the Bernices also appear.

DINNINGTON (Yorks.).—LYRIC THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. James England.—Mr. Harry Aynsley's company is here with The King of Diamonds. Mr. Harry Aynsley is a capable villain, being well supported by Miss Camille Treherne as Olive Vandell; Mr. Geo. Keene is a capital George Fenton; and the character of the Dude has a good exponent in Mr. Walter Warren. Sir Richard Steel is well portrayed by Mr. Aubrey Norton; Sir Charles Lockwood being well represented by Mr. Wilson Lowther. Miss Peggy Ross is a charming Muriel; and Silas Craddock finds a capable representative in Mr. Ralph Maynard. Tragedy is relieved by the humour of Reginald Adolphus Garth as represented by Mr. Dennis Brook, and the vagaries of Sophonisba Garth as represented by Miss Esmai Ellys.

DOUGLAS.—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Grand Theatre Co., Ltd.; Chairman, Mr. Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. R. Wood.—The Education of Elizabeth is being presented here by Mr. Ernest E. Norris's company. Miss May Norris cleverly realised the part of Elizabeth Black; Mr. Ernest Norris himself presented fine studies of character as Mr. Whitby and Reggie Hankey; the Blanch McIntyre of Miss Emily Stevens was a capital comedy interpretation; Miss Una Lyle presented a fine portrait of an English gentlewoman.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Palace and Gaiety Theatre Cos.; Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Fox; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Gray.—The Girl in the Boat is being presented here. Mr. Charles McNaughton is a host in himself as Potts; Miss Irene Verona as Mrs. Hope is excellent; Miss Isobel Higgins as represented by Miss May Garstang, a clever actress, is natural; as Sir Walter Wenleysdale Mr. Frederick Hobbes is graceful and romantic; the Admiral Weber of Mr. Harry Adnes evokes loud laughter; and the Captain Jackson of Mr. Walter Thomas is entirely praiseworthy.

PALACE.—Proprietors, the Palace and Derby Castle, Ltd.; Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Fox; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Brittain.—The calibre of the audiences at the Palace changes as the season wanes. Mr. Fox realising this, reserves some of his best engagements for the closing weeks. Mr. Tom Stuart secures legitimate applause as character actor and mimic; Professor Thornbury, lightning painter and entertainer, repeats his last week's success; Johnson and Bert present a quite original interlude, A Quer Customer; André Romanoff, the celebrated gipsy violinist, is a musician; a sketch, The Breach of Promise, as played by Milner and Storey, is provocative of fun; and Mr. Bert Errol, female impersonator, is also in the bill.

DERBY CASTLE.—Proprietors, the Palace and Derby Castle, Ltd.; Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Fox; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. J. Kelly.—There is an admirable entertainment in the new variety theatre here. The patter of Mr. Alec Kendall creates real amusement; Miss Maggie Carr, comedienne, is well received; The Napiers, Continental jugglers, have much dexterity; Siems, king of mystery, puzzles spectators with his methods; Craig, Rose ,and Craig, original gymnasts, essay daring feats; and dancing can be indulged in to Mr. Harry Wood's orchestra in the grand ball room. To-night, the last of the season, will be presented the great national event, a reproduction of The Manx Mhelliah, or, Harvest Home.

THE EMPIRE.—Lessee and Proprietor, Mr. Charles Dare; Manager, Mr. James Carr.—There has been no falling off in the attendance at this popular place of amusement. There are animated pictures, varieties by Mr. Arthur Bright, the Milanese pipe soloist, who makes his last appearances this season; and Mr. George Penn, the popular wit, who also gives his farewell performances. A particularly pleasing function took place here on Thursday, when the first complimentary benefit was tendered by Mr. Charles Dare to his indefatigable lieutenant, Mr. James Carr. The programme was considerably augmented. By permission of Mr. F. J. Connor, proprietor of the Hippodrome, Messrs. Stanley and Oakfield, comedians and expert dancers, appeared with success; there were special films; also Miss Phyllis St. Clare, a soprano, with a really wonderful voice, secured a splendid recognition of her quality; Mr. Bert Cayley, a very quaint comedian, made a hit; the Three Little Penn children were delightful in a tiny sketch; Mr. Neville, in his impersonation of characters from Dickens, was most artistic. Other turns were Professor Kelly, the Manx phrenologist; and Miss Lily Hill, a smart singer of piquant ballads. Mr. James Carr is persona grata to all and sundry, and he is an excellent actor and vocalist. Mr. Charles Dare's White Minstrels still continue their popular way on Douglas Head, where, owing to the fine weather, the attendances twice daily have beaten the record.

THE CIRCUS.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. F. J. Connor.—A round of benefits has marked this week at Connor's Circus. On Monday Mr. W. R. Albino, the experienced and courteous ringmaster, had his annual bespeak; Tuesday was the benefit of Little Mona and Douglas, the clever children of the popular proprietor. This was under the patronage of His Excellency the Governor, and given in the presence of himself, Lady Raglan, and a fashionable party from Government House. The benefits of the clowns Antonio, Rabbit, and Funny Frisk occupied three more nights; and on Saturday Mr. F. J. Connor will make his end of the summer annual speech. The augmented programmes have been thoroughly enjoyed, and the patronage has been most generous.

ONCHAN HEAD PLEASURE GROUNDS AND WINTER GARDENS.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. W. Collier Cubbin.—The Onchans, which include Charley Harvey, the Shakespearean droll; Mr. J. H. Scotland, the baso vocalist, of Carl Rosa's own selection; Miss Elsie Steadman, who is of the calibre of the late and always lamented Nelly Farren, of universal fame; Mr. Alexander Webster, a tenor of quality; Mr. Alfred Maynall, a comedian of resource; have drawn large and appreciative audiences to Onchan Head three times daily.

DUBLIN.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Hyland.—Leah Kleschna was presented here on Monday by Mr. H. Armitage's company. Miss Marguerite Cellier gives a fine interpretation of Leah; and the part of Kleschna is ably undertaken by Mr. William Clayton. As Paul Sylvaine Mr. Cyril Austin Lee gives every satisfaction; and Miss Emmie Wallace makes a capital Madame Berton. Mr. Henry Nunn does full justice to the rôle of Raoul Berton; and as the General Mr. Harry Wren is excellent. Mr. Graham Pocketi makes the most of his opportunities as Schram; and Miss Florence Dulhunty is a pleasing Claire Berton.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W Marriott-Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. F. Wright.—The Stepmother has been admirably presented here this week by Miss Nannie Goldman's company. Mr. William Holles presents a capital study of Captain Bristow; and Miss Goldman gives a good portrayal of his son Danny. Mr. Henry C. Ward acquits himself well as Abraham Wiggins; and Miss Patricia Bostock makes an excellent Anna Vickers. Mr. Herbert J. Walton handles the part of the detective, David Blake, skilfully; and Miss Elsie Walton Hemming is good as Clara. Mr. H. P. Owen is satisfactory as Luke Trizel, a tramp. Other parts are well filled by Mr. Teddy Myles as Timothy Yapp, Miss Edith Bruce as Johanna Jones, Mr. Ronald Roberts as Zeke, and Miss Lucy Burrows as Amy Bristow.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frederick Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Terry.—The House of Temperley is drawing full houses here this week. Mr. Murray Carson as Sir John Harker repeats his success of last week, as does also Mr. Stratton Rodney (Sir Charles Temperley), Mr. Claude King (Captain Jack Temperley), Miss Una Venning (Ethel Morley), Mr. Blake Adams (Ginger Stubbs), Miss Clarice Pauncefort (Lady Temperley), and Mr. Leon M. Lion (Jakes).

EMPIRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. George H. Marsh.—A prominent position here is held by the Anartos, whose clever and humorous performance is heartily enjoyed; Miss Peggy Pryde, a smart comedienne, meets with undoubted success; Burley and Burley, acrobatic comiques, win approval; Malo and Coombs, in a comedy singing act, are well received; Mr. Fred Hallam makes an excellent impression as a juggler; Miss Maud Hayne, comedienne, merits the appreciation she receives; Little Keeno is a clever comedian; and Miss May Andrey, an attractive comedienne. The Empire pictures are up-to-date.

TIVOLI.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Jones; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—Hayman and Franklin, Hebrew impersonators, are well received; Foreman and Fannan, "the millionaires," score successfully; Elton and Elma are diverting in their triple bar act; Rolando Martin is a popular comedian and patterer; Cara Magda provides a pleasing gymnastic act. Other excellent turns are Ellis Barrieton, Scotch-Canadian vocalist; Tod Lowen, comedian; La Belle Greba, comedienne and Spanish danseuse; the Tissets, living marionettes; and the Bioscope.

ROUND ROOM ROTUNDA.—The Irish Animated Photo Company are presenting the following films here this week: Davy Jones's Landladies, The Effects of Reading a Newspaper Serial, The Tyrant of Jerusalem, Sammy the Would-be Equilibrist, Athaliah Queen of Judah, &c. The variety artists include the Sisters Colley, juvenile vocalists and dancers; Miss Yeardley, soprano; Mr. P. J. Maloney, baritone; and the Mona Ladies' Orchestra.

WORLD'S FAIR AND MUSIC HALL.—Proprietors, Sprengel Brothers.—The variety programme presented here this week includes George Pelham and Co., sketch artists; Kitty Kildare, vocal comedienne; Percy Main, dancer and patterer; Mlle. Gretchen, serio and dancer; Oscar Martini, character impersonator; and the Cinematograph.

PAVILION, KINGSTOWN.—The attraction here this week is Mr. Alexander Lee's company, the Gay Birds, in a clever and amusing vaudeville entertainment.

DUDLEY. — EMPIRE. — This house reopened on Monday night under the management of Mr. R. Colin, a popular caterer of variety in several neighbouring towns. The attractive programme provided included Jenny Mills, with a company of charming girls, in clever and enchanting dances; Beatrice Harrold's Six Charming Gipsy Girls; Matheson and Johnson, in a good sketch, entitled A Gentleman Thief; the Amonda's pantomime company, in The White Statue; Joe Barry, comedian, with catchy songs; Edward Mortimer, cartoonist; the Sisters Rosalind, duettists and dancers; Edward Ranier and company, in The Great Bank Robbery, in which Mr. Ranier is again a powerful Stephen Craig; Mr. James Thacker as Mr. John Morley, detective, is a decided success; and other characters are ably portrayed by Mr. Alfred Knight, Miss Maud Haywood, and Mr. Fred Cockle.

DUNDEE.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Manager, Mr. Louis Karpe.—Mr. Eugene C. Stafford's company in The Private Secretary is drawing good houses. Mr. James Hussey essays the rôle of the Rev. Robert Spalding, and gives a mirth-provoking conception; Mr. Cattermole is again played by Mr. W. Hargreaves, who is, if possible, even funnier than ever; Douglas Cattermole is brightly and breezily enacted by Mr. Arthur Claremont; as Harry Marsland, Mr. Horace George plays in a light-hearted manner, and with commendable spirit; Mr. Marsland is well depicted by Mr. William Carriden; Mr. Kendal Chalmers does ample justice to the part of Sidney Gibson; Miss Elsie Blythe is a charming Eva Webster; Miss Mary Mallalieu brightly impersonates Edith Marsland; Miss Estelle Despa does exceedingly well as Miss Ashford; and as the landlady, Mrs. Stead, Miss Cicely Wade is satisfactory. The Captain's Wife precedes.

KING'S THEATRE AND HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Moul; Manager, Mr. S. McIntosh.—Topping a capital bill here is the miniature musical play, Happy Holland, in which Jake Friedman and his merry and numerous company have plenty of scope to display their capabilities; Diamond and Beatrice delight with their charming musical act; Edna Latonne is a neat male impersonator, and scores a hit with her fine song, "Homeland, good-bye"; Tom Gott, "the confiding comedian," is extremely funny; the Four Curtises sing and dance with pleasing effect; Pop Dearly is a particularly smart coon singer; Carlotta Levey's vocal numbers find much favour; Marcel and Boris are a smart couple of novelty equilibrists; and the programme is completed by Jury's Bioscope.

PALACE THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. J. J. Bennell; District-Manager, Mr. Tom Lunn.—A capital collection of films here includes a thrilling picture, entitled Italian Flying Horse Artillery, The Forest Ranger, and The Fire Chief's Daughter.

GAIETY THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. J. J. Bennell; District-Manager, Mr. Tom Lunn; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. K. Stewart.—Among a varied programme of films shown here is Behind the Scenes, an incident in the life of a circus clown; A Wireless Message, a thrilling story picture; and many humorous studies.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. J. J. Bennell; District-Manager, Mr. Tom Lunn; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. W. Austin.—An excellent programme here includes The Tragedy of Robert, the Silent Duke of Aquitaine; Convict No. 796, a very pathetic picture; an elaborate film entitled Athaliah, Queen of Judah; and many others.

DUNFERMLINE.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. W. E. Potts.—For the first two nights of this week a new and up-to-date series of animated pictures is being presented here, and is much appreciated. For the remaining four nights of the week Miss Lole Esmond will present a new musical play, entitled The Love Birds.

DURHAM.—THE PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. T. C. Rawes.—At the top of a most entertaining programme, Maurin's marvellous water fountains receive rounds of applause. In an original act, Night Time at Madame Tussaud's, Alix. Lukos' quick changes evoke much appreciation; Elroy, the armless wonder, is a clever artist and entertainer; Sim Marie, in contortions, is a wonder; Chant and Chant, in comedy, win favour; and the Bartholomew Sisters prove popular. The Cathedoscope shows in the Border States and The Common Enemy.

EASTBOURNE.—DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Murray, King, and Clark.—Mr. T. C. Wray and Mr. Austen Hurgon's company is here this week in Two Merry Monarchs. Mr. C. Hayden Coffin sings and acts with delightful ease and charm as Prince Charmis; Mr. E. Statham Staples keeps the fun fast moving as Rolandyl; Mr. Mark Lester plays King Paul with a rich and characteristic vein of humour; Mr. Sam Walsh is a funny and capable King Utops; Mr. Hugh Weybrance sings nicely as Helvanoise; and Mr. Frank Ashton as Mandamus and Francis Paten as Head Flunkey do well all that is possible. Miss Marjorie Moore sings and acts excellently as Princess Cynthia, and Miss Gladys Beach does bright and distinct work as Iris.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. George Hayes.—For the first three evenings of the week Mr. H. P. Towers' company appeared here in The Best People. Mr. Frederick Meads played with much cleverness and conviction as Gerald Bayle; Mr. Henry Renouf extracted humour from the part of Lord Emsworth; Mr. Claude Haviland did excellent and realistic work as Lord Wynlea; and Mr. E. J. Trollope and Mr. Edward Nimmo gave very good help as Jackson and Mr. Spoffoth. Miss Irene Lavington repeats her clever and successful performance as Lady Emsworth, and Miss Evelyn Summers works hard and well as Mrs. Bayle. Some Showers was the curtain-raiser, and a special word of praise must be given to Miss Sylvia Dawson as Daisy and Mr. E. Nimmo as George for their really clever and effective rendering of this amusing duologue.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Sidney W. Winter; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. F. Woodward.—Heading the bill here this week are Victor's Juveniles, a troupe of clever young people who sing well, dance smartly, and introduce capital mimicry; the Cheers introduce well-trained cats into a pretty sketch, Dick Whittington; Les Andres appear in a clever dancing act; Miss Esme Gordon sings and dances in good style; Mr. Charles Erard is a refined and taking pianist and mimic; the Whitworth Trio are capable cyclists; Miss Ernestine Desborough pleases in song and dance; Mr. Sid Bandon scores as a comedian; and new films are shown.

EAST HARTLEPOOL. — EMPRESS THEATRE. —Lessee and Manager, Mr. A. Maxted. —Before the Dawn, a sketch played by Mr. Geo. Sheldon and Mr. Rawson Buckley's company, is proving a great attraction. The characters are all well sustained. The local Boy Scouts, at the invitation of the management, are visiting the theatre in great numbers. Will Lindsey, Yorkshire dialect comedian, is enjoying great popularity; another good turn is provided by Miss Elsie Peach, comedienne; and some very fine animated pictures are shown.

EDINBURGH. — ROYAL LYCEUM THEATRE. — Managing-Directors, Mr. F. W. Wyndham and Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. M. Downie.—Crowded houses have again welcomed a return visit of Mr. George Edwardes' company in The Merry Widow, which has evidently lost none of its attractions for the play-going public. Mr. W. Louis Bradfield and Miss Gertrude Lester as Prince Danilo and Sonia were as effective and spirited as anyone could desire; Mr. W. Talleur Andrews gave an excellent rendering to the songs of Vicomte Camille; the Nisch of Mr. Robert Nainby was a clever study; and Mr. Eric Thorne's Baron Popoff, as usual, stood out among the chief humours of the piece; while Mr. Walter Champney caused much amusement in the part of the Walter; and Mr. Albert Kavanagh, Mr. Robert Cranny, Mr. Stratton Mills, and Mr. Jocelyn Hope ably filled the rôles of De Cascada, St. Brioche, Novakovitch, and Khadja. Miss Daphne Hope made an excellent Natalie; Sylvaine and Olga had good representatives in Miss Eve Hornsby and Miss Alice Cox; Prascovia was nicely played by Miss Hylda Coward; and Miss Vivien Talleur repeated her former successes as Frou-Frou. Stage-setting and beautiful costumes afforded fine spectacular effects; and both chorus and orchestra did their work well, under the direction of Mr. Thomas M. Tunbridge, Mus.Bac., Oxon.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Directors, Mr. F. W. Wyndham and Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Whitehead.—Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's play The Dawn of a To-morrow, which has had such a successful run in London, is being presented here this week by Messrs. Wentworth Croke, Milton Bode, and Edward Compton's company. The drama, which is effectively staged and admirably acted, has aroused great interest amongst Edinburgh playgoers. Miss Marie Polini has immensely strengthened her reputation by a fine performance of the character of Glad. Miss Polini has done much good work. She has always been graceful and intelligent, but a more perfect piece of acting has seldom been seen than her impersonation of the London waif, in which she touches with equal success the chords of humour and pathos. She was recalled on Monday at the close of each act, and the enthusiastic applause of the audience acknowledged the triumph of her art. Mr. Frank Victor played ably and spoke with delightful elocution as Sir Oliver Holt; and Mr. William Kershaw sustained with power and feeling the part of Dandy, and shared with Miss Polini the warm recognition of the audience at the end of the impressive second act. Mr. Charles King was admirable as the dissipated Oliver Holt; and outstanding character sketches were given by Mr. Murray Hathom as Dr. Heath (a finished study), Mr. Henry Compton as Jem, Mr. Bertram Burleigh as the Thief, Miss Alice Dorie as Bet, Miss Dora Elisabeth Clements as Polly, and Mr. Reginald A. Hunt as Bedell. The remaining members of the large cast were excellent in their respective parts.

KING'S THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Amand Mascard.—Captain Fred Woodward's sea lions, in their talking and juggling performance are prominent in this week's bill. Captain Woodward deserves the greatest praise for the remarkable success which his training of these animals has achieved and the applause at the close of the turn is loud and long. Miss Marie Kendal, the clever comedienne, brings a budget of her newest songs, which she renders with much dramatic force and considerable humour; Mr. Frank Hartley is an extremely deft juggler, his tricks being carried through with neatness and dexterity; the Hargreaves Trio are seen to advantage in a smart comedy act; Miss Evelyn Taylor, comedienne, is pleasing and vivacious in the rendering of her tuneful songs; Enzer and Clarice, sword expert and lady ju-jitsu champion, give an interesting performance; and the Three Welsh Girls, excellent vocalists; Mr. Harry Leaton, character singer; Mr. Loyall Leader, in his "Eccentricities of the Period"; and the King's Bioscope, with a capital display of Parisian scenes, complete a meritorious programme.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Aynsley Cook.—A novelty in the way of leading turns was provided this week by Serene Nord, "the diving Venus," who gave a graceful and interesting exhibition of various forms of diving from a springboard into a large tank of water, concluding with a sensational header from the roof of the building. The feats were watched with close attention, and the performer received most demonstrative recalls. Will and Sam Poluski created great merriment with their patter entertainment; and Harry Welford was well to the fore in a couple of his smart and laughable character impersonations. The McConnell Trio sang and acted very pleasantly in a new musical comedietta, entitled The Invalid; Rosa Lauder, in a lively original sketch, mimicked amateur and professional artists with much success; the Maples appeared in a brisk whirligig-kind of skit, named Hampered; Bert Harrow's eccentric parodies were most acceptable; and Eily Adair contributed a bright turn as an Irish comedienne. The cycling display of the famous Jackson Family was in many respects unique as a charming spectacle and for some new and extraordinary trick cycle-riding. The American Bioscope showed some humorous moving pictures.

OPERETTA HOUSE.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. J. H. Sanders.—The programme here is a varied and attractive one, in which a first-rate series of films shows scenes in London—its famous buildings and streets. Lumbering in Canada is another excellent picture of the life of a hard-working class of men amidst surroundings full of the charms of Nature; Gold is Not All is a strong drama of much pictorial merit; The Cowboy's Reformation displays, in forcible scenes, how a lawless man is brought back to better paths by the power of old-time sentiment; Mistaken Identity and Frightened Freddy are two humorous subjects, which provoke loud laughter. Hayman and Houten, cross-talkers and dancers, impart additional liveliness to an exceptionally good entertainment.

MARINE GARDENS.—Manager, Mr. G. B. Smith.—The band of the 3rd Dragoon Guards, under the able leadership of Mr. F. Horton, constitutes the attraction in the Band Court this week. The concert hall programme has drawn large audiences. Mme. Norman Snowball, a delightful soprano singer; Mr. Thornley Dodge, a clever humorist; and Signor E. Scoma's orchestra provide an entertainment at once artistic and interesting. Prof. Powsey continues his daring diving performance in the Amusement Court; and the many outside shows—scenic railway, mountain slide, maze, and river caves—have a large share of patronage.

EXETER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Chairman and Managing-Director, Mr. Edward J. Domville, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford.—Miss Winifred Maude and company opened here on Monday in The Sins of a City. Miss Winifred Maude gives an excellent impersonation of Seaweed; Miss Annie Megson humorously depicts the diminutive Midge; Miss Mabel Lane is effective as Mrs. Muggs, while Miss Ethel Crawford as Lesbia l'Estrange submits an admirable portrayal. Mr. William Vane creates a good impression as Sandy Macdonald; Mr. Harold Heath effectively depicts Donald McIvor; Mr. William Bradford gives a striking characterisation of Ralph Blackwater; Mr. Victor du Cane makes an admirable Isaac Levi; and Mr. Fred Elvin is quite successful as the twin brothers Woodleigh. On Wednesday The Stowaway was presented, and on the last three days of the week Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company were billed to appear in The Earl and the Girl.

NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Karno; Resident- and Acting-Manager, Mr. Frederick Sandy; Musical Director, Mr. Dudley Powell.—Austin Rudd is a big favourite with his quaint style and funny songs; Carl and Mary Ohm introduce some highly-trained dogs, ponies, and monkeys; Wood, Wells, and Wilkins contribute a clever vocal comedy sketch; Owen McGiveney's impersonations of Dickens' characters are excellent; the Three Warners are clever acrobatic dancers; Miss Blanche Vincent renders pleasing melodies in a tuneful voice; and Alice Maydue is a clever character comedienne. The Hippodrome pictures complete.

FALKIRK.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. R. W. Ebbutt.—The Outcast of the Family is presented by Mrs. F. Wybert Clive's company. The play is exceptionally well staged, the "Falling Cave" scene in the third act being a marvel of stage realism. The play is well presented by a carefully-selected and well-balanced company. Mr. Jack McCaig fills the part of the hero Harry Thorne with dash and histrionic ability; Mr. Wybert Clive is successful as Sir Henry Thorne; Mr. Bert Oates imparts sufficient villainy into the rôle of Richard Martin; Mr. Tom Roydan looks and acts the village blacksmith well; and Mr. Edward W. Cudd is completely successful as Abram Wasper. As Joe Bushell Mr. Tom Armitage contributes to the amusement of the audience, in conjunction with Miss Freda Beckett as Nancy Bray. Miss Elsie Shelton's representation of Ruth, the heroine, is a well-conceived and skilful piece of acting; and Miss Maud Leslie-Cudd fills the thankless part of Grace Redburn with distinction.

ELECTRIC THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. J. E. Atkinson; Manager, Mr. Leo D. Hickey.—Another strong programme of vaudeville and picture is submitted at this house, which continues to be well filled nightly. Mr. N. C. Bostock, the veteran comic, is the leading line in the variety turns, and takes well; Miss Nellie Elliene, comedienne, Nancy Lauder, child coon singer, and Charley Williams, the Scotch coon, are also well received. The pictures are varied and interesting.

FERNDALE.—NEW WORKMEN'S HALL AND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. David Williams; Secretary, Mr. William James.—The Christian (old version) is being presented to well-filled houses by Mr. Marcus D. Draper's company. Mr. Draper makes an admirable John Storm, and Miss Gladys Purnell scores a success as Glory Quayle; Mr. Benson Louth is capital as Lord Robert Ure; Mr. W. Burgess Barratt's impersonation of Horatio Drake is clever; Mr. Edwin Ling contributes a good interpretation of Father Lamplugh; an excellent Archdeacon Wealthy is found in Mr. Aylmer Williams; Brother Paul is in the capable hands of Mr. Geo. F. Weir; Miss Rosa Burgess is a typical Mrs. Callander.

FOLKESTONE.—PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—Mr. Dudley Bennett and Mr. T. C. Wray's company presented A Country Girl the first three nights of the week to excellent houses. Miss Dorothy Craske as Nan, with her seemingly natural country brogue, acted to perfection; Mr. R. Matthews made a buoyant naval officer of Geoffrey Challoner; Mr. Coningsby Brierly as Barry was the life and soul of the piece, and his funniosities were really mirth-provoking; Miss May Rawlinson's expressive voice enabled her to make a complete triumph in her impersonation of Marjorie Joy; as the Rajah of Bhong Mr. St. John Hamund was excellent, as also was Miss Ethel Negretti as Princess Melaneh; Mr. Percy Everard skilfully delineated the part of Sir Joseph Verity, and Mr. H. B. Hargraves proved fully equal to the rôle of Douglas Verity; Mr. Tom Sheriden was truly quaint as Gran'fer Mummery; Miss Hilda Darrell made a charming Sophie; and Mr. Norman Howard bore himself well as Lord Anchester. The minor parts were in capable hands. The present production contains two new songs, "Come to the country fair" and "On the farm," both of which have been written by Mr. St. John Hamund and composed by Mr. Evelyn Baker.

LEAS PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. D'Arcy Clayton.—The Gipsies and their Jester continue to be very popular, and draw excellent houses.

GAINSBOROUGH.—KING'S THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Payne Seddon and Pope; Resident-Manager, Mr. Fredk. J. Reece.—Mr. Seymour Hicks' company, under the direction of Mr. John Macdonald, appeared here for three nights in The Gay Gordons to crowded houses. Mr. Frank Lincoln as Angus and Miss May Yates as Peggy had most of the work, and acquitted themselves admirably. The showman and his family were humorously represented by Mr. Harry Howe, Mr. W. H. Desmond, and Misses Kitty Kirwan and Edie Adeson. Andrew Quainton and Corpl. John Smith were capably played by Mr. Chas. Benson and Mr. Stanley Maude. The chorus was efficient and the dresses and scenery were excellent.

GATESHEAD.—KING'S THEATRE.—Chairman and Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Moul; Local-Manager and Licensee, Mr. Sydney B. Stringer.—Margo, a lady with some new deceptions, has interested large audiences here; Geo. Prince is a popular comedian; the Quality Quartette are very pleasing in a vocal act; the Brothers Herbert show some novel dancing; the Jackley Trio have a laughable acrobatic act; Captain Kettle is an accomplished and dowitty card manipulator; the Hulls present an entertaining comedy musical act; and the Kingscope completes the bill.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. F. W. Bolam; General-Manager, Mr. R. G. Elder; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. F. Douthwaite.—Messrs. Paumier and Howard's ever-welcome Midnight Wedding is playing to good business. Mr. Paumier repeats his fine delineation of Paul Valmar; Captain Rudolph is efficiently portrayed by Mr. A. E. Wennington Barnes; Lieut. Eugene is well looked after by Mr. Malcolm Tearle; Mr. Dalziel Heron realistically portrays Prince Leopold; the comedy parts of Max, Otto, and Bobo are in the excellent hands of Messrs. Fred H. Constable, St. George Frere, and Algie Spalding; Miss Lilian Hallows scores a success as Princess Astrea; and Miss Phillis Hume as Kathie makes the most of her opportunities.

GLASGOW.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. F. W. Wyndham and Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy O. Humphrys.—Mr. Martin Harvey and company opened a week's stay here on Monday, in The Only Way. As Sydney Carton Mr. Harvey was in splendid form, and was frequently applauded for his finished and effective study. Mr. Chas. Glenney as the vengeful Defarge, Mr. Percy Foster as the irritable but good-hearted Mr. Lorry, Mr. Phillip Hewland as the jolly but outspoken friend Mr. Stryver, Mr. Fred Wright, sen., as Dr. Manette, Mr. Cowley Wright as the Charles Darnay all submitted clever portrayals. Miss N. de Silva and Miss Brenda Gibson as Mimi and Lucie Manette respectively, were also fine enactments. In the prologue Mr. Albert E. Raynor as Marquis, and Mr. Edward Combermere as Vicomte distinguished themselves, and Mr. G. T. Lambert was effective as Jean Defarge in the death-scene. On Tuesday a crowded house witnessed Mr. Martin Harvey's magnificent production of Richard III., and evinced the heartiest interest in his acting as the crookback Duke of Gloucester. Mr. Charles Glenney as Buckingham, and Mr. Phillip Hewland as Richmond, shared the honours. Of the ladies, Miss Alice Chapin as Queen Margaret, Miss Sybil Walsh as Queen Elizabeth, and Miss N. de Silva as Lady Anne were specially noteworthy. Later in the week A Cigarette Maker's Romance was given, preceded by The House of Pierre.

KING'S, LTD.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. F. W. Wyndham and Geo. T. Minshull; Business-Manager, Mr. Hugh Macfarlane.—A packed house welcomed, with enthusiasm, that amusing play, Brewster's Millions, which is on a return visit here. Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison send round a first-rate company, the part of Monty Brewster being played, with infectious humour, by Mr. Percy Hutchison; Miss Dorothy Whitaker makes a sweet and winsome Peggy, and Miss Lilias Earle a charming Mrs. Dan, Miss Marion Ripley as the manly Janise Armstrong, Miss Phyllis Stuckey as Barbara, Miss May Seton as Trixie, and Miss Florence Hillder as the typist, all act with excellent effect. Mr. Aubrey Matter as M'Leod, Mr. Henry Hampson as Archie Golding, Mr. Gordon Ash as Charlie Harrison, and Mr. Frank Hill as Rawles are specially noteworthy among the men. The scenery of the comedy is good. Two in a Trap precedes.

ROYALTY.—Sub-Lessees, the Scottish Playgoers, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Wareing; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Chas. Humphrys.—Mr. Bernard Shaw's comedy, Captain Brassbound's Conversion, is the attraction at the Répertory theatre this week. The masterful captain is energetically played by Mr. Norman McKeown; while Miss Madge McIntosh gives a delightful rendering of Lady Cicely Waynflete; Mr. Leslie Rankin, the plausible missionary, is skilfully delineated by Mr. Campbell Gullan; and Mr. Frank Cochrane as Sir Howard Hallam gives an excellent rendering of the sharp-witted lawyer; Mr. Percival Clark as Felix Drinkwater gives an amusing picture of the "converted" hooligan; Redmark, by Mr. Mark Hannam, and Johnson, by Mr. W. G. Robb, are well defined characters; and the Moroccan dignitaries are ably handled by Mr. Stuart Black as the Sheik, and Mr. William Armstrong as the Cadi. Mr. Leslie Casey gives a good delineation of the American Captain Hamlin Kearney, and the other parts are all well-filled.

GRAND.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. B. G. Maclachlan; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. Christie Grant.—Pictures and farce still form the staple items here, and this week the Grand stock company is causing much hilarity by a lively rendering of the old farce, Whitebait at Greenwich. Mr. Alex. Keith acts with gusto as John Smell, the waiter, whose eccentricities provide the bulk of the fun; and Misses Elsa Brettingham and Margaret Zaidia, with Messrs. Byron Douglas, J. F. Wingate, and John Roberts, give able support; Mr. Jesse Hackett renders several illustrated songs in a sweet tenor voice. The pictures are well-selected, the most notable being The Girl from Arizona and Farmer Jenkins at the Exhibition.

ROYAL PRINCESS'S.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hugh Murdoch.—Messrs. F. Marriott Watson and James Ussher's company are here this week in The Black Mask. Mr. Watson's thrilling representation of Le Noir is very effective; the other principal parts, Blackmore and Nellie Cunninghame, forming an agreeable contrast as played by Mr. Edward C. Ashby and Miss Florence E. Florence; the rôle of Philip Cunninghame is well filled by Mr. Willis Elton; excellent comic relief is provided by Mr. Tom J. Taylor as Winkle, and Mr. James Abbot as the Footman; as the child of Le Noir, Miss Dot Forde gives a touching performance; Miss Hettie Senior is smart as the servant Emma; good work is done by Miss Mabel Harland as Stella, and Miss Flo. Norman as Mother-One-Eye; and a clever character sketch is seen in the Jem Rudge of Mr. Elton Morgan.

METROPOLE.—General-Manager, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Gordon Jefferson.—When Woman Hates, presented by Mr. Fred Bulmer's company, is here this week. Mr. Richard Ferris's fine presence and quiet method fit him admirably for the part of Lieutenant Fred Rokeby; Miss Ada Oakley submits a pathetic portrayal of Marie Rokeby; Miss Doris Brookes exhibits ability as Cora Daintry; Mr. Austin Mortimer presents a finished impersonation of Godfrey Lawton; the humorous element is well supplied by Mr. Evan Roland as Patrick O'Brien, Mr. Reg. Oldroyd as Alphonse Picolot, and Miss Mary Dalby as Mrs. Sally Potts. Miss Sybil Haughton is effective as Thirsty Meg, while Mr. B. H. Davis Miss Jean Scott, and Mr. Percy Follitt give creditable support.

LYCEUM.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Waldon; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. H. Oakden.—Messrs. Lawrence and Sawyer's "Smart Set Cadets" are here this week. The humorous part of their programme is chiefly supplied by Mr. James Salter; Mr. Alvin Sawyer, who manages the troupe, is a clever entertainer, while Mr. Colin Clough sings coon ditties excellently. Miss Annie Wallace, a fine soprano, renders several operatic airs agreeably; Miss Lilian Rignold is a dainty comedienne; and Mr. Fred Warwick an able actor-vocalist; Mr. Frank Summer, baritone, and Miss Nellie Hutchinson also vocalise acceptably.

EMPIRE.—District-Man

also does May Darlus, ballad vocalist. The Bioscope has an interesting series of pictures both humorous and otherwise.

Hengler's.—Proprietor, Mr. Albert Hengler; Manager, Mr. Harry Milne.—Among the pictures shown here special mention is due to The Fire Chief's Daughter, Over the Garden Wall, and A Wireless Romance. The variety turns were ably sustained by Mollie Augarde, vocalist; Belmont, comedian and dancer; and the clever Lizette Troupe of acrobats.

Star.—Resident-Manager, Mr. George Chandos.—Allsopp and Beckwith, in their comedy act, His First Lesson in Acting, are amusing; E. J. Sheldon is responsible for two delightful numbers; while the Dormeys, in their comedy sketch, Fun in the Garden, give a clever acrobatic display; Lytton and De Silva sing in charming style; Wyman performs some wonderful skating feats; while a really clever and entertaining contribution is given by the Luvaines, their instrumental selections being loudly encored. An enjoyable entertainment is concluded with a picture display on the Bioscope. The Wireless Romance proving an attractive film.

Scottish Zoo and Circus.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—The turns retained from last week here include Mlle. Pinder, in her pleasing equestrian act; Mlle. Rosa Montero, with her intelligent horse Baby; and Mons. Spiridion, in a clever juggling speciality. An interesting and amusing show is given by Mlle. Rosini, who introduces her miniature burlesque menagerie with much success, and Miss Edith Tudora with her performing team of ponies. In an equilibristic act John Irvin is well received; Fremmel and Fremmel are a pair of original eccentrics who never fail to amuse; and Helene and Emilon are responsible for a smart and clever gymnastic turn. A grand spectacular production, entitled Bonnie Scotland, under the direction of Professor Selkirk, is carried through admirably. The various clowns, including Yorick and Yorick, Jimmy and Algie, are untiring in their efforts to please; while the Bioscope terminates a capital programme. The Zoo continues to prove an immense attraction.

Glossop.—Theatre Royal.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Sydney Spenser.—Messrs. Clifford Hamilton and Chas. Locke's company, in A Woman's Past, is the attraction here. Mr. Percy Dawson gives a clever portrayal of David Heath; Mr. Chas. Locke is very good as Frank Dellanoy; Mr. Jas. McLeod is a humorous P.C. Bloater; and Mr. Wm. Freemantle is a droll Spriggins; Mr. Henry Bargate wins success as Jack Crawford; Miss Dora Pass appears to advantage as Bessie; Miss Cherry Veheyne is a charming Dorothy Heath; Miss Laura Bitterne a clever Mrs. Brown; and Miss Phyllis Elton capable as Clara Darrell.

Gloucester.—Palace Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Will Smithson; Manager, Mr. B. T. Rea.—Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's company appears this week in The Power of the King. Mr. Clavering Craig as Captain Rupert Landgrave is admirably suited; Mr. Charles Whitlock as the King of Vallombrosa acts powerfully; Mr. Arthur St. John is extremely effective as the Crown Prince Oscar; as the lesser villain General Stevonie, Mr. Harry Lyndon gives a capital exposition; Lady Anastasia is successfully played by Miss Conyers Radcliffe; and Miss Iza Lyndon is praiseworthy as Lady Florina; Mr. Wilton Drury is smart in the part of Fritz Talheim, being ably seconded by Miss Maude Stuart as Margot; Master Sydney Clarence is worthy of mention as Phillippe; and Mr. Roy Craig is good as Alberta.

King's Hall.—Messrs. Poole's Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. A. Stewart.—The varieties here include the Taffies, in popular Welsh airs and comedy; Simosa San, clever lady juggler; and Miss Kitty Woodford, in illustrated songs. The Vocaphone renders some good and popular songs.

Goole.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. Hainsworth.—On Monday night a crowded house assembled to welcome Mr. Walter Steele's company, in A Fast Life. Miss Lilian Ross gives a capital impersonation of Mrs. Dixon; Miss Lilian Burns cleverly enacts the rôle of Lady Franklin; the villainies of Sir Oliver Franklin are depicted with force by Mr. J. Sommerville; Mr. Walter Steele is very good as John Dixon; Mr. Cuthbert Taylor is a capital Harris Goldberg; Mr. Willie Barrett causes merriment as Tommy Burks; Miss Clarice Jenner is amusing as Juliana. Songs and dances are successfully introduced in the garden scene by Mr. Willie Barrett and Miss Clarice Jenner.

Great Yarmouth. — Royal Aquarium. — Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. H. Nightingale. —For the race week a first-class attraction is provided in The King of Cadonia, presented by Mr. Frank Curzon's company. Mr. Bertram Wallis scores a great success, his polished acting and excellent voice being much admired; Miss Alice Venning sings well as Princess Marie; Mr. Alfred Clark is an amusing Bran, and his song "Why did I become a soldier?" went with a delightful swing; Mr. Arthur Staples is very amusing as Duke of Alesia; Mr. Robert Selby makes a splendid General Bonshi; Mr. C. B. Williams displays fine dramatic power as Laborde; Miss Joan Penrose is a vivacious Militza, her dancing calling for special praise; and Miss Amy Preston charmingly plays Stephanie. The orchestra is ably directed by Mr. Julian Rutt.

Theatre Royal.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. H. Nightingale.—Some time has elapsed since the Leopolds visited Yarmouth, but their musical play has been brought up to date, and Frivolity is as attractive as ever; Mr. Charles Goff scores heavily as Professor Tumble, and is a big favourite; Mr. Harry Douglas is excellent as Oliver Buchwheat; Miss Kathleen Kavanagh's performance as Madam Cobweb is a delightful piece of drollery; and a first-class troupe of dancers add to the brightness of the performance.

Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. George Gilbert; Manager, Mr. George Zalva.—Miss Florrie Forde is the particular star for the race week, and her chorus songs are delighting large audiences; Menotti is repeating his success of last week; the Tally Ho spectacle gains in popularity; the Grovini Sisters give a successful and clever acrobatic display; Leicester Cooke is a master of horsemanship; and Doodles and Pimple have added another amusing sketch.

Britannia Pier Pavilion.—Manager, Mr. Harry Tunbridge.—Dick Tubb is topping the bill, and his grotesque performance causes irrepressible laughter; the artist known as "Mr. E" is a big success; Netta's Singing Jockeys give a novel racing act, which is very popular; Clown Paulo introduces a cleverly-trained pony; the Two Evalos give a clever gymnastic act; Jock and Jenny appear in an excellent Scotch scena; and the Brothers Curran's comedy boxing act keeps the audience in roars of laughter.

The Gem.—Managing-Director, E. V. Barr, Ltd.—A fine series of pictures is being presented, and, in addition, Percival is repeating his success of last week. Mr. Charles Conway gives some good character sketches, and Miss Emmie Barlone is a gifted comedienne.

Greenock.—King's Theatre.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. A. B. and J. J. Wright.—Mr. James Willard's company opened here on Monday with Paying the Price. Mr. Willard himself undertakes the dual rôle of Lord Delemere and Paul Hartman with much success; the scheming and callous Nell Fortescue has an admirable exponent in Miss Margaret Damer, who looks the part to perfection; Mr. Jackson Wilcox plays exceedingly well as Captain Dick Clinton, and Mr. H. Morton hits off the character of the Hon. Cecil Dalrymple in most amusing fashion; Mr. Frank Medhurst is good in the double rôle of Hal and Van Vortoone, and Miss Gem Lloyd earns distinction as Doris Delemere. Other characters were in able hands. The staging is effective.

Hippodrome.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. L. Skivington.—Allan Holt and company appear with success in a sensational dramatic episode, A Society Woman; much hilarity is occasioned by Haines and Borthwick in their amusing sketch Half a Dollar; and other attractive items are submitted by the Claymore Trio, expert club jugglers; Bertha Evelyn, a pleasing comedienne; Charles Rothwell, a popular comedian; and the Dromoscope, with some capital pictures.

Grimsby.—Prince of Wales' Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. North.—The Prince and the Beggar Maid is being capitally presented by Messrs. Alfred Paumier and Walter Howard's company. Miss Miriam Prichett represents the young Queen Monica with charming ingenuousness; Mr. Ernest H. G. Cox gives a frank and spirited portrayal of Prince Olaf; Mr. G. Mayor-Cooke acts with vigour as the haughty Prince Hildred; Mr. Lionel Gadsden contributes sterling work in the pathetic part of Prince Michael; Mr. Fred D. Davies is excellent in the fine soldierly character of Captain Hector; Miss F. Hale Davies plays the beggar maid, Camiola, with appropriate tenderness; Mr. Charles V. Sandford is a breezy Lieut. Karl Stromberg; and Miss Jessica Black, a pleasing Viola.

The Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. F. Verner Walford.—Rough Justice is a powerful dramatic episode of Wild West adventure, and is acted in high-class manner by Miss Lily Hammersley and company; Stewart and Morgan retain their excellent reputation as Irish vocalists; La Vie presents a series of art poses of distinctly novel design; John Paley, the celebrated cornet and trumpet soloist, contributes a very acceptable turn; Sophie is a clever child mimic and dances very well; Tom E. Dean presents smart parodies; and Paul Bonarsby has some excellent illustrated songs.

Guernsey.—Theatre St. Julian's.—Joint Lessees, Messrs. Ed. Marris and Albany Ward; Manager, Mr. George A. Deighton.—On Monday Mr. C. W. Poole's Myriorama entered on its second week. "Amasis" still holds the audience by his clever and mysterious performance; W. L. Roland, a quaint and humorous patterer, has a good reception; the Cairo Trio, musical experts, please immensely; Inez and Pim and the Jerome Duo and the Ettenas are all appreciated. Mr. John R. Poole is an excellent guide, and Mr. Cecil Couper the business-manager.

St. George's Hall.—Secretary, Mr. E. O. Cohen. —The Vivandières concert party, under the direction of Mr. Carl Fredericks, has been re-engaged owing to their recent success.

Halifax.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—Messrs. G. M. Polini and Austin Melford's company is presenting The Silver King this week. Mr. A. H. Rooke is well suited to the part of Wilfred Denver; Nellie Denver is admirably played by Miss M. Surrey; Mr. Edward J. George as Jaikes maintains the high standard of the part he has played so long; Miss Hilda Bateman is sympathetic as Cisey; Mr. L. St. George Lowther plays well as the Spider; Mr. R. Leon is good as Corkett; Mr. Albert Bernard's Elijah Coombe is an excellent character-study; Mr. Fred May gives plenty of local colour to the part of Cripps; Mr. W. L. Ellis does well as Detective Baxter. The other parts are ably taken by Messrs. E. Dene, C. Dent, C. Birch, P. Store, Bingham, Hatchway, F. Norton, A. Amery, L. Parker, J. Randle, L. Sisley, C. Barker, J. Walker, F. Waylette, C. Grant, Misses E. Grey, A. Sergeant, M. Rooke, M. Gardener, and F. Norton.

Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Winks. — Miss Clarice Mayne and her Pianist are going strong at the Grand this week; Hugo and Smit are clever bar-performers; Jack Sheridan has had a splendid reception; the Three Biers, acrobats, give a good turn. May Vernon, comedienne, J. F. Franklin, character comedian, Douglas and Gordon, and the pictures complete.

Palace and Hippodrome, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Julius Simpson.—The Four Maisanos, musical clowns, are a decided hit; Gibbon and Bell, acrobatic and dancing turn, appear to advantage in Wanted, a Partner; Herr Julius Walther, operatic tenor, is in good voice, and pleases all; Juno Salmo, the "Devil Dandy," presents his unique and clever turn; the Brothers St. Clair are smart comedy cyclists; Toole and Maguire, vocal comedy duo, are well received; Julia Reeve, a refined comedienne, is a success; the Rizarellis appear in a clever and novel trapeze act; and the Recar Trio are three pretty and expert young lady acrobats.

Hamilton (N.B.).—Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; General-Manager, Mr. René Clayton.—Harry Lamore, in a clever and amusing burlesque of a Chinese juggler, a tramp juggler, and a comedy slack wire artist provides one of the funniest things seen here for some time; Mlle. Haydee's miniature theatre is a clever and artistic turn; Big Jock Sinclair and Wee Gracie Whiteford are a couple of highly amusing artists; David Poole, in a novel bit of ventriloquial business is distinctly new and amusing; Moon and Morris are a couple of clever dancers and cross-talk comedians; Raynor and Erto, comedy contortionists; the Delafiores, vocal and musical artists; Cline and Clark, black and white comedy artists, and the Bioscope conclude an excellent programme.

Hanley. — Royal. — Proprietors, Hanley Theatres and Circus Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone.—Miss Horniman's company, under the direction of Mr. B. Iden Payne, is presenting Candida and Cupid and Commonsense. Bernard Shaw's play is wonderfully smart and well played; Mr. Ian Maclaren as the Rev. Jas. Morell is admirable in elocution and manner; Mr. Ernest C. Cassell as the Rev. A. Hill is well suited; Mr. Whitford Kane as Mr. Burgess is the hit of the play, his acting being very natural; Mr. Leonard Mudie as Eugene has a difficult rôle, which he fills cleverly; Miss Louisa Holbrook as Proserpine is realistic; Miss Rosalind Ivan plays the title-rôle with great success. A strong one-act play, The Froth, is well acted by Miss Dorothy West Symes, Mr. E. C. Cassell, Mr. Whitford Kane, and Mr. Jos. A. Keogh. Mr. E. T. Hays is business-manager and Mr. Midgeley Russell acting-manager for Miss Horniman.

Grand. — Proprietors, Hanley Theatres and Circus Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. G. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Arthur Rand.—Mr. Henry Kemble presents a musical comedy sketch entitled The Gay Countess, which is well received; the Warsaw Brothers in a comic musical act are really smart; Harry Nelson, comedian, is decidedly funny; McLellan and Carson are wonderful skaters; the Westwoods, cyclists, Maggie Rimmer, Lavail, and Bodene, trapeze artists; Keen and Waller, original novel eccentrics, and Harry Clarke, juvenile comedian and dancer, also appear. The Grand pictures are well applauded.

King's.—Lessee, Mr. J. P. Moore; Acting-Manager, Mr. Colin Hazlewood; Manager, Captain F. Shaw.—The pictures are varied and interesting. Jack Judge, comedian, is very funny.

Hastings.—Gaiety Theatre.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. E. Scutt. — Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company played Smith on Monday for the first time in Hastings. The name-part was delightfully played by Miss Jessica Thorne; Mr. Montague Love enacted Tom Freeman in the right vein; Mr. Vivian Gilbert submitted a clever sketch of the unpleasant type of character with which the author endowed Algie Peppercorn; as the stolid Mr. Dallas Baker Mr. Cecil Brooking was effective; his pleasure-seeking, would-be fashionable wife was played with smartness and skill by Miss Eleanor Delaporte; Miss Kathryn Collier as Emily Chapman made an interesting character; and Miss Eileen Atherley was an agreeable Mrs. Otto Rosenburg, and acted with much emotional pathos in her repentance scene. Mr. George Child stage-managed, and also filled the rôle of Fletcher effectively. A revival of A Country Girl was billed for Thursday and the remainder of the week by Mr. Dudley Bennett and Mr. T. C. Wray's company. A matinée concert was given on Thursday by the Russian Balalaika Orchestra, conducted by Mr. Victor Abaza. Mme. Polozoff sang several arias from Puccini's operas.

Pier Pavilion. — General-Manager, Mr. Walter Maxwell.—On Monday a return visit was made by Mr. Mouillot's No. 1 company in A Greek Slave. The play was admirably staged, and Mr. Ernest Hartmann skilfully directed the orchestra. Miss Aimee Grey played as Maia with much charm; Mr. Edward Carlton as Heliodorus scored by his clever humour; Miss Clarice Elden gave a pleasing presentment of Antonia Miss Adda Crispin was much esteemed for her bright and pretty acting as Isis; Mr. Edmund Sherras admirably enacted the rôle of Diomed and was capitally supported by Mr. Murray Stephen as Archias; Mr. Colin Coope was well placed as Marcus Pomponius. A tarantelle was cleverly danced by Miss Renée Reel. On Tuesday and Wednesday The Geisha held the boards. On Thursday Mr. H. P. Tower's company opened a three days' visit in The Best People.

American Palace Pier.—Manager, Mr. M. Leopold.—This week concludes Mr. J. D. Hunter's season of comedy plays here, and, assisted by his versatile and clever company, Robert Macaire was revived on Monday and successfully played throughout the week. Mr. J. D. Hunter's impersonation of the cowardly Jacques Strop is cleverly thought out and presented; Mr. G. Harman Pullen successfully embodies the daring rascality of Robert Macaire; the farmer Germaine is in the able hands of Mr. Entwistle; the innkeeper Dumont is well essayed by Mr. Campbell Curgill; Mr. Ernest Constance does well as Charles; and a well-played rôle as Pierre the head waiter is supplied by Mr. Growcott. Miss Mabel Haste is a charming Louie.

Houghton-le-Spring.—Gaiety.—Proprietors, Messrs. Ainsley and Hall.—Miss Unice Udall's company opened with much success on Monday with Beneath the Stars. Mr. Coleman Davies gave a fine impersonation of Jemmy Hopblossom, and Mr. R. Renolds, Mr. Terry Davies, Mr. B. Halley, Mr. J. Nelson Turner, and Mr. Arthur Prescott met with appreciation in their respective parts. Miss Madge Trevelyan as Angel Marsden and Miss Kitty Clifton as Pauline were both good, and Miss Udall in the rôle of Becky Wiggans scored heavily. During the latter part of the week the American play The Tramp is being presented.

Picture Palace.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood.—Special pictures include: A Cruise in the Mediterranean, A Soldier's Honour, and A Comrade's Sacrifice. Full houses are the rule.

Hoyland. — Hippodrome. — Owner, Mr. Scott Alexander; Acting- and Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Firth.—The attraction here is Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stuart's company, in My Irish Molly. As Denis, Mr. St. John Medly is to be commended; Mr. Gordon Robey is a typical stage rascal as Captain Vere; Mr. Kenyon Gray is an excellent Father McQuire; and as Tim Dolan Mr. H. Pointon is very good; Mr. Karl Edwards, who provides plenty of amusement as Billy, is ably assisted by Miss Rosie Kearns as Sally; Miss Elma C. Turner is an excellent Lady Blanche; and in the title-rôle Miss May Warden is all that can be desired. On Thursday and Friday nights My Sweetheart was to be given.

Huddersfield.—Hippodrome.—Proprietors, the Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. William Robinson; General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—Crowded houses are being attracted by the wonderful Chung Ling Soo, whose illusions arouse much speculation. Also in the bill are Miss Bertha Norwood, comedienne; Williams and Parker, duettists; Vasey and Ramsey, singers and dancers; the Camplins, sketch artists; Massona, a juggling comedian; the Calmottas, in a medley of singing, dancing, and instrumentalism; and Arthur Gill, yokel comedian.

Palace.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Herbert Garside.—The outstanding feature in the programme this week is the Zigeuner Quartette, whose cultured performance is warmly appreciated. Other turns are by Miss Mabel Thorne, comedienne; Bruce Green, dame comedian; Albas, in a sensational performance on the tight wire; Mlle. Leoni de Lausanne, a wonderful lady rifle shot; Mr. Richard Flanagan's company, in a comedy sketch Compensation; and Miss Bertha Winder, a nimble dancer.

Hull.—Grand Theatre.—Morton's, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. F. Morton.—The Speckled Band has caught on with the Hull public, the company entrusted with its representation being all capable and clever artists. A hearty reception was accorded our former townsman, Mr. Bassett Roe, who as Grimble Rylott adds one more to his many successes; Miss Mary Forbes presents the part of Enid Stonor with fine skill; Mr. O. P. Reggie as Sherlock Holmes acquits himself admirably; and as Dr. Watson Mr. Talbot Homewood displays great dramatic ability; Miss Lillie Brennard plays the housekeeper thoroughly well; and the butler and the page are effectively rendered by Messrs. H. Ashton Tonge and Philip Tonge.

Alexandra Theatre.—Morton's, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. George Morton.—East Lynne, ever popular, appeals to the patrons of this house. It is the Bullock version. The name-rôle is filled most satisfactorily by Miss Ida Heron; Mr. Joe Rowland acts P.C. Bullock with good effect; the Levison of Mr. J. Hooker is all that could be wished; and Mr. Jerrold Manville, an artist of excellent ability, played the Lord Chief Justice; Little Willie is well realised by Miss Bessie Courtenay; and Mr. Tom Watts, who controls the company plays the part of Lord Mountsevern; and Mr. Archibald Carlyle has an interesting reading in the hands of Mr. Frank Beresford.

Palace Theatre.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. John S. Barnett.—Harry Randall is as popular as ever, and he delights large audiences with an excellent répertoire of humorous songs and patter; a favourite item in the bill is the exhibition of tree cutting given by Jackson and McLaren; the Harmonious Gothams are paying a welcome return visit with good results; Miss Winifred Ward, "the immaculate boy," wins admiration for her style and songs; Duncan's trained Scotch collies prove themselves wonderful canine actors; the musical McGregors are a clever combination with xylophones, cornets, and concertinas; Mary Ambrose, an accomplished violinist and vocalist, delights all; Lawrence Barclay, the volatile comedian, is as funny as ever; and Johnny Walker, comedian, is also in the bill, which is concluded by the Bioscope.

The Empire.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hy. Slingsby.—Mlle. de Rose, the lady Foli, and her clever protégé Hilda Claremont, are winning golden opinions for their excellent singing; the Bros. Lavelle, acrobatic comiques, prove a smart duo; Nellie and Queenie Carlton are pleasing duettists; Jimmy Shields is in great form and very popular; J. H. Hawtrey pleases immensely with good songs; the Bros. Milford, in song and dance; Chas. Lea, eccentric comedian; and Gestia and Hoe, novel and refined entertainers, complete.

The Hippodrome.—General Manager, Mr. Walter Bentley.—Excellent audiences are paying a tribute to the strong bill here. Laughter reigns during the performance of the Six Brothers Luck, who present Lift 'Ems, Ltd., and The Demon of the Cellar; Ernie Myers, patter comedian, keeps the house in a happy mood; the Gallimore Trio of speciality artists are an acquisition to the bill: as dancing experts the Carlson Bros. enjoy a flattering reception. Other successful contributors are Lily Lonsdale, soprano and descriptive vocalist; and Dixie Dee, versatile comedienne.

Inverness.—Theatre Royal.—Manager, Mr. Burgess.—Mr. Durward Lely and his company opened a three nights' engagement on Monday with The Bondman. Mr. Lely as Jason was a striking character, and his singing of "Reaper's song" and other numbers evoked cordial appreciation. Michael Sunlocks by Mr. Frank Kelland, Greeba by Miss Georgina V. Clifford, and Mrs. Fairbrother by Mrs. Durward Lely were other outstanding impersonations; Mr. J. Clifford Wright as Father Ferrati proved himself an able actor; Mr. Clive Woods made an interesting figure of Adam Fairbrother; Mona was well played by Miss Adeline Leslie; and Mr. Jack Alexander as Grandfather was good. The scenery is on an elaborate scale, the farm set in particular being admired.

Ipswich.—Lyceum Theatre.—Lessees, Messrs. Murray King, Clark, and W. H. Savory. — Mr. Ernest Leicester's company is here this week with The Ticket of Leave Man, Mr. Leicester playing Bob Brierley excellently; the Jim Dalton of Mr. C. H. Hewetson is a clever piece of acting; and Mr. Charles Goodheart as Hawkshaw successfully carries through this popular part; Mr. Harry Bristow as Melter Moss and Mr. Ernest Spalding as Green Jones act upon traditional lines, as also does Mr. J. E. Savory in the part of Mr. Gibson. Miss Kathleen Russell is a successful May Edwards; and the garrulous Mrs. Willoughby is played by Miss V. Lorraine; Emily St. Everymond is in the hands of Miss May Forde; and Miss Webster is a sufficiently lively Sam Willoughby.

Hippodrome.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—Bernard's Mannikins' entertainment, The Coons' Revelry, is very funny, and the manipulation of the figures cleverly accomplished; Ruby and Laws have a pleasing musical turn, the latter possessing a fine voice; Elsie Manpass is a promising child mimic and dancer; George Brooks, an old favourite, had a hearty welcome; the Picquays do some astonishing balancing tricks; Frank Elliston and company have a romantic sketch, entitled Long Live the King; Lizzie Daniels is a capable comedienne; and the bioscope concludes.

Jarrow.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. Edward Evans.—This week the variety company includes the following artists: The Great Zaid Trio of Spanish Moors; Miss Beattie Bloom, comedienne; Whisper, the Comedy Kid, in an original act; Gus Hindell, in a musical scena; the Marco Trio, in a marvellous triple-bar act; Dix and Dox, in a musical speciality act; and Agnes Molteno and company, in the attractive scena An Old-time Story; or, Dolly and the Coach, which is capitally received.

The Palace.—Lessees, Jarrow Palace Co.; Manager, Mr. J. C. Padden.—This picture hall continues to receive excellent support, and shows some excellent pictures. In addition, Madge Carew and Wynnie Russell give an excellent musical scena The Little Gleaners; and Mr. Jack Casey, the singing fireman, is applauded.

The Kino.—Lessee, Mr. Dixon Scott; Manager, Mr. John R. Scott.—This place of amusement is doing excellent business, and changing the pictures twice weekly. Robinson and Son, speciality artists, and Violet Gerald, vocalist, are also here.

The Gem.—Lessees, Messrs. John Tweedle and Co.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Rabey.—This hall has some of the latest films, and receives liberal support from the public. This week Mr. Horace Monk is here in a first-class speciality turn, and is cordially received.

Jersey.—Opera House.—Lessee, Mr. Edward Marris; Acting-Manager, Mr. Leslay Edwardes.—Animated pictures and vaudeville are once more to the fore here. The Attilla Brothers give a really fine turn, their weight-lifting exhibition being particularly good; Violet Beatrice makes a nice-looking boy and sings some catchy songs; Florrie Wright gets encored as a vocalist; T. W. Lenner is a capable comedian; and the Matt Wilkinson Trio appear in their original sketch The Registry Office.

Royal Hall.—Lessee, Mr. J. T. West; Manager, Mr. George Francis.—Excellent pictures continue to be shown here, and the orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Leslie Curzon, is a distinct success.

Alhambra.—Proprietors, Messrs. L. C. Langlois and L. Poulain.—The electric pictures include the 1910 Grand National. Vic Loving is paying a return visit.

Keighley.—Hippodrome.—Propriteors, Hippodrome, Keighley, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. George Holmes.—The Cattle Thief heads the bill here. The scenic effects are excellent, and a well-balanced cast has been engaged. Mr. George A. Street in the rôle of Ben Mardo submits a strong characterisation. An amusing absurdity, Jealousy, presented by George Parnell and company, finds much favour; Randolph King, the one-man programme, is a versatile artist; Tom Lee, light-comedy artist, renders his songs well; Cora Corina in character dancing and dialects receives much applause; Maxwell and Francis score; and De Lilo and Metz are well received.

Kidderminster.—New Opera House.—Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr. Jas. P. Moore; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. C. Gudgeon.—On Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday this week Messrs. Jay and Mann's company is here, and presents each evening the comedy entitled The Truants, preceded each night by the sketch Jerry and a Sunbeam. Mr. T. A. Shannon as Bill Chetwood gives a good display; Mr. O. Powis Griffiths ably portrays Dick Chetwood; Messrs. Chas. Owen and Frank Danby respectively play the part of Checkley and Lord Strelland with effect; the rôle of the Rev. Philip Preston is in the capable hands of Mr. Mackenzie Rogan; Miss Molly Tremaine supplies a finished rendering of Freda Savile; Miss Rita Trekelle as Mrs. Collins fills her part successfully; and Miss Stewart Dawson as Bent is excellent.

King's Lynn.—New Royal Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. B. Pareezer; Resident-Manager, Mr. Reginald Pareezer.—For Thursday, Friday, and Saturday last week The Sign of the Cross was presented here. Mr. Leonard Yorke fittingly took the part of Marcus; Mr. Aubrey Fitzmaurice was excellent as Nero; as Glabrio, Mr. Donald McAdam was interesting; Tigellinus was well portrayed by Mr. G. Osmond Tearle; as Mercia, Miss Pearla Gardner was graceful and effective; Miss Daisy Towers was a dignified Poppæa; Miss Joan Saville was a beautiful Berenice; and Miss Effie Dane made an admirable Stephanus. A first-class Hippodrome programme was presented the first three nights this week, including Effie White in her ka.eidoscope dances; Ivy Leaf, comedienne; Stewart and Lorraine, with their marvellous musical turn; Bob Pueblo and Katie Cropp, trick sand dancers; Ethel Arundell, comedienne; Chas. Valvo, ventriloquist; and the favourite comedians Dan Harley and Fred Melton.

Lancaster.—Grand Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. C. Howitt.—Messrs. Alban and Bernard Limpus's company occupied the boards the first three nights this week in The Thief. Mr. Bernard Limpus appeared with success as Richard Chelford, and able support was given by Miss Diana Cloud as Marise Chelford; as Raymond Leyton Mr. F. Morland did admirably; Mr. Carl W. Lindsay as Harry Leyton submitted an excellent portrayal; and Mr. W. Somerset made a capital detective. Miss Mary Forrester also gave a clever rendering of Isabel Leyton. Box and Cox was the curtain-raiser, with Mr. Robt. Ashby as John Box, Mr. W. Protheroe as James Cox, and Miss Eva Lyndhurst as Mrs. Bouncer. For Thursday and the remainder of the week Miss Kate Graham Beck and company in The Gay Goddess are billed.

Leamington. — Theatre Royal. — Lessees, Messrs. Dottridge and Longden; Manager, Mr. John Halifax.—During the earlier part of the week we had a visit from Mr. Horace Lingard and company in répertoire. On Monday The New Lady Bantock was presented. Miss Beatrice Moreau submitted an admirable rendering of the title-rôle, whilst Mr. Horace Lingard gave full effect to the possibilities embodied in the character of Martin Bennett. Mr. E. Rayson-Cousens played Lord Bantock convincingly; Mr. Edward Ray gave a charming study of Dr. Freemantle; and Mr. Wilfred Compton's portrayal of George Newte was admirable. The characters of the prudish maiden aunts, Miss Wetherell and Miss Edith Wetherell, were faithfully interpreted by Miss Marie Saville and Miss Miriam Holt, whilst other parts were carefully played by Mr. W. B. Bevil, Miss Phyliss Brent, Miss Hilda Lane, Miss Mary Watson, Miss Fanny Lane, Miss Jessie Russell, and Miss Mary Langton. On Tuesday Sardou's play Divorçons was played, and on Wednesday Is Marriage a Failure? was presented. For the latter part of the week Mr. Arthur Shelton's company is announced in Beauty and the Barge.

Leeds.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. Francis Laidler; Manager, Mr. N. Hepworth.—Mr. and Mrs. J. Rice Cassidy are presenting The Beggar Princess here this week. As Seaweed or the Princess Henri of Slavonia Mrs. J. R. Cassidy scores a triumph; Mr. J. Rice Cassidy as the Hon. Algernon Fitzhugh is successful in a part which gives full scope for his abilities, and is supported by a well-selected company. The staging is excellent.

Grand Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. Wynn Millar.—The Bishop's Son is appearing here, the principal characters being taken by Mr. Derwent Caine, Mr. Julian Cross, and Miss Verita Vivian.

Empire Theatre.—District-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alex Galby.—A trio of excellent artists are Ella Shields, Mike S. Whallen, and Daisy Dormer; the Miles Stavordale Quintette of Banjoists gives capital selections; and the Garden City Four, Phillips and Merritt, Fred Curran, M. and Mde. Alf. Agoust, and Sisters Kilner render attractive items.

Hippodrome.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry Dunford.—The Six Brothers Luck top the bill in their comedy sketch H.M.S. Perhaps; Herbert Clifton gives a versatile and clever singing act; Lennie and Hast gain much applause in a musical idyll The Maid of Polaria; Boden and Bell, a neat pair of juvenile dancers; Leo. Fields, J. H. Greener, and Hilda Light, are favourite artists; and the Faludy Troup (sensational Hungarian acrobats) and Dalmere's Animals complete.

Queen's Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Bush.—Cecile Gray's company in The Last Straw, Dusty Rhodes, Willie Howell, an illusion by Venturini, the Carnworths, Edith Chantler, and Ritter and Foster provide a capital programme.

Varieties.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Wood.—H. O. Wills, a favourite here, is the principal turn; a capital chorus vocalist is Gladys Revell; Marion Scott has a couple of good songs; and Charles Rose, Bros. de Hais, and Royston and Bradfield complete an attractive programme.

Leek.—Grand Theatre and Hippodrome.—Proprietors, The Leek Theatre Co., Ltd.; Licensee and General-Manager, Mr. Barry Bond. — Mr. Dickie Clare's company in the musical comedy Lucky Liza is drawing good houses. Mr. Clare as Silas Slim, the judge, and the French waiter, is excruciatingly funny; Miss Vesta Brownie is popular as Lucky Liza; Mr. T. W. Benson is a pleasing Peter Pettitoe; Mr. Leonard Maitland is amusing as Paul Pettitoe; Mr. Bert Collins as Tomkins causes a lot of fun; Virginia is well played by Miss Rosie Coyne; Mr. Harry George deserves mention as Barnaby Bladderwich; and Miss Evelyn Wood's charming voice is heard to advantage in the character of Sadie Potts. The Jesmond Trio, in their acrobatic dancing, show exceptional ability.

Leicester.—Royal Opera House.—Business-Manager, Mr. Trueman Towers.—The successful musical comedy The Cingalee is being presented here this week by Mr. Holdane Crichton's principal company.

Theatre Royal.—Acting-Manager, Mr. P. Allerton Turner.—Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley are again fulfilling a pleasing engagement here this week with the popular military drama Two Little Drummer Boys, in which Mr. Edward Bikker, Mr. Poison Turner, Miss Violet Langley, Miss Patricia Connaughton, Mr. T. Arthur Ellis, Mr. Will Percy, Mr. A. Selwood, Miss Maggie English, and Miss Maudie B. Douglas are seen to advantage in prominent parts.

Palace Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. D. Elbourne; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Charles L. Sealey.—Happy Fanny Fields is proving an immense favourite here; Carter Livesey and Lilian Rosebery make a great impression with their exceedingly well-played comedy playlet An Amateur Anarchist; the Riogoku Family of Japanese artists go through a thrilling performance with smartness; Nina Wood is an excellent entertainer at the piano; Orpheus introduces with great success the new instrument, the Hecklephone; Arthur Slater, the whistling man in white, who, while he whistles the overture of The Bohemian Girl, is making a well-deserved hit; Haig and Novel are a smart comedy acrobatic couple; the Sisters Jerome give an entertaining vocal and dancing act; and Tom E. Hughes also finds much favour.

Pavilion Theatre.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Joseph Lawrence.—Topping this week's bill are Mr. and Mrs. Royston-Dene and Co., in the military dramatic episode For Honour, in which Mrs. Royston-Dene as Magdalen Armitage and Mr. Royston-Dene as Major Denis Grant give clever portrayals, being well seconded by Miss Eileen Dartrey, Mr. Charles Comfrey, and Mr. Naylor Grimson in other parts; Goggin and Davis are clever acrobats and comedians, Jack Hamilton's stories are laugh from Miss Florence Tressillian; as Lord Mountfallon Mr. William Calvert affords every satisfaction; and others are Messrs. W. F. Clitherow, a capital Ben Vernstein; John Hart, Tasker; and Miss Frances Wolviston (Lady Mountfallon).

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—Nick Carter, Detective, is presented by an able company, under the direction of Messrs. J. Forbes Knowles and Harry Masterman. Good houses are the rule. Mr. Knowles, in the title-rôle, acts with dramatic strength, his work being warmly recognised; Miss Helena Walbran acquits herself well in the rôle of Madeline; Mr. Raymond Thomas makes a capital villain (Eustace Lee), receiving worthy assistance from Mr. William Burgess (Dave Crowley); while Mr. Will Ellythorne, Miss Nellie Waddington, Miss Nancy Lawrence, Mr. Hy. C. Momber, and Miss Nellie Fern supply some capital comedy.

KELLY'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Reginald Grant.—A visit of A Child of the Streets, by Miss Dot Stephens's company, is affording great delight here. The clever little actress earns high favour for her pathetic and telling picture of Doris Graham; and is ably supported by Mr. George Hazlehurst, who acts capitally the rôle of the vagabond Scroggie; Miss Bessie Hazlewood, a pleasing Gertrude Graham; Miss Yoxa Summer, whose Lorna Carstairs proves a strong character part; Mr. Edward Vivian, a powerful Lawrence Craigie; Miss Carlotta Blondin, Selina; Little May Renaud, Doris; and Mr. Claude Graveley, Robert Wallace. The play is well staged.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Manners.—Foremost here this week is the merry Harry Tate, with his latest absurdity Flying, which causes endless laughter, the Bros. Dean, a couple of excellent dancers, come in for well-deserved applause; as comedy acrobats the Lumars have a particularly smart turn; Barton and Ashley bring their new farcical creation Adam the Second, which is richly enjoyed; the favourite Miss Millie Hylton has a rousing reception for her latest songs, her dramatic London Bridge sketch being particularly good: an artistic continental musical act comes from the Hardini Trio; Queen and Le Brun present a rattling good trifle, entitled The Cockney Huntsman; and also in the list are little Lily Shaw, juvenile character comedienne; and Maurice, conjurer.

LYRIC.—Lessees, Liverpool Lyric Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Henry C. Arnold.—A Daughter of the Sea is being given here twice nightly by Mr. Lewis Gilbert's company. Mr. Gilbert as Mark Glensdale plays in excellent manner; Miss Florrie Green makes a charming Sunshine; Mr. Ashmore Vincent handles the rôle of Ken Moreland with fine effect; thanks are due to Mr. T. Gordon Blythe for his careful study of Dan Glensdale; and a deal of humour comes from Mr. Joe Monkhouse (Billy) and Miss Allyce Wyllyams (Mollie); Mr. H. C. Lanceley makes an efficient Captain Ben Morrison.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Hassan.—Large audiences are attending here to witness a good all-round programme. Harry M. Vernon's thrilling sketch, The Third Degree, is being played by Herbert Sleath's company, which comprises Charles A. East, Oswald Young, Chas. Terric, J. Williams, and Gerald Valentine. The work is followed with keen attention. Victor Niblo's talking birds are a source of much wonder; the Hassan Duo present a novel and talented acrobatic wire act; A Drawing-room Rehearsal is a neat little trifle submitted by the Sylvester trio of vocalists and speciality dancers: Velanche's dogs go through a remarkable performance, including a football match; the Russian hand-balancing acrobats, the Schilinsky Bros., display wonderful accomplishments as vocalists, banjoists, and dancers; the Three Sisters Dixon deserve the cordial reception extended to them: and contributions also come from Griffiths and Carmen, novelty entertainers; the Friscos, eccentric musical mimics; and Frank Saulby, comedian.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—Good business continues to be done here by the stock dramatic company. This week we are having The Sin of Her Childhood, the principal parts in which are held by Messrs. Cecil Ravenswood, Sydney Grant, Harry Tresham, Leo Montgomery, Tom H. Solly, Miss Lena Nazeby, and Miss Gertrude Entwistle. Brown's Bioscope shows Sudden Wealth.

OLYMPIA.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. George M. Slater.—Willy Pantzer and company are causing great laughter with their diverting sketch, The Limit; the capital military act, Drummed Out, given by A. C. Lilly and company, is received with entire satisfaction; Ferry Corwey, a merry, musical clown, keeps his audience in shouts of laughter; Cassie Walmer, eccentric contralto, is particularly diverting; Syd May shines as a mimic, his burlesque of a wrestling match provoking much amusement; the Sisters Doherty earn loud applause for their singing and dancing; Charles Fisher's Vocalesques provide an acceptable show as comedians and harmonisers; and Bert Williams, ventriloquist, is also in the bill.

PAVILION.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Manager, Mr. George F. Slatter.—Heading the programme here are Harry P. Selwyn's company in 33 to 1 Chance, in which Messrs. F. Derle Powell, Fred Monti, A. T. Lennard, Gerald Blake, Ben Jordan, and Miss Mary Harlington take part. Donovan and Arnold are a couple of funny American comedians; smart head and hand balancing is shown by the Denaro Bros.; a funny sketch The Artist and His Monkey, comes from Les Rallis; Ida Barr renders several songs in capital style; and the list likewise holds the names of the Lowells, with speciality act; the Four Broadway Bros., vocalists and smart dancers; and Phil Herman, vocal comedian.

LOUGHBOROUGH. — TOWN HALL. — The theatrical season is opened here this week by Messrs. W. Payne Seddon and Leon Vint jointly with Mr. Chas. H. Bowmaker (of the Hippodrome) as local manager. Mr. G. W. Bowe's company presents The Sign of the Cross, a strong cast including Mr. Leonard Yorke as Marcus, Mr. Aubrey Fitzmaurice as Nero, Mr. G. Osmond Tearle as Tigellinus, Mr. Duncan Gilmour as Licinius, Mr. W. Facer as Vitudius, and Mr. J. Cowell as Favius. Miss Pearla Gardner is responsible for the rôle of Mercia, and Stephanus is in the hands of Miss Effie Dane; Miss Daisy Towers appears as Poppæa, and the other parts are ably provided for.

VINT'S ELECTRIC HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Leon Vint; General-Manager, Mr. Arthur Brogden; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. H. Bowmaker.—Vint's entertainments maintain their high reputation, and the pictures this week include Gold Rose, Francisca de Rimini, Ranchman's Feud, Clown and Weary Pasha, A Journey Through Corsica, &c. A smart juggling and sand-dancing turn is given by Mint and Mart; and the Australian Bush Boys (six in number) are clever as singers and dancers.

TEMPERANCE HALL.—Lessees, Messrs. Weisker Brothers; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. Evanson.—Pictures presented this week include Mario's Swan Song (a pathetic story), Their Sea Voyage, Tontoline Somersaults, and The Secret of the Glaciers, &c. The artists are the Three Royal Temples, operatic vocalists, and Blarney and Bland, comedians.

LOWESTOFT.—MARINA.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. B. Pareezer.—The management have another capital attraction in The Dollar Princess, for which Mr. Geo. Edwardes's company is responsible. The gorgeous setting, bright acting, and clever dancing, are greatly admired. Miss Kathleen Courtney makes a pleasing Alice, and is warmly applauded for a delightful performance; Miss Muriel Allen is also noteworthy as Olga, especially in her vocal numbers. Mr. Alec Worcester scores a big success as Freddy; Mr. Fred Leslie makes the most of his opportunities as Harry Conder; and Mr. Horace Mills adds to the general effect in the rôle of Mr. Bulger.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Gilbert; Manager, Mr. W. Alvar.—Miss Florrie Forde is making a welcome reappearance in her chorus songs, which are eagerly taken up by crowded houses. Miss Forde is heard to advantage in "Flanagan," "Rip Van Winkle," and other equally popular numbers, which are received with the greatest enthusiasm. The Frohmans give a delightful musical act; and Harry Walker has some very amusing ditties. The pictures are, as usual, a strong feature.

LUTON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, E. Graham Falcon; Resident-Manager, Louis J. Beard.—The variety turns this week comprise the Five Whiteleys, in acrobatic feats and wire walking; Minnie Love, comedienne and dancer; the Lomas Duo, comedy speciality; Nita Crystal and Geoffrey Saville, smart in musical comedy; Bella Belmont, American chorus vocalist; Davis and Deane, comedians and dancers; and Shirley Liggins and his coloured company of vocalists.

THE WORLD'S THEATRE FURNISHERS.

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD.,

SUCCESSORS TO

A. R. DEAN & SONS, CORPORATION STREET, BIRMINGHAM.

Telephone { Showrooms, 224 Central, Birmingham. Factory, 3834 " "

Telegrams: "CARPETS, BIRMINGHAM."

SINCE JAN. 1st HAVE OBTAINED CONTRACTS FOR UPWARDS OF 100 THEATRES & PICTURE PALACES IN ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD.

CONTRACTS BOOKED AND IN HAND SINCE JANUARY 1, 1910.

1. NEW EMPIRE, KINGSTON-ON-THAMES. Complete Furnishing.
2. ALEXANDRA, BELFAST. Complete Seating and Furnishing.
3. COURT THEATRE, LIVERPOOL. Complete Reseating.
4. ROTUNDA THEATRE, LIVERPOOL. Complete Decoration and Refurnishing.
5. HIPPODROME, TON-Y-PANDY, SOUTH WALES. Complete Decorations and Furnishing.
6. HIPPODROME, EASTBOURNE. Complete Refurnishing.
7. ROYALTY THEATRE, CHESTER. Complete Refurnishing.
8. SPANISH CITY, WHITLEY BAY. Complete Furnishing.
9. NEW TOWN HALL THEATRE, WESTGATE-ON-SEA. Complete Furnishing.
10. NEW EMPIRE, PORTSMOUTH. Complete Decorations.
11. OPERA HOUSE, WORKINGTON. Complete Reseating.
12. PARKHURST THEATRE, HOLLOWAY. Reseating and Refurnishing.
13. NEW BIOGRAPH THEATRE, WILTON-RD., PIMLICO. Reseating and Refurnishing.
14. NEW BIOGRAPH THEATRE, WANDSWORTH. Reseating and Refurnishing.
15. NEW BIOGRAPH THEATRE, HORNSEA. Reseating and Refurnishing.
16. NEW BIOGRAPH THEATRE, KILBURN. Reseating and Refurnishing.
17. NEW BIOGRAPH THEATRE, CLAPHAM JUNCTION. Reseating and Refurnishing.
18. NEW BIOGRAPH THEATRE, ILFORD. Complete Furnishing and Seating.
19. NEW BIOGRAPH THEATRE, STOKE NEWINGTON. Complete Furnishing, Seating.
20. NEW BIOGRAPH THEATRE, RYE LANE, PECKHAM. Complete Furnishing, Seating.
21. NEW ALEXANDRA THEATRE, BELFAST. Complete Furnishing and Seating.
22. NEW ROYALTY THEATRE, CHESTER. Complete Re-upholstering.
23. NEW THEATRE, BILSTON. Complete Re-upho'stering.
24. SPANISH CITY, WHITLEY BAY. Complete Seating and Furnishing.
25. MAGNIFICENT TABLEAU CURTAINS AND DRAPERIES, for Fred Karno, Esq.
26. EMPIRE, PORTSMOUTH. Complete Redecorations and Furnishings.
27. OPERA HOUSE, WORKINGTON. Complete Reseating.
28. NEW SKATING RINK AND PICTURE THEATRE, TODMORDEN. Complete Seating and Furnishing.
29. NEW SKATING RINK AND PICTURE THEATRE, WREXHAM. Complete Seating and Furnishing.
30. NEW SKATING RINK AND PICTURE PALACE, NUNEATON Complete Seating and Furnishing.
31. NEW TOWN HALL, WESTGATE-ON-SEA. Furnishing, Seating, and Tableau Curtains.
32. NEW HIPPODROME, YORK. Reseating, Tip-up Chairs, &c.
33. HIPPODROME, COVENTRY. Reseating, &c.
34. CITY VARIETIES, LEEDS. Reseating, &c.
35. NEW HIPPODROME, TON-Y-PANDY. Complete Decorations, Seatings, Tip-up Chairs, and Furnishing throughout.
36. NEW PICTUREDROME, SOUTHPORT. Complete Seating, Tip-up Chairs, and Furnishing.
37. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, BRIXTON. Complete Redecorations, Reseating, Tip-up Chairs, and Furnishing throughout.
38. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, MARBLE ARCH, OXFORD STREET. The whole of the Magnificent Fibrous Plaster, Decorations, Furnishing, and Seating throughout.
39. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, THORNTON HEATH. Complete Seating, Tip-up Chairs and Furnishing throughout.
40. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, CARDIFF. Tip-up Chairs, &c.
41. NEW THEATRE DE LUXE, BATTERSEA. Complete Seating, &c.
42. NEW ELECTROSCOPE THEATRE, TOOTING. Complete Seating, Tip-up Chairs, and Furnishing throughout.
43. NEW KING'S HALL, LEYTON. Complete Seating and Tip-up Chairs.
44. NEW QUEEN'S HALL, BRISTOL. Complete Seating, Tip-up Chairs, and Furnishing.
45. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, MARKET-STREET, BRISTOL. Complete Seating, Tip-up Chairs, and Furnishing.
46. NEW OLYMPIA ELECTRIC PALACE, BRISTOL. Tip-up Chairs, &c.
47. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, BEDMINSTER, BRISTOL. Tip-up Chairs, &c.
48. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, BATH. Complete Seating, Tip-up Chairs, and Furnishing.
49. VAUDEVILLE ELECTRIC THEATRE, READING. Tip-up Chairs, &c.
50. NEW ELDORADO ELECTRIC THEATRE, HAMPSTEAD. Complete Seating.
51. NEW SKATING RINK AND PICTURE THEATRE, CHELSEA. Complete Seating, Tip-up Chairs, &c.
52. NEW ELECTRIC PALACE, EDGWARE-ROAD. Complete Seating and Furnishing.
53. NEW ELECTRIC PALACE, KILBURN. Construction, Decorations, Seating, Furnishing.
54. GREAT CENTRAL PICTURE THEATRE, TOTTENHAM COURT-ROAD. Tip-up Chairs, &c.
55. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, LONDON-ROAD, BRIGHTON. Complete Seating, &c., &c.
56. ELECTRIC PALACE, BRAMBER BRIDGE, PRESTON. Tip-up Chairs and Complete Seating, &c.
57. NEW WINTER GARDENS, NEW BRIGHTON. Tip-up Chairs and Furnishings.
58. BORDESLEY PALACE, BIRMINGHAM. Refurnishings.
59. PALACE THEATRE, ABERDEEN. Reseating and Tip-up Chairs
60. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, CREWE. Furnishing, Seating, and Tip-up Chairs.
61. NEW CENTRAL HALL, SHREWSBURY. Complete Seating, Tip-up Chairs, &c., &c.
62. LIGHTHOUSE PAVILION, HOLYOAK, CHESHIRE. Complete Seating, &c.
63. ELECTRIC THEATRE, NOTTINGHAM. Tip-up Chairs, &c.
64. NEW TOWN HALL, KETTERING. Reseating, &c., &c.
65. ST. STEPHEN'S MEMORIAL THEATRE, CHESTERFIELD. Complete Reseating, Refurnishing, Tip-up Chairs, and Furnishing.
66. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, HIGH-STREET, BIRMINGHAM. Complete Decorations, Fibrous Plaster, and Seating throughout.
67. NEW CINEMATOGRAPH THEATRE, SACKVILLE-STREET, DUBLIN.
68. NEW CINEMATOGRAPH THEATRE, PRINCE'S - STREET, EDINBURGH.
69. NEW CINEMATOGRAPH THEATRE, MARKET-STREET, MANCHESTER.
70. HOWARD HALL, NORTH SHIELDS. Tip-up Chairs.
71. RAYMOND'S ELECTRIC THEATRE, WALTHAMSTOW. Reseating, &c.
72. RAYMOND'S ELECTRIC THEATRE, BLACKBURN. Tip-up Chairs, &c.
73. NEW PICTURE PALACE, WHITLEY BAY. Complete Furnishing, Tip-up Chairs, &c.
74. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, NUNEATON. Tip-up Chairs, &c.
75. MECHANICS' INSTITUTE, DUMFRIES. Complete Seating.
76. NEW SKATING RINK AND PICTURE PALACE, WINDSOR. The whole of Seating, Tip-up Chairs, &c.
77. THE ROTUNDA THEATRE, LIVERPOOL. The whole of the Decorations, Carpets, Seating, Tip-up Chairs, &c., &c., at a cost of upwards of £1,500.
78. ROYAL COURT THEATRE, LIVERPOOL. Reseating, New Tip-up Chairs, and our Patent Pit, &c.
79. NEW HIPPODROME & CIRCUS FOR MR. BOSTOCK, CITY-ROAD, GLASGOW. Complete Furnishing and Tip-up Chairs.
80. NEW HIPPODROME, KINGSTON-ON-THAMES. The whole of the magnificent Draperies, Carpets, Tip-up Chairs, and our Patent Pit, at a cost of upwards of £1,700.
81. NEW HIPPODROME, BEDMINSTER, BRISTOL. Whole of the magnificent Draperies, Carpets, Tip-up Chairs, and our Patent Pit, at a cost of upwards of £3,600.
82. WINTER GARDENS, CHELTENHAM, The whole of the magnificent Draperies, Tip-up Chairs, &c., &c.
83. NEW HIPPODROME, EASTBOURNE. Complete Refurnishing, at a cost of £1,200.
84. NEW BIOGRAPH THEATRE, PECKHAM. Whole of the new Carpets and Tip-up Chairs.
85. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, HANLEY. Whole of new Tip-up Chairs.
86. NEW SPA THEATRE, BRIDLINGTON. New Tip-up Chairs.
87. NEW GRAND THEATRE, WEST HARTLEPOOL. New Tip-up Chairs.
88. NEW SOUTHPORT PICTUREDROME. Tip-up Chairs.
89. POOLE'S PICTURE PALACE, IPSWICH. Patent Pit Seating.
90. NEW GRAND THEATRE, NELSON. Tip-up Chairs, &c.
91. NEW PUBLIC HALL, SALE, MANCHESTER. Tip-up Chairs, &c.
92. NEW ELECTRIC PALACE, BLACKFRIARS ROAD, S.E. 700 Tip-up Chairs, &c.
93. NEW CENTRAL HALL, CHESTERFIELD. Chairs, Seatings, &c.
94. NEW HALL, HUCKNALL TORKARD. Tip-up Chairs
95. NEW ELECTRIC PALACE, SLOUGH. Tip-up Chairs, Seating, &c.
96. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, FALKIRK, N.B. Tip-up Chairs.
97. CITY VARIETIES, LEEDS. Tip-up Chairs.
98. COVENTRY CITY FOOTBALL GRAND STAND. 500 Tip-up Chairs.
99. EMPIRE THEATRE, SMETHWICK. Chairs and Furnishing.
100. NEW ELECTRIC THEATRE, HIGH STREET, BIRMINGHAM. Complete Decorations and Fibrous Plaster Work, Wilton Carpets, Curtains, and Tip-up Chairs throughout.

&c., &c., &c.

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD.
Are at the present time by far THE LARGEST THEATRE DECORATORS AND FURNISHERS IN THE WORLD. A proof of this is that at the present time they have contracts in hand fully 10 to 1 of their competitors
These are plain, solid, and true facts.

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD.,
Are prepared to give three years' guarantee with all Chairs and Seating they turn out It matters not whether the Chair be 4s. 11d. or 35s. each. This should be sufficient proof that they only turn out first-class goods.

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD.,
Only employ in their factories Trade Union men, and at all times are enabled to obtain the very best class of labour. Many of their workmen have been in their employ for upwards of twenty years.

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD.'S,
Goods are all manufactured in clean, wholesome works, which are always open to the Factory Inspectors.
No Alien or Sweated Labour employed.

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD.,
Have in their employ a number of First-class Artists and Modellers for the purpose of turning out First-class Decorations, Fibrous Plaster, &c., &c.

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD.,
Are at all times pleased for their Managers to wait on Proprietors, Architects, Managers &c., for the purpose of estimating and preparing schemes for Decorations, &c., &c. Distance no object. A telegram or telephone message will at all times be immediately attended to.

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD.,
Wish this to be thoroughly understood that all their Chairs, Seats, &c., are delivered and fixed free by thoroughly competent men, whose sole work is fitting these goods.

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD.,
Have just placed on the market a special low-priced Chair, suitable for seating the Cheaper Portions of Picture Palaces and Electric Theatres.

THE GEM. THE GEM. THE GEM. THE GEM. THE GEM. THE GEM. — 5/11 — UPHOLSTERED IN GOOD PEGAMOID. DELIVERED AND FITTED FREE.

THREE YEARS' GUARANTEE.
WRITE FOR SAMPLE CHAIR.

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD.,
Have also placed a better Chair, Spring Stuffed, quite equal to any Chair on the market as regards appearance and durability.

THE WONDER. THE WONDER. THE WONDER. THE WONDER. THE WONDER. THE WONDER. — 8/11 — WITH ARMS. IN VELVET OR PEGAMOID, SPRING STUFFED SEAT.

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD.,
Have Specially Designed a Very Handsome Chair for the Best Parts of the House of Electric Theatres, &c., &c.

THE CINEMA. THE CINEMA. THE CINEMA. THE CINEMA. THE CINEMA. THE CINEMA. — 11/9 — Handsome deep back. Chair Upholstered in best manner in rich British Velvet or Camel Cloth, or Embossed Pegamoid.

WRITE FOR SAMPLE.

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD.,
Have Specially Designed a Chair suitable for the Best Seats of the palatial Picture Palaces which are being erected in London.

CHAIR DE LUXE. CHAIR DE LUXE. CHAIR DE LUXE. CHAIR DE LUXE. CHAIR DE LUXE. CHAIR DE LUXE. — 13/9 — Magnificent Chair, Spring Stuffed, Upholstered Best Velvet or Silk Embossed Plush.

MOST COMFORTABLE. SEE THIS CHAIR.

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD.,
Have also Designed a most Handsome Chair suitable for Fauteuils or Dress Circles of Theatres and Music-Halls. This is a very handsome, deep, hollow back Chair.

THE PALACE. THE PALACE. THE PALACE. THE PALACE. THE PALACE. THE PALACE. — 16/6 — Spring and Hair Stuffed. Upholstered in Best Velvet Plush, Camel Cloth, or Embossed Best Pegamoid.

THE HANDSOMEST CHAIR IN THE MARKET.

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD.,
Also make very handsome and durable Running Seating.
To lift up in sections of 4ft., in Pegamoid from 2s. 11d. per foot Run, Fixed. To lift up in sections, Varnished, from 1s. 9d. per foot Run, Fixed.

CORK CARPETS.	WILTON PILE CARPETS.
LINOLEUMS.	AXMINSTER CARPETS.
BRUSSELS CARPETS.	INDIAN CARPETS.

And MATTINGS of every description.
Cheapest in the Trade. All fitted free.
WRITE FOR SAMPLES.

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD.,
Fire Screen Frames and Outside Decorations of every description.
Drawings and Schemes free.
All interested in Picture Palaces should, before placing their orders, see what Dean's Furnishing Co. have done at the Marble Arch Electric Theatre.
This magnificent work was executed without the proprietors loosing one single show in six weeks from time order was placed.

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD.,
Have just turned an Old, Cheerless Public Hall into a most Up-to-date and Elegant Picture Theatre, at Carlisle, in the short space of fourteen days.
The Talk and Wonder of Carlisle.
So pleased is the Proprietor, Sidney Bacon, Esq., that he has given Dean's Furnishing Co. Carte Blanche to Alter, Decorate, and Reseat his Victoria Hall, York.

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD.,
FOR FIBROUS PLASTER FOR INTERIORS OF PICTURE PALACES.
FOR FIBROUS PLASTER EXTERIORS.
FOR ARTISTIC AND UP-TO-DATE DECORATIONS.

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD.,
Retain Mr. A. F. WINDIBANK as Manager of the Theatre Department, who has had the experience of a lifetime in carrying out this class of work, he having superintended the carrying out of upwards of 2,000 contracts for this class of work.

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., LTD.,
Still retain the services of Mr. L. BECK as Director and Manager of the Factories.

WRITE FOR OUR NEW CATALOGUE, POST FREE

DEAN'S FURNISHING CO., BIRMINGHAM. LTD.

Telephone: 224 Central, Birmingham. Telegrams: "Carpets, Birmingham."

LLANDUDNO.—GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. A. G. Pugh.—On Monday Mr. Fredk. Mouillot's company appeared here in A Message from Mars. Mr. Harry St. Barbe-West as Horace Parker is excellent; Mr. Wm. H. Brougham as the Messenger is specially adapted for the somewhat weird part; and Mr. Norman Clark as the Tramp capitally sustains the pathetic side of the piece.

PIER HEAD PAVILION.—Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allandale's Vaudeville Entertainers continue to draw large audiences. Messrs. Bert Byron, Alec Chentrens, A. R. Sutcliffe, Charley Bray, Charlestone, &c., with Mr. J. Tunbridge at the piano, provide two hours' much-enjoyed entertainment.

MACCLESFIELD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. W. K. Gatley.—Hush Money is the attraction here. Mr. S. Leigh Courtney plays the part of Sexton Blake with intensity; Mr. F. Brooklyn's conception of Lord Mervyn Walgrave is impressive; Mr. Martin Sands presents an earnest study of Mr. John Shard; Tinker has a capable exponent in Mr. Harry Hartley; Mr. John Lowther as Nathan Finch and Mr. Fred Hopkins as Jem Tooley present noteworthy performances; Miss T. Osborne is an excellent Lady Montressor; and Miss A. Paulton highly successful as Euphemia Pattacake.

MAIDSTONE.—PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Ewart C. Potter.—Mr. Montagu Beaudyn's company has enjoyed popular favour with Send Him Victorious, the principal parts being played by Mr. G. M. Montanini and Miss Lily Roselle. The company is deserving of the success achieved. For three nights A Chinese Honeymoon, by Mr. H. G. Dudley Bennett's able company, has done equally good business.

MANCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, the United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edmondstone Shirra.—A strong attraction here this week in Bataille's play, Dame Nature, adapted by Frederick Fenn. The production is remarkable chiefly for its inclusion of Miss Ethel Irving in the cast, her depiction of the ill-fated Lolette being, in fact, one of the strongest pieces of emotional acting that has been seen in Manchester for a long time. This is not to disparage the remainder of the company by comparison, for the cast is throughout a strong one, especial praise being due to Mr. Norman Forbes for a fine delineation of the old French nobleman, the Prince de Chabran, and to Mr. Frank Cooper for his strong and natural presentment of Robert Bertram. Miss Mabel Hunt as the Princess de Chabran shares the honours worthily, and among other good impersonations those of Paul Garford by Mr. W. R. Staveley, and Mrs. Garford by Miss Florence Nelson are of notable value.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, the United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Lee.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company, always welcome here, are playing Smith at this popular house. Miss Cicely Stuckey, in the title-rôle, is a delightful personality, and Mr. Robert Minster as Tom Freeman gives a full and engaging delineation of a man who has made himself worthy of so charming a maid. Mr. H. Douglas Greet as Algy Peppercorn provides an amusing character sketch; and commendable impersonations are added by Miss Ethel Hodgkins, Miss Pauline Straus, and Miss Ethel Wellesley as a trio of society ladies. The indictments of the smart set are pointed and effective. Good houses are attracted.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Mason.—Mr. Morton Powell's company are here in Driving a Girl to Destruction, played last week at the Grand Junction Theatre.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hearn.—Miss Ida Millais's company are back in Manchester, after an absence of about six years, with the attractive play No Man's Land. Miss Marie Kildare as Mary Bathurst plays a strong part sympathetically; Mr. Phil Harper as Harry Oaklands makes a hit; good work is done also by Messrs. Edwin Bennett, Fred Lillywhite, and William Mallalieu; while the light rôles are in the capable hands of Mr. Sammy Foster and Mr. R. J. Hamer. The final scene, The Old Weir, is very realistic and greatly applauded.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Pearson.—Mr. Raynor and his company are playing here in Lady Windermere's Fan, which was much enjoyed by a good house on Monday. The play was well staged and splendidly performed As Lord Windermere Mr. Milton C. Curtis gives a capital performance; Mr. Raynor does well, as usual, as Lord Darlington; and Mr. Joseph B. Montague contributes a humorous delineation of Lord Augustus Lorton; Miss Cecilia Dare is excellent as Mrs. Erlynne; Miss Frances Waring adds a very good depiction of Lady Windermere; and other parts are well played by Miss Hilda Blanche and Miss Dora Dench. The remaining rôles are capably filled.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietor, Miss A. E. F. Horniman; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edwin T. Heys.—The Tallyman here precedes a new play, called Gentlemen of the Press, a notice of which appears elsewhere.

PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Manager, Mr. A. J. Carter.—Fred Karno's latest production, with its daring and effective stage mechanism, entitled The R.M.S. Wontdetania, is being played here with great success. Mr. Shaun Glenville as the Purser is extremely funny, and the whole performance is excellent; Charlier, the famous French ventriloquist, provides an exceedingly smart and novel turn, with life-size figures; Wilson Hallett makes his usual big hit as a cild mimic; Mattie Lund, a charming operatic vocalist, brings down the house; whilst other good turns are offered by the Athos Troupe of very clever acrobats and ball manipulators; Chorley and Connor, Scotch comedians, with funny patter, and dancers of merit; and W. G. Westley, comedian, Madge Allen, comedienne and dancer, did not appear on the occasion of our visit.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Meek.—The big turns are Jan Rudenyi, the actor-vocalist, in The Power of Music; and Horace Wheatley, the Irish comedian and dancer; while smart items are added by the W. T. Thompson Trio, in Watch the Chalk; Adeline Yohle and company in a musical interlude, Difficulties; One Billy Farrel, the popular debonair coon comedian; Martin Conway, comedian; and the Bros. Torono, expert gymnasts.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hall.—A strong programme here is headed by Horace Goldin, the Royal illusionist; and George Carney and company in The Fool of the Family, a lively comedy sketch in three scenes; while sharing the honours of the bill is Winifred Hare, the popular comedienne, in her latest successes. Other good turns are Harry Brown, the coloured comedian and dancer; Satanella Trio of sensational acrobatic dancers; Walter Wade, a smart comedian; Betty Green, comedienne; and Jenny and Joe, American vocalists and dancers.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. R. Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert Jones.—This week the attraction here is The Sailor's Wedding, played by Mr. Frank Bertram and his company. Mr. Bertram, in the rôle of Jack Hawkins, is the big feature of the cast, and he is well supported by the company, who make the story interesting.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Nelson Barry.—The top turn here is George Graves and company in a new sketch, a notice of which appears elsewhere. Miss Marquis and her ponies are also a big item; other good things being James Stewart, the tramp at the piano; Miss Jackedawra Melford and company in Non-suited; Elizabeth Meacham, soprano vocalist; the Sutcliffe Family of Scottish acrobats; Grant and Grant, entertaining octoroons; and Georgina Leno, comedienne.

TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—Rachael Walker, the Creole nightingale, has a most beautiful voice, and her reception here this week is deservedly great; Les Averinos, marvellous comedy acrobats, go through a surprising performance; the Muir-Bartlett company are decidedly entertaining in The Courage of Charlie; Baron and Baroness De Nevers are particularly effective in a duologue by Carlton Dawe, entitled Boy; Florence Venning, contralto, has a good voice, and sings well; Molly Moore is a dainty comedienne, and is well received; Mlle. Anita Bartling, a charming lady juggler, is exceedingly clever; Dainty Doretta is a smart dancer and comedienne; and the Bros. Leo, patter comedians, complete.

KING'S, LONGSIGHT.—Proprietors, Messrs Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jas. R. Trippett.—The Hand that Rocks the Cradle, a new drama of naval and domestic interest, recently produced in Manchester, and played by Mr. J. A. Campbell's company, is the attraction here. Mr.

Guy Hastings is seen to advantage as Derek Mason; Mr. Douglas Tremayne plays well as Henry Drummond; as Lieut. Philip Marchant Mr. Gerald Jordan scores a success; Miss Gertrude F. Godart is excellent as Audrey Melrose; Miss Babs Stuart is very pleasing as Nanoya; and other parts are well filled by Miss J. Dean, Mr. T. Lionel Ellis, Mr. Finn Doyle, Mr. Stanley Vine, Mr. L. J. Lawrence, Mr. E. H. Clarke, and Mr. W. Webb. The scenery and dresses are excellent.

HULME HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred. Day.—Morny Cash, the popular Lancashire comedian, is here and scores his usual success; Sandy McNab is as funny as ever in The Egyptian Mummy; F. V. St. Clair makes a hit as a topical vocalist; the Kyasyas, athletic entertainers, provide a novel lifting act with the teeth and hair; the Olympian Team of Cyclists give an excellent performance; Jessie Wilton, a sweet-voiced comedienne, is well-received; and a lady deputy for Nell O'Neille, comedienne, takes well with her song, "Follow the girls." Pictures complete.

RUSHOLME PAVILION. — Proprietor, Mr. Harry Leslie; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geo. Phillips.—Mr. Sydney James and his Royal Strollers are the attraction here, and include G. W. Desmond, light comedian and dancer; Nellie Seymour James, soprano and comedienne; John E. Austin, tenor; Madeline Rossiter, comedienne and dancer; Frank Halpin, basso and humorist; Dorothy Belmore at the piano; and Sydney James. The combination is a very strong one, and the performance excellent throughout.

BIJOU ELECTRIC THEATRE (Erskine-street, Hulme).—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Thos. Morrison.—The beautiful films presented here this week include Little Doctor of the Foothills, Messenger Boy Magician, The Ranger's Bride, Saved by Her Dog, The Boss of Bar and Ranch, When Jack Has Got His Pay, &c., &c.

MARGATE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. E. Michael; General-Manager, Mr. F. Weathersby; Resident-Manager, Mr. Charles Lake.—Mr. Charles Macdona's company opened here on Monday for a three nights' production of Niobe. Mr. Charles Macdona played Peter Amos Dunn in an amusing manner, and Miss Kate Connaught gave a spirited and delightful presentment of Niobe. Miss Winifred Wood was good as Madeline Mifton, Miss Jenny Richards was excellent as Mrs. Caroline Dunn, and the Misses Carolene Fenton, Ida Southern, and Gladys Hardinge were good respectively as Helen, Hattie and Beatrice respectively. Mr. Charles Steuart as Cornelius Griffin, Mr. C. T. Chapman as Phillip Innings, Mr. Clifford Delph as Hamilton Tompkins, and Mr. T. Bruno Holmes as Parker G. Sillock each contributed effective delineations. The comedy was preceded each evening by recitals by Mr. Charles Macdona, "An Englishman's Home" and "Off Mumble's Head." On Thursday evening and for the remainder of the week The Fires of Fate was in the bill.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the South of England Hippodromes, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. W. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. James Mayall.—The programme this week includes Les Piccolinos, in their unique and clever midget entertainment; Dutch Daly, the favourite concertinist and raconteur; the Three Sisters O'Connor, in their musical, singing, and club-swinging act; the original Bonnie Goodwin's Apollo Piccaninnies, under the direction of Miss Lily Vine; Doris Trevelyn, a pleasing vocalist; and Kennedy and Ryan, in a really funny comedy act. Dalraine's Marionettes give a life-like entertainment, and the pictures are good.

HALL-BY-THE-SEA.—Under the sole direction of Mr. Charles Evans.—Charles Bignell, the popular comedian, has been delighting audiences here this week. Roelgin, with his cleverly trained parrots, has given an entertaining show; and Cissy Paris, ballad vocalist, has been making a pleasing reappearance. Caselli, banjoist; the Sisters Dunbar, duettists and dancers; and Harry Brettell also contribute to an enjoyable programme.

METHIL.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Methil Theatre Co., Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. John C. Burnett.—Mr. Frank Adair's company is the attraction here with The Heathen and the Christian. Mr. Frank Adair gave a life-like portrayal of Li, the Avenger; Mr. Fred Withers is good as the unscrupulous Viceroy, Lung Hi; Miss Louie Adair shows ability as Mira Sampson; Mr. Dudley Wynton as George Berresford and Miss Stanley Burt as May Berresford play their respective rôles in a realistic manner; Mr. Claude Seaton is successful as Lieut. Allendale; Mr. Gerald Turner as Admiral Freebold is responsible for a good representation; Mr. Charles Luck makes the most of the part of Gentle; and the humorous element as supplied by Miss Connie Meadows, with songs and dances, is highly appreciated.

MEXBOROUGH.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Assistant-Manager, Mr. T. W. Goodison.—Mr. Andrew Melville's company is presenting Driven from Home. Mr. Felix Pitt fully realises the heartlessness of Anthony Raybrook, and is ably supported by Mr. John B. Shinlon as Geoffrey Waring. Mr. P. Geo. Beresford makes a manly figure of Walter Hatherleigh; Mr. Hy. Cornwall faithfully typifies the old servant Jabez; Miss Ada M. Ryder imparts sympathetic treatment to the rôle of the long-suffering Laura Raybrook; Miss Emily Burnley ably presents Barbara Ashdown; and minor parts are well sustained by Miss Susie Bevans, Mr. Howard Thornley, Mr. Hy. Helling, Mr. Percy Dawsone, and others.

PICTURE HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. W. H. Melton.—The principal pictures are Boss of the Bar X Ranch, Native Industries in Cochin China, The Impalement, Crime and its Reward, and The Trail.

MIDDLESBROUGH.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. Chas Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Ker Chatto.—Mr. Harry Tower's company delights audiences here by a capital presentation of Dear Little Denmark. On the opening night Miss Thelma Raye was unfortunately unable to appear in her part of Christine, but the rôle was admirably filled by Miss Alice Waldie, whose clever acting and enjoyable vocal contributions as once established her a favourite. As Hans Hansen Mr. Tom Payne created much laughter; Mr. Edward Thirlby successfully portrayed the Duke; and the part of Conrad Petersen was in the able hands of Mr. Cameron Carr.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. Chas. Imeson; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Imeson.—Mr. Charles H. Lester's company appears with success in the emotional drama, A Life for a Life. Wee Winnie Warden as the baby detective, Venetta, is much appreciated; Eulalie is capably delineated by Miss Beatrice Anderson; Mr. Chas. Lester gives full satisfaction in the character of Don Leon Farnandez; Mr. Hugh Travers does justice to the part of Pedro Li Calci; and as the Magistrate Mr. Arthur Brown is deserving of praise. For last night (Friday) Moths was billed.

EMPIRE. — General-Manager, Mr. Chas. G. Rembges.—Melot, the French conjurer, occupies the top position at the Empire, and his mystifying performance is thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated. Miss Lily Burnand in her latest successes is as successful as on previous visits; Miss Beatrice Bonnie and company of dancers on the stairophone go well; the Brothers Redmond, acrobatic comedians, are old and valued favourites on Tees-side; the Tintos, in a speciality act; Arthur Croxon, comedian; Wakeman's Gypsies, vocalists; and the Empire pictures are all well received.

HIPPODROME.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. S. T. Smarthwaite.—Capital business is doing at the "Hip.," where an attractive programme of pictures is presented. Variety is given to the entertainment by the very acceptable performance of Captain Permane's live Teddy bears.

MORLEY.—ALEXANDRA PALACE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Tom Diacoff.—Mlle. Athelda, the bright particular star this week, evokes warm admiration with her exhibition of classical poses; Gracie O'Neill is an expert dancer; and Fallows and Beaumont, quick-change artists, come in for a large share of applause. The pictures are also well appreciated.

MOTHERWELL.—NEW CENTURY THEATRE.—Business-Manager, Mr. Ernest Wright.—Mr. Edmund Tearle, Miss Kate Clinton, and company are here in a series of plays, and on Monday opened with Jeanie Deans. In the name part Miss Clinton has ample opportunity for displaying her undoubted histrionic ability; Effie Deans is effectively played by Miss Mary Campbell; and the Madge Wildfire of Miss N. Blackwood calls for special praise; Geordie Robertson is well personified in the person of Mr. Ernest Lodge; very quaint and amusing is the Dumbredykes of Mr. P. P. Millar; Mr. Tearle is seen and heard to advantage as counsel for the defence. The minor parts are well sustained. Macbeth, The Merchant of Venice, and A Lion's Heart are the other plays billed.

NEATH.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Leon Vint; Manager, Mr. Arthur Noice; Musical-Director, Mr. G. T. Hutchins.—Mr. Wilson Benge's company is here this week in The Sinner. Mr. Benge plays Mark Stretton with distinction; Mr. Arthur E. Pringle is well placed as Edgar Thornbill; Mr. Louis Lingard as Paul Levaine is successful; Mr. Ben Carr is a typical Bill Stanton; Mr. Sydney P. Clewlow is well suited to the part of Jim Stephens; Mr. Jay Kay is excellent as Chris, Floppington; Mr. Chas. Digby acquits himself favourably as Lord Ewen; as does also Mr. Harold Playfair as Jack Ewen. Mr. Bert Roberts is good as Farmer Hellam; Mr. George Loreno does well as Georgie McGregor; Mr. Chas. Mann scores as chauffeur to Mark Stretton; as Detective Jason Mr. G. Kennard gives a good study; and Mr. T. E. Thomas proves a smart Sergeant Butcher. Miss Dora Mason gives a charming delineation of Nora Stretton; Miss Dora Olga submits a clever portrayal of Little Ned; Miss Pauline Nanton gives a distinguished performance of Vera Ewen; and Miss Mona Grey is an excellent Meg Stanton.

PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Leon Vint; Manager, Mr. Arthur Noice; Musical-Director, Mr. Chas. Thorne.—Chief among an excellent series of pictures this week are The Miser's Daughter, His Child's Capture, Colonel at Twenty-five. In a tour through Brittany many interesting scenes are witnessed. Rhode and Roache are an interesting couple, in singing, dancing, and contortion. The clever Welsh comedian Maddison is amusing.

NELSON.—PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Benson; Manager, Mr. J. S. Livesey.—An attractive holiday programme includes as star turn W. T. Ellwanger and company in an American absurdity Who Did It? The Havannas troupe give a clever acrobatic performance; Bennett and Martell present their eccentric act The Shipwrecked Mariners; Evelyn and Lorrie appear in a well-staged production entitled Set a Thief; and Louis J. Seymour proves a popular comedian. The bill also includes Flake White, lightning cartoonist and painter, and Lily and Harry Zanioni, jugglers and club throwers.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. W. C. Horner; Manager, Mr. Parker.—Claudian is the attraction here. In the title-rôle Mr. Wm. Maclaren shows fine histrionic skill, making the character a real live one. He is ably assisted by Miss L. C. Badmann, whose impersonation of Almida is as charming as it is clever. The company is a strong one, and includes Mr. F. O. Chambers as the Tetrarch, Mr. C. T. Chaloner as Belos, and Mr. Douglas Earle as Agazie. Mr. Weston Hubbard makes a capable exponent of Alcares, and the character of Edessa is cleverly created by Miss Maud Garth. The earthquake scene is very realistic. In the prologue the curse is very finely spoken by Mr. W. Lawrence. Miss Amy Hardcastle gives a touching impersonation of Serena, the slave, and Mr. B. Mitchell is a capable exponent of Theorus.

NEW BRIGHTON.—WINTER GARDENS.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Jones and Douglass.—A very fine vaudeville programme is submitted here, and great successes have been achieved by Mr. Tom Jones, Welsh comedian; Messrs. Blake and Granby, in farcical sketch, The System; and the Scottish Meisters, in vocal extravaganza. Fun and music is supplied by Seeley, West, and Rhodesia, whilst the Weltman Brothers are wonderful whirlwind dancers. Mr. John Cecil sings acceptably, and the pictures are first-class.

TOWER.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. R. H. Dairy.—Animated pictures and variety turns make up the bill in the theatre. A "Territorial Night" in the Ballroom was announced for Thursday.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Adeler Sutton and Allandale.—The Anglo-Indians are here, the company consisting of Mr. J. Watson, Miss Ethel James, Mr. Blanco White, Mr. C. Corale, Miss Fisher, and Mr. Jackson Collis. In addition Mr. Jack Hughes, Mr. W. Burnand, Mr. Archie Glen, and Miss Sparkes appear.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. Teale Lingham.—Mr. Cyril Maude's company, in Sir Walter Raleigh, opened here on Monday. The imperious Queen Elizabeth finds a finished exponent in Miss Winifred Emery, who infuses a great amount of power into the difficult part; the title-rôle is rendered in a convincing fashion by Mr. Lyn Harding; Miss Nell Carter submits an effective impersonation of Elizabeth Frogmorton; praise must be accorded to Mr. Percy Rhodes for his clever performance as the arch-conspirator Don Bernardo de Mendoza; the Earl of Essex is efficiently sustained by Mr. Percy Marmont; and Mr. Mark Paton is seen to advantage as Father Ballard. Mr. Charles Francis makes the most of his opportunities as Francis Frogmorton; and the same may be said of Mr. W. E. Holloway as John Savage and Mr. Powis Pinder as James Longbowe.

TYNE THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessees, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham; Manager, Mr. Fred C. Sutcliffe.—Mr. George Edwardes' company is here in Our Miss Gibbs. Miss Carrie Moore is charming in the title-rôle, her vocalism captivating all; Miss Nancy Hervyn plays Mme. Jeanne with chic and vivacity; Miss Grace Wixon as the Duchess of Minster, Miss Olive Moore as Lady Elizabeth Thanet, and Miss Kitty Cavendish as Mrs. Farquhar add greatly to the enjoyment by their clever impersonations; Mr. George Gregory is responsible for most of the fun in his quaint rendition of the Yorkshireman Timothy Gibbs; Mr. Frank Hector's impersonation of the Hon. Pierpoint is worthy of special praise; and Mr. H. V. Cropton makes an excellent Lord Eynsford. Mr. Myles Clifton scores as the Earl of St. Ives; whilst the Slithers of Mr. Leslie Gaye could not well be improved upon. Miss Florence Phillips introduces a solo dance, which is appreciated.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. W. Rowe; Business-Manager, Mr. Edwin Clark.—Mr. Walter Melville's company, in The Beggar Girl's Wedding, is a powerful attraction here this week. Miss Muriel Dean's clever rendition of the title-rôle wins approval; whilst the Jack Cunningham of Mr. Norman B. Cannon is excellent. Mr. William T. Ridley cleverly enacts Gilbert Lindsay; and the vindictive Maud Villiars is admirably portrayed by Miss Ernestine Walter. The Elsie Cunningham of Miss Sybil Hare is beyond reproach; and the same may be said of Miss Linda Riley as the slavey. Messrs. Fred Hodson, Frank McClellan, Wilford Bayley, E. D. Carlyle, Charles Barclay, and Herbert Goddard ably fill their respective rôles. The piece is admirably staged.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Manager, Mr. W. P. Wells; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. W. Kilgour.—Tom Foy and company are paying a welcome visit here their week, their absurdity First of April being particularly droll; Ada Colley, the popular Australian vocalist, is responsible for a capital contribution, her extensive répertoire including "L'oiseau d'amour"; Severus Schaffer is a juggler and equilibrist of exceptional ability; the Cavalotti Brothers are seen to advantage in their unique musical act; Cissie Cudlette is a charming mimetic vocalist; Sanford and Lyons, comedians, have a budget of good and amusing patter; Happy Tom Parker, the jovial comedian, is popular; the Rawsons are clever entertainers; Johnny Danvers is a comedian and dancer of considerable ability. The Bioscope concludes.

PAVILION.—Proprietors, The Newcastle-on-Tyne Pavilion, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Frank D. Todd.—William Mollison and company are paying a successful visit here this week in The Touch of the Child. Mr. Mollison scores a great success as Colonel James Fullard; and Mr. Archie W. Chappel is an admirable Captain. Miss Evelyn McNay and Miss Jeannie Fitzgerald ably fill their respective rôles; Madge Grey, the Lancashire comedienne, receives a cordial reception; Macon and Bart electrify the audience by their clever comedy gymnastic act; Edie Endon is a comedienne and dancer of ability; the Three Pirmans provide a capital novelty gymnastic act; Karr and Kooney are two smart patter comedians; the Twelve Kennedy Girls are responsible for an exceptionally smart vocal and dancing act; Violet King is a clever entertainer at the piano; and Wall Langtry is a dialect comedian of no mean order. There is a good show of pictures.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. F. W. Bolam; General-Manager, Mr. R. G Elder; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. E. Linney.—An attractive series of animated pictures is being shown at this theatre, which has now abandoned the two-shows-a-night system. Chief amongst the films are A Wireless Romance, A Village Love Story, and 'Mid Cannon Roar. Maggie Dobson is a sweet and cultured soprano; and the Richards Trio appear in their eccentric acrobatic act.

BRINKBURN ELECTRIC THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. T. McHary.—Frank Stanert, comedian, is paying a successful visit here, and is supported by an excellent picture programme.

NORTHAMPTON. — TEMPERANCE HALL. — Andrews' Pictures, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Frank Lyndon.—Some attractive pictures are shown this week, including A Child's Faith, The Majesty of the Law, and The Fire Chief's Daughter, with some humorous films. Mr. Frank Power's singing of "When the autumn leaves are falling" and "A message from home, sweet home," is appreciated.

COUNTY ELECTRIC PAVILION.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. Lyle Edwards.—The pick of the pictures this week is The Lake of Lugano. A Flash of Light, The Love of Chrysanthemum, and The Rake's Romance are good dramatics; whilst Foolshead in the Lion's Den is a funny comic.

PICTURE PALACE.—Proprietors, Messrs. J. F. Bentley; General-Manager, Mr. J. W. Borrowman.—The principal films here are The House on the Hill, The Call of the Blood, The Minotaur, and The Cowboy's Sweetheart. A Pennyworth of Potatoes is a good comic.

NORTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—How Girls are Brought to Ruin is presented here by Mr. Morton Powell's company. As Jessie Burton Miss Alice Defoe is worthy of praise; Mrs. Morton Powell makes an excellent Winnie Waters; Miss Jeannie Risley a good Lucy Lawton; Miss Kathryne Eckhart scores a success as Mrs. Burton; and Miss Addie Adair makes a satisfactory Mrs. Stutt; as Harry Hailing Mr. Harry Scott gives a capital performance; Mr. Sydney Bryant is clever as Jack Jossle; Mr. Alaric Burton distinguishes himself as Solomon Sleek; and Mr. Richard Vane gives a skilful portrayal of Philip Edge.

CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. William Mould.—Heading a good bill here are Alice Hughes and company in the sketch The Star of the Bazaar; Tom Payne introduces a clever musical act, and adds to his popularity; Lilly Esplin, comedienne, is a great favourite; Hall and Lall, in their musical and ventriloquial act, are heartily greeted; and Ferry and Foster, in The Camera Girl and Her Rival; and Frank Scott, character comedian, and the Bioscope contribute with success to the programme.

NORWICH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Manager, Mr. Fred Morgan.—Miss Annie Hughes and her company occupy the boards this week in Miss Tommy. Miss Hughes gives a pleasing representation of Jane, and is greeted with warm marks of approbation; Mr. Henry Deas is an excellent Dick Danvers; Mr. Mayne Lynton a successful Peter Hope, Mr. Fred A. Marston an able William Clodd; Mr. Ernest Kendrick an amusing office boy; and Miss Winifred Pearson a clever Mrs. Morrison; Miss Vera Pole doing well as Honor. The piece is preceded by a farce entitled The Parting Guest.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. Councillor F. W. Fitt.—The programme this week contains the names of Friend and Downing, who, in their original characters, Rosenthal and Harrigan, convulse the audience with laughter; the Bellong Brothers, cycle equilibrists, give an exhibition of real merit; Katie Butler as a comedienne gets a rousing reception; Bromley and Fontein, in their novelty speciality, The Man Behind the Music Stand, are humorous; the Brothers Werd, knock-about acrobats, create much fun; Charles Vincent is a capital comedian; Madge Brownie, a dainty Dutch impersonator; Norah Desmond is successful in her American picture songs; and the Hippo. Bio. is interesting.

NOTTINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—Under the able direction of Mr. Arthur Hardy, an excellent company produces The Speckled Band here this week. A powerful yet carefully restrained study is that of Mr. C. W. Somerset as Dr. Grimesby Rylott; Miss Alice Leigh is a charming Enid Stonor; and to the part of Sherlock Holmes Mr. Julian Royce brings a wealth of cleverness and experience. Mr. Bellenden Clarke makes a good Dr. Watson; and Miss Adelaide Grace does well as Mrs. Staunton. Deserved applause greets the efforts of Mr. Herbert Vyvyan as Rodgers; Mr. Gerald Rogers is a convincing Indian valet; Mr. E. H. Paterson, in the rôle of Armitage, secures early recognition; and a promising career seems opening before Master James Woodings, who created amusement as Billy.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Harry J. Crane.—From Mill Girl to Millionairess, from the versatile pen of Mrs. Morton Powell, is being well played here. Miss Isla Garnet-Vayne portrays the mill girl in dramatic style; Miss Yhda Moores enacts the malevolent Muriel Marsh with subtlety; Mr. Douglas Murray makes a manly and vigorous Laurence Langdale; Mr. Charles Vivian gives sinister expression to the part of Dr. Levallie; and Mr. J. A. Hybert capitally impersonates Matthew Marsh. Miss Alice N. Livesey offers a capital embodiment of the disreputable Liz Lee; and Miss Lizzie Lennon becomes a general favourite as Tilly.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert C. Duncan.—The principal attraction here is the singing of Madame Fanny Moody and Mr. Charles Manners, who have a great reception. The ventriloquism of Tom Edwards is not only clever, but distinctly humorous; the Grassis supply an entertaining and artistic musical act; Fred Earle's songs are well received; the Violas give an exhibition of thought transmission; Fielding and Hull are entirely successful in their comedy scena; Lola Patey sings pleasantly; and Keene and Adams dance and patter themselves into favour.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and General-Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. F. Miller.—Merian's Canine Actors, presenting a tragi-comedy, A Faithless Wife, cause great amusement; Sid Bedford and company are seen to advantage in the sketch The Second Mrs. Chester; Snowden and Alexander have a genuine mirth-producer is The Football Intruder; the Sisters Florence sing and dance in charming style; Sam Williams proves himself a first-class character comedian; Ethel Ra-Leslie adds much to the enjoyment of patrons; Webb and Branston are the possessors of good voices; the Comedy Meisters are really funny; and the coon singing and dancing of Harold Heath leave nothing to be desired.

NUNEATON.—PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietors, Theatre and Entertainments Co.; Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Brown.—The detective drama Sexton Blake is proving a great attraction here. Mr. Murray Yorke gives a powerful performance of Sexton Blake; Roger Blackburn is ably represented by Mr. Edward McLean; Mr. Paul Barry Lewers acts forcibly as Randolph Lovell, being ably seconded in his despicable schemes by Mr. Sydney Barner as Simon Faggas; Mr. Millar Wilson creates plenty of amusement as Tinker; Marjorie Lovell is charmingly portrayed by Miss Elizabeth Watkins; Miss Poppy H. Asquin makes a lively Euphemia Pattacake; Mr. Lydia Mannington is good as Philadelphia Kate; and the other characters are all well filled.

OLDHAM.—GRAND THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Kilrow.—Mr. Frank Bertram's company presented the new romantic Irish comedy drama, Happy Go-Lucky O'Lyn, which had a capital reception, on Monday. Mr. John Child appeared as Bryan O'Lyn, and his singing and acting of the part was much enjoyed; Miss Anna Hickish as Kathleen sang in a charming manner; Madame Marie Alexander as Aunt Charlotte caused much amusement by her clever work; Miss Josephine Ellis was a smart Mollie Murch; and Miss Hettie Graham a capital Jemima. Mr. Walter B. Nugent filled the rôle of Donald Dunn in a capable manner, his accomplice, Isaac Murch, being effectively acted by Mr. J. G. McMahon. Mr. Reginald Adair as Frank Fentimer sang in a manner which was heartily appreciated.

COLOSSEUM THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Wm. Eastwood.—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Draycott are paying a return visit here in répertoire, The Shaughraun being selected for the opening night. Mr. Draycott played the part of Conn in his usual brisk and merry style; Mrs. Draycott as Claire Ffolliot acted in a dignified and charming manner; and Miss Shirley Dalton as Arte O'Neale was excellent. Miss Nana Flensberg was a dainty Moya; Miss Louise Millward, a typical Mrs. O'Kelly; Mr. J. Dobson Clyde made a manly Robert Ffolliot; Mr. St. John Stuart, an interesting Capt. Molineaux; Mr. Clinton Baddeley, a villainous Corry Kinchela; and Harvey Duff was ably acted by Mr. Joseph Magrath. The bill also includes The Octoroon, A Modern Adventuress, and East Lynne.

EMPIRE THEATRE. — General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hulme.—Miss Hilda Beverley and company are here with a new mystical drama, A Woman of Two Lives. Miss Beverley, in the dual rôle of Miss Angela Fenton and Ogarita, depicted the varied emotions of the two characters in a clever manner; Miss Mary Brammer was fully equal to the part of Drandandi Lares; and Miss Louise Gilmore made a dignified Lady Arabella. Miss Dorothy Hildebrande, a capital Lottie London, with Mr. E. Hall Eldon as Dick Smarter, caused much laughter; Mr. Herbert Pearson, as Capt. Travers West, acted in an excellent manner; and Lieut. Lord Tremaine was ably played by Mr. Jack Armitage.

ROYAL THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. R. Leach.—The Fire Chief's Daughter is a most thrilling dramatic picture; and The Purgation is well depicted. A very interesting film is shown of Italy's Flying Artillery.

HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge.—The programme here is again good, including A Further Exploit of Muggins, V.C., What the Daisy Said, and others. A Fall in Tar, The Card Sharpers, and Pathé's Journal are also included. Mr. Harold Burt is the newly appointed manager.

OXFORD.—NEW THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. C. C. Dorrill; Assistant-Manager, Mr. G. T. Lucas.—Milton Bode's variety season here continues its successful career. This week's programme is again a strong one, and was received with the utmost favour by a good house on Monday. Included in it are Edie Anderson, a taking comedienne and dancer; Albert Rees, a decidedly clever drawing-room entertainer; Alpho, the sleeping ventriloquial college boy; the Musical Marvels, who score a big success as vocalists and eccentric instrumentalists; Johnson and Hart, clever hoop rollers and juggl.ers; Alf Brookes, a most humorous and laughter-provoking comedian; and the Five Jolly Bakers, in their decidedly clever comedy Risley act, The Bakers' Beano. The Premier Imperial Pictures complete a programme that gives universal satisfaction.

EAST OXFORD THEATRE.—Lessees, East Oxford Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Stuart.—An especially attractive bill is provided here this week by Mr. Stephen Pritt's company, including Miss Lydia Donovan, in Almost His Bride, East Lynne, and A Woman's Passion. In the first-named play Mr. Stephen Pritt bears the brunt of the acting as Simon Simson, and sustains the character with pronounced success; Mr. Ridgewood Barrie as Squire Rowland; Mr. Morris Maud as Philip Rowland, and Mr. C. Quinton Fulford as Jasper Thorne all render valuable assistance in their respective parts; Miss May Neilson supplies the necessary comedy as Emma Baxter; Miss Sophie Reiss gives a very sympathetic portrayal of Ruth Gilchrist; while Miss Kathleen Stewart is a very captivating and capable Mona Gilchrist. Miss Lydia Donovan enacts Myra Thorne with her customary skill. All the minor characters are well played.

PAISLEY.—PAISLEY THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile.—Mr. Chalmers Mackey's company, in The Wearin' o' the Green, is here this week. Mr. Mackey gives a delightful and characteristic impersonation of Barney O'Hea; Shamus McDermott is faithfully portrayed by Mr. J. P. McBride; Mr. Conway Hastings skilfully enacts the part of Connor Martin; Mr. Fred Charles as Sir George Courtney is admirable; Mr. Morley Carroll furnishes an excellent study of Michael Kenny; as Gerald Courtney Mr. Charles M. Julian gives a praiseworthy embodiment; and Mr. John Neville as Sergeant Yorke, Mr. Joseph Healy as James Weever, Mr. George Danson as William Shuttleton, and Mr. George Paradise as Mick Dolan lend excellent support. Miss May Livesey makes a vivacious Biddy McGinn; Mrs. McDermott has a capable exponent in Miss Jeanette Lyons; Mrs. Chalmers Mackey essays with considerable success the part of Norah McGrath; and meritorious are the performances of Miss Nora Desmond as Ellen Fitzgerald, Miss Nellie Moore as Edith Anstruther, and Miss Mona Russell as Gladys Anstruther.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H Bostock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jack R. Bostock.—Chief place on the programme is allotted this week to the Achmed Ibraham Troupe, ten in number, whose clever and exciting acrobatic performance is keenly appreciated; Fred Elton, in his scena On Board an Ocean Liner is loudly applauded; Yettmah and the Japanese lady O-Sasa San contribute a marvellous conjuring exhibition; and others who captivate are Fred Barnes, in his latest songs; the Columbia Comedy Trio, eccentric comedy vocalists; Horace Horner, versatile dancer; Rose Gower, chorus vocalist; Maclaine and Mack, Scotch entertainers; and the Hippodrome Bioscope both interests and instructs.

TOWN HALL.—Proprietors, the Magistrates and Council.—"Wullie" Frame, the popular Scotch comedian, on Saturday evening delighted a vast audience by his irresistible mirth and fun. The company supporting him was of all-round excellence.

PENTRE.—TIVOLI.—Lessee, Mr. Will Stone; Resident-Manager, Mr. James Gunn.—Messrs. Santé's company, in The Life of a Showman, is here this week. The cast is a good one, every rôle being represented satisfactorily. Specialities are given by Jose Santé, violinist; Bros. Testo, Pickard and West, and the Human Snake.

WORKMEN'S HALL.—Manager, Mr. H. Salway.—The films shown here include Bad Man's Last Deed, Not Guilty, and A Girl from Arizona. Cliff and Kean give an acceptable singing and dancing act, and the Eldras in a canine acrobatic act win applause.

PERTH.—PERTH THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Saville; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. Aldridge.—Mr. Leigh Lovel, Miss Octavia Kenmore, and company are presenting three Ibsen dramas here this week. On Monday A Doll's House was staged, and the company is to be congratulated. Miss Octavia Kenmore as Nora Helmar plays with a sincerity that makes the character live; Mr. Leigh Lovel is equally successful as Torvald Helmar; and Miss Katharine Maynard, Miss Sybil Greig, Miss Daisy Race, Mr. Claude W. Sykes, and Mr. Pennington-Gush complete a good cast. The Master Builder and Hedda Gabler are also being presented PETERBOROUGH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. A. Darville Vernon.—Mr. Charles Harrington's American combination is here with Uncle Tom's Cabin. Mr. J. H. Boehm makes a capable Uncle Tom; Mr. Terence Nerrey a successful Phineas Fletcher; Mr. Frank Lynne in the part of Mr. St. Clair is most satisfactory; Mr. Eric Williams and Miss Sylvia Harrington play acceptably as George and Eliza; and Topsy and Little Eva find suitable representatives in Miss Annie Watson and Miss Norah Bretton; Mr. Reginald Kloof as Lawyer Marks is effective; and Miss J. Green makes a fine Aunt Chloe.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Fred Karno; Manager, Mr. Percy Hart.—Fred Karno's comedians, in Mumming Birds and Early Birds, provoke roars of laughter; Adela Masson's songs are heartily applauded; Jack Sawyer is very amusing; Freda Fern is a dainty comedienne; Jack Madden performs some wonderful jumping feats; and the Karnoscope shows new films.

PLYMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. Langdon Lee.—Mr. F. R. Benson's company gave a brilliant performance of The Merry Wives of Windsor here on Monday. As Sir John Falstaff Mr. Henry Herbert is "immense"; Mr. F. Wicksteed is responsible for some fine work as Shallow; and the Slender of Mr. H. S. Cohen could hardly be improved on; Mr. Andrew Leigh is quite at home as Dr. Caius; and the parts of Mr. Ford and Mr. Page are in the capable hands of Messrs. Charles Warburton and Duncan Yarrow; Miss Gladys Vandermee is a pronounced success as Mistress Ford; Miss Mollie Lloyd ably portrays Mrs. Page; Miss Rosalind Grey is a fascinating Anne Page; and Miss Hope Grant well delineates Mrs. Quickly. During the week the following pieces have been presented: The Tempest, The Taming of the Shrew, As You Like It, Hamlet, She Stoops to Conquer, and King Lear.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. Jack Field.—Eduard José, in an English version of Mr. F. Coppée's The Strike, does a wonderful piece of character-acting here; the Comedy Chanters are responsible for some excellent harmony and genuine comic business; Graham and his Music Hall are interesting links with bygone days, the marionette portrayals of well-known characters proving very popular; Larola does some wonderful feats of juggling; the Concoran Bros. are heard to advantage in some attractive instrumental numbers; and Rose Cabani is a dainty vocalist and dancer.

PONTEFRACT.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee, Mr. George Tankard. — Mr. Ernest Ch. Gittins' talented company, in The Daughter of the Regiment, occupies the first place in the programme. Mlle. Adele Prescott makes a charming Marie, and is ably supported by Mr. Tom Wood as the "sergeant," and other members of the company. Miss Florence Raymond, ventriloquist, gives a highly humorous and refined performance in the Nursery; Mr. John Cronow, a quick change artist, impersonates with lifelike accuracy a number of well-known historical figures; Mr. Tom N. Mills appears in his scena, John Bull at Home, with merited success; Little Ivy Francis is a clever child vocalist and dancer; and Will Challiner, the copper-coloured coon, gains favour for his songs and dances; Moy, assisted by Mlle. Delro, is a sleight-of-hand entertainer and illusionist. The Alexscope concludes the bill.

PORTH.—PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. W. Smithson; Manager, Mr. J. W. Bynorth.—Mr. Harry Foxwell's company in A Broken Heart is the attraction here. John Barnard is convincingly played by Mr. J. S. Millward; Mr. Denis Hogan strongly emphasises the part of Stephen Raylton; Mr. George Addison as the Rev. Mr. Stainton is excellent; George Harris is admirably played by Mr. Hugh Alexander; Mary Barnard is invested by Miss Dorothy Haig with considerable feeling and emotion; Miss Dorothy Frances, Miss Mamie Thorpe, Miss Ethel Gray, and Miss Cissie Skeldon also furnish excellent impersonations. The drama is well mounted.

PORTSMOUTH.

Nellie Clyde as Nan, the "flower-girl," Mr. Will Macready as John Biddlecombe, and Mr. J. W. Wilkinson as old Jenkinson.

RADCLIFFE.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Testo Santé; Acting-Manager, Mr. James Boothman.—Mr. R. Nightingale's company, in The Hindoo and the Maid, is proving unusually attractive. Mr. Horace Buckley as Chicks is a big success; Mr. Lauri Howard as Thistles also does good work; Mr. Arthur Britton handles the part of Captain Heritage in a capable manner; and Mr. Fred Watson does well as Mr. Stubbs. Mr. Johnny Johnston is exceptionally strong as Ernest Travers; Miss Kitty Vernum deserves warm praise as Primrose; and Miss Nell Ingram does useful work as Eliza. The dancing of the Sisters Valerie is well worthy of mention.

RAMSGATE.—ROYAL VICTORIA THEATRE AND PAVILION.—Lessee, Mr. T. R. Price; Entertainment-Manager, Mr. C. Price.—Mr. Murray King and company are here this week (the last of the dramatic season at the "Pav.") in the bright musical show A Bedouin Beauty. Mr. King is extremely amusing as Smith, the keeper of the camels, and Mr. Walter Brodie proves himself a most acceptable comedian as Abdullah. Mr. F. Maxwell Stewart, the well-known tenor, also figures in the cast, and Miss Marjorie Maxwell charmingly plays the title-part. Next week the skating season commences.

ROYAL PALACE THEATRE.—Under the sole direction of Mr. Charles Evans; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Bowman.—Large audiences have assembled this week to see the exciting play The World, the Flesh, and the Devil. Mr. Laurence Tessier is a fine, healthy villain as Nicholas Brophy, an unscrupulous lawyer, and all the other parts are capably handled by the ladies and gentlemen to whom their presentation is entrusted. The staging of the drama is in all respects excellent.

READING.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. A. Evans.—The new farcical comedy Looking for Trouble is being presented here by Mr. Robert Arthur and Mr. L. Cowen. The play is another Charley's Aunt, and is quite as amusing as that phenomenally successful comedy. Mr. George Ingleton as Angus Macpherson is the life and soul of the piece, his masquerading in female attire and droll acting throughout causing immense diversion. Mr. Fred Grove as the irascible and match-making Pierpoint Porches is highly amusing; Mr. Warburton Gamble plays capitally as Captain Porches, his disguise in an old suit of his father's creating much mystification and amusement; Mr. C. Fancourt as Bethel Petch, Mr. Frank Tennant as Charles Bracebridge, and Mr. Frank Attree as the Butler, all sustain their parts well. Miss Gillian Scaife is a very attractive representative of Mrs. Bellingham; Miss Rhoda Beresford is successful as Silvia Porches; and Miss Barbara Huntley plays well as Mrs. K. C. Porches. The play is preceded by a short piece entitled Two Men and a Woman, which is being played for the first time in public, and is described in another column.

THE PALACE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. Howard Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Curline Baldry; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. Burridge. — Alice Pierce gives a splendid series of impressions of Star Actresses of dramatic and musical comedy; Lotto, Lilo, and Otto give an exceedingly clever turn as trick and comedy cyclists; the Sisters Allen sing and dance well; Flo Burnett is a good vocalist; Harvey and Jesson excel as comedians and dancers; Mr. Fred Sheppard sings two funny songs; Ada Cerito is an acceptable comedian; and Herbert Terry and company produce an effective dramatic sketch entitled Wanted, which deals with a story of the North-West Mounted Police on the Canadian prairies.

REDDITCH.—PUBLIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. T. E. Field.—Two performances of A Thief in the Night were given here on the 9th and 10th, under the direction of Mr. Charles Roadnight, for Miss Maggie Morton. Mr. Tom Leeson (Lord Romily), Mr. Ernest Duval (Aller Escombe), Mr. W. Owen (Toby), Mr. Gerald Rogers (Croke), and the ladies, Mesdames Ainslie, Lowther, Grahame, Gardner, and Levoy, all are worthy of notice.

RHYL.—NEW PAVILION.—Lessees, Messrs. Baring Bros.; Manager, Mr. J. Millard.—"The Villagers" make their first appearance here, and are most successful. The company includes Irene Marriot, soprano; Edith Cooper, in songs and recitations; Trefelyn David, the Welsh tenor; Rowland Foster, basso; Rob Fox, Scotch character comedian; and Stanley Goddard, society entertainer.

HERR HAMBOURG'S Russian orchestra, two concerts daily, are well patronised.

OLYMPIAN GARDENS.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler, Sutton, and Allandale.—An attractive programme is headed by Vere and Nelldon, comedy duettists; Barney Stuart's clever impersonations are greatly enjoyed; and Ethel Dunford's songs at the piano are also popular. Joe Dale, Jock Barker, and Alf. Johnson are smart comedians, and Marie Leigh is a pleasing soprano.

PIER AMPHITHEATRE.—Sidney James' Royal Strolling Players pay a welcome return visit. The company is the same as on the previous occasion, and their bright entertainment is very popular.

RUNCORN.—PUBLIC HALL.—Lessees, Messrs. Hamilton and Hughes.—There is an excellent programme here this week. The Four Scoreys present an enjoyable musical mélange; Miss May Mignion captivates with refined vocalism and expert dancing; Owens and Willis, comedians, patter in an amusing way; and Tessman, with performing donkey and educated goats, gives a capital performance. The pictures comprise The Twisted Trail, A Knot in the Plot, Father Buys a Cheap Goose, Tontolino as Sharpshooter, Horse Show at the Olympia, London, and Stuff Americans Are Made Of.

SALFORD.—PRINCE OF WALES'S.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—Mr. John F. Preston's company in Secrets — — — is here this week. Mr. Ernest R. Allen made a fine Lieut. Herbert Markham, and his friend, the Hon. Cecil Cholmondeley, had an excellent representative in Mr. Dan F. Roe; Mr. Geo. Scully as Peter Wilkins, and Miss Jenny Hackett as Winnie Wilkins, with Kirkbach's Tivoli Troupe of Continental Dancers, kept the fun rolling; Miss Marie Barrett as Ismalia Meleda made a charming heroine; Zulieka was in the capable hands of Miss M. Kymersley; Miss Lucie Glenville was an amusing Kassi Ki; Mr. John Richter was well placed as Noureddin Ali; while good support was extended by Mr. A. Hartley (Ibrahim), Mr. W. Macready (Kara Mustapha), Mr. Ken Bulkeley (Breezy Bill), and the other members.

REGENT THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Secretary, Mr. R. H. Lee.—On Sunday last the usual concert in aid of the Lifeboat Saturday Fund was held, when the Mayor of Salford presided. This week's programme is headed by the Geni Family of Continental risley acrobats; Selvidge and Holland (Bob and Poppy), in A Dotted Crotchet; Reg. Bolton, in The Editor's Imp; and Corbin's dogs. Other acceptable turns include the Westbrooks, in Two Little Maids from School; Denby and Dent, comedians; Victoria Cross, Scotch comedienne; and Sisters Dudley, operatic vocalists.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; General-Manager, Mr. H. Winstanley; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. J. Boyle.—Vulcana and Atlas do some heavy lifting, &c., which is much appreciated; Metz and Metz (Arthur and Jack) sing, dance, and patter into favour; Beauty and the Burglar is an episode well presented by Miss Millie Engler, Mr. T. W. Watts, and Miss Louie Tinsley. Clever business is also done by Ruter's Comedy Football Dogs; Alice Edwards, male impersonator; Michael Malden, comedian; Four Miovskys, eccentric acrobats, &c.; and Kendrick and Laura, in harmony comedy and eccentric dancing act.

OPERA HOUSE AND ASSEMBLY ROOMS, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; General-Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Shepherd.—The Regent new animated pictures this week include The White Squaw, Victim of Jealousy, Good Liqueurs, and Pathé's world's events. Mr. Tom Sherlock has some illustrated songs, which go well.

CENTRAL HALL (Blackfriars-road).—Proprietors, Messrs. Matt Raymond Co.—The Raymond pictures are Apache Red Indians' Gold, Father Buys a Chimney, Two Cowards, A Generous Woman, Lucky Miss, Mario's Swan Song, Holiday Episode, &c., interspersed by songs by Mr. George Leaverne.

NEW CENTRAL HALL (Pendleton).—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Thos. Whiteley. — The world-on-wings pictures this week include Wheels of Justice, Bully and the Recruit, Betty's Choice, Duelling Up to Date, and a sensational drama of A Duel in the Air. Next Tuesday, 20th inst., the proceeds of the first show will be devoted to the King Edward's Memorial in aid of the Salford Hospital.

SALISBURY.—COUNTY HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. Arthur Whitehead; Business-Manager, Mr. T. Brinsmead.—Mr. T. C. Wray and Mr. Austin Hurgon's company opened here for two nights on Monday in The Girls of Gottenberg. In the rôle of Max Moddelkopf Mr. "Smith" was a huge success; Prince Otto had a capital exponent in Mr. R. N. Cory; Mr. Jack Leyland looked smart as Albrecht, and the same remark applies to Mr. W. Yaldwin as the General; Mr. Ralph Foster as the Burgomaster and Mr. Tom Squire as Adolph both deserve praise; Mr. Eddie Foy put plenty of "go" into the part of Britti Bottl; Miss Dora Langham as Mitzi looked and acted charmingly; Miss Beryl Vaudrey as Elsa gave a highly-finished performance; and Miss Grace Desmond as Clementine was very successful.

SCARBOROUGH.—LONDESBORO' THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Waddington and Sons; Manager, Mr. J. T. Carpenter.—Mr. George Edwardes's company, in The Merry Widow, is here. Miss Louie Pounds gives a charming interpretation of the title-rôle; Mr. Basil Foster as Prince Danilo and Mr. Lionel Victor as Baron Popoff are exceedingly popular in their respective parts; Mr. Tom Redmond creates much amusement in the part of Nisch; Miss Victoria Sievers gives an excellent rendering of Natalie, her vocal items being greatly appreciated; Mr. Edward McKeown possesses a good voice, which is heard to advantage in the rôle of Vicomte de Jolidon. Other parts are excellently filled by Mr. Somers Bellamy, Mr. Grafton Williams, Miss Gwendoline Brogden, and Mr. Bert Edwards.

THE SPA.—Proprietors, Cliff Bridge Co.; Manager, Mr. H. Chambers.—This being the last week of the outdoor season, Mr. H. G. Amer's Band terminates the season's engagement, after giving the greatest satisfaction throughout. The Walls of Jericho is being excellently played by Mr. Silvanus Dauncey and Mr. Hanworth Browning's company. Mr. Ethelbert Edwards gives a powerful impersonation of Jack Frobisher, and Miss Gwendoline Hay is distinctly successful in the rôle of Lady Alethea. The play is well mounted and some of the dresses are very elaborate.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. L. Garside; Manager, Mr. F. P. Morgan.—From Convent to Throne is presented here by Mr. J. A. Campbell's company. Mr. Aldan Lovett ably impersonates Lieutenant von Hapsburg; Miss Faleri Crespin, Queen of Danubia; Mr. A. F. Stuart, Prince of Carpathia; Mr. W. J. Miller, Prime Minister of Danubia; Miss M. Greyson, Rosella; Mr. T. G. Vane, Lieutenant Otto Felson; and Miss Lissa Young, Casper Jessen.

THE NEW HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock.—The premier position here is occupied by Mr. R. A. Roberts, who appears with distinct success in Cruel Coppinger and Dick Turpin; a very amusing sketch, The Sleepwalker, is presented by Walter Ellis; and good turns are provided by Damerell and Rutland (comedians), the Northcotes, Sisters Terry, and Stuart and Evans.

THE AQUARIUM.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. W. Kitchingman; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. Bench.—The Three Royal Dreadnoughts are proving a big success here; the Brothers Obo are good comedians; Lestree is a clever juggler; the Delroys are entertaining; the Two Lees are responsible for a good musical turn; Tom Joy, comedian, is well received; the Le Cren Trio give a pleasing comedy act; and the Three Coopers score as vocalists and dancers.

SEACOMBE.—KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Jas. Kiernan.—Mr. Edward Compton's company paid a return visit here this week with Davy Garrick, She Stoops to Conquer, A Reformed Rake, The School for Scandal, and Used Up. In the first-named Mr. Compton plays the title-rôle with his accustomed success; Mr. Henry Crocker proves a convincing Alderman Gresham; and Mr. Frank Royde is successful as the Hon. Tom Tallybant. Mr. Charles Stone, Mr. C. Marquand, and Mr. J. W. Austin cause plenty of fun by their humorous personations of Rumbelow, Simkins, and Sowerberry respectively. Miss Marie Russell as Mrs. Rumbelow and Miss Agnes Williams, as Selina, supply amusing characterisations; whilst Miss Rita Sponti sustains admirably the exacting rôle of Violet.

SHEERNESS.—HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. B. Pareezer; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Willerby.—On Monday and the two following evenings Mr. H. G. Dudley Bennett's company presented A Chinese Honeymoon. Miss Gwennie Harcourt is very funny as Fi-Fi; Mr. Will Harman as Mr. Pineapple contributes substantially to the fun; Miss Gertrude Melville gives a clever and vivacious impersonation of Mrs. Pineapple; very graceful is the Princess Soo-Soo of Miss Gladys Ivery; Mr. Rudolph Kloss does admirably as the Emperor; Mr. Leonard May is amusing as the Admiral; Mr. Frank H. Crimp ably sustains the part of Tom Hatherton; and Miss Dora Speakman as the official mother-in-law is capital. Other parts, including that of the Lord Chancellor by Mr. Colin Bryce, are all well filled. The Woman in the Case is billed for the latter part of the week.

SHEFFIELD. — LYCEUM THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—Dramas of the historical-romantic class have a strong hold on the sympathies of Sheffield playgoers, and this, coupled with the personality of Mr. Lewis Waller, a strong company, and magnificent mise-en-scene, has made the visit of Bardelys, the Magnificent, an enormous success. Mr. Waller looks the beau ideal of the resplendent hero of the full-blooded times of Louis XIII., and his acting, marked by characteristic self-restraint suggestive of the hidden fires within, appealed irresistibly to every section of Monday's packed house, the enthusiasm culminating in a perfect ovation at the final fall of the curtain. Miss Madge Titheradge was a graceful and altogether charming representative of Roxalane; Mrs. A. B. Tapping, who as Miss Cowell won the hearts of Sheffielders as leading lady in the Alexandra Stock Company, made an admirable "grande dame" as the Countess, and her acting was distinguished by the finished technique of the true artist. Mr. Herbert Jarman's Louis XIII. was a particularly fine and interesting character study; and Mr. William Haviland, Mr. Alex Thompson, Mr. Reginald Dane, Mr. Cronin Wilson, and Miss Dorothy Dix all submitted commendable impersonations.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. Henfrey Aldred.—Mr. Tom Taylor's company opened to a good audience on Monday in the domestic and pathetic drama Can a Woman be Good? The sympathetic house responded enthusiastically at the finish in the affirmative.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. C. W. Ramsay.—Two Lancashire Lasses in London began a welcome return visit on Monday under the direction of Mr. Sutton Vane. Miss Florence Zillwood, Miss Mabel Coleman, Miss Cissie Bellamy, Mr. Robert Gilbert, Mr. C. Middleton, Mr. T. D. Byron, Mr. Tom Newell, Mr. D. Mining, Mr. F. Irwin, and all the other artists were good in their respective parts.

EMPIRE PALACE.—The Moss' Empires Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar.—Miss Hettie King reappears here this week after her successful American tour, and meets with a cordial reception; Mr. Charles Norton is, as usual, applauded to the echo in his laughable and clever mimetic act Pros. at the Races; Miss Gwennie Hasto is a pretty and talented burlesque artist; the Leonards are two old-established and popular variety entertainers; and the company also includes Mr. Fred Lindsay, the smart manipulator of the stocksman's long whip; the Sisters Pine, talented performers; the Three Menills; the expert Goltz Trio; Mr. Ed. Ford; and the Bioscope with pleasing pictures.

THE HIPPODROME, LTD.—Manager, Mr. Frank Poole.—Darracq, an intrepid motor "circling" adventurer, heads the bill this week; Susie and Protti, clever Continental artists, are great favourites; Mr. Walter Emerson in his song "Mother" is heartily cheered; a fine entertainment is submitted by the talented Wolkowsky Troupe; Mr. Ernie Lotinga, in a funny sketch Her Husband, causes laughter; and others engaged are Miss Aggie Nolan, Miss Madge Osmond, Mr. Josh Dixon, Mr. Julian Mack, and the Keppels in a novel act. Artistic films conclude an attractive programme.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. A. W. Turpin.—This comfortable place of amusement has returned to the "legitimate drama," the opening attraction being Douglas Jerrold's fine old breezy play Black Eye'd Susan, which was acted con amore by the specially selected stock company. Varieties and bioscope scenes conclude the entertainment.

SHREWSBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL AND HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Director, Mr. W. Yates Gregory; General-Manager, Mr. Thos. Baugh.—Mr. Ernest R. Abbott's excellent company is here this week, playing Trilby, Sapho, The Man of Her Choice, and Lady Audley's Secret. The first-mentioned old favourite was admirably performed on Monday. Mr. Ernest R. Abbott acted with power as Svengali; Mr. John Lester was highly efficient as Talbot Wynne; Mr. Edwin Keen made a picturesque and droll Bohemian artist as Alexander McAllister; Mr. Ed. Ouston played with refinement and skill as William Bagot; Mr. Weedon Ross as Gecko acted meritoriously; Mr. Osborne Burgoyne, Dave Carter, and the Six Ceylons.

LUNA PARK AND PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. W. Hilton; Manager, Mr. T. W. Wright; Assistant-Manager, Mr. H. Edwards.—Avis and Desbarre give a bewildering and smart conjuring performance here, which wins repeated applause; Mr. Ben Jackson is a great favourite as a trick soloist and banjo humorist; a daring and skilful trapeze act done by Mlle. Pollo is popular; Meux's Mannikins, representing a miniature music-hall, are decidedly enjoyable; Le Etoile is seen in beautiful poses of many characters; Ford and Maxwell prove jolly comedians and dancers; Miss Connie Duprés as both comedienne and dancer is clever; and Miss Sadie Simpson sings and dances successfully.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. E. Angless.—An exclusive picture programme is being presented twice daily this week, when the London Cinematograph Co. are showing some excellent films of a diversified series, and which prove decidedly enjoyable. Last Friday evening Mr. Peter Hope, the popular baritone of Mr. Finlay Dunn's "Dandies" (of the Pier Hill Bandstand, under the lesseeship of Mr. H. E. Angless) was given a complimentary benefit, when a splendid rally of artists contributed to a lengthy programme.

SOUTHPORT.—OPERA HOUSE AND WINTER GARDENS.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Percy Hutchison; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Clarkson.—The Mountaineers was presented on Monday by Mr. Harry P. Towers' clever company, and met with an enthusiastic reception from a large audience. Mr. Fred Eastman was very prominent as Pierre, the Custom House official, which he depicted with a humour and whimsicality that convulsed the house; Miss Marie Dainton was a charming and piquant representative of Clarice, her vocal numbers and dancing being much admired; Fritz had an admirable exponent in Mr. Edgar Marsden, whose fine baritone voice was heard to great advantage; Mr. Claude Fleming was equally good in the rôle of Conrad, his vocal numbers being artistically rendered; Sergeant Frederico had a smart and commendable exponent in Mr. Leo Sheffield; Mr. Frank Lawton efficiently represented Gustave, and is to be credited with a capital whistling solo; Miss Aida Jonoure was very successful as the elderly spinster Miss Spinifex; and Miss Ida Stratham was a chic and clever impersonator of Annette.

SOUTH SHIELDS. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. John Coulson.—Mr. Gaston Mayer's company is presenting Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch here. Miss Lucy Beaumont makes an ideal Mrs. Wiggs; Miss Hazy is admirably portrayed by Miss Armine Grace; and Mrs. Eichorn and Schultz are finely delineated by Miss Sybil Brooke and Miss Violet Vivian. The rôle of Lovey Mary is well undertaken by Miss Winifred Murray; Mr. Fred Forrest is successful as Hiram Stubbins; and Mr. Harry G. Wright is amusing as H. Hunkerdunkus Jones.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ernest Bridgen.—The Hadj Mahommed Arabs give a clever display of grotesque tumbling; Florrie Gallimore renews her popularity; Franco Piper gives a unique show of twisting, juggling, and spinning banjos, and has a good reception. The Bros. Neill, vocalists, are well liked; Will Johnson and Frank Couch are good singers and patterers. Daisy Martell, a dainty comedian and dancer, and the Bioscope complete an excellent company.

GRAND ELECTRIC THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Wm. Clark.—Jackson and May, trick cyclists, please the audience with a good exhibition here, and the delightful pictures continue to instruct, please, and amuse.

SPENNYMOOR.—CAMBRIDGE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. David Collins.—Geoffrey Langdon's Wife is being presented here by Mr. and Mrs. Percy Brown's company, by arrangement with Miss Marie Dagmar. Mr. Wilson Coleman is successful in the heavy part of Felix Beverley; Mr. Reginald Brown makes a capital Jack Stirling; Mr. Cyril Grier a careful Colonel Miles; Mr. Francis Leslie is an interesting Geoffrey Langdon; Mr. W. Annesley as Arthur Bellairs is a success; Miss Minnie Goepel is an amusing Sweet Nancy; Miss Lelia Drummond as the Honourable Mrs. Sands plays effectively; and Miss Kathleen Magee does well as the heroine.

TIVOLI PICTURE PALACE.—Subjects by the A.B. Picture Company are presented here. Mme. Sims Reeves also appears.

ARCADIA.—Topping the bill here is C. H. Charlton, a clever conjurer; Miss Jessie Lee as a comedienne and dancer is highly appreciated. Pictures of note are Bride of the Haunted Castle, Waiter's Dream, Lover's Stratagem, and Ready in a Minute.

TOWN HALL.—Miss Babs Lloyd, comedienne, tops the bill here. Miss Nellie Boden is good.

ST. HELENS.—THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LTD.—Proprietors, St. Helens Theatre, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. McLeod Loader; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harry E. Johnson.—Mr. Fred Granville's company, in Another Man's Wife, is here. Mr. Stanley Radcliffe takes the part of Carlos de Vergas in capital style; Albert Sinclair acts well as Paul Bernetoff; Mr. Henry Carlisle is excellent as Gilbert Eardsley; Miss Ruth Dockray looks sweet in the part of Maisie Matterson; and Miss Hazel Head displays power as Inez. Miss Ruby Loncraine is successful in the character of Lucia; and Mr. Willie Reid puts life into the part of Sam Smiles.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford, Sley, and Wilmot; Acting-Manager, Mr. Leo Weisker.—Mr. Arthur Roberts and company are delighting fun-lovers here in the laughable act Till Sunday; the Woodwards are smart in their balancing exhibition; Sterling and Love receive much applause for their efforts; Witty Wattie Walton is ever fresh and amusing; Marguerita is a dainty trapeze artist; Queenie May sings with effect; and Jack Easy gives a good turn.

STOCKPORT. — THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Revill.—The Dairymaids has been presented here by Mr. Robert Macdonald and company. Miss Ethel Callanan is a captivating Peggy; Miss Marie Rignold makes a stately Lady Brudenell; Mrs. Pyechase has a capable representative in Miss Rose Edouin; and Miss Edie Martin is highly-amusing and clever as Eliza. Mr. Wm. Spray as Lieut. Sam Brudenell and Mr. Harry Clark as Lieut. Frank Meredith are a pair of mirthful naval officers; Mr. Harry Scaddon acts admirably as Dr. O'Bryne and Mr. Edwin Dodds provides abundant fun as Joe Mivens.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, The Stockport Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.—Park's Eton Boys and Girton Girls, in their vocal scena, head the bill here, and have had a gratifying reception; the Three Romas are clever and graceful gymnasts; J. H. Ellis, comedian, is genuinely funny; the Rangers, cyclists, do many clever tricks; Conan and Doyle are amusing comedians and dancers; Ida Kessanly's troupe of fox terriers are interesting; the Merrions present their vocal and instrumental entertainment with much success; and Gracie Lawn, comedienne and dancer, and Harry Vardon, ventriloquist, are very pleasing.

STOKE-ON-TRENT. — THE HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Will. A. Jackson.—Mr. Carr Loates' company, in the musical comedy drama At the World's Mercy, occupies the boards here this week. Miss Cissie Milford scores in the part of Skittles, the street urchin, and Miss May Wortley plays up to her well as Dot.

STOURBRIDGE.—ALHAMBRA.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Douglas C. Phelps.—The Moxons give a clever exhibition of juggling, and their equilibristic performances meet with much applause; the Eeduns score a big success in their operatic act; whilst the Sisters Valli are good in long-boot and musical numbers. Jones Hope, the singing collier, possesses an excellent tenor voice. The pictures are up to the usual high standard.

SUNDERLAND.—KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. S. F. Davidson; General-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Townrow; Treasurer, Mr. L. Crawford Orr.—Miss Cora Anson's company is presenting Mr. T. W. Robertson's Caste here this week. For the part of Eccles Mr. G. W. Anson has been engaged, and he gives a wonderful study of this exacting character; Miss Ida Phillips is deserving of eulogy for her meritorious work as Esther; Mr. Gerald Vinning submits a fitting portrayal of D'Alroy; and the rôle of Polly is given a pretty rendering by Miss Lydia Busch; Mr. Fred Annerly acts with commendable ease as Captain Hawtry; Mr. Arthur Dennis is good as Sam Gerridge; and Miss Helen Vicary is a dignified Marquise de St. Maur. The piece is preceded by A Quiet Evening.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Dunn.—Messrs. Travis Green and Arthur Hinton's company are playing His Indian Wife here this week. Miss Leila Zillwood does meritorious work as Wild Rose; Miss Emma Litchfield gives a splendid portrayal of Lady Kingsley; Mr. Arthur Hinton gives a masterly performance as Hubert Ainsworth; and Messrs. Travis Green (Lonely Star), Gerald Byrne (White Eagle), and G. Morton Williams (Sir Walter Kingsley) do their work in finished fashion; a clever juvenile is Master Max Gumpert as Lennie; Mr. Graham Winsford is a villainous Wolfsfang; and the humour is in the hands of Mr. Ted Squires, Misses Laura Wright and Nellie Richmond.

AVENUE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—Nellie Nora is making a hit here this week as an instrumentalist, and is recalled; Little Ella does some excellent mimicry; and Doris Snowden is an acceptable comedienne. The pictures are up to the theatre's usual high standard.

PALACE THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. A. G. Hamilton.—Haley's Twenty Juveniles are here with graceful dancing and charming vocalism, and are much admired; the Three Alskarnos are good in an acrobatic act. The pictures include a capital humorous item, Davy Jones' Landlady, which causes hilarity.

EMPIRE THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—Miss Ella Retford is here this week with her smartly rendered and attractive songs and dances; Rose and Calvert, comedy duo, present a farcical turn with success; Abel and Welsh give an acrobatic act full of humour; Earle and Melville are popular comedians and clever dancers; Culpit submits a humorous conjuring turn; and Bert Weston, comedian, is also a favourite; the Six Lancashire Lasses give a clever vocal and dancing act; the Mezzettis do some clever horizontal bar work.

SWINDON.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Wiltshire Entertainments Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Manners.—Mr. T. Edward Ward's company opened the week with His Real Wife. Trilby was announced for Friday.

TODMORDEN.—HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Richard Dewhirst.—Mother is being presented here this week by Mr. J. O. Stewart and company. Mr. J. O. Stewart furnishes a skilful impersonation of Duncan Fairweather; a powerful interpretation of Frank Rodney is contributed by Mr. A. J. Haviland; Miss N. Thorne Hallam is a charming Nell Fairweather; the rôle of Stephen Carrington is in the safe hands of Mr. L. Harrison; Mr. Cecil H. Raymond supplies a humorous impersonation of Tommy Noblets, being ably assisted by Miss Phillis Vaughan as Polly Crumpet. Miss Kathleen Hunt is a good Mrs. Bagot; Mr. Will Beasley's impersonation of Jaspar Rawden does him credit; and Miss Emilie Entwistle is an excellent Little May.

OLYMPIA PICTURE PALACE.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs. A. and H. Andrews; Manager, Mr. Charles Tyers.—Some attractive pictures are shown this week. Mr. Chas. Tyers contributes two songs.

TONYPANDY.—ROYAL.—General-Manager, Mr. Sam Duckworth.—Mr. C. Watson Mill's company is here in A Wrecker of Men. Jem Murley is well played by Mr. Arthur Pitt; and the Pharosaphus of Mr. W. Ledger is a clever representation; Mr. B. Bosco is capitally suited as Railton; Guise Strange is suitably represented by Mr. J. Willowby; and Mr. Jno. Alexander is praiseworthy as the Hon. Reggie Verincourt; Miss Ruth Millwood deserves high praise as Resca Mallinson; and the Marion Isaacs of Miss Cyril Frame is sympathetic.

HIPPODROME.—Lessees, the Tonypandy Hippodrome Co.; General-Manager, Mr. D. Taylor.—First here come the Avrigny Trio of Japanese jugglers; while Fame and Fortune score well; Max Montesole successfully presents Even Money on the Garter; Leon and Tee, in a comedy musical act, create much laughter; Will and Rose are smart and eccentric comedy artists; and Morris and Moore, the Arnolds, the Sisters Robertson, and George Don all add materially to the general success.

EMPIRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Jno. Young.—Mr. Frank Lister, in an original dramatic sketch, is a great attraction here; Binns and Binns, comedy duo, are well received; as also are Mackintosh and Royal dancers; Alcide Capitaine presents a remarkably clever trapeze act; the Phœnix Trio, Gladys Soman, and Jack Holland all have excellent receptions.

TORQUAY. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Licensee and Managing-Director, Alderman W. H. Mortimer; Secretary, Mr. Arthur Pearse.—Messrs. T. C. Wray and Austen Hurgon's company with The Girls of Gottenberg is proving a great attraction here. Miss Dora Langham presents a charming picture as Mitzi, and her singing and dancing instal her a favourite; Miss Beryl Vaudrey makes a delightful and winsome Elsa, and Miss Melba Sharrott an attractive Katrina. In the part of Clementine Miss Grace Desmond does very well, and Mr. Tom Squires is well placed as Adolph; Mr. R. N. Cory carefully handles the character of Prince Otto, and proves his vocal capabilities; Mr. Eddie Foy is an amusing Britl Bottl, but to the efforts of "Smith" as Max Moddlekopf the success of the piece is largely due, his amusing antics and patter arousing unlimited merriment. The chorus and augmented orchestra is under the direction of Mr. Edmund Petersen.

PRINCESS PIER CONCERT HALL.—Proprietors, the Torquay Town Council; Manager, Mr. A. T. Tremlett.—Mr. Walter Dowling's Fantastics are paying a first visit here, and crowded houses greet them nightly. Miss José Leyton is exceedingly popular as a comedienne, and her whistling solos are excellent; Miss Jessie Crone possesses a powerful contralto voice; Mr. Percival Mackenzie is an expert lightning sketch artist; Mr. Alfred Daniels contributes some clever numbers on the banjo; Mr. Roland Green is a vocalist of considerable ability; Mr. Bert Durant is quite satisfactory at the piano; and Mr. Walter Dowling as a jester keeps the house thoroughly amused.

TYNEMOUTH. — PALACE.—Proprietors, the Palace Co., Ltd.; General-Manager, Coun. Harold Arnold.—Turner's Opera Company is here this week. On Monday night Gounod's Faust was submitted before a large and fashionable audience. Miss Kitty Brownless played Marguerite in capital style; and Mr. F. J. Hargraves was in excellent voice as Faust. Mephistopheles was in the capable hands of Mr. William Anderson; Miss Jessie Dennis gave an admirable rendition of Siebel; whilst Mr. Frank Clarke scored as Valentine. Miss Beatrice Hill was well placed as Martha; and the same may be said of Mr. M. le Hoir as Wagner. During the week Il Trovatore, Maritana, Daughter of the Regiment, Tannhäuser, and Carmen are to be staged. The chorus is a particularly strong one, and does some excellent work, notably the "Soldiers' Chorus."

WAKEFIELD. — OPERA HOUSE. — Proprietors, Messrs. Sherwood and Co.—Mr. G. Carlton Wallace's company, in A Thief in the Night, is the attraction here. Mr. Hugh Wallace acts well as Lord Romilly; Mr. Alfred Goddard gives a clever impersonation as Alan Escombe; the villainies of Michael Pagani are well portrayed by Mr. Leyton Cancellor; Mr. H. Daneville is admirably placed as Richard Cleeve; and Mr. Philip Crossley plays with force and skill as the Rev. Charles Halkett. A deal of humour comes from Mr. Bert Atherton as Toby and Mr. C. Allan Hineson as Crake. Miss Irene Chalmers is admirable as Lady Romilly; Miss Jennie Hallworth is vivacious as Happy Christmas; Miss Edith Watkins does good work as the maid Susan; Little Doris displays ability as Little Joan; and Miss Florence Dalton gives an effective and charming depiction as Joan Escombe.

NEW EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Sherwood and Co.—The Royal Banzai Troupe top the bill with a clever equilibristic and risley performance; a humorous musical and acrobatic turn is given by the Brothers Erard; Frank Lynne, comedian, affords delight with funny songs; Percy Johnson is a versatile comedian; the Two Countees (Mabel and Marion), duettists, provide a pleasing turn; Miss Masie Dene, eccentric dancer, and Miss Beatty Sullivan, comedienne, also contribute.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—A number of capital pictures provide amusement and instruction, and the varieties include Miss Cora Duncan and Mr. Albert Brasque in an enjoyable sketch My Lancashire Wife, and Mr. Charles Bolton, baritone vocalist.

WALLSEND. — BOROUGH THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Hugh Duffy.—The Leslie Bros., in their comedy act Music Mad, Florrie Elliston, soprano vocalist, Togo, Japanese entertainer, Tom and Nell, in a burlesque boxing act, Marie Blythe, contralto, Austen Temple, magician, the Fimans, in burlesque scena, F. Dawson and company, in Absurdity, and the Bioscope make up the capital entertainment given here this week.

WALSALL.—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Walsall Theatre Co., Ltd.; Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood. Mr. Graham Arthur's company is here with Every Inch a Man. Mr. W. Graham Arthur gives a very clever study of Dani ably telling and effective manner; Ralph A. Armfield supplies a vigorous interpretation of Alderman Burnet; Sydney Bayliss sustains the rôle of the son with exceptional ability; Miss Ada Bond, in the part of Teddy Edwards, is distinctly good. The rôle of Ben Brown is ably filled by Mr. Joe Barker; Miss Mildred Eversleigh gives a capital portrayal of Mrs. Edwards; and other parts are ably filled by Miss Mollie Richardson, Mr. Arthur Jarvis, and Mr. Ernest Wovley.

His Majesty's Theatre.—Proprietors, The Walsall Theatres Co., Ltd.; Joint Management, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—The chief position is this week held by the Twelve Fezzans. They give a daring acrobatic act. Horace Pollock and company have a smart little episode in Hester's Mystery; Jennie Alexander is a promising child comedienne and a mimic of exceptional ability; Roma and Romani do a refined instrumental act; Fred Lincoln is very funny as a comedian; La Superbe is a dancer of merit; and the pictures make up a capital programme.

WARRINGTON.—Royal Court.—Proprietor, Mr. Joseph Beecham; Manager, Mr. A. M. Loader.—Mr. H. Hamilton Stewart and company are here this week with Sherlock Holmes. Mr. Stewart in the title-rôle displays histrionic abilities of a high order; Mr. Eric Morden scores as Dr. Watson; Mr. Charles A. James is well placed as Sir Edward Leighton; and Mr. Henry Lyttleton does admirably as Count von Stahlburg. Plenty of dramatic power is infused into the character of Prof. Moriarty by Mr. W. T. Harris; Master Thomas Hill as Billy is a clever juvenile; and Miss Mary Clare is charming as Miss Faulkner.

Palace and Hippodrome.—Managing-Director, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Eric Longden.—Tubby Edlin and his company are here this week in the sketch The Prince of Monte Carlo, Mr. Edlin making a very eccentric P.C. Longfellow; Kirk and Saraski are refined entertainers; Ada Fawn is a charming soubrette; Harry Taylor is a clever comedian; Kitty Upton scores with good songs; Clare and Mostol are smart patter comedians and dancers; the Three Delaines are expert artists on the trapeze, rings, and swinging ropes. The pictures are good.

Royal.—Proprietors, The Central Theatres and Franco-British Animated Picture Co.; Managing-Director, Mr. Wilberforce Turner; Manager Mr Jack Waters.—Tony Black is a humorous Scotch comedian; Frank McCryon sings many pleasing parodies; Sisters Gaye are smart comediennes and dancers; and Renee Graham makes a capital boy. The pictures are good.

Grand. — Proprietors, The Palatine Company; Manager, Mr. Smyley.—There is a delightful collection of pictures here this week.

WASHINGTON.—Alexandra Theatre.—Secretary, Mr. Joe Turnbull; Stage-Manager, Mr. Ned Johnson.—A strong attraction is provided for local theatre-goers this week in When It Was Dark. Mr. Oswald Cray submits a capital impersonation of the Rev. Basil Gortre; Miss Lillian Herries scores heavily as Gertrude Hunt; Miss Rosalie Notrelle shows much ability as Helena Byars; Mr. C. W. Hulse is a typical stage villain as Constantine Schwabe; Mr. Edward Valentine is good as Sir Robert Llewellyn; Mr. Walter Manfree is excellent as the Rev. Mr. Byars; Messrs. Sydney Claydon and Seton Bernard supply humour as the Hon. Charlie Gayfly and Nunc Wallace respectively; as the "mercury" men Messrs. Baker and Brannigan are both capable; Miss Madeline Grand is capital as Gracie Goodeye; and Minnie Golightly is in the safe hands of Miss Barbara Lee.

WATFORD.—Palace Theatre.—Manager, Mr. Lionel G. Holding.—This week's programme here includes the Belles of the Kitchen, who provide a bright and vivacious turn; Julian Ross, in two well-written songs; Dunning's ventriloquial sketch; the Sisters Edwards, in well-rendered songs and dances; and Kahn and Kahn, in their magic show. Tom E. Hood is a favourite; Cissie Thompson sings two songs in admirable style. Harry Cotton and George Elliston and company, in That Brute Simmons, secure deserved ovations.

WELLINGBOROUGH.—Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Edwin C. Jazon; Manager, Mr. Walle Spinner.—Tarro Miyake, the champion ju-jitsu wrestler, is responsible for crowded and enthusiastic audiences; Elmore and Evans, in their comedy contributions, are big favourites; an excellent juggling turn is given by Mr. Bert Anderson; Miss Amy Lloyd is a refined and popular comedienne; and Mr. Tom Garland presents an exceptionally clever performance in his ventriloquial and negro melodies. A good show of pictures is given on the Hippograph.

King's Hall.—Sole Lessee and Proprietor, Mr. B. Kennedy.—A return visit of the old favourite Mr. Dan Pedley in all his London successes proves a big hit, whilst an artistic and effective entertainment is presented by Miss Maude Roland with original songs, Mr. T. E. Johnson, actor-vocalist, being also warmly applauded. A fresh supply of pictures is given each evening on the Ediscope.

WELLINGOOROUGH.—King's Palace.—The pictures here continue to be excellent. Claire Hastings, with the assistance of Little Joe, is pleasing. Ray and Lingard and Mlle. Renée Ralph also appear with success.

Empire.—The selection of pictures provided this week is pleasing large houses. Ethel Stevenson, a first-rate contralto, has a hearty reception; and Bent is a capable mimic.

WEST BROMWICH. — Theatre Royal.—Licensee, Mr. R. Nightingale.—The romantic drama A Royal Revenge is being presented this week by Mr. Montague Beaudyn. Mr. Herbert Skardon as Pedro de Castro is excellent; Mr. Gilbert Lonsdale as Manuel Mondiga is also good; Miss Sidney Crowe is very charming as Cora Casilda; and the Angela of Miss Margaret Noble is a fine study.

New Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. R. Colin; Resident-Manager, Mr. R. Colin, sen.; Secretary, Mr. Hebden.—The chief attraction here is the Kio Taiu wrestlers; the Five Royal Scottish give an interesting exhibition of Scotch dances; the Tivoli Girls are also clever dancers; Frank Star has some good songs; the Musical Warners give selections on a number of instruments; and Wee Madge also entertains.

WEST HARTLEPOOL — Grand Theatre. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. Seaward.—What a Man Made Her is being presented here by Miss Renee Glendower and company. As Janet McAllister, an artist's model, Miss Glendower acts capitally; Mr. W. J. Butler gives a clever interpretation of Rupert Wogan Danescombe; whilst as Mark Haven Mr. Frederick W. Freeman distinguishes himself. All the characters are in good hands, amongst those worthy of mention being Miss Beatrice Shirley, Mr. Harry Ugar (who infuses much humour into the play), and Mr. Charles K. Francis.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Thompson.—Ando's Happy Little Japs are appearing here with great success; Doody and Wright have a comedy duo act, which is clever and original; Miss Ethel Arden and Mr. Geo. Abel's sketch Town Hall To-night is received with applause; the Brothers Durrant, who arrive on the scene in their airship, are very smart; a most enjoyable musical entertainment is given by the Carina Sisters; Jock Mills (Scotch character comedian), Elsie Hulbert and her clever dancing girls, and Bioscope pictures complete a good bill.

WESTON - SUPER - MARE. — Knightstone Pavilion and Opera House.—Manager, Mr. W. Payne.—Mr. Basil Horsfall's company is here this week in the comic opera Queen of the Fair. Senora Mercedes Dalmada is captivating in the title-rôle; Miss Kate North shows exceptional talent as Jemima; Miss Janet Reeve is excellent as Ermyntrude; Miss Rosa Maie (the Queen of the Dance), Miss Audrey Esmonde (Freda), Miss Carlotta Silvano (Rosalie) are all remarkably good in their respective parts; Mr. Arthur Reynolds keeps the house convulsed with laughter as 'Enery; Mr. Albert Chapman uses his fine voice to advantage as Karl; Mr. Jay Bois is droll as Herr Fünp; Mr. Claude Casey as Pierre is entitled to eulogy, as is Mr. George Carroll as the Burgomaster.

Grand Pier Pavilion.—Manager, Mr. John H. Stevenson.—The Brownies are making a welcome return visit, and are well received; Miss Beatrice Nelley sings with expression "A song of Andalusia"; Miss V. Stafford's song, "Rink, pretty creature, rink," is much applauded; Miss Maidee Field is as great a favourite as ever; Mr. Charles Heslop is a comedian of merit; Mr. Alec S. Clune's song, "A hundred years ago," was encored; and Mr. Harry Brinton's sketches at the piano are exceptionally smart.

WEST STANLEY. — Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, Theatre Royal Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Mark H. Lindon.—Mrs. Sam Duckworth's company is here with Her Nameless Child. Mr. Arthur Keand fills the part of Anthony Ford in a creditable manner; and as Arthur, his son, Mr. F. E. North is good. Mr. Leonard Aardale is sufficiently villainous as Lord Henry Woodville; and as Mongrole Mr. George Francis does well. Miss Dora Weber is a capable Lady Sybil Woodville; whilst Miss Jean Wigney is clever as Phyllis Ford.

Victoria Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. T. C. Rawes; Lessee, Mr. John Cottrell.—The George French Troupe of trick cyclists head the bill here, and their clever act is well received; Eugene the girl baritone, is good; and also here are the Snow Family, expert and grotesque skaters Convict 796, Kentucky Planter, and A Special Agent are appreciated pictures.

WHITBY.—Spa Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Payne Seddon.—On Thursday The Arcadians was presented at this theatre, this being the first visit to Whitby.

Waterloo Electric Theatre.—Some excellent pictures have been exhibited by the London Bioscope Company, and have attracted full houses.

WHITLEY BAY.—The Pleasure Gardens, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Auguste A. Penlevé.—A Beauty Competition is creating interest here. The competition is being "run off" in preliminary heats during the week. The Joy Wheel is proving a great attraction, and is the cause of much merriment to the spectators. It is also evident that the performers thoroughly enjoy the science of keeping, or rather, endeavouring to keep, their equilibrium. The varieties most prominent in the Theatre Roya are The Gerlandos, clever equilibrists; Percy Dalton, comedian and dancer; The Cycluminas novelty cyclists; Daisy and Dot, comediennes and dancers; The Roses, singers and dancers; and Evie O'Connor, comedy entertaining pianist. The stock company are also in evidence, and there is an admirable show of animated pictures. The "Home of Laughter" is also an amusing feature of the side-shows, where rounds of hearty mirth prevail. The Figure Eight Railway still holds its own as a money-maker, in spite of the counter attractions of the Water Chute and Social Whirl.

The Coliseum.—Manager, Mr. Wm. Smelt; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Patterson.—The bill principally comprises Bioscopic pictures in variety, with occasional speciality items by J. N. Clifford, the American comedian.

Empire.—Manager, Mr. T. J. Gregson.—Pictures also hold sway at this comfortable bijou theatre. Fox and Melville enhance the programme with some excellent song illustrations that are being well received.

Pavilion Electric Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. R. V. Grice.—The leading variety items are submitted by Geo. Benbow, comedian and mimic; and Sassy and Wally, juvenile duettists and dancers. The principal films on view are The Brothers, a stirring and exciting Spanish drama, and Flash of Light, America's latest Bioscopic novelty.

Links Band Pavilion.—Manager, Mr. Wm. Catlin.—Here also the colder weather is militating against good patronage, and, failing a decided improvement in the climatic conditions, the season will of necessity have to be brought to a conclusion.

Toreador's Enclosure.—Manager, Mr. Chas. Elderton.—This popular resort is still going strong, although signs are not wanting that the season is rapidly waning. The nights are now on the chilly side and against the comfort of the patrons of outdoor entertainment.

WIGAN.—The Hippodrome.—Proprietors, The Wigan Entertainments Co.—Mr. James Willard's company is here in a dramatic naval sketch, entitled When Swords are Drawn, which is highly appreciated. A skilful turn is given by the Davis and Gledhill Trio in Man v. Motor; an original musical entertainment is provided by Webb's soloists; Le Hurst proves himself an exceptionally clever ventriloquist; Tatten Hall is applauded for his comic songs; much amusement is caused by the Haydons, in Bertie and the Barmaid; and Fields and Mansell are lightning oil-painters and jugglers of no mean talent; while Verona Phillis sings and dances herself into favour. Others who contribute include Harry Meegan, comedian; the Sisters Lawler; Addie Royden; and Great Arno, the humorous gorilla.

WISHAW (N.B.).—Pavilion.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr. Fred Nimse.—Bessie Butt, in a clever series of male character creations, is a deservedly popular topliner; the Martialo Trio, in a novel equilibristic act, which includes the balancing of a trap weighing a quarter of a ton on one performer's forehead, are popular; Bert Woodward, the steeplechasing cyclist, is also a popular turn; Baby Wolff is a clever little vocalist and exceptionally smart dancer; the Renz Brothers, in a comedy acrobatic turn, together with the Bioscope, conclude.

WOLVERHAMPTON.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. G. Kimberley.—Under Two Flags is being presented here this week by Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's company. Pride of place must be awarded to Miss Agnes Verity for her clever interpretation of the varying moods of Cigarette; the handsome stage presence and easy manner of Mr. Wernham Ryott combine to make a capital Bertie Cecil Royellieu; whilst his brother, Berklie Cecil, is well accounted for by Mr. Wilfred Jessop. Mr. Charles E. Johnson plays with realistic effect as Colonel Chateauroy; Mr. David Hawthorne is earnest and convincing as Lord Rockingham; Mr. Arthur Redmond renders good assistance as Captain Claude Chanrellon; Mr. Ernest Willoughby causes amusement as Ezra Baroni; and the faithful Drake has an able exponent in Mr. Harry Benson. Miss O'Neil is successful as the Princess Venetia Corona; and Miss Madoline Gordon is good as Lady Beatrice Guinivere.

Empire Palace.—Managing-Director, Mr Walter de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Vivian Evans.—The Lady Bandits goes with a swing from start to finish, thanks to the charming singing of May Beatty and the unctuous humour of Edward Lauri, assisted by a comely and tuneful chorus; whether as pianist, mimic, vocalist, or siffleuse, Helen Charles proves herself a thorough artist; Cavalli, ventriloquist, presents a turn it would be hard to beat for originality and ingenuity; the shadowgraph entertainment by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wilde is much appreciated; two excellent exponents in the saltatory art are found in Billy French and Frank E. Ford; Elmo and Rego cause roars of laughter as acrobatic eccentrics; and Rose Daulby sings nicely.

WORCESTER.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Macnamara.—Miss Hook of Holland is paying a return visit, and in the hands of Mr. Dudley Bennett and Mr. T. C. Wray's company is admirably presented. Mr. B. Russell is still inimitable as Mr. Hook; Mr. Reginald Hunter is quaintly original as the imperturbable Simon Slinks; Mina is delightfully impersonated by Miss Muff Carew; and Miss Kathleen Starling is a dainty and engaging Sally Hook. Mr. Cuthbert Hardy and Mr. Sam Lockridge, in the military parts (Captain Paap and Bandmaster Van Vuyt), find full scope for their vocal ability; and Mr. Wilson Blake has too little to do as Schnappe.

WORKINGTON.—Opera House.—Lessee, Mr. Stanley Rogers; Resident-Manager, Mr. Fredk. Kitto.—Mr. W. W. Kelly's company in A Royal Divorce is here. Miss Edith Cole as Josephine gives an interpretaton of the part that leaves nothing to be desired; Mr. Frank Bradley as Napoleon is successful in his portrayal of the passionate, all-conquering hero.

Carnegie Hall. — Lessee, Mr. Stanley Rogers; General-Manager, Mr. F. Kitto.—Joe Dixon, coon delineator and mimic; Eva Strauss, the young versatile artist; and Tom Agar, sleight-of-hand expert, provide the variety. The pictures are, as usual, excellent.

WORTHING. — Theatre Royal. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. Adolf Seebold; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Malcolm Spurgin.—On the first two nights of the week Mr. Alex. MacLean presented David Garrick, the old favourite being exceptionally well received. Mr. MacLean himself was in the title-rôle, and he gave a delightful interpretation of the character. Miss Laura Leigh played Ada Ingot in a winsome manner, and Mr. Lyttleton-Holyoake was good as Simon Ingot. The other characters were played with success by Mr. Arthur Layland, Mr. F. de Quincey, Mr. H. Barnard Stacey, Mr. A. L. Burke, Mr. E. Snowden, Mr. Frank Goodricke, and Miss Mary Palmer and Miss Viola March. On Wednesday there were two performances of My Lady Bellamy, the occasion being the sixth annual benefit of Mr. Seebold, the popular lessee. On Thursday Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch opened a short engagement.

WREXHAM. — Empire Music Hall.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Jno. J. Scott.—The great attraction this week has been the Comets, headed by Oliver Conroy, in their interesting and amusing entertainment, including songs, duets, concerted pieces, burlesque items, and sketches, one of the latter in particular, The Servant's Dilemma, creating roars of laughter. Harry Bennett has proved himself a clever dancer and amusing comedian; and as a vocalist, Tom Mills has added his full quota to the programme. The pictures included a beautiful picture of the Island of Capri.

YNYSHIR.—Workmen's Hall.—Lessees, Messrs. Pooles, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. W. Bynorth.—A varied series of pictures is shown here twice nightly. Allen and Austin, refined comedians and dancers, make a hit; and Alice Gill is a tuneful contralto. The vocaphone has capital illustrated singing pictures.

YORK.—Theatre Royal.—Lessees, Messrs. Waddington and Sons; General-Manager, Mr. H. J. Dacre.—The management have again introduced a variety entertainment, twice nightly. The Sarnthaler Troupe, in national costume, hold the premier position, and are accorded a hearty reception for their singing and dancing; Mr. Arthur Milton, in his comedy act, entitled The Puzzled Coroner, displays great versatility in representing four different characters; he is ably supported by Mr. E. Millins as the Coroner; Friscary shows wonderful dexterity in his juggling turn; George Shurley makes a distinct hit as a comedian and dancer; the Two Sisters Harcourt are vivacious comediennes and dancers; the Sauteron Wonders provide a clever and amusing turn; a pleasing musical séance is given by the Brothers Gerrard; and praise must be given to the Stanley Brothers for their unique cycle act.

Opera House and Empire. — Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sidney Brook.—L'Incognita, who heads the bill this week, sings with good taste, and is loudly applauded; Florence Smithers and company are amusing in Our Mary Jane; the Royal Diamonds are one-legged gymnasts of much merit; Pulo is a smart juggler; and Harry Curwen's quaintness is amusing. Harry Merrylees has some witty sayings, and his Scotch patter is well received; Rosie Gaston is a dainty comedienne; Carl Osmond does some clever quick sketches; Andrews and Thompson sing well; and a neat turn is provided by Dacey and Lewis, the energetic entertainers.

Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Bowman; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. E. Bradley.—The following pictures are well received here this week: Agnes Visconti, Chicot, and Tantolin Turns Somersault (a clever comic film). The institution of a full orchestra is highly appreciated.

Victoria Hall.—Lessee, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Resident-Manager, Mr. Bert Rutter.—There is a capital show here this week of the pictures. The Way of the Red Man and The Altar of Love are the most popular. Minnie D'Aubyn is a first-class comedienne.

QUEEN'S THEATRE, CASTLEFORD, OUTING.

The staff of the Queen's Theatre, Castleford, held their first annual outing on Sunday, when a visit to Knaresborough was paid. The party left Castleford by char-a-bancs by way of Wetherby, where a halt was called for light refreshments, thence journeying to the Elephant and Castle Hotel, Knaresborough, for dinner. After a look round this most interesting town—the Dropping Well, Mother Shipton's Caves, and the scenes of Eugene Aram's life—the excursionists proceeded to Boston Spa, where tea was partaken of at the Royal Hotel. Votes of thanks were passed to the directors of the company and to Manager Will H. Emerson, who presided, and to whom the whole credit of the successful outing was due. Mr. Emerson, who was with the staff all the day, and did all possible for the entertainment and comfort of his staff, suitably responded. Rowing on the river and other pastimes were indulged in, and a return was made to Castleford at ten o'clock.

C. Tomlinson, J. Auckland, A. Schofield, J. E. Bearpark, F. Hanson, M. Mason, M. Kaye, A. Wright, H. Bullock, Mr. Will H. Emerson (Managing-Director), J. Ramskill, Mrs. Hanson, Mrs. Steel, J. Steel, Mrs. Ramskill, S. Hamilton, Mrs. Newton, S. Newton, Mrs. Hallett, G. Hiles, T. Mitchell, Mrs. Will H. Emerson, Mrs. H. Waterhouse, Mrs. S. Hamilton, Miss Dyson, Mrs. Hallett, W. Smith, Miss Machin, Miss Terry, F. Bastow, G. Steel, Miss Steel, T. Speight, Mrs. Hiles, Miss Hoyle, H. J. Pickles.

THE PRESS AND THE STAGE.

There was an interesting discussion on Dramatic Criticism at the sitting of the annual Conference of the Institute of Journalists at the Guildhall on Tuesday, with the president (the Hon. Harry Lawson, M.P.) in the chair. Sir Edward Russell opened the debate.

In the course of his speech Sir Edward said: A writer on plays always did well to consider primarily the purpose for which all plays were composed. Then he must settle whether the play he had just seen had besides any special object. Next, whether that special object was artistic—desirable as a stage endeavour; whether the execution was reasonably true to life—decent for public enactment. Also he must appraise the execution in general. After all this—and the scope of it was very capacious, and at all points full of human interest—which the critic had the exquisite literary function of reproducing in print from his impressions at the theatre—after this might come more learned and profound inquiries as to the relations of this most recent dramaturgic achievement, in point of parentage, or kin, or construction, or style, or action with the masterpieces of Greece, of the Tudor time, of Molière, of much contemned but hitherto unsurpassed Victorians, and of present-day innovators, who had not yet fought their way into the classics.

Mr. A. F. Robbins said that during the last twenty years the pressure on the dramatic critic had steadily grown greater, partly through the late hour at which the curtain fell, but mainly because of the decidedly earlier hour of going to press. The most modern of the managers had tried to meet the critics' difficulty either by admitting them to a dress rehearsal or to a répétition générale the afternoon or evening of the day preceding the production, or by beginning the performance decidedly earlier on the first night. Of these the last was the best. If managers wished for criticism that should be fresh as well as fair, they would arrange for an earlier opening on the first night. In this connection Mr. Robbins commended the action of Sir Herbert Tree in commencing the first performance of Henry VIII. at seven o'clock for the special convenience of the critics.

Sir Herbert Tree said his feelings at the moment were somewhat akin to those of Daniel when he entered the lions' den. But he felt reassured in having just learned that the lions had been feeding. He had to express the pleasure with which he had listened to Sir Edward Russell, who had always encouraged the highest forms of drama, and from whose columns he himself had frequently quaffed a draught of encouraging praise and understanding. Sir Edward had always been devoted to the drama, and it was a great thing for the theatre that they had such writers as Sir Edward to give to it that encouragement, and who had for it that love upon which they fed. As to opening the theatre at an earlier hour than usual for the sake of the Press, he had recently made an experiment which he was glad to say was entirely successful, and he hoped that perhaps some of his brother-managers would follow his example. It was, of course, impossible to get a real and studied impression in the short time that the critics nowadays had before them. As regarded dress rehearsals, he felt that these were not satisfactory, because it was a most extraordinary thing that what one might think as an individual one did not think as one of the community. The hearts of an audience ticked in unison. He himself had witnessed this on more than one occasion, when he had been at every rehearsal of a play, and had formed a certain judgment from the first to the last, and when, sitting subsequently in the audience, his judgment had been entirely reversed. Sir Edward Russell had referred to the fact that there were several kinds of criticism. There was, for example, mere reporting. Dr. Johnson, he believed, had said that there were three kinds of critics. One was the critic who knew nothing of the rules; the second was he who knew the rules and did not see beyond them; and the third was the critic who knew the rules and saw beyond them. Of these the first and third were the most important; the other should never be present. The third class of critic belonged to what we might call imaginative criticism, which was in fact the art of criticism. Very often the subject itself was of lesser importance than the criticism. Take, for instance, Ruskin's "Stones of Venice." These wonderful criticisms of Ruskin were of greater importance than the stones of which he spoke. There was the imaginative criticism whose importance they knew. There was another kind of imaginative criticism which soared, as it were, above the realms of mere truth into the mists above, from which the critic would occasionally descend to the earth like a wrecked aeroplane.

He might tell them of a little experience he had had since the opening of this conference. He found that a distinguished novelist, who had taken to dramatic criticism late in life, wrote a very elaborate condemnation of a production which had lately been given, and whose name wild horses would not drag from him. This critic said that in this production the urns, the goblets, the cups were absolutely wrought for this special occasion in real and solid silver, whereupon he enlarged upon this, and spoke of the bombastic vulgarity of the manager and the general unworthiness of the conception. Had it been true that these things were made of real and solid silver, he would have been a mere reporter, but he was an imaginative writer, because upon these premises of the imagination he went on in the most brilliant and eloquent manner to attack the production. Here was what he said, or part of it: "The priests in the play"—whose name, of course, I shall not mention—"might be specially ordained in the green-room before they came on—nay, if it comes to that, the head of Buckingham might really be cut off. He might have re-established the goriness, as well as the gorgeousness, of the amphitheatre. If real cups, why not real wine, and if real wine, why not real blood?" Why not?

Nothing could be more vulgar than for a manager putting forth that he had spent so much money on a production. It was a thing one should always avoid. Because the writers would always greatly exaggerate the cost of any production. If this were true, as he had said, it would be mere reporting; but in point of fact he might tell them that these goblets, urns, and cups were made of papier-maché, a substance of which he believed the literary conscience was sometimes composed. To write in this kind of way had the advantage that it was not necessary to witness the performance at all. One was then free and unfettered by mere reporting, and could attack the principal actor with the greater impartiality and the greater force. One might be told, of course, that this new criticism was the new humour and that one was wanting in the sense of humour in not appreciating it. Let him say that even in writing, after the age of five and forty, it was not well to stand on one's head for more than five minutes at a time lest there should be real blood in the head.

It was a great thing for an actor to have the sympathy of the critic, and it was a great thing to have independent criticism. He thought the independence of the Press in regard to the theatre was much greater to-day than it was twenty or thirty years ago, and though they might get hard knocks occasionally, he thought that any wise man could always bear them. Personally he had to thank Mr. Robbins for what he had said about his action, and personally he should do everything to persuade his brother managers to follow suit.

Sir Edward Clarke having referred to the difficulty of the critic in securing sufficient time after a performance for "quiet and reflective repose,"

Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M.P., said it seemed to him that the difficulties pointed out by Sir Herbert Tree and Sir Edward Clarke were inevitable and insuperable. They could not get the public to wait in these days. If a play was produced one evening, the criticism, whether hurried or responsible, must appear on the following morning, and all proposals to change that state of things were quite futile and impracticable. Criticism, whether good or bad, must be written on the spur of the moment and on the night of the performance. He did not know how the general rehearsal had worked up to the present, but he should think, speaking entirely without any experience of the matter, that it must be a very considerable facilitation of the work of the dramatic critic to have the opportunity of grasping the plot and the general character of a play on a night prior to that of production. He would suggest that Sir Herbert Tree and the other London managers, if the conditions of their business permitted, should encourage these dress rehearsals, for the purpose of giving the critic a fairer chance. Personally, he had always found the first night a rather trying thing. It very often happened that on the very night before the first performance the manager and his company might have been up till four or five o'clock in the morning, giving the last touches to the play. In such circumstances, it was impossible to expect from human nature that it should be at its best when weeks of that kind of work had preceded the performance. He thought that in a first-night's audience there was a certain excitability, almost amounting to hysteria, which made it a little difficult to deal with.

He ventured to think that their dramatic critics were rather overworked. He was sometimes paralysed to think of men going five, six, and seven times a week to all kinds of performances. It was impossible to expect them, in these circumstances, to bring freshness of feeling and of impression to their work. He thought that in journalism the narrowness of the "school" was one of its most besetting and one of its most condemnable vices. The journalist, above all other men in the world, had no right to be narrow because he had every opportunity of being broad. Accordingly he (Mr. O'Connor) deprecated the system which was sometimes seen in journalism, and in dramatic criticism, of taking up one particular "school" as against another particular "school" of dramatic criticism. All schools were good, and no school was perfect. There were old critics in his early days who thought that no drama was good unless it was a drama of intrigue. If one ventured to put before a critic of that kind a play by Ibsen, he immediately declared that it wasn't drama at all. He (Mr. O'Connor) thought the true principle for the enlightened and intelligent critic to take up was that the stage should be like human life itself—open to everything that was human, in all its multitudinous phases, all its permutations and combinations—and that he was a poor dramatic critic that could not admire any emanation of art, to whatever school it might belong.

The President, in summing up the debate, said the Press took the drama very seriously. They wanted to do it justice; but they found that the conditions of publication in London, at all events, were now so difficult as to make it almost impossible to let actors and managers have the benefit of the considered criticism that was given, he thought, in the old days. The feeling that he had, in spite of what Mr. Robbins had said, was that the répétition générale was the best way out of the difficulty.

At the annual conference dinner of the Institute at the Hotel Cecil on Tuesday,

Mr. H. B. Irving, in responding to the toast of "The Guests" said: My position is a singularly painful one. I came here originally, and unobtrusively, as a beardless young actor—beardless, because I understand from the newspapers that at the present moment no actor who is not possessed of a beard is really up to much. I am going away to Australia, and I shall use my earnest endeavour to cultivate whiskers which I hope will have sufficiently developed to sweep away my friend, Mr. Bourchier, altogether. I had hoped the Countess of Warwick would have spoken before me, but, as it is, it is left to me to make the best of a rather difficult position. I wished to say something about dramatic criticism, but you have been discussing that all the afternoon. With regard to dramatic criticism, not very much has been said, except one unkind thing—that dramatic criticism is really a relic of barbarism, for the greater the advance of civilisation, the gentler dramatic criticism becomes. At any rate, I notice that dramatic criticism is gradually dying away, and if it will be only remembered as a relic of barbarism that would be a very happy consummation from our point of view. I heard recently that a dramatic critic said he would have to give up his position because he was not allowed to write what he felt about the actors. It seems a sign of advancing civilisation that he had been allowed to give up his position. If the critics really said what they felt about the actors, and the actors said what they felt about the critics, the Palace of Truth would not be in it.

Your president has said that his is the most modest profession of all. That is wrong. Ours is the most modest, and it is only you journalists who seduce us from our modesty by the extreme trouble you take to get copy—and we make very good copy—and I assure you we should like to be left in a sweet, quiet retirement but for the ruthless way you draw us forth into publicity. If we break one of the Ten Commandments it seems to cause an interest in the newspapers that no other class can command. However, I am going to a country, I am told, where the Ten Commandments can be broken without attracting much attention. I had for some time hesitated as to whether I should take my wife with me to that part of the world, but I am going to take her, after to-night, because I look forward to her developing qualities which I had never dreamed of in her before, and if it means the loss of our humble luggage I shall not complain.

I feel there is a good deal in common between actors and journalists, and that is why we are such good friends. We are, as you journalists, servants of the public; but, although servants of the public, we have a duty to our calling—it is our duty to do our best to uphold the dignity and honour of that calling.

Another point in which we are alike is the precariousness of our calling. I was very much pleased with what I read in the Daily Telegraph of to-day of what your president said as to starting a fund to meet cases of unemployment. It would be a very good thing if we could emulate your example, and found such a fund as you propose to meet very sad cases, which are very many, amongst us.

One other point of resemblance between us is that the English drama is the drama of the Empire, as the Press is the Press of the Empire. So far the Colonies have not had a drama of their own, but we look forward to the day when Australia, Canada, and all the great Colonies will have a drama of their own. The Colonies have a great future, and a part of that future will be the foundation of a drama worthy of the drama of the Mother Country.

I had prepared a peroration, and a very eloquent one, in which I had proposed to say, as no one seems yet to have said it to-night, that the pen was mightier than the sword. But I had hardly sat down at this table before the Sheriff sitting at my side said, "I suppose you are going to give these Johnnies that hackneyed phrase about the sword being mightier than the pen." I will not do so; but, like all good lines on the stage, it is a very true one. On behalf of the guests I thank you very much.

Owing to the disbandment of the Duke of Devonshire's orchestra, Mr. P. Tas, the musical-director, is open to accept an engagement in a similar capacity. His address is 10, Camden-road, Eastbourne.

AMUSEMENTS IN AUSTRALIA.

MELBOURNE, Aug. 9.—Her Majesty's Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. J. C. Williamson; Business-Manager, Mr. E. J. Tait.—There is no abatement in the enthusiasm which Madam Butterfly has aroused in musical circles in Melbourne, and each evening a large and delighted audience assembles to revel in the music of the Puccini opera. On Thursday and Saturday of this week Miss Amy Castles will appear as Cho Cho San, and this evening and Friday the rôle will be taken by Mlle. Bel Sorel. Special matinées are held twice weekly.

Theatre Royal.—Lessees, Messrs. Clyde Meynell and Rupert Clarke; Business-Manager, Mr. Arthur Levy.—Mr. Matheson Lang and Miss Hutin Britton have entered upon their last nine nights of The Passing of the Third Floor Back. Pete will be staged on the 20th.

King's Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. William Anderson; Business-Manager, Mr. Julius Knight.—Nat Gould's sporting drama The Chance of a Lifetime has been filling this theatre for the past three weeks. The drama abounds in striking situations, and all the characters are well portrayed by a strong company. From present appearances the piece is destined to enjoy a long and successful run.

Opera House.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Rickards; Business-Manager, Mr. Frederic Aydon.—The Kremo Family of acrobats still continue the star attraction here. These artists are among the finest exponents in this particular line of business that Mr. Rickards has presented to his numerous patrons. Other artists appearing are Mr. Billy Williams, Miss Gracie Grahame, Mendel (the blind pianist), the Bright Sisters, Miss Fanny Powers, Irving Sayles, Waratah Duo, the Donnellys, Ted Kalman, Les Warton, and Frank Hinchley (baritone).

Gaiety Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Harry Brennan.—On Saturday evening Mr. Nat Clifford made his first appearance here and scored a success. Mr. Clifford sang a number of songs in his own inimitable style, and as an encore gave three eccentric dances. Armstrong and Verne are now in their last nights.

West's pictures continue to draw crowded houses. A feature of the entertainment at present is the film depicting the trial trip of the Australian torpedo destroyer Yarra.

The excellent series of animated pictures shown for the past week at Olympia by Spencer's Theatrescope company have served to fill the house nightly. Among the many interesting films submitted at present may be mentioned Scenes in Africa, The Cowboy's Sweetheart, Scenes by the Zuyder Zee, Over Silent Plains, and The Call of the Heart, while a number of humorous pictures keep the audience well amused.

The interest taken in the exploits of the Kelly Gang of Bushrangers is evident by the crowded houses at the Athenæum Hall to witness J. and N. Tait's pictures. The various incidents are followed with keen interest. Other excellent pictures on the present programme include Scenes in Bourglay, Cowboy's Devotion, Billy's Bulldog, Parted to Meet Again, and The Call of the Heart.

"THE GROTESQUES" AT THE SAVOY.

The vogue of what has been termed pierrotic comedy seems to be on the increase in town, and the reasons of its growing popularity as an entertainment are not far to seek—it is fun and sentiment in snippets, without the music-hall atmosphere; its humour is not of the too robustious order; and to the none too captious audiences the skits on favourite artists and singers, if sufficiently exaggerated, are very enjoyable. Mr. Vere Smith and his companions, who form the troupe known as the Grotesques, when they opened at the Savoy challenged inevitable comparison with their predecessors, the Follies; but it is quite unnecessary to institute that comparison. There are many genuinely mirthful moments in their well-arranged programme, even if at times the humour reaches the verge of extravagance. To the inventive spirit and the facile pen of the lamented Mr. Vere Smith, who died early in the year, are due most of the songs and choruses of the first part. Mr. Harry Harmer early distinguished himself by his singing of the "Uz-guz-goozle-um"; Miss Dorothy Doria was heard to advantage in "I'll be your gal"; Miss Elsie English found the melodious phrases of "Mister Nightingale" grateful to sing and provocative of applause; and then there was Mr. James Watts, who made quite a hit with "Mr. Jolliboy," a number of which the humour was much enhanced by the manipulation of six little mechanical figures in a jig danced to the melody of the chorus. Mr. Watts scored a surprising success, and as a comedian he has a real sense of drollery.

In the second section of the programme some concerted pieces were well worth listening to, particularly original numbers being "Who'll buy my lavender?" and "Strawberries, ripe strawberries." The impressions of a ballad concert enabled Miss Elsie English to take off Miss Margaret Cooper, the famous comedienne at the piano, who has come in for a great deal of attention lately from Miss Cecilia Loftus; and Mr. James Watts as a female on the large side "skitted" the mannerisms of Mme. Clara Butt. "Mr. Ben Nevis," too, who gave "I'll sing thee songs most horribly, in gloves of white cashmere," was successful in quaint exaggerations of the methods of the popular tenor Mr. Ben Davies.

Mr. Cecil Cook, as the vicar, again presided at the piano while his merry companions in the scheme of fun sketched the humours of the village concert at Rottenbosh. The grotesque dance by the Sisters Frieszenthau is perhaps the pièce de résistance; but the songs and recitations given with a delightful emphasis of amateur weaknesses keep the audience in mirthful mood.

The genial comedian, Harry Corson Clarke, tells many amusing stories of his experiences in other days. Listen to this:—"I will tell you the story of the smallest stock company ever organised. We had been playing a long stock season in the summer at Manhattan Beach, Denver, about seven years ago. Among us were James Neil, William Ingersoll, Annie and Katie Blanke, Henrietta Crosman and many other well-known people. It had come to the end of the season, and everybody was scattering for other positions. Captain Bethel, the manager of the Beach, came to me and asked me if it would not be possible for me to hold the company together until Labour Day, so as to capture some money. At that time the company was composed of Henrietta Crosman, William Ingersoll, and your humble servant, Harry Corson Clarke. It was one of the strangest experiences I ever had, but we made a splendid success out of the unique organisation just the same. Henrietta came early and called—'half hour'; Billy came in and called—'fifteen minutes'; and I rang up. The programme was like this:—First piece, A Happy Pair, Henrietta Crosman and William Ingersoll; second piece, Uncle's Will, Henrietta Crosman, William Ingersoll, and Harry Corson Clarke; third piece, Box and Cox, Henrietta Crosman, William Ingersoll, and Harry Corson Clarke. Every night the captain would come back and call 'Look out through the curtain, quick,' and we would be rewarded by seeing a crowded house—the place seated three thousand. The last night of the engagement the Mayor of the city stepped on the stage and called for the stock company. We arrived. I told the city's chief executive not to be frightened—that none of us had gotten away He presented Miss Crosman with a beautiful silver jewel case, and Ingersoll and myself with silver mounted canes, making a lovely speech on behalf of the management. Henrietta Crosman responded on behalf of the company, and there you have the story of the smallest stock company in the world."

STEDMAN'S STUDENTS AT THE COURT.

The first performance of Stedman's Students' Stage Society, given at the Court Theatre on Saturday evening last attracted a large and friendly audience, the varied and interesting programme including acts from The School for Scandal, The Gay Lord Quex, and Florodora—difficult work that was a very severe test for these ambitious aspirants. In the Quarrel and Screen scenes from The School for Scandal Mr. Oliver Crombie as Sir Peter Teazle is entitled to praise for a careful and, on the whole, satisfactory portrayal, especially good being his acting in the concluding episode of the screen scene. Mr. Stanley Hughes as the hypocritical Joseph Surface hurried his lines too much; Mr. Charles Koop realised fairly well the rollicking Charles; and Miss Dora Keith was an engaging Lady Teazle.

The Bedroom scene from Sir Arthur Pinero's brilliant play, The Gay Lord Quex, was perhaps the best-played item of the evening, and certainly the most interesting. In this Mr. Charles Koop appeared as the gay lord, and played the part of the blasé man about town with the necessary calmness, authority, and polish, although at times he appeared too juvenile in manner. Altogether, however, Mr. Koop may be complimented on a capital portrayal. The difficult character of the mistrustful manicurist, Sophie Fullgarney, was enacted by Miss Iris Damon, admirable in the calmer moments of the part, but in the emotional ones too exaggerated and noisy. The languid Duchess of Strood, so careful for her reputation, was cleverly portrayed by Miss Elsa Hall, the "romantic farewell" between the Duchess and Quex being skilfully handled throughout; and Miss Mabel Hay fulfilled all requirements as Mrs. Jack Eden.

The concluding item in the programme was the first act of the popular musical play Florodora, and chief honours in this undoubtedly went to the ladies. The male principals nearly all forgot their lines at times, and many awkward stage waits resulted. Miss Elsa Hall again did good work as the wily Lady Holyrood, singing "Tact" and taking part in the concerted numbers creditably. A dainty and winsome Angela Gilfain was forthcoming in the person of Miss Rita Caro, her duets and dances all being capitally given; and Miss Violet Stanning may be cordially congratulated on both her singing and acting as Dolores, her renderings of "Star of Love" and "Queen of the Philippine Islands" displaying the possession of a cultured and powerful voice. Mr. Clive Bowen as Frank Abercoed, Dolores's lover—a rather doleful one—sang "Oh, my Dolores" acceptably, but his inability to remember his lines spoilt any chance he might have had of giving a creditable representation; Mr. H. W. Bentham and Mr. Frank Sinclair as Cyrus Gilfain and Leandro both gave satisfactory portrayals; and Mr. Kenneth Morrison as Anthony Tweedlepunch occasionally aroused merriment and frequently forgot his words. The large chorus had been capitally trained, and the numerous attractive dances and concerted numbers were all admirably given, especially when the smallness of the stage is taken into consideration. The experienced Mr. Marshall Moore was responsible for the stage direction; Mlle. Lillian Leoffeler and Mr. Charles Sutton for the dances; and Mr. Kenneth Wynne for the choral tuition; Mr. Archibald Benwell having charge of the musical arrangements.

PROMENADE CONCERTS.

The programme of the promenade concert of Thursday evening, Sept. 8, was headed with Smetana's spirited overture to "The Bartered Bride," an excellent performance being secured by the orchestra. In strong contrast to this came Debussy's delicate Prelude, "L'Apres-Midi d'un Faune" and Wormser's "L'Enfant Prodigue" music, "Valse Triste" (Sibelius), and Tschaikowsky's suite, "Le Lac des Cygnes," from his four-act ballet were also included in the programme. The novelty on Thursday evening was Two Night-pieces for Orchestra, by Mr. H. V. Jervis-Read, a skilful but somewhat noisy production, in which the second piece proved the most attractive. Other performances by the orchestra were "Menuet des Follets," "Danse des Sylphes," and "March Hongroise," from Berlioz's Faust; and "Fantasia on Welsh Melodies," arranged by Mr. Henry J. Wood. Miss Alice Baxter and Mr. Robert Burnett were the vocalists, the former giving a very effective rendering of "Ritorna Vincitor," from Verdi's Aïda.

The late W. J. Hurlstone's suite "The Magic Mirror," was performed for the first time in London at the Concert on Tuesday evening. The compositions of Mr. W. J. Hurlstone during his brief career as composer were always musicianly and free from gloom, that bane of so many young British composers, and several of the six movements in "The Magic Mirror" proved graceful and melodious, "Snow White in the Wood" and "The Death Sleep of Snow White" being the most attractive numbers in the suite. Of other orchestral performances Mendelssohn's Overture to A Midsummer Night's Dream came first in the programme, and was followed by the "Peer Gynt" Suite of Grieg, while excellent renderings were given of Handel's fine Largo, "Ride of the Valkyries" (Wagner), and Delibes' interesting Entr'acte and Valse (Coppelia). Mr. Albert Fransella beautifully executed a flute solo of his own composition entitled "Pastorale," and "Tourbillon" (L. Krantz), and E. Kohler's "Papillons." The soloists were Miss Lillie Wormald and Mr. Robert Burnett.

"The music of many instruments was heard that day." This is a phrase which will be thoroughly realised on the occasion of the eleventh annual Brass Band Festival, which takes place at the Crystal Palace on Saturday, Oct. 1, when representative bands from practically all over the country will be heard, and 200 bands will compete for the coveted thousand guinea trophy. During the whole of that day competitions will be held in every part of the Palace, and even the grounds will be utilised where necessary, the results of these contests being shown on the great screen after the performance given by the massed bands at night.

The contest pieces have been selected and arranged by Mr. William Rimmer, the popular conductor of the Southport Municipal Band, who has the unique record of having succeeded in carrying off the thousand guinea trophy for five years in succession. It is interesting to note that the preparations for this event occupy the best part of a year. The business part of the Festival is under the management of Mr. W. D. Cooper, who is secretary to Mr. J. Henry Iles, the musical director of this great "battle of bands."

People are beginning to wake up to the immense importance of good, sound teeth. It is only recently that doctors have discovered that all kinds of maladies can be traced to the condition of the teeth. Those who desire to keep in good health cannot do better than use the world-renowned Odol, which, by its remarkable antiseptic properties, cleanses even the most remote interstices of the teeth and mouth from all kinds of impurity. It is in these that the germs of disease, whether those which cause decay of the teeth or injury to the system and general health, have their breeding-ground, and it is just these remote interstices which the ordinary tooth powder or mouth-wash is powerless to attack. Many people prefer the sweet rose flavoured Odol, which is not so well known as the standard flavour, but is delightfully pungent and aromatic. It is hardly necessary to add that all chemists, stores, &c., keep this invaluable preparation.

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

Minutes of the Council Meeting held at 32, Regent-street, on Tuesday, Sept. 13. Present: Mr. Clarence Derwent, in the chair; Mr. H. W. Mote, Hon. Solicitor; Messrs. Cyril Cattley, R. A. Greene, Henry Pettitt, J. Poole Kirkwood, Edward Morgan, Murri Moncrieff, C. F. Collings, and Chris Walker, Miss Mildred Cottell, Miss Beatrice Chester, Miss Vita Spencer, and Mr. D. Young, Secretary. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

With reference to the letter of complaint re a dressing room of a provincial theatre, the Secretary was instructed to acknowledge receipt of the manager's letter and to bring the matter up for further consideration at the next meeting of the Council.

The House Committee's report was read by the Chairman, and the recommendations agreed to. Miss Joan Pereira wrote stating that Miss Lallie Forsyth had very kindly presented a clock to the Association to be placed in the dining-room, and that Miss Mabel Leathem had sent some beautifully worked chair covers. The Council instructed the Secretary to acknowledge receipt of the gifts on behalf of the Council, and to express their extreme satisfaction for the kindness of both ladies.

With reference to a letter received from the Secretary of the Touring Managers' Association, the Secretary was instructed to reply that in this case the wish for arbitration emanated from one of their members. The matter was in their hands, and they ought to have secured the fees prior to the arbitration being held. With regard to the second paragraph of the letter, the Secretary was instructed to say that in other arbitrations all payments had been made to the Actors' Orphanage.

The Finance Committee's report was read by Miss Chester, and adopted. The Secretary submitted report of approximate state of finance and income and expenditure until the end of the year. The Hon. Solicitors reported in three cases.

Mr. J. Poole Kirkwood drew attention to a form of contract being used by the Touring Managers' Association in which the words, 'as approved of by the Actors' Association' occur. As it appeared that this contract had evidently been considered some years ago the Secretary was instructed to ascertain at what date it was passed by the Council.

Mr. Kirkwood brought forward his motion "that in the new year the Actors' Association be registered as a Club," &c. He gave his views re the formation of the proposed club, and after discussion the Hon. Solicitor promised to look into the rules governing clubs and report at the next meeting. Mr. Cattley undertook to resume the discussion in the event of Mr. Kirkwood not being able to be present. Christmas Grose and C. C. Gratton were reinstated, and Marie Ethel Raynor was nominated. The Secretary reported five engagements through the Agency.

"TWO MEN AND A WOMAN."

Drama, in One Act, by Helène Gingold and Laurence Cowen, Produced at the Royal County Theatre, Reading, on Monday, Sept. 12.

John Southey .....Mr. Frank Tennant
Rev. Philip Pangbourne Mr. Charles Fancourt
Naomi Southey .....Miss Ruth Shepherd

The object of this little sketch is evidently to provide a serious prelude to the mirth-provoking farcical play, Looking for Trouble, which succeeds it in the programme. The plot somewhat recalls the story of "The Scarlet Letter," inasmuch as the Rev. Philip Pangbourne, John Southey's trusted friend and guide, turns out to be the betrayer of his wife. Southey (of course unaware of his clerical friend's guilt) consults him with regard to her return home penitent after a year's absence and the death of the child of her shame. He refuses to take her back, however, unless she discloses the name of her betrayer, which she refuses to do. Southey beseeches Pangbourne to help him to force her to speak. Naomi enters, and in a highly dramatic scene, faces her betrayer, but still declines to denounce him, notwithstanding his appeal to her to do so, saying that she is repentant, but does not seek revenge.

In an agony of remorse, Pangbourne accuses himself as a false friend, false priest, and one of the greatest sinners in all the world, and the play ends with his departure to purge his sin, and build up a new reputation in another country. The play, which was well received, was excellently acted by the three artists named in the cast.

DALSTON THEATRE.

Five plays nightly is the bill of fare provided for the patrons of the Dalston Theatre this week by members of Mr. Arthur Hardy's company, among whom are Mrs. Russ Whytal and Mr. F. Percival Stevens. The quintuple bill includes two compositions, A Pot of Caviare and A Question of Diplomacy, by Arthur Conan Doyle; A Short Exposure, by F. Anstey; The Chain, by Mrs. Herbert D. Cohen; and The Royal Flower, an adaptation from the French play Le Lys of Alphonse Daudet by Fred Pemberton. Mr. F. Percival Stevens undertakes the lion's share of work, appearing in each of the plays and proving himself a most versatile actor. Mrs. Russ Whytal undertakes three characters. She appears in male attire as the Marquis in The Royal Flower, and invests the part with considerable interest, but the actress is seen at her best as Lady Clara, wife of the Foreign Secretary, in A Question of Diplomacy, and clearly demonstrates, as she honestly asserts in the course of the episode, that while her husband manages affairs in relation to the Empire, she undoubtedly manages him. Mr. F. Percival Stevens is the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs (with the gout); Mr. Frederick Moyes is Prime Minister; Mr. Harry Ashford gives a truthful but withal amusing sketch of a fashionable physician; and Miss Dorothea Desmond is quite natural as the Hon Miss Ida, the Foreign Secretary's daughter, this being one of four characters the lady essays in the course of the evening. She is excellent as Iris Waverley, a young widow, in the farce A Short Exposure, in which trifle Mr. Frederick Moyes scores as Mortimer Dolphin, a photographer and retired poet, and Mr. Stevens is decidedly amusing as Loftus Pontifex, a "swank" critic. The most effective representation is the tragedy A Pot of Caviare, being an incident during the Boxer insurrection of 1900. The scene is laid at Professor Mercer's bungalow in the besieged European quarter in Ichan, China, and as the Professor Mr. F. Percival Stevens takes full advantage of the opportunities afforded to present a strangely weird and fatefully serious personage. Out of nine characters seven die in the course of the performance of this strangely impressive little play, and the "business" of dying, as the result of poison administered by the professor with the view of thwarting the relentless Boxers in their designs upon their European victims, is extremely well "done." Mr. Frederick Moyes makes a fine Colonel Mannering; Mr. Harry Ashford looks genial as Mr. Patterson, a missionary; Mr. J. P. Wilson is a dashing James Ainslie; Mr. Percy Worrall is an effectively quiet Father Pierre, a French Catholic priest; Miss Eily Malyon is calm to the extent of charm as Mrs. Patterson; and Miss Dorothea Desmond is an attractively innocent Jessie Patterson. The part of a Christian Chinese servant is played by Mr. H. Aingar, while Mr. W. Joyce appears as an English naval officer. The representation elicits genuine applause. Mr. Frederick Moyes is stage director.

FRENCH CRITICISM.

If it be hard enough for the French to understand Shakespeare's tragedies, it must be admitted that an appreciation of his comedies is almost utterly denied to them, says Heine in one of his essays. The poetry of passion is to them intelligible, and they can also to a certain extent comprehend the truth of the characteristic, for their hearts have learned to glow, the impassioned is their own peculiar line, and with their analytical intelligence they can separate every given character into its minutest elements, and calculate the phases or situations into which that character would fall when reduced to the realities of life. But in the magic garden of the Shakespearean comedy all this empirical knowledge is of no avail. At its very gate their understanding fails them, their heart knows nothing definite, and they lack the mysterious divining rod at the touch of which the lock opens. There they stare with amazed eyes through the golden grate, and see how lords and ladies, shepherds and shepherdesses, fools and sages, wander about under the tall trees; how the lover and his loved one rest in the cool shadows and exchange tender words; how now and then a fabulous animal, perhaps a stag with silver horns, comes by, or else a chaste unicorn, leaping from the thicket, lays his head in the lovely lady's lap. And they see how the water-ladies rise with green hair and glittering veils, and how all at once the moon rises, and they hear how the nightingale trills—and they shake their wise heads at all the incomprehensibly nonsensical stuff! Yes, the French can comprehend the sun but not the moon, and least of all the rapturous sobbing and melancholy ecstasy of the nightingales.

Yes, neither their empirical familiarity with human passions, nor their positive knowledge of the world, is of any avail to the French, when they would unriddle the visions and sounds which gleam and ring forth from the magic gardens of Shakespearean comedy; they often think they see a human face, yet when near by it is a landscape fair—what they believed were eyebrows was a hazel-bush, and the nose was a rock, and the mouth a little fountain, as we see them in changing puzzle-pictures. And, on the other hand, what the poor Frenchmen mistake for a strangely gnarled old tree, or marvellous stone, appears on closer view to be a real human face of tremendous expression. And if they succeed in overhearing with strained ears some dialogue which two lovers are holding in the forest-shade, they are still more bewildered, for they hear familiar words in changed sense, and so they swear that these people know nothing of flaming feeling, and the great passion. What they had ordered for refreshment was witty water-ice, not a blazing bowl of love-drink. Nor do they observe that these people are only disguised doves, who converse in a jargon of their own, which one can only learn in dreams or in earliest infancy. But it is worst of all for the French standing outside the grated gate of Shakespearean comedy, when ever and anon a pleasant west wind sweeps over a garden-bed and wafts to their noses most unknown perfume—"What's that?"

Justice demands that I here mention a French writer who, with a cleverness quite his own, imitated Shakespearean comedies, and manifested even in the choice of his models a strange susceptibility to true poetry. This is Alfred de Musset. He wrote, about five years ago, several small dramas which, so far as construction and style are concerned, are altogether after the comedies of Shakespeare. And he has with French facility mastered the caprice, not the humour, of his original. And what is more, there is not wanting in these pretty trifles some of the pure gold of poetry, though it be drawn into the thinnest wire. It was only to be regretted that the then youthful composer had read, in addition to a French translation of the works of Shakespeare, also a version of Byron's poems, and was thereby led into affecting in the costume of the spleeny lord that satiety and weariness of life which it was the fashion of French youth to assume. The rosiest little boys, the healthiest saucy striplings, declared in those days that their sense of enjoyment was quite blunted; they feigned the coldness of old age, and affected a distrait and yawning expression.

Since which time our poor Monsieur de Musset has seen the error of his ways and returned from them, and now plays no more the part of Used-up in his poems; but, alack, those poems now contain, instead of simulated ruin, the far more inconsolable traces of a real decline of bodily and mental power. Ah, this writer reminds me of those artificial ruins which we see in castle gardens of the eighteenth century, which were once weak inventions of a childish fancy, but which in the course of time awaken in us a mournful pity, when they have become weather-beaten and mouldering in earnest, and run into real decay.

The French are, as I have said, little inclined to grasp the spirit of the Shakespearean comedy, and I have found, with one exception only, none among their critics who has even a vague idea of it. Who is this man? Who is the exception? Gutzkow says that the elephant is the doctrinaire among animals. And just such a reasonable and perfect paragon of a ponderous elephant has most sagaciously grasped the real being of the Shakespeare comedy. Yes, one can hardly believe it, but it is Monsieur Guizot who has best written on those graceful and most mischievously wanton airy images of the modern muse, and hereupon I translate for the amazement and edification of the reader a passage from a work which was published in 1822 by Ladvocat in Paris, and which is called "De Shakespeare et de la Poésie dramatique, par F. Guizot":—

"The Shakespearean comedies resemble neither those of Molière, nor of Aristophanes, nor of the Romans. Among the Greeks, and in modern times among the French, comedy was the result of a free but careful study of the real world of life, and the problem, or result, was its representation on the stage. The distinctions between comedy and tragedy are to be found in the beginning of dramatic art, and as they were developed the division became more marked. The reason for this lies in the things themselves. The destiny of man, like his nature, his passions, and pursuits, character and occurrences, all in and around us, have serious as well as comic sides, and may be ranged as one or the other, according to our special point of view. This double-sidedness of man and the world has pointed out to dramatic poetry—naturally enough—two very different paths, but while men chose this or that as a place for rivalry or action, art never deviated from the study and representation of reality. Though Aristophanes lashes with unrestrained freedom of fancy the vices and follies of the Athenians, though Molière censures and cuts the errors or abuses of scepticism, avarice, envy, pedantry, courtly etiquette, and of virtue itself—all there is in it is that the two poets handle very different subjects, one bringing on the stage a whole life and people, the other, on the contrary, the incidents of private life, or the inner life of families, and what is laughable in individuals—this difference in comic matrial being a result of a difference in time, place, and civilisation. But to Aristophanes, as to Molière, reality or the real world is always the stage of their representations. What inspire and sustain their poetic mood are the customs and ideas of their age, the vices and follies of their fellow-citizens—above all, nature and the life of man. Comedy, therefore, springs from the world which surrounds the poet, and she adapts herself far more closely than tragedy to the external action of reality."

A Copy of "The Era" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

OPERA IN ENGLISH.

"Few phenomena in the history of Art," writes Mr. J. W. Galloway in his admirable work on "Musical England," "are more astonishing or more ridiculous than the long-continued effort to make English-speaking audiences appreciate performances in a language they did not understand. It is reasonable enough, perhaps, that Italian opera should be given in Italian, though there is some significance in the ludicrous fact that on its first introduction into this country it used to be performed by a mixed company of Italians and Englishmen, each singing in his own language. But the fashion for Italian, once it had taken root, developed vigorously, in spite of the ridicule of writers from Addison onwards, until it spread to works of different schools and nationalities. Moreover, it proved astonishingly stubborn. Not till 1839 was a French opera, Gounod's Romeo et Juliette, given at Covent Garden in French, this being the first time that any but an Italian work was performed there in its native tongue; not till 1892 did the introduction of German opera by Sir Augustus Harris cause the disappearance of the word 'Italian' from the title of the Covent Garden Opera House, and even in that year the production of a French work—Meyerbeer's Le Phophète—was marred by an incongruous Italian chorus; and not till 1895, after productions in the two preceding seasons of Stanford's Veiled Prophet and Cowen's Signa in Italian, did an English opera—Cowen's Harold—attain the distinction of being given in its proper tongue. The inevitable result has been that grand opera has never exercised its true appeal nor obtained a hold on the mass of the public; it has become, instead, the luxury of the rich, and has been degraded from a serious art into a fashionable amusement.

"But the long-continued ascendancy of Italian has had other far-reaching effects. In the first place, it has given rise to a widespread idea that English is essentially unmusical and a vehicle unfit for the expression of sentiment. So far as this meant that existing translations of foreign works were unfit for use, much might—perhaps still may—be urged in support of the view; but on general grounds it cannot be maintained. Nobody pretends that spoken English cannot do justice to sentiment, and there is no special mystery attaching to the interpretation of grand opera sufficient to exclude a language which has been found suitable for detached lyrics, part-songs, the service of the Church, the cantata, and the oratorio. The most that can be said against it is that its employment considerably hampers the popular foreign artist, who may, however, be confidently relied upon to overcome his disabilities as soon as he realises that he is seriously expected to do so. Moreover, if opera in English would lead to a partial exclusion of foreigners, it would at least secure for the music which is sung some of that attention which is now bestowed upon the singers, while it would give to native artists a fairer field for competing in public favour with those who are imported from abroad.

"Again, by failing to attract the great majority of Englishmen, who know no language but their own, the production of opera in a foreign tongue has not encouraged English composers to devote their attention to a form of art which has inevitably failed to win popular support. A second Purcell might have withstood the influence of Handel and changed the course of events; but there was no one strong enough to stem the tide of fashion. Accordingly, for years such composers as Arne, Storace, Arnold, and Bishop neglected almost entirely the severest form of grand opera and worked in a different field, the way to which was originally opened out by the successful production of the Beggar's Opera in 1727. The vogue of this distinctive type of 'ballad opera' was short-lived; it hardly lasted more than thirty years; but it set the fashion for light opera; and those who worked in the latter form helped to establish the school which reached its highest artistic expression in the Gilbert and Sullivan operas, and, exercising through them an almost immeasurable influence, did much to predispose the modern British public towards the reception of grand opera. This ultimate outcome of their work was not, of course, apparent to Arne and his successors, nor is it more, than parenthetically significant. The important fact is that they neglected grand opera, and though subsequent English works like The Bohemian Girl, Maritana, and The Lily of Killarney achieved a lasting popularity, the fashion for Italian militated against the success of Balfe, Wallace, and Benedict, discouraging them as it has discouraged their successors right up to the present day.

"But the strange and curious perversity which boycotted the English language did more than deter native effort. For many years it helped to spread the belief that every province of music was better left to foreigners. The consequent distrust of the claims of English music produced a natural result. English music fell for long enough into the position popularly assigned to it, so that it is only in the last few years that the native musician has begun to come into his own. The operatic field has suffered more than any other and the growth of public interest during the last five-and-twenty years has scarcely reached it yet. Only last summer, when the English artists who form the Moody-Manners Opera Company were drawing crowded houses to a London theatre, it was wisely remarked that metropolitan music-lovers had long withheld their support from such enterprises from a natural disinclination to cultivate a taste with no certain means for securing its continuous ratification. Fortunately the attitude of the public is changing, and success is beginning to come; but in London at least it is humiliatingly recent. For in London there has been for long enough no sufficient public for opera, and this fact goes far, though not indeed quite all the way, to account for the failure of successive enterprises.

"Several times during the nineteenth century the continued neglect of opera aroused the disgust of ardent but misguided enthusiasts, and drove them into the exploitation of premature schemes. It would be unjust to class them all as utter failures, for they accomplished much invaluable spade-work; but their plans came to nothing permanent, because they came too soon, and the public was not ready to receive them. Other causes, of course, contributed to their defeat, and it will be well to see what these were in each case.

"The first important effort was put forward by Samuel James Arnold, who opened the Lyceum theatre as an English Opera House in 1809. His scheme deserved success, for it was not exclusive in its nature, and Arnold was wise enough to see the necessity for producing foreign operas in English. But he was ahead of his time, and suffered the usual fate of those whose ideas are too far in advance of the public intelligence.

"Efforts to establish English Opera were made at Drury Lane in the second quarter of the nineteenth century; by the Pyne-Harrison English Opera Company in 1856; and again at Covent Garden in 1865. These enterprises failed as they were bound to do, and, in so far as they were insular and exclusive, as they deserved to do. It is to be hoped that even the existence of a wider public would not save a restricted enterprise today; for while too much encouragement cannot be given to a venture which exists for the production of opera in English, one which attempts to take its stand solely on English opera does not merit success, at least if it arrogates to itself a position of national pre-eminence."

LONDON & SUBURBAN THEATRES.

KINGSWAY THEATRE.

Signor de Macchi's company produced Donizetti's opera Don Pasquale on Thursday night at the Kingsway Theatre. Some years ago a revival of Don Pasquale, with Signor Bonci in the cast, was given by an Italian company at the Waldorf Theatre, and later on excellent performances of this opera were undertaken by the Castellano Grand Opera Company and at the Royal Opera, but the life and sparkle of Donizetti's work are lost on the large stage of Covent Garden. The libretto of Don Pasquale is simple but effective. A rich old man, Don Pasquale, is married—or, at least, thinks so, for the ceremony is only a mock marriage—to a young and handsome lady who already has a lover. After the wedding the supposed wife turns out a perfect tartar, and gives the Don a sharp lesson on what an elderly husband may expect when he marries a young and pretty girl. When Don Pasquale finds out the whole affair is only a hoax he is overjoyed, and finding Ernesto, his nephew, is willing to take the lady off his hands, readily consents to their union, which, of course, is exactly what the plotting lovers want.

Donizetti's score may be somewhat trivial, but the melodious music is admirably adapted to the lively subject, and the charming serenade in the last act is a perfect musical gem. The performance on Thursday night had many interesting features. Signor F. Talamanca as the vain old Don Pasquale proved highly diverting, while an excellent Doctor Malatesta was found in Signor Gaetano Rebonato, who greatly distinguished himself by capital acting and singing. Signor Franco de Gregoria appeared as Ernesto, and sang artistically, but in the serenade of the last act his voice has hardly that purity of tone required to do justice to Donizetti's pretty music. Signorina Isabella de Frate proved a vivacious Norina, and was well up in the lively business of the part. The trio and quartet in the second act went extremely well, and the acting of all concerned was full of life and movement. The costumes were handsome and picturesque, and the scene of the drawing room in Don Pasquale's house, in which most of the action takes place, was admirable. The orchestra, under Signor C. de Macchi, also acquitted themselves far better than in the first performance of Fra Diavolo.

KING'S THEATRE, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, Sept. 12, the Comedy entitled "OLD HEIDELBERG."

The prospect of seeing this celebrated comedy drew a very large audience to the King's on Monday evening, and very enthusiastic was the manner in which it was received. The story is so prettily and naturally told that it is no wonder that the play appeals to all. There were few dry eyes when the curtain descended finally upon the parting of Karl Heinrich and Kathie. Mr. Ernest Benham's company has had the advantage of having been personally rehearsed by Mr. George Alexander, to whom all playgoers must be eternally grateful for having given us the first hearing of Old Heidelberg. Mr. Owen Nares as the young hereditary Prince Karl Heinrich gives a vivid impression of the youth tied down by the hidebound etiquette of a German Court. It is a successful impersonation. That delightful character, Dr. Juttner, the tutor, is admirably rendered by Mr. Ernest Bodkin, and the audience regretfully missed him after the end of the third act. Mr. Frank Powell is the stiff and starched Staatsminister Von Haugh to the life, meriting warm approval. Messrs. Robert Lawrence and George Wyley are excellent as Kammerherr Von Breitenburg and Kammerherr Baron Von Metzing. The Hoffmarschall Freiherr Von Passarge of Mr. Walton Palmer is distinctly good. Mr. Sydney Hamilton is admirable as the valet Lutz, his autocratic flunkeyism being cleverly indicated. Mr. Martin Lewis is good as Scholermann. The rôle of Graf Von Asterberg is well handled by Mr. Alex Onslow, the boyishness and noisiness of student life being skilfully depicted. Mr. C. Derwent Grenville is deserving of praise as Von Wedell. The part of Kellermann is amusingly played by Mr. Ian Ogilvie Will, and Ruder, the innkeeper, has a capital representative in Mr. Percy Crawford. As dainty and sympathetic a Kathie as could be wished for is Miss Kitty Ricimer. Her lightheartedness in the earlier acts, and her earnestness and sympathetic treatment of her share in the scene of parting with Karl Heinrich are most natural. Miss Florence Preddy as Frau Ruder, and Miss Constance Groves as Frau Dörffell lend material assistance. The host of Heidelberg students are in capable hands, and the scenery and costumes are excellent.

THE MARLBOROUGH.

Mr. George Dance's company is here in The Whip, and the fine production is drawing full houses. Miss Vera Beringer plays Mrs. D'Aquila in sharp and telling style; and Mr. James Lindsay as Captain Grenville Sartorys is full of cool, plausible villainy. As the Rev. Verner Haslam Mr. Fred Leslie acts with telling passion; and Mr. E. A. Douglas as the Marquis of Beverley plays the part with credit. As Lady Diana Miss Gwendolen Wren is really charming; and Mr. Dallas Cairn does well as Hubert, Earl of Brancaster. Miss Simeta Marsden as Mrs. Beamish is bright and animated; and Mr. Edwin Brett as Tom Lambert is very genial. Mr. Eric Hudson as Joe Kelly is strong and characteristic; and as Myrtle Anson Miss Stella Campbell displays real feeling and pathos. As Harry Anson Mr. Horace Kenney is decidedly praiseworthy; and the minor parts are well sustained. Mr. Hugh Nolan is Mr. Dance's manager, and Mr. Sidney Watson his stage manager, and both are careful and competent in their respective departments.

THE LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, Sept. 12, the Drama entitled
"HER FATAL MARRIAGE."

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hinton and Travis Green have brought a good company with this piece, and are doing good business. Mr. Jerrold Heather is cordially received by Lyric patrons as Zaco Maletto, and gives a fine performance, and Miss Hilda Shirley is powerful and refined as Myra Maletto. Wilfred Grey is well rendered by Mr. Colin F. Peckover, and Mr. G. Mortimer Hancock is efficient as Colonel Crichton. The part of Jim Rogers is suitably allotted to Mr. Sam Edwards; and Paul is cleverly played by Mr. P. Morton Wright. Mr. William Allan well sustains the rôle of Detective Smart, and Miss Winifred Rutland is happily chosen as Lily, the White Angel. Mr. Frank Shepherd as Peter Pimple is agile and amusing; and Miss Elsie Dene smart and fresh as Dolly Dimple. To Mr. P. Lawrence and Mr. William George fall the rôles of Sergeant Wiggins and P.-C. Jenkins respectively, and their performances deserve warm praise.

KENNINGTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Sept. 12, the Romantic Comedy, entitled
"THE LITTLE DAMOZEL."

The charm of The Little Damozel and her joys and sorrows, as shown in the play of the same name by Mr. Monckton Hoffe, have quite captivated the hearts of the patrons of the Kennington Theatre, where the comedy has been presented during this week by an admirable company sent out by Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow. Miss Emélie Polini's portrayal of the Little Damozel is thoroughly natural in every mood in which the author presents the pleasure-loving harpist of the Café Angelique. Miss Polini shows herself once again to be an actress of genuine power and sincerity. Mr. Alick Chumley makes a worthy successor to Mr. Charles Hawtrey, and his rendering of Rocklaw Poole, the "man about town," is very interesting. The scoundrelly Captain Neil Partington is played with effective restraint by Mr. George A. Brandram. Mr. Mark Blow gives excellent point to the many good sayings placed in the mouth of the Hon. Fitzroy Lock, the pertinaceous insurance agent, and Mr. William Matthews makes a cheery proprietor of the café. The members of the orchestra were presented with much skill by Captain Gambier as the philosophic Papa Bartholdy, and by Mr. H. Ravenscroft and Mr. Frank Roy as Franz Pepo and Abraham respectively, each giving a touch of character to a slender part. Miss Marion Lockie as the girl the memory of whose face has been retained during his black years by Rocklaw Poole, was thoroughly adequate. The Little Damozel was preceded by a meritorious little curtain-raiser, entitled An Idol's Message, by Mr. Guy Newall, who was assisted in the performance by Mr. George Brandram and Miss Maude Rivers.

ELEPHANT AND CASTLE THEATRE.

On Monday, Sept. 12, the Play, entitled
"THE EYES OF THE WORLD."

A very strong attraction is provided here in Miss Ethel van Praagh and Mr. J. Edward Whitty's company in that well-known play of French society life, The Eyes of the World. The play deals with the unspeakable miseries which people of the fashionable world have to endure in order to retain their position. Miss Ethel van Praagh supports the part of Helene de L'Orme, who, finding her husband unfaithful, leaves him and braves the consequences. In the scene in which she returns and confronts her spouse and his mistress she displays to their full extent her fine acting powers; but in fact throughout the play Miss Praagh is easily the dominating character. Mr. J. Edward Whitty is responsible for the rôle of the young advocate, Achille Fanfarade, and a very amusing fellow he makes him. Mr. Robertson Foulis in the character of the degraded and cowardly Hector de L'Orme does all that is possible. Mr. Guy P. Ellis is excellent as Gaston de Carnac, who is so intent on achieving success that he does not realise his wife's infidelity. Mr. Roger Carleton is a manly and amiable Octave; Mr. R. Wilton Bedford displays some neat traits of humour in the part of Paul Roqueville; Mr. Harold Forde is good as the faithful servant, Brigard; Miss Flora Hastings plays well the unpleasant part of the deceitful wife, Esme de Carnac; Miss Nellie Garside is a bright and vivacious Susanne Pomfleure; and Miss Edith Rutland is an engaging Avice. A word of praise should be given to the very excellent mounting.

BRIXTON THEATRE.

On Monday, Sept. 12, the Musical Comedy, entitled
"DARE-DEVIL DOROTHY."

A welcome change from drama is this week being presented here with the production by Mr. J. W. Cordiner of the above successful musical comedy. Mr. Walter Boyce does good work as General Garston; Mr. Walter Ashley is a dashing and handsome Captain George Fielding; while Mr. James Morath fulfils admirably the part of Captain Edward Dudley. Miss Dorothy Desmonde is a captivating and dainty heroine, and sings charmingly. Miss Lillie Elvido is a sprightly Rosy Ann; and Mr. Fred W. Graham capital as Silas Crump. Mr. Geoffrey Berwick is well cast as Featherston Haugh; Polly is pleasingly played by Miss Iris Elvido, and Ruth finds a charming representative in Miss Margaret S. Forbes. The other characters are well sustained. Dare-Devil Dorothy is prettily mounted, and some graceful dances are given by the Two Elvidos, and smart specialities by Mr. Geoffrey Berwick, Miss D. Desmonde, Mr. Fred W. Graham, and Miss Margaret S. Forbes. The chorus and augmented orchestra are capitally controlled by Mr. Louis Elgar. The whole is carefully produced under the control of Mr. J. W. Cordiner. Mr. Newman Maurice is, as usual, to the fore as manager for Mr. Fred Melville.

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.

On Monday, the Farce, in Three Acts, by Charles Marlowe, entitled
"WHEN KNIGHTS WERE BOLD."

The walls of the Kingston playhouse have resounded this week with the laughter occasioned by the performance of this most laughable farce. Mr. James Welch's part of Sir Guy de Vere is filled by Mr. H. Langdon Bruce, who extracts from it all the humour it is capable of yielding. Miss Isla Glyn is appearing as Lady Rowena, in which part she discloses considerable ability; and charming appearances are made by Miss Sadie Hope and Miss L. Lewes in the respective rôles of Milly and Lady Marjorie Eggington. Miss Violet Noel acquits herself well as Miss Sarah Isaacson, and the Hon. Mrs. Waldegrave is capably represented by Miss Lena Flowerdew. Others who acquit themselves with distinction are Miss Juliet Matheson, Miss E. Oliphant, Mr. Colin Johnston, Mr. Humphrey Warden, Mr. Chas. Lloyd, Mr. John Cecil, and Mr. Percy R. Goodyer.

ARTILLERY THEATRE, WOOLWICH.

On Monday, Sept. 12, the Musical Comedy, entitled
"HAVANA,"

Mr. Alexander Leighton has brought his company in the above popular Gaiety production. Bright, pretty, tuneful, and full of humour, the play is a huge success. Jack Villiers is well placed in the hands of Mr. Oliver Rogers, who is heartily supported by Mr. J. Brian Rideout as Frank Charteris. Mr. Cyril K. Percival is very funny as Don Adelfo, the "Telephone Song" and "Hullo, People!" with "The Daily Mirror Beauties" being most agreeably sung. Mr. Arthur Wingrave gives the amount of dignity required for Bombito del Campo, whose sister, Isabelita, is pleasingly delineated by Miss Edith Barwell. Miss Winnie Milne makes a pretty flower-seller; as Consuelo Miss Hebe Bliss acts successfully; and to Miss Winnie Browne must be given the highest praise, her singing and dancing winning her rounds of applause. Nix and Reggie Brown are admirably played by Messrs. John R. Vale and Reg Edwards, two excellent comedians. The other characters are placed in capable hands. Dresses, scenery, and stage effects are admirable.

GRAND, FULHAM.

On Monday, Sept. 12, the Play, in Three Acts, by George Paston and W. B. Maxwell, entitled
"THE NAKED TRUTH."

A capital company, managed by Miss Molesworth and Mr. Blow is giving a bright and lively representation of this successful farce. The leading rôle of Bunny Darrell, the "George Washington malgré lui," is in the capable hands of Mr. Stanley Logan, who plays in finished style and an admirable sense of the situation. Mr. Townsend Whitling as Uncle James is a typical Anglo-Indian, as peppery and explosive as one could wish. Mr. Besley Beltram plays quietly and effectively as Mr. Hayter. Mr. Erskine Lang as the ineffable Teddy Lestrange is a source of constant merriment. Mr. Laurence Arthur does well in the rather exaggerated sketch of the doctor; and Mr. James Heddon raises many laughs as the bewildered clerk, Prosser. Miss Kathleen Maude plays prettily as Darrell's fiancée, Norah, a part which has less of the broadly comic element, and more of human sentiment. So also with the part of Mrs. Darrell, the mother, which is well taken by Miss Ormonde Wynne. Miss Dora Fellowes plays brightly as Madame Favre; and Miss Violet Temple plays the part of Mrs. Duckett with vigour and humour. Miss Lillian Russell gives an excellent study of the well-trained domestic Hammond. Miss Violet Ley shows some power in her rendering of the part of Mrs. Hayter. The company play well together, and the piece goes briskly from beginning to end. The Naked Truth is preceded by the popular sketch, Feed the Brute, which is well acted by three members of the company.

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

MR. CHAS. ROAD-NIGHT.

One of the newest additions to the ranks of travelling actor-managers is the gentleman with the above striking name. He commenced his career as an actor eight years ago with Messrs. Sass and Nelson's répertoire company, playing in pieces like A Gaiety Girl, A French Maid, The Belle of New York, Gentleman Joe, &c., and remained with those gentlemen for a period of two years. Prior to this he had been fighting in the South African campaign as a soldier, and had distinguished himself on more than one occasion. "Having got tired of bully beef and biscuits," says Mr. Road-Night, "I came down to Pietermaritzburg and joined the Natal Mounted Police—a fine body of men. Here I met a nephew of the late Sir Redvers Buller and several V.C. men. My time in this corps was indeed pleasant. A free life, open country, and no business worries, with plenty of game—there was nothing better to wish for."

Mr. Road-Night, however, was not contented, for it happened that Messrs. Sass and Nelson brought a company to the theatre at Durban. He went down to see the performance, and was so enraptured with the life that he then and there made an application, and was accepted. On the termination of the engagement Mr. Road-Night was secured by Miss Minnie Palmer, who was then making a tour through South Africa with My Sweetheart, for the part of Frank Bartlett. His other engagements out there included those with Messrs. B. and F. Wheeler and Mr. Robert Brough. Very shortly afterwards Mr. Road-Night came over to England, and almost immediately Mr. J. Bannister Howard engaged him to play Leandro in Florodora. On the termination of a two years' engagement with that popular musical comedy Mr. R. C. Buchanan made Mr. Road-Night an offer of a position as stage-manager at Harrogate, which he readily accepted. That year the pantomime Cinderella was a pronounced success, and the following year at the Grand Theatre, Fulham, enjoyed a run of six weeks. Amongst recent parts Mr. Road-Night has played his Wittle, in When Knights were Bold, stands out very prominently.

MR. ROAD-NIGHT.

He would have gone out to play this part again, but for a tempting offer by the well-known actress-manageress, Miss M. Morton, to undertake the general-managership of her company, an opportunity which Mr. Road-Night was glad to take. He has since secured the rights of the Gaiety success Havana, which is proving a success in the provinces. Mr. Road-Night has arranged to tour The Prodigal Son and The Dairymaids at Christmas, in addition to three companies already on the road.

An Anglo-Indian by birth, Mr. Road-Night was born in Bombay. He has travelled all over the world, and speaks six languages. His favourite pastime is boxing, his excellence in which is proved by the fact that he is the holder of the light-weight championship of the South African Police.

THE BROADWAY THEATRE.

On Monday, Sept. 12,
"FAUST."

The appearance of the Carl Rosa Opera Company is one of the great events of the season here, and the seating capacity of this large theatre is taxed to the utmost on their visits. Gounod's opera is ever absorbing, the music is delightful, and the representation of the familiar characters in this production leaves little to be desired. Mr. E. C. Hedmondt is the Faust; he looks the part and sings with artistic power and finish. The Mephistopheles of Mr. Arthur Winckworth is a very fine performance, vocally and dramatically; Mr. Hobden Foster's Valentine is very good indeed; Mr. George Reid is an excellent Wagner; Miss Beatrice Miranda is a charming Marguerite, gentle and sympathetic, and singing the well-known numbers of the part with sweetness and power; Miss Phyllis Archibald is an excellent Siebel; and the Martha of Miss Douglas Wilson is clever and humorous. All the smaller parts were well filled. On Tuesday there was a production of Maritana, Miss Ina Hill being a charming representative of the title-part; Miss Mabel Dennis, a clever vocalist and actress, made the most of Lazarillo; Mr. Walter Wheatley was a fine Don Cæsar; and Mr. D. Marcus an excellent Don José. On Wednesday Tannhäuser and The Bohemian Girl were given, on Thursday Carmen, and on Friday The Queen of Sheba. Miss Annie Elliott is a graceful and clever prima danseuse, the chorus is admirable, and the conductors for the week are Mr. Walter Van Noorden and Mr. Eugene Goossens.

"The Upstart," a farce comedy in three acts, was the opening attraction at Maxine Elliott's Theatre, New York, on the 1st inst. The Rev. James Mitchell and his young wife are not happy, and the reason is that the latter longs for ardent affection, but all she gets are theories and sermons. The Rev. James quotes Schopenhauer, and says that "the scourge of married life is familiarity." Enter this household a young student, named Coventry Patmore, with decided views on the subject of marriage and divorce, which he brays forth at every opportunity. In other words, he thinks he has a "mission." His theory is that the Courts are wrong in granting divorces, that happiness will come only when a husband is ready and willing to give up his wife to another man if he finds he cannot make her happy. Being led to believe that her husband has seen the truth of this theory the minister's wife elopes in a motor-car with her chauffeur, only to be caught when the car breaks down. The lady discovers that her chauffeur used to drive a taxi-cab, and is quickly disillusioned, so that a reconciliation is effected when the husband appears. Coventry Patmore is still "spouting" his theories as the curtain goes down. The play was cleverly acted by Messrs. David Glassford, John Westley, George Woodward, and Miss Jane Cowl. It was withdrawn after three performances.

"GENTLEMEN OF THE PRESS."

Play, in Three Acts, by H. M. Richardson, Produced for the First Time on any Stage by Miss Horniman's company at the Gaiety Theatre, Manchester, on Monday, Sept. 12.

Harry Blake	Mr. Milton Rosmer
Mr. Vernal	Mr. Edward Landor
Mrs. Dale	Miss Irene Rooke
Laurence Dale	Mr. Stanley Drewitt
Mr. Maxom	Mr. Henry Austin
Mr. McAndrews	Mr. Esmé Percy
Mr. Barlow	Mr. Charles Bibby
Tommy	Mr. Leonard Chapman
Mr. Bexley	Mr. James V. Bryant
Mr. Dilburne	Mr. Frank Darch
Mr. McPherson	Mr. Francis Hope
Mr. Bilson	Mr. Stafford Dawson
The Master Printer	Mr. Herbert Lomas

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

In Gentlemen of the Press we have in some respects a unique entertainment. The scene is the Leader Writer's Room at the Daily Planet office, in which a free presentment is given of the inner workings of a newspaper staff. These are revealed not more fully than is warranted by the title of the play, though, to the credit of the author's wit and fancy, exaggerations are not conspicuous by their absence.

In the centre of the action are two of the leader writers, Harry Blake, a man of the moment, inspired merely by the necessities of his office, and Laurence Dale, a man abnormally possessed by conscience and a love of the truth. The difference between these men is one upon which the mass of journalists will lean to the side of Blake, and it is perhaps unfortunate for the author that the average newspaper cannot, by the very nature of its constitution, give countenance to the arguments of Dale. All men are liars, but especially is this so of newspaper men, says Dale, since their writings are dictated by policies, and conscience therefore must be sacrificed to expediency. The Methodist Times or the War Cry might, Blake suggests, be better suited to his colleague's frame of mind. But absolute truth is not anywhere, and bread and butter must be had; and if Dale will not write up a manufactured war scare for the Planet there are any number of men who are ready to do so as cheerfully as they will contradict the rumour when required. Here, in fact, is the material to hand—a bogus discovery of amazing treachery to England, which is to inflame the popular imagination and add to the prestige of the paper, and it is Dale's duty to write it up. In the meantime something has happened which adds piquancy to this question of conscience. Dale has been accompanied to the office by his wife. While her husband is in the editor's room she and Blake come together, for they are carrying on a clandestine and serious love affair. She agrees to ring Blake up on the telephone if she finds herself alone at home a little later on, Blake's intention being to go and keep her company for half an hour or so. Following this incident, the chief reporter makes his appearance with a dreadful story of bribery, to be charged against Barlow, a junior, for having received a sovereign from a dishonest baker to take no professional note of the latter's case in court. This unpardonable piece of corruption is gone into by Mr. McAndrews, the Scotch editor, in fine style, the result being that Barlow has the privilege of tendering his resignation instead of being dismissed on the spot. Barlow, however, is not the young man to take it quietly, and Laurence Dale puts forward friendly interposition on his account. Both are, in fact, of one mind—Barlow sees it in a flash! What he has done is no worse than the editor and the rest of them are doing, namely, taking their wages as bribery for suppression of the truth in other forms. But this shocking retort does not save him. Later, while Dale is alone in the room, the telephone bell rings. He answers it, but finds that it is Blake who is wanted. The latter, coming in, goes to the 'phone and speaks to Mrs. Dale. Dale has recognised the voice, and his suspicions are aroused. When Blake has gone out, ostensibly to meet someone at the club, Dale is disturbed by the entrance of Mr. Dilburne, one of the staff whose night off it is, and whom he asks to write the distasteful leader on the war scare, so that he may be at liberty to keep an appointment. Dilburne is the very opposite of Dale; he rattles the thing off with gusto, having no qualms whatever on the score of conscience.

The interview which takes place between Blake and Mrs. Dale is pertinent enough to the question of Dale's obsession. Between husband and wife there is no love, but of that transcendental sort in the former which would make him sacrifice her freely to the man she really loves. There are no children of the marriage; there is indeed no real tie. Dale has already gone so far as to say that were he free he would go abroad and begin a new, "clean" life. But this implies his self-sacrifice to the present for the sake of his love for his wife; and this the latter sees, in spite of the dubious light Blake throws on it, when the lovers argue their future on Mrs. Dale's resolve that their meetings must be at an end. Blake is about to accept the inevitable—is, in fact, leaving—when Dale arrives at the house. Blake conceals himself behind the window curtains and hears all that passes. Dale satisfies himself that his wife no longer loves him, but he is very gentle with her, laying himself out to bring her to a confession for the sake of simple truth. To be true to oneself at any cost—that is the thing! So pointed are his persuasions and his argument that Blake comes out from the curtains at last, and so the whole truth is out. Dale accepts the situation, adjures Blake to "be good to her," and takes a melancholy departure. It is, to say the least, unusual; but Dale is a rigid idealist, and he acts accordingly. The sequel takes place in the Sub-Editor's Room at the Planet office. There is to be but one simple issue, but it is approached by means of an elaborate gathering of the staff round the table, to make speeches and drink whisky in regretful celebration of the immediate resignation of Laurence Dale. This scene may be overdrawn, but it is unquestionably diverting. Dale himself provides the whisky, and there is to be a presentation of some token of esteem, which is to be sent on. Dale speaks last, and will not allow anyone to drink until he has come to the end of what he has to say. He speaks for conscience and the truth. At last he raises his glass and drains it, but prevents anyone from joining him by confessing that the whisky is poisoned, and that he will be dead in a few minutes. That is the end.

The acting, as is usual with this remarkable company, was uniformly excellent. Mr. Milton Rosmer conveyed with ease and finish the sense and sentiment of Harry Blake, in striking contrast to the brooding restlessness and dissatisfaction of Laurence Dale, who was impersonated with convincing fervour and sincerity by Mr. Stanley Drewitt. As Mrs. Dale Miss Irene Rooke showed herself a mistress of emotional acting. Mr. Vernal, the chief sub-editor on the Daily Planet, found a capital exponent in Mr. Edward Landor; Mr. Henry Austin as Mr. Maxom, the chief reporter, acquitted himself with characteristic ease; and a performance of high merit was the Barlow of Mr. Charles Bibby. Mr. Esmé Percy almost surpassed himself as the dignified but not unsociable Scotch editor, McAndrews, lending a touch of sedate comedy to the final scene, and looking like anybody but himself; and a bright piece of work was that of Mr. James V. Bryant as Bexley, the dirty-faced "sub," who ate sweetmeats out of a bag and drank ginger beer out of the bottle. The smaller parts were correspondingly well filled by Messrs. Leonard Chapman, Frank Darch, Francis Hope, Stafford Dawson, and Herbert Lomas.

THE POETRY SOCIETY.

Mr. Forbes Robertson said some very pertinent things at the audition he held in behalf of the Poetry Society on Saturday last. He had listened patiently to about a score of amateur and professional exponents of the art of speaking verse, whose efforts he commended, and then he proceeded to give some excellent advice which thoroughly endorsed the methods and policy of the Poetry Society. He had not come to flatter, but to judge, he said, but he was very agreeably surprised at the way the examinees had recited and read. They had shown taste and discrimination. In some cases, the voices were not loud or strong enough for that large hall (the Throne Room of the Holborn Restaurant). With some there was a tendency to depart from natural delivery and to sing or chant instead of delivering the words in the simplest possible way, and in others to indulge in gesticulation. Gesticulation, especially in the speaking of lyrical poetry, was out of place, the most finished demonstrator of the art pointed out. It did not assist the reciter to convey a certain emotion or a certain feeling, and it was better that he should confine himself to the use of the voice, impressing the audience by intonation and inflection and facial expression, eliminating altogether the adjunct of action. With lyrical poetry the words should be spoken without any action whatever. They were not appealing to the eye; they were not part of a scene, but standing alone expressing beautiful words and ideas through the voice as readers or reciters.

The tendency of reciters to drop the voice at the end of a line was noticed. The last word or two had to be watched very carefully, lest, having come to the end of a sentence, the voice was not supported, the air being exhausted, and the word disappeared, the sense of the line or sentence being lost to the audience.

Another great thing to remember, Mr. Forbes Robertson pointed out, was not only to secure true pronunciation and clear enunciation, and to give effect to the emotion and feeling of a poem, but to give careful consideration to the value and object of each word, not its value in the line or phrase, but the actual mere sound of the word. So many words in the English language were in themselves beautiful sounds, and, therefore, it behoved the reciter to be very careful to give out clearly the preciousness of the sounds themselves, apart from elocutionary efforts. Every word in the language had its own character and mission apart from its position in the line. There were words so beautiful that they must be given with all their purity. And if we were conscious of the beauty of words, and felt them deeply ourselves, we should go a long way to producing the effect of beauty on our audiences.

Such work as they were engaged on, Mr. Forbes Robertson declared, was most praiseworthy and admirable in every way. He hoped they would continue in their efforts, and that they would remember that sincerity and naturalness were to be striven after and mannerisms avoided. "Be perfectly natural, simple, and unaffected, and conscious of the beauty of the language."

The examination was arranged for the personal satisfaction and benefit of the members of the Poetry Society, and also as a test of the qualifications of members who might be called on to act as missionaries of the Society and "demonstrators of the art of speaking verse." Each candidate was liable to be called upon to "speak" two poems ("The Blessed Damozel" and Wordsworth's "The World is too Much With Us"), to read a portion of "Abt Vogler," and to recite or read a poem selected by the examiner, and one chosen by themselves as indicative of their personal style and taste. To hear each candidate do this programme would have involved a sitting of ten or twelve hours, and the expert examiner was content to hear about a third of "The Blessed Damozel" spoken and the Wordsworth sonnet or a part of "Abt Vogler" read, excessive repetition—which, while illustrating the varying styles, was apt to become monotonous—being avoided by some of the candidates being allowed to recite or read the pieces selected by themselves. All the candidates were members of the Society, comprising private members from Hampstead and Kensington centres, teachers of elocution and professional reciters, a devoted old lady of seventy-three, an Oxford-street business girl, who showed she possessed both intelligence and ability, a lady from far-off Texas, and a tall, handsome girl from Sydney, N.S.W., straight and slender and brown as a cornstalk—a collection typical of the wide appeal and ramifications of the Poetry Society. In their different ways, trying and embarrassing though the audition was, they showed considerable ability, giving evidence, in the opinion of the examiner (with whom was associated Mr. Galloway Kyle, the director of this most desirable and active Society) "of a great feeling for poetry. The average was very high, and the exhibition most satisfactory under the circumstances." This endorsement by a great living authority was most gratifying to the Society and the painstaking enthusiasts who submitted themselves to Saturday's ordeal, and will result in a wider practical application of the Society's very necessary work.

MISS FLORENCE IMESON'S WORK.

Amongst those from whom the Cape Town public will part with sincere regret is Miss Florence Imeson, the gifted artist whose beauty, lightness, grace, and charm contributed more than the lion's share to the success of the season. With one or two exceptions she has borne the brunt of the heaviest part in the different productions, never once was at a loss for a line, and frequently was able to cover up the hiatus caused by a lapse of memory of some other player. Whether the rôle was great or small she entered into it with a wholehearted zest and vigour which infused fresh life into many a lagging scene. It is difficult to say whether her portrayal of Molly Seamore in The Geisha or Lydia Hawthorne in Dorothy was the best thing she has done, but these performances certainly rank among the best interpretations of the respective characters ever seen here or in Great Britain. In The Geisha she was the gay, careless, light-hearted English girl to the life, and the abandon with which she invested her work at a critical moment when the performance began to drag listlessly, and compelled the company to play up to her, will not readily be forgotten in Cape Town, because the result of her magic spell was one of the finest renderings of Sidney Jones's famous work ever given here.—South African News, Aug. 5.

THEATRE ROYAL, WOOLWICH.

Mr. Walter Melville's combination is presenting A Girl's Cross Roads, which has obtained a hearty reception. As Farmer Meadows Mr. Ed. Valentine's genial, hearty manner and quaint delivery win many admirers; Mr. Carl F. Kerzo is an earnest Jack Livingstone, but should "let himself go" more; the villainy of Cuthbert Lumbeg is well brought out by Mr. Fred Rivers; and as his quondam companion in crime Luke Ramsden Mr. Leslie Nolan works hard, as does also Miss Adah Rothwell as Nellie Meadows. Miss Doris Whyte is very sweet and sympathetic as Constance Cornell; as the poor degraded Barbara Wade Miss Nell Oliver is very effective; Mr. Kendrew Milson is well cast as Dr. Weston; and the comedy is supplied by Miss Amy Rudd and Mr. Willie Scott, who raise roars of laughter by their antics. The play is well staged and dressed.

A Copy of "The Era" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

THE DRAMA IN PARIS.

"COMME ILS SONT TOUS."

Comedy, in Four Acts, by Ad. Aderer and Ephraim, Produced at the Comédie-Française on Sept. 9.

La Préfète	MLLE. DU MINIL
Ginette	MLLE. PIERAT
Laure	MLLE. DUSSANNE
Mme. Leloutre	MLLE. BOVY
Baronne de Chanceney	MLLE. PROVOST
Baron de Chanceney	M. BERNARD
Comte Latour-Guyon	M. GRAND
Chabannes	M. NUMA
Le Colonel	M. GARAY
St. Didier	M. DE FERAUDY
Professeur	M. LAFON
Bocaire	M. GUILHENE

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, THURSDAY, Sept. 15.—The new play brought out by the Comédie-Française met with a well-deserved success. The story is as follows. M. Ménard, a senator, has two daughters, Laure and Ginette. Laure, the elder, who divorced her husband, has taken a dislike to the male sex. Ginette, on the other hand, has centred her affections on the Comte de Latour-Guyon, a dashing cavalry officer. Ce que femme veut, Dieu le veut! Ginette wanted the captain, and before many weeks have elapsed she becomes his wife. The Count has always been a great admirer of the fair sex, but marriage has steadied him, and during fifteen months he remains so faithful to his young wife that he thinks himself proof against temptation. He has made a mistake. The fascinating Baronne de Chanceney, one of his former mistresses puts in an inopportune appearance. The two ex-lovers converse for a quarter of an hour, and that short space of time is sufficient for the lady to get him back into her toils. The inexperienced Ginette does not see that her husband is "running off the rails," and it is only when her sister tells her bluntly what is going on that she realises her misfortune. Then follows a violent scene between husband and wife. The Count shows himself repentant, and things might have been settled then and there if Ginette had not committed the mistake of taunting him with having married her "for her money." Whereupon the Count grows indignant, and for the moment any attempt at reconciliation is useless. There is only one course open to them—divorce. But things are not carried so far. The wife of a Prefect, the Count's first cousin, comes to the rescue, and makes Ginette understand that men like the Count have to be treated like puppets, with whom one has to pull certain strings to make them go in every direction. Ginette follows the advice of this woman of the world. She cleverly induces the Baroness to write the Count a letter, wherein she declares that their intimacy has come to an end; and there will be no divorce. The work was beautifully interpreted. Mlle. Pierat had a great success, especially in the third act; Mlle. Provost was a fascinating Baronne de Chanceney; Mlle. du Minil was a convincing Préfète; and M. Grand as the Count proved himself a thorough comedian. Mlle. Dussanne made the most of the unpleasant rôle of Laure.

"L'ENLEVEMENT DES SABINES."

Play in Three Acts and Four Tableaux, by MM. J. Lemaire and Schonhan, Produced at the Nouveautés on Sept. 10.

Mme. Levernois	MME. MAUREL
Marcelle	MLLE. DERMINY
Paulette	MLLE. PARYS
Rose	MME. JENNY ROSE
Augustine	MLLE. GALLY
Levernois	M. GERMAIN
Bédarride	M. MATRAT
Tourette	M. GORBY
Charles	M. LANDRIN
Emile	M. LEPRINCE

The above work is of foreign importation. We were told that in Germany it had a phenomenal run, and we, therefore, were anxious to hear this marvel produced. It raised some laughter, but it is not likely to keep the bill for fifteen hundred nights like it appears it did in the land of the spiked helmets. The plot, we were assured, has been slightly altered by the adapter. L'Enlèvement des Sabines is not only the title of the play, it is also that of a tragedy in five acts, written years ago by M. Levernois, a professor of history at the College in Pont-sur-Oise. His daughter is the wife of a Dr. Tourette, and the good professor, respected by all except by his wife, would have continued to lead a peaceful life had he but taken the precaution of tearing up his tragedy. Unfortunately, he lays his hands on the MS., he reads it again, and finally convinces himself that it is a masterpiece. It so happens that Bédarride, director of the Quatrième Théâtre Français, comes with his company to Pont-sur-Oise. The Professor shows his tragedy to Bédarride, who undertakes to produce it, promising not to divulge the author's name. From that moment the poor Professor's life becomes a misery. How can he attend the rehearsals, now that his wife has returned too soon from her stay in the country? At last, after many tribulations, the first night arrives. The first act of L'Enlèvement des Sabines falls flat, but the second fares better, the audience grows enthusiastic, and the play is a tremendous success. Mme. Levernois, for the first time in her life, is proud of her husband, who, thanks to his tragedy, has become the greatest man in the district. The work was smartly played by the efficient cast of the Nouveautés.

THE following letter is quoted by Mr. R. J. Broadbent in his recently-published and very interesting pamphlet, "Elizabeth Farren, Countess of Derby." It was supposed to have been addressed to Mrs. Farren by Whiteley, the manager, soon after her arrival in Manchester:—

"Madam,—I have duly considered the subject of our late conversation, and do not think there is the least chance of your deriving any permanent benefit from theatrical pursuits. Inclination does not confer talent; for the sake of yourself and children I strenuously advise you to turn your attention to some other less dangerous and precarious line of life. I say less dangerous as applies to your daughters. I have passed a long career upon the stage, and where I have seen one person prosperous and happy, ten have failed, and many, particularly females, have been morally cast away. If I had been bred as a shoemaker or tailor, and had followed those humble callings with the same diligence that I have endeavoured to get forward as an actor, I should, in all probability, be now independent. Look round you in this busy town, and you will see hundreds of persons who were destitute as it were but yesterday, and are now in the high road to wealth. Fix on some safe and certain occupation. Even a laundress, with tolerable plenty of work, is preferable to treading the stage as a make-weight. Do not feel offended at this bluntness. Nature has not endowed you with the qualities that are requisite to ensure success: as to Betsy, although she seems to possess every natural requisite, she is yet too young, and were she my daughter, I would sooner rear her up to go to service in a respectable family! Inclosed is a trifle of which I entreat the acceptance. When the wheel of fortune takes a more favourable turn you may return it. I would not advise you to leave Manchester. It is a busy, thriving town; let me hear your determination: and if you feel inclined to make any attempt in the way of trade, I will, with the utmost readiness, aid your views as far as my means permit. Meantime, with the utmost sincerity, I remain your friend,—W."

THE DRAMA IN BERLIN.

"DER WERT DES LEBENS."

Play, in Four Acts, by W. Nemirovitch-Dantschenko, Produced at the Modernes Theatre, Sept. 10.

Demurin	HERR REUSS
Anna	FRAULEIN ISENTA
Hermann Demurin	HERR FELIX
Claudia	FRAULEIN SILTEN
Eudoxia	FRAULEIN MONATI
Nikolei	HERR FEHER
Warja	FRAULEIN DIESERN
Constantin	HERR WEIGNER
Morskoi	HERR PLANÉ
Sascha	FRAULEIN DAVID

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, THURSDAY, Sept. 15.—The author is well known here from the fact of his being the manager of the Artistic Theatre at Moscow, the company of which gave such a highly successful season at the Berliner Theatre last year. His chief merits lie in the way of mounting, and greater perfection could not easily be conceived than M. Nemirovitch-Dantschenko's management. This being allowed, the truth must be told that this very clever manager is not a successful playwright. The applause that the piece provoked was due alone to the excellent acting and mounting, and perhaps a modicum for auld lang syne. Herr Flachs-Fokschaneanu has translated the play in very good style, not a point—I am assured by those who know the piece in the original—having been lost. The action passes in Moscow, where a young man employed in M. Demurin's factory has committed suicide because he had a liaison of three years' standing with the wife of his chief. Plot there is, properly speaking, none; everything turns upon this suicide, and the "value of life" is the psychological discussion between all the persons of the play. The one dramatic scene is that in which Anna Demurin feels herself impelled to confess her sin to her unconscious husband. He makes things lively for a while; in fact, to use an Americanism, he raises Cain. This is in the third act, and here the piece should end, but the author adds a wearisome fourth, in which the justly-enraged husband becomes quite suddenly gentle as a lamb, how or why remains to the audience an enigma. This is the first novelty of the new management, and as such was not uninteresting.

THREE one-act pieces were given for the first time at the Neues on Saturday last. The first was a farce by the clever satirist Ludwig Thoma entitled Erste Klasse, and decidedly the best of the three. The scene is laid in a first-class compartment of an express train, where a Berlin "bagman"—as impudent and bombastic a specimen as any author could depict—a member of the Imperial Diet (of peasant extraction and not much education), a honeymoon couple, and one or two other "types" are collected together. The conversation that takes place is very amusing, and jokes are freely made at the expense of the authorities—sly hits such as have made the reputation of Ludwig Thoma as a member of the "Simplicissimus" staff. The two other pieces were by Max Burkhard, one entitled Die unbedeutende Frau, the other Comtesse Clo, and both are part of a cycle entitled "Die verflixten Frauenzimmer." They were neither funny nor decent, and the reception was not particularly cordial, which says something for the good taste of the audience. All the pieces were admirably acted.

"WANN KOMMST DU WIEDER?" a three-act comedy by W. Somerset-Maugham, was produced at the New Schauspielhaus on Tuesday, with much success. It is translated by B. Pogson, who might perhaps have supplied a less awkward title, but who has otherwise done the work very commendably. When Are You Coming Back? is certainly known to your readers. The story of pretty Penelope, who worries her husband Dr. O'Farrell with this question every time he stirs from her side, is amusingly told. The reconciliation, after O'Farrell has cured his little wife of over-devotion by attention to her friend, is complete, especially when Penelope has given him tit for tat, and the audience never had a dull moment from start to finish. Applause was loud and hearty, and the interpretation being capital, there is every prospect of a lengthy run.

A NEW farce by M.M. Hennequin and Veber, Noblesse Oblige, has been produced with the best results at the Residenz. It is much the same style of piece as we have seen there a dozen or more times before—the usual complications consequent upon the faithlessness of various married couples, the absurdly laughable "situations," the all-round reconciliations. Whoever sees Herr Richard Alexander in the chief rôle—even if it be but a variation of many others—is sure of an amusing evening, and it was the case this time. Not only the popular actor-manager, but all the cast deserved the applause they received in such full measure, while the piece was staged with customary skill.

DR. STRAUSS' new opera Der Rosencavalier will probably first see the footlights at our own Royal Opera after all, negotiations with Count Seebach—the Intendant of the Dresden Royal Opera—having come to a full stop on account of some little differences of opinion. In the meantime the composer is putting the finishing touches to his work, for which the managers of all the leading provincial theatres are eagerly bidding.

THE MRS. ERNEST CARPENTER MATINEE.

Since our last issue the following names have been added to the programme for the Benefit Matinée to Mrs. Ernest Carpenter at the Lyceum on Oct. 4:—Madam Margaret Cooper, who will render some songs from her répertoire; Mr. Bransby Williams, in some of his Dickens impersonations; and Mr. Charles Pond, who will give one or two of his "Glimpses of Life."

It is probable that Sir Herbert Tree's contribution to that occasion will be The Ballad Monger; whilst the scene to be presented by the Drury Lane company from The Whip will be that of the famous Mme. Tussaud's, in which Miss Fanny Brough, Miss Nancy Price, Miss Madge Fabian, Mr. Geo. Barrett, Mr. Austin Melford, and several others will appear.

The demand for seats is already very large, as it should be, considering the wonderful strength of the programme, and the sympathy aroused amongst all classes.

The following is a first list of subscriptions to the testimonial fund:—

Mr. Stanley Lindwall	£5	5	0
Mr. Henry Arthur Jones	5	5	0
Mr. Robert Courtneidge	5	5	0
Mr. George Alexander	2	2	0
Mr. Norman Forbes	2	2	0
Sir Edward Moss	2	2	0
Mr. G. E. Morrison	1	1	0
Mr. Lyn Harding	1	1	0
Messrs. Maskelyne and Devant	1	1	0

MESSRS. LUSH AND COOK, LTD., the well-known theatrical dyers and cleaners, of 29, Charing Cross-road, W.C., have this week executed an extremely smart dyeing order for Messrs. Frohman's production of A Woman's Way at the Comedy Theatre, noticed in this issue, by dyeing to pattern and re-making the green satin damask curtains in the extraordinary time of some fourteen working hours. Mr. Dion Boucicault, who has produced this play in his usual masterly style, was extremely pleased with their work. It was a successful achievement, reflecting great credit upon this enterprising firm, and upon Mr. John Bell, the manager of their theatrical business.

AMERICAN AMUSEMENTS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

NEW YORK, SEPT. 7.—Our Miss Gibbs was performed for the first time in New York at the Knickerbocker Theatre on the 29th ult, the applause being frequent and hearty. Miss Pauline Chase, who appeared in the title-rôle, was welcomed back to Broadway as an old friend, and her dance with Mr. Ernest Lambart was the most graceful example of the Terpsichorean art that had been seen for a long time, and when she donned the pink pyjamas that seem to be inseparable from her identity, the audience expressed its approval most heartily. Miss Gertrude Vanderbilt became a great favourite as Kathleen, and her dancing evoked a storm of applause. Mr. Fred Wright, junior, one of the drollest comedians that London lends us, played Timothy Gibbs, and made the most emphatic hit of the performance in the song with Miss Vanderbilt, "Come, tiny goldfish to me." Mr. Wright's humour always tickles the New Yorkers. Mr. Ernest Lambart, too, was conspicuously successful as the Hon. Hughie Pierrepoint, presenting, as he did, a most amusing caricature. Miss Kitty Mason as Clarita was another favourite Her novel dance in the second act delighted the audience exceedingly. Like the other members of this capital company she earned her applause by doing excellent work. Mr. Bert Leslie was funny as Slithers, an American crook with a wonderful assortment of slang phrases, and his burlesque of Russian dancing with Mr. Wright caused roars of laughter. Miss Jean Aylwin as Mme. Jeanne made a distinct hit, her singing and dancing being decidedly good. Miss Julia James as Lady Elizabeth Thanet made a very good impression. Mr. Ernest Elton, Mr. Reginald Sheldrick, Miss Daisy Belmore, and Miss Mollie Lowell played their parts well.

"THE ECHO," a musical comedy in two acts, described as "a singing and dancing frolic," has started the season auspiciously at Mr. Charles Dillingham's Globe Theatre. Written by William Le Baron, with music by Deems Taylor, the play derives its title from the fact that the action takes place at a New England summer resort famous for its echo. Kate, the head waitress at an hotel known as the Echo House, and Reggie Brewster, one of the guests, fall in love with each other, but Reggie's mamma disapproves. Mamma is a flirtatious widow, however, with designs on Rudolph Sylvester, a wealthy German soap manufacturer, who is also staying at the hotel, and the youngsters use their knowledge of her lovemaking to force her consent to their marriage. This is the main thread of the story. In addition there is the diversion created by Sylvester's ineffectual efforts to get away from a popular song of his own composition called "Heigh-ho," and the amusing disclosure that the so-called "echo" emanates from a man with a megaphone, he being employed by the hotel and compelled to lead a hermit's life in the mountains.

Miss Bessie McCoy, the popular dancer, appears as the waitress, and in her own unique style "trips it on the light fantastic toe" at every opportunity. Her "Tin Soldier" dance will be almost, but not quite, as popular as her "Yama Yama" dance in Three Twins. Mr. John E. Hazzard, a German dialect comedian, is very funny as the aforesaid Sylvester; and Mrs. Annie Yeamans, who will soon celebrate her seventy-fifth birthday, appears as a "youthful" typist. With the approved style of abbreviated skirt and bulging coiffure affected by the girl of the period, Mrs. Yeamans contributes a capital "take-off" and pleases the audience by doing a few "steps." Miss Georgie Drew Mendum as Laura Short gives an amusing impersonation of a lady reporter. The Imperial Russian dancers, M. Volinine, Mlle. Lopokova, and M. Lopokov, are an incidental feature of the second act, and are very popular. Admirably staged by Mr. Fred Latham, The Echo is full of life and fun. A spirit of unforced gaiety pervades the piece from beginning to end.

"MADAME SHERRY," described as "a French vaudeville in three acts," has scored a decided success at the New Amsterdam Theatre. This is an American adaptation of a piece originally produced by Mr. George Edwardes at the Apollo Theatre, London. It is said that only the principal incidents of the story have been retained, the scenes being laid in and about New York. The first act shows a studio, the second the saloon of a yacht, and the third the after-deck of the yacht while anchored off Coney Island. For the new version Messrs. Otto Hauerbach and Karl Hoschna, authors of the highly successful piece, Three Twins, are responsible. Mr. George W. Lederer, who made the Casino famous, has signalised his return to the metropolis after a long absence in Chicago in an auspicous manner, for it was he who staged the piece.

Miss Lina Abarbanell as Yvonne Sherry is the prima-donna; while Mr. Ralph Herz has the chief comedy rôle (Theophilus Sherry), and both are eminently successful. Miss Abarbanell sings and dances delightfully, and Mr. Herz is possessed of a dry humour that has put many an audience on this side in good spirits during the eight years that have passed since he first came here with Mrs. Patrick Campbell. Other artists who have important rôles are Miss Dorothy Jardon, who plays Pepita; Miss Frances Demarest, who appears as Lulu; Miss Elizabeth Murray, who makes a good deal of an Irish character part, Catharine; Mr. Ignacio Martinetti as Phillipe and Mr. Jack Gardner as Edward Sherry.

Like The Merry Widow and A Waltz Dream this piece has a melodious strain running through it which everybody learns very quickly through its constant repetition. This time, however, it is not a waltz, but a polka, called "Every little movement has a meaning of its own." The plot plays a more important part than it usually does in American musical comedies, and there are many amusing situations. A nephew has deceived his rich uncle who is living abroad, by writing him that he is married and has two children. Upon the arrival of the uncle it becomes necessary for the nephew to produce the wife and family, and this causes the complications. Madame Sherry has had the sort of reception that points to a long run.

MISS GERTRUDE QUINLAN, whom Londoners will remember as the waitress of George Ade's comedy The College Widow, fills the title-rôle in Miss Patsy, a three-act farce, by Sewell Collins, produced last week at Nazimova's Thirty-ninth-street Theatre. Miss Patsy is the companion and mentor of Helen Burrelle, the leading lady of a popular stock company at a theatre in Annapolis. With the best intentions, she causes all sorts of discomforts to everybody around her before she consents to marry a young farmer. The leading lady accepts a naval lieutenant and another member of the company weds an impecunious doctor who has written a play. The piece is a slangy mixture of farce, comedy, pathos, and vaudeville. Miss Quinlan plays the name-part in her own inimitable way and provokes plenty of laughter. Miss Dorothy Tennant acts with a quiet dignity and charm the rôle of the leading lady; and Mr. Lawrence Wheat plays with his usual pertness the part of the naval lieutenant. Miss Adeline Dunlap is capital as Minna Black, an actress whose disposition is decidedly "catty." Miss Pauline Winters as Maizie won applause for her dancing; and Miss Jennie La Mont contributed an amusing characterisation as a wardrobe mistress. One of those mirth-provoking concoctions that defy serious criticism, Miss Patsy seems likely to enjoy a fair share of popularity.

THE well-known authoress Miss Nita Rae is busily engaged on a new play at Ramsgate. Her latest success has been No Mother to Guide Her, which at some theatres, we understand, has broken all records.

DRESSES AT THE PLAY.

The heroine of The Eternal Question at the Garrick is arrayed in a series of beautiful costumes. Miss Tittell-Brune's first gown is of soft cream satin, and has a tunic of golden-brown chiffon, which also drapes the corsage. There is a touch of blue at the waist, and the elbow sleeves are decorated with tiny wooden buttons and finished, as are the waist and tunic, with a band of golden satin, whilst at the back of the latter may be seen the eccentric large flat Japanese bow. With this costume is worn a huge black satin hat resplendent with black plumage and a black stole.

Later, Donna Roma is attired in a wonderful clinging toilette of sapphire-blue charmeuse with blue and steel beaded corsage and tunic that is most effective as an evening visiting gown. The tunic, which is drawn to a point on each side under a large flat bead-covered bow, is finished down the front with beaded cords and heavy tassels, and there is a large rosette of satin at the waist. The corsage has a pointed semi-décolletage, but this is partially concealed by the wide blue-satin scarf covered with beaded net, which is thrown over the shoulders. An excellent pinafore effect is obtained by the grey chiffon accordion-pleated over-dress which veils the red satin dress worn by Miss Tittell-Brune in the studio scene, and which is held in position on the skirt by two bands of grey velvet.

The dress worn in Roma's audience with the Pope is in keeping with the solemnity of the occasion. It is a perfectly-cut black satin crêpe dress, with draped tunic finished with ornaments of heavy jet fringe, relieved only with the orthodox black lace mantilla, which is fastened at one side with a jet ornament; but the sombre note against the white pontifical robes and the Cardinals' vivid scarlet is particularly effective. As befitting the occasion, the princess dress seen in the last scene, which shows Miss Tittell-Brune in prison for her lover's crime, is severely simple, made in a dull-green satin with just a lace collar at the throat and a row of green satin buttons from the shoulder to the feet.

An exquisite combination of colour is secured in the dress worn by Miss Ola Humphrey in the second act of The Man from Mexico, at the Strand. It it made of purple chiffon veiling blue shot silk. The corsage is embroidered in mauve floss silk and tiny iridescent beads, finished with a transparent collarless yoke of chiffon, and the long tunic is decorated with a deep fringe of beads. A large hat of purple silk makes a fitting finish to this dress. The brim is slightly turned up at one side and is trimmed with huge purple tips, which stand up and yet droop over the crown, and are held in place by a knot of purple velvet. Another beautiful dress worn by Miss Humphrey is a demi-toilette of gold satin, over which falls a chiffon tunic of the same colour embroidered in gold floss silk, and weighted with fringe. There are some touches of gold embroidery on the bodice, and the short elbow sleeves are caught up by a cabochon of small gold beads. With this handsome dress is worn a large picture hat of golden brown panne, lined with black, and trimmed with a cluster of feathers exactly toning with the hat.

Miss Jean Harkness wears a beautiful dress of white Pompadour satin, painted with blue lovers' knots and pink roses. The Empire tunic is of pale blue ninon, embroidered with a long trailing design worked in floss silk. The corsage is arranged with a yoke of point d'esprit, into which a touch of vieux rose ribbon is cleverly introduced with good effect; and the elbow sleeves are of the same net laced together and finished with French knots. The hat is a high-crowned, pale blue satin, made somewhat in the mushroom shape, with a very stiff brim, on which is laid a spray of pink roses and their foliage. Two long pale blue feathers are laid across the crown of the hat, and these exactly match the blue knots on the dress. This costume is in a later act exchanged for a dress of white satin charmeuse, draped with chiffon and embroidered on the corsage with floss silk, and with it is worn a hat of white satin lined with jade-green satin, and crowned with a large panache of black and white plumes.

In A Bolt from the Blue at the Duke of York's Miss Irene Vanbrugh as Irma Lurette has a very becoming toilette of soft white satin made princess. The skirt, which is sheathed to the figure, has a lovely glimmering embroidery in paste and crystal set below the waist and going to the hips, and the same embroidery forms the trimming of the low bodice, which has the upper part and sleeves of chiffon fringed with a narrow embroidery to match. At the back the satin is draped crossways to the waist and then forms a long flat narrow panel to the foot of the skirt. With this there is a mantle of dull terra-cotta satin, lined black, and the black forms a becoming collar, finished with gold tassels, which also hang from the sleeves. Irma's loose dressing-gown wrap is of cloudy moonlight blue, just relieved by a border of soft dark fur.

In the foyer of the Paris Hotel in Act II. is to be noted a striking dress in silver and cherry colour, the underdress of the bright-hued satin showing through the cut-up long tunic of transparent fine silver cloth, and the cherry-coloured tone repeated in a cluster of roses in the hair. A black satin charmeuse is most original, with its deeply inserted trimming of silver, in the centre of which is introduced a note of soft yellow velvet. A frock of heliotrope chiffon finishes at the foot with a wide band of silver, edged with silver fringes, and silver lace drapes the bodice. Silver plays an important part in the new evening frocks, and is introduced on the décolletage of a mauve chiffon tunic gown worn over emerald velvet. The bodice is finished with a band of the velvet. A novel toilette is of bluish green satin, patterned with large pansies in their natural colours, which go half way round the bodice and form a wide skirt border.

MRS. MEL B. SPURR.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Will you kindly allot me space in your next issue that I may appeal to your charitable readers, and more especially those of the profession, on behalf of Mrs. Mel B. Spurr and her child?

I have known this family for the last twelve years, and can honestly testify that few women have shown greater courage in adversity than the wife of the once famous Mel B. Spurr, of Maskelyne and Cook's. Their present condition is indeed pitiably sad—no present means, no prospects—how is it to end? Undoubtedly those who are blessed with the world's goods would help if they only knew.

Time was when the Spurr family helped those in the profession who were in need. Probably in some cases the tables are turned; but certainly their present condition calls for speedy charity. Is there a theatre manager who could employ mother and child in some capacity?

I am well aware, sir, that there are many in the profession who find themselves in low water, no one knows better; but I honestly say that no case is more deserving than this, on behalf of which I appeal. Will your readers please help by sending what they can afford? Everything received will be duly acknowledged in The Era.—Yours faithfully,

(REV.) EDWARD MELLY.

The Presbytery, North Hyde, Southall, Sept. 15.

MR. VEDRENNE has arranged that at the first performance of The Man from the Sea at the Queen's on Tuesday the curtain shall rise punctually at eight o'clock in order to assist the critics in giving a deliberate verdict on the play.

JOHN COLEMAN ON THE N.T.

"In all this vast city, with its enormous population and its plethora of theatres of London," wrote John Coleman in "Fifty Years of an Actor's Life," "there is no single one permanently devoted to our national drama.

"Now there is not a nation of Continental Europe which has not built and endowed its National Theatre. In France (besides £44,000 per annum granted to the Grand Opera and the Opéra Comique) substantial and indeed large subsidies are granted to the National Theatre (Théâtre Français) and the Odéon, &c.; Berlin, Vienna, St. Petersburg, and Brussels are largely subsidised, partly by the State and partly by the reigning Sovereign. The city of Geneva has not only provided and erected the National Theatre at a cost of £150,000, but allows the management £7,500 per annum. The Saxe-Meiningen Theatre (whose Shakespearean performances are famous throughout the world) is presided over and liberally endowed by the reigning Duke (a relation of our own Royal Family), and the theatre at Weimar (so long famous from its association with the illustrious Goethe) has been subventioned for the past century. Scores of smaller theatres in France and Germany are also liberally endowed. For instance, in Lyons, Bordeaux, and Toulon the municipalities in each town grant a subsidy of £9,000 a year to the manager, while even in Angoulême and Poictiers, with only 35,000 inhabitants each, substantial subsidies are granted.

"In Breslau, a German town with a population of barely 100,000, the municipality have provided a splendid theatre, and subvention it with £10,000 per annum.

"While investigating these figures it has reached my knowledge that on June 27, 1898, a petition signed not only by all the eminent professors of music in this country, but by many social celebrities, including various distinguished authors and actors, was presented to the London County Council, proposing that a municipal opera house should be erected and endowed at the public expense 'for the purpose of bringing the highest class of music within reach of the mass of the people.'

"Amongst the signatures to the petition may be found the names of many eminent members of the dramatic profession, but amidst the numerous subsidies and endowments referred to the very name of the drama is conspicuous by its absence: although, in the particular form of art advocated by the petitioners, music and drama are not only absolutely indissoluble, but drama actually comes first, inasmuch as without drama opera cannot exist.

"Strange to say, it has escaped the sagacious promoters of this scheme that their opera house is already built and endowed to their hands. Fifty thousand pounds would transform that ghastly failure the Albert Hall, or that colossal white elephant the Imperial Institute (both rotting away unused) into one of the finest opera houses in the world. Enough of opera houses. Let us now take a glimpse of the theatres.

"A quarter of a century ago the metropolitan theatres were a disgrace to the metropolis. Many of them remain so still—squalid, ugly, stifling dust-holes, which are a never-ceasing peril to the lives of actors and auditors, and to the property of their neighbours. There is not a theatre in the suburbs which does not put to shame these relics of a barbarous past. Were fire to break out during a performance at any one of these places an incalculable loss of life and property would inevitably ensue.

"Next to the existence of these death-traps, the most amazing thing is that they ever came to be licensed. In the public interest they should be closed at once—with, of course, reasonable compensation to the owners and occupiers.

"The era of reformation set in twenty years ago, and has continued steadily ever since. Many of our theatres are now both elegant and commodious, but there is still room for considerable improvement, and the theatre of the future, the National Theatre, has yet to be built. Externally, it should be an ornament to the metropolis. Internally, it should not only be beautiful, but it should be supplied with everything which improvement up to date can suggest for elegance and convenience. It should, of course, be built of fireproof material, and should be constructed to seat 2,500 auditors, who should be enabled to see every inch of the stage and to hear every word spoken. The seats should be numbered and comfortably upholstered.

"There should be ample means of entrance and exit, a lofty and commodious vestibule leading to a grand foyer adorned with statues and pictures of the celebrities of the stage, commencing with the master himself. The actors, at present too frequently relegated to rabbit-hutches and packing-cases beneath the stage, should be provided with spacious dressing-rooms, supplied with mirrors, gas and electric light, hot and cold water, baths and lavatories. The managerial staff should have offices before and behind the scenes. There should be a large room for rehearsals, or, preferably, a small theatre, such as Charles Mathews used to give his entertainment in at Her Majesty's, or such as formerly existed at the Theatre Royal, Dublin; a library, a room for the ballet to practice in, another for the chorus, a third for the drilling of the 'supers'; green-rooms, a large painting-room, large wardrobe-room, spacious workshops for carpenters and property men.

"There should be at least three complete stages, fully equipped with every modern scenic appliance. The stages and machinery should all be worked by hydraulic power, which would also ventilate the house, heating it in winter and cooling it in summer. At Penarth there is a hydraulic hoist which lifts fifteen tons of coal aboard a vessel in one minute. If a motive power like this could be applied to the three stages proposed, marvels of scenic effect could be achieved at the maximum of speed and the minimum of cost.

"Scores of competent artists can be secured at reasonable salaries by guaranteeing engagements for a season of nine months, with option to terminate or renew for a term of years, subject to certain conditions. The old stock must be leavened with a copious infusion of new, young, and ambitious aspirants, destined under competent tuition to form the actors of the future. There should be an elementary college, to which no one should be admitted who has not already passed the usual scholastic standard, and who is not proficient in fencing, dancing, and calisthenics. The candidate, having passed a satisfactory examination, would then be eligible for training, &c., and would start immediately at the lowest rung of the ladder.

"At least six months previous to the opening the manager should begin to arrange his repertory, and should have at least six standard works ready, text, scenery, costumes, and properties complete in every department, before he commences his season.

"The building will cost £150,000, the site £50,000 more, in all £200,000. The authorities can get any amount of money at 3 per cent. or less—hence the rental should not exceed £6,000 per annum; and a subsidy, to guarantee working expenses, must be made of not less than £15,000 a year."

"RATS" will be the title of a four-act drama which Gerhart Hauptmann, the famous German dramatist, has now in hand for production in Berlin shortly after Christmas. Ratten, to give its German title, deals exclusively with low life in Berlin, and is intended to be the first of a cycle of plays in which the dramatist will trace the development of the German capital and the phases of life, high and low, which characterise it.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

Sir Herbert Tree delighted the audience of Pressmen with his remarks on daily paper dramatic criticism at the meeting in conference of the Institute of Journalists at the Guildhall on Tuesday afternoon. Sir Herbert was drily humorous and gently satirical, but chiefly noticeable in his speech was his earnest desire to take just that course which commended itself most to the convenience of the critics.

Mr. H. B. Irving was also a contributor to the proceedings of the Conference, being present at the dinner which was given at the Hotel Cecil in the evening. The popular actor received quite an affectionate greeting, and his jocular speech, delivered in a racy style, was listened to with keen appreciation.

Mr. Oscar Asche and Miss Lily Brayton, with their company, are now on their way home from Australia on the R.M.S. Otway, which they joined at Fremantle. They are due to arrive at Plymouth on Oct. 1. Remarkable scenes of enthusiasm attended the embarkation of the popular actor and actress, and Miss Brayton was the centre of a veritable garden of bouquets. A happy idea was carried out by Mr. Asche, who bought the whole stock of a flower girl who was on the wharf, and as the ship was moving off he and Miss Brayton pelted the crowd with the flowers.

A claim at St. Pancras by Mr. Arthur Bourchier for a vote by reason of his occupation of a tenement used for the storage of scenery, was opposed by the Liberals at the Revision Court on Monday on the ground that the premises in question were now empty. Evidence was given that the rates had been paid up to the end of September.

The Revising Barrister said that Mr. Bourchier would not want scenery now, as he was appearing in Henry VIII. Besides that, a man who had a place for scenery would clear it when he went on tour, and thus leave the premises temporarily empty. The claim was allowed.

Mr. Forbes Robertson gave valuable hints on Saturday to a number of members of the Poetry Society who desire to qualify as readers and reciters of verse. The hearing took place in the Throne Room of the Holborn Restaurant, and about sixteen presented themselves for the test. Mr. Forbes Robertson warned his hearers not to indulge in gesticulation, which, even though admirably done, was out of place, especially in lyrical poetry. Mr. Forbes Robertson also laid great stress on the importance of the mere sound of some words. There were, he said, many words in the language that were in themselves beautiful sounds. If they had the consciousness of the beauty of words, and felt them deeply themselves, they would have gone a long way towards impressing that beauty upon their hearers.

Mr. Robert Loraine, who recently made a record sea flight, came very near to accomplishing another in his attempt to fly across the Irish Sea on Sunday, the actor-aviator falling into the sea when about a hundred yards from his goal. Mr. Loraine left the Welsh coast in his Farman biplane shortly after eleven o'clock in the morning, and reached the Irish shore at 12.50 p.m., English time. Engine defects caused him to attempt a descent on Howth Head instead of Phœnix Park, where he originally hoped to land, and through the breaking of a wire he had to drop into the water.

Spectators on shore were greatly alarmed for the airman's safety, but their fears were relieved when they saw him detach himself from the machine, and strike out for the shore. He reached the rocks close to the Bailey Lighthouse at the foot of Howth Head without difficulty, and clambered up clear of the sea. Meanwhile, the steamship Adela, on its way into Dublin, picked up the aeroplane, which was little damaged, and subsequently Mr. Loraine, who had got into a small rowing-boat to the rescue of his machine, was taken on board. Mr. Loraine will play the title-rôle in The Man from the Sea, which is due at the Queen's on Tuesday.

Mr. Edward Compton, who is now completing the thirtieth year of tour of the Compton Comedy Company, played the part of Charles Surface in The School for Scandal for the 1,100th time, at the Opera House, Southport, on the 8th inst. The occasion was made a souvenir night, and Mr. Compton had a most enthusiastic reception at the hands of his Southport friends. After the third act Mr. Compton was called before the curtain, and after thanking the audience for their kind support and sympathy, mentioned that he was the only actor, living or dead, who had played the part so many times. Amongst Mr. Compton's other records are David Garrick, in Davy Garrick, nearly 1,650 times; Charles Goldfinch, in The Road to Ruin, nearly 600 times; and Bob Acres and Tony Lumpkin, nearly 700 apiece.

Mr. James Welch celebrated yesterday the fourth anniversary of When Knights Were Bold, which began its exceptionally long successful career on Sept. 16, 1906. Mr. Welch has enacted the part of Sir Guy de Vere on 1,250 occasions, and avers that even now he is not tired of representing the character. He is gratified that London and provincial audiences continue to appreciate the production.

About Christmas time, however, he will say good-bye to When Knights Were Bold, and will enter into earnest study of his new play, Mr. Hebblewhite, which he will produce in London early in the New Year. It is a comedy of a not over-boisterous type, and a remarkable feature about it is that the author is unknown, the play having been submitted to Mr. Welch by an agent, the author refusing his identity.

Miss Gertrude Kingston has settled on Tuesday, Oct. 11, as the date of the opening of her Little Theatre, when a version of Aristophanes' comedy Lysistrata will be performed. The Lysistrata has always had a reputation for impropriety; but the attempt of a well-meaning Athenian magistrate to end a war by the women separating from their husbands until peace is declared is capable of being handled in a modern as well as an ancient spirit; and that is probably what has been done by Miss Kingston's anonymous adapter.

The decorations of the house are very tasteful and delicate. The entrance vestibule has an Adam ceiling, with a medallion painting by Angelica Kauffman in the centre. The colouring of the almost square auditorium is Wedgwood blue, and a separate entrance from the vestibule leads to the Royal box, flanked on each side by an ordinary box. The house will hold about £140, the stage being 21ft. deep, with an opening of 26ft.

Mr. Lewis Waller and Mr. J. E. Vedrenne will shortly sever their very pleasant partnership, as each of them finds his personal enterprises need his full attention. Mr. Vedrenne also has abandoned his scheme for the acquisition of French plays and their subsequent production in London, and has handed over his interests in the matter to Mr. F. O. de Senechal, who made the original contracts with the French authors.

Mr. Martin Harvey's dressing-table usually presents quite the appearance of a museum. Such was the impression given to a representative of the Glasgow Evening Citizen who interviewed the popular actor during his appearance at the Theatre Royal. One of the most valued treasures is a pair of gloves. Of crimson cloth, tastefully embroidered, and reaching to the wearer's elbow, they would not earn more than a passing glance. But the "touch of a vanished hand" has rendered them precious. They were worn by Sir Henry Irving when he played Richelieu. At that time Mr. Harvey was winning his spurs as a member of the Lyceum company. Another prized possession is the sword which Sir Henry used when he appeared as Ravenswood, and of which Mr. Harvey makes such good use in The Breed of the Treshams.

A dagger with a jewelled hilt is an artistic bit of work, with the motto "The readiness is all" engraved on the steel blade. It was presented to the actor when he produced Richard III. in Dublin in the spring of the year. But what catches the eye most are the royal accoutrements for the closing scene, when he fights vainly against fate and Richmond. In addition to wearing the coat of mail and suit of armour he wields a sword weighing four or five pounds, after that a lighter blade, and then a dagger. To weigh the warlike trappings in the hand is enough to convince one that the part is physically as well as mentally a very heavy ordeal.

"What about the alleged waning of the theatre's hold?" inquired the interviewer of Mr. Harvey. "Waning? I don't think there is any lessening of the hold of the theatre. Apart from the inevitable drop owing to bad trade, there has been nothing to complain of." "Don't you think the theatre managers ought to do something to counteract the growing competition of the music hall?" persisted the questioner—"cheaper seats and booking facilities, and so on?" No; I think things are all right as they are. Of course, I may change my mind—other times, other manners, you know. The music halls and picture palaces are doing good work in their own way, and I think there is room for all."

Mr. J. Bannister Howard's fifth season opens at the Crystal Palace on Monday next with the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company. We wish him a prosperous season. Mr. Howard has had rather a rough time of it lately. He visited a physician for the purpose of having a slight operation performed. After the operation, he hired a taxi to take him home. This was smashed into by another vehicle, which gave him a very bad shaking. He is now resting at Bath, seeking recovery.

Terry's Theatre is shortly to be turned to the purposes of the cinematograph—an announcement that will cause a twinge of regret to many an ardent playgoer. The theatre is by no means ill-adapted to dramatic purposes, and in fact is remarkably well appointed; but its fortunes have fluctuated of recent years, and for the present at least the all-invading film is to establish yet another foothold in London.

Many pleasant memories are connected with the theatre, which was opened on Oct. 17, 1887, with The Churchwarden, one of Mr. Edward Terry's established triumphs. It was at Terry's that Sweet Lavender, which attained a run of nearly 700 nights, bloomed and proved one of Sir Arthur Pinero's most enduring successes. Later came the same writer's clever play The Times, which, but for the lamented death of the Duke of Clarence, would perhaps have enjoyed equal favour. Here, too, Little Lord Fauntleroy first exercised its charming influence.

The popular comedian whose name the theatre bears has appeared very infrequently on its boards of late years, but it was here in the autumn of 1896 that he furnished the public with one of his most effective creations, that of the estimable Professor in Love in Idleness. The theatre is at present in the occupation of Miss May Robson, who is appearing in The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary.

Mr. W. W. Kelly, who has been recuperating at Brighton during the last fortnight, is now again in his usual vigorous health. He will return home to-day to Birkenhead, where Mr. Frederick Melville's company in Her Road to Ruin has been doing capital business at the Theatre Royal. Great interest has also been taken this week in the appearance of the plucky Miss Dot Stephens in A Child of the Streets at Kelly's Theatre, Liverpool. Miss Stephens has been received with great favour nightly, and many further visits of the play in which she appears to Liverpool are assured. At Kelly's Theatre, Liverpool, next week, Miss Florence Baines will introduce her amusing production, Miss Lancashire, Limited, and on Monday week Mr. Kelly's Ibsen season, supported by Mr. Leigh Lovel and Miss Octavia Kenmore, will commence.

Miss Evelyn Millard, in case she should want to produce a new play before the close of her season at the New Theatre, has in hand a three-act comedy entitled Young Fernald, by E. G. Sutherland and B. M. Dix, the authors of The Breed of the Treshams. It is not a problem play, and it contains a pretty love-story. The action of the play is laid in Yorkshire, and there are good parts for Miss Millard and Mr. Norman McKinnel.

Mr. Frank Curzon and Mr. Charles Hawtrey will shortly produce at the Prince of Wales's Theatre Miss Gladys Unger's adaptation of De Flers and De Caillavet's three-act comedy L'Ane de Buridan, which will be entitled Inconstant George. The principal part of George Bullin was played in America all last season by Mr. John Drew. This character should suit Mr. Hawtrey exactly, and he will be supported by Mr. Aubrey Smith, Mr. Ernest Thesiger, Mr. Hubert Druce, Miss Lydia Bilbrooke, Miss Vera Maitland, Miss Hilda Moore, and Miss Athene Seyler.

Mr. Hall Caine's play The Bishop's Son will be produced by Messrs. Wentworth Croke, Milton Bode, and Edward Compton at the Garrick Theatre on Monday, the 26th inst. The cast will include Messrs. Bransby Williams, J. D. Beveridge, Ernest Leicester, Halliwell Hobbes, Shiel Barry, Miss Alma Murray, and Miss Elaine Inescourt. The Eternal Question, which has been drawing large audiences, will conclude its run at the Garrick on Saturday next, and will be transferred to another theatre. The arrangement for the production of The Bishop's Son was made before The Eternal Question was written.

The Earl of Yarmouth's new musical play The Pigeon House, an account of which appeared in our columns on its production at Cardiff last June, will be produced at the Court Theatre on Monday. The author will appear under his stage name of Eric Hope, and will play the principal character. Great interest has been shown at Cheltenham this week in the piece, and crowded houses have witnessed Lord Yarmouth's charming musical play.

The fine actress and elocutionist, Miss Alma Murray, will play Old Blind Kerry, the Bishop's housekeeper, in The Bishop's Son at the Garrick Theatre on the 26th inst.

The enthusiasm which marked the first appearance of The Chocolate Soldier at the Lyric Theatre last Saturday night has continued throughout the week, and it is quite safe to say that Mr. Whitney's splendid production has every appearance of being among the successes of the season. Striking evidence of the wide popularity already attained by Straus's delightful music is to be found in the fact that within the past six days no less than seventy military and municipal bandmasters have applied for permission to perform selections from The Chocolate Soldier, requests which have in all cases been granted.

No relationship exists between Oscar Straus, the composer of The Chocolate Soldier, and any of the other men who bore that famous name. He was born in Vienna on March 6, 1870, and studied music in his native town and in Berlin under Grödener, Prosanitz, and Bruch. Among his most successful compositions are Die lustigen Nibelungen (The Merry Nibelungs), Die indische Witwe (The Indian Widow), Columbine, Didi, and The Waltz Dream.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle was at the Opera House, Tunbridge Wells, on Monday evening, witnessing the provincial production of his play The Fires of Fate, by Messrs. Glenister and Ingram's company. The house was a large and fashionable one, and the distinguished author was soon recognised sitting in a box with Lady Doyle. After the second act Sir Arthur went behind the scenes and congratulated the management on the excellent performance they had given of his play.

Mr. Royston Keith wishes us to express the heartfelt thanks of himself and wife for the kind sympathy they have received since they had news of the sad death of their dear daughter Muriel in Richmond, U.S.A.

Mr. W. S. Buccleuch, who takes up the management of the Royalty Theatre, Chester, in succession to Mr. C. B. Fountaine, is not quite new to Chester, having been there with Milton Bode's Gentleman Joe company. Mr. Buccleuch is a son of the well-known scientist Prof. L. Scott, who created considerable attention with his article on "Modern Explosives" in the Nineteenth Century some time ago. Mr. Buccleuch was manager for Miss Julia Neilson and Fred Terry on tour, and district manager for them at the old Globe Theatre.

During the performance on Wednesday evening of Michel Strogoff at the Châtelet Theatre, Paris, a man in the pit, supposed to be a striker, lit a Bengal light. The audience, thinking it was a fire, were seized with panic, and many made a rush for the exits, shouting "Fire!" while a number of women fainted. The artists proceeded with the performance, however, and calm was at length restored.

Mr. Leslie Hughes, who has just recently resigned his position as secretary to the White City Garden Club, has been appointed by Messrs. W. and F. Melville manager at the Lyceum Theatre. Before leaving the White City Mr. Leslie Hughes was the recipient of many valuable presents, among which was a gold and silver cigarette case suitably inscribed.

Mr. Montague Wigan left town on Friday last week at an hour's notice to play the part of Charles in Robert Macaire, which Mr. J. D. Hunter produced at the Pier Pavilion, St. Leonard's-on-Sea. Mr. Hunter telephoned to London on the Thursday evening, and Mr. Wigan was rehearsing by eleven o'clock the next morning. Fortunately, he is a very quick study, and was able to give a finished performance.

Miss Augusta Haviland has been winning encomiums in Australia over her performance of Mrs. Futvoye in The Brass Bottle, the actress being described as "a stylish mother-in-law that any man might be proud of, wearing her handsome gowns well." The Brass Bottle is admitted to be the best farce that has been presented in Sydney for years.

Mr. J. A. Campbell's Hand that Rocks the Cradle will pay its first visit next week to the Rotunda, Liverpool. The business this play did in Manchester was extraordinary, and amply justified the favourable first night verdict. The piece will shortly be seen in London at the Elephant and Castle Theatre.

Mr. Harry Henderson, Mus. Bac., the popular conductor at the Grand Theatre, Glasgow, after a most successful season with his alfresco entertainers at Gourock, on the Clyde, is once more back at his familiar post at the Grand. He is already busy with the music for the Christmas pantomime, which will again be produced by Mr. Fred Karno, with Miss Lily Morris as principal boy.

Mr. Charles Windermere's farce, Where is William? attained its anniversary at Cromer last week, having started on tour last year at Richmond, on Sept. 9. After a most successful seaside tour, Mr. Windermere is now fulfilling a series of return dates this autumn, after which he hopes to give a West End production, but as yet he has been unable to secure a suitable theatre.

Mr. Leslie Bennett, who has lately concluded a stock season with Mr. Frank Weathersby, playing in Mrs. Dane's Defence, John Glayde's Honour, Mrs. Gorringe's Necklace, Jim the Penman, A Pair of Spectacles, and Facing the Music, has been engaged by Mr. J. B. Watson to play the vicar's son in Priscilla Runs Away, opening at Hastings on Sept. 19, the date of his birthday.

Mr. Archie Selwyn, who has been playing George Fisher in Are You a Mason? since February last, will rejoin M. Auguste Van Biene for another long tour of The Broken Melody, starting in December. His association with the famous actor-musician now extends over seven years, during which time he has played, with two exceptions, all the male parts in the piece.

"Two Merry Monarchs" will be the attraction at the Marlborough Theatre next week. The company is exceptionally strong, and includes Mr. C. Hayden Coffin, Mr. Sam Walsh, Mr. Mark Lester, Mr. Statham Staples, Miss Gladys Beach, and Miss Marjorie Moore. The production is identical with that at the Savoy, and travels an excellent chorus.

The Southport winter season is just commencing. Many visitors are already in the town, and the principal residents are returning from abroad and the South to winter in this charming health resort. Mr. Percy Hutchison has taken care that the evenings shall not be dull to his large circle of patrons, and his bookings for his season are phenomenal. This week that excellent Savoy comic opera The Mountaineers is meeting with gratifying popularity. Amongst the good things to follow are Mr. Edward Terry, The Brass Bottle, Our Miss Gibbs, the Carl Rosa Company, The Naked Truth, the F. R. Benson company, The House of Temperley, The Whip, and The Blue Bird. At Christmas will be produced the pantomime Jack and Jill, for which Miss Stella Gastelle has been engaged by Mr. J. F. Elliston. Among subsequent attractions are the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company, Peter Pan, Mr. Martin Harvey, Arsène Lupin, with Mr. Percy Hutchison in the name part, and those old friends who never fail, Charley's Aunt and The Sign of the Cross.

Mr. Percy Hutchison's visit with Brewster's Millions, to the Lyceum, Edinburgh, last week, and to the King's, Glasgow, this, has been an unqualified success, the receipts nightly beating those of the first visit, which speaks well for Mr. Hutchison's popularity and drawing powers in the big Scotch centres. At Edinburgh Sir Richard and Lady Mackay and the Swedish delegates witnessed the performance, and afterwards invited Mr. G. T. Minshull and Mr. Percy Hutchison to their farewell banquet. In his speech, in the course of the evening, Sir Richard Mackay referred in flattering terms to the wonderfully-acted and beautifully-produced play they had witnessed that evening, which was loudly applauded by those present and very much appreciated by Mr. Percy Hutchison.

In his speech to a crowded house at the Lyceum, Edinburgh, on the termination of his visit there, Mr. Percy Hutchison interested his hearers with the announcement that in the near future he proposed to submit for their criticism the entire production of the great London success, Arsene Lupin, with himself playing the title-rôle and supported by a strong London cast.

Mr. Hugh Robertson's popular theatre, the Royalty, Barrow, appears to have taken a new lease of life, and has been doing record business of late, deservedly so, as it is a very charming theatre, and admirably managed. Mr. Harry Foxwell's Broken Heart company, Messrs. Paumier and Howard's Prince and the Beggar Maid company, and Mr. J. W. Turner's Grand Opera company all beat their previous records, the latter two companies by over £80 each, Mr. Turner playing his fifth visit to the Royalty. On Saturday he finished to the largest house he had ever played to in Barrow.

Mr. Fowler Thatcher, having successfully managed the opening of Messrs. W. Payne Seddon and Ernest Pope's New Theatre at Newark, concludes his engagement with those gentlemen on Saturday next. Such a well-known comedian, with so varied an experience in management, will assuredly not long remain idle.

On the occasion of his sixth annual benefit, which took place at the Royal, Worthing, on Wednesday, Mr. C. Adolf Seebold, the popular lessee of the theatre, was presented with a handsomely-appointed luncheon basket by the members of the staff. The presentation was made by Mr. Malcolm Spurgin, the assistant-manager. Mrs. Seebold was also given a charming bouquet.

"The Little Damozel," after her seaside tour, which she ended in a fitting manner by breaking all comedy records this season at Margate, has returned to town, and that Mr. Monkton Hoffe's delightful play is as popular as ever with the London public is shown by the way in which it is being received nightly at Kennington. Mr. Mark Blow, who has been himself playing the part of the Hon. Fitzroy Locke this week; Miss Emilie Polini, in the title-rôle; and Mr. Alick Chumley as Recklaw Poole, have been enthusiastically recalled at the conclusion of each performance.

The ready assistance of the profession in the cause of charity will be rendered at the Theatre Royal, Stockport, on Saturday next, when, acting in conjunction with Mr. Charles Revill, Mr. Allan Wilkie and his company are giving their services at a special matinée performance of The Merry Wives of Windsor, the entire proceeds of which will be devoted to the local fund for relieving the distress existing among the out-of-work cotton operators in the town, who, it is estimated, at present number no less than 1,300.

Mr. J. W. Lindsay Ellis's company in Lights Out is drawing enthusiastic houses in all the provincial towns. Mr. Ellis has now secured the services of Mr. Bernard Merefield, who, in addition to giving a powerful and incisive presentment of the cross-questioning Major Paschke in the third act, is delighting the audiences with half an hour of artistically-rendered songs, imitations, and recitations in a finished manner worthy of a West-End house.

A revival of the prosperity of Our Boys, Byron's clever comedy, which enjoyed so long a run in London, is being secured by Mr. Charles Otley. At the County Theatre, Kingston, last week, it was received with the utmost enthusiasm, three curtains being obtained at the end of the second and third acts. Mr. Otley himself plays the retired butterman, and has proved the life and soul of the play. Immediate dates are available for the production.

The reception of Sister Anne has encouraged the Coronet management to persevere in their plan of producing new plays for long runs. At the end of the month Mr. Cecil Raleigh's psychic drama, Behind the Veil, will be produced for a series of matinées. This will, of course, in no way interfere with the run of Madame Albanesi's play, which shows every sign of being a long and prosperous one.

Mr. Alban B. Limpus, who, with his brother, Mr. Bernard Limpus, has been touring The Thief for the past two years, has secured the rights of Tantalizing Tommy for all the theatres not visited by Messrs. Lyn Harding and Sidney Cooper's company.

Miss Florence Watson, who has been at Fraserburgh, N.B., for fourteen weeks with the "Merrie Masqueraders," was last week given a benefit. The house was packed in every part, the Provost, magistrates, and all the principal residents of the town being present, and all joined in giving Miss Watson a very flattering reception and hearty send-off.

Mr. Martin Harvey to-night concludes his short visit to Glasgow, where, at the Theatre Royal, he has won still further encomiums with his triumphant revival of Richard III., which he has decided to make his principal attraction on his autumn tour. The Glasgow Press were particularly enthusiastic concerning the merits, both histrionic and pictorial, of the production, and unanimously praise Mr. Harvey's performance as the Crookback. On Monday he will open at the Newcastle Theatre Royal, where the booking of seats has gone on during the past fortnight with pleasing briskness.

Mr. Walter van Noorden, the enterprising director of the Royal Carl Rosa Opera Company, has secured the sole rights of a new work by Smetana, The Two Widows, which has not up to the present been heard in England. The music is particularly beautiful, and is said to contain a waltz and a duet which will set the whole town humming. Mr. van Noorden himself will be the producer.

Miss Violet Ley, who has achieved a notable success as Mrs. Hayter in Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow's company The Naked Truth, wears some lovely dresses. In Act I. she is gowned in a tailor-made visiting frock of pale yellow cloth, strapped with black and gold. A large Parisienne black hat and gloves to match complete this dainty costume—one of Paquin's latest creations. Miss Ley wears in the second act a charming walking costume in black and white silk, strapped with black, crowned with another lovely hat, ornamented with a single ostrich feather in royal blue. Miss Ley's last act dress comes from Peter Robinson's, her tall, elegant figure being gracefully gowned in a delicate shade of terra-cotta, handsomely embroidered with silk insertions of the same shade.

Mr. Thomas Beecham's season of grand opera at Covent Garden will open on Oct. 1, and during the three months it is to last three different operas a week, upon an average, are to be produced. But, apparently, he thinks that the evenings of the first day of each week may hang heavily on his hands, for he has now completed arrangements for inaugurating a series of orchestral and operatic concerts at Covent Garden Theatre on Sunday evenings, at which the artists of his company will appear. The first of these concerts will take place on Oct. 9, and will be orchestral in character. Miss Mignon Nevada, who has established so great a reputation on the Continent, and is to sing the rôle of Ophelia in Hamlet on Oct. 3, will make her English début upon the concert platform at this concert. Miss Nevada, who is a daughter of the famous Emma Nevada, is essentially a collatura singer, and has been taught her art from the very beginning by her mother. Her voice has been described by one of the leading Continental critics as "one of the most perfectly trained voices that has ever been heard. It is quite even throughout, not one note less strong and full than the last one, and the quality reminds one forcibly of Christine Nilsson's, only that Miss Nevada's is 'warmer,' as the singers say." Miss Nevada has sung in grand opera also at the San Carlos, in Lisbon, at the Pergola, in Florence, and elsewhere. Though born in Paris, Mignon Nevada is of English parentage.

Mr. Beecham intends to make these Sunday concerts a special feature in order that all his artists may be heard in songs from their répertoires, and his famous orchestra in works that can be performed only upon the concert platform. The concerts will be modelled largely on those which take place at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York. The prices of the seats will be within reach of all, and special Wagner performances will be given several times during the season.

The following is the cast of Eugène d'Albert's opera, Tiefland, which is to be produced in English at the Covent Garden Royal Opera House on the opening night of the Beecham Opera Season, Saturday, Oct. 1:—Marta, Miss Marguerite Lemon; Nuri, Miss Maggie Teyte; Rosalie, Miss Blanche Hamilton-Fox; Antonia, Miss Muriel Terry; Pepa, Miss Carrie Tubb; Pedro, Mr. John Coates; Nando, Mr. Maurice D'Oisly; Tomasso, Mr. Robert Radford; Sebastiano, Mr. Frederic Austin; Moruccio, Mr. Lewys James; and the Priest, Mr. Arthur Wynne. Miss Elizabeth Amsden has been specially engaged by Mr. Thomas Beecham, and is coming from Paris to create the rôle of Toinette in Leroux's opera, Le Chemineau. This is the first time that Tiefland will have been sung in England.

A startling interruption to the performance of the Italian opera Don Pasquale was made at the Kingsway on Thursday evening. As the conductor was about to take his seat at his music-desk after an interval between the acts, a man in evening dress walked to the front and struck him on the back and again on the face. The conductor retaliated with his bâton. Several members of the orchestra and the audience intervened, and the assailant, turning to the audience, said: "This man engaged me to sing here. He won't let me, and he won't pay me." The conductor warmly denied that he had engaged the man to sing, and states that he will take legal proceedings against him.

Mr. Frank Stanmore has just returned from Paris, where he has been seeking a big attraction for Chasing Cynthia. He has been fortunate in engaging the beautiful Parisienne, Roselle D'Origny, of the Folies Bergère and "The Danse du Paraguay" fame, who has signed for ten weeks. She will arrive in England Oct. 2, and will open Oct. 3 at Liverpool. Other special engagements are Mr. Arthur Poole and Miss Gurney Delaporte.

Passing over the Wagner Concert of Monday at the Queen's Hall, at which the vocalists will be Miss Ada Forrest and Mr. Morgan Kingston, attention may be directed to the programme provided for Tuesday, when an interesting novelty will be presented to the London public in a new concert overture by Dr. Walford Davies. The work in question was first produced at the Lincoln Triennial Festival in June of this year under the title of a "Festal Overture." In its joyousness of outlook and thoroughly national spirit it promises to be an attractive addition to our concert programmes. Besides the above, Saint-Saëns' symphonic poem, "La Jeunesse d'Hercule," Tschaikowsky's "Casse Noisette Suite," and Sinigaglia's Danze Piemontese No. 2 are included in the scheme. Miss Amy Dewhurst makes her first appearance at the Promenade Concerts and sings "Ah! mon fils" from Le Prophète, and Mr. Robert Burnett gives Tschaikowsky's "Don Juan Serenade." Mr. Alfred Kastner contributes a couple of harp solos. On Wednesday the symphony is Mozart's G minor. Miss Phyllis Emanuel makes her début at these concerts in Schumann's Concerto in A minor for Pianoforte and Orchestra. Elgar's "Enigma" Variations is an attractive orchestral item. The vocalists are Miss Edith Kirkwood and Mr. Norman Williams.

There are no novelties in the programme for Thursday evening. Strauss's "Don Quixote" is the chief symphonic work of the evening, and the part for solo 'cello will be played, as usual, by Mr. Jacques Renard, of the Queen's Hall Orchestra. The concert opens with Dvorák's Carneval Overture, and includes Mr. Percy Pitt's "Air de Ballet," the "Invitation á la Valse" (Weber-Weingartner), and other works of lighter calibre. Miss Lillie Wormald and Mr. Herbert Brown are the singers, the latter reviving a fine old song of Gounod's, "Le Vallon," with orchestral accompaniment. Friday's classical theme includes Beethoven's "Pastoral Symphony," the charming suite in G arranged from some of Bach's less familiar works by Mr. Henry J. Wood, and the too-neglected Pianoforte Concerto, No. 1 in D minor, by Brahms. Miss Plyxena Fletcher is the soloist, and the fine work is therefore sure of intelligent and sympathetic treatment.

The programme for Saturday is miscellaneous. A new feature will be introduced into these concerts by the first appearance of the Alexandre Quartet of Lady Singers, who will be heard in the beautiful "Four Songs for female voices, two horns and harp," by Brahms. The bright and humorous "Overture to a Comedy of Shakespeare," by Paul Scheinflug, one of last season's novelties which made a good impression, will be repeated on this occasion.

A meeting of the Estates Committee of the York Corporation was held on Tuesday evening to consider the future of the Theatre Royal, of which the Corporation are the owners, the lessees, Messrs. Waddington, having requested to be relieved of their lease. The original recommendation of the Committee to the City Council a week since was to accept the surrender of the lease at the end of the year, but this recommendation was referred back to the Committee, with an instruction that the Committee should consider in any arrangement they might make the question of reducing the rent, in order to enable the lessee to arrange for a definite number of performances per year of the serious drama, the idea being to prevent the theatre being entirely converted into a "twice-nightly" music hall. The Committee fully considered the subject on Tuesday, and ultimately decided to recommend the Council to advertise for tenders for the theatre, which means in effect that a surrender of the lease be accepted from the present lessees.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Dress and the Stage.

"Really, I consider the stage the showcase of the dressmakers," writes "A. G. L." in the Daily News. "Could there possibly be a better advertisement for clothes than it affords? The best figures, the prettiest faces setting off to supreme advantage the most remarkable confections, have brought more trade than is likely to come in any other way.

Must be Long.

"It is absolutely essential that the dresses worn on the stage must be very long, or else they will look awkward and 'cut short,' yet the same length worn in the drawing-room has equal chances of landing the wearer into her pet enemies' arms, or of distributing in one tremendous crash the pieces of her hostess's most prized (and priced) china vase.

Delusions.

"Women do not easily realise the fitness of things. The hat with the ravishing ostrich plume or pheasant's wing nearly a yard long, that looks so placidly beautiful in the still atmosphere of the stage was never designed for exhibition on the top of a motor-'bus on a windy day. The only woman who dares to indulge in so fascinating an article of headgear is the one who can afford as many 'chapeaux' as she and the elements have whims. Then does anyone for a moment believe in the efficacy of the chiffon, ermine-embroidered opera wrap, slung carelessly from the shapely shoulders of a popular actress? Perhaps the footlights help to keep her warm, for not even the ermine border would prevent her from freezing on the other side of the stage door.

The Real and the Ideal.

"No one could possibly have looked more charming than did Miss Mary Moore in a recent revival of The Liars, when she wore a white chiffon river gown. But imagine that gown in reality—damp, draggled, and depressed from the splashing of many oars. Surely no sensible woman would ever risk it.

Not Always Wise

"The trouble is, however, that all women are not sensible. There are some even who seem to have no desire for any individuality of their own. They are content—it is even the height of their ambition—to be nothing but a ludicrous walking caricature of some footlight favourite. More often than not they are utterly unlike in face and figure, but this is considered to be adequately met by adopting a few leading characteristics, such as the gipsy ear-rings of Miss Violet Vanbrugh, or the Quaker-like parting of the hair approved by Miss Edna May.

The Stage as a Show Room.

"I do not think that the stage has power to create fashions. Its chief use lies in the presenting of them. There have, of course, been occasions on which stage suggestions have been taken up. It was George Alexander who introduced the soft collars, and, in spite of the many men who have showered blessings upon him, they have not defied the convention of starch. Nor did all the 'puffing' of the Trelawny of the Wells costumes recently gain popularity for the bulky frocks of many frills. The stage tells us what is being worn rather than what to wear and that is where our own discretion must save us from mistakes. In the telling is its usefulness, for it enables the middle-classes to dress more in line.

A Costume Theatre!

"In view of all this it does seem surprising that the dressmakers, milliners, lingerie specialists (these have certainly become very prominent in the new nightgown play), tailors, hatters, and all of that ilk and fraternity, are content to wait upon the whims of the dramatist for their opportunities. It does not seem quite business-like, however safe it may be. They might hire a theatre themselves, and send their 'creations' to the most fashionable dramatist to be clothed suitably in comedy or drama, the latter for choice, as it is only the more serious emotions which allow scope for expression in colour."

No New Dramatists.

"REGARD for a moment the theatrical season which has lately been begun," writes Mr. Guy C. Pollock in the Pall Mall Gazette. "There are no new men, no new plays. Why? It is certainly not because no new men write no new plays. Why, I have written and helped to write several myself. They may be good plays or bad plays. Two men at least think they are rather good plays. Two men at least have intimated that they consider them rather bad plays. But this is an irrelevant detail. It may explain in part my burning concern for the continued existence of British drama. It does not exhaust the limits of possibility. For I myself know other men—better men, very likely—who are also new (in the sense of being unacted), and who have also written new plays, and, of course, there is a mighty host of such men pursuing the actable play with great artistic merits and considerable commercial possibilities. It is not, then, because no new men write no new plays.

What is the Reason?

"Is it because managements are afraid to produce the new work of new men? That is a thing which is often said. Why should it be true? I imagine that the expense, the initial expense, of an adaptation by a capable hand of a foreign play must be greater than the corresponding expense of a new play by a new man. There is no assurance that the adapted play will be more successful than the new play.

"The Chocolate Soldier."

MR. BERNARD SHAW has at length spoken with regard to his position in connection with The Chocolate Soldier. "I have not," he wrote to London Opinion, "permitted Arms and the Man to be turned into a musical comedy. The relation of The Chocolate Soldier to my play is that of Sir William Gilbert's Rosencrantz and Guildenstern to Hamlet, or Mr. Pelissier's Potted Plays to Henry of Navarre, The Whip, &c., &c. I have no more to do with it than any other member of the public.

"So long as my copyright is not technically violated, and the work is not put forward as a musical setting of my play (I am compelled by my foreign contracts to insist on both points), Herr Oscar Strauss and his librettists and Mr. Whitney are quite welcome to improve on my work to the utmost of their powers. I have no doubt our critics will like The Chocolate Soldier much better than Arms and the Man, and that many people will agree with them. Far from grudging them their entertainment, I have done everything in my power to steer both Mr. Whitney and the original German producers clear of any serious risk of legal complications.

"I HAVE no objection whatever," concludes Mr. Shaw, in characteristic vein, "to its being made known that Heldon (the German Arms and the Man) suggested the libretto of The Chocolate Soldier to Mr. Jacobsohn. So long as the facts are accurately stated there will be no trouble. But if journalists persist in making statements which, if true, would expose me to actions for breach of contract I must do what I can to rectify those statements; and if the journalists are again betrayed by their natural incapacity for grasping facts of any sort, especially simple facts, into concluding that I have any ill-will towards Mr. Whitney's enterprise, the fault is not mine."

ROBERT LORAINE.

ACTOR—AIRMAN—SOLDIER.

In any appreciation of Mr. Robert Loraine, the distinguished actor-aviator, we cannot do better than quote the remarks of a daily contemporary: "It is stimulating to a man in any position to find his opportunities suddenly and wonderfully widened. To one like Mr. Loraine, who has been chiefly engaged in work which is mainly mimetic, it must be extraordinarily fascinating. His situation is rather similar to that of a brilliant journalist who, having conspicuously proved his powers of grasping and dealing with public questions as a writer, is summoned from his desk to be the private secretary of a Cabinet Minister, and thence proceeds to be a member of the House of Commons, and in due course becomes a Minister himself. Such things have happened. A man is called from being a mere commentator to the position of a protagonist, and in a moment finds the whole horizon of his life immeasurably extended and the opportunities for displaying his powers superbly enlarged. Like the hero of Wordsworth's poem, he at last 'Plays in many games of life, that one, Where what he most doth value must be won.' And, surely, to quote again from the same poem, 'This is the happy warrior; this is he Whom every man in arms would wish to be.'"

And Mr. Robert Loraine, who comes from a very fine stock of acting material, also distinguished himself as a soldier in the South African War. He joined as a trooper the Welsh Imperial Yeomanry, and first acted as one of a squadron of mounted infantry. After that he exchanged into a machine-gun section. Then he was promoted to be a corporal, and was placed in charge of a Colt machine-gun. Most of Mr. Loraine's work was done under Major-General Baden-Powell after the relief of Mafeking. He also served under General Plumer, General Hickman, General Paget, and General Clements. That the actor-soldier served well was testified by the fact that he was offered commissions on two occasions.

He was present at and assisted in the Battle of Schlobberte's Nek, also at Reiteiff's Nek, where 5,000 Boers were captured after many days' fighting, and altogether had a very exciting time, till he managed to get a touch of camp fever from drinking extra bad water, and was invalided home.

The son of Mr. Henry Loraine, young Robert played his first part of any importance on the stage in the spring of 1889, and soon after toured in The Armada, under the late Sir Augustus Harris, and gained a lot of experience. He then joined Mr. Ben Greet, and played any part that came his way. Then came a deal of hard work in Shakespearean drama with the Bernard-Alleyn company. His first engagement in London was at the St. James's Theatre, under Mr. George Alexander's management, in The Prisoner of Zenda, in January, 1896. When the piece was revived he took the part of Hentzau, originally played by Mr. H. B. Irving, staying with Mr. Alexander for two years. He was next offered the part of Dick Beech, a sort of Sidney Carton in low life, in The White Heather at Drury Lane. He made such a hit in this character that he was asked to go back and play Prince Kassim Wadia in The Great Ruby, in which he had a fine death scene. At the Avenue Theatre, for the New Century Society, he played Kit French in Admiral Guinea.

About this time Mr. Loraine received a very flattering offer to succeed Mr. William Terriss at the Adelphi Theatre as the hero of all those romantic parts for which poor Terriss was famous. Unfortunately in one respect, Mr. Loraine was under contract to play the part of Claudio with Mr. George Alexander in Much Ado About Nothing, and much to his regret had to forgo the opportunity offered. It will be remembered, however, that he played the part of Dudley Keppel—created by William Terriss—in the revival of One of the Best at the Princess's Theatre in 1898. Then came his fine performance of D'Artagnan in The Three Musketeers at the Garrick Theatre, in succession to Mr. Lewis Waller and Mr. H. V. Esmond. By the way, one of the most notable of D'Artagnans in the ages that are past was Mr. Henry Loraine, his father, who, with Mr. Charles Dillon, held the supremacy in these swashbuckling, romantic parts. This was really Mr. Robert Loraine's last part on the stage before he resolved to fight for Queen and country.

Mr. Loraine first appeared on the New York stage at the Knickerbocker Theatre, March 4, 1901, as Ralph Percy in To Have and to Hold. On Jan. 7, 1902, he played Noel, Viscount Doughton, in Frocks and Frills, at Daly's Theatre, New York. Returning to England in the same year, he played Henry V. in a revival of that play; at the Prince of Wales's in April, 1902, he enacted Enrico Carbayal, in The President; he was in The Queen of the Roses at Wyndham's in June, 1903; and next played Tom Faggus, in Lorna Doone, at the Avenue.

Again off to America, he toured with Grace George as David Garrick, in Pretty Peggy, and subsequently played Ah Ching in a vaudeville sketch, A Tragedy at Tientsin. At Rochester, N.Y., in 1904, he played in The Liars, American Abroad, The Mysterious Mr. Bugle, and Diplomacy. At the Lyric, New York, on Sept. 17, 1904, he appeared as Lieut. Von Lauffen in Taps (Lights Out); at the Garrick, Philadelphia, Dec. 26, 1904, he appeared as King Edward IV. in The Lady Shore; and at the Criterion, New York, March 15, 1905, he was the Danvers M'Gregor in Nancy Stair. On April 24, 1905, he played the Invermorach in The Proud Laird; and at the Hudson Theatre, Sept. 5, in the same year, he was the John Tanner in Man and Superman.

He reappeared again in London at the Court Theatre in the same part (John Tanner) May 27, 1907, and on June 4 he played Don Juan in Don Juan in Hell, also at the Court. On Dec. 30, 1907, he was at the Savoy as Bluntschli in Arms and the Man; at the Haymarket, May, 1908, he played St. John Hotchkiss in Getting Married; at the Aldwych, Sept., 1908, he enacted Joseph Brooks in Paid in Full; at Wyndham's, Oct., 1908, he appeared as Stephens in Bellamy the Magnificent; at the Haymarket, Nov., 1908, he played Harry Telfer in Dolly Reforming Herself, and his Thomas Freeman in Smith, produced at the Comedy in September last year, will be well remembered.

Mr. Loraine's short and sensational career as an airman is within the memory of all. He first appeared in the rôle as "Mr. P. Jones" at Bournemouth. He may be said to have placed himself in the front rank of aviators on Aug. 10, when he made a record oversea flight, travelling in his Farman biplane from Blackpool to Rhos, between Colwyn Bay and Llandudno. Forty-eight miles of the sixty miles' journey were over water, and he thus broke the world's record. His performance last Sunday, when he flew across the Irish Sea, from Holyhead to within about a hundred yards of the Irish coast, nearly sixty miles, constitutes the finest over-sea flight yet accomplished.

Mr. Loraine reappears on the stage next Tuesday at the Queen's Theatre—by a remarkable coincidence—in the title-rôle in W. J. Locke's comedy The Man from the Sea. He has a part perfectly congenial to him—that of a man who brings fresh air into a close atmosphere.

[Photo by Hana.

MR. ROBERT LORAINE.

Encouraging an Actor.

AFTER the breaking-up of his establishment at Cork George Farren sought a living by commencing as an actor, says R. J. Broadbent in an interesting pamphlet, entitled "Elizabeth Farren, Countess of Derby." On his arrival in Liverpool he applied to William Gibson, the manager of the local Drury Lane Theatre, for an engagement at a very small salary, but his modest request did not meet with the expected success. "Our company, friend," said Gibson, who had been brought up as a Quaker, "being formed and full ere we left London, cannot possibly admit of any addition. Thou hast told me, friend, that thou hast never tried thy talents on the stage, and it is an unalterable maxim with me to reject all superfluities of any kind. I will not entertain more cats than will kill mice; and therefore, as by thy own confession thou art not practiced in the business of an actor, the most prudent course for thee would be to push thyself into some other way of life, which may support thee better.

A Half-a-crown Conclusion.

"WHATEVER thy vain hope may flatter thee with, expect not to keep up long the flashy appearance thou now dost make, shouldst thou engage with any travelling company of comedians. But lest, peradventure, thou shouldst lack wherewithal to answer for a bed and a supper, I make thee a present of this half-a-crown; thou dost look most pitifully lank, young man, but this may, if properly used by thee, prevent thy growing thinner for a short space of time." "The exordium to this puritanical speech," writes Lee Lewes, who tells the story, "made poor Farren look blank; he thought proper, however, being in want of half a crown, to pocket the affront—and making his best bow to his monitor, he went back to his lodging."

"THE MAN FROM MEXICO."

Farce, in Three Acts, by H. A. du Souchet, Performed for the First Time in the West End at the Strand Theatre, on Saturday, Sept. 10.

Benjamin Fitzhugh ..... MR. STANLEY COOKE
Roderick Majors ..... MR. GEORGE GIDDENS
Timothy Cook ..... MR. CECIL A. COLLINS
Von Bulow Bismarck Schmidtz ..... MR. HARRY PARKER
William Loveall ..... MR. KINSEY PEILE
Edward Farrar ..... MR. KING FORDHAM
Richard Dornton ..... MR. ERIC LEIGHTON
O'Mullins ..... MR. ELDRETT GULSON
Googan ..... MR. ARTHUR G. LEIGH
Louis ..... MR. TOM TINDALL
Clementina Fitzhugh ..... MISS OLA HUMPHREY
Sally Grace ..... MISS JEAN HARKNESS
Nettie Majors ..... MISS FAITH CELLI
Miranda ..... MISS GLADYS HARVEY

The Strand Theatre certainly needs a baptism of success, and it is likely to get it if the reception given to Mr. Stanley Cooke's production of The Man from Mexico on Saturday evening is any criterion. The first act is more or less preparatory; but when the ball is once set rolling, when the audience has once begun to laugh, it goes on laughing, louder and louder, and oftener and oftener, till the end. There is no superfluity of farce in our entertainment bill in London just at present, and The Man from Mexico ought to be a striking success at the Strand. It has already sent audiences into ecstacies of mirth over 2,000 times in America and Australia, and was played with success at the Coronet Theatre in the November of 1898. Indeed, in all essentials, the story may be said to have given delight to hundreds also in Paris and in London, for The Man from Mexico is practically a version of MM. Gondinet and Besson's Voyage d'Agrément, which was presented in English shape at the Criterion Theatre by Sir Charles Wyndham in the March of 1882, under the title of Fourteen Days. London audiences, however, have had a good many years in which to forget all about Fourteen Days, and, judging by the hilarity excited by The Man from Mexico at the Strand Theatre, the fact that the story has been used before is not likely to weigh for a moment with the public against the intensely droll and diverting incidents and smart dialogue of this screamingly funny piece.

The basis of so many farces—a husband's desire to enjoy himself independent of his wife's society, is that of The Man from Mexico. Mr. Benjamin Fitzhugh, a married man, who has been "out on the spree," is recovering from its effects and expecting its consequences. He has visited a certain fast restaurant, and there committed an assault in resisting a raid which has been made on the premises. "With" Mr. Fitzhugh, as they say of barristers in the Courts, is his obliging and resourceful friend, Mr. Roderick Majors, who does his best to pull Benjamin through his troubles. But justice is on the track in the person of a big and bitter detective, Timothy Cook, who pursues Fitzhugh relentlessly. In the end, the unlucky man becomes the prey of his pursuer, and is led off to prison.

How is he to account to his wife for his absence from home during the period of his incarceration? A story of a trip to Mexico is invented, and is duly told to Mrs. Fitzhugh. And now the scene of action shifts to the room of the Warden—what we should call the prison governor—in an American gaol. The Warden is a lively and artistic personage; and one of the most eccentric things in the farce is the entrance of a detachment of prisoners stepping to a quaint and haunting air. To complicate matters, the Warden, who is a very susceptible personage, has fallen in love with a lady whom Benjamin recognises, from a portrait, to be Mrs. Fitzhugh. She calls at the gaol with some other ladies with a philanthropic object, and the Warden pays her attentions which Fitzhugh is obliged to witness, but is unable to resent. The officious Roderick Majors has been working hard, but in vain, to straighten out affairs, and, at the end of the act, a rising of the prisoners spoils all his plans.

Having "done his time," Fitzhugh has to present himself to his wife plausibly and effectively. He does so in Mexican attire, and tells an extravagantly absurd story. His struggles with the situation, and his difficulties with the Spanish language, a smattering of which he has acquired from a phrase-book, are as excruciatingly droll as the rest of the piece. As Mrs. Fitzhugh was herself at the restaurant, which she visited in a spirit of curiosity on the night of the raid, she is disposed to be indulgent, and the performance concludes with everyone—including the audience—entirely contented.

Judging from the attitude of the audience towards The Man from Mexico, the piece has "come to stay" at the Strand. Mr. Stanley Cooke is the life and soul of the action. His performance as Benjamin Fitzhugh is a gem, and one of the best things he has ever done. His untiring activity and abundance of clever gags keep the audience in a continual uproar of hilarity. He excels particularly in the second act, where Fitzhugh is doing thirty days' imprisonment at Blackwell Islands gaol; but he is intensely funny throughout. Mr. Cecil Collins gives a clever character-study as Timothy Cook, the New York detective, who is principally engaged in shadowing Fitzhugh, and very amusing are the many little altercations which take place between them, Cook's towering frame contrasting strongly with that of the shorter Fitzhugh. Mr. George Giddens is in his happiest vein as Roderick Majors, whose desire to "make it all right" with everybody always ends in disaster. Mr. Harry Parker gives a finely farcical impersonation of Von Bulow Bismarck Schmidtz; Mr. King Fordham is excellent as Edward, the disappointed suitor for the hand of Sally Grace; as Richard Dornton Mr. Eric Leighton supplies a sound performance; and Mr. Kinsey Peile portrays the artistically inclined Warden Loveall in just the right key. The ladies' parts are all judiciously cast. Miss Ola Humphrey has a part to which she is well suited in that of Clementina Fitzhugh, and plays it in a decidedly effective manner. Miss Jean Harkness is a pretty and sympathetic Sally Grace; Miss Faith Celli skilfully enacts Roderick Majors' pretty daughter Nettie; and Miss Gladys Harvey is good as the maid, Miranda. Mr. Tom Tindall does good work as Louis, a waiter; and the characters of O'Mullins, of the New York Police, and Googan, a prison warder, are admirably sustained by Messrs. Eldrett Gulson and Arthur Leigh. The Man from Mexico was preceded by the pretty little Dutch play from the pen of Mr. Stanley Cooke, with music by Arthur Wood, entitled "HIS LIVING IMAGE."

The Figure and Jan ..... MR. WYN WEAVER
Jake ..... MR. CHRIS WALKER
Gretchen ..... MISS AMY FRANCIS

The story is simple. The father of a Dutch girl, Gretchen, has constructed a mannequin which he has named the perfect man. In his memoirs he states that owing to his mistrust of the modern man, he has made a perfect husband for his only child. The figure will come to life under the influence of an all-inspiring love. Jake, a fisherman, "chaffs" Gretchen about her mock husband, adding that a certain Jan is dying for love of her. But she will have none of him, believing in the resuscitation of her mannequin. Jan then arrives to plead his cause in person, but to no purpose. Then, as a last resource, he decides to smash the figure to atoms, and take its place. Gretchen is considerably startled on seeing the puppet come to life; but she is disillusioned by Jake, who shows her the remains of the broken image. After several pretty songs and dances, all ends happily. Miss Amy Francis makes a dainty Gretchen; Mr. Wyn Weaver, in the dual rôle of Jan and the figure, leaves little to be desired; and Mr. Chris Walker is a capital Jake.

"THE CHOCOLATE SOLDIER."

Comic Opera, in Three Acts, Music by Oscar Straus, Written by Bernauer and Jacobson, the English Version by Stanislaus Stange, Produced at the Lyric on Saturday, Sept. 10.

Nadina ..... MISS CONSTANCE DREVER
Aurelia ..... MISS AMY AUGARDE
Mascha ..... MISS ELSIE SPAIN
Bumerli ..... MR. C. H. WORKMAN
Massakroff ..... MR. LEMPRIERE PRINGLE
Stephan ..... MR. MURRI MONCRIEFF
Mernosk ..... MISS ISOBEL LIDSTER
Jecko ..... MR. A. HARDING
Laska ..... MISS MORRISON
Marinska ..... MISS MAY CLARKE
Poski ..... MR. HAROLD DENNIS
Mernitz ..... MR. W. G. KEYRAM
Katinka ..... MISS M. BURNESS
Alexis Sparidoff ..... MR. ROLAND CUNNINGHAM
Casimir Popoff ..... MR. TOM A. SHALE

The fantastic humour of Bernard Shaw is ingeniously reflected in the opera which has been written upon his play Arms and the Man, and under the title of The Chocolate Soldier had its English representation at the Lyric on Saturday. Insinuating airs, duets conceived in the most whimsical vein, and richly harmonious choruses are wedded to a story in which brilliant shafts of Shaw satire are mingled with more or less neatly-turned rhymes from the pen of Mr. Stanislaus Stange. Above all rises a wonderful waltz tune, which exercised an influence that could not be resisted. It was received with rapture, echoed during the entr'actes, and it accompanied the audience on their way home.

The air was sung in the opening by Nadina, the daughter of Colonel Popoff, whose lover—Alexis—is away at the war then raging between Bulgaria and Servia. Alexis is a hero by repute, and ere retiring to rest, Nadina breathes forth her devotion to her absent lover in a song with the refrain "Come, come." The entry by the window of a fugitive soldier is the only response to her plaint. He is Bumerli, a Swiss lieutenant in the Servian Army, fleeing from the pursuit of the Bulgarians. With splendid assurance Bumerli, in a telling scene, first terrorises Nadina, and then gains her sympathy, thus giving the signal for an effective duet on that theme. A true Shavian hero, Bumerli has no taste for war, and confesses himself more expert at consuming chocolate drops than facing fire, and for that Nadina derisively dubs him a "chocolate soldier." He destroys Nadina's faith in her hero, declaring that though Alexis has the credit of taking the Servian guns, it was not to his valour but to the fact that the gunners found at the psychological moment that they had the wrong ammunition that the victory was due. Nadina bids him hide behind a curtain, while a squad of soldiers search for him in accepted opera-bouffe fashion. Bumerli, however, has other dangers to face, for Nadina's cousin, Mascha, and her mother, who have been heard singing a weirdly scored trio with Nadina, "Life is lonely without the man," discover that he is there, and insist on taking him under their protection. Mrs. Popoff lends him her husband's jacket, into the pocket of which each lady slips a photograph of herself adorned with her signature and some term of endearment. Worn out with fatigue Bumerli sinks to sleep with the three ladies sharing the duty of sentry.

The return of the victorious Bulgarians with Colonel Popoff singing "How glad I am the war is over" opens the second act, in which the betrothal of Alexis and Nadina is arranged. At dinner Popoff and Alexis discuss, to the horror and disgust of the ladies, a droll Swiss who had told them how he had escaped from the enemy through the good offices of "three Bulgarian women whose hearts he had captured." Consternation on the arrival of Bumerli bringing with him a portmanteau which contains the Colonel's jacket, gives way to terror when the ladies learn that he has not even seen the photographs and that they must be still where they had placed them. The Colonel calls for his jacket, and that garment being forthcoming, there is a quaint trio, in the course of which each lady approaches Popoff on various pretexts, and secures a photograph and safety. Mascha, who has lost her heart to Alexis, succeeds in diverting his from Nadina to herself, and Bumerli's persistent wooing finally overcomes Nadina, who is fain to love her chocolate soldier "because she hates him."

Romance, melody, and satire are cleverly interwoven, and in its interpretation composer, librettist, and artists are at one. In the case of the artists it is a reunion of Savoyards, and admirably do they realise the author's intention. The gem of the piece is the waltz-song to which we have alluded, and the honours of its rendering belong to Miss Constance Drever, who sang it with thrilling effect, imparting to the lines passion and fervour, and rising in a crescendo that was quite thrilling. Apart from that piece of sentiment, Miss Drever was a bewitching Nadina, wearing many ravishing costumes becomingly, and playing, dancing, and singing with exquisite comedy. Most of her musical effects were gained in combination with Mr. C. H. Workman, who as the irrepressible and irresistible Swiss, won unlimited laughter. Mr. Workman made artistic use of his voice, and sang agreeably in the "Sympathy" duet with Miss Drever. One recalls with pleasure the piquant number "That would be lovely," a graceful, lilting melody in which the pair join. The ingenuity and skill of the composer were manifested in the accompaniment to a letter song, which is afterwards sung as a duet between Nadina and Bumerli. The latter is a most melodious composition, and Miss Drever and Mr. Workman gained for it a hearty encore. Mr. Roland Cunningham, who entered thoroughly into the character of the vainglorious Alexis, delivered his droll lines with the utmost point. He had a song descriptive of that individual, in which the purity and sweetness of his voice was heard with telling effect. Miss Elsie Spain was at her brightest and best as the flirtatious Mascha and sang with vivacity and sweetness, and acted with delicious roguishness. With Mr. Cunningham she shares a duet, "Falling in love," in the rendering of which the clever pair obtained a conspicuous hit, Mascha's dainty dance round the dignified soldier adding in no small respect to the measure of success. Mr. Lempriere Pringle realised to the life the ferocious sergeant of the Bulgarian force. His advent, indeed, at the head of his company, who describe themselves in a chorus at once whimsical and musically effective, was one of the principal hits of the piece. Colonel Popoff was depicted with droll dignity by Mr. Tom A. Shale, whose efforts at promoting merriment never relaxed, and never went unrewarded. Miss Amy Augarde acted with comic perception as the Colonel's wife Aurelia, and utilised her voice to perfection in various concerted numbers.

Mounting and dressing could hardly be surpassed, a luxurious bedroom and a magnificent view of a Bulgarian hillside exacting the highest admiration. The splendour of the uniforms was intensified by the simple, rustic costumes of the Bulgarian maidens, and the return of the soldiers from the war was superbly enacted. M. Jacques Van Heuval conducted the orchestra in a manner that enhanced the attractiveness of the work. The opera has already triumphed in Vienna and other Continental cities, and its reception by a brilliant house on Saturday gave every indication that a similar happy fate awaited it in this country. The enthusiasm of the audience was unbounded, and Mr. F. C. Whitney, to whose enterprise the production is due, made a speech of thanks.

AN APPRECIATION OF DUSE.

"Eleonora Duse," says L. M. Hanason, "has a strangely wearied look. It is not the weariness of exhaustion or apathy, nor is it the weariness natural to an overworked actress, although there are times when she suffers from that to so great an extent that she acts indifferently the whole evening, and makes the part a failure. Neither is it the weariness of despondency, which gives the voice a hollow, artificial sound, which is noticeable in all virtuosas when they are overtired. Neither is it the utter prostration resulting from passion, like the drowsiness of beasts of prey, which our tragic actors and actresses delight in. Passion, the so-called great passion, which, according to an old legend recounted in one of the Greek tragedies, comes like the whirlwind, and leaves nothing behind but death and dried bones—passion such as that is unknown to Duse. Brunhild, Medea, Messalina, and all the ambitious, imperious princesses of historic drama are nothing to her; she is no princess or martyr of ancient history, but a princess in her own right, and a martyr of circumstances. Throughout her acting there is a feeling of surprise that she should suffer and be martyred, accompanied by the dim knowledge that it must be so—and it is that which gives her soul its weary melancholy. For it is not her body, nor her senses, nor her mind which give the appearance of having just awoke from a deep lethargy, the weariness is all in her soul, and it is that which gives her a soft, caressing, trustful manner, as though she felt lonely, and yearned for a little sympathy. Love is full of sympathy, and that is why Eleonora Duse acts love. Not greedy love, which asks more than it gives, like Walter's and Bernhardt's; not sensual love, nor yet imperious love, like the big woman who takes pity on the little man, whom it pleases her to make happy. When Duse is in love, even in Fédora, it is always she who is the little woman, and the man is for her the big man, the giver, who holds her happiness in his hands, to whose side she steals anxiously, almost timidly, and looks up at him with her serious, wearied, almost child-like smile. She comes to him for protection and shelter, just as travellers are wont to gather round a warm fire, and she clings to him caressingly with her thin little hands—the hands of a child and mother. Never has woman been represented in a more womanly way than by Eleonora Duse, and more than that, I take it upon myself to maintain that woman has never been represented upon the stage until now—by Eleonora Duse.

"She shows us the everlasting child in woman—in the full-grown, experienced woman, who is possessed of an erotic yearning for fulness of life. Woman is not, and cannot be, happy by herself, nor is the sacrifice of a moment enough for her; it is not enough for her to live by the side of the man, a husband's tenderness is as necessary to her as the air she breathes. His passion, lit by her, is her life and happiness. He gives her the love in which her life can blossom into a fair and beautiful flower. And she accepts him, not with the silly innocence of a child, not with the ignorance of girlhood, not with the ungoverned passion of a mistress, not with the condescending forbearance of the 'superior woman,' not with the brotherly affection of the manly woman—we have had ample opportunity of seeing and benefiting by such representations as those in every theatre, and in every tongue since first we began to see and to think. They include every type of womanhood as understood and represented by actresses great and small. But into all this Duse introduces a new element, something which was formerly only a matter of secondary importance on the stage, which, by the 'highest art,' was judged in the light of a juggler's trick, and was considered by the lower art as little more than a valuable ingredient. She makes it the mainstring on which her acting vibrates, the keynote without which her art would have no meaning. She accepts the man with the whole-hearted sincerity of an experienced woman, who shrinks from the loneliness of life, and longs to lose herself in the loved one. She has the dreadful sensation that a human being has nothing but minutes, minutes—that there is nothing lasting to rely on, that we swim across dark waters from yesterday until to-morrow, and our unfulfilled desires are less terrible than the feverish anxiety with which we anticipate the future in times of prosperity.

"Eleonora Duse's acting tells of infinite suspense.

"Her entire art rests on this one note—Suspense, which means that we know nothing, possess nothing, can do nothing, that everything is ruled by chance, and the whole of life is one great uncertainty. This terrible insecurity stands as a perfect contrast to the 'cause and effect' theory of the schools, which trust in God and logic, and offer a secure refuge to the playwright's art. This mysterious darkness, from whence she steps forward like a sleep-walker, gives a sickly colouring to her actions. There is something timid about her, she seems to have an almost superstitious dislike of a shrill sound, or a brilliant colour, and this peculiarity of hers finds expression not only in her acting, but also in her dress.

"We seldom see toilets on the stage which reveal a more individual taste. Just as Duse never acted anything but what was in her own soul, she never attempted any disguise of her body. Her own face was the only mask she wore when I saw her act. The expression of her features, the deep lines on her cheeks, the melancholy mouth, the sunken eyes with their large heavy lids, were all characteristic of the part. She always had the same black, broad, arched eyebrows, the same wavy, shiny black Italian hair, which was always done up in a modest knot, sometimes high, sometimes a little lower, from which two curls always escaped during the course of her acting, because she had a habit of brushing her forehead with a white and rather bony hand, as though every violent emotion made her head ache.

"No jewel glittered against her sallow skin, and she wore no ornament on her dress; there was something pathetic in the unconcealed thinness of her neck and throat. She was of medium height, a slender body with broad hips, without any signs of the rounded waist which belongs to the fashionable figure of the drama. She wore no stays, and there was nothing to hinder the slow, graceful, musical movements of her somewhat scanty figure. She made frequent gestures with her arms which were perfectly natural in her, although her Italian vivacity sometimes gave them a grotesque appearance. But it was the grace of her form rather than her gestures, which called attention to the natural stateliness of her person. As to her dresses, they were not in the least fashionable—there was nothing of the French fashion-plate style about them; but then she never made any attempt to follow the fashion; she set it. There was an antique look about the long, soft folds of her dress, also something suggestive of the Renaissance in the velvet bodices and low lace collars.

"But her arrangement of colour was new; it was not copied either from the antique or the Renaissance, and it was certainly not in accordance with the present-day fashion. She never wore red—with the exception of Nora's shabby blouse—nor bright yellow, nor blue, never, in fact, any strong, deep colour. The hues which she affected most were black and white in all materials, whether for dresses or cloaks. She always wore pale, cream-coloured lace, closely folded across her breast, from whence her dress fell loosely to the ground; she never wore a waistband of any kind whatever."

A COPY of "THE ERA" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

THE MODERN AUDIENCE.

Bear in mind—writes J. H. Cox, in an article in the Irish Independent on "How to Revive the Drama"—that the house has new tenants. The critical gallery and the perceptive pit are gone. The theatre has become "popular." Its plebeian crowd is full of nothing but excitement and compassion. Any amateur psychologist could anticipate the natural preference of such children in art. They like their drama as Mrs. Snagsby her religion, "rather sharp." The dilettante, whose senses have refined to decadence, is at the other extreme. He cannot bear laceration of mind. He flees the entreaties of Pity and Terror. He detests a heavy fire of shots between his nerves and the situation. Tragedy is his aversion. Musical comedy, wherein Nonsense punches the ribs of Laughter, is the torch of his soul. He is the degenerate descendant of him who revelled in the artificial comedy of the eighteenth century. He seeks in the theatre the mental inebriation that cancels the old world and establishes a new one. The muse of serious dramatic art, now sadly in need of friends, does well to give him up and turn instead to the combustible being who has at least heart enough for melodrama. That lurid article must be the basis of instruction. Only by melodrama can you form the dramatic instinct of primitive minds.

At the same time, no playhouse wholly subsists on runaway trains and tile-walking somnambulists. The first step to something better, according to managerial custom everywhere, is an appeal to patriotic stimulus. The sensationalism alternates with historical drama duly thrilling—an arrangement which gives the key to our hopes. But first a few flying remarks on historical drama, its seeming death, and its imminent resurrection.

The elder Dumas and his disciples made it the magnet of the stage. The theatre is, however, subject to fashion; the public wearied of the splendid gestures, the pompous speeches, the superhuman deeds. In the beginning this revulsion was induced by surfeit. Of course, the romantic authors wisely modified their mixtures; they began eliminating the "gush"; their work was devoted more to gay, gallant, and unexpected episodes. But do what they might, their preternatural swordsman was doomed. Burlesque and comic opera arrived and caught him, and he sank into the limbo of exploded chimeras, whence an age since grown sceptical, and consequently hungering for stage realism, has not suffered him to emerge.

A fuller tide of scepticism has more recently set in. This time it does not mean revulsion after overdose, as did the first recoil from inflated historical romance. Rather it is symptomatic of public thought in every domain. And in drama its most evident result is the naturalism which now for a considerable spell has restricted the serious stage to pictures of familiar life. The romantic school has passed. Fred Terry, Lewis Waller, and Martin Harvey—women's actors all—give us occasional glimpses of the discarded hero; but the men in the house are too modern to follow his movements with more than a mocking eye. In a word, we have lost the faculty of transporting ourselves into a romantic atmosphere. Be it said, in acknowledgment of the toilsome ascent of Man, that this spectatorial scepticism is no reproach. It does not betoken any hardening of the heart, or coldness for the truly heroic. We have a more practical public, that is all. Never before has the hero in real life been so well looked after. It is the idea of heroism that has changed. Titanic feats of arms and puerile points of honour no longer move a community which has relinquished, not its sentiments, but its sentimentality. Thus it happens that the modern touchstone of dignified drama is reality. And taking all these circumstances, there is nothing remote in the deduction that the grandiose-heroic style of historical piece is almost as defunct as Dr. Dowie.

This, mark you, is not ringing the knell of historical drama. In truth it is on the verge of a great revival. For a lead in theatrical matters you must look towards Paris as the Mohammedan towards Mecca. What the French theatre does to-day our does to-morrow; and the historical play is the latest thing on the Parisian boards. It is not the Dumas-esque round of sword tricks tempered by salaams. Nor is it the later elaboration of quasi-fabulous comic episodes, the best instance of which is Sardou's Madame Sans-Gêne. The treatment has become "scientific." The incidents are closely reconciled to history; the characters are such as the most sceptical audience can believe in. There are heroes, to be sure, and traitors also—history abounds in the one and the other; but the heroes are not absolute, nor the traitors without excuse. The dramatis personæ are men and women like ourselves, with the same human, changeable emotions, but with the thoughts of their own time. They speak and act as we should do if placed in their environment.

Presumably one or other Dublin theatre is already on the watch for historical pabulum. In laying in their stock the management could strike a rich mine of interest and go far to improve the standard of taste by encouraging Irish playwrights—of whom there are many pining for opportunity—to apply the new method to Irish subjects. An Emmet of stained-glass perfection, a Cromwell out-Heroding Herod, a Lord Edward of ten thousand horse-power—these are types that have had their day. Historical accuracy vivified by probability would admit of restatements of the same characters, not as gods or demons, but as men, and would uncover wells of pathos which the effete, artificial method entirely missed.

DON'T FORGET THE GRIN.

BY TOM CRAVEN.

If you should be a chorus girl,
And wish the town to fetch,
You must call yourself an actress
(Imaginative stretch).
Be photo'd in a motor car;
A Derby you must win!
Wear silken hose, and dainty clothes.
And—don't forget the grin.

Then sport a tiny snug retreat,
An easy ride from town.
And get some smart photographers
And interviewers down.
Then he photo'd in your study
And boudoir to begin,
Assume an air of innocence,
And—don't forget the grin.

You must have a motor mishap
(To work "pars." be alert),
And let the papers say you're "scared
But very little hurt."
Make capital of everything,
And dash about your tin;
Remember to exaggerate,
And—don't forget the grin.

Get mixed up in a scandal, too
(With titled men, of course);
Then associate your name with crime,
Especially divorce.
What if you blight ancestral homes,
If you the case can win,
A theatre shall be built for you,
Then—don't forget the grin.

From the "Tom Craven Mixture" of recitations and monologues. Published in book form by Samuel French, Ltd., price 1s.

"THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER," by Albert A. Strong, LL.B. (Lond.), price 3s. 6d., post free 3s. 10d. Published at The Era Buildings, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

SWINBURNE ON "KING LEAR."

An illuminating analysis and fine criticism of King Lear was written by the late Algernon Charles Swinburne, and published with other Shakespearean essays in a small volume issued by Henry Frowde, of the Oxford University Press, London. The lamented author of Atalanta in Calydon writes: "No supernatural effect of tragedy and of terror can ever equal or approach the effect of purely natural causes which work out their inevitable and unimaginable results by dint or by grace of no more incognizable influence than that of character and circumstance alone. Macbeth is not more surely above comparison with Romeo and Juliet as to range of thought and might of passion than is King Lear above comparison with Macbeth. Coleridge himself, the greatest master of the supernatural among all poets of all time, has left nothing so terrible or so beautiful. In lyric power and preterhuman imagination, unique alike in sweep of conception and in harmony of detail, he is beyond comparison with any other poet on record; but Shakespeare has touched a deeper chord of terror and a finer chord of pity in a poem which grapples with the best and the worst imaginable possibilities of human character no less than with the most living and the most glorious aspects of the passing magnificence of nature. All the magnetism of tempest is in the very words and cadences of the verse: and this matchless music is but an accompaniment, as this matchless painting is but a background, to the deeper and more dreadful harmonies and revelations of humanity. If this poem be not the greatest work of man, it is at least on a level with any other that tradition may set against it or enthusiasm beside it. Take away or tone down the tempest, and the tragedy of character would still remain, independent in its essence of the accident supplied by the wild night and the many miles of bushless waste. The conscious and conscienceless abandonment or self-devotion rather than self-surrender of Goneril and Regan to the instincts which they have just enough of practical intelligence to clothe if not to cover with some show of egotistic reasoning is as natural as the cruelty of their servile ministers; even though lightning and rain be here as relentless as the willing and unwilling agents who nailed Prometheus to the cliff. The unspeakable villainy of Edmund is not less imaginable and credible in a rancorous and heartless sufferer under the brand of bastardy than is the cheerful gallantry of Falconbridge in a heroic patriot who accepts it with a laugh and glorifies it by his acceptance. Against such a triad of most toad-spotted traitors no less heavenly counterpoise or contrast than could be given only by three such figures as those of Cordelia, Kent, and the Fool, could suffice to establish the ethical balance of the poem, and reconcile the sympathy or even sustain the endurance of the reader. The dramatic skill of the supreme dramatic rather than theatrical artist was never more triumphantly manifest than in the fusion and transfiguration of the stories here so naturally and so cunningly interwoven. To have turned the ugly and unmanageable legend of Cordelia's ultimate suicide in prison into the glory of a martyrdom unmatched for its tragic effect of terror and of pity, to have made its inevitable consequence the agony which now strikes out not the reason but the life of her father, is the supreme feat of Shakespeare as a spiritual craftsman. On the other hand, we cannot honestly overlook the one great and grave oversight or flaw to be found in this tragic work: the sudden and inexplicable disappearance of Lear's only comrade and support in the first horror of his exposure as an outcast to the storm. That Casca should not meet us at Philippi must always have been left as a disappointment and must always be remembered as a default: that the Fool should vanish with the tempest, never more to be thought of or mentioned by Lear or by Cordelia, can be neither explained nor excused by any possible audacity or felicity of conjecture. The most fortunate existence of a text from which two of the most priceless and incomparable scenes in the whole poem were struck out by the villainous editors of the folio precludes us from the otherwise natural and inevitable suspicion that another as brutal and treacherous excision may have deprived us of a third, in which we should have seen the last of the noble poor fellow, whose suffering, in common with his own, was the means of his master's conversion from the royal egotism of a wilful and headstrong tyrant to the infinite sympathy of a high-minded and tender-hearted man with all sufferers under social negligence and misrule. In the noblest sense of an ambiguous if not indefinable term, the socialism of the revolutionary if not subversive sympathies which imbue with such thoughtful passion the inspired insanity of the beggared and vagrant king can only rest unrecognised as Shakespeare's own prophetic and fervent faith by the blindest and deafest of misreaders.

"The one tragedy ever written which can be set beside King Lear as a comparable poem of the same kind as well as the same form is in all minor points unlike it. The eponymous hero is in every sense the hero indeed, and a nobler never lived in fiction or in less precious and immortal fact. The heroine, if not so heroically adorable as Cordelia, may probably seem to some readers a figure even more tenderly to be cherished in the inmost heart of all men's love and pity. She is not less patient and true: no other man, not even the creator of Antigone, and most assuredly no mortal woman, has ever painted the courage of woman, the distinctive property of their peculiar heroism, as Shakespeare has. And she is gentle almost beyond belief, submissive almost beyond sympathy: it is certainly impossible to imagine Cordelia, nor perhaps is it possible to imagine any other of Shakespeare's women, so 'obedient a lady,' so resentless of such outrage, so ultra-Christian in her uncomplaining readiness to turn the other cheek. It is almost suggestive of something almost like a reversion to the mean mediæval type of Griselda: of an ethical and spiritual subsidence or descent from Shakespeare's humanity to Chaucer's."

THE eleventh annual general meeting of the Incorporated Stage Society will be held on Tuesday next at 35, Southampton-street, Strand, the new offices of the Society. The chair will be taken at 5 o'clock.

A GREAT rush is being made in the direction of Oberammergau to witness the Passion Play next Sunday, and there is eager competition, especially among Americans, for quarters at the house of Anton Lang, who takes the part of Christus. All Americans going to the play booked in the months of March and April in the States. The audiences are in the proportion of twelve Americans to one Englishman.

ALL ladies going to the play dispense with hats, and instead wear motor veils like turbans. Everybody takes a cushion to the theatre, as the wooden seats are not upholstered. Cushions may, however, be hired from householders at a charge of 1 mark, or can be bought at the numerous booths and little shops which form the picture and postcard emporiums of this little Bavarian village.

MISS MARY MANNERING is, we are sorry to hear, lying dangerously ill in a hospital in New York, after an operation for appendicitis. Miss Mannering made her first appearance at the Prince's, Manchester, in 1892, and her début in New York, where she was subsequently very successful at the Lyceum Theatre there in 1895. She also appeared at Daly's, New York, and at Wallack's.

THE OLD ACTOR-MANAGER.

"The actor-manager of thirty years ago," wrote the late T. W. Robertson in the Illustrated Times, "was a man of totally different type to his successor of the present day. He was an intensely clever, bustling, wrong-headed, highly appreciative fellow, fond of his authors, his company, his orchestra, his scene-shifters, his supernumeraries and all that belonged to the little world he ruled. During the rehearsal of a new piece, he would swear horribly and stamp on the stage till the soles of his feet tingled again. On the night of its production, attired in his character dress, he would be here, there and everywhere—assisting the actors in the adjustment of their wigs, finding fault with the coiffure of a soubrette, discharging the prompter, imprecating every portion of the anatomy of his stage-manager, helping a carpenter in the 'setting' of a rock-piece, challenging his leading tragedian to mortal combat on the morrow, making speeches to the audience to appease them for the long delays between the acts, and conducting himself generally like a lunatic in fancy costume; but, the piece over, he would raise the prompter's salary, ask his stage-manager to join him in a bottle of champagne, treat the carpenters to beer, invite his leading tragedian to dine with him on Sunday, and thank his generous and liberal public for once more cr-r-r-owning his humble efforts with their kind approval. The first to recognise merit in an aspirant, he was the last to listen to the grumbling of a fastidious author or a tyrannical stage-manager. Beloved by all tragedians, comedians, carpenters, call-boys, scene-shifters, and supernumeraries, his funeral presented a long procession of grateful and weeping mourners, who dated all the events of their lives from his death, and who said constantly, 'When poor Yorick was living he would never,' &c. 'Alas! poor Yorick!' Hie over the last five-and-twenty years to the present caterers for the public! The change is great, and, like many other changes, the reverse of an improvement. There are so many varieties of the species that our limits will only permit us to touch upon a few.... The commercial manager is a very common type, and is willing to turn to good account opera, ballet, equestrianism and Shakespeare in this present practical theatrical age. He takes an entirely commercial view of all things—Ramo-Samee-Indiarubber Peruvians, real water, the legitimate drama, speaking pantomime, or pantomimic tragedy—so that it brings in the ready sixpence. He prides himself greatly upon his practical common-sense, distrusts manuscripts, fears authors, but places great reliance upon his costumier and property man. His conversation is not choice, except as regards oaths, which are of a raciness and full flavour that would do credit to an irate cabman. Although he professes a high respect for dramatic literature, he judges of the merit of a drama like a butterman—by its weight in paper. He is a great man for bargains, and will buy a quantity of damaged velvets for a fabulously small sum, after which he will search for an author to write him a piece for the velvets. 'Lovely velvets—make any piece popular them velvets would,' says the commercial manager. The drama found, if it fail he despairs of the prospects of the theatre. Public are so fickle nowadays. 'Who would have thought that with them velvets any piece could fail?' The commercial manager is a great financial genius, and cuts down salaries and expenses to the very lowest scale. He is also fertile in expedients for stopping a night's salary from his employés, and was the original inventor and introducer of that wonderful piece of economical meanness, a complimentary benefit, which means a benefit for the manager, on which occasion the actors, actresses, scene-shifters, supernumeraries and all give their services gratuitously. . . . Lastly, the commercial manager is very litigious, and always involved in lawsuits; in fact, an attorney is laid on to his establishment like gas, and picks out holes in engagements and flaws in arrangements for his clever client's interest. The actor-manager is a good second or third rate sort of artist, who forces himself into a prominent position by taking a theatre, and, by carefully stewing down the abilities of the authors and actors he employs, and mixing with his own their mental and artistic porridge, makes his weak water-gruel talents thick and savoury. Just now the stage is terribly plagued by various sorts of these self-sufficient entrepreneurs. There is your tragedian manager, who kindly puts Shakespeare right and explains what that erring author really meant; and there is your high comedy manager, who knows three lords to speak to, and once met a countess at a ball, and is in consequence a great authority on fashionable life, and, like Goldsmith's bear-leader, can't abide anything that is low. These two varieties are very fond of teaching young actors how to act, and so successful is their tuition that very often a promising young comedian from the provinces has in six difficult lessons been tamed and tortured into the ineffective and passionless delivery which forms so valuable a setting to managerial mediocrity. Another of these peculiarities is remarkable. They seldom, if ever, engage an actor or actress taller than themselves. An engagement at their theatre depends more on inches than genius. No mere actor should be taller than his manager. Banquo should always be smaller than Macbeth, and the jeune premier rôle shorter than the grand premier rôle. Height, like individual talent, must be kept down to one regulation standard. In regard to their well-disguised servility to the gentlemen who notice the theatres in the daily and weekly papers, actor-managers are by no means more open to animadversion than either the commercial or the invisible ones. . . . There are many other varieties of managers, too many for us to give a full and particular account of; many well-meaning, kind-hearted and honourable gentlemen—the sort of men who require no detailed description, for the good of all classes are alike."

THE latest volunteer contributors to the benefit to Mrs. Ernest Carpenter at the Lyceum on Oct. 4 are Miss Margaret Cooper, with several songs selected from her répertoire; Mr. Bransby Williams, who will give his impersonations from Dickens; and Mr. Charles Pond, who will supply some of his "Glimpses of Life."

FINE apparel decks both the virtuous and the vicious characters in The Sins of London at the Lyceum. Miss Amy Brandon Thomas as the heroine appears on the good ship Alabama in a charming frock of fancy-coloured ninon, most dainty in colour and design. Shades of blue and pink and violet are charmingly intermingled. Character is given to the gown by a very wide waistband or corslet of mauve silk, and by a wide mauve bow on the skirt. Over this frock Miss Thomas wears a charming cream wrap coat, with a very wide collar and revers of black silk. Another notable frock is one of soft cream ninon, with elaborate draperies of white satin, worn with a large picture hat of oyster grey silk, with a broad brim turned up with black.

MISS AURIOL LEE as Gertie Coleman appears in a graceful gown of pale blue satin. A very wide band of embroidery and lace, touched with gold, encircles the skirt above the knee; and a graceful drapery of vivid purple chiffon falls from one shoulder in shawl fashion down the back of the frock, and is brought round to the front and fastened with an ornamental tassel. Black satin is the material of another of Miss Lee's gowns. This forms the kilted skirt, and over it is worn a close-fitting Princess tunic of crepe de chine. Miss Vashti Wynne makes an impressive appearance in an evening gown of flame-coloured satin, with a sweeping osprey of the same tint in her hair.

ON THE ROAD, SEPT. 19.

ANGEL OF HIS DREAMS.—Alex. T., Birmingham.
ANOTHER MAN'S WIFE.—T. R., Darlington.
APPLE OF EDEN.—Lyric T., Hammersmith, W.
ARCADIANS (N.).—King's T., Hammersmith, W.
ARCADIANS (S.).—Court T., Wigan.
AS YOUR HAIR GROWS WHITER.—New, Washington.
AT THE WORLD'S MERCY.—King's T., Gainsborough.
BEECHAM OPERA CO.—T. R., Dublin.
BEGGAR GIRL'S WEDDING.—Eden T., Bishop Auckland.
BENSON, F. R. (N.).—O. H., Torquay.
BENSON, F. R. (S.).—Ilfracombe and Barnstaple.
BEST PEOPLE, THE.—T. R., Bath.
BISHOP'S SON, THE.—T. R., Nottingham.
BLACK MASK.—Lyceum T., Govan.
BRASS BOTTLE, THE.—T. R., Bradford.
BREWSTER'S MILLIONS.—H. M. T., Aberdeen.
BROKEN HEART.—East Oxford T., Oxford.
BULMER, MR.—T. R., Belfast.
CAN A WOMAN BE GOOD?—Star T., Liverpool.
CANDIDA.—T. R., Cardiff.
CARL ROSA OPERA CO.—T. R., Chatham.
CASSIDY, J. RICE.—Chesterfield.
CASTELLANO OPERA CO.—Grand T., Oldham.
CHILD OF THE STREETS.—Metropole T., Manchester.
CHINESE HONEYMOON.—Broadway T., New Cross.
CHRISTIAN, THE (DRAPER).—Ashton-under-Lyne.
CINGALEE (A.).—Albert T., Brighouse.
CLAUDIAN.—O. H., St. Helens.
CLOCHES DE CORNEVILLE, LES.—T. R., Portsmouth.
COAL KING.—Osborne T., Manchester.
COMPTON COMEDY CO.—O. H., Belfast.
COUNTRY GIRL, A.—Dalston Theatre, N.E.
COUNTRY GIRL IN LONDON.—Pavilion T., Abertillery.
DAIRYMAIDS, THE.—Prince's T., Manchester.
DAME NATURE.—Grand T., Hull.
DARE DEVIL DOROTHY.—Palace T., Ramsgate.
DAUGHTER OF THE SEA.—O. H., Kidderminster.
DAWN OF A TO-MORROW.—T. R., Glasgow.
DEAR LITTLE DENMARK.—P. O. W., Grimsby.
DIANA OF DOBSON'S.—Eastbourne and Worthing.
DOLLAR PRINCESS (EDWARDES) (N.).—T. R., Birmingham.
DOLLAR PRINCESS (S.).—T. R., Huddersfield.
DON.—Folkestone and Eastbourne.
D'OYLY CARTE.—O. H., Harrogate.
DRAYCOTT, CHAS.—Colosseum T., Oldham.
DRIVING A GIRL TO DESTRUCTION.—Gaiety T., Burnley.
EARL AND THE GIRL.—T. R., Plymouth.
EAST LYNNE (WATT).—Alhambra, Openshaw.
EVERY INCH A MAN.—Palace T., Derby.
FACE AT THE WINDOW.—Prince's T., Bradford.
FAST LIFE, A.—Carlton T., Birmingham.
FATAL WEDDING (N.).—Grand T., Brighton.
FATAL WEDDING (S.).—New T., Aberdare.
FIGHTING CHANCE.—T. R., Aldershot.
FLAG LIEUTENANT.—Hastings and Tunbridge Wells.
FLORADORA (CONSTANT).—Leamington and Stafford.
FOR LOVE AND THE KING.—Palace T., Newcastle.
FOR WIFE AND KINGDOM.—New Hall, Bargoed.
FROM CONVENT TO THRONE.—T. R., Birkenhead.
GEOFFREY LANGDON'S WIFE.—Gaiety T., Houghton.
GIRL ON THE BOAT.—T. R., Preston.
GIRLS OF GOTTENBERG.—O. H., Coventry.
GIRL WHO WENT ASTRAY.—T. R., Belfast.
GLOSSOP-HARRIS.—Victoria T., Kettering.
HAND THAT ROCKS THE CRADLE.—Rotunda T., Liverpool.
HAPPY-GO-LUCKY O'LYN.—Junction T., Manchester.
HARVEY, MARTIN.—T. R., Newcastle.
HAVANA.—O. H., Tunbridge Wells.
HER FATAL MARRIAGE.—T. R., Woolwich.
HER FORBIDDEN MARRIAGE.—County T., Reading.
HER LOVE AGAINST THE WORLD.—Grand T., Falkirk.
HER NAMELESS CHILD.—Cambridge T., Spennymoor.
HER PATH OF SORROW.—T. R., Barry.
HER SECRET LOVER.—T. R., Scarborough.
HIS INDIAN WIFE.—T. R., Middlesbrough.
HOUSE OPPOSITE, THE.—T. R., Bolton.
HOUSE OF TEMPERLEY.—Shakespeare T., Liverpool.
IRVING, H. B.—Grand T., Blackpool.
IRVING, LAURENCE.—O. H., Blackpool.
KING AND THE UNKNOWN WOMAN.—T. R., Smethwick.
KING OF CADONIA.—Londesboro' T., Scarboro'.
LA COMEDIE ANGLAISE.—Galway and Ennis.
LIFE OF A SHOWMAN.—Grand T., Aberavon.
LITTLE PHIL'S MOTHER.—Paisley T., Paisley.
LODGE-PERCY, J. C., AND J. MARTIN'S REPERTOIRE.—King's Lynn and Lincoln.
LOVE OF THE PRINCESS.—Prince's T., Blackburn.
LUCKY DURHAM.—T. R., Aston.
LUCKY 'LIZA.—T. R., Tyldesley.
MAN TO MAN.—Royalty T., Barrow.
MARSH, ALEXANDER.—Theatre, West Kirby.
MASTER OF THE MILL.—P. O. W., Salford.
MERRY WIDOW (N.).—Grand T., Leeds.
MERRY WIDOW (S.).—O. H., Middlesbrough.
MERRY WIDOW (3).—O. H., Doncaster.
MESSAGE FROM MARS.—Gaiety T., Douglas.
MIDNIGHT MAIL.—T. R., Scarborough.
MISS HOOK OF HOLLAND.—Empire T., Swindon.
MISS LANCASHIRE, LIMITED.—Kelly's T., Liverpool.
MISS TOMMY.—W. G., New Brighton.
MOODY-MANNERS OPERA CO.—O. H., Leicester.
MOUNTAINEERS, THE.—T. R., Manchester.
MR. PREEDY AND THE COUNTESS.—Grand T., Croydon.
MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH.—T. R., Halifax.
MY IRISH MOLLY.—Grand T., Mansfield.
NEW LADY BANTOCK.—Lincoln and Loughborough.
NICK CARTER.—Alexandra T., Widnes.
NIGHT AND MORNING.—T. R., Crook.
NO MOTHER TO GUIDE HER.—Metropole T., Glasgow.
OUR FLAT.—Lyceum T., Ipswich.
OLD FOLKS AT HOME.—T. R., Bristol.
OLD HEIDELBERG.—T. R., Worcester.
OUR MISS GIBBS (EDWARDES).—King's T., Glasgow.
OUR MISS GIBBS (N.).—T. R., Bournemouth.
OUR MISS GIBBS (S.).—Grand T., Swansea.
OUTCAST OF THE FAMILY.—Gaiety T., Methil.
PASSING OF THE THIRD FLOOR BACK.—Kirriemuir and Ayr.
PIGEON HOUSE.—Court Theatre, S.W.
POWER OF THE KING.—T. R., Stratford, E.
PRIVATE SECRETARY.—H. M. T., Carlisle.
PRODIGAL PARSON.—Hippodrome, Stoke-on-Trent.
PROOF.—T. R., Leicester.
PRINCE AND THE BEGGAR MAID (N.).—Castle T., Stockton.
PRINCE AND THE BEGGAR MAID (S.).—Alex. T., Hull.
QUEEN OF THE FAIR.—Weymouth.
RAYNOR REPERTORY.—Pavilion Theatre, Liverpool.
ROYAL DIVORCE.—T. R., Whitehaven.
SAILOR'S WEDDING.—Tyne T., Newcastle.
SEXTON BLAKE.—Prince's T., Portsmouth.
SIGN OF THE CROSS.—H. M. T., Dundee.
SIGN OF THE CROSS.—P. O. W., Mexboro'.
SILVER KING.—T. R., Rochdale.
SIR WALTER RALEGH.—Lyceum T., Edinburgh.
SMITH (N.).—Wolverhampton.
SMITH (S.).—O. H., Cheltenham.
STILL ALARM.—King's T., Sutton.
SWISS EXPRESS.—O. H., Dudley.
TANTALIZING TOMMY.—Folkestone and Eastbourne.
TEMPTATION.—Ashington and Blyth.
TERRY, EDWARD.—O. H., Southport.
TERRY, FRED, AND JULIA NEILSON.—Prince's T., Bristol
THIEF IN THE NIGHT.—Elephant and Castle, S.E.
THROUGH THE DIVORCE COURT.—Brixton Theatre, S.W.
TWO LITTLE DRUMMER BOYS.—Hippodrome, Leek.
TWO MERRY MONARCHS.—Marlborough T., Holloway.
UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.—Ramsgate.
UNDER THE IRON HEEL.—T. R., Batley.
UNDER TWO FLAGS.—T. R., Leeds.
VILLAGE BLACKSMITH.—T. R., Dewsbury.
WALLER, LEWIS.—Gaiety T., Dublin.
WAS SHE TO BLAME?—P. O. W., Nuneaton.
WEBB'S VAUDEVILLE.—T. R., Farnworth.
WHAT THE BUTLER SAW.—Gaiety T., Douglas.
WHEN KNIGHTS WERE BOLD.—Lyceum T., Sheffield.
WHEN KNIGHTS WERE BOLD (S.).—Worthing and Hastings.
WHEN LONDON SLEEPS.—T. R., Edmonton.
WHEN IT WAS DARK.—T. R., Barnsley.
WHEN WOMAN HATES.—T. R., Belfast.
WHERE IS WILLIAM?—King's T., Sunderland.
WHIP, THE.—New T., Cardiff.
WHOM GOD HATH JOINED.—Palace T., Ebbw Vale.
WILKIE, ALLAN.—T. R., Stockport.
WOMAN IN THE CASE.—Weston-super-Mare.
WOMAN OF TWO LIVES.—Grand T., Nottingham.
WOMAN'S PAST, A.—Abertillery.
WORLD, FLESH, AND THE DEVIL.—H. M. T., Barrow.
WRECKER OF MEN.—Clarence T., Pontypridd.

ON the Bench at Bow-street at the hearing of the Crippen case on Wednesday were Sir W. S. Gilbert, Sir John Hare, and Mr. H. B. Irving, who is deeply interested in criminal phenomena, and has written very thoughtfully on the subject.

MISS ATHENE SEYLER has, we regret to hear, been compelled by indisposition to relinquish her part in The Case of Rebellious Susan, in which Sir Charles Wyndham and Miss Mary Moore will reappear at the Criterion on Monday; but Miss Seyler hopes to be well enough to support Mr. Hawtrey in Inconstant George when that piece is produced at the Prince of Wales's.

BIRTHS, MARRIAGES, & DEATHS.

The charge for inserting in "The Era" an announcement of a Birth, a Marriage, or a Death, or an "In Memoriam" notice, not exceeding twenty-four words, is One Shilling and Sixpence.

As a guarantee of good faith, the name and address of the sender must accompany each notice.

BIRTHS.

HALL.—The wife of Aubrey G. Hall, of a son, born July 4, 1910.

KAY.—Sept. 13, at 40, Clifford-street, Manchester, Mrs. Kay Martinette (May Merry, of Sisters Iris) of a daughter. Both doing well.

MARRIAGES.

BORGEN—LORD.—On the 14th inst., at St. John's Church, Godley, by the Rev. Alaric Davys, M.A., Harald, son of the late Axel Borgen, of Copenhagen, Denmark, to Valeria Hyacinthe, only daughter of James E. Lord, Musical Director, Empire Theatre, Hyde, Cheshire.

BROWN—REDFERN.—Lionel Brown to Elsie Redfern (Sisters Redfern), at St. Nicholas Church, Sept. 17.

GILLESPY—STUDT.—Sept. 8, by the Rev. F. G. Brittain, vicar, at St. Peter-le-Bailey Church, Oxford, George Alfred Gillespy, of the Milton Trio, to Mary Ann, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Studt, of Victoria Hall, Southampton.

DEATHS.

COLVERD.—Sept. 10, at Camberwell, Edward Frederick Colverd, 37 years, second son of the late Jovial Joe Colverd. Interred Sept. 14, Nunhead Cemetery. R.I.P.

GRETTON.—Sept. 9, at the Castle Hotel, York, Little Rence, the beloved and only daughter of Flo and Austin Gretton, aged 4 years and 4 months.

LESBOROUGH.—Sept. 3, at Glasgow, Violet Lesborough, of The Love Birds company.

PARKER.—Sept. 7, George Parker, for over thirty years fireman at various London music halls.

IN MEMORIAM.

LAKE.—In loving memory of Charles Frederick Herbert Lake, who passed away Sept. 18, 1905.
For now we see through a glass darkly,
But then face to face.
—LILY.

LEYBOURNE.—In ever-loving memory of my dear husband, George Leybourne, who died Sept. 15, 1884. Never forgotten by his loving wife and family.

LEYBOURNE.—In loving memory of George Leybourne, who died Sept. 15, 1884. Never forgotten by his daughter, Florrie (Mrs. Albert Chevalier).

MELLON.—In ever loving memory of Sarah Jane Mellon (Mrs. Alfred Mellon), who died Sept. 8, 1909. "Her children rise up and call her blessed."

PEDLEY.—In loving memory of my dear wife, Elizabeth (professionally known as Marie Joyce), who fell asleep Sept. 14, 1908, at Central Hospital, Malta. Never forgotten by her loving husband, D. J. PEDLEY and son ALFRED.

BIRTHDAYS OF THE WEEK.

We wish Many Happy Returns of the Day to the following ladies and gentlemen:—

Katie Lawrence—Saturday, Sept. 17.
Madge Temple—Saturday, Sept. 17.
Arthur Dashwood—Saturday, Sept. 17.
Evelyn Millard—Sunday, Sept. 18.
Henriquette Maude—Sunday, Sept. 18.
George Robey—Monday, Sept. 19.
Will Sergeant—Monday, Sept. 19.
Mrs. Fred Bulmer—Monday, Sept. 19.
Mary Dalby—Monday, Sept. 19.
Henry Arthur Jones—Tuesday, Sept. 20.
Maggie Duggan—Tuesday, Sept. 20.
Frank Seeley—Tuesday, Sept. 20.
Constance Bellamy—Tuesday, Sept. 20.
Harry J. Crane—Tuesday, Sept. 20.
Arthur Roberts—Wednesday, Sept. 21.
Charles Hawtrey—Wednesday, Sept. 21.
Clara Jecks—Thursday, Sept. 22.
Lillah McCarthy—Thursday, Sept. 22.
Dickie Clare—Thursday, Sept. 22.
William Archer—Friday, Sept. 23.

EARLY DELIVERY.

Special newspaper express services now running on the London and North-Western, Great Northern, Midland, and Great Central Railways, carry The Era to the following important cities and towns at the times named. Newsvendors and subscribers obtain their papers at a much earlier hour than was previously possible:—Rugby, 4.30 a.m.; Coventry, 4.54 a.m.; Birmingham, 5.20 a.m.; Crewe, 6.5 a.m.; Manchester, 6.50 a.m.; Liverpool, 7 a.m.; Chester, 9.3 a.m.; Doncaster, 6.10 a.m.; York, 7 a.m.; Hull, 8.20 a.m.; Darlington, 8.58 a.m.; Scarborough, 10.5 a.m.; Newcastle, 10.10 a.m.; Leeds (Central), 6.58 a.m.; Huddersfield, 7.37 a.m.; Bradford (Exchange), 7.47 a.m.; Harrogate, 7.50 a.m.; Halifax, 8.17 a.m.; Burnley, 9.28 a.m.; Leicester, 4.36 a.m.; Nottingham, 5.10 a.m.; Derby, 5.35 a.m. "THE ERA" is posted on Saturday in time to reach London subscribers by the first Town Delivery, and Country Subscribers should receive their Papers by the first London post. Address, THE PUBLISHER, 5, Tavistock-street, W.C.

A GREAT outcry is being raised in Italy against the first performances of Maestro Mascagni's new work Ysobel being given in America. Not only is the opera to go across the Atlantic, but Mascagni himself—at an enormous salary—is to proceed to the United States to superintend the rehearsals and as musical director. A heated Press campaign is being waged against the composer, and appeals are being made to the Minister of Fine Arts that he should make use of the Italian law which prohibits the sale of an important work of art to a foreigner without the permission of the Italian Government.

A SUGGESTION has been made that since, as Court director of music, Mascagni is in a way a Government official, the Minister of Fine Arts would have a better case in intervening to prevent him taking his opera first to America. Meanwhile Mascagni himself, who is living in seclusion near Milan, is emphatic that he will fulfil his contract with Liebler and Co., who have secured the work; but the public outcry has disturbed him and retarded the completion of Ysobel. Messrs. Liebler have, therefore, sent to Europe a representative armed with letters to Ministers and Ambassadors, to ensure, if possible, that the composer be no longer worried.

UNDER the winding-up order against the Cambrian Theatres, Ltd., the summary of accounts and report of the assistant receiver have been issued. The company was formed in August, 1909, with a nominal capital of £5,000, to acquire the interest of A. E. Withers in an agreement for an underlease of the Theatre Royal, Cardiff. The agreement in question was acquired from the Cardiff Theatre Company, Ltd., and was for a term of twenty-one years, at a rental of £666 13s. 4d., to Christmas, 1910, to be increased, first to £1,000, and then to £1,300. The issued capital was £2,452, of which 450 shares were subscribed for cash. No assignment of his interest was made by Mr. Albert Withers, owing to a dispute with a firm of solicitors, who claimed a lien on the agreement for costs. The company, without the assignment, entered into the occupation of the theatre, and a number of plays were produced upon profit-sharing terms. The company produced the pantomime, Mother Goose at Christmas, 1909, and also sent it on tour. The enterprise resulted in a loss eventually, owing to the local authorities intimating that the theatre licence would not be renewed unless the building were entirely remodelled, and, as no funds were forthcoming, it was decided to go into voluntary liquidation, and a winding up order was afterwards made. The liabilities were £1,392 (£1,210 unsecured), and assets £88 11s. The creditors and contributories appointed a liquidator on Aug. 19.

"THE ERA" NEWSPAPER.

Notice to Contributors.

All communications intended for publication should be sent to "THE EDITOR," and be accompanied by the Writer's Name and Address, not necessarily for insertion, but as a guarantee of good faith.

The Editor will not undertake to be responsible for any rejected MSS., nor to return any Contribution unaccompanied by a stamped and directed envelope.

Notice to Subscribers.

"The Era" is sold by all Newsagents in all the leading English, Irish, and Scotch towns, every Saturday Morning. Price Sixpence.

TERMS, POSTAGE FREE.

Home Subscriptions.			Foreign Subscriptions.
One Year	£1	6	One Year	£1	12
Six Months	0	13	Six Months	0	16
Three Months ..	0	6	Three Months ..	0	8

Cash must accompany order.

Notice to Advertisers.

Advertisements should reach the Office early in the week, and not later than Thursday, 7 p.m. Remittances, payable to "THE ERA," LTD., and crossed Lloyd's Bank.

Communications.

Business Communications should be addressed to The MANAGER,
"THE ERA" BUILDINGS,
5, TAVISTOCK-STREET, STRAND, LONDON, W.C.
(two doors off Wellington-street).
Telegrams, "The Era, London." Telephones, 4747 and 1433, Central.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

[We do not answer inquiries by post. In all letters the names and addresses of inquirers must be given as a guarantee of good faith. Initials only or pseudonyms will be used in the answers if so desired.]

BERT EDWARDES.—Yes.

GILBERT WELLS.—We have no record.

HENRIQUES.—J. L. Warner, son of Mrs. Warner, died on June 27, 1871, aged 26.

W. V. GARROD.—The title you propose to adopt was used for a farce produced at Whitehaven on June 20, 1873.

H. MARTELL, JUN. (Bradford).—Mr. Geo. D'Albert's song "His charity covers his sin" is published by Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter.

J. ERRICK.—We cannot say. Write to Mr. Henry Dana, His Majesty's Theatre, Haymarket, who could probably give you the information.

MEMO.—The date of Miss Belle Elmore's appearance in Northampton was Monday, Nov. 25, 1901, at the Empire, vide The Era, Nov. 30, 1901.

STAVE.—"Down the Road" was sung by Gus Elen at all his engagements about ten years ago, and has been revived occasionally. He could give you the exact date of its production, if you write to him at the Oxford, enclosing stamped addressed envelope. We are only speaking from memory.

CYMRO.—The songs entitled "Sweet Adeline" and "Your eyes have told me so" are published, the former by Messrs. Witmark, Shaftesbury-avenue, W.C., and the latter by Messrs. Nightingale, 20, Nassau-street, Mortimer-street, W. It is probable the respective publishers may issue dances founded on these songs.

H. PENNINGTON (Birkenhead).—In our issues of Aug. 6 and Aug. 27 you will find accounts of "openings" which would help you. Sometimes a private view of the place is given and a reception held, with light refreshments, on the stage, the principal inhabitants being invited. At the rising of the curtain at the public opening a soloist should sing "God Save the King" and the company on stage and in auditorium should join in. During an interval, the mayor, if present, should be invited to make a speech from the stage. A good newspaper man should be paid to boom the place, or a clever and expert publicity agent.

"THE WAY OUT."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—I notice in your last issue that a sketch was produced at the Royal Court Theatre, Wigan, on Aug. 31 this year, entitled The Way Out.

I beg to point out to you that I wrote a play with that title which was produced at the Theatre Royal, Newcastle-on-Tyne, on Aug. 3, 1908, and which was duly criticised in your paper.

I feel sure that Mr. J. B. Hothersall was unaware of this, and my reason for encroaching on your valuable space is that I have recently given an option on my play.—Yours faithfully,

GEORGE UNWIN.

c/o The Sketch Association, 49 Bedford-street, Strand, W.C., Sept. 15.

CRICKET.

The Earl and the Girl company, during their recent stay at Portsmouth, played a match with the Portsmouth Asylum, who batted first and declared at 103 for the loss of six wickets, leaving fifty minutes for the Earl and the Girl company to get the runs. However, 106 were obtained on the stroke of time, with four wickets down. C. Daily's 37, H. Crane's 24, and B. Paterson's 21 in six minutes, were the principal scorers in a most exciting game.

On the 9th inst. the White Company eleven were the opponents of the Earl and the Girl eleven, who batted first and scored 92. But the Conan Doyleites replied with 130 for eight wickets. H. Blake, for the White Company, scored 29 not out and took seven wickets, and for the losers C. Daily 22 not out, H. Salter 22, V. Davies 16, and B. Paterson 14, were the chief scorers. Daily also took six of the eight wickets.

THE present week is the last of the variety season at the Theatre Royal, Aldershot, and on Monday the house reopens with "legitimate," with one performance a night. Mr. Clarence Sounes has secured an excellent series of attractions.

A DRAMATISED version of Mr. Thomas Hardy's novel "Under the Greenwood Tree" has been prepared by Mr. A. H. Evans, of Dorchester. The play will shortly be produced by the Dorchester Debating and Dramatic Society at the local Corn Exchange, under the title of The Mellstock Quire.

M. TARRIDE, the well-known actor and manager of the Renaissance, Paris, is divorcing his wife, Mlle. Marthe Regnier, the popular actress. Both are great favourites with the public. Incompatibility of temper seems to have been the cause of the disunion; but, although they are dissolving their marriage ties, they have decided to arrange a huge tour to America on joint account.

A NEW dramatic club, under the title "The Players," of which Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree is president, was inaugurated at Liverpool on Tuesday. Some 200 members have been enrolled, and the venture promises to prove a success. During the season it is intended to present Sunday, Old Heidelberg, The Chili Widow, Mrs. Cummins, Trilby, Justice, Scrap of Paper, Dot, and New Men and Old Acres. The proceeds are to be devoted to charity.

SIR EDWARD RUSSELL, who opened the discussion on dramatic criticism at Tuesday afternoon's conference of the Institute of Journalists, is himself an instance of the type of editor for whom he pleaded—namely, one who takes an active interest in the drama, and who attaches due importance to it journalistically. Play-going has always been one of Sir Edward's chief delights, and though he lives in Liverpool, where he directs the fortunes of the Post, he is a well-known "first-nighter" in London.

"THE ERA" LETTER-BOX.

A Stamped Envelope, plainly addressed, must be enclosed with application for each Letter. Letters, after lying at this Office for One Month, are forwarded to the Postal Authorities, to be returned to the Senders.

No Circulars, Post Cards, or Parcels admitted to this list.

Allen, Mr. George
Applin, Mr. Arthur
Ashby, Happy
Bagnall, Mr. Ronald
Balch, Mr. Albert
Baldwin, Mr. Lawrence
Barlow, Mr. Robert
Barry, Mr. Shiel
Barton Mr. Tom
Batley, Mr. E. D.
Battersby, Mr. Harry
Bawtree, Mr. Arthur
Baxter, Mr. Bob
Beck, Miss Clara
Bedford, Mr. R. W.
Bellis, Mr. F. A.
Berkeley, Mr. F. J.
Black, Mr. Tony
Bosco, Mr. Irving
Boyne, Mr. Leonard
Braithwaite, Miss Lilian
Bramley, Mr. J.
Brandon, Mr. J. G.
Burnette, Mr. T.
Burton, Mr. Burt
Caine, Miss L. Hall
Campbell, Mrs. P.
Carlisle, Mr. C. Douglas
Carlton, Miss Nellie
Carson, Mr. Lingford
Castling, Mr. Harry
Chanti
Clark, Mr. E. H.
Clifton, Miss Clara
Collins, Mr. Tom
Conquest, Mr. Fred
Cordell, Miss Daisy
Croke, Mrs. Wentworth
Cronin, Mr. M. F.
Cumberland, Mr. E. G.
Dauncey, Mr.
Davies, Mrs. Tilly
Davis, Mr. George
De Santely, Mr. Bernard
Donaldson, Miss Alice
Donatos, The
Douglas, Mr. Geo.
Dubois, Mr. Leon
Dunlops, The
Earle, Miss Victor
Eckersley, Mr. Dick
Evans, Mr. H. Carr
Evered, Mr.
Field, Miss Lila
Flemming, Mr. Claude
Frecker, Mr. C. D.
Freeman, Mr. Claude W.
Golden, Mr. Horace
Goodall, Mr. Archie
Graham, Mr. Nevill
Gregson, Miss B.
Grenville, Miss Helen
Grey, Miss Marion
Grossi, Mr. G.
Haming, Mr. Fred
Haywood, Miss Hettie
Hilsberg, Mons. Karl
Hodges, Mr. Seymour
Holt, Mme. Blanche
Hood, Miss Annie
Hood, Miss Nellie
Hope, Mr. Jones
Horac, Mr. S.
Howard, Mr. George
Hyden, Miss Mattie
Irving, Mr. K. Ernest
Irwin, Mr. Ben
Jelliman, Miss A.
Johnson, Miss Queenie
Jones, Mr. Henry A.
Kearne, Mr. Tom
Kendal, Miss Marie
Kingston, Miss Gertrude
Kirk, Miss F.
Kirk, Mr. George
Landon, Mr. J.
Lawrence, Miss Millie
Lawton, Mr. H.
Lennard, Mr. Arthur
Leo, King
Lea, Miss Lilian
Leslie Brothers.
Lorraine, Miss Nellie
Lytton, Mr. Edward
Mackinder, Mr. L.
Mark, Mr. John
Martens, Mr. H.
Manning, Mr. W. J.
Maxwell, Mr.
May, Mr. H. Gomer
Mayer, Miss Peggy
Mazzoni, Mr. Fred
McEwan, Mr. Walter
Mead, Mr. J. H.
Millais, Miss Ivy
Millar, Miss Stella
Minto, Mr. W. W.
Mollison, Mrs. W.
Moore, Miss Jessie
Morton, Mr. James J.
Murdoch, Miss Zeta
Murry, Mr. Geo. C.
Palmer, Miss Minnie
Parry, Mr. Edward A.
Paull, Miss Ethel G.
Paul, Miss Mab
Payne, Mr. W.
Preston, Mr. John F.
Ra-Leslie, Miss Ethel
Reed, Mr. Wilton
Richards, Miss Marion
Richard, Mr. Seymour
Rose, Mr. Arthur
Rose, Miss Marie
Rose, Mr. Leonard
Samona, Prince
Santoi, Miss Marie
Saxony, The
Selby, Mr. Alf.
Seymour, Miss Maud
Shelley, Col. J.
Shields, Miss Ella
Shirley, Mr. Arthur
Shortland, Mr. K.
Shrapnel, Mr. L.
Simpson, Master R.
Sims, Mr. Geo. R.
Sivroni, Mr. Ernest
Slater, Miss Stacia
Sowerby, Miss May
Stebbing, Mr. P.
Stephens, Mr. Billy
Stephenson, Mr. Frank
Stewart, Mr. H. H.
Stormont, Mr. Leo
Sullivan, Mr. A. M.
Sutcliffe, Mr. J. Miller
Wainratta, Mr. W. J.
Ward, Mr. M. S. C.
Warren, Miss Gwynne
Wildash, Mr. Jack
Williams, Mr. R. A. P.
Williams, Mr. Roland
Wyatt, Mrs. Melnotte
Wynne, Miss Wish
Zolas, the Four

BLACKMORE'S THEATRICAL AGENCY, 11, GARRICK-STREET, W.C.
Under the present management since 1869.
Office hours, 10 to 8. Interviews between 11 and 4.
'Phone 1785 Gerr. Wires, "Dramatique, London."
All descriptions of Theatrical Business negotiated.
Also First-class Music Hall Business.

'Phone 5160 Gerrard. Tel., "Impresario, London."
C. ST. JOHN DENTON,
DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL AGENT,
English representative for Messrs. Clarke and Meynell, T. R., Melbourne, Australia; Mr. A. de Jong, Tivoli, Cape Town; and Fernandez and Paine, New York. 34, Malden-lane, Strand.

The Great Raymond
BREAKING RECORDS FOR BIG BUSINESS EVERYWHERE.

ESSAYS ON THE CURRENT DRAMA
BY
J. H. BARNES

1. THE ATTITUDE OF THE PUBLIC
2. ON PLAYS AND PLAYWRITING
3. THE DRAMATIC PRESS

PRICE SIXPENCE

Published at the Offices of "The Era," Limited, 5, Tavistock Street, Covent Garden, London, W.C.

"I'll swear upon that bottle."—TEMPEST, Act ii., Scene ii.

WHITBREAD'S
BOTTLED BEERS

maintain their popularity because they are brought into condition by MATURING IN BOTTLE,
the Natural method,
without the aid of carbonating or other artificial process.

The Largest Beer Bottlers in the World.

APPLY TO CHIEF OFFICES,
BRITANNIA ST., KING'S CROSS, LONDON, W.C.
(Telephones: Nos. 2510 and 2511 North. Telegraphic Address, "Beerseller, London")
FOR NAME OF NEAREST AGENT.

"This is a gift, very grateful."—TAMING OF THE SHREW, Act ii., Scene i.

BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES.
For Sustaining the Voice.
Invaluable for ACTORS and SINGERS.
Indispensable for PUBLIC SPEAKERS

GENTLEMEN,—For sudden affections of the Bronchial Organs I use and most cheerfully recommend "Brown's Troches." They are regarded as most eligible, convenient, and indispensable by numerous artists of my acquaintance, BOTH IN EUROPE AND AMERICA. They seem to act specially on the organs of the voice, and produce a clear enunciation.—Yours truly (Signed), MARIE ROSE MAPLESON.

SOLD EVERYWHERE AT 1/1½ PER BOX.

DINNEFORD'S
MAGNESIA.
The Best Remedy for Acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, Gout, and Indigestion.
The Safest and most effective Aperient for regular use.

REAL HAMBURG GROUND
KROPP RAZOR
Always Ready for Use.
English Manufacture
NEVER REQUIRES GRINDING.
DO NOT BE PUT OFF WITH SUBSTITUTES.

Black Handle	5s. 6d.	Pair Ivory Handles in Russia Leather Case	21s. 0d.
Ivory Handle	7s. 6d.
Kropp Duplex Strop	7s. 6d.	Kropp Strop Paste	6d.

Wholesale: OSBORNE, GARRETT, & CO., LONDON, W.

BIRKBECK BANK
ESTABLISHED 1851.
SOUTHAMPTON-BUILDINGS, HIGH HOLBORN, W.C.
2½ PER CENT. INTEREST
allowed on Deposits repayable on demand.
2 PER CENT. INTEREST
on Drawing Accounts with Cheque Book.
All general Banking Business transacted.
ALMANACK, with full particulars, POST FREE.
C. F. RAVENSCROFT, Secretary.

MONEY
£5 TO £5000
DON'T BE WITHOUT READY MONEY. I will advance any sum you may require AT ONCE without fuss or formalities, and you can repay by easy instalments to suit your own convenience. Courteous personal attention. Call, write, or 'phone.
Mr. ROSSLYN STUART, Burton House, 253, Brixton Rd., Brixton, S.W. Telephone 1235 Brixton.

WHEN ON TOUR
The Irregular Meal-times and strenuous rush often disorganise the whole system and induce INDIGESTION.
A timely dose of Whelpton's Vegetable Purifying Pills will relieve the symptoms and clear the intellect. Ask for WHELPTON'S Purifying Pills, and don't accept Substitutes, which are NOT just as good. The price is 1/1½ per box, but Members of the Profession on tour can have them sent post free for 1/- in stamps.
E. WHELPTON, 4, Crane Court, Fleet Street, E.C.

"THE ERA"
IN AMERICA.
NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS & SUBSCRIBERS.
NEW YORK.
"THE ERA" IS ON SALE
OUTSIDE THE KNICKERBOCKER THEATRE BUILDING, AND AT SHULTZ'S NEWS STAND
CORNER OF THIRTY-SEVENTH-ST. AND BROADWAY.
ALSO AT BRENTANO'S,
FIFTH AVENUE,
CORNER TWENTY-SEVENTH-ST.,
SUBSCRIPTION RATES.
1 Year, 32/-; 6 Months, 16/-; 3 Months, 8/-
ENQUIRIES AND COMMUNICATIONS MAY BE SENT TO
"THE ERA," P.O. BOX 492, NEW YORK CITY.
American Artistes visiting the Metropolis use "The Era" Offices as their Permanent London Address.

"THE ERA"
IN SOUTH AFRICA.
THE
CENTRAL NEWS AGENCY, LTD.
Apply or Address,
The CENTRAL NEWS AGENCY, Ltd.,
Cape Town, Johannesburg, Pretoria, Durban, Bloemfontein, &c., &c.

LONDON THEATRES.

GAIETY THEATRE.
Manager, Mr. George Edwardes.
EVERY EVENING at 8,
A Musical Play,
"OUR MISS GIBBS."
Next Matinée, Saturday, Sept. 24.
Box-Office open daily 10 till 10.

ST. JAMES'S.
MR. GEORGE ALEXANDER,
Sole Lessee and Manager.
LAST 6 NIGHTS (Final Performance Sept. 23).
Every Evening at 9.
"THE IMPORTANCE OF BEING EARNEST,"
By Oscar Wilde.
MR. ALLAN AYNESWORTH in his Original Part.
At 8.30, "A MAKER OF MEN," by Alfred Sutro.
LAST MAT. (both plays) WED. NEXT, 2.30.
Sept. 27, New Comedy, "D'ARCY OF THE GUARDS."

DALY'S THEATRE.
EVERY EVENING at 8.15,
Mr. GEORGE EDWARDES'
Production,
"THE DOLLAR PRINCESS."
A Musical Play, in Three Acts.
Matinée Every Saturday at 2.15.
Box-Office (Mr. H. W. Anderson) open 10 till 10.

DUKE OF YORK'S THEATRE.
Sole Lessee and Manager, Charles Frohman.
Every evening at 8.30
CHARLES FROHMAN presents
IRENE VANBRUGH in
"A BOLT FROM THE BLUE,"
by
Tristan Bernard and Alfred Athis.
Adapted by Cosmo Hamilton.
Matinée every Saturday at 2.30.

COMEDY THEATRE.
Sole Lessee and Manager, ARTHUR CHUDLEIGH.
EVERY EVENING at 8.30
CHARLES FROHMAN presents
"A WOMAN'S WAY,"
a Comedy in Three Acts, by Thompson Buchanan.
MATINEE EVERY WED. and SAT. at 2.30.

KING'S THEATRE, W.
Telephone, 119 HAMMERSMITH.
Owner and Resident-Manager, J. B. Mulholland.
Every Evening at 8. Matinée Thursday, 2.30.
"THE ARCADIANS."
For dates at Marlborough, the King's, and the New Wimbledon Theatre, address King's T., W.

MARLBOROUGH THEATRE.
Managing-Directors,
Mr. Ernest Stevens and Mr. R. C. Buchanan.
Sept. 19,
"TWO MERRY MONARCHS."
Address all communications re dates to Mr. J. B. Mulholland, King's Theatre, Hammersmith, W. All other communications to Messrs. Stevens and Buchanan, Marlborough T., N. 'Phone 131 North.

ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE,
KINGSTON-ON-THAMES.
Sept. 19, at 7.45. Matinée Wednesday at 2.30.
"PAYING THE PRICE."
Mr. PETER DAVEY, Managing-Director.
Telephone, No. 58, Kingston-on-Thames.
Telegrams, "Theatre, Kingston-on-Thames."

GRAND THEATRE, CROYDON.
Manager, Mr. Charles Wood. Assistant-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. Ernest Archer.
Sept. 19, Walter Maxwell's Co., in "MR. PREEDY AND THE COUNTESS."
For future bookings, apply to Manager.
Only First-class Companies entertained.
Telephone, 12 Croydon.

CRYSTAL PALACE.
TETRAZZINI.
Sat. next, Mr. Percy Harrison will Present, at 3 p.m., Madame Tetrazzini, at 3.0, Madame Tetrazzini and Queen's Hall Orchestra, Conductor, Mr. Henry J. Wood.
Aerial Flights, Tuesday, 3 to 7
(weather permitting).
Return Rail and Admission, 1s. 6d. from all Stations

MASKELYNE and DEVANT'S MYSTERIES.
St. George's Hall,
Oxford Circus, W.
Daily at 3 and 8.
For Full Programme.
See "Daily Telegraph."
Seats 1s. to 5s.
'Phone 1545 Mayfair.

LONDON MUSIC HALLS.

TIVOLI.
HARRY LAUDER, Marie Lloyd, Wilkie Bard, Mark Sheridan, the Two Bobs, Phil Ray, Violet Loraine, Billy Merson, Maddison and Webb, Jennie Hartley, Josie Delaine, Arcadia, Spalding and Riego, H. La Martine.
Open 7.40. Saturday, Matinées, 2.15.

METROPOLITAN.
Twice Nightly, at 6.40 and 9.10.
Overture, Frank Wood, P. Mercer and Co., Ted E. Box, Griffin and Ardell, Sisters Storm, Harry Coutts and Co., Rosina Leighton, Leslie and Stevens, Tom Edwards, "Slaterstein, Limited," Pictures.

CHELSEA PALACE,
King's-road, Chelsea.
Twice Nightly at 6.40 and 9.10.
Joe Peterman and Geo. Rickett's Co. in "Chanteclair; or, Hi Cockalorum-Chuck-Chuck-Chuck," Valezza, Billy Merson, Mr. and Mrs. George Leonard, Frank Wood, Eileen, North, Henry Hilton, Ruffell's Bioscope, Doris Trevelyan, Joe Elvin and Co., in "W(h)ines and Spirits."

QUEEN'S PALACE OF VARIETIES,
POPLAR. Tel. 714 East.
Proprietors, F. and M. ABRAHAMS.
General-Manager, Mr. Morris Abrahams. Twice nightly, 6.30 and 9.10. Matinée Thursday, 2.30.
Band Rehearsal, Monday, 1 o'clock. Harry Roxbury and Co. in "Prince of Monte Carlo," Tennis and Lanne, Three Veros, Fred Dunstone, The Findens, Maurice Lee and Co., Syd Crossley, Bioscope, Dr. Metzler's Spirit Paintings, Four Celestas. Artists must forward bill matter to above, according to Clause 18.

THE NEW BEDFORD
PALACE OF VARIETIES, LTD.
Twice Nightly, 6.10 and 9.
Sept. 19.—Grand Beauty Show, Leonard Mortimer and Co., Barbara King, Benson and Rose, Dorothy Grahame, Belle Sylvia, Clive Watts, Great Scott, Sewell and Dudley, Bioscope, Griffiths and Victoria Carmen, and others.
Artists are notified that they must send their full Bill Matter, in two clear weeks before opening. Rehearsal, 1 o'clock Mondays. All must attend. Artists not complying with the above rules are subject to having their Contracts cancelled at option of Management.

ROYAL STANDARD MUSIC HALL.
(facing Victoria Station). Proprietor and Manager, Mr. T. S. Dickie. One house nightly. Half time, 9.30, except Saturdays and Holidays. Monday, Sept. 19: Harry Roxbury and Co., in "The Prince of Monte Carlo," Marie and Pep, Lily Read, Frank Hardie and Co., in "Pedlar Sam," Allen and Austin, Gladys Soman, Edith Evelyn and Co., in "The Show Girl," Amy Marsden, Wheeler and Wilson, Royburn and Dix, Walter Lintone, Jimmy Grant, Edisonograph. Rehearsal Monday, 1 o'clock. Doors open 7.30 (Saturdays 7 o'clock); commence 7.40 (Saturdays 7.15, with augmented programme). Tele., Westminster 503. Assist-Manager, Mr. MAURICE VOLNY.

LONDON MUSIC HALLS.

ALHAMBRA.
"FEMINA."
Grand Spectacular Ballet.
LEONORA. FAICO. BRITTA.
CARMEN TURIA, TERRY and LAMBERT, Jack 'Ark, Miss Coombs, Fuji Japanese Troupe, Olympia Desvall, Jury's Pictures, "ON THE SANDS."
Every Evening at 8 (doors 7.45).
Managing-Director, ALFRED MOUL.

EMPIRE (Leicester-square).
New Ballet:
"THE DANCING MASTER."
LYDIA KYASHT,
FRED FARREN, PHYLLIS BEDELLS,
Geo. Mozart, Sybil Arundale,
The Perezoffs, Asra, Smite and Smote, Russian Divertissement, "Moscow," Sam Stern, "Quick," the Bioscope, &c.
Evenings at 8.
Manager, Mr. H. J. HITCHINS.

PALACE.
Geo. Graves and Co. in "Koffo, of Bond-street," Margaret Cooper, Nat M. Wills, Mary Grey, Kaufmann Troupe, Les Trombetta, De Serris' Bas-Reliefs, Bioscope, &c.
Evenings at 8.
Matinée, Full Programme, Saturdays, at 2.
Managing-Director,
Mr. ALFRED BUTT.

OXFORD.—Wilkie Bard (10.5), Mark Sheridan (9.30), Gus Elen (8.30), Joe Elvin (8.40), Jack and Evelyn (10.40), Ella Retford (10.30) Phil Ray (9), Master E. Garratt as Mortimer Magnus, M.P. (9.10), Bogannys, Lunatic Bakers, Millie Payne, Tom Jones, Venie Clements, Rich and Rich, Footgers, F. Land, Ruth Lytton, Bioscope.
Open 7.30. Saturday, Matinées, at 2.15.
Manager, Mr. Blyth Pratt.

COLONIAL THEATRES.

AUSTRALIA.
MELBOURNE, SYDNEY, BRISBANE, WELLINGTON, N.Z.
Mr. J. C. Williamson,
Manager of the Leading Australasian Theatres,
HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, MELBOURNE;
HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, SYDNEY;
THEATRE ROYAL, SYDNEY;
HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE, BRISBANE.
London Representative,
J. A. E. Malone, Adelphi Theatre.

AUSTRALIA.
MR. HARRY RICKARDS,
Sole Proprietor and Manager,
GRAND OPERA HOUSE, MELBOURNE;
PRINCE OF WALES' HOTEL, MELBOURNE;
TIVOLI THEATRE, SYDNEY;
TIVOLI HOTEL, SYDNEY;
TIVOLI THEATRE, ADELAIDE;
PALACE THEATRE AND GARDENS, PERTH.
Mr. Harry Rickards has arrived in England.
Address, c/o "The Era."

AUSTRALIA and NEW ZEALAND.
GEORGE MARLOW'S ENTERPRISES.
London Agent,
EDWARD THANE,
15, Mount Pleasant-lane, Upper Clapton, N.E.

NEW ZEALAND.
FULLER'S AMUSEMENT ENTERPRISES.
Props., JOHN FULLER AND SONS.
AUCKLAND OPERA HOUSE, SKATING RINK (shortly building).
WELLINGTON THEATRE R. (shortly re-building) HIS MAJESTY'S OLYMPIA RINK.
CHRISTCHURCH OPERA H., COLOSSEUM.
DUNEDIN, HIS MAJESTY'S, ALHAMBRA, and PRINCESS THEATRES.
INVERCARGILL, ZEALANDIA HALL.
Head Office, Wellington.

INDIA AND THE FAR EAST.
BANDMANN'S EASTERN CIRCUIT.
MAURICE E. BANDMANN controls
the only Circuit of Theatres in the East, and can offer attractions a
Twelve to Eighteen Months' Consecutive Tour.
Rent! Share! or Certainty!
ROYAL OPERA HOUSE, BOMBAY.
Joint Owners, Maurice E. Bandmann and J. F. Karaka. District Manager, F. Mitchell.
The Premier Theatre of Bombay!
This new and magnificent three-tier theatre, now under course of erection, built on the cantilever principle, will be opened in October next. Holding capacity at ordinary prices £300. Every modern improvement. Stage capable of any production.
EMPIRE THEATRE, CALCUTTA.
Joint Owners, Maurice E. Bandmann and A. Stephen. District Manager, J. Bury.
Acknowledged by Press and Public as the Premier Theatre of the East!
Now in its second year of unprecedented success. Holding capacity at ordinary prices £350.
A magnificent four-tier playhouse, built on the cantilever principle, with modern mechanical stage capable of any production.
A play palace.—Vide Press.
At last Calcutta has a theatre where one can both see and hear in.—Vide Press.
A Manager writes:—I have taken more money at the Empire, Calcutta, in one night than in another theatre in Calcutta in one week.
THEATRE ROYAL, CALCUTTA.
Sole Owner, A. Stephen. Joint Lessees, Maurice E. Bandmann and A. Stephen.
Holding capacity at ordinary prices £250.
THE FAR EAST.
District Manager, Roy H. Smith.
Address all communications to District Managers or to London Representative, 44, Cranbourn-street, W.C. Cables, "Svengali," London. "Svengali," Calcutta. "Svengali," Bombay.

MADRAS.
Fitted and equipped on the latest English lines.
THE NEW LYRIC THEATRE.
THE NEW LYRIC THEATRE.
THE NEW LYRIC THEATRE.
Electric Lighting and Fans.
The finest and most up-to-date Theatre in Southern India.
Will open in August.
For vacant dates apply,
The Manager,
New Lyric Theatre,
Mount-road, Madras.
Cables, "Misquith, Madras."
Codes, Reuter and A B C 5th Ed.

WEST INDIES.
ROCK FORT PLEASURE GARDENS
and
VAUDEVILLE THEATRE,
KINGSTON, JAMAICA.
Lessees, The Colonial Amusement Syndicate.
Commencing Oct. 17, 1910.
Address all communications re dates, on Sharing Terms or Certainty, to Managing-Director,
Box 8,277, care of "The Era" Office.

CAPE TOWN.—Correspondent required to Supply Theatrical and Music-hall Reports. Apply Dramaticus, 5, Tavistock-street, Covent Garden, London.

JOHANNESBURG.—Correspondent required to supply Theatrical and Music-hall News. Apply Dramaticus, 5, Tavistock-street, Covent Garden, London.

COLONIAL THEATRES.

MONTREAL.—Correspondent required to supply Theatrical and Music-hall Reports. Apply Dramaticus, 5, Tavistock-street, Covent Garden, London.

TORONTO.—Correspondent required to supply Theatrical and Variety News. Apply, Dramaticus, 5, Tavistock-street, Covent Garden London.

PROVINCIAL THEATRES.

ALDERSHOT.—THEATRE ROYAL.
Autumn Dramatic Season.
Sept. 19, "The Fighting Chance."
Address, Mr. Clarence Sounes, New Empire, Kingston. Telephone, 1212 P.O., Kingston.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL. Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill. Vacant Feb. 6, 20, March 6, 13, and 20. First-class Attractions only. Address, Charles Revill, THEATRE ROYAL, STOCKPORT.

BIRMINGHAM.
CURZON HALL.
Holding capacity about 3000.
To Let
for various dates
during 1910 and 1911.
Suitable for Circus, Diorama, &c.
For particulars apply to
Edmund W. Birch,
Chartered Accountant,
37, Temple-street,
Birmingham.

BLACKPOOL.
HER MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE,
WINTER GARDENS,
The PRINCIPAL THEATRE.
Holds MORE MONEY at ORDINARY PRICES and has better average business throughout the Year than any Theatre in the Town.
The Most Comfortable, Elegant, and Best-equipped Theatre, Large and Well Electric Lighted Stage, and First-class Orchestra.
All visitors to the Theatre have Free Admission to the Winter Gardens, Floral Hall, Empress Ball-room, and Pavilion Entertainments; thus Companies visiting Her Majesty's Opera House have this additional attraction, which no other Theatre can offer. Only best No. 1 Companies Booked For dates address, Jno. R. Huddlestone, Manager, Winter Gardens, Blackpool.

BLACKPOOL.
GRAND THEATRE, BLACKPOOL,
under the entirely new Proprietorship and Management of the Blackpool Tower Co., Ltd.
General-Manager, Geo. H. Harrop.
Acting-Manager, Percy Harrop.
The Finest, most Popular, and High Record Money-holding Theatre at ordinary prices in the town. Charmingly re-decorated and re-appointed throughout. A beautiful luxurious, and perfectly appointed playhouse. Spacious and brilliantly lighted stage. Superior dressing-rooms. Magnificent Orchestra. First-class West End company only wanted for the following date, Oct. 24, 1910.
All communications, which should be made at once, to Geo. H. Harrop, General-Manager, as above; or, Mr. E. Lockwood, 5, Winterbrook-road, Herne Hill, London, S.E. Teles., "Tower, Blackpool."

BOLTON. — THEATRE ROYAL.
The Home of Stars and Class Attractions.
For Vacant Dates Address,
J. F. Elliston,
THEATRE ROYAL, BOLTON.

CAMBRIDGE.—NEW THEATRE (Ltd.)
Man.-Director, Mr. W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L.
A theatre among the most beautiful in England.—Sunday Times.
All dates filled this year.
Now booking Spring of 1911.
Silence a polite negative.

CORK. — OPERA HOUSE.
No Vacant Dates this Year.
Now Booking next Spring and Autumn.
Apply, R. J. Bell, Manager.

DARLINGTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.
Lessee and Manager, James Bell.
The Finest, Most Popular, and Record Money-holding Theatre in the Town. Brilliantly-lighted Stage, Magnificent Orchestra.
A Few Vacant Dates Oct., Nov., and Jan.
No. 1 Companies only.
Bookings already include "Our Miss Gibbs," "Merry Widow," "Arcadians," Moody-Manners, "Hook of Holland," "Dick Whittington," "Aladdin," &c., &c.

EPSOM PUBLIC HALL.—TO LET
for Theatrical Touring Companies, Variety Entertainments and Concerts. Dressing Rooms, electric light. Tariff on application.
Manager.

FLEETWOOD.—Correspondent required to supply Theatrical and Music Hall News. Apply, Dramaticus, 5, Tavistock-street, Covent Garden, London.

GRIMSBY.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE, LTD.
Established 1884.
Managing-Director, Joseph H. Curry.
Open all the Year Round.
Telegraphic add., "Curry, Grimsby." Tel. No. 240.

HANLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.
The Staffordshire Potteries
for all
Dramatic Purposes
must be considered as one large town.
Accommodation for 3,000 People.
Electric Trams and Trains after Performance to all ends of the District.
Vacant
Nov. 7, 14, 21, 28, and Feb. 13, onwards.
First-class Attractions only.
Chas. E. Elphinstone, Managing-Director.

HULL. — GRAND THEATRE.
Under the Management of
William Morton.
1909-10 ENGAGEMENTS:—
Martin Harvey, Miss De Silva and Company, George Edwardes's Companies in "The Dollar Princess," "The Merry Widow" (two visits), "A Waltz Dream," "Our Miss Gibbs," Percy Hutchison in "Brewster's Millions," James Welch in "When Knights Were Bold," Walter Passmore in Robert Courtneidge's "The Arcadians," Julia Neilson, Fred Terry, and New Theatre Co. in "The Scarlet Pimpernel" and "Henry of Navarre," Weedon Grossmith and Co. in "Mr. Preedy and the Countess," Conan Doyle's Plays: "The House of Temperley" and "The Speckled Band," Miss Ethel Irving and Co. in "Dame Nature," Cav. F. Castellano's Italian Grand Opera, from Drury Lane, H. G. Pélissier and "The Follies" (one week), Frank Curzon's "King of Cadonia" and "Dear Little Denmark," Mr. George Graves, in "The Belle of Brittany," D'Oyly Carte, &c.
Probably Vacant,
Grand Theatre, Nov. 7, for Musical or other high-class attractions.
Address,
William Morton.

LEAMINGTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.
Vacant, Oct. 31 (3 nights), Nov. 10, 11, 12, Dec. 5 (6), Dec. 12 (3), Dec. 19 (3).
Address, E. Dottrill, Empire, Oldham.

PROVINCIAL THEATRES.

LONDON.—Correspondent required to supply occasional reports of the Shoreditch Empire and the Shoreditch Olympia. Apply, Dramaticus, 5, Tavistock-street, Covent Garden, W.C.

LONDON.—Correspondent required to supply occasional reports of the Sadler's Wells Music Hall. Apply, Dramaticus, 5, Tavistock-street, Covent Garden, W.C.

NEW BRIGHTON. — WINTER GARDENS.
The Premier Theatre in Cheshire.
Perfectly Appointed, both before and behind the curtain, and with a Full and Competent Staff.
Can Stage Any Production
SATISFACTORY BUSINESS ALWAYS, BUT FIRST-CLASS COMPANIES ONLY ENTERTAINED.
No vacs. this year, Nov. 28 and Dec. 12 excepted.
Since Winter Gardens Rebuilt, Capacity Business Nearly Every Week.
Refer to—
Edward Terry, Esq. (two visits),
Laurence Irving, Esq., Lionel Rignold, Esq.,
Silvanus Dauncey, Esq. (two visits),
C. H. Williams, Esq. (four visits).
Certainty or Share.
NOW BOOKING FOR 1911.
Address, Managers.

NORWICH. — THEATRE ROYAL.
Now Booking Autumn.
Weekly Matinées for Country Visitors.
Silence a polite negative.
Fred Morgan, Manager.

OLDHAM. — GRAND THEATRE.
Only Principal Attractions entertained.
Vacant Dec. 5, 12, Feb. 6, 20, 27, March 6, 27.
Address, Ernest Dottridge.

OXFORD. — NEW THEATRE.
Managers of First-class Companies are invited to apply for Dates to
Mr. C. C. Dorrill,
Managing-Director.
Silence a polite negative.

PLYMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.
Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee.
Vacant dates,
March 27, April 10, 24,
and onwards.

PORTSMOUTH.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.
Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton.
Open throughout the year.
First-class Companies.
Weekly Matinées.

SCARBOROUGH.—THEATRE ROYAL.
Sole Proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Garside.
Holding capacity £60, at ordinary prices, 2s. 6d., 2s., 1s., 6d., private boxes 10s. 6d.
Now booking summer, 1911.

SOUTHPORT. — OPERA HOUSE.
Lessee and Manager, Percy Hutchison.
Possibly Vacant
Dec. 5.

STOCKPORT. — THEATRE ROYAL.
Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill.
The Premier Theatre of Cheshire.
Vacant Jan. 16, Feb. 13, March 13.
First-class Attractions only.

SUNDERLAND.—KING'S THEATRE.
Lessee and Manager, S. F. Davidson.
Business-Manager, Lloyd Townrow.
Visited by all the best Companies, including Geo. Alexander, Lewis Waller, Oscar Asche, Martin Harvey, Geo. Graves, Moody-Manners, D'Oyly Carte, "Arcadians," "Merry Widow," &c., &c.
Now Booking Spring and Autumn, 1911.

WINDSOR. — THEATRE ROYAL.
A New and Up-to-date Theatre now being erected at a cost of nearly £30,000, will be opened in December next, with a full and capable staff, both back and front, and a first-class Orchestra. Money capacity at Drama Prices (exclusive of Early Doors), £50; Musical Comedy and Special Production prices, £80. Stage: Depth, 36ft., width, 48ft.; floor to grid, 53ft.; proscenium opening, 28ft.
Managers of First-class Companies are invited to send vacant dates and terms to
Mr. J. E. Bull (for the Proprietors),
c/o Managers' Club,
5, Wardour-street, London, W.

A FEW VACANT DATES
for the following
First-class Theatre Circuit:—
OPERA HOUSE, TUNBRIDGE WELLS;
GRAND THEATRE, SOUTHAMPTON;
THEATRE ROYAL, BOURNEMOUTH;
OPERA HOUSE, CORK;
THE GRAND THEATRE, SWANSEA, can be booked in conjunction with the OPERA H., CORK.
Journey via the popular Fishguard-Rosslare route.
GAIETY THEATRE, DUBLIN;
THEATRE ROYAL, DUBLIN;
OPERA HOUSE, BELFAST.
Apply, Fredk. Mouillot,
1 and 2, King-street, Covent Garden.

SCALE OF CHARGES FOR PROVINCIAL THEATRES AND PROVINCIAL MUSIC HALLS.
Five Lines, TWO AND SIXPENCE.
Thirteen Insertions (Including a Copy of "The Era" Weekly), THIRTY SHILLINGS.
For Each Additional Line, Sixpence.
Address, The Publisher,
5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.
"Wire," "The Era, London."
"Ring-up," 4747 or 1433 Central.

FUNDS, &c.

ROYAL GENERAL THEATRICAL FUND.
FOR MEMBERS BECOMING INCAPACITATED EITHER BY OLD AGE OR INFIRMITY.
Hon. Treasurer, Edward Terry, Esq., J.P.
Subscribers are requested to send notices of alteration of addresses.
Charles Cruikshanks, Secretary,
Savoy House, 115-116, Strand.

ACTORS' BENEVOLENT FUND.
8, ADAM-STREET, STRAND.
C. I. Colyson, Secretary.

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.
32, REGENT-STREET, PICCADILLY-CIRCUS, W.
Free Medical Advice.
Free Legal Advice.
Agency. Tours Booked.
Telegrams, "Actoris, London."
Telephone, 1753 Gerrard.

To Hotel Proprietors who regularly file "The Era."

HANDSOME ILLUMINATED METAL TABLETS
of
"THE ERA."
Publisher, "The Era" Buildings,
5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

ACADEMIES AND SCHOOLS.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC,
TENTERDEN-STREET, W.
Instituted 1822. Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1830.
The Academy offers to Pupils of both sexes an opportunity of receiving a thorough education in Music in all its branches, the Drama, and Dramatic Elocution under the most eminent Professors.
For terms and all other information, apply to
F. W. RENAUT, Secretary.

THE ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC
(Incorporated by Royal Charter, 1883).
Prince Consort-road, South Kensington, S.W.
Director, Sir C. Hubert H. Parry, Bart., C.V.O., D.C.L., M.A., Mus. Doc.
Hon. Sec., Charles Morley, Esq.
Syllabus and Official Entry Forms may be obtained from FRANK POWNALL, Registrar.

GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.
Established and Managed by the Corporation of London.
The only School in London for
OPERATIC and THEATRICAL
TRAINING which possesses a completely equipped Theatre. Public Performances periodically given. Stagecraft, Elocution, Fencing, Gesture, Stage Dancing, and Deportment Taught by Eminent Professors. Autumn Term commences Monday, Sept. 26. New pupils can enter at any time.
FEES MODERATE. Prospectus on application to H. SAXE-WYNDHAM, Sec., Victoria-embankment, E.C. Tel. No. 1943 Holborn.

TRINITY COLLEGE OF MUSIC
(Inst. 1872).
Chairman of Board: Sir Frederick Bridge, M.V.O., M.A., Mus.D. Director of Studies: G. E. Bambridge, F.T.C.L., F.R.A.M. Director of Examinations: C. W. Pearce, Mus.D.
Michaelmas Term begins on Sept. 26. The College provides instruction and training in all musical subjects. Students are received for a single subject or for the course.
Prospectus on application.
Shelley Fisher, Secretary.
Mandeville-place, Manchester-square, London, W.

THE SCHOOL OF MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC ART,
77, New Oxford-street, W.C.
Principals, CAIRNS JAMES, ERNEST D'AUBAN.
President, George Edwardes, Esq.
Autumn Term begins Monday, Sept. 26.
George Edwardes Open Scholarship Examination, Sept 23. Private and Class Lessons in Dramatic Art and Characterisation, Elocution, Diction, Gesture, Stage Dancing, Deportment, Fencing, Opera and Musical Comedy, Singing, Voice Production, Choral and Sight Singing, &c.
Special Complete Course of Studies for the Dramatic and Musical Profession.
Pupils have secured engagements with the following managers:—Mr. George Alexander, Mr. Robert Arthur, Miss Lena Ashwell, Mr. Oscar Asche, Mr. Milton Bode, Mr. Arthur Bourchier, Mr. Sydney Blow, Mr. Louis Calvert, Mr. Arthur Collins, Mr. Edward Compton, Mr. Robert Courtneidge, Mr. Frank Curzon, Mr. George Dance, Mr. St. John Denton, Mr. George Edwardes, Mr. Forbes-Robertson, Mr. Charles Frohman, Mr. William Greet, Mr. Percy Hutchison, Mr. John Hart, Mr. Arthur Hart, Mr. H. B. Irving, Mrs. Langtry, Mr. E. Lockwood, Mr. Charles Macdona, Mr. J. A. E. Malone, Mr. Walter Passmore, Mr. Ian Robertson, Mr. Herbert Sleath, Sir Herbert Tree, Mr. Fred Terry, Mr. Lewis Waller, Mr. James Welch, Mr. Arthur Whittaker, Mr. Frank Wheeler, &c., and at the Empire, Hippodrome, Coliseum, &c.
Apply Secretary, Tel. Central 4287.

Price 5s., 8vo, Cloth. By Post, 5s. 4d.
THIRD EDITION.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LAW,
Being a digest of the Law relating to Theatres and Music Halls, and containing chapters on Theatrical Contracts, Theatrical, Music and Dancing, and Excise Licences, Dramatic and Musical Copyright, &c., with an Appendix containing the Acts of Parliament relating thereto, and the regulations of the London County Council and the Lord Chamberlain.
By ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (London), Solicitor.

INDEX.

	Page.
Accidents, Compensation for	53, 209
Act of Paris	119
Actor, Illness of	11
" Incompetence of	16
Adaptations, Copyright in	110
Agents	129
" Award as to	131
" Commission	129
Apprentices	36
Arbitrator's Awards	219
Austria-Hungary, Copyright with	116
Author, Who is the	87
Awards, Arbitrator's	219
Ballets	66
Band Music	101
Barring Clause	41
Berlin Convention	119, 186
Berne Convention	116, 177
Bill Matter, Clause as to	34
"Book," Meaning of	85
Booth	65
Children on the Stage	60
Cinematograph, Rules of the L.C.C. as to	73, 238
Cinematographic Performances and Copyright	101
Compensation for Accidents	53, 209
Consideration for Contract	1
Contract	1
" Damages for Breach of	43
" Determination of	3
" Made by Letters	2
" Meaning of	1
" Music Hall	34
" Stamp on	3
" Theatrical	4
" Variation of Written	2
" With Infant	36
Copyright	83
" Assignment of	87
" Colonial	124
" Dramatic	83
" Essentials for	85
" in Adaptations	110
" in "Gag"	100
" in Situations	98
" in United States	120, 194
" International	1[illegible]
" Licence to Perform	88
" Musical	84, 160
" None in Titles	90
" not Infringed by Cinematograph	101
" Performance	92
" under Berne Convention	116, 177
" Registration of	86
" Remedies for Infringement of	105
" Term of	89
Copyright Act, Dramatic, 1833	147
" " 1842	149
" " International, 1844	167
" " International, 1886	118, 170
" " (Musical Compositions), 1882	108, 160
" " (Musical Compositions), 1888	107, 162
" " Musical, 1902	114, 163
" " Musical, 1906	114, 165
County Council, Granting Licences	77
" " Regulations of London	234
Criticism	46, 125
Crowds may be a nuisance	50
Custom of the Profession	21
Damages for Breach of Contract	43
Dance, Performing Right in	100
Dancing, Licence for	74
Dangerous Performances Acts, 1879 and 1897	144
Disorderly Conduct in Theatre	46
Distance, how determined	42
Dramatic Piece? What is a	93
Dramatisation of Novels	102
Drunkenness no Excuse	16
Duologue, When a Stage Play	68
Excise Licences	80
Exits	234

Published at "The Era" Buildings,
5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

THEATRICAL SHOE AND HOSIERY MANUFACTURERS,
MAKERS TO THE PRINCIPAL LONDON THEATRES.

Louis Heel Dancing Shoes a Speciality.
Sixty Art Shades of Linen Back Satin, Specially Woven for the Manufacture of Dancing Shoes, kept in stock.
This Satin has a Fine Lustre, and is almost as Strong as Leather.
Large Stock of Pure and Spun Silk Tights, Worsted and Cotton Tights, Opera Hose, Stockings, &c.
A Special Study made of Symmetrical Paddings.
The Most Up-to-date Stock of Stage Requisites and Sundries.
Everything of the Best and at Store Prices
H. and M. RAYNE,
115, 117, and 119, WATERLOO-ROAD, LONDON, S.E.
(Opposite Electric Tram Terminus).
Tel. 7978 Central. Telegrams, Raynaloo, London.
And at 49, Charing Cross-road, W.C. (near Hippo).

TO OUR READERS.
A SINGLE COPY OF "THE ERA."
Post Free to any Address in the United Kingdom for SIX STAMPS.
Telegraphic Address, "The Era, London."
Address, THE PUBLISHER,
"The Era" Buildings, 5, Tavistock-st., Strand, W.C.

THE ERA

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1910.

THE NEW WIMBLEDON THEATRE.

When NAPOLEON tried to cross the Alps the whole passage of his army was very nearly blocked by the insignificant little fortress of Berg; and in like manner Mr. J. B. MULHOLLAND has found, we are sorry to say, more than his match in the little Corporation of Wimbledon, on which rather dull suburb he desired to confer the benefit of an up-to-date theatre. Mr. MULHOLLAND'S career as a manager is an interesting one; indeed, his whole career is interesting. He made his first venture into management in August, 1884, when he took The Unknown on tour, commencing at Burnley, playing the leading part of Harold. At Great Grimsby, in January, 1885, he produced Mizpah, a play written by himself, and toured with it nearly 1,000 nights, the play running altogether over twelve years. At Glasgow, in 1887, he produced Disowned, also written by himself. In the spring of 1888 he succeeded to the management of the Grand Theatre, Nottingham, which he retained several years. His first venture into London management was made at the Princess's Theatre, December, 1891, when, under his management and the stage direction of HENRY NEVILLE, he produced The Swiss Express. He was the pioneer of the suburban playhouse as we know it to-day, and when he opened the Metropole Theatre, Camberwell, on Oct. 29, 1894, it was the first suburban house to prove successful. Its success was so pronounced that no fewer than fourteen new suburban theatres were built within the next six years. Mr. MULHOLLAND was, for a period, tenant of the Comedy Theatre. In 1903 he opened the King's Theatre, Hammersmith; in 1906 he became chairman of the Marlborough Theatre Company, and controls the bookings for this theatre; and he is vice-president of the Theatrical Managers' Association. His management of the King's Theatre, Hammersmith, is well known for its superiority and thoroughness. With such a record, he may be said to have honoured Wimbledon by electing to build a theatre there.

The obstacles which are often placed in the way of the person who desires to benefit his fellow-creatures by erecting a place of amusement in their midst are almost absurdly exemplified in the case which we reported last week of what we may call the Corporation of Wimbledon versus Mr. J. B. MULHOLLAND. Mr. MULHOLLAND'S previous exploits, as recorded above, prove how excellently well suited he is to be the pioneer of up-to-date public amusement in Wimbledon; and one would have thought that the Corporation of that place would have hailed with satisfaction the erection of a first-rate suburban playhouse in their midst. But the Corporation, on the contrary, appear to have been determined to do all in their power to discourage Mr. MULHOLLAND in his project. The question of granting him a licence was before the Corporation at its monthly meeting held last week, and it was stated that in the absence of an assurance from Mr. MULHOLLAND to pay one-third (£50) of the cost of extending a high-pressure water-main to the building the Corporation refused to grant the licence.

On the face of it, and with regard to the many benefits which are conferred upon a suburb by the erection of a theatre, it would seem that its authorities should welcome the enterprising capitalist who starts such a speculation in its midst; but exactly the opposite appears to be the case with respect to Wimbledon. The new theatre there would have been opened three years ago but for the delays imposed on Mr. MULHOLLAND by local officialdom. It was arranged that in connection with the site Mr. MULHOLLAND should surrender over 1,250 square feet of land to the public, and every document necessary, as well as the regulations by which Mr. MULHOLLAND was to be governed, were settled before March, 1907. There was an entirely unnecessary delay of nine months in passing these plans; but Mr. MULHOLLAND had an assurance that the rules which the Wimbledon authorities derived from the Surrey County Council would be those under which he would be governed; indeed, a copy of the Wimbledon regulations had been handed to him, and the regulations discussed clause by clause. Meanwhile, a sub-committee was appointed, and it added a number of new rules taken from the London County Council's Regulations. It is easy to understand that in attempting, entirely without experience, to deal with these numerous and complicated rules the sub-committee of the Wimbledon Corporation would find itself bewildered and overweighted and would be likely to render a local manager's life one of constant worry and anxiety. Mr. MULHOLLAND had paid several thousands for his site, on the understanding that he should be governed by the Wimbledon regulations alone, and the alteration in arrangements was "sprung" upon him afterwards.

But the most astonishing exaction was that mentioned above in the case of the water-main. A theatre is only a house in which entertainments are given, and pays a water-rate like any other building—5 per cent. on its rateable value. The theatrical manager has also to pay one guinea per annum for each hydrant in his theatre. But the Corporation of Wimbledon asks Mr. MULHOLLAND, in addition to paying these water-rates, to disburse £50 as part of the cost of extending a high-pressure water-main to the building, and, in the event of his refusing to do so, the Corporation refuses to grant the licence.

The injustice of this demand is obvious; and it is only equalled by the strength of the grip which the Corporation holds on the manager. Mr. MULHOLLAND is in their power. He has already lost thousands of pounds by the Corporation's delays, and the Corporation has only to continue to withhold his licence to cause him to lose thousands more. We wonder what the ratepayers of Wimbledon think of the matter. They are desirous, no doubt, of having a theatre built in their suburb, especially such a fine one as Mr. MULHOLLAND would be likely to erect. It is only by ventilating the subject that any public opinion can be created; and we gladly make our contribution to that excellent object.

A powerful obstacle to the formation of local public opinion is found in the fact that the Wimbledon Corporation does not hear applications for licences publicly. In other words, while it adopts the rules of the London County Council, it does not imitate its excellent practice of publicity. Mr. MULHOLLAND wrote to the Mayor, Aldermen, and Councillors on the 9th ult. that he, of course, assumed his application would be heard publicly, in accordance with the invariable custom. Not receiving any reply, he wrote the Town Clerk on the 26th ult. to similar effect, pointing out that this was the custom of the London County Council, so many of whose rules it is proposed to force upon him. On the 30th ult. the Town Clerk replied: "The Council does not hear applications for theatre licences publicly, as is done by the London County Council."

This intimation Mr. MULHOLLAND received on the 31st ult., and, understanding there was a meeting of the General Purposes Committee that evening, he dispatched a telegram (reply paid) to the Town Clerk, as follows: "Received your letter. I respectfully suggest your Council should follow same procedure as Surrey County Council, which, I am informed, will not grant original stage-plays licence unless applicant appears. Applications, moreover, are heard publicly. Please reply." In the afternoon of the following day (1st inst.) the following reply was received: "Committee decline to depart from their usual practice. Letter follows.—SHELDON." This refusal was inconsistent, seeing that "the usual practice" has been entirely departed from, to Mr. MULHOLLAND'S prejudice, in practically every other direction. Yet this usual practice is to be strictly adhered to to stop a public application. Thus the methods and delays of certain of the Corportion's officials, and the breaches of faith Mr. MULHOLLAND has experienced, escape publicity. And in this way all the advantage which Mr. MULHOLLAND would have gained by a public protest against the way in which he has been treated, and by the publication of that protest in the local Press, is taken from him. As he put it in his letter to the Mayor, Aldermen, and Councillors: "I have pointed out to you what is the usual practice in this respect of the London County Council. Seemingly, you are prepared to adopt their rules, but not their method of publicly hearing applications. I have also informed you of the usual practice of the Surrey County Council, from whom your Council hold delegated powers in respect of the granting of stage-play licences. I desire also to protest against your method of using my licence to coerce me to contribute towards the extension of a public water-main." It is, indeed, natural that Mr. MULHOLLAND should protest against the way he is being treated; indeed, in the position in which he finds himself it is the only thing that he can do.

THERE is fortunately no truth in the statement that Mr. Edmund Payne is contemplating retirement. We understand, as a matter of fact, that Mr. George Edwardes has just re-engaged Mr. Payne for a long term; and, so far from retiring when the run of Our Miss Gibbs comes to an end, he is looking forward to his appearance in a new part. Mr. Payne is surely to be credited with a record in the fact that in all the twenty years or so that he has been at the Gaiety he has only been out of the cast for one play, and that was during the run of Havana, when he wanted a long holiday.

"THE SINS OF LONDON."

Play, in Four Acts, by Walter Melville, Produced at the Lyceum Theatre on Wednesday, Sept. 14.

Jack Pemberton .....MR. FREDERICK ROSS
Samuel Owen .....MR. HARRY CANE
Bobby Blake .....MR. HERBERT WILLIAMS
Julian Crawford .....MR. J. C. AUBREY
Charles Crawford .....MR. ERIC MAYNE
Captain Digby .....MR. S. MAJOR JONES
Joseph Manter .....MR. GERALD EARLE
Arthur Buckley ....MR. F. MARTIN THORNTON
Mrs. Eliza Parker .....MISS POLLY MARSH
Trixie Parker .....MISS EVA DARE
Gertie Coleman .....MISS AURIOL LEE
Maudie Holton .....MISS VASHTI WYNNE
Van Limberg .....MR. E. VASSALL-VAUGHAN
Tina May .....MISS EDITH BLANCHARD
Phyllis Travers .....MISS DORA WILLIAMS
Rev. Henry Wilson .....MR. F. ELSWORTHY
Inspector Maitland .....MR. GORE LINTON
Bill Hooker .....MR. RICHARD F. SYMONS
Millie Anderson ..MISS AMY BRANDON THOMAS

There are thousands of unsophisticated playgoers in London, and Mr. Walter Melville should draw every man and woman of them to enjoy his full-blooded drama—packed with sensation and incident—which was produced before a crowded house on Wednesday evening. The process of condensation by this time has no doubt allowed the stage-manager to commence preparations for the last act before 11.35, at which late hour a large number of the occupants of the stalls left the house. But the gods and the pit, who had howled themselves hoarse over The Sins of London and their perpetrators, still stayed on to assist at the final discomfiture of villainy and the reward of virtue and rectitude.

The story of the play opens in the office of Crawford and Co., and Julian Crawford (Mr. J. C. Aubrey) is a rich financier, who leaves his worthless son, Charles Crawford (Mr. Eric Mayne) in charge of his affairs. Here some of the sins of London are indicated—first with the young man, who has a liaison with a certain Gertie Coleman, and to keep going his reckless extravagances swindles his own father; and his rascally old clerk, Samuel Owen, who, with engaging frankness, helps him in his career of turpitude, and tells us, in chunks of soliloquy, the history and character and present doings and prospects of his employer, now on the voyage home from Australia on the Alabama with his ward, Millie Anderson.

On the ship Miss Anderson meets Jack Pemberton. They fall in love with one another, much to the resentment of the elderly guardian, who has designs on her fortune, which he hopes to secure by marrying her himself. In a heated colloquy between the two men the younger lover very properly resents the insults of the older, whom he nearly throttles. The quarrel has barely terminated when a loud explosion is heard, and the captain, keeping his position on the bridge, orders the boats to be lowered and the women to be saved first. Everyone is panic-stricken, and one of the men, in a dash for life, is shot down by the stern hand of discipline. As the last boat is going away and the last woman is about to enter it Crawford shouts, "My fortune for that woman's place in the boat." The heroine, Millie Anderson, seeing the man whose devotion to her she has up till now so little appreciated remaining on the sinking boat, elects to stay, and accepts Julian Crawford's offer.

In the second act we see more of the actual depravity of the younger villain, Crawford, jun. Hitherto his evil deeds have been mostly confided to us in moments of self-revelation. The son is in a state of alarm because his father, on his arrival home, may find out his defalcations. He goes to the flat of Gertie, who is entertaining a mixed company of pimps and demi-mondaines. A foreigner named Van Lemberg is a prominent representative of the former despicable class, having for his decoy Maudie Holton. From the conversation of the two we learn that the white slave traffic is a very lucrative game. There is a demand for "fresh goods," and Gertie is asked to become a third partner in the firm. She rejects the proposition with scorn, and also refuses young Crawford's offer of £300 as a final douceur. The act ends satisfactorily by the arrest of the procurer.

The old clerk, Owen, arranges to cover Charles Crawford's robbery of the firm's money by forging a note of purchase of some worthless securities. But we must not forget the Island scene, where the lovers, Millie Anderson and Jack Pemberton, and the steward of the lost Alabama are seen. The three castaways have practically made up their minds to live without hope of rescue for the rest of their lives. Of course they are rescued and brought back to England. Bobby Blake returns home to find his sweetheart, Trixie (Miss Eva Dare), thinking him dead, married to the rascally old clerk Samuel Owen. Trixie has married the man to save her mother and herself from the workhouse. In her desperation she flies away with her first lover, Bobby Blake, and finds a home with Millie.

Old Julian Crawford has suffered severe losses in his transactions, and is much perturbed at the reappearance of Jack Pemberton, who comes to claim an account of Millie's fortune. Crawford plots with a third villain, Bill Hooker, to knock Jack Pemberton on the head and carry him off to a disused cellar bordering on the Thames, into which the senseless one is to be thrown. Millie's silence, too, must be secured; but when her bedroom is invaded, the junior comic lady of the piece pulls a revolver from her pocket and stops the would-be abductors with "Move another step, and I fire."

Jack is set free in time to prevent the marriage of Millie to the despicable Charles, and with the arrest of the guilty pair the curtain falls.

The cast all round is admirable. Mr. Harry Cane, though his part of Samuel Owen is handicapped by soliloquies, shows the touch of assured experience in his treatment. The scene in which the old gentleman declares his unalterable devotion to Trixy Parker—a part amusingly handled by Miss Eva Dare—a declaration that is mistaken for an offer of marriage to the widowed mother of the lady derives its chief importance from the clever way in which Mr. Cane handled his character. Mr. Eric Mayne, affable and immaculate, acts the smiling scoundrel, Charles Crawford, with the sinister callousness demanded in such a part; Mr. J. C. Aubrey, who won a reputation a few years since as a popular impersonator of rogues at the Pavilion, Mile End, accentuates the thoroughness of Julian Crawford's wickedness. A subtler note is sounded by Miss Auriol Lee, who plays Gertie Coleman, who is impressive and convincing in portraying the better nature of the lost one. Miss Vashti Wynne looks fascinating and dangerous as the more degraded Maudie Holton. Miss Amy Brandon Thomas makes a pretty and pathetic heroine, her girlishness and charm being conspicuous in the Island scene. Here, too, Mr. Frederick Ross as Jack Pemberton rose to heights of tragic intensity. Mr. Herbert Williams, an admirable comedian, who in his methods reminds one of the late Robb Harwood, gets every ounce of fun out of the part of Bobby Blake; and Miss Polly Marsh, who has before done good service in Melvillian drama, makes the most of a poor part by her delineation of Mrs. Eliza Parker. Mr. S. Major Jones in the short part of the captain of the Alabama scores; there is downright ruffianism in every gesture of Mr. Richard F. Symons, who represents Bill Hooker; and Mr. E. Vassall-Vaughan has our sincere sympathy in his uncongenial task of interpreting the part of the detestable Van Limberg.

"THE WHIP" ANNIVERSARY.

Messrs. Cecil Raleigh and Henry Hamilton were on very sure ground with a drama that has for its subject "the sport of kings"; but they made assurance doubly sure by cleverly contrived sensation, and by a well-managed race. Many melodramas have enjoyed these advantages, but few have had the appealing situations, the strong character drawing, the well-written dialogue, or the excellent comedy relief that are found in The Whip, which celebrated its first birthday at Drury Lane on Monday evening, when the "returns" were happy, indeed.

There was a most uproarious welcome for every member of the company which has so loyally served authors and manager; and in the course of the performance Mr. Arthur Collins and Mr. Raleigh were heartily applauded on making their appearance at the footlights after the great scene at Manfield Junction. The souvenir of the anniversary contained capital portraits of the cast, and it will, no doubt, be a cherished addition to the collections of such things made by enthusiastic playgoers.

Both Mr. George Barrett and Miss Fanny Brough were early on the scene—the Kennels, Falconhurst—to interest the audience vastly by some good comedy dialogue. Miss Brough is just shrewish enough, as the Hon. Mrs. Beamish, to make the tart remarks of that most estimable woman highly entertaining, and, though treating the part in its earlier stages with a wealth of whimsicality, Mr. Barrett is perfectly sincere and convincing in Tom Lambert's outbursts of temper at the insinuations against his good name thrown out by the woman, to whom the honest trainer has given his heart. His great scene, of course, comes in the second act at Madame Tussaud's, where Tom takes the place of Mr. Charles Peace, whereby he overhears the villainous plot of Captain Grenville Sartorys and Mrs. D'Aquila against the equine hero, and gets shut in for his pains. Twenty-four hours without a drink! The actor in his expression of despair is particularly powerful, and the chief honours of the performance are certainly with him.

That accomplished actor Mr. Basil Gill plays with great judgment the difficult part of the repentant Rev. Verner Haslam, reaching superlative excellence in his treatment of the speech at the hunting breakfast. This scene is dominated by the cheery presence of the Marquis of Beverley, an admirably drawn type of the noble sportsman, played with great force and infective geniality by Mr. E. Dagnall, who wins the complete sympathy of the house in his outburst of indignation at the conclusion of a wonderfully well-staged scene. Mr. Frank Elliott is easy and natural in his cool presentation of the refined rascality of Captain Grenville Sartorys, whose wickedness is just of the reckless kind beloved of theatrical folk. The captain is a regular out-and-outer.

The audience on Monday had compliments in abundance for Miss Jessie Bateman, who looked just sweet in her riding habit, when, as Lady Diana Sartorys, she replied in a few heartfelt sentences to the pretty compliment paid to the fair daughter of the house of Beverley by the members of the hunt. There are but few opportunities for the Earl of Brancaster, and Mr. Vincent Clive, who plays the part, wins recognition for his evident ability by the sheer force of his protestation at the end of the second act. Mr. Charles Rock, a particularly able character actor, delights the house by his remarkable embodiment of Joe Kelly—a really first-class blackguard. Miss Nancy Price, whose line seems to be fascinating adventuresses, lets herself go in the hunt breakfast scene, and is always a seductive and interesting Mrs. D'Aquila. Mr. Cecil Cameron's Harry Anson commands sympathy and admiration; Mr. Austin G. Melford's Tom Foster is one of the most effective impersonations in the piece; and the sketch of Captain Rayner by Mr. Charles Blackall is noteworthy. The tribulations of Myrtle Anson are touchingly set forth by Miss Madge Fabian; and the brightness and jollity of Miss May Warley's Lady Antrobus are never in question. Among the smaller parts a good word may be given to Mr. A. C. Hardie's Sir Andrew Beck; and there is much to commend in Mr. Bert Monks's impersonation of the carpenter at Madame Tussaud's. Mr. Jimmy Glover's incidental music is cheery and bright; and the scenery from the brushes of Messrs. Bruce Smith, Emden, and R. McCreery is of the best. Those who love honest, hearty melodrama embodied in a well-told story and beautifully illustrated, must not miss The Whip, which is quite worthy of the record run of two autumns at Old Drury.

"THE TOYMAKER OF NUREMBERG."

Mr. Edward Terry produced The Toymaker of Nuremberg on Friday evening last week at the Winter Gardens, New Brighton, to a house crowded to the doors, seats being at a premium. The Toymaker of Nuremberg, it will be remembered, was produced by Mr. Cyril Maude at a series of matinées at the Playhouse last spring, and has been acquired by Mr. Edward Terry, who saw in the part of the old Toymaker one that was specially suitable to his distinctive abilities. The piece is one of sentiment pure and unsophisticated, and is a plain, straightforward tale of a poor German boy's great love for the daughter of his father's employer. The old Toymaker is overjoyed at the intelligence of his son's love making, and in his simple manner at once sets out to gain his employer's consent to the love match, never dreaming it could possibly meet with refusal. In the end, however, all comes right, and the old man is made happy in the happiness of the young people.

Mr. Terry makes a touching figure of the dear, simple old Toymaker. In characters of this kind Mr. Terry has no equal, and it is not surprising that the immense audience were enthusiastic over such a beautiful and natural piece of acting. Mr. Robert Pateman was admirable as the old soldier, playing the part in the manner that only a sound and experienced actor could do. Mr. Percy Bell, as the pompous actor, scored well in a small character study, and Mr. William Dexter, as the employer, acted excellently throughout. Miss A. Barton enacted the Toymaker's old wife most feelingly, and as the young girl Miss Christine Rayner acted with gentleness and delicacy. Minor characters were excellently handled. The mounting of the piece was beyond all praise, the lighting effects being beautiful in the extreme. The production was repeated at Saturday's matinée, owing to so many being disappointed at not securing seats the previous evening.

"BOBBY BURNIT," a comedy in four acts, by Winchell Smith, has been well received at the Republic, formerly the Belasco Theatre, New York. Mr. Wallace Eddinger appears in the title-part, and gives an earnest and convincing portrayal of a young American, who inherits his father's business and an enormous fortune in cash, but who seems to lack the qualities that would enable him to shoulder such responsibilities. He is at liberty to do what he chooses with the business and the cash, but the rest of his father's estate he is not allowed to touch unless he succeeds in his own business enterprises, or else agrees to leave his affairs in the hands of a trustee. Bobby has two friends, a physical trainer named "Biff" Bates, and Daniel Johnson, who has been the elder Burnit's adviser. He also has a sweetheart, Agnes Elliston, who turns out to be the trustee. Bobby fails at first, being almost victimised by his so-called friends, but he eventually succeeds and wins the girl of his heart. Messrs. John Webster, George A. Wright, Fred Strong, Thomas Findlay; Miss Ethel Clayton, and Miss Ruth Rose acquit themselves well in important rôles.

"A WOMAN'S WAY."

A Comedy, in Three Acts, by Thompson Buchanan, Produced at the Comedy Theatre on Wednesday, Sept. 14.

Alan Waldron .....MR. CHARLES QUARTERMAINE
General Sir Harry Dundas, K.C.B. MR. EDMUND MAURICE
Clive Hatton .....MR. CHARLES BRYANT
Otho Dundas .....MR. ERIC MATURIN
Frederick Rowley .....MR. ATHOL STEWART
Ralph Blennerhasset ....MR. FREDERICK LLOYD
Wilson .....MR. FREDERICK VOLPE
Lady Dundas .....MISS KATE SERJEANTSON
The Hon. Mrs. Waldron ....MISS HELEN ROUS
Norah Dundas .....MISS NINA SEVENING
Margaret Rowley .....MISS MADGE MURRAY
Mrs. Verney .....MISS MARGUERITE LESLIE
A Maid .....MISS EVELYN BEAUMONT
Effie Waldron .....MISS ALEXANDRA CARLISLE

How should a young married woman deal with a husband who, neglecting her and going his own way, has got into a habit of flirting with other ladies? This is the interesting problem that Mr. Thompson Buchanan has set himself the task of solving in his play produced at the Comedy on Wednesday evening. Mrs. Effie Waldron is the young lady whose married life seems likely to be wrecked by the indefensible conduct of her husband, and who by the ingenious and decidedly bold scheme she successfully carries out may be said to furnish an excellent lesson to neglected wives. Alan Waldron, the grandson of a peer, has a rather nasty accident while driving his motor, but a damaged arm would not matter so much. The real trouble arises from the fact that he was not alone when the accident happened, his companion being a lady who was not his wife. A Woman's Way was originally produced in America, and has, we understand, been in some respects altered so as to make it more suitable for the English stage. We know that in America a domestic scandal in high life is one of those matters that the newspapers devote columns to, with at least half a dozen headings, the reporters being expected to ferret out all the spicy details of the case. And so when the play opens Alan Waldron's house is besieged by newspaper men anxious to get as much as possible about the latest society scandal. But only one of them, Ralph Blennerhasset, of the Press Supply Association, gains admission to the house, and his methods amusingly illustrate the wily ways of the American journalist in search of sensational copy. Alan Waldron is furious at the publicity given to his awkward motor accident, but his wife faces the situation in a way that proves she is a woman of common sense, and in her the inquiring newspaper man meets more than his match. But how is she to win her foolish husband back again to the domestic fold from which he has strayed? She does not make the mistake of ignoring her formidable rival—the "beautiful Mrs. Verney," a widow—but invites her to dinner to meet the members of her own and her husband's family. When Alan discovers that two of the young men guests are in the habit of calling the object of his adoration "Puss," he receives a shock, and he is still more disgusted when he discovers his wife carrying on a flirtation with a former admirer, one Clive Hatton, who has, it should be explained, promised to help her in her little scheme. Though she is at first a little doubtful as to its wisdom, her husband's taming experiment ultimately proves even more successful than she expected, and Alan again becomes a devoted, loving husband, the "beautiful Mrs. Verney" being free to seek some other victim to her charms. A Woman's Way is a bright, exhilarating little play that provides a merry evening's entertainment.

Much of the success of the comedy depends upon the way in which the important part of Mrs. Waldron is played. Happily it is in the hands of Miss Alexandra Carlisle, and the charm of her manner, combined with the skill of her acting, went a long way towards securing for the new production a favourable reception. The way in which Effie chaffs her distracted husband over the unlucky motor accident and its results is quite delightful, while, on the other hand, Miss Carlisle shows real feeling when admitting to Clive Hatton that she still loves Alan in spite of his foolish philandering. Of the merits of Miss Carlisle's performance there can be no question; she scores all along the line. The character of Alan Waldron is not so easy to play, but Mr. Charles Quartermaine is nevertheless able to give a capital sketch of the peccant husband, whose irritation at the turn things have taken and the restlessness that denotes his feelings are amusingly depicted. Mr. Chas. Bryant plays agreeably and naturally the part of Effie's old admirer and true friend Clive Hatton; and Mr. Eric Maturin makes the very best use of his opportunities as Otho Dundas, Effie's brother, whom she threatens with revelations of his past if he does not at once cease his violent denunciation of Alan's conduct. Mr. Athol Stewart is well placed as Waldron's solicitor, Frederick Rowley; and Mr. Frederick Lloyd gives prominence to a minor rôle by his clever, carefully-drawn sketch of the journalist, Ralph Blennerhasset, who boasts that he always prefers fact to fiction. Mr. Edmund Maurice is highly amusing as General Sir Harry Dundas, who at once succumbs to the charms of the all-conquering Mrs. Verney, a character that is admirably impersonated by Miss Marguerite Leslie. The wily widow, known to her numerous admirers as "Puss," could scarcely have had a better exponent. Miss Kate Serjeantson is an excellent Lady Dundas, and Miss Helen Rous proves to be equally as good as the Hon. Mrs. Waldron, the two dames adding to the amusement of the audience by their acrimonious verbal encounters whenever they meet. Miss Nina Sevening is pleasing as the newly-wedded Norah Dundas, and Miss Madge Murray as Margaret Rowley, Mr. Frederick Volpe as Wilson, the butler, and Miss Evelyn Beaumont as a maid complete a very satisfactory cast. The play was produced under the direction of Mr. Dion Boucicault.

MR. GEORGE EDWARDES informs us that the Saturday matinées of Our Miss Gibbs at the Gaiety Theatre will be resumed on next Saturday.

IN The Country Boy, a four-act comedy by Edgar Selwyn, produced at the Liberty Theatre, New York, on the 31st ult., humour and pathos are cleverly blended, and city and country characters are represented in a lifelike manner. The hero of the story is a young fellow named Tom Wilson, who lives in a small town, and decides to go to New York in search of better opportunities than he can find at home. He obtains a situation, but loses it in a few months through irregular habits. He becomes infatuated with a chorus girl only to be disillusioned. His landlady threatens to turn him out, and he contemplates suicide. He is saved, however, through the influence of a good friend, Fred Merkle, a newspaper man, who persuades him to return home and begin life anew. Merkle, and a theatrical speculator named Joe Weinstein, accompany him to his native town, where they start a newspaper which proves successful. Wilson wins the good opinion of his fellow-townsmen, and marries the sweetheart whom he has loved from boyhood. The scene of the second act is Mrs. Phelps's boarding-house in New York, where Mrs. Stuart Robson's impersonation of the landlady is true to life, and the boarders are cleverly acted. A dinner scene proved highly diverting. In fact, the play is full of amusing bits that hardly lend themselves to detailed description, and the newspapers have praised it. Messrs. Robert McWade, junior, Forrest Winant, Arthur Shaw, and G. C. Staley; Misses Edith Lyle and Willette Kershaw play the principal parts admirably.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt will arrive on Sunday by the 1.40 p.m. boat at Folkestone, and will motor to the Carlton Hotel, Pall Mall, where she is to reside. Her company will arrive at Charing Cross at 3.25 p.m.

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt will open her season on Monday at the Coliseum, where during the first week of her appearance she will give a scene from Rostand's L'Aiglon. Mme. Bernhardt will be supported by her own company of players from the Theatre Bernhardt, Paris, and she is bringing with her all her own scenery and stage effects. The cast is as follows:—Le Duc de Reichstadt, Mme. Sarah Bernhardt; Flambeau, M. Decoeur; Matternich, M. Favieres; Marmont, M. Cauroy; Prokesch, M. Denenbourg; Therese de Lorget, Mlle. Seylor.

To a correspondent of the Daily Chronicle Mme. Bernhardt stated, a few days ago, that she was looking forward with the greatest enthusiasm to her forthcoming appearance at the Coliseum. "England is such an amazingly hospitable country," she said. "Indeed, in my opinion the English are quite the most hospitable people on earth, and, better still, they give expression to their hospitality in a manner so delightfully simple and yet so munificent. When an Englishman has opened his door to you he never closes it again. Your faults he excuses with the air of a courtier, and your peculiarities he accepts generously."

The scenario of Mr. Pélissier's revue for the Alhambra is already fully outlined, and before long lyrics, dialogue, and music will be added. Mr. Pélissier is putting his heart into the production, and his chief regret now is that obvious circumstances will prevent him from witnessing the first performance.

Operettas should be sure of a hearty reception at the older Leicester-square house, and one remembers with feelings of pleasure the production of Gretna Green some years since, with Miss Ruth Davenport and Mr. Fred Farren in the cast. Mr. Alfred Moul, however, has no present intention of touching musical pieces, but will present at no very distant date a one-act play of serious interest, with a strain of comedy running through it.

Mr. George Graves is appearing this week at the Hippodrome, Manchester, in a new crystal-gazing sketch called Koffo of Bond-street, described in another column by our own correspondent. This novelty will be seen at the Palace Theatre on Monday, when friends of George may be expected to muster in full force.

Mr. Graves has been telling an interviewer that "the conditions of the variety theatre are altogether different from the ordinary playhouse. You've got to hit your bull's-eye the moment you are on. There is no 'preparation' for you—no prelude—you must start in the middle, and score at once. That is not an easy task." These opinions are particularly trite, and apply rather to the comic singer than to the sketch comedian.

Much undeserved contempt is often showered on the red-nosed comedian of the halls by the "superior person," who seems to forget that ten minutes on a stage in front of a thousand people in a state of eager expectancy is not conducive to the display of the refined subtleties of the histrionic art. The gallery boy—who pays threepence, perhaps—has to know at once that there is an alleged funny man at the footlights ready and willing to make him laugh. Hence the "red label," the exaggerated costume, the broad effects. As Mr. Graves says: "You've got to hit the bull's-eye the moment you're on, and you only win by holding the attention taut every moment."

The production of Koffo is under the direction of Mr. Frank Parker, and the special scenery is by Mr. Bruce Smith. Mr. Graves will be supported by Miss Dorothy Monkman, Mr. J. B. Gordon, and Miss Constance Hyem. Miss Hyem, it will be remembered, made a pronounced hit in The Devil at the Adelphi last year.

Mr. Martin Harvey, in a chat with a Glasgow interviewer, says: "I am to open at the new London variety theatre, the Palladium, at Christmas. Many of the leading actors and actresses, including Sarah Bernhardt, have appeared in the halls, so why should not I? At least, that was how Mr. Gibbons put it to me, and really when he placed his handsome offer before me I felt it would be absurd to refuse. Of course it is only to be a short term during my vacation—that is all."

The popular actor will appear in short, one-act plays, such as The Conspiracy. There is no question of giving boiled down versions of such long plays as The Only Way or The Breed of the Treshams. That, Mr. Harvey considers, to be absolutely out of the question. Besides there have been sketches founded on A Tale of Two Cities and impersonations of Sydney Carton in plenty.

Mr. Johnny Danvers (who has been re-engaged by Mr. Arthur Collins for Old Drury panto next Christmas) has been booked on the Moss-Stoll tour, and is making a hit this week at the Empire, Newcastle. Johnny was for years a chief pillar of the Mohawks at the Agricultural Hall, and it was generally thought by his friends that he should have followed the example of Eugene Stratton and gone on the halls years ago.

According to the Bristol Times and Mirror, the late Miss Belle Elmore appeared in Bristol some years ago, and a bill dated April 1, 1907, shows that she appeared at the Empire on that date with Miss Madge Lessing. Further search has revealed a receipt in her handwriting for wages that week. These papers were given to Mr. John E. Nash, who has handed them over to Scotland Yard.

Mr. Wilkie Bard returns to town on Monday, and opens at the Tivoli. He is singing a new song of which report speaks highly, namely, "I want to sing in opera." Miss Marie Lloyd rejoins the company at the Strand house on the same date. The Two Bobs, who are now in their last nights, finish their long engagement next week. They have been a great success, and return to the Tivoli next year.

A number of the officers and men of the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, now on a visit to this country, were in the boxes and stalls of the London Hippodrome on Tuesday evening, and again on Wednesday. They had a fine reception from the rest of the audience, and were made the subjects of various patriotic impromptus from the stage, all of which were heartily cheered. Mr. Fred Trussell put out banners on the "outer walls" of the house, and everything was "merry and bright."

The South London is being redecorated and re-seated throughout. A beautiful new ceiling is now in the course of completion, and an entirely new balcony, fitted with tip-up seats, will be installed. In conversation with Mr. Payne as to the scheme of decoration to be employed, our representative was told:—"It will be quite a delight to my patrons when finished, but as to the scheme—well, look in when we are completed, and you will be agreeably surprised. Wait and see!"

Mr. T. W. Wright, manager of the Luna Park and Palace of Amusements at Southend, will take his complimentary benefit there on Saturday next, the 24th inst.

Mr. Goodwin Woodward, whose retirement from the managership of the Bordesley Palace Theatre, Birmingham, is regretted by a host of friends in the Midlands, has been appointed a manager of the Grand Theatre, Plymouth.

Miss Elsie Redfern (of the Sisters Redfern) will be married to-day, at St. Nicholas Church, Great Yarmouth, to Mr. L. B. Brown. The sisters conclude to-day a most successful engagement of twelve weeks at Chappell's Ring. Miss Rubie Redfern intends launching out as a single turn.

The Dewsbury Empire Cricket Club have had a successful first season, having played sixteen matches and won thirteen, drawing one, and losing two. They are also running a football team, and will be glad to arrange a match with any theatrical company visiting Dewsbury during the season.

Mr. Harry Lyons, at one time manager of Collins's, Islington Green, who has had considerable experience as a touring manager, and who eighteen months ago resigned the managership of the Birmingham Hippodrome music hall to enter "the trade," has decided to return to his original profession.

Mr. Jas. Mayall, the popular manager of the Hippodrome, Margate, made his second annual collection last week on behalf of "Poor Children of Margate's Penny Dinner Fund." The object of the fund is to provide the starving kiddies of the town with dinners during the winter months for one penny each.

Last year the amount collected was £17 16s. 4d. This year's collection realised £40, out of which the prize donkey, introduced in Swan and Vesta's new sketch 'Liza's Wedding Day, which was starring at the Hippodrome last week, succeeded in collecting £8 6s. 4½d.

Mr. Johnnie Renson, the Yorkshire comedian, finishes a most successful season as manager at the Empire Theatre, Cleethorpes. His benefit was a huge success. Next year he will be most pleased to book a good many of the acts engaged by him this season, especially the good V.A.F.s.

An interesting presentation took place at the new Finsbury Park Empire on Friday last, when Madame Fanny Moody-Manners presented Mr. Ernest Wighton, the resident-manager, with a handsome clock; Mr. Fred Camp, the musical-director, received a silver mounted baton; and Mr. Harry Brook, the stage-manager, a solid silver cigarette case, as a token of appreciation.

Preparations for the production of the new sketch by Percival Sykes, entitled The Girl Who Did, are being rapidly pushed ahead by Mr. A. L. Williams, of Collins's. The part of leading lady is to be taken by Miss Catherine Carew. The sketch, which is to be produced on Sept. 26, is said to contain much that is novel.

Mr. J. D. Davidson on Thursday (8th) made an application to the Licensing Justices of the City and County of Bristol, on behalf of Mr. Walter De Frece, in respect of the Hippodrome, East-street, Bedminster. Superintendent Pope, in reply to the Chairman, said he had received no opposition up to the present, but an intimation had been made to him that if a licence to sell intoxicating liquors was applied for there would be a great deal of opposition.

Mr. Davidson said the application was only for a six days' licence for singing and dancing. The building would cost something like £25,000, building and land. The plans had been approved by the sanitary authority, and a memorial had been signed by a large number of shopkeepers and professional people in Bedminster expressing their desire to have the hall, for there was no place of amusement of the kind in Bedminster, although it was a thickly-populated district.

The Chairman put some formal questions to Mr. Davidson, and afterwards said the Bench could make no more than an expression that, if the certificates were satisfactory, as far as the Bench was at present constituted, they would favourably consider the application for the licence.

Mr. W. S. Buccleuch, who takes up the management of the Royalty Theatre, Chester, in succession to Mr. C. B. Fountaine, after touring with Mr. Leonard Boyne in Captain Pugh, V.C., became assistant-manager and treasurer of the Empire, Stratford, then Holloway, Glasgow, and Leicester Palace, staying with Moss' Empires for nearly seven years. By his courtesy and tact he has made many friends, and will doubtless do the same in the old city.

The New Brighton Tower has enjoyed an exceedingly prosperous year, and the directors, recognising that it is owing to the hard work and enterprise of Mr. R. H. Davy, the general-manager and secretary, that such a happy result has been brought about, have decided to tender him a complimentary benefit on Saturday, the 24th inst. A number of well-known stars and popular favourites have intimated their intention of appearing. To-day (Saturday) will be held the first annual September brass band contest, the entries for which include over twenty well-known bands.

Mr. Horace Livermore writes:—"Will you allow me space in your paper to thank all those artists who so willingly assisted at the concert at Colston Hall on Aug. 27, and who helped to make the entertainments such a great success, both artistically and financially. The artists who appeared were so numerous that I could not expect you to mention all names, but special thanks are due to G. H. Elliott, Florrie Forde, Montague Worlock, K. Scott Barrie, and all others who journeyed from London, Cardiff, Newport, Bath, and Weston-super-Mare."

On Monday the members of the Empire and Douglas Head staffs in the employ of Mr. Charles Dare made a surprise recognition of their appreciation of his services. Mr. Carr, the manager of the Empire, immediately prior to the commencement of the performance, and in the presence of the whole of the members of the staff, presented to Mr. Dare, in their name, a handsome meerschaum and amber pipe and case and a fine tobacco pouch, both suitably mounted and inscribed. In doing so he paid a graceful tribute to Mr. Dare's position as an entrepreneur, and emphasised his praise of Mr. Dare as an employer.

Mr. Dare, who was pleasingly surprised at the compliment, thanked the donors heartily, and said that during the season in the island he was always anxious to surround himself with clever artists, men who knew their work, and were equally willing with him to keep his shows clean and free from offensive innuendo. He had, both in the Empire and on the Head, a cosmopolitan crowd of all shades of opinion, and he had always made it his ambition to try to amuse them without offending the susceptibilities of anybody. He was determined to have a clean show, whether in Douglas or in England, or none at all.

The first annual general meeting of the Music Hall Benevolent Institution will be held on Thursday, Oct. 13, at twelve o'clock, at the Bedford Head Hotel, Mr. Joe Elvin (chairman of the committee) presiding. A report of the year's working and a statement of accounts will be submitted.

Mr. Douglas Stuart has handed to the Music Hall Benevolent Institution the sum of £4 12s., being amount on sales of his last year's "Railway Fare Book," which he promised to hand over to the fund.

Will all holders of Benevolent Institution bricks kindly have the same opened, and forward the amount by postal order to the hon. secretaries? This is important, as the books for the year will be closed on the 30th.

The Stavordale Quintette, who have recently been appearing at the Oxford, leave England shortly, commencing their five months' Continental tour at the Hague on Oct. 1.

Mr. G. H. Elliott, the "chocolate-coloured coon," leaves town again for a month in the provinces, and on his return remains until the commencement of rehearsals for pantomime at the Prince of Wales's Theatre, Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Lucas are just concluding a most enjoyable eight weeks' vacation at their bungalow, Mush Mush, on the Thames, and resume work on Monday at the Regent, Salford, after which they open on Mr. Oswald Stoll's London halls.

Miss Lily Langtry, who sailed from Australia on board the R.M.S. Otranto, writes from Marseilles that she is in the best of health, and that she was extremely sorry to leave the Commonwealth, where she has had one of the most successful and happiest engagements she has ever fulfilled.

"The New Barmaid," in sketch form, will be played at the Empire, Camberwell, next week, the cast including Mr. Lawrence Caird, Mr. Charles Adeson, and Mr. Alexander Loftus. The scene is the Owletts Club. The sketch will last half an hour.

Miss Daisy James is appearing at Richmond and Putney this week, and has scored an enormous success in her two latest songs, entitled "The Squeegee Dress" and "Down Regent-street." This popular and dainty artist opens at Willesden and Ealing next week, where both these songs will be heard.

The flat of Mr. J. E. Nash—husband of Miss Lil Hawthorne—at Park-mansions, South Lambeth-road, S.W., was entered by burglars during last week. Mr. Nash at the time was at Bristol, where Miss Hawthorne has been appearing. No money or jewellery had been left in the flat. Some silver plate and a few other articles were stolen.

Mr. Paul Murray, who was for some years at Cranbourn Mansions in connection with one of the departments of the administrative offices of the Moss and Stoll Empires, has now become permanently associated with H. B. Marinelli, Ltd., of 18, Charing Cross-road. He has, of course, resigned his appointment with William Morris.

Mr. Leonard Shepherd, who has been giving his "Character Studies from Shakespeare" on the halls again lately, has received an offer to go out to America—which he has accepted—to play the Marquis of Steyne in a production of Becky Sharp with Mrs. Harrison Grey Fiske for the coming season. Mr. Shepherd will sail for New York in the course of the next few weeks.

Messrs. Feecham and Wheeler, theatrical and variety agents, of 26, Charing Cross-road, are dissolving partnership on the 25th inst., Mr. Charles Beecham having decided to go into management again. The agency will be carried on solely by Mr. Worland S. Wheeler, who will, of course, represent all clients on the Beecham and Wheeler book. Among these are Miss Vesta Victoria, Miss Margaret Cooper, Miss Alice Pierce, and Miss Ada Colley.

It will be remembered that Mr. Charles Beecham was connected with the Syndicate Halls for a number of years, having been associated with Mr. George Adney Payne since a boy. Mr. Beecham resigned his position as manager of the Paragon some twelve months after Mr. Payne's death, to enter into partnership with Mr. Wheeler as theatrical and variety agents.

Mr. Charles Coborn and Miss Mabel Mavis, the celebrated novelty musician, will visit Berlin and other continental cities with a view to business during the week commencing Sept. 26. Mr. Coborn says he will sing in German if it hurts them, and the cosmopolitan character of Miss Mavis's musical entertainment leaves no cause for doubt as to her success.

It is probable that these talented artists will give their combined recital during the coming season in London and the provinces. Those who have been fortunate enough to be present at any of their former recitals are enthusiastic in praise of such a rich combination of humour, harmony, and versatility.

Albert Edward Hill, manager of the East Ham Palace, was summoned on Thursday at East Ham for employing six men to wear a dress having the appearance of a naval uniform under such circumstances as to be likely to bring contempt upon his Majesty's uniform. Six sandwichmen were summoned for using the uniform under such circumstances.

Constable 244K said he saw the six men in Romford-road, Manor Park, carrying boards advertising a music-hall naval sketch. Mr. Hill said he did not know he was committing an offence. Mr. Grubbe said it was important that masquerading the streets in this manner should be stopped, and Mr. Hill, who was chiefly responsible, would be fined £1 and 5s. costs. The men would be fined 2s. and 5s. costs each. The money was paid by Mr. Hill.

The usual weekly meeting of the Executive of the M.H.A.R.A. on Wednesday was presided over by Mr. Harry Bancroft, who was supported by Messrs. J. W. Cragg (trustee), Tom J. Morton, Charles Coborn (vice-president), Bernard Stavordale, Tom Packer, T. C. Callaghan, and C. Douglas Stuart (Secretary).

New agencies were appointed at the Seven Stars Hotel, Rugby, and the Swan Hotel, Leek. Owing to the carelessness or indifference of members of the Association travelling from Edinburgh, the privilege of securing single tickets has now been withdrawn, and no fewer than five tickets will be issued in future. The main trouble would seem to arise from the fact that members do not take the trouble to consult their fellow artists whose names appear on voucher. A little thought and care would result in saving considerable expenditure on the part of artists.

The monthly statement of the Association showed the following totals:—Reserve fund, £545 17s. 3d.; deposit account, £167 7s. 4d.; petty cash, £45; total, £768 4s. 7d. The total membership at the end of August was 6,298, as against 6,392 at the corresponding period last year.

At the Hippodrome, Rotherhithe, on Sept. 19, Wallace Aston and Margaret Watson will produce Corkscrew, an episode of coster life.

Carl Howard and Lily Foy left last week for Australia, and Alex Prince, the Concertina King, leaves on Friday next for Australia, under engagement to Mr. Harry Rickards, made through Tom Pacey's agency.

Mr. Benj. Woodger, secretary of the Music Hall Home, desires, on behalf of the committee, to thank Jim Karno (Ted Karno Trio) for box collection of 8s. 6d., Mrs. Ebdon, the Tankard, Kennington-road, for 13s., and Tom Branson, Queen's Saloon, Hastings, for 10s. 6d., in aid of the Home Fund.

Enormous profits made by the sale of pirated music were mentioned (on Friday, the 9th) in a case before the Common Serjeant in the Central Criminal Court, against four men named Bowden, Kinzett, Beckenham, and Puddifoot, of conspiracy to defraud Messrs. McGlennon and Co., music publishers. The prisoners pleaded guilty.

Counsel for the prosecution said that since Messrs. McGlennon had taken proceedings to put a stop to this kind of thing their profits had gone up about £500 a year. In regard to the sale of pirated music sheets, which were sold to hawkers in the streets at one farthing a copy, counsel said some dealers had earned £1,000 a year.

Accused figured in the "De Profundis" case, and in view of the fact that the present case took priority, the Common Serjeant declined to sentence them to imprisonment, and thought the case would be satisfied by binding them all over to come up for judgment if called upon.

Mr. Frank H. France and Miss Edith Stewart are now playing their new and original sketch, The Little Puritan, at the Moss and Stoll halls in London. This little piece gives them both an opportunity for clever comedy acting, and at New Cross and Hackney, and this week at the new Finsbury Park Empire, it has been received with much laughter and applause. Next week France and Stewart will be at the Croydon Hippodrome.

Miss Melinda May, secretary of the Music Hall Ladies' Guild, 61, New Oxford-street, W.C., on behalf of the committee, begs most gratefully to thank Miss Louie Davis (Ward and Davis) (collecting), 10s. 6d.; Miss Flo Banks (collecting), 3s.; Irisene (donation), 1s.; collected by the Sisters Macarte in America, £1 5s. 6d.; and Miss Irene Rose (collecting), £1.

Please note a prize will be given to the one collecting the most money, in or out of the profession, in twelve months for this deserving charity, commencing Nov. 4 last. Can anyone help the Guild with the address of Mrs. Arthur Hatton, who holds the winning number, 50, for the handsome portière curtain? Will anyone make an offer for the fifteen large-sized bandbooks, given by Messrs. Dennis and Morris (per Sisters Macarte)? Friends of the charity are heartily welcome to tea and reception held every Wednesday, four to five o'clock. Funds, boots, and clothing are urgently needed. Will subscribers please make cheques payable to the Music Hall Ladies' Guild?

The chief addition to the London Hippodrome programme next week will be Mr. George Bastow, the popular comedian who made "The galloping major" one of the most popular songs of the day. Mr. Bastow, who has not been seen in London for a long while, has a new ditty, "Captain Ginjah, O.T.," which has a most catchy chorus.

Messrs. Dan Hendy and George Ernest Aplin were initiated into the mysteries of the Terriers' Order upon Sunday last. The ceremony was performed by Terrier C. W. Kloof, W.T., assisted by Terrier D. M. H. Hoffman, V.T., Organist Terrier Arthur Were. Mr. Dan Fraser and Mr. Henry Stephens have successfully passed the ballot. All Terriers in town upon Sunday next are particularly requested to attend the meeting of the Association.

Applications for membership of the Terriers' Association have been received from Messrs. William Macdonald and Frank William Fisher. Terriers are requested to note that all nominations of candidates for membership must be forwarded to the secretary, accompanied with a letter of recommendation. In future, the names of all candidates will be announced in the weekly Press reports.

The following donations to the Emergency Fund have been received: Terrier Ted E. Box, 15s.; a friend of Terrier Box, £1 1s.; and Terrier William Welsh, 5s. Terrier Barend Jansen is particularly requested to forward his address to the secretary. A communication of great importance is awaiting him. Mr. Pete Reed is also asked to send his address.

"Olga's Oath," Mr. J. G. Grahame's new sketch, which has been touring the provinces so successfully for the last three months, made such a hit at the Pavilion, Glasgow, last week, that the management immediately exercised their option of booking them a return engagement. Miss Zerlina Harrington, who stars in the leading part, was the recipient of several floral offerings and many well-deserved compliments from the public, Press, and management.

Mr. Walter Graham, the "Human Marionette," has no vacant time until March, 1912, but he is looking ahead, and has just engaged the services of a first-class property carpenter to make him an entirely new fit-up for use when he returns from America. It will be on a most elaborate scale, faithfully portaying the old-time music hall of thirty years ago in every detail. Then an instantaneous change to the luxurious Empire of to-day. The scenic effects will be carried out by the well-known artist Mr. Johnston, of Drury Lane, and the electrical effects and lighting by T. Allum (late of Maskelyne and Devant). The whole solely invented by Walter Graham.

Considering the weather, the crowds that thronged the Crystal Palace grounds on Thursday night to see the special display of fireworks in celebration of Pain's benefit were surprisingly large. The band of the Coldstream Guards, under the direction of Dr. J. Mackenzie Rogan, played selections throughout the day, and later in the evening gave a concert in the grand orchestra. Striking pyrotechnic pieces were the "Hanging Garden of Light," an effect attained by salvoes of mammoth rockets bearing flowers floating in space, and the "Changing Clouds and the Fountain of Light," an arrangement in five great tiers, 75ft. in height. The set piece consisted of the Imperial Colonnade and Arms of the Empire, canopied by an immense Union Jack.

Mr. Joseph Schofield, the well-known young violoncellist, has accepted a costume four-character sketch, written by Mr. Langford Reed, on most original lines, called The Awakening. This will be seen for the first time next week at the Empress, Brixton, where it will be in the regular bill.

Mr. Schofield in 1899, when only thirteen years' old, won the open violoncellist Guildhall School of Music scholarship of £75 presented by Baron Von Knopp. Mr. Schofield remained at the School for six more years, and again won the scholarship each of these years, making over £500 in scholarships before he was twenty-one.

An "extra" in the attractive programme at the Holborn Empire on Saturday afternoon last was the performance of Gates's British Burlesque Band, a combination of some thirty instrumentalists, whose selections were loudly acclaimed. The band was conducted by Prof. Saginor, R.R.A.M., late bandmaster of the Czar of Russia's Cossack Band. Dressed in the national Cossack uniform, he wields the bâton with much energy and no little originality.

His business with the gentleman who manipulated the big drum was responsible for much laughter. In a descriptive piece this resourceful instrumentalist-comedian-knockabout was particularly funny. His antics with the drum, which for the moment becomes a motor-car, and as a policeman, who punishes the drum severely, are very ludicrous.

The programme included the Russian National March, the Overture to Masaniello (Auber), the Motor-ride burlesque, a humorous paraphrase of "The Tearing of the Green," and another descriptive piece. All the selections were admirably played and keenly enjoyed, and at the conclusion conductor and band were frequently recalled. The bandsmen are dressed in a scarlet and gold uniform, and are all British.

Yvette Guilbert's first appearance on the stage—she writes in her life—was in 1888. "The piece was one of Alexandre Dumas', La Reine Margot, and the part entrusted to me was that of Madame de Nevers. I needed money to buy shoes and gloves, so I again wrote to my worthy friend Zidler (the music-hall proprietor). His reply came in the shape of a hundred-franc note. And so I made my début. I shall never forget that first night, or the emotions I went through. The fright I was in before it began! The relief I felt when it was over!"

Her performance proved more than acceptable, and she entered upon two years' continuous work on the stage, in which she played many parts. But she had not then discovered her true métier. She had an extensive knowledge of songs, old and new, and, at the suggestion of her friends, she determined to try her fortune at the café concerts as a singer. There were many trials and difficulties before Yvette became famous, but in the end her songs won the heart of Paris. Her success was tremendous, and it has never since forsaken her.

The possibility, which in the near future may at any moment become an accomplished fact, of huge international variety combinations in the way of circuits being formed has for some time earnestly engaged the attention of the long-sighted leaders of the variety profession, with the object of adopting an adequate protective policy. Huge concerns such as the Beck-Butt-Barrasford combination, and other planned amalgamations of British and American circuits, embracing with their tentacles the Continent of Europe, may necessitate the adjustment of existing different national usages. One important question is a possible international barring clause.

As the official organ of the International Artists' Lodge, Das Programm, appositely remarks: "If to-day a performer who is engaged for next year for ten weeks in a Stoll tour may not in the interval appear in any one of twenty-five to thirty towns in which the Stoll office books theatres, it is quite conceivable that in the near future an artist who is engaged for a ten weeks' tour next year for the former Barrasford circuit in England may be debarred from the Morris or Pantages tours in America, since these compete with the Orpheum tour, which in turn is allied with the Barrasford theatres.

Some years ago a plan for an international affiliation was outlined. The four great organisations of to-day were then scarcely ripe for the process. The German body, the International Artists' Lodge, was then, some fourteen years ago, the only association of importance; the Variety Artists' Federation, almost still in embryo, was undergoing a process of evolution; the White Rats of America, who for some years past had been in a state of stagnant lethargy, were only gradually awakening to activity (they and the V.A.F. then numbered between them some sixty-five members, as against over 6,000 to-day); while the Union Syndicate des Artists Lyriques of Paris was in those days nothing but a sick-fund.

To-day these four organisations have an aggregate roll of no fewer than 14,300 members, or, allowing for the same artist being a member of two or more of these Associations, a membership of between 13,000 and 13,500 remains. Hitherto these bodies, on the principle laid down in the agreement of affiliation, effected last year through the instrumentality of Mr. Max Berol-Konorah, the energetic president of the International Artists' Lodge, confined their activities entirely to the solution of their own national problems. Each held undisputed sway in its own country: the V.A.F. in Great Britain and Ireland, the White Rats in America, the I.A.L. in the Teutonic and Eastern countries of Europe, and the U.S.A.L. in the Latin countries of the Continent.

The strength, moral and otherwise, gained by the aforementioned affiliation has already made itself beneficially felt on several occasions, notably in the recent legislations on the agency question in America, England, and Germany. It is now felt that the time is ripe for taking up a plan which dates back as far as 1906, when an informal meeting was held in the then London offices of the I.A.L., and a small number of men of different nationalities, all of them leading members of the profession now, laid down the main lines of the scheme. It was suggested to convene an International Conference of delegates of the different organisations every two years on some neutral spot, such as The Hague or Geneva, for discussing international questions and for devising ways and means for carrying out their resolutions, an important item on the programme being the vexed question of international copyright. The question of selecting a place of meeting is to-day considerably simplified.

Since the profession is entirely free of all taint of international jealousy, the necessity of selecting a neutral meeting place, such as originally suggested, falls to the ground. The only towns that can come into question are London, Paris, Berlin, and New York. If the last-named place were chosen the money and time spent on assembling the Conference would be, of course, considerably increased; besides which there are always a number of leading American artists in Europe who could be deputed as delegates without incurring any unnecessary further expenditure.

The obvious place for the Conference, if for no other reason but for its geographical position, is London. The language, at any rate, in which the business would be transacted would be English, while it is estimated that the list of questions already filed for discussion—some of which, for reasons of expediency, are kept secret as yet—will keep the Conference, which will be composed of delegates appointed by the four organisations, and of the editors or representatives of their official organs and other leading class journals, busily occupied for about a week.

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

AT the King's Theatre, Portsmouth, where Miss Ada Reeve is the bright particular star, that dainty artist, Miss Amy Clevere, whose taste in dress is proverbial, has been delighting full houses with her new song, by G. A. Stevens, "Black Belle (I'm sorry you're a coon)." Messrs. Francis and Day have issued this tuneful number.

FOX AND MELVILLE are making a huge hit with F. V. St. Clair's great chorus number, "Where the bellbine climbs around the window." The song is published by Francis, Day, and Hunter.

"I LOVE to see them working in the mills" is a chorus song by F. V. St. Clair, which he is exploiting on the Moss-Stoll and the Broadhead halls. It is vociferously cheered everywhere.

THE magnificent receptions accorded Mr. G. H. Elliott nightly at the Shepherd's Bush Empire for his singing of "There's a little black Cupid in the moon," the principal song among his latest batch of ditties, prove it to be indubitably a compeer of his other tremendous successes from the pens of Lester Barrett and Hermann E. Darewski, notably "Sue" and "I used to sigh for the silvery moon." The chocolate coloured one's own pronouncement a short time since that "There's a little black Cupid in the moon" would be one of the biggest pantomime songs of the year will undoubtedly be verified, judging by the applications for rights already received by Messrs. Francis and Day. The artist avers no song has ever suited him better, and if he doesn't know, who does?

A CONSENSUS of praise has reached London from seaside entertainers who have been singing Mr. Charles Wilmott's laughable parody, entitled "Hip-I-addy-I-ay," which Mr. Johnny Danvers has been delighting audiences with on the variety stage, and everywhere it has been sung inquiries have been ripe for copies, notably at Brighton and at Margate. At the former place Mr. Fred Frampton, of the White Coons, has received ovations for it, a like fate befalling Mr. Stanley Kirkby, who has been scoring with the item at the municipal concerts at the Kentish resort. Messrs. Francis and Day have issued the parody.

THOSE comedians who in the past have been so successful in pantomime with Messrs. Rich and Rich's humorous items will hail with satisfaction the advent of their newest tour de force, which is entitled "We don't want a girl," and which has been secured by Messrs. Francis and Day. It is sure to be in greatest request for Christmas annuals, not only on account of its inherent comicality, but by reason of its adaptability for local use. It is by Messrs. Rich and Rich and the late Will Letters, and is being sung by the former twain with tremendous success.

MR. DAVID DAY'S firm have in the press a pretty new song, entitled "Someone waits for somebody." The lyric is from the experienced pen of J. P. Harrington, and John Neat has set the lines to one of those taking melodies for which he is noted.

A SONG, with the striking title of "I seem to hear you calling," will shortly see the light. It is by Scott Staunton and Henry E. Pether. Messrs. Francis and Day are the publishers.

MR. RYDER SLONE'S effective new number, "The Vagabond's Toast," has been disposed of by the authors and composer (Barnes, Weston, and M. Scott) to Messrs. Francis and Day.

THE fine song, entitled "My dear old coat," so well sung by Mr. J. C. Piddock in the musical sketch Cupid's Arms, has been largely inquired for ever since Messrs. Piddock and Danby put the morceau on the boards, and the song will shortly be available in sheet music form, it having been acquired for publication by Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter. The lyric is by Albert E. Ellis and the music by Henry E. Pether.

MR. GORDON STRETTON, who both at Dublin and Belfast has been making so good with Mellor and Gifford's "There's a brown girl in Old Dahomey," a song that is being issued by Messrs. Francis and Day, has been booked for the Dublin Empire for no fewer than eight years. Mr. Stretton opens in London again shortly.

TOM E. FINGLASS, the cowboy coon, is making a success in every town he visits with his novel scena "My Baby," with which he scored so heavily recently at the London Coliseum. This week at Rochdale in each house this popular artist has had to make a speech and sing his well-known prairie song.

(Continued on page 24.)

So amused was a woman who went to the Crouch End Hippodrome that afterwards, on the way home, she laughed heartily "at the memory of the turns." "My sister-in-law," she told the Highgate magistrate on Thursday, "said I was laughing at her, and flew at me like a cat." The woman who laughed was granted a summons.

A MELANCHOLY interest attaches to the sale of a quantity of household effects belonging to "Dr." Crippen, which has been removed from Hilldrop-crescent to the sale-rooms of Messrs. Tooth and Tooth, in Oxford-street. The removal from Hilldrop-crescent was made under the strict supervision of Scotland Yard.

THE selections of ideal music hall programmes by the Evening News are arousing much interest in variety circles. Some of the bills sketched out for proprietors would mean a salary list of £1,200—a mere trifle to the man in the street.

MR. CHARLES S. KITTS and Miss Rhoda Windrum are playing next week at the London Coliseum in their ever-fresh and always successful military merry contretemps, The Little Cuckoo.

THIS evening will see the last performance of Messrs. Pain and Son's picturesque spectacle "The Destruction of Pompeii" at the Crystal Palace. The 500 artists on the huge stage of 350ft., which has for its flooring the beautifully laid-out grounds of the Palace, the artistic ballet, the troupe of acrobats, the 200 choristers, and the exciting chariot races all go to make up an attractive spectacle

MLLE. CLEO DE MERODE, now appearing with such success at the Hippodrome, was at home to a large number of her London friends at the Ritz Hotel on Tuesday afternoon, and proved as charming off the stage as on. Everything was done in the daintiest and most hospitable way. She received her guests with delightful verve, poured out the tea herself, and kept up a continual ripple of conversation and laughter.

PRESENTING his report of the festival to the stewards at Gloucester on Saturday, Mr. Barrett Cooke, secreary, referred to the lack of support during a portion of the recent festival, and asked if the time had not arrived to reduce the charges for the best seats. The receipts for seats and books of words amounted to £3,270, or over £400 less than three years ago, while the expenses totalled £3,560, against £3,714 in 1907, leaving about £300 to be taken out of the stewards' fund to settle the deficit. Collections taken at the various services amounted to £424, against £499 at the last festival, and it was estimated that there would remain £1,300 to go to the charities as against £1,677 at Gloucester three years ago, £1,000 at Hereford two years ago, and £780 at Worcester last year.

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

THE COLISEUM.

An interesting appearance at the palatial St. Martin's-lane house on Monday afternoon was that of Mlle. Charpentier, a favourite actress in St. Petersburg, announced as the "Russian Marie Tempest." An accomplished vocalist, her fine voice was heard with pleasure in some tuneful selections, a specially popular number being a Russian version of "The Amorous Goldfish," from The Geisha. In her concluding item, dressed in becoming male costume, she sang of a Russian girl who had been kidnapped by Caucasian Cossacks, and escaped, and is impatiently waiting for a horse. The reception accorded Mlle. Charpentier was a decidedly favourable one. The powerful playlet Sanctuary, by Malcolm Watson, which it will be remembered was first seen at the Empire in the December of last year, with Miss Evelyn D'Alroy as the Woman, is also figuring for the first time in the Coliseum bill this week. Miss Sylvia Cavalho now enacts the part of the wretched Woman, who has accidentally committed murder, and gives an intense and effective portrayal throughout; and the Artist is played with firmness and conviction by Mr. Clifford Pembroke. Mr. H. Buckstone Clair submitting a capital little study of the Policeman.

Chanteclair, the feathered farmyard fantasy presented by Joe Peterman and George Ricketts, proved a pretty and novel interlude. Enacted by fifty artists in real feathered bird costumes, as executed by Clarkson for his Parisian production, the "farmyard sketch" was particularly strong in attractive choruses and dances; and the humours of the Cat and the rollicking rooster who is constantly inviting his companion to "come and have one" were responsible for considerable mirth. Chanteclair himself was a most impressive bird, his impersonator having a powerful voice and playing the part capitally; and Nellie, the Hen Pheasant, was also admirably enacted. Bright and lively throughout, Chanteclair certainly proved a most refreshing and delightful concert.

M. W. Andreef's Russian Balalaika Orchestra still remains in the fine programme here, and the selections so melodiously and delicately given are all heartily applauded, the balalaika solos given by M. B. S. Trojanowsky on the occasion of our visit being the "Waltz Durand" and a fantasie by Tschaikowsky, the executant displaying wonderful facility in his playing. The humours of Jack Lane, the Yorkshire rustic at the piano, were evidently appreciated; and his rendering of "Has anyone here seen Kelly?" as given by the Salvation Army, a curate at a concert, and in other extraordinary circumstances, aroused laughter in all parts of the house.

There is real humour in the turn of Montgomery and Moore, American entertainers with droll and novel ideas. The male of the duo is a clever pianist, and also an eccentric one; and the lady's quietly humorous rendering of "Jenny" is a gem in its way. The happily-associated pair have many devices for creating merriment, and their stay is altogether most enjoyable. Mlle. Dolli, from La Scala, Milan, executes a dainty toe solo with cleverness, and her other dances are also greatly enjoyed; the Francoli troupe, in their pantomimic act, The Billposter, submit a smartly-worked acrobatic and tumbling interlude that appeals to the entire house; Sam Stern, in a Hebrew parody medley and a clever impersonation of Italian character as seen in the New York streets, is a decided favourite; and the Findens present an admirably-played duologue that is amusing throughout. The Bioscope concludes.

THE EUSTON.

A capital programme is presented here this week, and consequently Manager McAvoy is all smiles as he endeavours to find room for his patrons. The chief attraction is a dramatic sketch, Her Luck in London, which deals with the fortunes of a young and spirited country girl who, tiring of rustic life and exasperated by the reproaches of her father and sister, seeks her fortunes in London. Her adventures as a barmaid in a gambling den are vividly portrayed, and the final scene, where she vindicates herself in the eyes of her husband, is strikingly acted. As the heroine Miss Mary Neil carries practically all the work on her shoulders, and her mixed humour and pathos won golden opinions from the audience, who showed their evident appreciation in no uncertain manner.

George Mozart again proves himself to be one of our first rank entertainers, keeping the house in roars of laughter during the time he occupies the stage. His first number is a dissertation on "Ladies," in which he introduces some of his inimitable "walks," while his second portrays the fortunes of a couple of buskers. His burlesque of a bioscope drama is highly diverting, and, above all, original. The Lukushimas, Japanese entertainers, present a really marvellous exhibition of acrobatic and balancing feats. Mr. M. Adeson, assisted by Miss Clara Bernard, doles out quaint humour in a bright little farce.

Rauschle, in a series of impersonations of great men past and present, is repeatedly encored, his portrayals of Gladstone, Napoleon, Buller, and the late King being especially well received. A novel turn is provided by Mr. Willie Gardner in a clever exhibition of roller skate dancing, and Miss Hanid Alexander delights all by her brilliant pianoforte playing. Mr. Clifford Morgan is the possessor of a fine voice, and his dramatic ability was clearly shown in his rendering of Rudyard Kipling's song "Follow me home." Will Cornish in a tuneful handbell act, the Doreen Girls in a clever dancing speciality, and Ruffell's Bioscope round off an excellent bill.

THE SOUTH LONDON.

When we looked in at the South London this week we found a good audience enjoying the fine programme provided by the popular manager Mr. William Payne. Mr. Henry Hilton gained a good deal of applause for a clever sleight-of-hand performance, and Mr. Clifford Morgan sang in fine style one of Rudyard Kipling's barrack-room ballads. Hampton and Bauman, "Darktown Entertainers," give a varied musical performance. A couple of humorous numbers, "My mother said" and "Sing a song of sixpence," were sung by Mr. Ted Cowan, who adopts much the same style as his brother, Mr. Sam Mayo. Miss Daisy Jerome, the star turn here, was unable to appear on the night of our visit; but an excellent substitute was found in the Leonards, who contributed a very amusing duologue dealing with the "stop-out-late" husband and his rebellious wife. Cole and Rags, a clever couple, introduce some good juggling. Miss Annie Schuberth appears in a song-scena, The Deputy; or, A Private Rehearsal, into which she introduces a series of songs, the best perhaps being "Beautiful garden of roses," a fine song sung in excellent style.

When one thinks of the success of that stirring little drama The Drums of Oude, it is not surprising that other plays of a similar character should follow. In The Half-Caste, which is being presented by Miss Evelyn Beresford and company, we are again given an Indian episode. The scene is in the officers' quarters of an Indian palace. Captain Dick McBurn (2nd Seaforth Highlanders), stationed in India, rescues an Indian dancing girl, Nonoyah by name, from one of the bazaars. She is a half-caste, and the two fall in love with one another. Omurara, the bazaar-keeper, whose favourite dancer Nonoyah was, swears to have revenge. While the regiment is away Omurara obtains admission to the palace for the purpose of revenge by becoming the servant of Captain Dick. He murders the sentry after having compelled him to disconnect the electric telegraph. Nonoyah has a dream in which she sees her previous master murder Captain Dick and take her again prisoner. She tells the Captain, who arrives at the conclusion that there is treachery in the wind. (His attention has previously been directed to the death of the sentry.) He goes to the telegraph to communicate with the regiment, but finds communication has been cut off by the removal of the electric battery. Omurara enters with three of his followers and threatens to kill Captain Dick if he will not surrender Nonoyah. He of course refuses. The native horn is heard in the distance, the sound of which proclaims an Indian rising. Almost in despair the Captain again tries the telegraph, and succeeds in establishing a temporary connection. He receives a reply to the effect that a portion of the regiment is now on its way to the palace. Omurara is about to torture the girl with a huge boa-constrictor which belongs to an Indian snake-charmer. At this moment the regiment arrives, and amidst much confusion and more noise all ends happily. Mr. Henry Latimer was quite good as Captain Dick McBurn, and Mr. Gomer May acted consistently throughout as the treacherous Omurara. Miss Evelyn Beresford made a charming heroine in the character of Nonoyah. The little play was well staged.

"I'm the leader of the girls' brigade" is the title of a song sung to a stirring march tune by Miss Radie Stuart. In The King of the Castle Mr. Joe Elvin, as the husband with "no go in him"—the necessary amount of "go" coming from a draught administered by a doctor friend, is responsible for a good deal of merriment.

THE EMPRESS, BRIXTON.

The management here this week have arranged a very excellent programme, and as a result Brixtonites are rolling up in large numbers to testify their appreciation. On the evening of our visit the house was packed. G. H. Chirgwin is, as usual, a host in himself, his many topical witticisms causing endless laughter, and, if such a thing be possible, he becomes more popular every day. The amusement he manages to get from a couple of clay pipes and an old tin tray is nothing short of wonderful, and if applause signifies anything he must have a very warm place in the hearts of patrons of this popular hall. Clever impersonations of some of our leading violinists are given by Le Strad, and amongst others may be mentioned Sarasate and Kubelik. These in their way are really excellent. Nellie Denver, a clever kiddie, sings and dances smartly; and Mal Vern, described as a laughing cyclone, has a couple of mirth-provoking numbers. Walter Barrett, a baritone, is heard to advantage in a couple of numbers entitled "Long live the King" and "The trumpeter," and Marie Magnus, besides telling some humorous stories, renders tunefully a song entitled "Whisper it again." Harry Tompa is responsible for a humorous song entitled "My wedding day," and handles patter in good style.

As a juggler pure and simple Richard Wally must surely rank very high. He performs many most difficult tricks in a way that makes them appear really facile in the extreme. Miss Bessie Knight has a taking coon ditty about a Mr. Jackson, which suits her well, and afterwards she shows how perfectly she has mastered the terpsichorean art. Miss Queenie Essex, a dainty comedienne, has a real winner in "Coo Goo Land," the chorus of which is readily taken up by the upper ten; and as a top-liner we have Percy Honri and company in Concordia. The well-trained voices of Belrose and De Velin are a real treat to listen to, and Bellew and Stocks's company present with success a refined musical scena entitled The Romps. Miss Margaret Ismay sings tunefully "Lampland" and "A snow-hut for two." Afterwards, supported by a troupe, she contributes some well-executed dancing. The comedy dogs, trick ponies, and jumping dogs of La Belle Duchesse contribute a most entertaining number. The perfection which these animals have reached shows that no small amount of time and patience must have been spent on them. As an encore "La Belle" introduces two boxing horses, which she claims are the only two in the world. A most interesting evening is brought to a conclusion with a series of pictures on the Bioscope.

PECKHAM HIPPODROME.

Mr. Cecil Paget, the genial manager of this popular South London house, is nightly reporting excellent business consequent on the general excellence of the programme. After an agreeable selection of music by the band, under the able direction of Mr. Julian Goldsmid, the ball is opened by Mr. Arthur Stacey, a smart eccentric comedian and dancer, who is very well received. Miss Harriett Rose, a prepossessing young lady with a tuneful voice, has a good chorus song in "Florrie, you'll be sorry," the refrain of which is taken up heartily by the gallery. The Three Crakes in their comedy act The Electric-Car Conductor appear as a tramway inspector, driver, and passenger respectively. Their knockabout and acrobatic business is extremely clever and comical, the audience being kept in a roar of laughter throughout the turn. Mr. C. W. Walker, the blind coloured comedian, assisted by graceful Miss Ida May, renders most agreeably "Down among the sugar-cane," concluding with a skilful dance. The popular pair Barney Armstrong and Kelly meet with a big reception, the comicalities of the diminutive Kelly, who has been aptly styled "the Tich of the North," being especially appreciated.

Fanny and Harry Dent in their unconventional comedy act The Indian Bottle appear first as Sicilian mummers, then as English peasants of the Plantagenet period, and finally as Russian dancers, in which last rôle they give a sensational terpsichorean display which brings down the house. Miss Elsie Ellis, a dainty and charming little comedienne, sings with much chic "The girl in the draper's shop" and "I can't understand it, can you?" A warm welcome is accorded to the old favourite Mr. James Fawn, whose ripe humour has ample scope for exhibition in his two side-splitting ditties, "The Magistrate" and "Oh! the honeymoon!"

A most exciting and ingenious sketch of the Sherlock Holmes type is The Raven's Toll, which is effectively enacted by Mr. Leonard Mortimer and his able company. A special feature of the production is that the mystery of the playlet is only revealed a few seconds before the fall of the curtain. Mr. Leonard Mortimer gives a fine delineation of the detective Hamilton Cleek; Miss Constance Elgin looks handsome and acts with much ability as the adventuress Brema Sax; and Mr. Sidney T. Pease elicits sympathy as the wronged Dr. Howard. Mr. Harold Brough, Mr. Horace Denton, and Miss Ida Clifford do well in the remaining characters. Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope brings a capital programme to a close.

FINSBURY PARK EMPIRE.

The programme provided for the patrons of this handsomely appointed house contains an abundance of good things this week. Among the capital items presented, special mention must be made of the airship under wireless control, invented, constructed, and manœuvred by Mr. Raymond Phillips. Mr. Phillips first demonstrates to the audience, by means of his wireless apparatus on the stage, how he can simultaneously ring a bell and ignite tiny electric lamps upon a miniature Christmas tree, by the transmission of the same waves. The model airship is then ballasted in accordance with the temperature of the auditorium, and launched. As may be expected, the skill and dexterity with which this wonderful model is raised, lowered, turned in its own length in the auditorium, and brought back to its original position on the stage, at the will of the inventor, spontaneously evoke enthusiastic and clamorous applause.

Billy Howard and Kathryn Harris, in The Adventures of a Happy Tramp, are responsible for a really funny turn. Their patter is smart and original, and the quaint mannerisms of the tramp, the charming and vivacious dancing of the lady, together with the efforts both throw into their work, cause the turn to go with "snap" and fully merit the appreciation with which it is received. The shy comedian, Jack Pleasants, is the cause of many chuckles with his song, "Liza had hold of my hand." When he sings "Ma," and "I'm shy, Mary Ellen, I'm shy," he reduces the audience to an ecstatic state of merriment.

An entertaining performance is that of the Legay Trio, who dance with extraordinary rapidity, at the same time preserving gracefulness in all their movements. The Eisteddfod Prize Vocal Sextette render several selections with great power, notably "Comrades in Arms" and "Thora." The blending of the voices and the perfect time preserved earn in full the hearty reception with which they are accorded. France and Stewart, in the comedy sketch, entitled The Little Puritan, enact their respective rôles most capably; the lady is especially dainty and refreshing. The Little Puritan is somewhat unconvincing, and is but slight in texture. The Seven Perezoffs, in their juggling pantomime, An Evening in a Parisian Café, create much amusement, and perform their turn most skilfully at whirlwind speed, thus causing a hearty response to their efforts.

Ugo Nap is extremely entertaining at the piano, his imitations of a woman singing, and a violoncello being particularly effective; and Harry Bedford's dancing is as original as it is grotesque. The Biscope, with some up-to-date films, remains a most popular turn. Mr. Ernest Wighton is in charge of the front of the house, and he is assisted in his successful efforts for the comfort of the audience by Mr. W. H. Bexby. A word of praise is due to the orchestra, under the batôn of the able Mr. Fred Camp.

FRANCIS, DAY & HUNTER,

THE WORLD'S SONG PROVIDERS.

FLANAGAN.

SUNG WITH ENORMOUS SUCCESS BY MISS FLORRIE FORDE.

MISTER OWL.
G. H. ELLIOTT'S LATEST & GREATEST SUCCESS.

DOWN IN JUNGLETOWN.
MISS ETHEL LEVEY'S "ALHAMBRA" HIT.

I WISH I LIVED NEXT DOOR TO YOU.
Sung by MISS DAISY DORMER.

I'VE GOT RINGS ON MY FINGERS.
MISS JEN LATONA'S COLISEUM HIT.

THERE'S ANOTHER FELLOW LOOKS LIKE ME
GEORGE LASHWOOD'S LATEST HIT.

PUT ON YOUR TATA, LITTLE GIRLIE.
MISS CLARICE MAYNE.

IF I HAD THE WORLD TO GIVE YOU.

DAVE CARTER'S GREAT SUCCESS.

HE'S A NAUGHTY, NAUGHTY BOY.
CHARLES WHITTLE'S LATEST HIT.

HI! HI! MISTER McKIE.
MISS ELLA RETFORD.

IN THE OLD DUTCH DAIRY.
THE GREAT SEASIDE SUCCESS.

WE DID ENJOY OURSELVES IN LONDON.
A Great Chorus Song sung by GUS GARRICK and the TWO ARNATOS.

'TIS A FADED PICTURE.
Sung by FRANK CASS.

MY PONY BOY.
MISS NELL EMERALD.

ON THE SILVERY SANDS.

MISS MADGE TEMPLE'S GREATEST SUCCESS.

AND JUST THEN HE FELL OUT OF BED.
MISS ADA REEVE.

LA LA LA, SING THIS CHORUS WITH ME.
HERBERT RULE and GEORGE D'ALBERT.

I DON'T MIND LEAVING THE DEAR HOMELAND
TOM COSTELLO'S FURORE.

THERE'S A LITTLE BLACK CUPID IN THE MOON.
G. H. ELLIOTT'S LATEST MOON SONG.

SAM.
MISS HELEN TRIX.

IN CHERRY-BLOSSOM TIME IN JAPAN.
A CHARMING JAPANESE ROMANCE.

FRANCIS, DAY & HUNTER, 142, Charing Cross Rd., London, W.C.

DRAMATIC AND MUSICAL LAW.

BY A. A. STRONG, LL.B. (LOND.), SOLICITOR.

Mr. Albert A. Strong's valuable work "Dramatic and Musical Law," published at The Era Offices, Tavistock-street, has reached its third edition. The author has made every effort to bring the book right up to date.—Referee, May 15, 1910.

Mr. Strong states the whole case very clearly.—Illustrated London News.

Should prove perfectly invaluable.—Weekly Sun.

Price 5s., post free 5s. 4d. Published at The Era Offices, 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, W.C.

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

(Continued from page 23.)

Mr. Mark Sheridan's return to the metropolis has synchronised with what may be termed the rejuvenation of "I do like to be beside the seaside," for this "hardy annual" of mirth and melody has been the genial Mark's sheet-anchor at the Tivoli, Oxford, and Metropolitan, and has been received with thunders of appreciated applause at all three houses.

Mesdames Irene May and Annie Schuberth, at all their London engagements, have been scoring very heavily with Feldman and Co.'s big winner, "Beautiful garden of roses"; while Mr. Leslie Walker, at Margate, has also won plaudits loud and long with the same beautiful ballad.

Mr. Jack Smiles, at the Hippodrome, Croydon, is hugely successful with "Fish Sauce," a Feldman number that should prove very attractive to pantomime comedians this year. He will be singing this song at the Holborn Empire next week.

Messrs. Jordan and Harvey, at the London Pavilion, have been enthusiastically received in their new comedy number "Abraham," which Messrs. B. Feldman and Co. publish, and which promises to even eclipse their other great Yiddisher song, published by the same firm, "Sollomon."

Miss Lillie Le Main, at the Hippodrome, Ton-y-Pandy, is eminently successful with Feldman's delightful number, "Marie Louise," by Mellor, Lawrance, and Gifford. This song certainly looks like being one of the most successful dainty character songs issued by the firm of B. Feldman and Co.

(Continued on page 25.)

"KOFFO, OF BOND STREET."

Farcical Comedy Sketch, in One Act, Written by Arthur Falkland, with Music by Herman Finck, Produced for the First Time on any Stage at the Hippodrome, Manchester, on Monday, Sept. 12.

Captain Dick Hamilton ....Mr. George Graves
Thomas P. Perkins .....Mr. J. B. Gordon
Detective Janord .....Mr. Herbert
Nancy Perkins .....Miss Constance Hyam
Miss Cooper .....Miss Dorothy Monkman

(from our own correspondent.)

The scene of this sketch, in which the popular comedian, Mr. George Graves, made his appearance at the Hippodrome, Manchester, on Monday night, is Koffo's spiritualistic, thought-reading, crystal-gazing establishment in Bond-street. Koffo is apparently lacking in status, for at the opening his typist, Miss Cooper, receives a telegram from him, stating that as the detectives are on his track he will absent himself for a time. This point settled, she is presently disturbed by the advent of a man, who comes into the room as if he is escaping from someone. This is Captain Dick Hamilton (of the Bluffs), otherwise Mr. George Graves, self-described as an incorrigible "nut." He is soon on good terms with the typist, and he tells her, in the typical Gravesian manner, the reason of his coming.

It appears that he is engaged to Nancy Perkins, the daughter of a wealthy stockbroker, who, however, does not approve of his prospective son-in-law. A few nights ago the latter, having undertaken to escort his intended to the theatre, allowed himself to be persuaded by "the boys" to join them instead in a round of dissipation, which ended in a journey to Sandown races, the while Nancy believed, vide his wire to that effect, that he had been called to Scotland. At this moment Nancy is looking in one of the shop windows below, and he has dashed into this place to escape being seen by her. The next thing that happens is the coming of Nancy to see Koffo, and there is nothing for it but that Dick must hide behind the curtains of an ante-room. Nancy will not believe that the magician is not to be seen. She has made up her mind to question him upon the fidelity of her lover. In the midst of her altercation with the typist, out comes Dick, got up in Koffo's clothes. Miss Cooper leaves them together, and the comedy begins. Of course, Dick is able to tell her all sorts of little things, which appear wonderful enough to Nancy. As for conjuring spirits, he makes a bold attempt to call up "Johnny Walker," "Johnny Dewar," and other familiar shades. Adding to the list of his credentials, he assures her that he descended from the Pyramids, and can show the bumps; that his ancestors came over with Cleopatra's Needle; and that he has a pickled aunt in the British Museum.

When he gazes into the crystal, he pretends to see Captain Dick, not in Scotland, where he had intended to go, but in a park, in the act of saving a child from death by a motor-car. Dick is hurt and taken to a hospital. Much distressed, Nancy goes off to find her lover and comfort him, and Dick is about to hurry away and forestall the discovery, when an irascible old man appears. This is Nancy's father, who vilifies the magician because his daughter has intended to consult him on the obnoxious subject of Captain Hamilton; but the latter controls and mystifies the old gentleman by telling him some truths about himself. On the approach of someone, however, he hastily puts the hat and cloak of Koffo on Mr. Perkins. Thus, as the police are wanting Koffo, it is Mr. Perkins who is arrested at this juncture. The return of Nancy gives Dick his cue to appear like an apparition in his own part, with his arm in a sling. Explanations are easy, of course, and there is nothing more to be done save on behalf of Mr. Perkins. The policeman comes forward with Mr. Perkins in charge, still enveloped in the cloak of Koffo. Dick drags the cloak off and announces the old man's identity. He has already brought home to him some of his delinquencies, and he adds another to them now, by committing the typist, Miss Cooper, to his care for the evening, this being not the first time Mr. Perkins has enjoyed the young lady's company. This practically ensures Mr. Perkins's more tolerant regard of his daughter's lover in the future.

These outlines give by no means a full idea of the comedy contained in the whole action and the dialogue. It is amusing from start to finish, and the audience thoroughly enjoyed the fun. Mr. Graves's ability—not to say inspiration—in a rôle like that of Captain Dick is too well established to need more than mere mention; the part could not have been better exploited. As Nancy Miss Constance Hyam gave a bright and charming performance; and the same may be said of Miss Dorothy Monkman as Miss Cooper. Mr. J. B. Gordon acted with capital effect as Mr. Perkins; and the remaining rôle of Detective Janord was efficiently played by Mr. Herbert. The scenery is by Mr. Bruce Smith, and the play is produced by Mr. Frank Parker.

The second act of L'Aiglon, which Mme. Bernhardt has selected for performance at the Coliseum next week, chiefly consists of business respecting some toy soldiers which Flambeau, an old Napoleonic veteran, has dressed in French uniforms to remind the young Prince of his father's glories. The act, however, contains the celebrated speech in which Flambeau denounces the treasonous Marmont and contrasts his conduct with that of the old private soldiers of Napoleon. In the third act there is the very lively scene in which Flambeau dresses himself up in an old French uniform, and for the moment almost deludes the statesman Metternich into the belief that the clock of time has been put back and that Napoleon, after the battle of Wagram, is asleep in an inner room.

MR. BEN. WOODGER.

Mr. Ben. Woodger, the hard-working and enthusiastic secretary of the Music Hall Home, has been practically in the profession all his life, and he is acquainted with many phases of the music hall and entertainment business. As a youth he was employed at Astley's in spectacular and other work, and early in his career he performed in a lightning drill with rifle, sword, and lance, as one of the combination known as Woodger, Williams, and Waller.

Later, he was an aquatic expert and water pantomimist with Captain Paul Boyton, and was one of the first to walk the Thames, on the 1st May, 1893, walking from Chelsea to the Tower Bridge in water shoes. In the water pantomime, Ally Sloper's Picnic and Walrus Hunt, he enacted the one and only Sloper, in Scotland and elsewhere. He was also with the renowned Beckwith Family at the Aquarium, &c., and also produced his own shows at the Crystal Palace. When the first skating boom was on, the versatile Mr. Woodger saw his chance and took it, and in his time was an expert fancy and trick ice and roller skater. In this connection he worked with the Dunedin Troupe, and also in many big productions at Covent Garden, the Alhambra, and the Royal Aquarium (he had charge of the rink here right up to its close). He has also appeared at the Olympia, London, and the Antwerp Exhibition (1894). He has won many trophies and medals for swimming and skating, and in his time travelled extensively the Continent and America, and had many interesting experiences.

MR. BEN. WOODGER.

A member of the Terriers' Association since 1901 (P.W.T.), and for many years on the committee of the Music Hall Home, Mr. Woodger took over the duties of secretary upon the death of Mr. J. J. Fruin in October, 1907. Working for the fund in the daytime and engaged in the evenings at the Camberwell Empire, where he has been employed ever since the opening, Mr. Woodger, it will be seen, is kept pretty busy. But he delights in hard work, and the increased prosperity of the Music Hall Home is particularly gratifying to its energetic secretary.

SONGS AND PRICES.

to the editor of the era.

Sir,—One is continually hearing complaints anent the difficulty of procuring first-class songs, but it seems to me that the remedy is in the hands of those who complain. Authors and composers invariably work harder and more conscientiously for those who pay them reasonable rates, and it would seem that the best songs are usually sung by the artists who are thus generously encouraging. It may not be inopportune to state herein that one song alone has cost me close on £25, including the special orchestral parts, but I must admit that this was because I sought several brains before the whole scheme of the work was to my satisfaction. The best goods are ever the cheapest in the end, and the finest intellects in the lyric world can only receive impetus by adequate remuneration. I have heard of songs being purchased for 5s., 10s. 6d., and such-like prices, but I fail to discern how a singer can expect to make successes of lyrics turned out at these "cut" figures. Equity makes the world go round: good terms beget sincere authors and composers: sincere authors and composers beget successful artists: successful artists draw the public, and then everybody is satisfied. The moral is clear.—Yours faithfully,

MILLIE HYLTON.

Empire, Liverpool, Sept. 12, 1910.

Master Harry Clark, after a long and successful tour of London halls, has commenced a fifteen weeks' provincial tour, opening at the Grand, Hanley, on Monday.

The monthly meeting of the committee of the Music Hall Sick Fund was held on Wednesday at the Crown Hotel, Charing Cross-road. There were present Messrs. W. Bailey (in the chair), Pat Carey (treasurer), T. Carney, A. Drew, S. White, W. Wainratta, H. Jennings (trustee), and R. T. Baines (secretary).

MUSIC-HALL CELEBRITIES.

MR. EDWIN BARWICK.

Leaving the uninteresting surroundings of a barrister's chambers at 9, King's Bench Walk, Temple, Mr. Edwin Barwick in the mid-eighties found himself at Astley's Theatre, Westminster Bridge-road—or Sanger's Amphitheatre, as it was then named. He had previously enjoyed a short experience in ordinary stock business, playing all kinds and conditions of parts in all sorts of plays, and gaining the knowledge that stood him in such good stead when he later on took to vaudeville as a performer solus.

Mr. Barwick's first performance on the variety stage was in a sketch of William Bailey's—the genial manager of the Metropolitan—The Pair of Greys, in which he enacted a peppery Major. Subsequently, through the kindly offices of Mr. Arthur Williams, Mr. Barwick joined his brother, Fred Williams, in those sketches so popular a score of years ago—Little Marguerite, The Drudge, The Magic Teapot, &c. After two seasons with a company of his own, and playing comedy sketches from his own pen, he launched out as a single turn at the Tivoli, making a decided hit in two character songs, "The Curate" and "Irving on the brain," written by himself, with music by Walter Passmore, his old-time friend and brother worker in pantomime. Mr. Barwick's imitation of Henry Irving has always been among his strongest items, and even at the present day one of his greatest successes is a short imitation of the late illustrious tragedian.

MR. EDWIN BARWICK.

Mr. Edwin Barwick's stage experience has been a wide and varied one. Commencing with the idea that he was a budding Wilson Barrett, and with a love for all parts of a romantic and heroic order, his feelings were cruelly lacerated when he was informed by his first manager after a few weeks' tour that he was a born character comedian. Mr. Barwick has gone through the whole range of parts, from Shakespearean comedy and tragedy to the wildest of flippant farce, and he looks back to the time when at Minehead, Somersetshire, on 'one occasion, he played Nicodemus Nobbs in the farce Turn Him Out and Sir Geoffrey Champneys in Our Boys, besides singing comic songs between the pieces. On another memorable occasion it was his lot to play Lord Lovel in The Mistletoe Bough, the First Robber in Babes in the Wood, and Pantaloon in comic scenes—all for a salary of 30s. per week.

Besides playing principal comedian in the most popular pantomimes and in the principal theatres of the United Kingdom for the last twenty years, Mr. Barwick holds the unique record of having written the initial pantomimes for three London theatres—the Broadway, the Coronet, and the Camden. A recent venture of Mr. Barwick's was the production on May 2 at the County Theatre, Kingston, of a new farcical playlet entitled Sir 'Erbert, written by Mr. Barton White. In this piece he had the valuable assistance of Miss Emily Spiller, Mr. Fred Morgan, and that droll comedian (in one of his inimitable tramp creations) Mr. Arthur Williams, while he himself played the part of Smiler, an imperturbable and stolid manservant.

Our portrait of Mr. Edwin Barwick represents him in his popular character song, "The Cornet Player," one of his lugubriously funny studies, of the same type as "The Limelight Man" of fourteen years ago at the Palace and "A country cottage" of more recent date, which has helped to stamp him as an artist with a distinct line of his own.

"THE OPEN DOOR."

Dramatic Episode, by Mrs. Richard Pole, Produced at the Standard on Monday, Sept. 12.

Bernard Gaster .....Mr. John Lawson
Kenyon Elman .....Mr. Chas. Stafford
Reg. Parkman .....Mr. V. C. Newman
Mrs. Gaster .....Miss Lucille Sidney

Mr. John Lawson produced yet another dramatic playlet on Monday last—a tragic and interesting episode from the pen of Mrs. Richard Pole, the authoress of The Devil's Sunday, that held the attention of the Standard audience throughout. Bernard Gaster is a bank clerk earning £150 a year and living up to a deal more. His absence from home at nights is a source of anxiety to his devoted wife, who is annoyed soon after the opening of the playlet by the unwelcome attentions of Kenyon Elman, a near neighbour in the flats in which the Gasters are living, and whom we learn has Gaster in his power. Gaster owes Elman (also known as Flanders) £400, and the latter presses for immediate payment of the capital, refusing to take the interest.

Gaster, in the toils of a coiner named Parkman, has also forged Elman's signature to several cheques, and a sideboard in his flat contains much counterfeit coin. So that altogether he is in a pretty mess, and his disinclination to take his wife out to dinner is quite understandable. Elman, calling again at Gaster's flat, brings to his wife a present of fruit and flowers, tells her his own wife has been an invalid for years, and makes it plain that if her husband is to escape punishment for his forgery, &c., she must become his mistress.

He has built four walls round Gaster, with but one open door—the sacrifice of his wife's honour. When Gaster comes on the scene and learns Elman's price for his freedom, he would shoot him. But his wife obtains possession of the pistol, tells Elman she will agree to his terms, and orders him to write a pardon for Gaster, and also return the forged cheque, which he does. The wretched Gaster sneeringly refers to her sacrifice, when she turns the revolver on herself, and falls dead at his feet, exclaiming, "This is the open door."

The episode was powerfully presented throughout, Mr. Lawson enacting the erring Bernard Gaster in a quietly intense and nervous style that was very impressive; Miss Lucille Sidney as the self-sacrificing wife contributed an earnest and natural portrayal, her handling of the scenes with Elman being skilfully done; and the disagreeable part of the blackguardly Elman was cleverly undertaken by Mr. Chas. Stafford, Mr. V. C. Newman admirably enacting the coiner, Parkman.

Another sketch new to us in Mr. T. S. Dickie's varied programme was Ria's Luck, by Clare Elstob and Dolores Drielsma.

Ria Watson .....Miss Agnese de Llana
Jenny Wilson .....Miss Gertrude de Burgh
Florrie Dawson .....Miss Maud Blaze
Aggie Brown .....Miss Clare Elstob
Bill Lawson .....Mr. Heath Haviland

All the characters in this interesting playlet are employed in Wright's box-making factory, Barnes, and the action takes place in Ria Watson's living-room in Hammersmith. They are indulging in much noisy jollification, for Ria is to be married to Bill Lawson shortly, and her mates have gathered together to make her a presentation of a tea-service. One of the party is, however, not merry, and that is Jenny Wilson. She was a former flame of Bill's, but some misunderstanding had arisen, and he had transferred his affections to Ria. She has also only just recovered from a serious accident. But she smilingly wishes Ria happiness and joins in the congratulations which are showered on the red-haired box-maker, when her companions learn that she has come into a little fortune. Ria's luck is in!

Ria sees how distressed Jenny is, and does all she can to cheer her up, eventually telling her to go to an inner room to rest. Ria then goes off to join her convivial companions. Jenny, coming back into the room encounters Bill, and the misunderstandings of the past are explained. Ria, who has been a witness of the scene, decides that Jenny and Bill are meant for each other, and returning to the room declares to her companions, who have also come back, that she has been hoaxing them all the time. It is to be Jenny's wedding, not hers. Bill would be staunch to Ria, but she insists that he loves Jenny, and packs them both off, breaking down when left alone again.

Miss Agnese de Llana submitted a capital impersonation of the Cockney girl, Ria, particularly impressive being the episode where she decides to give up Bill; Jenny Wilson was quietly and naturally undertaken by Miss Gertrude De Burgh; and the other parts were all creditably played.

Miss Janet Gardner, a young Glasgow lady, made her first professional appearance in her native city on Thursday (8th) at the Pavilion matinée, when she gave a musical monologue which was well received.

Miss Gardner is a protegée of Mrs. Patrick Campbell, who discovered her as a pupil in the Glasgow Athenæum, and at once engaged her to tour the States and Canada in principal parts and as understudy. She has been appearing in London since then.

ANOTHER FELDMAN HIT.

MISTER PAT O'HARE.

PRINCIPAL BOYS, HEAR GEORGE LASHWOOD'S NOVELTY SONG.

B. FELDMAN & CO.,

2 & 3, Arthur St., New Oxford St., W.C.

Tel. Address: "HUMFRIV, LONDON." Telephone: 4447 GERRARD.

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

(Continued from page 24.)

MISS MARIE SANTOR is this week one of the chief attractions at the Hippodrome, Brighton, where her Japanese sketch is meeting with terrific and well-merited applause. Two of the chief items in this merry trifle are written and composed by A. J. Mills and Bennett Scott, the first being an appropriate song entitled "Here's another one off to Japan," in which Miss San-toi is assisted by a bevy of charming ladies. The second item is that delightful ballad "I wonder if you miss me sometimes." This number "brings down the house" every time, and is now hummed and whistled all over Brighton. The Star Music Co. publish both songs.

MISS EDNA LATONNE, who has just concluded a wonderfully successful London season, is this week at the King's Theatre, Dundee, where she is specially featuring three of A. J. Mills and Bennett Scott's numbers, "Homeland, good-bye," "What's the matter with London?" and, in particular, that fine chorus song, "She was a girl in white." This is received with uproarious applause, and surely never was a chorus taken up with more enthusiasm than this one. The Star Music Co. have struck a great winner in this catchy number, copies of which are adorned with Miss Latonne's photograph in characteristic costume.

MISS JESSIE TEMPLETON is this week scoring a tremendous success at the South London Palace with A. J. Mills and Bennett Scott's new chorus song, "She was a dollar Princess," the refrain being taken up unanimously by packed houses. Principal girls who desire a song with humorous pointed verses as well as an exceedingly catchy chorus should secure a copy of this delightful song from the Star Music Co.

LLOYD MORGAN, who is this week with his own company at the Pier Pavilion, Bournemouth, is featuring no less than four of the Star Music Co.'s numbers, including "There's a little cot in Dover," by Harrington and Lane, "My wife's gone to the country" (Ted Snyder's great American song), and A. J. Mills and Bennett Scott's two fine numbers, "What d'ye say, Molly Molloy?" and "I wonder if you miss me sometimes." Mr. Morgan has had so many applications for copies of the two last numbers that he decided to supply the demand. Telegram succeeded telegram, and close on five hundred copies were dispatched to him by the Star Music Co. up to the time of going to press. Lloyd Morgan is not only a smart light comedian, but an energetic man of business.

ANDIE CAINE, who is with his concert party at Filey, which is "up North," has made a special feature of the Star Music Co.'s songs this season, and has had quite an unprecedented demand for copies of these numbers, particularly Alf. J. Lawrance and George Arthurs' pretty song, "Hide Bunny, here comes a man."

MISS ELSIE KERRY, that delightfully dainty daughter of Erin, has been doing big things lately with Aylmer Lee and Maurice Scott's catchy chorus song, "Love is like a balloon." Her reputation has been considerably enhanced by her arch rendering of this fine song. Miss Kerry has in study another of the Star Music Co.'s winners, of which more anon.

HARRY BANCROFT, who is this week at the Chelsea Palace, has been associated with many popular ballads. He is just now exploiting a really excellent number by Charles Ridgewell, entitled, "'Tis years and years ago since our wedding day." Without doubt, this is the best song of its kind this favourite vocalist has had, and the Star Music Co. anticipate a great vogue for the well-written and melodious morceau.

